

Gerry Poland

From the everyday to the extraordinary. In my life away from the camera I am a lineman for a major power company. Hours spent 65 feet above eye level has privileged me to see some unique beauty - whether it's a storm traveling in up the route of a deserted highway, or a garden growing against the sprawl of a strip mall several streets over. I've seen the power restored to night baseball games and candlelight exchanged for lamps up and down a street. I taught myself to use a camera to take pictures of my custom tile and stone installations. It was these images that lead me to photography. What began as carefully edited shots of my children's first sporting events has grown to a passion for documenting moments in my client's lives

How We Met Gerry

A patron of the Library, Gerry came in one day with his daughter. Looking around for an item to checkout, he came across our request for more local artists to display their work here at the library.

So he expressed his interest and had registered for the month of July.

His works include action shots of his kids sports and cheering endeavors as well as still life and landscapes.

Upcoming Shows

August: Children's collection of cultivated Crafts because they are the creative future.

September: Aleksandra Gorski; up and coming artist. This will be her first show displaying her paintings and her version of the "other side".

October: Middlesex County High School.
