About the Exhibitor

“Keep the Summer Going”

Laura Adomunas of Sayreville has had an appreciation for art, color, and creativity since childhood. In her late 20's, as a hobby, she began attending adult drawing and painting classes taught by Anne Marie Fitzsimmons at Sayreville High School. She started out copying works by other artists and then moved on to paintings based on her own photographs. The final evolution is fantasy pieces which spring from her imagination. Laura frequently exhibits her paintings at the Middlesex County Fair where she has won many blue ribbons for her work, including Best of Show for “My Summer Shoes”.

Laura is a graduate of St. Mary's High School, South Amboy and Rutgers College of Pharmacy. She paints with acrylics and also enjoys doing needlepoint, ceramics, and upcycling furniture.
