Some day New Jersey may have the horse racing that its people by popular vote sanctioned some time ago.

It appears, however, that when that day comes, New Jersey horse racing will start out being viewed by the rest of the country as a questionable game, because of the position played by officials charged with making the laws governing it.

First there was considerable wrangling about the number of men to be on the control board, and who they should be, then there was agitation for one commission to control running races and another to control harness racing and all along the line there are indications that there are many who want horse racing in the state to be a "controlled" sport, in the sense that the word "controlled" is used in the sporting world.

Horse racing was abolished in this state because of the unsavory conditions that surrounded it years ago, and it appears that it will come back with two strikes on it already.

Now there is expressed doubt about the reappointment of D. Frederick Burnett, as head of the R. B. C. of the state, and politics is given as the reason.

In the case of Commissioner Burnett, there can be no question, but that he should be appointed. If we are ever to have the kind of government we are paying for and to which we are entitled, men of the type of Commissioner Burnett, who do a good job, letting the chips fall where they may, should be encouraged and rewarded by reappointment to the job for which they have proved themselves fitted.

There is probably no case in the long history of New Jersey, where an official has rendered the valuable, conscientious service that has been rendered by Burnett.

The discovery is made, Dr. Juan Negrin, Jr., son of the former Premier of Spain is a teacher on a New York City college staff and an investigation of New York colleges and schools is begun to purge them of Communist, atheistic and anti-moral teachers.

This effort is extremely commendable and the investigation should not only be held in New York City, but in every school throughout the nation as well. A nation wide investigation of school teachers would probably reveal that there is in every school, one or more teachers who would not meet the requirements parents would set up for instructors for their children.

Children at an age, when they are gathering impressions that they will likely carry with them through life, are being taught by teachers who are too prone to teach according to their own feelings rather than to the facts, particularly if history is the subject being taught, and there is plenty of evidence to indicate that there are Communist, atheistic and anti-moral teachers in other places than in the New York City educational system.

Considerable trouble was experienced this week, when attempts were made to place the second of the two largest girders in the world on the new Edison Memorial bridge over the Raritan River near this city.

After each attempt, however, the engineers straightened out the difficulty and started again, but it would not have been so in the old days, when the public intelligence was not what it is today, and superstition was everywhere.

If the same thing happened in the old days, at the same place, the general belief would be that the spirit of some departed Indian who once calmly floated down the Raritan in his canoe, was haunting the white man's efforts to place a bridge over the stream, and the work would probably be abandoned, or if the bridge was finished, there would be many who would be too superstitious to use it.

In these days, when so many of us feel we have so little to be thankful for, we should be thankful that at least we do not have the superstition of the old days among us.

That politics is an expensive business is a well known fact, but there can be no better indication of this than that the printing of the Congressional Record costs $55 per page. This figure does not include the incidental expenses in connection with the publication of this dry and seldom read record of the oratorical offerings of our statesmen.

If one were to figure out that the cost per word, to the people, of these recorded speeches, all of them too long, and many of them entirely unnecessary, and the general impression would probably be that a more descriptive name for the Congressional Record would be "The Golden Book".

Councilmen Clash Over Trucks And Naming of Patrick Grimley As Police Janitor-Jailor

Walczak Starts Fireworks When He Offers Amendment Exempting Payment Of Two Trucking Bills; Nehrkorn Charges Council Members Went Back On Their Promises

NEHRKORN'S QUESTIONS IRRITATE GRIMLEY

Truck hiring, which has been the cause of many of the outbursts at previous council meetings, and the appointment of a Janitor-Jailor at the City Hall were the cause of two heated skirmishes between members of the council and Mayor T. F. Gleason Tuesday night at the meeting of the council.

Following the reading of the bills by City Clerk Disbrow and a motion by Councilman Stanton that all bills be paid, Councilman Walczak arose to the floor to offer an amendment to the bill paying motion, which provided that all bills be paid with the exception of those for truck hire presented by William and Edward McKoon, which he declared did not have the required number of signatures.

Councilman Nehrkorn, defending the motion by Councilman Stanton for he payment of all bills, asked for a ruling from the City Clerk concerning the number of signatures required and was informed three were necessary.

On the motion on the amendment, affirmative votes were cast by Councilmen Grimley, Walczak and Nehrkorn and negative votes were cast by Councilmen Nehrkorn and Stanton.

Nehrkorn explained that it was necessary to hire additional trucks to complete the improvements to the city stadium in the time scheduled, and he added that certain members of the council had agreed that the hiring of the trucks was necessary to hire additional trucks they would give approval when the bills were presented. "There should be three signatures on those bills," Nehrkorn said, "since there were three people who approved of the hiring of the trucks. Why there are not three signatures to those bills, I do not know. Someone is badly misbehaving."

Councilman Walczak then reviewed the discussion between the council members about the trucks, then he inferred the truck hiring had been done by someone else and added "I say it should come under the Mayor and Council and not any one individual, and it should be done right here. If someone else other than this body is going to run the city, what are we down here for?"

The fight then shifted with Councilmen Nehrkorn and Grimley as the participants, when Nehrkorn declared that Grimley had given his approval for the truck hire when he had consulted him on the matter and Grimley replied, "Yes, that was like the caucus you consulted me on."

Mayor Gleason sent a communication to the council recommending the appointment of Councilman Grimley as Janitor-Jailor and asked for the approval of the council to the appointment. Councilman Walczak's motion that the Mayor's appointment be sustained, prompted Nehrkorn to ask where the funds for the Janitor-Jailor's salary were coming from. Mayor Gleason replied that Oscar Burlew, who had been serving in this capacity had been taken to the hospital in a serious condition and someone would have to take his place. Nehrkorn inquired whether the salary would be deducted from the regular police payroll or from other sources, and then inquired if Grimley were appointed as a police officer, if his status as a councilman would be affected. Mayor Gleason replied there were funds available for the salary, but did not answer Nehrkorn's question concerning Grimley's councilman standing as the result of the appointment.

Councilman Grimley, however, took it upon himself to answer Nehrkorn's question regarding his standing as a councilman and replied, "Yes, if I wish to stay on the council, so long as I am not being paid as a councilman," and he added he made this claim after having held a consultation with the City Solicitor on the question.

Councilman Stanton inquired if the appointment of Grimley to the force was to be considered permanent, and Mayor Gleason informed him that it could not be, since Grimley is over the age specified in police regulations.

At this point Grimley, the subject of the inquiries, became irritated and declared hotly, pointing his remarks toward Nehrkorn. "There is some one else looking for this job, you had better withdraw my name now Mayor," Nehrkorn, however, replied that it was not his intention to block the appointment, but he was merely seeking information concerning it and said his remarks did not prevent the council from going ahead with the appointment.

The vote on the matter showed all members of the council voting in favor.

City Clerk Disbrow read a letter from Bigley Brothers, Inc., informing they carried insurance to cover damage to city streets as the result of the movement of the huge girders to the Edison Memorial Bridge through this city.

A resolution was passed authorizing the construction of a four inch water main and a four inch main meter for the new sewage disposal plant. The cost of the meter was set at $355.74 and of the line $70.45. Another pre-meeting caucus held behind closed doors in the Mayor's office, postponed the start of the meeting until ten minutes of ten. Most of the would-be spectators grew tired of waiting for the councilmen to put in a public appearance and left. A delegation of managers of city league baseball teams who were also on hand to confer with the council, grew tired of the long wait and left also.

Spring Weather Appears and Candidates Begin To Pop Up

This week there was a touch of spring in the air and there were various signs that the winter is over, but probably the most indicative sign was the fact that there was no end or political activity pointed toward the May primaries.

More than a month ago, the Hoffman Club, nucleus organization announced a slate, which in the belief of many will not be the slate with which the party will go to the starting line in the primaries. However, so far as is known, there are no other candidates in the field at the present time.

On the other hand, there is no end of activity on the Democratic side, and there is every indication that there will be a large number of candidates in the field when the primaries come around. In the conferences that have been held to date, the names of three candidates for the mayoralty nomination have been prominently mentioned, Mayor Thomas Gleason, for reelection; William Nehrkorn, present Fourth Ward Councilman and Eugene Kress, former Second Ward Councilman. It was whispered about that the intentions of at least one more candidate for the mayoralty on the Democratic ticket will be made known during the coming week.

Last week, came the formal announcement of the candidacy of Joseph McKoon for Councilman-at-Large and it is expected that John J. Edanek, present incumbent of the office will be a candidate for reelection with the possibility that there will be more entries into the race announced within the next few weeks.

In the various wards, too, there has been considerable activity looking toward the selection of candidates for the post of Councilman, and to date the Third Ward, true to tradition, appears to be taking the lead. The three candidates most frequently discussed here are Steve Connors, James Brennan and Michael Penlon.

James Gray, who announced some time ago that he would be a candidate for councilman in the Second Ward is expected to circulate petitions within a short time and others who are being mentioned as possible council candidates in this section of the city are: Wm. Kehoe and John Triggs, formerly councilman from that ward. There is considerable activity among the members of the party in the upper section of the Second Ward, to place a candidate in the field and several names have been mentioned, although authoritative sources predict Charles Hess will be selected.

LECTURE ON MIDDLESEX CO.
During the past week each class in St. Mary's School from the Fifth grade through the Twelfth had the opportunity of learning some interesting facts about Middlesex County through a very interesting lecture given by Mr. John Zdanewicz, local Councilman-at-Large, and Physical Training Instructor at St. Mary's School. To illustrate his lecture, Mr. Zdanewicz used the beautiful map of Middlesex County which was a gift to the school by the Froeholders of this County. The lecture proved very helpful to every pupil and we feel that we not only know our own country better as a result of it, but will be more keenly interested in matters pertaining to the county in the future.

Helen Fitzpatrick, 11 Com. B.

In the Junior Bookkeeping classes during the week, there was a discussion on checks which proved very interesting to the inexperienced pupils. We were much surprised to find out that this commercial paper known as a "Check" entailed so much work after leaving the hands of the maker.

When a check is drawn and sent to the payee, he usually endorses it and deposits it in the bank where he has an account. If both the maker and the payee deal in the same bank, the account of the former is charged and the latter is credited.

whereupon the check is cancelled and returned to the maker. But if the payee deals with a different bank, the check requires a little more attention. It is received by the bank in which the payee has an account, and forwarded for collection to the bank upon which it is drawn. If the banks are in the same locality this may be done through a messenger, but in large cities where banks are numerous and located far apart, it is more convenient to send it to a central office known as the Clearing House, which is an association of all the banks in a certain locality. The Clearing House performs all the work of compiling the total charges and credits of each member bank each day, and the net balance due to or from each member is adjusted periodically.

If the depository is located in a distant city, the check is usually forwarded through the Federal Reserve Bank, which in turn transmits it to the maker's bank or its local Clearing House where it is cancelled. If for any reason the check is not honored by the maker's bank, it must be returned through the same route by which it was sent until it finally gets back to the payee. This very brief description gives some idea of the many hands through which a check passes and the many miles it may travel before it is finally cancelled and returned to the maker.

St. Mary's Church News

ERRORS OF REFORMERS ON CONFESSION ARE ANSWERED

Throughout the whole period of man's history the virtue of penance has been essential for the reconciliation of the sinner with God, and this same virtue Our Divine Savior has made the basis of the sacrament of Penance. To it he added a sacred rite whereby the sinner who has the proper dispositions and confesses his sins may recover spiritual health.

Before His Passion and death Christ said to His Apostles: "Amen I say to you, whatsoever you shall bind on earth, shall be bound also in heaven, and whatsoever you shall loose upon earth shall be loosed also in heaven" (Matt. xviii, 18). In those words Christ promised His Apostles and their successors the most ample powers—and he fulfilled that promise on the evening of the first Easter Sunday, when He stood in the midst of them in the upper room and greeted them thus: "Peace be to you. As the Father hath sent Me, I also send you." When He had said this He breathed on them and He said to them: "Receive ye the Holy Ghost. Whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them, and whose sins you shall retain, they are retained." (John xx, 21-23).

There can be no doubt that Christ has the power to forgive sins. He proved it by the Divine credentials of a miracle when He cured the man sick of the palsy (cf. Matt. ix, 2 ff.). He furthermore said: "All power is given to Me in heaven and on earth" (Matt. xxviii, 18). In clear and simple words did He confer the power of forgiving sins upon the Apostles: "As the Father hath sent Me, I also send you." To show that the forgiveness of sins was included in this commission, "He breathed upon them"—the breath of the living God.

This solemn ceremony of the breathing and the solemnity of the vocation itself testify to its importance. On only one other occasion did God breathe into man when He "breathed into his face the breath of life and man became a living soul" (Gen. ii, 7). Such was the first effect of the breathing of God. Now God breathes again, and again His breath produces a Divine effect.

At the same moment Christ gave to the Apostles the power of forgiving and retaining sins. It seems obvious enough that the words of Christ imply sacramental Confession. To use the power conferred by these words would be impossible without Confession, for some sins are to be forgiven, others retained. Some sins of their very nature demand that reparation be made before forgiveness is possible. The priest, furthermore, could not exercise proper discretion in the matter of giving or refusing absolution unless the nature of the sins was made known to him.

CHRIST ANSWERED OBJECTORS

We need look no further than to Christ Himself for the answer to the fundamental contention of many of the world's reformers of the Church that "The atoning blood of Jesus, shed on Calvary, is alone sufficient to forgive sins." For Christ Himself answered that when He instituted the sacrament of Penance, not before He shed His blood on Calvary, but on the third day thereafter. This historic fact is an irrefutable proof that Christ meant that Confession is necessary for the infusion of Divine grace, purchased as it was by His blood.

If Christ's blood shed on the cross were alone sufficient to forgive sins, would not Christ have known it? And knowing it, how could the God of Truth give the commission to His Apostles to forgive and retain sins?

EVER TRY TO MILK A COW?

MILKING a cow looks easy enough. But take our word for it, it takes experience. Indeed, everything about the milk business takes experience... and lots of it. The farmer must not only know how to milk Elsie; he must know how to raise her, wash her, and feed her. He must know how to sterilize milk pails, and keep a barn immaculate, and dozens of other things you never hear about. And that's only part of the job. We've got to check Elsie's health constantly. Also the quality and the purity of the milk she produces. We must know how to transport it, pasteurize it, and get it to your doorstep pure and sweet and cold. So if you've never tried to milk a cow, we don't advise it. Just call Borden's Farm Products of New Jersey, Inc.

"PEACE, IT'S WONDERFUL"

The world at war knows the full appeal of a statement, phrased in three short words, which has become a by-word: Peace, it's wonderful! While neighbor nations see the fruits of civilization perish, and while they helplessly witness the exhaustion of their resources and their man power, we watch the destruction from afar and, though deeply sympathetic, are prone to smugness because we feel secure from foreign entanglements.

Ours is a deep-rooted faith in the democratic way of life, and there are few who would say that firm belief, however deep, is not completely justified. But this belief cannot be sustained by faith, alone, the companion of a false complacency which submits to and, in the end, supports inefficiency and ineffectiveness in the processes of government.

Tax "raids," bad assessments, tax delinquency, excessive exemptions, and unsound borrowing are but one squad from the ranks of a quiet enemy which strikes at democratic methods. It is a squad which is playing considerable havoc in New Jersey. In fact, the condition of New Jersey finance has been so generally chaotic during the last few years that there have been weeks-on-end when legislative action has proved impossible. We are an all too forceful example of how the unobtrusive enemy within our borders may be destructive of the values we prize most highly.

The Princeton Local Government Survey, a research unit, whose record in this state is well known, is unique in that it has brought an impartial, scientific viewpoint to bear on the problems of government in such a practical way that its proposals have been enacted into law. Its important work is still in the initial stages of bringing New Jersey's archaic local government methods-up-to-date-It is a first step but one suggestive of future benefits to be derived from the scientific approach to public problems.

In pointing to the need for adjustment of assessment methods in this state, the Survey brings to mind a more comprehensive need: The entire democratic process must be made to assume such standards of effectiveness that it will function according to sound principles of economy and efficiency. To live Democracy must remain workable. It cannot be weighed in the balances of sentiment, alone-its true measure is effectiveness.

LOOKING BACK 22 YEARS

Issue of March 23, 1918

In accordance with the recommendation of the National War Savings Committee, a group of Junior Four Minute Men will be formed in the local school. These Junior Four Minute Men will not be unlike the Four Minute Men who are at present speaking before audiences in the theatres, playhouses and other places of this sort. The topic for each speaker will concern the War Savings and Thrift Campaign. In Washington it has been decided all schools should hold speaking competitions.

Authorities of the local state militia band have been ordered to organize a rifle, drum and bugle corps, to be stationed at South Amboy. The men are to be enlisted the same as other musicians. At the time that the band organized, there were several persons who volunteered to play drums and flutes and now is the time for these people to make application.

The fact that the local band is at present the only musical organization connected with the new state militia, give them a wonderful opportunity to be recognized as the official state band.

The Daylight Saving Bill was signed Tuesday by President Wilson. It puts all clocks forward an hour on the last Sunday in March and turns them back again the last Sunday in October.

The Daylight Saving plan will go into effect and be observed without the slightest disorganization or impairment of existing conditions. Trains will run as usual, and every feature of daily life into which the element of time enters, will remain unchanged.

Among the advantages of the new plan will be: a great saving in illuminants, such as oil, gas and electric power.

Marked conservation of coal. Increased manufacturing production as the result of improvement in working conditions.

Greater benefits to the national health because of an additional hour of daylight, which may be devoted to recreation.

Reduction in the cost of living to some who can raise garden truck for domestic consumption.

Improvement of training conditions for the fighting forces.

All bakers who are not using the required twenty per cent of wheat flour substitutes in bread and rolls must cease baking these products at once, and may not resume their operations until they are prepared to use the substitutes as required under pain of revocation of license.

The next Liberty Loan Campaign will be started on April 6th. This is the first anniversary of United States entrance into the war and a very fitting time to start such a campaign. The President has requested that where ever possible the event be opened with a parade and celebration. In Perth Amboy the largest celebration of the county will be held if the plans of the committee are successful.

The most successful social under the auspices of the Middlesex Dramatic Association was held in the Auditorium of the High School on Thursday evening. Music for dancing was furnished by Hoffman's six piece orchestra. A number of novel dances were arranged by the floor committee, which were enjoyed by the entire assemblage.

At a late hour refreshments were served by a capable committee under the direction of Miss Mead Van Buren. During the evening, piano solos were rendered by Miss Helen Dooling. Mr. H. R. Dix was chairman of the music committee.

Several hundred automobiles passed through this city on Sunday. This is the largest number of machines to go through South Amboy since the snow cleared from the ground.

On Saturday one hundred teams and wagons passed through this city enroute to the government loading plant at Morgan. They came from New York City.

Recently a pickpocket was arrested on board a trolley car from this city bound for Perth Amboy. It is the belief of the authorities that there are a number of such persons at work in this community and steps are being taken to apprehend them. They can work to very good advantage on the crowded cars that pass through and out of the city.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Ehrlich on Second street was the scene of a jolly gathering on Sunday afternoon and evening, the occasion being the second anniversary of the birth of their son, Master Elmer A. Ehrlich.

The home decorations were green in keeping with the day-St. Patrick's Day. A most enjoyable time was had by old and young present. Dainty refreshments were served during the evening, the favors being green caps and other novelties.

Company F basketball team closed their very successful season on Friday night with a hard fought victory over the St. Anthony Five of Perth Amboy by the score of 34 to 24. The score was tied at many stages of the game, neither side being sure of victory until the close of the game. The score at the end of the first half stood 16 to 12 in favor of Letts, Simonson and Grace, for the local tossers. Members of the local team were: Stevens, guards.

WASHINGTON TOPICS

A new come-on for farmers and small businessmen has quietly been prepared by some of Washington's New Deal economists. It is another plan to boost the nation into prosperity by going further into debt.

Only time can tell whether these economists will succeed in their efforts. The interesting fact is that after 8 years of trying their ideas they still won't be downed, despite the fact that the nation's debt is still growing and that more than nine million people are unemployed.

The new proposal is largely a modification of the spend lend idea rejected by Congress a year ago. This time, however, instead of being presented to Congress as one plan, it is to be broken up into sections and submitted piecemeal. It won't look so big then.

The come-on bait to farmers and small businessmen, of course, will be that the present business recession is serious and that it will get worse unless the government goes in for pump-priming. It will be contended that the farmer and businessman will be able to sell more of their goods if the government puts money into the hands of the unemployed.

But several fallacies in that argument are pointed out by other more moderate New Deal economists. First, they say without hesitancy that the current recession will be over by May and that 1940 as whole will be a better year than 1939. Thus they say pump-priming even if it did good, would be unnecessary.

And a number of these Washington economists point out that when money is taken by the government for pump priming it comes, of necessity, out of the incomes of those who have it. It is a well known fact, they say, that there aren't enough wealthy people to bear the burden and the load, therefore, must be put upon the financial middle class, namely farmers, small businessmen and white collar workers.

The extremists argue, of course, that borrowing isn't bad because it simply constitutes a mortgage on when times get better. But the others retort with the important fact that today taxes amount to 21 cents out of each dollar of income against about 12 cents in the 20's. And, they add, in the 20's everybody was making money so they were in a much better position to pay the taxes.

Speaking of jobs and better business, there is a case now pending in the courts which illustrates an unwholesome attitude that exists in some Washington quarters.

The case involves a lumber company which was accused by the National Labor Relations Board of some unfair labor practices. It was ordered by the Board to pay some $150,000 in back wages to former employees who allegedly had been discriminated against and discharged because of union activities.

The company took the case into court, insisting that it would have to sell everything it owned and then go out of business entirely if it paid this $150,000. Such a move, of course would deprive men now working of their jobs.

The court, over the Board's protest, has taken a more reasonable attitude and designated a third person to determine how much the company could pay without going out of business.

The Labor Board, incidentally, has just been disclosed as another Washington agency which pulls with its left hand and pushes with its right.

So-called "company dominated" labor unions have been anathema to the Labor Board and to the Labor Department. They have even issued a list of "characteristics of a company dominated union."

In hearings before the Smith Committee it was disclosed that there is a union of Labor Board employees. And the interesting fact is that it does a lot of things which are described as characteristics of a "company dominated union."

For example, its dues are 25 cents a month. The Board and Labor Department have taken the position in the past that any union which collects such small dues cannot really be free from employer domination.

Other things which the Board has proscribed, but which the Board's union do include these: they have used Labor Board stationery; they post notices on the Labor Board

Spring Silhouette Will Reveal Newest Long Torso Look

New Styles Call for Most Decided Change in Years

No piky need be wasted this spring on those possessing a lean and hungry look. It probably isn't because the possessor isn't in funds for sustenance—but because she's following spring's newest silhouette, the long torso look.

Most decided change in the silhouette for many a year, the suit, coat or costume is out on the willow-slim shoulder-to thigh concave line that lends an optical illusion of symmetry to every figure. The elimination of the midway belt of the old-length jacket is the line that gives every figure that lithe and lissome proportion.

Among the newer versions of these suits for which to keep an eye out in your own favorite shop is one with the long torso coat dressmaker detailed with front fullness achieved through clever tucking beneath low placed pockets. One clever model in the long lined suit is a new version of the old tailored suit, with softly draped lapels and extremely long coat. Another model is a 1940 version of the double-breasted suit, showing the military influence in a double row of metal buttons and high peaked lapels. The costume suit with the new silhouette is developed in a crepe frock over which is worn an elongated wool jacket trimmed with the crepe. Best of all, the new silhouette is most adaptable for the delightful feminine touches dear to every woman's heart—especially in spring.

WASHINGTON SNAPSHOTS

I have the privilege of offering a quantity of fish each year to the people of my Congressional District for the purpose of restocking bodies of water in their communities and I am now in a position to issue formal applications to be filled out for this year's stock. It is referred that application be made by fish and game clubs, wild life conservation clubs, or groups within the community who can be responsible in carrying out the instructions of the Bureau of Fisheries in planting and caring for the fish which will be delivered in October or November.

When a special kind of fish (with the exception of goldfish or other ornamental fishes) is requested, the preference of the applicant is observed, if practicable, when it appears from the description that the waters are suitable for the kind of fish requested.

Spiny-finned fishes, such as the basses and perch, should not be introduced into waters inhabited by trout, or into waters of such waters; nor should be placed in waters with voracious fishes like bass and pickerel.

A large number of species in one pond, lake or stream is not advisable. As a rule, only one species will be assigned to an applicant during any one season and the number of fish supplied will be based upon the water area to be stocked and upon hatchery production, and not upon the number of applications received. Only one application for any particular body of water can be considered. Therefore, persons desiring to make application to me for these fish, should first consult with other interested persons in the community so there will be no duplication of applications. I suggest that all persons interested in making application for fish for the coming year address me at the earliest possible moment at my Washington office, Room 1308 House Office Building so that the fish can be put aside for delivery within the discretion of the hatchery officials.

NAVY YARD APPRENTICES

The age limits for apprentices are from 16 to 22 yrs. and enrollees are obtained from the United States Civil Service District Manager's lists by officials at the Navy Yard concerned. For enrollment as an apprentice at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, application should be made to Mr. Herzog, Manager, Third Civil Service District, Philadelphia, Pa. For the New York Navy Yard application should be made to Mr. Russell, Manager, Second Civil Service District, New York, N. Y.

THE DREAMS

By Mark A. King

Two residents of the Bergen Hill section, one of them the famous red headed bar tender, have been taking afternoon walks for their health down along the state highway in the Mechanicsville, Melrose section for some time, and the other day they were joined by the fellow we told you last week is the owner of a thirteenth floor, and since he is to be married soon, is trying to get into trim for the middle aisle march.

When the trio came to lower Raritan street, the new recruit, the thirteenth floor proprietor, suggested they walk up that street on the way home so he could go past the girl friend's house. He won't have to worry about keeping in condition; if he keeps worrying as he is now, he'll be plenty "skinny" by the time the wedding comes off.

Maybe there is considerable basis for the expression "We girls have our troubles," but some of the boys have their troubles too.

In our town there are two lads who are pals, one of them a bridge tender who lives on Broadway, the other a truck driver for a yeast concern, lives on Main St. The bridge tender, because his wife works days and he works night, does most of the housekeeping about his home and the truck driver, who recently laid off the maid at his house, does most of the housework before he goes to work at eleven each morning.

The other morning, while the truck driver was busy with his housework, the telephone rang and his friend, the bridge tender was on the other end of the line. "I've just finished washing the dishes, dusting up and doing all the housework," he said earnestly, "and since I have nothing else to do, I thought I'd take a cake, and called you up to see if you have a good recipe."

We are all familiar with the saying about Washington, that he was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

This week the First Ward of our burg warranted the description, "First on the North, first on the list, and first in number of councilmen," for it had three councilmen living within its limits, the Councilman-at-Large, First Ward Councilman, and Second Ward Councilman.

Even the boys who don't have false teeth are having trouble with their plates these days, if they have automobiles, because it's time for the new licenses and some funny things are happening.

For instance one insuranceologist of town took off the old plates for his car and fastened what he thought was the new 1940 license on the front, then looked around for the other one for the rear. When he couldn't find it after an extensive investigation, he took off the new front plate and found that two plates had stuck together and he had fastened them both on the front holder, therefore naturally couldn't find any for the back, when he was ready to put one on.

About three times a week a group of people are meeting in town and discussing one group of city employees.

The results of their discussions will probably be made public next month.

A couple of weeks back, we told you that an appointment for a local politician was "in the mail," that the truth of the matter was that the appointment was "in the mail," but the prospective appointee didn't look so good on the second look, so the appointment didn't take place.

If you find some of the boys are not around their accustomed haunts at night, and you find them later walking toward the north end of the city, they will likely be going to watch a married man and his wife love-making in their home.

This pair never bother to pull down the shades; and the audience is growing larger constantly. Monday night there were quite a number on hand. Only the pulling down of the shades will prevent crowding of the spectators who want to see her come around, for the lady across the street on which there are no houses, won't accommodate over 200 without some of the spectators getting in the way of others.

One of the well-known boys of the Fourth Ward got in considerable thought recently about how he could make his car attractive enough to cause a girl to consent to ride with him, and finally one night he said, "Let's go for a ride," and she consented.

After they got started however, he found he had forgotten one thing, there was no heater in the car and it was too cold for her, so the planned ride was never completed.

The two prominent gentlemen in the political field who have in their pockets membership applications which they are hesitating about turning in are hereby warned that they are being closely watched, and as soon as the applications are turned in, the heat will be turned on and they will be turned by those to whom they are looking to elevate them.

One recent night, the boys were downstairs in their headquarters discussing bandages, splints and cuts when they were visited by representatives of an organization meeting upstairs, who asked for their aid in disposing of some cats. It seems the organization prepared plenty of food for an anticipated large attendance which did not materialize and after the handful present had done the best they could to dispose of the cats, they found the task too much for them, and decided to call in the First Aid.

The First Aiders aided all they could and ate all they could, but even they couldn't reduce the lay-out to crumbs with the result that what was left was taken away in baskets like the Biblical tale of the loaves and fishes.

The other day a well known local commuter walked into his office in New York City, glanced at a newspaper laying on his desk, then stood there dumbfounded, wanting to ask someone if he was losing his mind, but unable to catch his breath.

Starting at him in huge four inch headlines all across the front of an edition of one of the big Florida newspapers was a headline that screamed—"catches 105 pound sail fish." Since he hadn't been to Florida, and wouldn't know a sail fish if he saw one, he was thoroughly mystified until he discovered it is a new stunt started by the Florida resort paper, which for a certain sum will put headlines while you wait, on a regular edition of the paper.

First National Here Handles Great Amount Of F. H. A. Business

Thomas E. Colleton, state Federal Housing director, today announced that the First National Bank of this city was one of the first institutions in Middlesex County originating the largest volume of FHA business.

This evaluation is made on the basis of the net mortgages accepted for insurance through December 31, 1939, or commitments issued by the Federal Housing Administration, and represents mortgages on privately constructed and privately financed homes. This includes mortgages made by county institutions and then sold to other institutions, but does not include mortgages purchased by county institutions from other originating agencies. This is business originated by institutions located within the county itself.

Second Span Is Hoisted Into Place At New Edison Memorial Bridge

The first of two giant girders, the longest in any bridge in the United States, is shown being hoisted into place in the new high level Thomas Alva Edison Memorial Bridge on Route 35 across the Raritan River between the Amboys, last Thursday morning. The second girder, which was hoisted into place Monday afternoon of this week, can be seen below. Two derricks lifted the massive steel sections, each 280 feet long and weighing 200 tons, from barges to the top of Piers 9 and 10, where they span the river channel, 135 feet above high water level. The bridge, scheduled for completion in June, is the final link in State Highway Commissioner E. Donald Stern's construction program to eliminate the congestion on the main route to the South Jersey seashore resorts. The bridge will be 4,388 feet long and will consist of 39 spans ranging from 87 to 280 feet.

Newark Bears In First Exhibition Game Saturday

Will Cross Bats With Cleveland Indians

Although the Newark Bears will not play their first exhibition game until Saturday when Oscar Vitt brings the Cleveland Indians to Sobering, it has already become quite apparent that at least one rookie will figure in Manager John Neun's battle to regain the International League championship.

Steve Peck

22 year old Utica, N. Y. lad seems now to have acquired the necessary mound poise to go with his good fast ball, sinker, curve, screw ball and change of pace. Few hurlers in the major are better endowed.

Peck started with Akron in 1937, winning ten games and losing eight. The next year he was the second best pitcher in the Eastern League for Birmingham, winning 16 and losing six. Last season, the last hurled the Bears out loose, he returned to Birmingham in May and had won 16 and lost 11 when recalled early in September.

Starting with the Cleveland tussle the Bears will play some 20 exhibition games before returning home on April 13 to their lone pre-season tussle at Rupert Stadium against Jersey City.

St. Bonaventure All-Stars To Play Massing Oilers

City basketball fans will be served an especially tasty dish tomorrow night when "Woody" McCarthy, local basketball star and captain of St. Bonaventure College freshman will bring his St. Bonaventure All-Stars here to meet the Massing Oilers. The game will be played on the Hoffman High School court, and the opening gun will go off at 8:30. McCarthy will perform at guard with Russ Hahn, former New Brunswick High School star, and Jack Henney, ex-captain of the New Brunswick high school team also performing at the guard position. At center the All-Stars will have Steve Cipot, New Brunswick star who averaged about fourteen points a game while the forwards will be Jimmy Comerford, of Garfield, N. J., and Bill Borshelmer, captain of the Georgetown freshman team. Several other outstanding stars will make the trip here with McCarthy's combine.

Manager Bill Colucci of the Oilers has announced he will have his full team on hand to do battle with the invaders, with Joe Crowe, Bob McGowan, Mike Carroll and Chet Sprague forwards, Ted Winnegar and Jim Hawkins at center, and Bud Fleming, Frank Morgan, Dave Kelly and Joe Bullman, guards.

UP AND DOWN THE ALLEYS

By JOE KER

Our little spiel today has to do with that certain little something which is a part of every bowler's make-up... "body-English".

"Body-English" is or are the strange contortions, convulsions, motions, etc., that keepers usually go through in the process of pitching that first ball down for a strike.

In an effort to keep the pill headed for and into the 1-3 or 1-2 pocket the boys do everything from snapping their fingers to performing a fandango a la Zorina. In fact, some of the lads literally tie themselves up into a tangle that a professional contortionist on witnessing the proceedings would probably hang his head in shame.

As for the type that delve into and give an exhibition of the art of terpsichore (dapsin' ya dopel). The graceful (and otherwise) pirouetting, waltzing, jigging, hopping, and such, which is a part of their routine, would certainly have the Ruskies driven to drink.

The dizzy-doing is a physical reaction given off more or less unconsciously by the roller, and is as vital to him as the ball he's coaxing along.

A vantage point at the foul line of almost any match would give one a "inside seat" to quite a bit of chuckle-escapes.

If we were given to select the king of the "body-English" bowlers in this vicinity—we'd rightfully place the crown on the dome of that man of the mazes, that rex of reactions, Frank "Dodger" Gorchess.

A genial and pleasant chap, Frank puts his everything into every ball he throws. The possessor of probably the biggest hook in this section, he heaves his ball down and proceeds to help it along.

His physical reaction is so great that when bowling on No. 8 at the "Y", he backs over and almost into the laps of the spectators seated alongside No. 4 lane. It has often been said that if Frank were left-handed and happened to be on 6 alley, it would just be a matter of time before he'd be out on the adjoining tennis court.

To prove a point we have stressed earlier in this discourse, "Dodger" has on many occasions been kidded about his BE... to which his answers indicated that all of it was done unconsciously on his part... his mind being concentrated in the course of his ball.

The different kinds of "English" used by keepers are too numerous to classify or mention, and we could probably go on all night enumerating examples of some of our rollers. It seems that like finger-prints, every pinsmith has his own type.

Some of the lads are, as we mentioned before, very graceful gallopers, some are dainty dancers, but the fefer we'll have you be on the alert for is the "haymaker" heaver... he's the guy that accentuates the meeting of the ball and pins with a savage haymaker that he brings up from his heels... and woe betide he who walks into same!

Among those engaged in the art of ten-pins are some who prefer to remain solidly immobile when it comes to displaying some reaction down the lanes... it isn't that they can't, it's just that they won't. They want to show that disdainful indifference which to their way of thinking, is the stamp of the better bowler... but these fellows are all wet... for there isn't an ace-keeper around these far parts that doesn't have some little sign that he seemingly tries to semaphore to his pellet as it rolls along.

In conclusion we say... we should see some of the wimmenfolk in action.

A few moons back, the Blue Coal lads (they of the "Y's Club circuit") engaged the Blue Coal lassies in a match at the Brennan's Rec. Lanes.

Being generous chaps, the boys conceded their fair opponents a 110-0 margin, but when the third game was finished the boot seemed to be on the other foot... for the lassies pinned the menfolk's ears back making that game by a sizable margin without the use of the handicaps.

Chief among the victims was one "One-game" McGuire, who proved to be a great help... for the gals.

George Brennan, Rec. alleys prop. is awarding a prize of five simoleons to the guy or gal rapping off high score to the week... in open bowling... a nice chunk of o-day.

We've always held that the proper digits to use on a three-fingered ball were the thumb and two middle fingers... at least it is not the proper... it is the accepted method... but now we begin to have our doubts.

After seeing Lennie Tice at the "Y" 200-games using the thumb and the first two prongs of his meat hook on the pill.

Gus George, of the George's Tavern outfit in the Com. League, turned the tables on his mates when, after being victim in a "beer-frame", he paid the penalty by ordering up a round of cow-juice.

In a 20-game match winding up last 25day nite, Anton, sponsor of the local Anton and Chuck clan, defeated Bill Burlew by a slim 2-pin count at the Brennan's Rec.

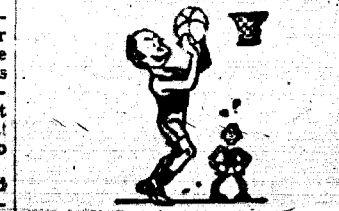

The match was a hectic affair spiced by some foofy filming on both sides... but nevertheless proved to be a close and exciting thing.

Anton's victory was acquired through a self-admitted mistake on the part of his worthy opponent... it seems that Bill needed 9 pins on his final ball to win the match, so to bring home the bacon (and a few francs he decided to play safe he did... sliced off six sticks.

That Mechanicsville-Romeo match for beer at the Rec. last Sunday ended in a victory for the Romeos... after gaining an early lead of a couple hundred pins the boys sorta lost track... a big 1068-game in their second try helped the "R" outfit a bit... consolation to the hole-in-the-wallers was the fact that George Brennan contributed the beer.

Our Yar 'n Thar Dept. Arrangements are being made for the holding of a Headpin Tournament at the local "Y" within the next few weeks... We're still wondering when the play-off for the first-half is gonna take place in the City League... Wonder why the captain of the squad rolling the John's HWS up in the Hearts Business League last Thursday wouldn't allow one of his opponents to finish out his game to keep a date with his job... Confucius Ford's remark of the week came about as a result of a bit of heckling on the part of one of his kegling pals when he turned on his tormentor and remarked, "Son, I knew you when you were rolling in the gutters."

THROUGH THE HOOP

Editor's Note: The opinions expressed here are those of the writer and do not necessarily agree with those of the management.

The foremost thought in our mind this week is the all-city high school basketball team and we are glad to note that numerous fans are intensely awaiting the selection of this corner.

Although yours truly expects many rebukes because of his selection I am inclined to believe that the nomination, which are to follow are the best the local high schools have to offer.

At the forward posts the selections are Alfie Clark, St. Mary's and Chet Sprague, Hoffman High school at the center post the nomination goes to Mike "Rainbow" Carroll. The guards are: Joe Conroy, St. Mary's and Carl Marks, Hoffman High School.

As you might take notice St. Mary's placed three members on the squad and the Governor placed two performers. What a team the city of South Amboy would have if there was only one high school.

And now we'll finish the all-star selections as far as basketball is concerned by giving our version of the best court performers in the semi-pro circles.

At the forward posts the nod goes to Bob McGowan of the Massing club and Bill Fleming of the Catholic Club. The center is Ed Triggs of the Catholic Club. The guards are Joe Crowe and Bud Fleming of the Massing team.

Complaint Department: The officials of the Mechanicsville Sporting Club approached yours truly and informed him in no uncertain terms that the story concerning Ben Springie, the referee who the Massing players have dubbed the "Technical Kid," was unbalanced.

The Hole-in-the-Wall officials claim that they have receipts as proof to show that Springie was paid for every game he refereed excepting those he refereed of his own will.

They claim that the only games that Springie received no pay was when he refereed the intra-club games and he agreed to arbitrate these games for nil. Well, Springier certainly had a lot of nerve to ask yours truly to pen last week's note after he had been paid throughout the season from the Mechanicsville team.

Springier claimed that he umpired for the Mechanicsville team all season for nothing and then when he had a chance to make a few bucks the hole-in-the-wallers turned him down in preference of an out of town referee. Listen, Springie, next time we write a story of this nature concerning you we'll have a Bible present.

The biggest surprise that yours truly encountered this season was the public announcement that John Satsky was elected manager of the DiSantis baseball team for the coming baseball season.

As you know, this corner penned a note saying that Satsky would play third base for the Romeo team this season and directly following this he agreed to manage the Ho'n Dogs.

Due to this reversal many fans have been placed in a confusing state as to Satsky's whereabouts for the coming campaign and further-slightly unbalanced on my story. Certainly, folks, you can't blame me for the change in Satsky. Because in the past, Satsky has always impressed me as a person who was a man of his word. And he personally told me that he could be counted on to play third base for the Romeo team.

See where Ed Triggs received the award for being the most valuable player in the city circuit. Due to the fact that his team, the Catholic Club, defeated Massing for the city title, Triggs received the prize. If his team had not been victorious, I doubt if he would. He was the most valuable asset throughout the entire season to the Catholic Club. Without him they would have had no scoring punch.

Not judging the fact that the Massing team was defeated and the Catholic Club victorious I assumed that the award was a toss up between Bob McGowan and Joe Crowe. But Triggs was deserving of the award. Congrats, Ed.

The Ford's F. C. has been the main entry in the inter-city league. The two South Amboy teams in the above circuit have informed the league president that they did not figure on having a home field for the circuit due to the fact it would not be in condition by play-time.

Having twice won the title of city baseball champions, members of the DeSantis A. A. are beginning plans for the coming baseball season when they hope to duplicate the feat of the last two years.

John Satsky has been selected as manager of the team, with James S. Hyson as captain and coach, and Frank Morgan, treasurer. Coach Hyson expects to begin practice sessions in a short time.

Catholic Club To Meet Hoffman Stars Here Tuesday Night

Catholic Club Will Meet Oilers
In Rubber Game
Friday

What should prove to be an interesting basketball game was arranged this week when the South Amboy Catholic Club signed to meet the Hoffman High School All Stars Tuesday night of next week in St. Mary's Hall. This is the first meeting of these two fast court aggregations and there is considerable speculation concerning the outcome.

Next Friday night the Catholic Club quintette and the Massing Oilers will meet in the rubber game of their series at St. Mary's Hall. Each of the teams has won two games of the series to date.

Mechanicsville Stopped By Massing Oilers Last Monday Night

In a game to decide the individual city championship played Monday night in the Hoffman High School auditorium, the Massing Oilers set back the Mechanicsville quintette 44 to 39. Harkins for the Oilers was top scorer with seventeen points and Clark with 12 led the scoring for Mechanicsville.

St. Mary's To Award Record Prizes At Game Social

"Lucky Seventh" Prize Wednesday Will Be $250;
Jack Pot $130

With the largest principal prizes ever awarded at a game social in this city, game socials of St. Mary's parish will be resumed Wednesday night after the Easter vacation. The work of the various committees is reflected in the fact that the attendance at each party is increasing and preparations have been made for the accommodation of a record number next Wednesday. The plan of holding an annex party on the ground floor has also aided in increasing the number of patrons.

The "Lucky Seventh" prize next Wednesday will amount to $250 and the Jack Pot prize will be $130 to be awarded if the winner of the Jack Pot game pulls the Jack Pot. For picking cards, $-10 or acc. $5 in cash will be awarded.

The proceeds from this game series will be turned over to the fund for the new gymnasium, which it is expected will be begun after the close of the present school year.
