WILL TRY TO GET THE BANNER AGAIN

Joel Parker Council No. 69, Jr. O. U. A. M., is planning on sending another large delegation to the next Past Councilors Association meeting, which is to be held in Milltown on Tuesday, Sept. 8th. At a meeting of this kind held in Jamesburg some time ago this council won a banner for having the largest delegation present. A short time later, at the last meeting which was held in Spotswood, they lost the banner to some other council. This time the local laddies are preparing to compete for the banner again and they are reasonably confident of securing it too.

However, the thing that the local council is devoting its best efforts to is in preparation for the celebration of the centennial of the Star Spangled Banner and their own twenty-fourth anniversary, both of which fall in the next month. Committees are working energetically for this observance of anniversaries and from present indications there will be a big time due. It has been specially requested that all of the members of the uniformed guards will be present at the meeting to-night (Friday), as business of importance is to be transacted and plans for this celebration will also be brought up.

Handsome Prizes For Athletic Events

Prizes for athletic events at picnic of the Sacred Heart Parish on Labor Day at Stevensdale grounds will soon be on exhibition in certain store windows. Watch for them.

The baseball game will be between the Y. M. C. A. and the Neptunes, and some good spirited playing is prophesied. All should witness this contest.

Among the athletic events will be half-mile run, 100 yd. dash for juniors, 100 yd. dash for seniors and obstacle race. The prizes will be as follows:

The judges will be James Cantlon, Teofil Kwilinski and Frank Grace.

All contests are open to entrants from this city only. A fee of twenty-five cents will be asked of all entrants except in the junior events. Frank Kabosky will receive entries for these events.

DROWNED FROM DREDGE.

John McS of Jersey City, employed on a barge at work at Chesapeake creek near Morgan station, was drowned Saturday. He lost his balance and fell backward into the water. Fellow workmen on the dredge watched for him but his body never came to the surface and no trace of the man could be found. It is thought he struck some obstruction underneath the water and was knocked senseless. Grappling hooks were used and the body recovered.

MRS. BERTHA SCHALLING.

Mrs. Bertha Schalling, wife of William Schalling, departed this life at her home at Runyon on Sunday last of tuberculosis at the age of 26 years.

The body was removed to Brooklyn on Monday by Undertaker McCarthy, where services were held on Wednesday and interment made in Flatbush cemetery.

PAINTS AND PAINTING.

Painters are now applying this great preservative paint on my buildings. As this paint cannot be tampered with it must be applied in hot weather. If applied now, it will make a worthless roof practically as good as new. Paint an old roof with it, and I will guarantee a better roof than a new one without paint. Sixty cents a gallon at the only store on the block on Broadway between George street and Bordentown avenue. L. F. MEINZER.

LOVELY NAMED FOR MAYOR

Democrats Decide to Endorse Him—C. W. Stuart Will Run for Councilman-at-Large—R. M. Mack for City Clerk—Committeemen File Petitions.

The Democrats are beginning to wake up in this city, and have made up a slate which they believe will lead the party to victory this fall. It required considerable persuasion to get some citizens to run as candidates, but finally a number have decided to make the canvass. The outlook at present is that the ticket will be made up as follows:

Mayor—Thomas Lovely.
Councilman-at-Large—Charles W. Stuart.

City Clerk—Richard M. Mack.
Committeemen—Third Ward, John Connors and George Gundrum have petitions out. Fourth Ward—C. L. Cozzens.

An active campaign will be made to regain control of the city government, and it is believed by united effort success can be obtained.

Grace Has Filed His Petition for Assembly

Charles T. Grace, Democratic candidate for Assembly, has filed his petition with the County Clerk. The petition had the signature of about 450 men of all walks and professions, including Congressman Thomas J. Scully, Senator Wm. E. Ramsey, Surrogate D. W. Clayton, Assemblyman George L. Burton, Freeholders Alfred T. Kerr and Theodore Cohn, County Solicitor John A. Coan; Guy C. Weaver, Alderman-at-Large, John Kutcher, 4th Ward Alderman, Richard F. White, City Collector and James J. Flynn, Corner, of Perth Amboy; city township and borough officials from New Brunswick, South River, Milltown, Sayreville and Spotswood, including all local city officials of Democratic complexion such as Councilmen O'Connor and Stanton.

CHARLES T. GRACE.

Ex-Mayors McGonigle, Chase, Muirhead and Welsh. City Clerk Mack, Treasurer Perrine, Collector Sutliff, Ex-Councilmen Stuart and Manhattan, Postmaster Rea, County Committeemen Bullman and Carroll, with about 150 others from this city and over 250 from New Brunswick, Perth Amboy, East Brunswick and South Brunswick townships, Piscataway, Dunellen, South Plainfield, Madison Township, Old Bridge, Spotswood, Helmetta Jamesburg, Cranbury, Milltown, South River, Sayreville, Erns-ton and Morgan.

Rumors have been rife that Mr. Grace would likely be the Mayoralty candidate but we understand he has declined this owing to his previously having consented to be an assembly candidate. He is well qualified for either office and would prove a valuable official. Grace is very prominent in railroad circles as well as being known state wide in fraternal affairs being very prominently associated as a state officer in two or three of these organizations. This should be valuable to his party and make him a strong candidate on the county ticket.

STRUCK BY BICYCLE.

Nels Barekalow while passing along upper Main street Monday night attempted to get out of the way of an automobile, was struck by a bicycle ridden by a young man. His knee was badly injured. Dr. Euler attended to the injury.

P. V. DeGRAW DIES AT WASHINGTON

After an illness of six months, Peter Voorhees DeGraw, former Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, died early last Saturday morning at his home, 210 Maryland avenue northeast, Washington D. C. His wife and son were at the bedside at the time of his death. Mr. DeGraw had been sinking for two weeks. A hemorrhage early in the evening of Friday was followed by unconsciousness, during which the end came. Death was due to a complication of diseases.

Peter Voorhees DeGraw was born at Princeton, N. J., sixty years ago. After receiving a common school education, he became a telegrapher for the Camden and Amboy railroad at this city, the office being situated on the old steamboat wharf. At that time Mr. DeGraw resided with his parents on Main street in one of the houses that was torn down to make room for the new roadway.

In 1874 he took one of the eight leased keys operating on the first leased wire between New York and Washington for the New York Associated Press, and in 1875 went to Washington as a member of the editorial staff of the Associated Press. He was in turn Washington manager of the Western Association, southern manager, and assistant general manager of the Southern Associated Press, until 1897.

After a short period in commercial work in Philadelphia he again took up his former work, and was appointed press representative in Washington for the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

In 1905, Mr. DeGraw was appointed by President Taft to the position of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, which he held up to the Wilson Administration.

Mr. DeGraw had charge of the installation of the parcel post, which went into effect on January 1, 1913, and supervision of the delivery system throughout the country. Mr. DeGraw was one of the organizers of the now celebrated Gridiron Club, of Washington.

He was a cousin of Frank E. DeGraw of this city.

James Briggs and Son Escape Serious Inquiry

James H. Briggs and his son, Willoughby, were in an auto accident on Tuesday and fortunately escaped serious injury. When near Outcalt his Ford automobile skidded, causing the right front wheel to break and upsetting the machine. His son was caught under the car, and his cries attract the attention of Mrs. H. Seiger, of Philadelphia, who is spending a few weeks at Helmetta, and Mrs. Pell Mitchell, of New York. They with the assistance of Mr. Briggs helped get the machine off the boy. He was only badly bruised, and Mr. Briggs escaped injury.

MRS. WIATR FALLS DOWN STAIRS

Mrs. Martin Wiatr, of Henry street and Pine avenue, fell down stairs Wednesday evening about six o'clock. When picked up she was unconscious and Dr. E. A. Meacham was called. Examination showed that she had fractured an arm and several ribs and had also a fractured skull. She was at once taken to St. Peter's Hospital in New Brunswick in an automobile of a friend. It is thought an operation may be necessary as a result of the fractured skull.

THIEVES ROB HOTEL.

The hotel of John Braney on First street was entered by thieves on Thursday night. Entrance was made through the transom on front door. About $5.00 in change and some liquor was taken. The case has been reported to the police.

WATERMELON CUT.

Miss Mae Brown entertained a number of friends Tuesday evening at her home on John street to a watermelon cut, in honor of Prof. and Mrs. Paul S. Miller, who will shortly leave the city to take up their residence at Union Hill. Singing and dancing were greatly enjoyed by all present.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

The pastor, Rev. J. E. Shaw, will return on Saturday, August 29, and preach both morning and evening of Sunday.

REPUBLICANS MAKE SLATE

Endorse Mayor Dey and Councilman-at-Large Stratton for Re-Election—Dr. Albright Named for Councilman in Second Ward and Fred Isely in Third—M. E. Magee for Clerk.

The Republican Club held a meeting in the rooms of the Business Men's Association last Monday evening and selected a number of candidates for the coming election. There were quite a number present, being mostly the old guard that may be counted on to attend meetings of this kind.

Those selected as candidates may be summed up as follows:

For Mayor—William S. Dey.
For Councilman-at-Large—Collin J. Stratton.

For City Clerk—William J. Edwards.
For Councilman, second ward—Dr. J. C. Albright.

For Executive Committeeman, third ward—Andrew Seaman.

When Mayor Dey was nominated he stated that he would be only too glad to step back and let someone else have the nomination if there were any others that desired to take it. He felt that he had done all the good that he could, but the members present wouldn't hear of anything like that. Several of those present had something to say regarding the mayor's ability as chief executive of the city and he was finally given a unanimous vote as a declaration of choice by the party.

Councilman-at-Large Stratton was the only one spoken of for the position which he now holds, and he made a few remarks on the subject of his becoming a candidate for re-election. He said that although the duties of his office were by no means easy to fulfill he had filled them to the best of his ability. In filling this position in the manner that would be best for all concerned he knew that he had not pleased everyone and that as a consequence there had been more or less criticism. He stated that he had been told that some of his people had become tired of him and that he did not wish to become a candidate unless it was the expressed wish of his party. He would do all that laid within his power to help any other man if the party wished to substitute someone else in his place and he believed that it would require the unqualified support of his party to elect him if he was chosen. He concluded with the statement that he would work earnestly and if elected would continue to perform the duties incumbent upon his office with the same general broad-mindedness which had guided him so far this year. The mayor had a few words to say in assurance to Mr. Stratton, giving it as his opinion that the present councilman-at-Large had made a very capable as well as efficient officer both in and out of the council chamber and further that the experience already gained would be a great asset in handling matters pertaining to city business for another term. When put to a vote Mr. Stratton was given an enthusiastic unanimous vote of acclaim.

The selection of candidates for the wards was rather difficult as it has to be borne in mind that the opposition would probably be tremendous. After considerable discussion and consideration Dr. J. C. Albright, of Broadway, was nominated for the representation in the Second ward and Mr. Fred Isely for nominee in the Third ward. The city clerkship was also difficult of fulfillment. Mr. William J. Edwards, of Second street, was finally settled upon for this nomination and like the others given an unanimous vote.

Considerable time was given to the discussion of candidates for constable in the Fourth ward. The matter was finally left in the hands of the vacancy committee.

Mr. Charles T. Mason presided as chairman of the meeting and appointed Messrs. Daniel J. Donlin, Stratton and A. H. Slover vacancy committee. This was the last of the work to fill any

$1 A YEAR SALARY FOR CUSTODIAN

When the reports of committees were reached in the regular order of business at the regular meeting of the Board of Education Thursday evening a report was in order from the finance committee on the bill submitted by the present city treasurer for three hundred and eighty dollars for his services as custodian of school moneys for the past two years. In making his report the chairman, Mr. Grace, stated that he had investigated this matter carefully and reached the conclusion that the present custodian was the custodian of school moneys all right and proper and that the committee recommended that the Board of Education still consider him as the custodian. They would further recommend that his salary be one dollar per year. A motion to the effect that the recommendations of the finance committee in this respect be endorsed was made and carried. Under the remarks, Mr. Grace stated that he had seen the city fathers about this matter and had ascertained from them that in making the salary of the treasurer they had taken into consideration the matter of his also taking care of the school moneys and had provided compensation therefor, and that they did not approve of this extra bill. They thought he was well paid as it was.

Another important question that was decided was that of the vaccination of the pupils in the school. The question was brought up by Mr. Davis, who stated that a gentleman had asked him to ascertain the feelings of the board upon this question as regards the coming year. It seems that this gentleman had children who were not vaccinated last year for one reason or another, such as the nearness of examinations, etc. Mr. Grace expressed an opinion that he did not see any adequate reason why the State laws should not be lived up to strictly. It was the state that provided these laws and he did not feel that there should be any exceptions. He stated that although he did not approve of the vaccination of children and had taken an active stand against the enforcement of these laws last year, still when the majority of the board decided upon vaccination his children were the first ones to be vaccinated. There were also about ninety-eight per cent of the teachers and pupils who had complied with the laws in this respect now and he would not advocate making any exceptions in the beginning of the new year. The consensus of opinion of the board agreed with Mr. Grace and the reporters were requested to emphasize the fact that board would require the strict observance of the state laws pertaining to the vaccination question.

The meeting of the board was held in the office of the city superintendent in School No. 2 and all the members were on hand. The minutes were read and it was noticed that the secretary had made a mistake in the amount of the draft that was ordered issued to Mrs. E. E. Haines in payment for a safe purchased from her. The amount of the draft should have been thirty-five dollars and it was drawn for thirty.

Some little time was devoted to the discussion of a proposition submitted by a representative of the firm of Underwood & Underwood. The proposition dealt with the purchase by the board of a stereoscope arrangement showing views of different parts of this country or of the whole world if so desired. By using this apparatus the pupil studying geography, for instance, would read of a certain country and then turn to the stereoscopic views and actually see the place he had just read about. Whatever the advantages of this scheme might be the board did not feel that they would be justified in incurring the expense of providing this arrangement at the present time so further consideration of the proposition was deferred until such time as the board might find out how they stood with regard to the furnishing of the things that are absolutely necessary.

The contracts for the erection of the two fire escapes on School No. 1 were executed by the board and the vice president of the Vulcan Rail and Construction Company, who was present for that purpose. It only remains for the State Board to approve of the drawings and then the work of the erection will go forward. The work is to be completed within

INDUSTRIAL EFFECT OF WAR

ON NEUTRAL NATIONS

The daily papers and weekly journals are compelling us to wallow in a sea of many-colored opinions as to the effect of the European war on our industries. The surmises run the range from gold to black. Taken all in all, the colors are bright, but the writers give few facts as the basis of their statements and guesses.

Two editorials in this column have pointed out the vast needs of the world outside Europe for machinery. In machinery alone this is yearly some $7,750,000. In other machinery it is about $130,000,000. These figures are based on United States, Great Britain's and German exports. Some machinery is sent abroad from Belgium and France, thus the totals given above are conservative.

These show in most forcible fashion the world's need for machinery, a need that has not been interfered with by war, but, if anything, will be increased in volume and made more insistent in demand. Before America is a great duty—to supply machinery to all the world outside of Europe—and a great opportunity to gain a share of the trade from foreign markets that heretofore have not looked with much favor on our products.

What are the chances that this duty and opportunity will be met? What does history tell us about the industrial conditions of neutral nations when a great war was in progress? If our belief is true that a great opportunity now faces us, a similar opportunity must have faced some other nation at some time in the past.

The natural place to turn for a parallel is to England during the Franco-Prussian war. Parliamentary reports give most striking facts in this connection. In these documents, in every case the years immediately preceding 1875 are referred to as "banner years" in English industry. There was an unexampled trade expansion. The national income jumped from $5,500,000,000 in 1870 to $6,700,000,000 in 1874, an increase of $1,200,000,000. The average yearly total of wages for the same years were: $2,200,000,000, and $2,700,000,000, respectively. The wage rate in the "machinery business" increased during this period as shown by the following figures. These are arranged according to a scale in which the rate for 1860 is taken as 100.

Year	Rate
1866	108
1870	110
1874	124

What a tremendous record! From 1870 to 1874 England's yearly national income—from the sale of manufactured products—increased $1,200,000,000.

In 1870-1874 there was an enormous demand for workmen in England's industry, as shown by the rise in wage rates and by the increase by the total sum paid to labor.

"History repeats itself."

In 1870-1874 England was manufacturing for the world. In 1914—the United States must manufacture for the world.

It is the duty of American manufacturers to prepare for what is just before us—an enormous foreign demand for our manufactured products. Manufactured products are made by machinery, and machinery is built with machinery tools and small tools.—American Machinist.

Atop of Mount McKinley.

Archdeacon Stuck in his account of his climb to the summit of Mount McKinley, "The Ascent of Denali," gives this description of his impressions upon reaching it: "Immediately before us, in the direction in which we had climbed, lay—nothing; a void, a sheer gulf many thousands of feet deep, and one shrank back instinctively from the little parapet of snow basin when one had glanced at the awful profundity. Across the gulf, about 3,000 feet beneath us and fifteen or twenty miles away, sprang most splendidly into view the great mass of Denali's Wife, or Mount Foraker, as some white men misname her, filling majestically all the middle distance. * * * And never was nobler sight displayed to man than that great isolated mountain, spread out completely, with all its spurs and ridges, its cliffs and its glaciers, lofty and mighty, and yet far beneath us. * * * Beyond stretched, blue and vague to the southwest, the wide valley of the Kuskokwim, with an end of all mountains. * * * It was, however, to the south and the east that the most marvelous prospect opened before us.

Seize Three for Selling Opium.

On evidence obtained in a raid early Sunday morning when the police broke into the rear of a Chinese restaurant at 1133 Springwood avenue, Asbury Park, three Chinese were held for the grand jury by Police Magistrate Borden on charges of selling and using opium. The alleged proprietor of the so-called "joint," Joe Sing, was held in $1,000 bail, and Chu Yung and Lung Sing, who were found by the raiders, they reported, in the act of smoking, were held in $250 bail. The raid was led by County Detective Chester A. Haines, assisted by six local detectives and policemen. According to the police, the most serious phase of their case against Sing is that Sing is alleged to have sold smoking opium to all corners, black, white or Chinese. Marked money, used by a detective in payment for opium secured a few hours before the raid, was found in Sing's cash drawer, the raiders declared.

Progressives Hold Outing.

The Progressives of Sayreville and other parts of Middlesex county invaded Seidler's Beach on Saturday where they held a political confab and enjoyed an appetizing shore dinner. The Bull Moose men were very enthusiastic about the county ticket this coming election. They talked frequently of the G. O. P. machine and planned an attack on the Republican party. The candidacy of William Quackenbush, of New Brunswick, was unanimously endorsed by the club. When his name was mentioned for office of county clerk, it received much applause. Otto W. Hillmann, president of the Sayreville Progressive Club, was the chairman, and called upon James A. Edgar, chairman of the county committee, who responded with a few remarks, complimenting the Progressive Club of Sayreville for their fine showing. Mr. Edgar spoke briefly of the principles of the party and requested each individual to start at once to work to elect their candidates on election day. Joseph Crowell, candidate for sheriff, who resides at Perth Amboy, had his petition at the confab and received a number of signatures. Mr. Crowell made a short speech, in which he told of the strength of the Progressives in Perth Amboy.

Dr. Henry Entertains Physicians.

The Middlesex County Medical Association held its regular meeting on the three-hundred-and-fifty-acre farm of Dr. F. C. Henry, of Holmdel, Saturday. The mansion of Dr. Henry is one of the oldest in this section of the state, being close to 150 years old. The doctors of the county had a most enjoyable day at the farm, as the guests of Dr. Henry, who is president of the association.

Eighteen doctors were present at the meeting and some interesting cases of diabetes and gangrene were presented and discussed by Dr. Frank M. Donohue, Dr. A. L. Smith, of New Brunswick, Dr. John L. Lund, of Perth Amboy and Dr. Spenser, of Woodbridge. The cases were those handled by the doctors during the past few months.

After the discussion Dr. Henry had a delightful supper served from the products of his farm. Dr. Frank M. Donohue gave the members an invitation to hold their next meeting, which will be held in October, on his farm at Sea Cliff. The invitation was accepted.

Compensation Awarded.

Samuel Gowen, of New Brunswick, who lost the first phalange of his second finger on his left hand, while working for the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., on October 31, 1913, has received an order from Judge Daly, entitling him to $7.28 a week for fifteen weeks, under the employers' compensation act. He was the only witness. He had been earning $14.28 a week, and the compensation is 50 per cent. of his wages. George L. Burton represented him and Theodore Strong appeared for the railroad company. A counsel fee of $10 was allowed Mr. Burton.

Crack Safe: Scared Away.

Burglars entered the bakery of J. W. Child & Co. in Broad street, Red Bank, Sunday, and blew open the safe. They were frightened away before they got the money in the safe.

Drape Spring Lake Church in Black.

The entrance to St. Catherine's Roman Catholic Church, of Spring Lake, the edifice erected by Marquis

Maloney as a memorial to his daughter Catherine, has been draped with black as an expression of the grief of the Catholics of Spring Lake over the death of Pope Pius.

Actor Fined For Speeding.

Bert Williams, an actor, was arrested while speeding through Red Bank. He was fined $25 and costs by Justice Edward W. Wise. "Ziegfeld's money is paying for this," was all Williams had to say.

LeRoy Jackson.

LeRoy Jackson, for thirty years coachman in the family of Frank L. Sheppard, died Tuesday morning at West Long Branch from a complication of diseases. He was fifty-six years old. A widow and an adopted daughter survive. Mr. Jackson was a member of the Odd Fellows at Allentown, Pa.

Harvey—Rice Nuptials.

Judge and Mrs. J. Kearny Rice of New Brunswick have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Sally Neilson Rice, to Harold C. Harvey of Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Harvey of London. The wedding will be Wednesday afternoon, September 16, in the home of Judge and Mrs. Rice.

Woman Burned by Explosion.

Mrs. Julia Snedeker of Jamesburg was badly burned about the feet Tuesday afternoon by the explosion of a gasoline stove. She was found unconscious, with her clothing afire, by her daughter, Mrs. Frederick Wyckoff, of Mahanquan, who was in the house. Mrs. Wyckoff put out the fire in her mother's clothing by the use of a rug. The house was destroyed. The furniture and clothing of Mrs. Snedeker and two children were burned.

Deutch in Wrong Again.

Joseph Deutch, former private banker at Perth Amboy, later inmate of the county jail at New Brunswick, and recently a trusted and valued employee in a patent lawyer's office in Pittsburg, is charged with stealing $5,000 from his employer. Detective Griffin, of Pittsburg, went to New Brunswick Tuesday and looked up the record of the man and heard enough to impell him to wire home at once to keep an eye on the man, who is now under a doctor's care recovering from an operation.

When charged with embezzlement in Perth Amboy several years Deutch was confined to his home. His doctor said he was suffering with pleuro-pneumonia and so the officers did not guard the house. He was not so sick that he couldn't slip away. He sailed for Holland, but Detective Peltier got a tip from a priest and Deutch was arrested as he landed in Holland and Court Interpreter Somogyi and Burt Moore, of Perth Amboy, were sent after him and brought him back.

When Detective Griffin heard this he telegraphed to headquarters to prevent Deutch repeating the experience. He says that Deutch was chief clerk in an office of twenty clerks and was earning $75 a week. His employer was pleased with his work and had trusted him with large sums of money.

Deutch was saved from prison because of sympathy for his wife, who was in delicate health. He was sentenced to two years in State prison, but the sentence was reconsidered and he was placed on probation.

Early Court at Toms River.

Arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, John Converse, of New Brunswick, and nine of his companions were each fined $3.25 by Police Justice A. C. King at Toms River, at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning. The party was arrested by Lieutenant A. L. Munsey, of the local police, who had been assigned to this special work by Chief Cuckwalter after complaints had been made that the peace and quiet of the night was being disturbed by automobilists passing through the town. Converse and his friends arrived in town in two automobiles, making the night hideous, it is alleged, by blowing fish horns.

Trenton Man Is Elected President of The A. O. H.

James J. Sweeney of Trenton was elected State president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at the State convention of the organization Monday at Sacred Heart Hall, Elizabeth, defeating Charles P. Olwell of Jersey City. The vote was 113 to 99, the Hudson delegation casting more than fifty votes for the losing candidate.

Patrick McCue of Rahway was elected vice-president over John J. Sweeney of Burlington County. John J. Gascoyne, chief probation officer of Essex County, was re-elected treasurer without opposition, while Patrick T. Hayes of Jersey City was chosen secretary.

Because of his being chosen a national director at the recent national convention at Norfolk, Edward H. Hayes of New Brunswick did not seek re-election. Mr. Sweeney, the new president, was formerly vice-president. Atlantic City was decided on as the place for the next biennial State convention.

There were 224 delegates at the convention, which opened informally Sunday, when committees made up their reports. A solemn high mass at Sacred Heart Church Monday morning was followed by the transaction of routine business. There were addresses at the morning session by Mayor Victor Mravlag, General Dennis F. Collins and Rev. Florian Widman, rector of Sacred Heart Church. Governor Fidler was invited, but could not attend, nor could the State chaplain, Rev. Bernard M. Bogan of Plainfield.

The organization took no formal action on the European war by resolution or otherwise. It was decided to make the convention of 1916 a two-day meeting because of the constantly increasing business. Approximately 22,000 men in New Jersey are connected with the order and its finances are in excellent condition. These facts were referred to by Mayor Mravlag and General Collins in their addresses.

Luncheon was served by the local county committee and Dennis J. Fitzgerald, the county president, made an address of welcome. The retiring president presided. The convention was concluded by a parade, the Hibernian Pipe and Drum Corps escorting the delegates to the railroad stations.

The following counties were represented: Passaic, Essex, Hudson, Union, Bergen, Burlington, Cumberland, Hunterdon, Monmouth, Mercer, Gloucester, Middlesex, Somerset, Morris, Salem, Camden, Warren and Atlantic.

Buoyancy of Fresh and Salt Water.

A Chinese lad dropped his ball in a narrow hole and could not get it out. So he poured water in the hole, thinking that he would float the ball to the surface. As the ball was slightly heavier than water, it remained on the bottom. Then he thought of mixing salt with the water, as he knew that salt water would float denser objects than fresh. This he did and was rewarded with the floating ball.

This particular fact is demonstrated at the mouths of rivers. Objects rolling along the bottom of a fresh river, too heavy to come to the top, will rise when they are carried out to sea. The general rule also applies to floating bodies. For instance, a ship with a cargo on the sea will sink sometimes a foot on entering a fresh water port. On the other hand, if she leaves a fresh water port with her cargo she will rise when entering the ocean. So a ship may be loaded apparently too much at a wharf and still be all right on the waves.

In building a dam the fact of salt water's being heavier than fresh must be taken into consideration, and the dam for the same head must be a good deal stronger; this, too, without taking into consideration the beating of waves, etc.—St. Louis Republic.

Switzerland's Navy.

Long before Germany was to be reckoned with as a sea power Switzerland possessed a fleet equipped for warfare. Eight hundred years ago on all the larger Swiss lakes armed galleys were maintained by the rival cantons. Skilled shipwrights had to be imported from Genoa for the construction of these vessels, some of which carried crews of 600 men. The largest Swiss flotilla was maintained on the Lake of Geneva, when the inhabitants of Geneva were at war with Savoy. Since the neutrality of Switzerland has been guaranteed by the powers there has been no need for warships on the lakes. The Swiss, however, possess a mercantile navy, which carries a considerable amount of trade over the 342 miles of navigable waterways in the republic.

Our vices are like our nails—even as we cut them they grow again.—T. Bernard.

Very likely, however, the manufacturers of inhuman footgear have to wear the same kind as they sell, which is as near retribution as the law allows.

House

A Story of Mexico.

By F. A. MITCHEL

"Is there a hacienda near by where I can stop for the night?" I asked a man I met on the road. I was traveling in the province of San Luis Potosi, in Mexico.

"No, senor; there is nothing within a convenient distance where one can find entertainment. There is a deserted house about two miles down the road, but I would not advise you to stop there. You had better go back to Venado."

I had come from Venado, a distance of eight miles. To go back and return to where I was would be a round trip of sixteen miles. I was well mounted, but did not care for such an additional journey in any event. I asked the man to tell me more about the deserted house.

"It was formerly the country place of a Spaniard who lived there with his wife—a crusty old man, she a beautiful young woman. He was jealous of her, and a tragedy occurred in the house. Some say he murdered her lover, and others say he murdered both her and her lover. At any rate, he disappeared, leaving the house with all the furniture in it, and so it has remained to the present day."

"Is it locked?"

"I have provisions in my haversack. Why should I not go in there, roll myself in my blanket and sleep till early morning, then resume my journey?"

"Well, senor," replied the man, "there is nothing to prevent your doing that, but I would not do it for all the gold there is in Mexico."

"What is there to fear?"

"Men have slept there who have never been seen or heard of afterward. Men have slept there who have told fearful tales."

"This was not encouraging, but I was familiar with the superstition of the lower class of Mexicans and knew that they were very easily frightened. I must either sleep in this deserted house or return to Venado or bivouac. The latter I did not wish to do, for a norther was blowing and a fine rain was falling. So I thanked the man for his information and rode on.

THERE LAY THE BODY OF A MAN.

I reached the house just before dark, and an attractive place it must have been in its prime.

The house had been handsomely furnished, but that must have been many years before, for, though the framework of the furniture was solid as ever, the woven fabrics were in tatters. And yet the place looked as if persons had used it since the olden time, when it was occupied regularly. There were bits of food scattered about and other evidences of the sojourn of human beings. Perhaps, I thought, these things were left by those persons of whom the man I met on the road told me. The first thing I did was to gather some wood which I found scattered about the place and, putting it in the great fireplace, soon had a cheerful blaze, which I needed not only for warmth, but to help banish the dreariness about me.

I ate my supper beside the fire. The apartment I occupied had apparently been the principal bedroom of the house in its better days, and its walls were hung with portraits. One I judged to be the likeness of the former owner, the Spaniard who had murdered his wife and her paramour. His certainly looked capable of murder. One of his eyes seemed to differ from the other; but, since I had no light except what came from the hearth, I could not make out wherein this difference lay.

Having finished my supper, I went out and gathered what green stuff I could find for my horse to eat—I had watered him shortly before at a rannel beside the road—and, returning, smoked a pipe beside the fire. I had no mind to occupy the bed with its enorarose, mastered my moldering bedclothes and, drawing my blanket on them, tried again to sleep. But, the uncanny place getting the better of my feeling, I arose and got my 45 caliber revolver. There was nothing alive to shoot at, but somehow there was a sense of protection in the weapon.

How long I slept before waking again I don't know. I was, or thought I was, awakened by a sound. But there was a strong wind, and many parts of the house had rotted loose and rattled. The fire had gone out, but one of the heavier pieces of wood blazed and cast a lurid light about the apartment. Directly opposite was the portrait I have mentioned, and the eye which I had noticed being unlike the other seemed to me to belong to a human being and was looking straight at me.

I rubbed my own eyes to see more clearly, and when I looked again the human expression had gone out of the eye of the portrait. Thinking that I must have been mistaken, I composed myself to sleep. Naturally I thought of my money and my weapon. The former was in a belt made for the purpose of carrying funds and strapped around my waist. The revolver was in my hand on the bed.

My next awakening came from a heavy weight falling on the floor in the room above. Then came the sound of whistling wind, followed by a cry. Then all was still again. In a few minutes the stillness was broken by frightful shrieks. From the moment of the first sound I sat up, clutching my revolver. My gaze lighted on the portrait of the old Spaniard, and it had again become human.

I cannot say that I was frightened, but I will assert positively that I was mad. Yielding to an impulse which I cannot well describe, I raised my revolver and sent a bullet straight at the eye that caused the commotion within me. And so sure was my aim that an open space was left where the eye had been.

Something fell on the floor of the adjoining room. The sound seemed to come from behind where the portrait was hanging. Throwing myself from the bed, recocking my revolver with my right thumb and snatching a burning brand from the fireplace, I ran through a doorway and stood on the other side of a partition. There lay the body of a man. I had shot him in the eye and pierced his brain.

The stillness was broken by some one running in the patio, but this was all the indication I had of the presence of any one except the dead man. I stood listening for some time, then was seized with a desire to get out of the place as soon as possible. I started for the patio, dropping my torch as I went that it might not make me an illuminated target, and, reaching the door of the house, gained the outside. There I stood trying to pull myself together.

There was a streak of dawn in the east. It tended to quiet the horror there was within me. After all, what was there to flee from? I could hear no sound from within, and all except the wind was still without. I was as well armed and had the same chance as any one else. I had killed a man, and I preferred to learn if possible whether I had been justified in doing so. Summoning my resolution, I re-entered the house, peering through the dim light for any one who might be there.

I regained without opposition the room in which I had slept. There were embers on the hearth, and I re-kindled the fire. There I stood with my back to it, waiting for the day to break. As soon as I could see without artificial light I went to the room, where the body lay in the same position I had left it. It was on the floor beside a table, and the table was directly under a hole in the partition, the latter being about the height of a man. I got up on the table, put my eye to the hole and looked into the bedroom.

Now I could form a theory. There had been two or more men in the house. One of them had looked through the hole, which formed an eye of the picture, and seen me on the bed. If he wished to rob me my revolver was in his way. An attempt had been made to frighten me, but whether to get an advantage over me or to drive me out of the house I could only conjecture. I inclined to the latter opinion.

Having gone thus far in my investigations, I resolved to go further. I ransacked the house. I looked into closets, up chimneys, under furniture. The last thing I did was to pull the clothing and mattresses off the bed on which I had slept. Out rolled a shower of gold coins.

It was now quite light, and I resolved to gather up the coins, hide them and report my experience at the next town at which I would stop.

I reported my find as I had intended to the police, informing them where I had hidden the gold pieces. They visited the house in question and recognized the man I had shot as a notorious bandit. They wondered when he had seen me lying on the bed that he had not shot at me through the partition, but I reminded them that this would have been difficult. Besides, it was doubtless to his interest to frighten me away.

I never heard that anything was done to prevent the premises from being used by bandits. The Mexican rural police are not very effective, and soon after my experience Governor Carranza started his rebellion against President Huerta.

Training Made.
A little patience and system in dealing with maid, especially if they be young ones, without very much experience, will often work miracles. Even if they are older and can justly claim to be experienced, there is always much for them to learn in entering a new household.

Every mistress has her own particular way of having certain things done, and the new girl must conform to this way even if she has been accustomed to doing the same work in a different manner.

One mistress encourages her "green" girls by engaging them at a small wage and increasing it as they master various menus. When the maid can prepare all of them she is given the sum that her ability would earn for her anywhere.

It is not hard to teach a girl to cook by this system. Most girls will take a deeper interest in their cooking than they will in many other branches of housework, and if instructed by this or some other equally good and definite system they will try harder and hence learn more rapidly than when instructed in a haphazard way.

Correct Stationery.
The newest note paper is very long and very narrow and fits into envelopes of precisely the size of the unfolded sheet. This style is smartest in dark cream and pale gray tones.

Then there are the sheets of heavy linen in buff, blue and gray that must be once folded lengthwise to fit into their envelopes, and there are the sheets of very thin but stout white paper which fold once to fit into square envelopes lined with a color. These formerly were used only for foreign correspondence, but now they are coming into domestic use.

Correspondence cards never have been daintier, and everybody is now using them at the slightest excuse. Some of them are absolutely square, and some of them are long and narrow, with beveled edges.

Artistic Compliments.
It is not the compliment that is, so to speak, laid on with a trowel that really reaches our hearts. No; it is the delicate and subtle sort that we do not recognize as a compliment.

This species is best and most successful when it is expressed by deeds rather than by words.

Let some one show a decided liking for our society when there are others present who are more attractive or clever or famous and how can we help but be pleased?

If their amusements and interests take a second place and ours usurp the first, then that, too, is a delightful form of flattery.

Table Usage.
Good manners at the table stamp the well bred person. The knife is used only in cutting the food, never to raise any particle of it to the mouth. A few general rules follow:

Lettuce is cut with the fork, a small portion rolled about the tines and thus eaten.

Oranges are peeled, cut or divided into quarters and eaten, or cut in half and eaten with the orange spoon, a spoon narrower and smaller than the ordinary tablespoon.

The Unfriendly Reminder.
Of all trying things the "I told you so" person is one of the worst. When you confide any trouble to them you are usually met with an "I told you so, but you wouldn't listen to me," which is distinctly annoying. They really might have the generosity not to rub it in. There is very little chance that you would have forgotten their warning, and they might refrain from the petty satisfaction of reminding you of their superior wisdom.

The Family Bore.
Friends and even members of a family ought to take care not to overstep the border line between interest and inquisitiveness. If one has been out and comes back looking pleased, it is annoying to be immediately asked, "Well, whom have you been with?" and then requested to go into details of the pleasant time spent.

Cordiality to Newcomers.
A resident of a town or village can call with propriety on any newcomer and the newcomer should return this call if she desires to continue the acquaintance. The time of calling is settled by the customs of the place, but after two o'clock and before six is generally correct.

When to Call.
Ceremonious calls are not made between women in the morning, evening or on Sunday afternoons. A man, owing to the exactions of business, may call in the evening and on Sunday afternoon.

Tea Invitations.
Invitations to afternoon teas are very often in the form of visiting cards. On the lower left hand corner of the card write "At home from 3 until 6. Thursday, April 20."

Hospitality to Strangers.
Before an invitation of hospitality is given to a stranger a call should first be made.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 29, 1914.

The seed faker who went into Middlesex County to sell his stuff walked plumb into the very best trap New Jersey has for catching such rascals. He had a lot of millet seed which he was trying to foist on the farmers as something more rare and valuable, but some specimens were sent to the agricultural experiment station at New Brunswick, where they were at once identified. Then the county prosecutor got after the seed faker and had him arrested and convicted and sentenced. This is one of the many ways in which the State experiment station benefits New Jersey farmers. Tests are made of seeds sent for examination and the results reported. Fertilizers are also analyzed and the farmers are told just which are good, which poor and which utterly useless, all free of expense. The seed fakers are exceedingly clever talkers, as a rule, and even in these days many farmers are swindled by them, but it is the rural men's own fault, since they can be reliably informed if they take the trouble to consult the experiment station at New Brunswick—Newark News.

It is really amusing to read the comment of the press on the road that leads from Main street and Broadway to Bridge street, Sayreville township. Recently some cinders were placed in low and soggy places on this road, and it took considerable space in the papers to condemn such a procedure, when a compliment should have been extended as cinders are considered the best material extant for such spots in a road. Then again this road is strictly private property, and its use is granted solely through the goodwill of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. It can be closed at any time. No one is compelled to use it, neither is it a public road, and to make adverse comment on its condition is absurd. The old route through the "Hole-in-the-Wall" is a public thoroughfare, open to criticism, and the city and county are responsible for its condition.

Circuit Judgeship For Geo. S. Silzer

On Tuesday Governor Fielder named Prosecutor George S. Silzer as Circuit Court Judge to succeed Charles S. Black, who was recently elevated to the Supreme Court bench to succeed the late Justice Willard P. Voorhees.

Regarding the appointment of Mr. Silzer, the Governor said:

"The appointment of Prosecutor Silzer to the judgeship is a purely personal one. My long association with him in the Legislature convinces me that he gave the State the benefit of very valuable work. He was an able, conscientious and honest legislator. He is a good lawyer with a large practice and will have to make a great sacrifice when he takes the place which he is eminently qualified to fill.

"All things being equal I think I ought to appoint younger lawyers to these positions so that the State in later years may have the benefit of their training for many years to come, and because the judges ought to be kept on the bench regardless of their politics."

George S. Silzer was born in New Brunswick, April 14, 1870. He was educated in the public schools and graduated from the high school in 1888, being the valedictorian of his class. He was admitted to the bar as an attorney in November, 1892, and as counselor in November, 1899. Since then he has practiced his profession in New Brunswick, residing in Metuchen.

He has served on the Board of Examiners for candidates for admission to the bar, and also in the New Brunswick Board of Aldermen as a member from the Third Ward, and as chairman of the Democratic county committee. He was unanimously nominated for State Senator by his party in 1906 and was elected by a plurality of 106 over the then Senator William H. C. Jackson. He made his fight on the principle of anti-bribery. In 1909 he was renominated without opposition and was re-elected by an increased plurality of 1,879 over Judge Hicks, Republican.

It was on March 26, 1912, that Mr. Silzer was named as prosecutor of Middlesex.

approval of Board has been secured.

The board then went into executive session for a little while, probably for a conference with Mr. Samuel Schlemmer, of Elizabeth, who was present.

Upon reconvening a communication was read from the clerk of the Sayreville Board of Education which stated that their bill of some eight hundred dollars for tuition fees from last year had been received and would be brought up before the board at their meeting in the early part of September.

Another communication was received from the Public Service Gas Co. calling their attention to the matter of their furnishing fixtures for the domestic science course and offering to make the installations along this line. The matter was referred to the committee on supplies.

The bills of Richard Dowling for $9.80 cartage, H. MacDowell $35.50 for school supplies, Miss Catherine Pickney for writing up specifications, etc., $6.00, Thomas Lovely for repairs to the roofs, etc., $166.79, Mrs. Thomas Kilcommons for cleaning the schools, $28.00, and Frederick Laton for five hundred record cards, $7.24, were read and after being approved by the various committees were ordered paid.

President Davis brought up a matter which had been called to his attention regarding a certain pupil who would probably enter the schools this year. It seemed that the child in question had been ailing in some way that would not permit of her entering or attending school heretofore. Special privileges were asked for as regards the teacher and school to be attended. After a little discussion, Mr. Davis was advised to refer the matter to the attention of the city superintendent with the endorsement of the board and the recommendation that these special privileges be granted.

A report from the chairman of the finance committee showed that there was $592.82 in the treasury of the board at the present time with all bills paid up to and including those submitted. In speaking of probabilities it was brought out that there was $250.00 due from the State from last year's appropriations and the unpaid tuition bill of Sayreville Township would make some sixteen hundred dollars, roughly speaking, to the board's credit.

It developed that the bond of Contractor Gundrum for the erection of the retaining wall along the John street side of the school grounds had not yet been executed notwithstanding the facilities accorded him by a member of the board. Stopping of the work on this wall was spoken of by one of the board as the proper thing to be done until such time as the contractor could see fit to comply with the requirements of the contract. There wasn't much discussion on this point and a motion that the matter of handling the contractor for the improvements at School No. 1 be left entirely in the hands of the chairman of the building and grounds committee to use his own judgment as the necessity might require between meetings of the board was approved.

Another motion empowered the building and grounds committee to go ahead with the grading as planned out some time ago as far as their funds would permit.

The secretary was asked if he had notified all the teachers as to the exact date of the opening of school and replied that he had. It also developed that all the teachers had signified the acceptance of the positions to which they were appointed. This applied both to the newly engaged teachers and the others as well.

The matter of the execution of contracts by those teachers who did not come under the tenure of office act was also discussed and the fact brought out that these contracts were in the hands of the city superintendent awaiting execution as the teachers reported.

By motion the secretary was instructed to communicate to the custodian the action of the board as pertaining to the bill submitted by him at a former meeting.

STRIKERS DISCHARGED.

Last Wednesday the gang of men who were working at the dismantling of the reloaders in what is known as the "stock grounds" in the local P. R. R. yards decided, it is said, that they weren't getting enough money for their work and accordingly struck for a raise. They were called to the office which employed them Thursday morning and given their wages and dismissed. About the same time a fresh gang of men were started doing the work of the strikers and the dismantling now goes merrily on. It is said that some of the men had worked for the concern for several years.

Advertise in The Citizen.

When the Board of Education convened at their special meeting Friday evening the first business taken up was that of a bill of the present city treasurer for $360.00. A letter accompanying the bill stated that this amount was for services as custodian of school moneys from July 4, 1912, to July 4, 1914. This would make the monthly stipend $15.00 per month since the law referred to became effective. In the discussion that arose upon the bill Mr. Davis stated that Mr. Perrine had spoken to him about this same matter, claiming that the law entitled him to compensation for his services. Mr. Davis said that he had told Mr. Perrine that the board had no funds with which to pay any bills for back pay such as this and suggested that he take the matter up with a view to securing pay for future services only. Mr. Grace thought that it was absurd to contemplate the payment of this bill as the board had not hired him and he was already getting well paid for his services as city treasurer. The legality of the bill was discussed and eventually the school laws were produced and the section referred to by Mr. Perrine in his letter was read. From this one would deduce that the board had a choice of either the city collector or the treasurer and could appoint either of these officials. In the event of no appointment the city treasurer was the one designated by law to act as the custodian. Although the law says that the official acting in this capacity "shall" receive extra compensation for his services, it does not specify any certain amount. This is left entirely to the Board of Education to determine. Although the bill didn't seem to meet with much favor it was finally referred to the finance committee for investigation into its merits and report at the next meeting.

The next business taken up was the opening of the bids for the erection of fire escapes on School No. 1. Here, too, the board ran into the question of finances. The original appropriation for the erection of these fire escapes was eight hundred dollars. The bids submitted were as follows: H. W. Schrimpf, of Perth Amboy, $1,000.00; Vulcan Rail & Construction Company, of Brooklyn, $840. The first bid did not include the cutting down of any windows or doors to furnish adequate doorways. The engineer who was present stated that this would cost in the neighborhood of $125.00 for this carpenter and such other incidental work entailed. The second bid did not include any of the concrete foundations for posts, etc., neither did it include the painting of the escapes. The latter bid was finally accepted subject to approval of the plans and specifications by the State Board of Education. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that the erection of these escapes were of sufficient importance to justify the board in exceeding the amount of their appropriation as much as necessary. The deficit can then be made up in next year's budget.

Engineer McMichael asked whether the board was willing for the contractor to continue using gravel in the foundations for the retaining wall at School No. 1, instead of trap rock. He stated that the contractor maintained that it would cause a great deal of delay if trap rock were insisted upon as it was difficult to secure. After some little discussion of the matter the engineer was informed that it was the wish of the board that trap rock be used. This is what was specified in the contract and they wanted the contract lived up to strictly. The clerk was instructed to so notify the contractor. It also developed that the contractor had not filed his bond as per the contract and the clerk was also instructed to notify the contractor to comply in this respect immediately. The board did not take much stock in the delay issue as regarding the procurement of trap rock.

The question as to whether or not Sayreville Township had paid their tuition bill of some eight hundred dollars was brought up by Mr. Grace and it developed that this bill had not yet been cancelled. Upon motion, the secretary was instructed to notify them to pay up at once.

The following bills were read and ordered paid: V. Newell James, for repairs to the heating system, $52.47 and $50.75; Henry Ely, for carpenter work in connection with the changes in the typewriting and stock rooms, etc., $38.75; Edward McDonough, for carting cinders, 50 loads, $30.00; C. I. Bergen for janitors' supplies, $44.32; William T. Hammell, for painting as per contract, $80.00, extra work entailed, $13.75; William E. Slover, janitor's supplies, $2.10; Charles Timmins, hardware, $3.26; New York Telephone Company, service, $3.60; A. C. Parisen, chemicals, $1.70; Remington Typewriter Co., repairing machines, $10.73; South Amboy Post Office, stationery, $16.24; South Amboy Printing Co., advertising, 50c.

passed some time ago. All these bills were paid and Mr. Grace's motion carried.

The board then went into executive session to consider a personal matter, after which adjournment was taken until the regular meeting.

several Saturday afternoons volunteers have been clearing up the grounds working diligently with grubbing hoes, scythes, etc. Though much has been accomplished and the grounds have already been resorted to daily by increasing numbers, the plans are for a fully equipped playground and beautiful park wholly free to the public. To secure funds for this purpose a Harvest Home has been planned for Wednesday, September 2d. As the community in the neighborhood of the park is small, though growing steadily in numbers, they should be encouraged by contributions of money and materials for this object.

The General Committee consists of Charles W. Britton, Chairman; Charles A. Blake, Secretary; Frank E. Miller, Treasurer; Rev. and Mrs. Henry Hale Gifford; Ray Davis; William E. Barlow, Miss Elizabeth Bauer, Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Britton. The usual features of a Harvest Home will be provided.

MARY BARKALOW.

Mrs. Mary Barkalow departed this life at the home of her son-in-law, William Darlymple, Bordentown avenue, early Tuesday morning at the age of 67 years. She had been ill some time.

The funeral was held from her late residence at 2.30 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, the Rev. C. S. Lewis, rector of Christ Church, officiating at the service. Interment was made in Christ Church cemetery. Stillwell & Mason were funeral directors.

TWO KINDS OF SERVICE

By John F. Martin

The service the undertaker renders is a service which should not be estimated in dollars and cents. The first consideration of the funeral director is, of course, the care of the one who has passed from the earthly life. His next, but not less important, is the care of those who are left to mourn the death of their loved one.

Probably no profession requires so many different qualifications as that of the mortician. And how little thought and consideration do we give to the various details with which the undertaker is confronted! Some undertakers are, by nature and training, competent to exercise these important functions, and many fall in their duties because that true ideal, inseparable from the funeral director, is wanting.

THE MARTIN SERVICE enables all persons, of all creeds, to properly insure against those errors which are common to the average man engaged in the business or profession of caring for the human dead.

THE MARTIN SERVICE never overlooks any detail of the funeral. Its equipment throughout is the very best obtainable, and in professional skill it has reached the highest point in the scale of perfection.

The cost of THE MARTIN SERVICE is, in many cases, less than that of the inferior and unprofessional service rendered by many undertakers.

WEEKLY LETTER TO FARMERS.

(By F. R. Stevens, Agriculturist, Lehigh Valley Railroad.)

Several inquiries have reached me lately regarding the control of woodchucks. It seems they have been very harmful this year. They have been particularly harmful to such crops as beans, and as is often the case, horses have broken their legs and machines have been broken by driving into the holes. I have noticed that in addition to these two objections that where the farmer has located a woodchuck hole, and drives a cut in the meadow or grain field, it always leaves a ragged spot of uncut hay or grain which spoils the looks of the field.

It has been agreed that these woodchucks should be killed off but from the number in sight this year it is evident that very little progress has been made in this direction. For those who have the time and the sporting instinct they serve as a very good mark, but they will probably not be eradicated or materially reduced in this way.

It is now an excellent time of the year to begin a campaign against them. There are no suckling young to suffer in case the mother woodchuck is killed, and if killed before fall plowing, most of the holes can be plowed under and the field leveled up for spring. The most effective way is with the use of carbon bisulphide or a cruder form of the same material known as fuma. Take three ounces of this, pour it on a rag, excelsior, moss or anything that will absorb it, put it well down in the hole and fill in the outlets with sods or dirt so that the gases cannot escape and simply leave it in this way.

Satisfactory results come from pouring a pint of light gasoline down the hole and blocking all holes, as above. Others report satisfactory results by burning sulphur and fanning the fumes into the hole until they show at the other end in case there is one, or until the hole seems to be filled. All of these are effective, the first perhaps being the surest way, and there is no great danger attached to any of them. The carbon bisulphide is a poison and care should be taken not to breathe the fumes. The work is not much and the results certainly make it worth while.

WAR MAY STOP IMPORTS

OF FLINT PEBBLES

Used in Pottery Manufacture—Supply Obtainable in United States.

In 1913 nearly $320,000 worth of flint pebbles were imported into the United States, mainly from Denmark and France. In these countries the flint occurs as irregular nodules in the chalk cliffs that border certain parts of the coast, and under the impact of the waves on the shore the hard flint becomes freed from its relatively soft chalk matrix and is gathered in great quantities from the beaches for shipment to all parts of the world. At their destination the more irregular nodules are calcined and ground to a fine powder for use in pottery manufacture, but those that have been well rounded by the waves are reserved for use in tube mills, their hardness and chemical inertness making them a desirable grinding agent.

The United States Geological Survey reports that the cutting off of the imports of flint pebbles should work no material hardship to the pottery industry, only in subordinate amounts compared with the crystalline quartz largely quarried in Connecticut, New York, and Maryland, and as the supply of the quartz is far in excess of the present demands. A cutting off of the supply of rounded flint pebbles suitable for tube-mill use would, it is probable, entail some inconvenience, for ready-rounded flints are not known to occur in this country. Recourse might be had to artificial rounding of domestic flints, which are known to occur in abundance in the region near Austin, Tex., where they weather out of beds of Cretaceous chalk, or to the artificial rounding of white vitreous quartzites, which are known to occur at a few places in this country. Where a small amount of iron as an impurity would not be detrimental in the ground product, use might be made of rounded quartz pebbles such as occur in the valleys of many rivers that drain regions of crystalline rock—for example, the Potomac near Washington.

SOME GAMES TO-DAY.

If the schedule is carried out in the South Shore Industrial League this week there will be a few games in the different towns covered by the teams. The local attraction will be a game on Star Field between the Herman-Aukam Co., of South River, and the local Y. M. C. A. Although the local team has been winning continuously since the formation of the league early in the season and the South River aggregation losing nearly as continuously the latter have been allowed to "pad" their lineup. As a consequence of this privilege they have been sort of experimenting more or less for some time past and they might spring a surprise of some kind—and then again they might not.

At the Sayre & Fisher diamond in Sayreville the local Terra Cotta Co.'s team and the Smokeless Powder boys from Parlin are scheduled to come to blows. Just who the new pitcher in place of Molly will be is hardly definitely settled. It will doubtless be hard to find one to fill the shoes of this player.

It is up at South River that the toughest problem will have to be solved from indications of the past. Here the Middlesex Embroidery Co. and the Sayre & Fisher combined will come together. The last mentioned team played hard all summer up to a short time ago when they struck a slump, the culmination of which was defeat at the hands of the local Terra Cotta boys.

The schedule is pretty long and will necessitate the teams playing well over into month of October in order to play the games scheduled. None of the managers relish the idea of playing double headers so it appears to be unlikely that any time will be saved in that manner.

The league in itself started off with a very favorable outlook for the future but of late things have been going against it in numerous ways. The lack of patronage is said to be one of the contributing causes of the difficulties and the trouble the players are having in arranging to be on hand for the games is probably another. There have been some slight indications that a spirit of amity is sadly lacking between some of the teams and with the general lack of interest that is being taken in baseball all over the country the sliding for this league is fast becoming rough indeed. It is rather feared by many that affairs are rapidly drifting toward the rocks.

Some time ago the Herman-Aukam aggregation was just on the point of withdrawing from the league on account of their failure to get enough players that would be eligible under the rules. They were only persuaded to stick in with the rest of the bunch by changing the rules so that they could have outside players to fill in and strengthen their lineup. Now with the Terra Cotta's strongest pitcher out of the lineup permanently it is feared that this team will give up the ghost.

RESULTS OF SATURDAY'S GAMES.

The results of the games in the South Shore Industrial League last Saturday were as follows:

At South Amboy—Middlesex Embroidery, 13; S. A. Terra Cotta Co., 8.

At South River—I. S. P. & C. Co., 11; Herman-Aukam Co., 3.

Pierston pitched for the Smokeless lads at South River and for a youngster did very effective work. He was in fine form and held his opponents in hand very easily. His team mates were very busy with the stick and did some pretty heavy hitting against the Herman-Aukam boys.

At Star Field the game was much the same. Molly pitched a good game for the locals but his team went all to the bad and the result was a farce. The Middlesex pitcher, Heck, was strong in every way and kept the hits few and far scattered. This game was Molly's last game as he left the next morning to take up duties in connection with a position in the Treasury in Washington. In his going we lose one very popular player and a prominent figure in local athletics. He was one of those most instrumental in the formation of the first basketball team and the introduction of that game into this city a few years ago. From the time of its inception until a winter ago Molly was one of the local stars of this game. He served an enlistment in the Marine Corps and there played and learned the game. He also played with the Corps' baseball team while he was stationed in Cuba and when he returned to this city he had little trouble in breaking into the game where he speedily became recognized as a heavy hitter. He has played with the old Athletics and later with the Terra Cotta team of the South Shore League for whom he was a fortress both as a pitcher and as a hitter. Some time ago he took and successfully passed a civil service examination and later was appointed to the position he will henceforth fill.

TENNIS MATCH ON

P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. COURT

The Tennis Association of the local Y. M. C. A. vindicated itself last Saturday afternoon on the local courts. Several times in succession this association has been defeated at the hands of outsiders, but they stuck it out and now have the honor of being victors of a match between the Parlin Tennis Club and themselves. Last Saturday they swept everything before them and took the match in four straight games. The match consisted of a double set and three singles. Messrs. Grace and Locker played partners in the doubles and made a very efficient combination. In the double the Parlin players did not play as strong as they have been playing and Locker and Grace had little difficulty in defeating them. The Parlin players in the double set were Chapman and Heinz. In the first set Grace and Locker came out with the score 6 to 2 in their favor, the respective scores being, 5-3; 6-3; 5-3; 5-3; 4-1; 4-3; 4-0. In the second set the same players came out again on the long end of a seven to five score. Some of the games in this set were very hard fought. The respective scores were, 4-3; 4-2; 4-1; 4-2; 4-2; 4-2; 9-7; 4-2; 4-1; 4-1; 4-1; 4-2. In the first set the local players won the first, second, third, fourth, sixth, and eighth games and in the second set the locals won the second, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, eleventh and twelfth games.

In the singles Messrs. Barr and Hitt played against each other. Mr. Barr played a good game all the way through but it was also a very hard game as his opponent was on the job every minute. Mr. Barr won the first set six to three and the second six to two. The second set scores were, 4-2; 4-0; 4-2; 4-1; 6-4; 4-0; 4-2; 4-2. Hitt won the third and seventh games only. In the first set the scores were, 4-1; 4-1; 4-2; 4-1; 5-3; 4-1; 4-1; 4-1. Hitt won the fourth, seventh and eighth only. Messrs. Crane and Flaherty were opponents in one of the remaining set of singles. Here Crane had the advantage of his opponent all through the game. He, apparently, played very easy. The local lad won in two sets, the scores of which were six to two and six to four. Stultz and Chapman were the opposing players in the remaining set of singles and here too the story was much the same. These two players put up a hard game but that "underhand cut that Stultz had was too much for Mr. Chapman. The scores in this single were six to three and six to three.

These tennis matches are becoming quite popular in and about surrounding vicinity and localists are also fast finding entertainment in watching the fast work of the players. The game may look very easy but its just as hard a game to play well as any of the other athletic sports, and it has its own peculiarities that are not found in everyone who aspires to be a player. In verification of this statement you are most cordially invited to come down to the courts any afternoon and see for yourself. Then again there will be another out and out match played again next Saturday with a fast team. Just who this team will be had not been decided at the time this article was written.

THE FIELD WAS LONESOME.

Last Saturday afternoon the local Y. M. C. A. South Shore Industrial League team was scheduled to travel up to Sayreville to meet the Sayre & Fisher team of that place. Well, the locals went up there all right and then found no one to receive them. They camped on the ball grounds for quite a spell, but as they didn't even spot a native from whom they might have gleaned some crumbs of information they concluded to come back to a live burg. Eventually they arrived home again without having played any game, but otherwise none the worse for their adventure.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

As there have been no games in the South Shore Industrial League for some time the standing of the teams is again making its appearance after a considerably lengthy absence. This time it will be noticed that the Middlesex Embroidery Company have crawled a little closer to the lead so far as per centage goes and the Smokeless Powder people also have moved up a little by reason of their win last Saturday. The Sayre & Fisher and the local Y. M. C. A. standing is still stationary on account of their not playing while the Terra Cotta team and that of the Herman-Aukam Company have dropped back a few points. What is one's gain is another's loss, seems to be the way everything goes.

The standing of the teams at present is as follows:

	W.	L.	P. C.
Y. M. C. A.	9	0	1.000
Middlesex Embroidery Co.	9	4	.692
I. S. P. & C. Co.	6	6	.500
Sayre & Fisher Co.	5	7	.416
S. A. Terra Cotta Co.	2	8	.200
Herman-Aukam Co.	2	9	.181

IT IS SAID THERE IS

ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE

This was the story the bug told me as he sat on a log of Wood by the Shore of the Lake, near the Bush, eating a Cobb which he got from me.

"My name is Henry Alexander Johnson, and I came from Maranville O'Day ago. I find it Hartzell to stick to a job. I have been a Baker of Graham bread, a Boucher, and many a Vioz have I killed—a Coleman, a Tinker and a Turner. I sold Brown and Lavender Cravaths, Piez, Pleh and—Demmitt, I have even been a Butler in Morgan's House! He caught me and Marlon, the Cook, at his Stock of Wilson one Knight when he came home from the Hall, and Chase(d) us both away. I Grant I was Zwilling to go, all right, but he gave us a raw Deal. We didn't hear the Bell Ring.

"Now I am Dooin anything I can Land work at. I was out about a Milan a half in the fields one day and was getting along knesely pick-Shodgrass when—Good Lord!—a heavy Schauer came up! It certainly did Dauss me before I had time to Dodge behind the Stack of Wheat, which I had to Mowe myself. I found a Seaton the floor there. That rain ought to make me Groh. I quit that Kraft and went to Hamilton, not being a very strong Walker, I took a Carr, and after Crossin many a street, finally reached home, where I found my old Graney ill with the Pipp and unable to sell her Wares. I Getz out my Hyatt, puts it on and goes out to get medicine. I out Whitte the druggist as a Speaker, all right, which was one of my chief Ames."—Exchange.

SPORTING NOTES.

Wonder if the Powers-That-Be in the South Shore Industrial League will award that Y. M. C. A.-S. & F. game last Saturday to the locals as gracefully as they have some others.

If the youngsters keep on practicing on Broadway they ought to be fairly well acquainted with the course by the time that next Old Home Day rolls around and they will then be able to get away in good shape regardless of the crowd.

There were only two games played in the South Shore League last week. Getting back into action rather slow after their long rest.

Britain's Civil Service.

Life in a civil service office is a very drab affair today. But sixty years ago it appears to have had its compensations. Sir Algernon West, who entered the admiralty in 1851, recalls, in his "Reminiscences," the figure of an official "always dressed in a black and snuffy suit." It was the chief clerk. This gentleman "occasionally came to the office in the morning dressed in a great frilled shirt front and evening clothes and announced that, as he was going to dine out that evening, he should not be at the office the next day. Frederick Locker, who always wore kid gloves in the office for fear he would dirty his hands with ink . . . was evidently not impressed with the dignity of the man or the office, for on my asking him what his duties were he said, 'All I know is, that whenever I want a clean towel or a piece of fresh soap, I always ring the bell and send for the chief clerk!'"—London Citizen.

An Unfortunate Phrase.

"Franz der Kaiser." Napoleon's father-in-law, who was a rather weak and silly ruler, had nevertheless a thoroughgoing belief in absolutism and in the divine right to rule of even the most incompetent of the Hapsburgs. His abilities, such as they were, were best displayed in catechisms that he wrote and printed for the use of his humbler subjects and in peevish criticisms of those of superior intelligence.

According to the author of a recent life of Archduchess Maria Louisa of Austria entitled "An Imperial Victim," the emperor once raged against his doctor for remarking that he had "a good constitution."

"Never let me hear that word again!" he said. "Say robust health if you like. There is no such thing as a good constitution."

The frankness with which a seven-teen-year-old girl says she's an old maid is only exceeded by the frankness with which she denies it ten years later.

SAFETY FIRST,

SAFETY ALWAYS.

Sunday is preeminently Death Day for automobilists. Long is the register on each Monday of accidents, of injuries inflicted and sustained, far, far too many of them on account of carelessness and want of due precaution and sound judgment on the part of the drivers. Every owner and every chauffeur should know by heart the life saving recommendations prescribed and circulated by the National Council for Industrial Safety.

"Safety First, Safety Always, Auto Drivers.

- "I. Be considerate.
- "II. Go slow: 1. Passing children; 2. Passing vehicles; 3. Approaching crossings; 4. Turning corners.
- "III. Stop: 1. At railroad crossings; 2. Behind standing street cars.
- "IV. Use chains on slippery pavements.
- "V. When in doubt—go slow or stop."

By what magnification of type, by what relief of raised enamelled letters, by what brilliance of colors can these rules be impressed upon the mind of a multitude of devil-wagoneers? People that mean well, but are too ready to take chances. If they won't spare their own lives they might at least refrain from taking chances with those of other persons.

—N. Y. Sun.

Shakespeare's Birth.

The exact date of Shakespeare's birth is not known, and the accepted date of April 23 is based on circumstantial evidence. There is record evidence that he was baptized on April 26, 1564, but no record evidence of the date of his birth. He died April 23, 1616, and the inscription upon his monument is evidence that he had already begun his fifty-third year, but does not give any birth date. From these data and other such information as they could obtain, antiquaries in the eighteenth century, 100 years after his death, fixed the date of his birth as April 23, 1564, three days before his baptism. Though not proved beyond doubt, that date is universally accepted.—Philadelphia Press.

Infection and Insect Bites Dangerous.

Mosquitoes, flies and other insects, which breed quickly in garbage pails, ponds of stagnant water, barns, musty places, etc., are carriers of disease. Every time they bite you, they inject poison into your system from which some dread disease may result. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. It is antiseptic and a few drops will neutralize the infection caused by insect bites or rusty nails. Sloan's Liniment disinfects Cuts, Bruises and Sores. You cannot afford to be without it in your home. Money back if not satisfied. Only 25c. at your Druggist.

M. P. CHURCH NOTES

The closing weeks of vacation time seems to have told on the Thursday evening service last week, as a number of usual attendants were absent, and yet a fair number present to enjoy the service, which was of a high spiritual order. Mr. Fulton gave a fine description of the Oratorio of Elijah at Ocean Grove, followed by the pastor with the Bible story of Elijah.

These Thursday evening services are rich in deep spiritual things. All are invited.

Services last Sunday were all nicely attended for this season of the year and yet several away, because of sickness, vacation, etc. The pastor preached last Sunday morning on the purpose of the Sabbath based on St. Marks' Gospel 2, 27: "The Sabbath was made for Man and not Man for Sabbath," showing the importance of remembering the Sabbath Day and besides remembering it to keep it holy. It was appropriate for this season of the year, especially.

In the absence of the Junior superintendent the pastor took charge of the meeting and spoke to the little ones on the topic, "How Saloons Ruin Men," and they seemed to know about it at least from observation.

The Sunday School was not up to its usual mark last Sunday and yet the superintendent, teachers and others made it real interesting for three score or so present. Ten teachers present out of 13, the others absent on account of sickness. This is a good showing for the school.

One of the best Senior C. E. services held for a long time took place last Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Many were the remarks on the topic, "Lowly Service." It was a pleasure and very edifying to hear the C. E. speak on the topic. Mr. Clayton was leader.

The topic next Sunday evening is, "Why and how to abolish War." This is a timely topic at present. Come and take part. The C. E. would be glad to have the older members of the church attend this service and give their views. Mr. Clark leader.

The Senior C. E. service was of such importance and length that we were obliged to omit the usual song service. This does not often occur.

The evening congregation was a third larger than the morning, the pastor preaching on Titus 2, 12: "We should live soberly, Righteously and Godly in this present World," showing that this is the only kind of a life that meets with the approval of God. In the midst of so much lax living the text was very appropriate.

Quite a few visitors were present and worshipped with us.

The floral decorations at the church Sunday were beautiful and very well admired.

It was suggested in the Sunday School that the names of the sick be announced so that the Sunshine Committee can visit them.

The Ushers are at work this week beautifying the interior of the basement of the church.

Rev. Dr. Sinkinson, president of the Eastern Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, was a visitor to the South Amboy M. P. parsonage this week.

The annual assessment cards for conference collections have been sent to the members of the church. It is only $1.11 per member. It is to be hoped that the amount or as much as possible be returned to the pastor for the year close the September. If any have been sent the pastor will be glad to receive them. Let us do the best we can.

Summer Coughs are Dangerous. Mer colds are dangerous. They are low vitality and often lead to Throat and Lung Troubles, Consumption. MODERN JERUSALEM.

Very Different From the Ancient City In Its Oriental Setting.

Probably no modern city is more disappointing to the expectant traveler than is Jerusalem. We think of it in its ancient glory. We picture to our imagination the magnificent temple with its golden roof and the other great buildings of the hill of Zion. We read of its being the rendezvous in passover times of a million pilgrims, and we naturally think of it as an enormous city, comparable to London or New York of the present day. We think of it in its oriental setting of 2,000 years ago, but as we approach in a modern railway train and climb the steep ascent which leads to the city behind an American engine our illusion disappears.

At last the guard calls out "Jerusalem!" and we disembark a mile from the city, get into a rickety modern hack, which has evidently done duty in some more civilized community, and are bounced over the rough roads and the intolerable cobblestones within the gates, until at last we are landed at our modern hotel, so different from the khan of ancient times.

And here our disillusion has only begun. The city of which we read as accommodating 1,000,000 guests on the feast day could hardly today entertain 1,000 strangers within its walls, and since a multitude of pilgrims come every year from Russia and Italy and France and Germany, these nations have erected great hotels outside the walls for the accommodation of pilgrims.

But these, fine and even magnificent as they are, take us not back to the Jerusalem of 2,000 years ago, but tell us only of the modern city, where half a dozen great nations are building these hotels and hospitals in order to gain political and commercial advantage and patiently awaiting the time when they can oust from its possession the Turk who has so long held sway within the sacred city.—Christian Herald.

PAWNSHOP RUNNERS.

A Curious Feminine Profession That Exists Only In London.

A police court case has called attention to the existence in London of a vocation which is not known to exist anywhere else in the world. It is that of pawnshop runner, a profession given over entirely to women who, in the poorer districts of London, undertake for a small compensation to carry the goods of their necessitous but sensitive neighbors to the pawnshops. Most of this work of pawning is done for women who are ashamed to be seen entering a pawnshop, but some of it is done for other women who are too busy to attend to the formality.

In certain districts these pawnshop runners are known as "runners," and they live on this work, charging from 1 to 2 cents for each journey, according to the means of their clients. In one of the meanest streets of the east end, which has a pawnshop at either end, two women ply a busy trade as pawnshop runners.

One of these women is a widow known and trusted in this work, and she has built up a big connection in the neighborhood. She uses a perambulator and is frequently seen passing along the street with a load of miscellaneous articles destined for the hungry maw of the pawnshop. Monday morning is her busy day, as hundreds of ill paid casual laborers living in the district depend many times for their week's maintenance upon pawning something that day.—London Cor. Philadelphia Press.

Dance Madness Nothing New.

The polka was comparatively new when Trollope wrote some of his novels. In "The Three Clerks" a young heiress speaks of a certain Frenchman as "the most delicious polkist you ever met. He has got a new back step that will amaze you." There was said to be in practice "every variation of the waltz and polka that the ingenuity of the dancing professors of the age has been able to produce."—Detroit Free Press.

Where the Shoe Pinched.

The Prima Donna (after the first act)—I won't go on again unless that box party makes less noise! I nearly had hysterics! The Manager (in surprise)—I didn't hear any noise. The Prima Donna—You didn't? Why, then, did you encourage that upstart of a contralto four times.—Puck.

On His Dignity.

"My dear Reginald, now that you have left college you must really begin at once looking for some sort of employment."

"But don't you think, mother, it would be more dignified to wait till the offers begin coming in?"—Life.

The Retort Courteous.

Professor Bates was quizzing a student named Pond, who seemed to know nothing of the subject in hand. "Are there no fish in this pond this morning?" he exclaimed at length. "Yes, professor," replied the student, "but the Bates no good."

He Admitted It.

"This is a fine time of the night to be coming home." "You can't start an argument with me that way, my dear. I agree with you."—Detroit Free Press.

Great Expression.

"They tell me, Grinly, that your daughter sings with great expression." "Greatest expression you ever saw. Her own mother can't recognize her face when she's singing."

SOME JOTTINGS COLLECTED

BY OUR REPORTER WHILE GUNNING ABOUT THE CITY.

Did you ever see a pair of russet shoes done over to make 'em white?

Who is the big, young man who was teasing the small child on Broadway last Sunday afternoon? Was it funny, Bill?

"Just one blamed thing after another breaks," is doubtless the opinion of the owner of a certain motorcycle about town.

That there is a certain man in this town that would make a most attractive sky-line if he were to lie down flat on his back.

Who are the young couple that fell asleep last Sunday evening while courting and didn't wake up until nearly two o'clock?

Wonder what became of the prizes to be awarded to the person coming the furthest and entertaining the most people on Old Home Day?

A certain brakeman on a railroad that maintains a station here in town beating it up Church Street recently with a quart of ice cream (?) in a can.

After chasing a trolley car three blocks it's hard luck to have it go right on heartlessly and leave one all out of breath in the middle of the street.

Who is the young man who went crabbing recently and after promising several of his friends a nice mess of crabs caught and brought back—two lone crabs?

The young fellow that is already beginning training for the bicycle race on next Old Home Day by taking early morning rides to such nearby towns as Keyport, Keansburg, etc.

A bird flew into the store of one of our local merchants, one day this week, and he captured it and placed it in a cage. On speaking of his prize to another merchant, he inquired if it meant any omen to have a bird fly in his store. The reply was, "Yes, $20 fine by the Game Warden." The birdman then rushed to his store and liberated the bird. It was only a common English sparrow.

A local aspirant for the assembly went on the Democratic excursion to Coney Island, and when in Luna Park, his eagle eye spied a handkerchief on the floor enclosing a fat pocketbook. Thought of necessary campaign funds ran through his brain, and quick as a flash he made a dive for that pocketbook, but did not pick it up as it was nailed to the spot. His companions had a hearty laugh at his expense, and it is doubtful now if the assembly aspirant would attempt to pick up the "real goods" if he came across such.

A Pious Advertisement.

The following advertisement was printed in the Pennsylvania Gazette for June 23, 1787. The author of this little masterpiece is supposed to be no other than Franklin himself. "D. F." then, stands for Deborah Franklin: "Taken out of a pew in the church some months since a Common Prayer Book bound in red, gilt and lettered D. F. on each cover. The person who took it is advised to open it and read the eighth commandment and afterward return it into the same pew again, upon which no further notice will be taken."

Drowned Bodies.

No human body after drowning can remain sunk longer than ninety or ninety-six hours. Although all air has been expelled from the lungs by the inhaled water, the drowned body will be floated by the gases which begin to form in any dead body immediately after dissolution.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Rainbow Kiss.

Bacon—I gave my wife a rainbow kiss a few minutes before I left home this morning. Egbert—What in the world is a rainbow kiss? "One that follows a storm."—Yonkers Statesman.

The Reason.

"What are all these men doing here?" asked the visitor to the jail. "Most of them," answered the guiding official, "are doing time for doing others."—Exchange.

Hope, like the glimmering taper's light, adorns and cheers the way.—Goldsmith.

EATS ITS OWN TAIL

Queer Feast of the Tadpole Before It Becomes a Frog.

EVOLUTION OF A POLLYWOG.

Changes That Mark the Transition of This Curious Creature From an Aquatic to an Air Breathing Animal. How It Differs From the Toad.

There is no more interesting creature on earth than a pollywog, or tadpole, for it is a fish in the process of transformation into a land animal. The whole process can be watched if you put a few pollywogs in a milk bottle or jar full of water with some water plants.

In any of the ponds in the parks in the cities or in the pools in the suburbs in the proper season frog spawn can be found. It floats on the water like masses of sago pudding. A handful of this will furnish entertainment for several weeks and will at the same time give a lesson in evolution.

The spawn that floats on the ponds is the eggs of frogs. They lay it in the first warm days of spring, spreading it where the rays of the sun will warm it. Each egg contains a yolk, which is the food of the living germ within, and is coated with black, probably to attract as much heat as possible and at the same time to protect the germ from the penetrating ultra violet rays of the light, which would destroy it. The black yolk is in the center of a mass of transparent jelly, which is there as a protective covering.

If a small mass of spawn be placed in a jar of water and watched daily with an ordinary magnifying glass the black yolk of each egg will presently be seen to assume a sausage-like shape. Gradually this takes the form of a tiny pollywog, which soon begins to wriggle. After a few days these little bodies wriggle out through the transparent jelly and attach themselves to bits of green sticks or weeds, which should be placed in the jar with them.

For some time they remain attached to such supports by a sucker, waiting for the opening of the mouth. As yet there are no visible eyes, but small stumps on each side of the head will be noticed. These are the gills. The whole skin if examined with a lens will be found to be covered with a sort of animated velvet pile, for its component threads are in constant motion, thereby creating a stream of fresh water to carry on the work of breathing. And a little later these movements will be strong enough to bear the body slowly along, so that locomotion at this stage is like that of the lowliest of living creatures, the protozoa.

When the mouth appears the inside of the great fleshy lips and the jaws will be found to be armed with rows of horny teeth numbering many hundreds. The gills will also have grown considerably. These, however, soon give place to internal gills, and the water taken at the mouth passes out again by a small funnel on the right side of the head. This fishlike stage disappears with the appearance of the forelegs.

The hind legs next appear, and as these develop the mouth is closed for alterations. No food can be taken, and during this enforced fast the tadpole supports life by consuming its tail! This is slowly digested by a process not yet clearly understood. By the time this strange feast has ended the new mouth and the lungs have appeared—the tadpole has become a frog and leaves the water for the land. As a tadpole it fed by rasping off vegetable and animal matter with its teeth; as a frog it feeds by jerking food into its capacious mouth by the flick of a very sticky tongue.

Newts and toads in their pollywog stage can scarcely be told from frogs, but newts remain water animals, wearing tails all their life. Some of them retain their gills also, but most of them develop lungs and have to come to the surface to breathe. There are few species which have neither gills nor lungs and therefore do not breathe at all, their blood being oxidized by the skin alone.

Adult frogs spend most of their time in the water, but they must come to the surface to breathe. Toads once they leave the water do not return to it.—New York World.

Insurance and Assurance.

What is the difference between insurance and assurance? An expert explained it. Fire, shipwreck, accident, burglary, mumps or any disease are eventualities, and you can consequently insure against them. But death is a certainty against which no company will insure you. But you secure the assurance that a definite sum of money will be paid on its occurrence.—London Chronicle.

Winning Ways.

"What a pathetic face that young fellow has! His eyes seem so reproachful."

"Yes, in the lunchroom where he worked he pulled in more tips than all the other waiters combined."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Practical Proof.

"Yes, my son, I want you to make yourself ambidextrous. I want you to be able to use one hand just as skillfully as you do the other." "That's me, dad. I can lick any boy in my class with either hand."—New York World.

In all God's creation there is no place appointed for the idle man.—Gladstone.

MILK AS A FOOD.
It Has More Dry Matter and Nutrition Than Some Solids.
The food value of milk, though a hackneyed topic, is worth a moment's consideration, writes D. S. Burch in Farm and Fireside. Though it is a liquid, milk contains more dry matter than some solids. Skeptics can surprise themselves some dull day by putting a pan of milk in the inner part of a double boiler, evaporating it and observing the dry matter it contains. The figures that follow are interesting, too, from a food basis:

Foods.	Per cent dry matter.	Units of energy.
Milk	12.5	310
Molasses	11.9	305
Oysters	11.9	235
Sprach	7.7	95
Tomatoes	5.7	100

Notice that milk contains more food solids and units of energy than any article in the list. Milk also is more nourishing than tea, coffee or the common soups as ordinarily made.

It also has this advantage, that practically all of its solid matter is digested. It really contains no waste. A quart of milk weighs about 2.1 pounds, which makes milk almost always cost less than 5 cents a pound, the cheapest of all common foods except flour and grain products, cheap cuts of meats and starchy vegetables such as potatoes. All these products require preparation and cooking, which add to all their original cost and should be considered in preparing foods.

The method for selecting the best grade of milk from the kinds available is a question which the consumer must help himself to answer. The best general rule is to observe the keeping quality of the milk. If kept in a clean place at a temperature of 60 degrees F. or less, good milk will remain sweet twenty-four hours after delivery.

SUGAR 40 CENTS A POUND.

During the time that high prices were in vogue I took a walk one evening and passing a stoop upon which there was a lady patron of the store, who was of a very genial disposition and enjoyed jolly, she hailed me and said, "Mr. Meinzer, have you attended to all the duties incumbent on you before leaving the store?" I replied that I could not answer her question, as I did not know what duties she had reference to at that particular time. "Well," she said, "have you watered the whisky? Have you sanded the sugar?" and so on. Now the remark sounding the sugar was not all a joke. Sugar sold at the stores at that time was very dark, permeated much with water and contained grit; this because sugar refining was in such a crude state, and always was high priced to what it is now. While sugar was forty cents a pound, whisky was from ten to fifteen c a quart. Have you tried a bot Mazola? The best domestic of offered for culinary purposes, why not? To be had at the on' on the block on Broadway, George street and Bordenue. L. F. M.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1914.

THE COUNTY CLERK.

A novel and appreciated method of campaigning has been adopted by B. M. Gannon, County Clerk, and Democratic candidate for re-election. He has issued a balance sheet showing clearly and concisely the financial standing of his office during his incumbency.

It shows the receipts, expenditures, assets and liabilities in so comprehensive a fashion as to be readily understood by everyone. Two things are manifest from Mr. Gannon's statement, first, that under his regime the office of County Clerk, instead of being a drain upon the financial resources of the county as in times past, has become and is a fruitful source of revenue, and secondly that the present incumbent is sensible to the fact that he is the servant of and responsible to the electorate that placed him in the office. To that electorate he has "rendered an account of his stewardship,"—just as a manager of a large industrial enterprise would submit his financial statement of the business.

A statement such as Mr. Gannon presents to the taxpayers of Middlesex County would bring to the manager of any industry commendations and approval from the stockholders whom he would represent.

It has long been argued that public offices should be administered after the approved methods of modern private business. The present County Clerk has applied those methods to his office; it remains for those for whom he acted, the voters of the county, to complete the transformation of the office from political to businesslike principles, and place their unstinted approval on good work—well done.

If efficient, courteous and conscientious public service is to receive the reward it merits, the election of 1914 will effect no change in the personnel or conduct of the office of the Clerk of Middlesex County.

"Energetic" and "Experienced"

Congressman Thomas J. Scully is essentially practical and versatile. He has frequently displayed an aptitude for choosing expressive terms that were well suited to the particular feature of his claim for support in his campaigns.

The two words placed at the top of his lithographs, "Energetic" and "Experienced" are applicable and expressive. They illustrate two very good features in the quality of his service. What one word could better index his entire character than the word "Energetic"? This characteristic is evidenced in his very features, even while they are in repose. His clear, the grasp of his hand, the full clear tones of his voice—his every movement betray the boundless energy of his physical composition.

Dead formality has no place either in his physical or his mental makeup. Life, business, or pleasure are very real things with him. He is earnest in his friendships, and always reliable and obliging when an opportunity offers to do a friend or a citizen a service. He has made his own business a success by energy, industry, and a faithful adherence to those principles that count for much in the marts of trade, or in the conduct of personal or public business. The openness of his mind, the honesty of his intentions, and the zeal with which he pursues to the last every available means for securing the accomplishment of purposes he has in view in the interest of his constituents, have won him the respect of his colleagues. He has none of the features of the laggard. None can suspect him of shirking his duty. When his voice or his vote is needed, he is never missing. He is the sort of a man we seek when we have an important thing to be done. Energetic! Yes, in the performance of every duty that is assigned to him. His part of the transaction is never the last to be reported.

"Experienced!" Yes! He is the kind of a man that gains experience fast. He accomplishes more in a year than some older men do in two years. The more one attempts, the quicker does experience begin its work. Four years in active Congressional work have taught Congressman Scully much more than many men learn who looked on as he labored.

His colleagues have borne testimony to the respect that is paid to him in the legislative halls at Washington. His influence, his judgment, and his energy count for much, both for the people, and in the councils of his party.

Experience and Energy combined, have made our townsman a worthy representative in Congress. Many helpful measures have received the aid of his efforts and influence.

The old soldiers have tested his loyalty, and have found him not wanting. He has proved true to their interests.

The Boards of Trade in many sections have found him earnestly co-operating with them in an effort to improve the waterways of his State, and to broaden the avenues of industry.

The disabled, and the worthy widow have found in him a courteous obliging friend, as several pension claims that have been granted through his intercession, bear testimony to.

The shipping facilities of our Creeks, Rivers, Inlets and Bay's have enlisted his energetic action, and the proof is now at hand that he has made good.

This valuable advance work has only just begun. It is but in its initial stage. Much more remains to be done. It will take men of Mr. Scully's type to push the good work along. It is important that we hold on to the man who has proven his worth by deeds done. The wise don't change horses in the midst of the stream. His past record is a guarantee that we need not hesitate to depend upon him, but may rest assured that if it can be "got" our Tom can "get it."

Our community-pride should stand by him, just as it has done before.

Trained service is needed for the accomplishment of important work. Let us hold on to what we have. The untried is not a certain factor. Good intentions are pretty, but they are powerless to secure practical results. Good objects are worth striving for, and only the energetic get them.

Energy and Experience are good watch-words: Stand by them. Stand by them to a man, and show that faithful service is appreciated and make Congressman Scully's vote this time the biggest he has ever received.

Edward F. Houghton, the Democratic candidate for Sheriff, was in this city on Thursday making a canvass of the voters. Mr. Houghton's genial disposition stood him in good stead, and he made a favorable impression with those he met. Mr. Houghton is one of the best posted men in the county on matters appertaining to the sheriff's office, and if elected would make an excellent sheriff.

JERSEY WATERWAYS RECOGNIZED

New Jersey river and harbor improvements will suffer very little from the cut in the rivers and harbors bill from $53,000,000 to $20,000,000. In the allotments of the new appropriation, Secretary of War Garrison has announced that $619,000 will be used for improvements in this State, including the item for Staten Island Sound. The revised rivers and harbors bill called for $680,000 for New Jersey projects.

Items totaling $86,000 have been eliminated by the allotment of funds. Only one of these affects this section of the State—a matter of $20,000 for the improvement of Newark Bay and cut out—while there still remains the $150,000 for the improvement of the bay and the Passaic River. The other items eliminated were for Cooper, Salem, Maurice and Toms rivers and Raccoon and Alloway creeks. An addition was made of $25,000 for a deeper entry from the sea at Absecon Inlet for the benefit of Atlantic City. The net loss to the State as a result of the change in the bill was only $61,000.

It is apparent that the army engineers who were charged with the duty of selecting the projects that were most urgent have put a high value on the work in New Jersey and nearby waters. There is no material loss to this State due to the elimination of the "pork barrel" features of the bill.—Newark News.

For the manufacture of pottery of the better grades considerable clay, mainly kaolin, is imported into this country from Europe and China, the value of these imports last year exceeding $2,250,000. It seems probable that under the necessity due to the war of now finding a domestic supply these finer clays can be in large part replaced. Already a process of decoloring kaolin is reported as successful, and this may make large deposits of kaolin and ball clay available for the manufacture of white ware and pottery. (Bulletin 599, U. S. Geological Survey.)

MR. HIMMELBERGER BUYS

THE HOMER RESIDENCE

Mr. C. H. Himmelberger, of Stevens avenue, has completed the deal with Jonathan Compton for the purchase of the latter's dwelling at the corner of Stevens avenue and Bordentown avenue. This is one of the most attractive corners in the city.

Mr. Himmelberger is the superintendent of the Raritan River Railroad and at present resides in the double house next to Mr. Compton's dwelling on Stevens avenue. He will move into his new home as soon as it is vacated by Mr. Compton.

CONTENTION OVER NEW WALL.

special meeting of the board may be held early in the week, or the matter may be held until the regular meeting on Thursday evening. The secretary was instructed to send a copy of the resolution passed by the board and an accompanying letter to the contractor. This he promised to do and said that he would personally deliver the missils.

The resolution: Whereas, The Board of Education of South Amboy, N. J., did on the First day of July, 1914, enter into a contract with George Gundrum of the City of South Amboy, N. J., for building a retaining wall around the property of Public School No. 1 on John street and Clinton Place, South Amboy, N. J., and

Whereas, The said contract provided for a cement coping containing one part Portland cement to two parts good clean sharp sand, to be of four inches in thickness, and of such design as shown on plans, to be placed on top of cement block wall, also that post caps be provided of the same material, and

Whereas, The said George Gundrum has failed to comply with the terms of the contract in so far as relates to the placing of the cement coping and caps above referred to, and

Whereas, Such failure on his part makes operative that portion of the contract reading—"Failure at any time to observe these specifications, to furnish necessary material and implements, to remove condemned material or rubbish, or to employ competent or sufficient force for the completion of the work, shall be cause for the Board to do the work at the expense of the Contractor or at their option to annul the contract."

Be it Resolved, That the Board of Education of the City of South Amboy, N. J., notify the said George Gundrum that unless he begins work of preparing and placing on the concrete wall referred to a cement coping of the design shown on the plans by 7 a. m. Monday, October 19, and unless the Secretary of the Board of Education receives written assurance before that time that he will commence such work and push it to a prompt completion, the Board of Education take action under the provisions of the contract which permits them to complete the work at the expense of the contractor and immediately thereafter arrange to have the work completed; and be it further

Resolved, That the Committee on Buildings and Grounds of the Board of Education of the City of South Amboy, N. J., are hereby empowered to arrange for the completion of the work referred to unless the said George Gundrum begins the work by 7 a. m. Monday, October 19th, and unless he also gives the Secretary of the Board of Education in writing before that time assurance that he will commence such work and push it to a prompt completion, and be it further Resolved, That the Secretary forward to the said George Gundrum a copy of this resolution as his official notification of the action of the Board of Education of the City of South Amboy, N. J.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS.

Mr. D. T. Hendrickson, principal of our local High School, is doing every thing in his power to arouse a proper school spirit among the students of the High School. His inspiring talks have aroused an enthusiastic response which has spread to the Alumni of the school and has been an incentive toward a movement to renew their loyalty to their Alma Mater. The instigators of this movement have arranged to hold a meeting in the auditorium of the High School Friday evening, October 16th, for the purpose of reorganizing the Alumni Society. All the graduates of the South Amboy High School are urged to be present. One of the pleasing features anticipated by the instigators of this movement is a banquet to be held during commencement week.

The Senior class and members of the High School Faculty have received an invitation to attend a football game, Saturday, October 17, between the teams of Rutgers and Mullenberg Prep. School. They will accept, as there is every reason to believe it will be a good game.

The students of the High School are becoming enthusiastic in their efforts to improve the music in the exercises. An orchestra has been organized and a meeting was held last Thursday afternoon for the purpose of reorganizing the Glee Club. Miss Fulton presided. The following officers were elected: President, Kathryn Himmelberger; Vice-president, Edward V. Shaw; Secretary, Hazel Compton; Chief Pianist, Miss Bertha Fulton; Assistant Pianist, Miss Frances Gordon; Treasurer, Miss Frances Perrine.

The Boys' Athletic Association of the High School met in the auditorium last Friday afternoon for the purpose of organizing a basketball team. Prof. Hendrickson presided at the meeting. Richard Lewis was elected manager. The captain of the team will be elected by those who are the fortunate ones making good for the first team.

CITY MUST PAY SIX PER CENT.

tee provided for the approval of the action of the finance committee in renewing for three months a Stevens avenue improvement account note falling due on Oct. 7th for $12,000 at six per cent., instead of five per cent., as instructed by the council inasmuch as the bank refused the renewal at five per cent. Councilman Chevalier moved the adoption of the resolution and it was carried, and the resolution accordingly adopted.

The report of the Overseer of the Poor Mullane was read and upon motion of Councilman Chevalier received and filed. It showed that the total cost of maintaining the home for the month of September was $104.75.

The treasurer's report was read and showed the following balances: General account over-drawn $393.80; Water Department balance, $2,769.65; Sanitary sewer account, balance, $14,476.49; Broadway Improvement account balance, $1,032.69. Upon motion of Councilman Slover the report was received and filed.

The sealed bids for the construction of the extension of the sanitary sewer were opened and read by the clerk. They were as follows: Thomas Downs, $2,405.65; George Gundrum, $2,635.10; P. J. Monahan, $3,094.57; Schneider, Steller & Co., of New Brunswick, $4,768.95; Liddle & Pfeiffer, of Perth Amboy, $2,797.90; John Quinlan, $2,785.09. Upon motion of Councilman Stanton these bids were referred to the city engineer and the sewer committee for tabulation. Motion carried.

A recess was declared upon motion of Councilman Slover to allow the tabulations to be made. Upon reconvening after the recess Mr. Slover introduced a resolution providing that the contract be awarded to Thomas Downs as he was the lowest bidder. The resolution was adopted as read.

Upon motion of Councilman Slover the checks of the unsuccessful bidders were ordered to be returned.

Councilman Stanton spoke about residents on Second street complaining because the Public Service Gas people were not complying with their requests for gas as they did not feel that the number of users would warrant the extension of a main up that street. He stated that he believed that the gas people should be forced to do this, if there was anything in their charter or the city ordinances that would justify the council taking action. He offered a motion to the effect that the matter be referred to the street committee.

Mayor Dey stated that he was familiar with this case and that he had been in touch with the company and they had promised to make the extension. They claimed, he said, that the delay was an over-sight on their part. Councilman Stanton's motion was, however, carried.

Then Councilman Stanton spoke of the property owners on the corner of Center street and Felts street speaking to him about having the gutter cobbled. He said that the property owners claimed that all the water from the higher parts of the hill came down there and it all flowed to one side of the street. This washed out the curbs and spoiled the grading, etc. He moved that the matter be referred to the street committee. After some discussion the motion was carried.

Again Councilman Stanton arose. This time he spoke about his former motion in regard to the bad spots in Stevens avenue being attended to. President Stratton stated that he was able to inform the body that the contractor would send some men down here in the very near future and that they would then take care of any defects that had manifested themselves.

Councilman Stanton brought up the question of an established grade on Fourth street. Discussion developed the fact that above Potter street there was no established grade line and that it would require a petition in order to have the council take action upon the matter.

REV. F. F. CRAIG TO LEAVE CITY.

Rev. F. F. Craig will not return to this city as pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church, having been appointed by the Eastern Conference of the M. P. Church to Westville. Rev. Jacob Leupple, a former pastor, has been assigned to this city.

Pastor Craig and his wife since residing in this city have made many friends who will regret their departure. Mr. Craig has done wonderful work in the church here, having built a new parsonage, made improvements to the church building, and greatly increased the congregation. He will take with him to his new charge, the best wishes of the members of the church.

Mr. Leupple comes here not as a stranger, but as the return of an old friend, and will undoubtedly receive a hearty welcome.

Honor Memory of Father Miller

The demise of Rev. Father William H. Miller, the holized rector of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, occurred a month ago last Wednesday, and in faithful reverence of his memory, his former parishioners and clerical associates gathered in St. Joseph's Wednesday morning, for a month's mind solemn high mass of requiem. The edifice was filled with a gathering that included many relations and friends of the deceased, together with thirty priests from all parts of the State.

Rev. Monsignor Fox, of Trenton, vicar-general of the diocese, attended in the unavoidable absence of Bishop McPaul.

Those celebrating the mass were all closely associated with Father Miller, and were as follows: Rev. Father Zimmer, of Raritan, celebrant; Rev. Father Dunphy, of Dunellen, deacon; Rev. Father Dittich, of Atlantic City, sub-deacon, and Rev. Father John Baldwin, of Mt. St. Mary College, master of ceremonies. Rev. Father Leahy, of Spring Lake, made the address during which he eulogized the beloved priest and spoke the words of comfort so keenly appreciated by those bereft of his companionship and counsel.

The musical portion of the service was in charge of James E. Bailey, assisted by A. E. LaPorte and Mrs. Alfred Seidel. Mrs. Harry G. DeMeza presided at the organ and the boy's choir sang.

The attending priests were as follows: Fathers Roche, of Asbury Park; Eagan, of Sea Bright; Swartz and Ryan, of New Brunswick; Langan, of Far Hills; McGrath, of Stony Hill; Caton, of Hampton; O'Connor, of Metuchen; Kennedy and Lane of South Amboy; Hart and Poli, of St. Joseph's; Strenski, of South Amboy; Terrill, of Rahway; Sciolia and Bogan, of St. Mary's; Ryan, of Somerville; Casey, of Trenton; McEmery, of Caldwell; Hogan, of Newark, and Gilfillan, of Sayreville.

Board of Health Preparing Ordinances

Probably the most important action taken by the Board of Health at their meeting on Thursday evening had to do with ordinance question. The ordinance introduced at a meeting a few weeks ago was discarded, although it had been passed on its second reading. This ordinance would have made connection with the sanitary sewer compulsory upon notification from the Board of Health. In its stead there were two separate ordinances introduced and passed on first reading. The first of these restricts and restrains the building or rebuilding of vaults, cesspools, etc. The other covers the connections to the sewer. These two ordinances were recommended by the State Board of Health as being effective in other cities. They also have the advantage of having had their validity tested in the courts and found to be satisfactory for their intended purposes. The tenor of the contents is much the same as that of the ordinance discarded, which was discussed at considerable length in an issue of this paper some time ago. Both the ordinances were introduced by the local health inspector, Mr. C. S. Bucklew.

There were only Messrs. Wilson, Mahoney and Bucklew present at the meeting, Messrs. Dill and Heston being absent.

The report of the health inspector was first given consideration. It showed that since the last report one case of diphtheria and one case of typhoid fever had been reported in this city. It also stated that the outlet of the First street storm sewer had been opened and the stagnant water allowed to go free. This relieved, to a large extent, the offensive odor of the sewer. The report recommended that a new supply of fumigators be procured as the ones on hand were becoming untrustworthy.

Later action was taken on the procurement of the new fumigators. There was a representative of the Formacone Co. present and after some discussion he was given an order for a supply. Then after some more discussion an order was given for two gallons of bug exterminating powder. It was thought advisable to get this powder for use in the jail portion of the City Hall.

The treasurer's report showed that twenty-nine dollars had been received by him. Bills to the amount of $46.98 were read and ordered paid.

Secretary Thompson stated that in looking over the bonds of the plumbers he noticed that a bondsman on one of the bonds was deceased and that this rendered the bond void. Upon motion of Mr. Bucklew, the secretary was instructed to call this fact to the attention of the plumber, D. J. Donlin, and request that a new bond be furnished.

A special permit was issued to Mr. Thomas Monaghan for a cellar drain.

The question of certain plumbers doing work without obtaining permits was discussed to some extent. Finally the plumbing inspector was instructed to report any such violations that came to his notice and the board would take the proper decisive action.

NIGHT SCHOOL SUCCESSFUL.

The average daily attendance in the night school that is being held in School No. 2 is about 60. If this average is kept up the Board of Education will doubtless feel justified in continuing it.

The commercial branch teacher will probably have to be replaced in the near future. The present incumbent is also the commercial teacher in the day school and she does not feel that she can do full justice to both positions. In the opinion of most school teachers teaching is quite trying and difficult work, and teaching both day and night sessions is almost too much to expect from any teacher.

Spring Floods

They Are Full of Danger, but May Lead to a Steady Flowing Stream.

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

When Bob Elliot became engaged to Kate Winston society smiled. Bob was known to be in a chronic state of betrothal, and Kate was considered the queen of flirts. Everybody supposed the affair between them to be a game on both sides and wondered which would come out winner. It was not believed that anything very serious had resulted from the escapades of either, for both had the reputation of getting out of their entanglements without being very much blamed.

Just what was the real intent with reference to each other of Bob Elliot and Kate Winston they alone knew. There was the usual skinning, with a proposal and an acceptance. Quite naturally after her betrothal Kate thought of her fiancé.

"I am much concerned, Bob, about this engagement between us. You see, it is a very serious matter for a girl like myself, who has not yet seen much of the world, to give her heart to a man. I have been told that you have been engaged many times, and if this is true you must have caused a great deal of distress to a number of innocent girls."

"How about the distress those innocent girls have caused me?"

"I thought you said I was the only girl you ever loved."

Mr. Elliot, being thus thrown on his beam ends, remained silent. He had nothing more to say in his defense.

"I don't think," continued Miss Winston, "that I should feel safe in announcing this engagement before sufficient time has passed to determine whether you are trifling or—"

"It's the real thing."

"Your flippant way of speaking of it is not encouraging."

"To tell the truth, Kit, I am as much concerned as to whether this is one of "You have spoiled my plan."

"You would not have proposed such a plan if your conscience had been clean."

"Kate?"

"What?"

"Why don't you study law? You'd make a far better lawyer than nine-tenths of the men."

"We women don't need to study law. We are born with enough law in our heads to serve our own purposes, and we don't want any more."

"Then you decline to meet me half-way, confessing your past transgressions as well as I?"

"No, I'll confess all, but I warn you that my sins are so slight that they are not worth confessing."

"I must be the judge of that."

"Oh, go on."

"Well, to begin at the beginning, there was that Miss Fitzhugh from Virginia. She was engaged to an army officer in the Philippines. She undertook to make me believe that she had made a mistake, which she didn't find out till she met me."

"The horrid thing!"

"There was nothing in that, was there?"

"Of course not. Go on."

"Then followed Helen Blake, who had driven a country lad to drown himself. You wouldn't have had me hang myself for her, would you?"

"I wouldn't mind if you had driven her to commit suicide herself."

"That's two. A wifew got hold of me with the intention of marrying me, whether I would or not. Not being in a marrying mood, I demurred. These are the only cases worth mentioning. It only remains for you to give me a 'clean bill' and proceed with your own record."

"I'm awfully glad to know that there is nothing in these reports after all, and I assure you there is no more in those about me. So you may feel perfectly satisfied."

"Just so, but I think I'd feel better if I had a detailed account of each one of them from your own sweet lips."

He kissed the aforesaid lips several times, which doubtless brought forth the confession that followed:

"Ned Bissell was the first. He played tennis with me. When we had played awhile we sat down on a bench. There was no one else there and—well, he did what he had no right to do—he kissed me."

"What did you let him do that for?"

"How could I help myself?"

"How many times did he kiss you?"

"How many? Why, several times."

"A dozen?"

"I suppose so."

"No matter, since you couldn't help it. Was that all there was to that affair?"

"Yes."

"Didn't he pursue you so that you were obliged to go away for a season?"

"Well, yes, he did cut up a good deal."

"Never mind that young about him. How about that more lawyer?"

"There was nothing in that to my discredit."

"Didn't you force him to go away for a postgraduate course?"

"I didn't do any such thing."

"Hold on. I knew an intimate friend of his who told me the whole story."

"It seems that you are making my confession, not I."

"Well, go on and make the rest of it yourself."

"There's only one more of any importance."

"Who is that?"

"Dick Canfield."

"If what I have heard about his case is true it was a very important one."

"What did you hear?"

"Never mind that, sweetheart. He got over it in time and is engaged. But he came near putting a blight on you that would have stuck by you through life."

There was a solemn silence between them, during which she snuggled closer to him.

"Sometimes I think," she said at last, "that when we get older we will realize the dangers through which we have passed in youth and wonder how we could have acted so. Then we'll be very careful and not do so any more."

"But we won't have any fun."

"I think this is a good time for us to reform, don't you?"

"A splendid time; we won't be tempted any more."

"Of course we won't. We'll be wrapped up in each other and won't care enough for any one else to wish to flirt. I'm glad we have made these confessions. You see, it's an even thing between us. You have been as bad as I."

"I thought you exonerated me completely."

"Did I?"

This dialogue took place between 10 and 11 o'clock at night. At 2 in the morning Mr. Elliot, after a dozen kisses in the drawing room, a dozen in the hall and a dozen at the door, took his departure. He wondered then how he had been able to tear himself away. Ten years later he wondered how he could have spent seven hours with one girl and what they had been talking about.

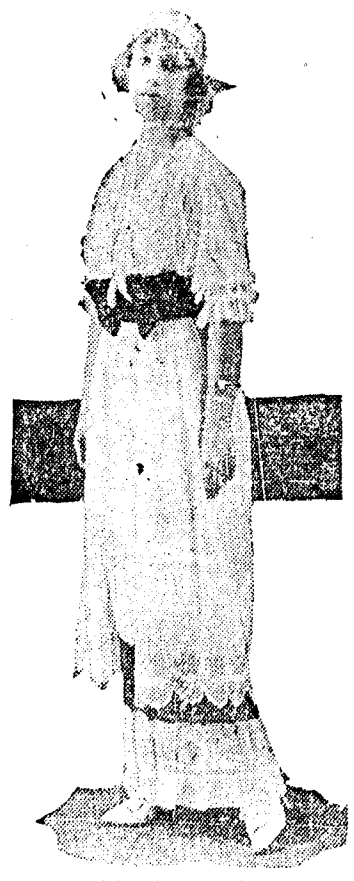

After her confession Miss Winston went to bed feeling that she had thrown off the recklessness of youth, that her sins were forgiven and that she would never do any more flirting.

As for Mr. Elliot, he had known much more of his fiancée's record than she had confessed. It didn't trouble him a bit so long as he was not one of the sufferers. For them he had no sympathy whatever. It is a matter of happy record that these two sinners were blessed—far more blessed than they deserved. Their wedded life was happy, and they dearly loved each other and their children.

All of which goes to prove that those who safely pass the dangers of youth may go well later on.

FOR EVENING WEAR.

Charming Frock of Net For the College Girl's Entertainments.

NET EVENING GOWN.

There will be various entertainments at college which will demand evening dress of the fair student, but a simple, pretty evening frock of modest style will be the requirement, not a fluffy, coquettish dance frock of tulle with a daring décolletage.

Soft pussy willow taffeta in blue, raspberry or oleander pink or in some dainty shade of lavender, buff or pale green will make a dainty frock. The skirt may have scalloped frills, and chiffon or lace may be used for the bodice, provided its style is not too décolleté for the student.

Pictured here is a charming evening gown for a young girl. It is fashioned of plain and embroidered net. An insertion of black moire ribbon is applied to the foundation skirt. The tunic is of embroidered net clasped by a black satin girdle. The elbow sleeves are finished by frills. The little Dutch cap of net makes a charming accessory to the costume.

WASHING DELICATE FABRICS.

How to Cleanse Them So They Preserve Their Loveliness.

It is always a safe precaution to set the color in most wash fabrics. It is decidedly worth while for delicate colors, says the home economics department of the University of Wisconsin.

Salt is a valuable aid in making colors fast, as it acts as a mordant for the substantive dyes most commonly used for cotton and linen. A handful of salt in a dish of cold water, however, is not sufficient. The material or garment must be placed in a strong hot solution and allowed to stand until the water is cool to obtain the best results. Salt is cheap, is usually on hand and is probably best for all around use, but the effect of brine is said not to be lasting.

Among other good mordants are sugar of lead for all colors except pink and blue, saltpeter for pinks and blues, vinegar for pinks, alum for greens, mauve, purples, etc.

The following proportions should be used: To one gallon of water add one-half cupful mild vinegar, two cupfuls of salt, one tablespoonful of alum or one tablespoonful of sugar of lead.

Faded blue garments are freshened by rinsing in a strong bluing solution. Other delicate colors would often profit by a similar treatment in a dye solution of the same color.

Testing Out the Dog.

The Browns recently took up their abode at a new house in the suburbs, and Robinson, who, by the way, was Brown's most intimate friend in his bachelor days, went down to see them one Saturday afternoon.

As he approached the house a large dog ran out and began barking at him fiercely through the fence.

Robinson hesitated. He didn't altogether like the looks of that dog. Just then, however, Mrs. Brown came to the door.

"Hello!" she exclaimed. "How nice of you to come down here to see us! Come right in. Don't mind the dog." Nervously Robinson fingered the latch of the gate.

"But are you sure she won't bite?" he asked, glancing toward the dog, which he was by no means anxious to meet until he had received some assurance of personal safety.

"Oh," replied Mrs. Brown, "that's just what I want to find out! You see, I only bought him this morning."

Travelers' Wash Clothes.

Small disks of cotton compressed into pill box size expand when they are dropped into water to the size of the ordinary face cloth. These are sold, ten of them, in a little Morocco case, and they find favor with the woman who is traveling rapidly—so rapidly that the face cloth has no time to dry before it must again be packed into its receptacle for further journeying, for these compact little cloths are thrown away in the assurance that another can be had from the leather case at the next stopping place.

Stewart—Fisher.

Miss Nellie Fisher, of this city, and Mr. Laurence Stewart, of Bayonne, were united in holy matrimony on Saturday evening last, at 8.30 o'clock, by the Rev. Chapman S. Lewis, rector of Christ Church.

The matron of honor was Mrs. George Laforge, of Tottenville, N. Y., and the bestman was Mr. George Laforge. Only the immediate relatives and friends were present to witness the nuptials.

After a buffet luncheon at the home of the bride's parents on David street, the happy couple left in an automobile for Perth Amboy, where they took the 11.20 p. m. train to Albany and Cohoes, N. Y., for a brief honeymoon.

The bride was attired in a gown of blue crepe de chine, and wore a white hat, and carried pink roses. Her traveling suit was of grey crepe de mètre. The matron of honor was attired in blue pongee, and carried white carnations.

The bride received some pretty gifts, consisting of cut glass, linen and silver.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart on their return will make their home for the present with the bride's parents.

FIRE TO MOTOR BOAT

Gasoline thieves set fire to the handsome new motor boat of Messrs. Stephenson and Stults on Thursday night about 10 o'clock. J. M. Willett noticed a light on the boat, and knowing the owners were not aboard, became suspicious and kept watch. All at once he saw the blaze increase and Thomas Mayberry grabbed a pull, and securing a row boat, hastened to the launch, and with hard work managed to extinguish the blaze. Over $100 damage was done to the boat.

The thieves left a five gallon can, which had been filled, and a wrench on board. They can secure these by applying at Willett's pavilion.

CHIMNEY ON FIRE.

A little after seven o'clock last Wednesday evening an alarm was turned in from box 43, which is at the corner of Henry street and Pine avenue. The fire apparatus of Enterprise Hook and Ladder quickly answered the call, but the fire was extinguished before they got there. It was only a slight chimney blaze, anyhow, and was quickly put out with a fire extinguisher before the arrival of the apparatus.

In endeavoring to ring the fire bell to indicate that the fire was out someone pushed the wrong button and a second alarm was turned in. This caused the fire ladders to turn around on their way back to the fire house and again visit the scene of the excitement.

The house was tenanted by John Simuliski, and is owned by the estate of John Ryan, recently deceased.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 1, 1914.

M. P. CHURCH NOTES

After being compelled to be absent from two successive Thursday evening services the pastor was privileged to attend and take charge of last week's meeting. A good attendance for this time of the year and for several weeks it has been the same. All who attend this service are spiritually helped.

Services last Sunday were of the usual order, morning sermon on the text "Watch and pray that ye enter not into Temptation," Matt 26, 41. In view of the many temptations to evil and sin especially at this season of the year it was a timely warning to be on our guard against wrong doing.

The Junior C. E. held its usual 2 p. m. service with the superintendent, Mrs. Peterson in charge. The topic was: "What Home Missions are doing for this Country." The children were advised to live little christian lives so that strangers and others may be led to see the necessity of living christian lives. There were twenty present.

The Sunday School was conducted as usual by the superintendent, Mr. Bloodgood, and an interesting study of the lesson indulged. The school was advised to be on time 9 a. m. and enjoy the annual Picnic at Keansburg. Many were the happy faces in anticipation of the day. There was a noticeable increase in attendance and offering over the previous Sunday. Let us keep it up.

The Senior C. E. held their usual service at 7 p. m. led by Mrs. Peterson, it was also a missionary meeting and the topic brought encouraging news of the work being done. A missionary paper was read.

A mistake in last week's issue stated 200 were present, it should have read 200 per cent. increase over the previous meeting.

The usual song service at 7.45 led by choir who deserve much credit for standing by this service when many are lessening their services. A fine anthem was sung.

At 8 p. m. regular preaching and a good attendance. The pastor spoke of the reward awaiting the faithful followers of Jesus Christ.

The offering last Sunday evening was for the benefit of conference benevolences. The annual conference is only two months off and the pastor hopes to get out the assessment cards sometime in August, as all offerings are to be reported by the last of September.

The pastor is away on a short vacation and in his absence the Brethren will take charge of all services. This is a gratifying condition and very acceptable to the congregation. Mr. Fulton will have charge next Sunday morning and his addresses are always edifying. Mr. H. Bloodgood, our Sunday School superintendent, will have charge of the Sunday evening service. This isn't the first time he has done work of this kind and all who attend when he leads learn of the things of God. Mr. Ezra Clayton, the assistant class leader, will have charge of the Thursday evening service. He is one of the real faithful ones, and like Aaron and Hur, always holding up the Leader's hand. See Numbers 14, 24.

Mrs. Annie Hause, the president of the Senior C. E. Society, will have charge of the Senior C. E. service next Sunday evening. So in the pastor's absence the various officials of the spiritual part of the church will conduct all services.

It is to be hoped that every member will make a special effort to attend all these services and give the leaders their support. If any wish to go visiting do it when the pastor is at home, please.

Every effort is being made by the ladies of the church to entertain all who desire in the way of refreshments, lunch and meals, at the church Saturday August 8th, Salt Water or Old Home Day. Further notice next week.

One of those celebrated biscuit sales took place last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Berrien and they were in such demand that an additional lot had to be made the next day, some coming from Perth Amboy for them. The entire proceeds are for the work of the church.

The pastor and wife have received an invitation to spend some time at the Pitman Grove Camp meeting in South Jersey, a schedule of services being sent them. They expect to be back for the Thursday evening service next week.

The sermons of August 9th will be suggestions of Old Home Day.

PIECES OF SILVER.

They Supplanted Cacao Beans as the First American Currency.

Before Mexico was invaded by the Spaniards coins were unknown there, the natives using in place of money the smallest cacao beans, reserving those of larger size and better quality for the manufacture of a liquor to which they were addicted.

About fourteen years after the conquest—that is to say, about 1535—Castilian coins began to make their appearance in Mexico. As they arrived only in very small quantities, they were insufficient for the needs of trade. It was then that the viceroy ordered the manufacture in the City of Mexico of small pieces of silver of a certain weight.

These pieces were not stamped with any coinage mark, and their value was determined entirely by their weight. From them was derived the name "peso."

These pieces of silver remained in circulation a number of years, and pieces of gold and of copper were also added in time. Soon, however, it was found that this sort of circulating medium made fraud easy, and the Spanish government established three mints, granting them a perpetual existence for America.

The coinage of money in the City of Mexico was actually begun during the reign of Viceroy Antonio de Mendoza, who established a mint in buildings belonging to the Marquis del Valle. Here it remained only a short period, being transferred first to the council building and later to the viceroyal palace.

During all this time the coinage was of a considerable amount and the facilities for the establishment were not sufficient to meet the demands made upon it for coins, for which reason frequent demands for minting apparatus are found in the records. In the year 1778 the mint was established in the Apartado building and has continued since then in the street of that name. From the declaration of independence until the year 1847 the mint was rented out to contractors.—New York Sun.

BATTLES IN POETRY.

In Tuscany Even the Peasants Indulge in This Pastime.

Visit the home of a peasant in Tuscany on some winter's evening and you will be surprised and charmed, writes Mr. Richard Bagot in "The Italians of Today." Gathered round the kitchen fire after the day's work is done, these peasants, fresh from their rough labor in the fields and vineyards, vie with each other in reciting poetry and telling stories. Generally both are extemporaneous, and often they have a good deal of poetic grace and imagination.

The gift of reciting improvised poetry is not, however, confined to the peasants in Tuscany. I know of an instance that occurred in my own neighborhood not so very long ago that certainly could not have occurred anywhere but in Tuscany. A local doctor was driving to catch a train at a station a few miles from me, and on his way he was accosted by a colleague who happened to be looking over his garden wall. The colleague shouted out a line of improvised verse to him, upon which the other instantly pulled up his horse and capped the line with another.

Doctor No. 2 responded, and for three hours the poetic contest was continued without cessation. In the meantime the whole of the village had turned out to listen and to make wagers on which would be the first to lack an inspiration. It was only as dusk came on that doctor No. 1 remembered that he was on his way to catch a train!

Whether a patient was expecting him I know not, but I feel convinced that such a detail would not have been allowed to interfere with this war of verses.

It is interesting to see that even the illiterate peasants detect at once the slightest departure from the form in which the original lines are set and consider the offender to have lost the match.

The Oyster.

The oyster is a very ancient institution and a most honorable one. From time immemorial poets have sung of him and orators have dwelt upon his charms. Juvenal, the most illustrious of all satirists, enlivened the literary charms of the reigns of Trojan and Hadrian with his comments on the oyster, and the comments were not satirical either, but warmly commendatory. The oyster, the true cosmopolitan, is found pretty nearly everywhere and was the delight of the world for ages upon ages before the man from Genoa found the shores of America.—New York American.

Where the Poets Worked.

The sixth grade of a certain school in a foreign settlement in one of our cities was learning the use of possessives.

The book required the pupils to correct and expand into a complete sentence the following expression: "Milton and Shakespeare's works." Joseph Nikodym handed in this sentence: "Milton and Shakespeare work in a coal mine."

Success never comes to the man who sits on a dry goods box and whistles for it.

GAMES FOR TO-DAY.

From a hasty glance at the schedule of the games to be played in the South Shore Industrial League this week it will be gleaned that the local Y. M. C. A. team will cross bats with the Powder Makers from Parlin on Star Field. This game has the earmarks of a lively contest and should be a good game. It is unlikely that "Brosie" will have any new stars in his (almost said crown) lineup on account of the severe ruling of the powers that be of the league, but the old ones will shine as usual.

The up-river games have a different complexion. At South River the diamond will be populated by the Middlesex Embroidery Works and the Herman-Aukam Co. Barring an earthquake, or some little thing like that, in their lineup the H-A's makers are due to lose as they seem to have gotten the habit of so doing. The onslaught of the handkerchief makers you will perhaps recall, has been found practically irresistible by every team in the league with the exception of the local aggregation that represents and defends the colors of the local association of young men who don't swear.

The brickmakers are supposed to cross bats with our local band of clay moulders and it is very likely that the brickmakers will be so perved at that trouncing they got last week that they will go and take it all out on the cellar champions.

Of course, predictions don't go for much in baseball. The best and most carefully prepared calculations as to probable results are likely to be upset by some bone-headed guy catching a ball when he hadn't ought to have done it, and there you are.

COUNTY SEAT PLAYERS

DEFEAT Y. M. C. A. AT TENNIS

Last Saturday the local Y. M. C. A. sent some tennis players up to the county seat to play against some of the tennis enthusiasts there. The result was by no means disheartening to the locals although they lost out in a number of the contests. Those who represented this city in the inter-city match were Professor Barr, Dr. Weber, Percy Locker, Ralph Crane, and Holmes Cliver. The final score was 5 to 1 in favor of the county seat players. Both single and double sets were played.

The singles were played first and only one of the local players won out over his opponent. This player was Percy H. Locker and he defeated his man by the scores of 6-3 and 6-2. The county seat player (W. L. Strong) won the second set by the score of 6-3. Dr. Weber lost to his opponent, F. Hart, by losing two straights sets the scores being 6-1 in both sets. Crane lost to Searle in two sets and Prentiss trimmed Cliver two sets straight, scores being 6-1 and 7-6.

In the doubles the Prentiss Brothers (Paul D. and Atkinson D.) defeated Professor Barr and Dr. Weber in a bitterly fought contest. The first set stood 4-0 when the county seat players woke up to what was happening to them and started a rally. They overdid themselves in evening up the scores but the locals got another one to break the tie. The Prentiss brothers then again evened things up making the score 5-5 and took the next one also. The next two they took in a row and thus won the set. The next set was easy for the winners of the previous, the score being only 6-1.

Cliver and Locker played the second set of doubles and were opposed by Strong and Searle. The sets were hard fought but the locals lost out by the scores of 7-5 and 6-1.

It is likely that another match will be arranged to take place some time in the future when the locals will endeavor to regain their lost prestige.

SHERIDANS AND ATHLETICS

PLAY GOOD GAME

The Sheridans were scheduled to play the Matawan A. C. last Sunday on the diamond above their club but the Matawan manager led the game late Saturday. A game was accordingly arranged with the new team traveling under the name of the Athletics. The game was staged Sunday afternoon and the result was only 4 to 0 in favor of the Sheridan club team. Donnell were the bat-athletes and Maxfield the Sheridans. The game was a dandy, the throw-out being very good.

SNAPPY GAME ON STEVENS DALE.

Terra Cotta Loses to Y. M. C. A.—Catcher Pitches and Pitcher Catches For Winners—Best Game in League.

With a catcher playing the part of slab artist and a pitcher holding down a catcher's job the Y. M. C. A. won the best game played in the South Shore League last Saturday. The unfortunate team to bite the dust at the hands of the local aggregation on this occasion was also a local team—the Terra Cotta team. Magee, with second string catcher and erstwhile peerless third sacker, was selected by Manager Watson to do the hurling stunt and Manaker, sometimes pitcher and general utility outfielder, was doomed to wear the mask and breast protector. To the surprise of many of the fans Midgey stuck the whole game out and did it easily too. He got a total of ten strikeouts, allowed only three hits and issued only five passes. Manaker has already had considerable experience as a catcher, and most every other position too for that matter, and he made good right from the start. The combination certainly worked good and came as a little pleasant surprise to everybody. In addition to his brilliant work in the box Magee ripped out a double and also collected a single bingle.

Martin was the one to net the most hits and his performance credited him with three singles out of four chances to wallop the pellet.

Puck Higgins, of former Athletic fame, was shoved into the lineup to fill a vacancy and he let it be known that he was there alright. Puck swiped second once when Beatty wasn't lookin' and he also got a hit and scored two of the total five runs. Hoffman got two more of the remaining runs scored and his playing was set off by stealing two bases and getting a good solid swipe at the ball that went for an easy single.

Star Field was too muddy and wet to play the game on so the players trooped merrily up to Stevensdale where all the water runs down hill and where the ground slopes away from you no matter what way you look. There on the ancient diamond the two teams fought it out. The game was pretty close all the way through and although the winners were always ahead they were never more than two runs in the lead. The first inning netted the Association boys a brace of runs. Then the game settled down to a grim struggle and continued on until in the fourth frame the clay workers scored a lone run. In the next inning the tennis kings (?) slipped another score across the pan. In the next inning the moulders did likewise making the score three, two in the sixth. The next two innings the Y's again scored a run in each inning and for the rest of the game held the Terra Cotta's scoreless. Thus the game ended with the score of 5 to 2.

The Terra Cotta team was short several of their regulars and so by common consent both managers put in outside players. Wallis, one of the pick-ups for the Terra Cotta team, was placed at short and made good with a rush. He accepted six chances that came his way and only fell down on handling one of them.

When everything was ready to start off it was discovered that Molly, the Terra Cotta hesitation pitcher, was not on hand to peddle the pill so Coward was put in to pitch until Molly came. He only pitched one inning but allowed no hits at all and issued no free passes. He did send a man to first by caving him one in the ribs but that was a slip and didn't count. It was bum headwork and errors that let in the brace of runs that the Association laddies got in their half of the first inning.

On the whole every player of both teams played good ball and they all deserve credit for putting up a nice game, a game which, by the way, was about the best played in the League anywhere that particular day.

HERMAN-AUKAM TEAM BLOWN

UP BY POWDER WORKERS

The International Smokeless Powder and Chemical Company team, to give them their full name, came back with a vengeance last Saturday and dragged the colors of the Herman-Aukam Company team in the dust to the score of 22 to 3. Notwithstanding that the handkerchief makers had taken advantage of the privilege accorded them and had padded out their lineup with outside players, they were practically helpless in stopping the onward rush of the powder boys. A total of nineteen hits and seventeen bases on balls contributed the details of the terrible game while their opponents collected only six hits and nary a free pass did they get.

The Herman-Aukam team had several new men in their lineup but there wasn't much improvement noticeable in this game. The new men may, however, improve as time goes on and they get a little more practice. It is to be hoped that this will be so. Masner, one of the new men, started the game for the handkerchief makers but was withdrawn after the third inning on account of his ineffectiveness. The Parlin players collected a total of ten hits and two free trips to the initial sack in the first three innings that Masner pitched. He was succeeded by Maxien who pitched the next four innings with but little better luck. He was pounded for eight hits in his time on the slab but he was so blamed wild that he was pulled out but not until he had presented the other team with eleven free trips to first base. Albert relieved Maxien and although he too was pretty wild he only allowed four bases on balls in the last two innings and he crowned this performance by holding the other fellows down to one lone hit. None of the three pitchers had much of an effect on the batting rally of the wild men from Parlin.

Hackett pitched his usual steady game and allowed only six hits during the entire nine innings. His control was excellent and he did not grant a single pass or slip of any kind. His team-mates played well behind him too, the only error being credited against the second baseman for dropping an easy one. Hackett also lived up to his record as strike-out king by causing almost a dozen, eleven, to be exact, of the handkerchief makers to whiff the breeze.

Creamer, of the powder makers, was the star batsman of the day. He collected five hits out of six trips to the plate. Out of these five there were three singles, a double and a triple. Albert was easily the best batsman of the Herman-Aukam team. In three trips to the pan he banged out a single, a double and also a triple.

Although the score in this game was ridiculously one-sided, the players doubtless got a lot of fun out of it. This is the second time that these teams have come together with a farcical result like this.

This win will again put the Parlin team in third place in the league standing and will give them all the prestige that goes with their precautionary occupation of this position.

SPORTING NOTES.

Star Field Muddy.

Star Field was too muddy to play on last Saturday and the teams had to adjourn to the Stevensdale diamond instead.

Strikeouts for Magee.

Magee struck out four out of the first six men to face him in last Saturday's game.

Fans Have Opinions.

Some of the fans who witnessed the Sheridan-Athletic game last Sunday seem to think the winners should have had at least eight or nine more runs. Meho so, but they didn't get 'em.

Applegate Dropping Back.

Applegate, of the "Y's" hasn't made any additions to his record for safe-ty in the last two games. One game he wasn't playing, and the other he failed to get on. And still he leads the batting averages.

Covell Has a Good Arm.

Covell's wing was the only thing that kept a couple of runs from scoring last Sunday. He made a couple of throws to the plate from deep right field that excited comment.

Rehfuß Weak at the Bat.

Rehfuß is letting his batting average drop way down too. Hoeling don't seem to be good medicine for batting eyes.

Umpire Needs Glasses.

It is said that Umpire Purcell claimed that he couldn't watch all the plays in the Sheridan-Athletic game. Smatter, bo, they too fast fer yer?

Another New Pitcher.

Young Bill Coward pitched the first inning for the Terra Cotta last Saturday on account of tardiness of Molly, the regular heavier guy.

Rehfuß Fields Good.

Rehfuß played a fine game, only made one bad throw out of five difficult chances.

Wallis Makes Good.

Young Wallis played a mighty good game as a pick-up in the field. Only one error out of six chances.

Sheridans Wondering.

Twice in succession the Matawan team has cancelled the rubber game with the Sheridans. Consequently the Sheridan manager is wondering what to do for a dose of cold feet like that.

Powder People Heartless.

Once more the Powder makers have successfully tried to run the score sky-high on the Herman-Aukam team. They seem to find a huge delight in practically skunking 'em, as the youngsters have it.

Reporter's Dribble.

A writer in one of the out-of-town dailies remarks that the Middlesex team is apparently the only real contender for the South Shore League pennant. Has he entirely forgotten our local team with its unbroken string of victories?

Best Game Here.

The only fairly decent score in the league was that of the two local teams, the Y. M. C. A.—Terra Cotta game last Saturday.

Tennis Players Attention!

Get the local Y. M. C. A. players will do some tall practicing on the tennis courts now for a while.

Herman-Aukam Again.

The padding of the Herman-Aukam lineup don't seem to help them very much, or at least it didn't in last Saturday's game.

Again the Reporters.

The reporter that figured up the standing of the league teams in the county seat newspapers must have studied a different arithmetic than the one we had in school. We can't Hackett Getting the Habit.

Hackett got eleven strikeouts again last Saturday. Getting to be a regular habit with him.

Umpire to Have Clerk.

Some of the local players are suggesting that the next time Mr. Magee is asked to officiate that he be furnished with an accountant for keeping balls and strikes, make 'em gee.

Deaths Ornamental at Short.

Deaths got only one chance for an assist last Saturday. That's twice in succession that that has happened to him. And he bulled his only chance at that.

'Brosie's' Team of Pitchers.

It begins to look as though the whole Y. M. C. A. team was all pitchers. They've pretty near all had a crack at the heaving now, and still they continue to win.

Just a Suggestion.

But even at that that out of town correspondent didn't need to rub it in about making the game a joke, the way he did.

Grover a Robber.

Young Grover made a peach of a catch in left that easily robbed Manaker of a triple. Accidents will happen says 'Brosie'.

Middlesex Winning Streak.

The Middlesex Embroidery Works has now defeated every team in the South Shore League in a row, with the exception of the local Y. M. C. A. Their unbroken string of victories started some half dozen games ago and still continues.

Some Game—Must've Been.

There were enough free passes issued up at the I. S. P. & C. Co.—Herman-Aukam game last Saturday to answer for three or four ordinary ball games. Seventeen passes in one game—gee whiz.

Reckenbauch Makes a Hit.

The only hit that Rackenbauch, the Powder makers second baseman, got in last Saturday's game was a double. Only one hit out of seven trips to the plate and yet he scored two of their runs. Doin' pretty good, ain't it?

RESULTS OF SATURDAY'S GAMES.

At South River—I. S. P. & C. Co., 22; Herman-Aukam, 3.
At Sayreville—Middlesex Embroidery Co., 10; Sayre & Fisher Co., 5.
At South Amboy—Y. M. C. A., 5; Terra Cotta Co., 2.

THE BATTING AVERAGES.

The local team is the only team in the South Shore League, so far as we can find out, that keeps a record of the batting performances of the players. The fate of the percentage of the local players is in the hands of their own first baseman, Ingraham, and it is owing to his liking for figuring out these things that the following is available for publication.

Mert rather reminds us of a story heard once. When the Boss asked the office boy one day, how it was that his education seemed to be so one-sided, that is, that although he was quite good at mathematical problems his grammar and spelling were so awfully poor. "Why," was the reply, "I studied 'Rithmetic so's I could figure up the battin' averages."

BOWLING MATCH.

There was a bowling match played at the local Y. M. C. A. last Monday. In the match the Y. M. C. A. were opposed by the F. A. Leonard Association and this was the rubber of a three game series. The visitors won the first game by a margin of 152 pins; the second game went to the Y. M. C. A. by a rather narrower margin, sixty pins, to be exact. In the third game the visitors crawled out on the top with only five pins more than they needed in order to win. This makes two out of the three games that the Y. M. C. A. bowlers have lost to this association and of course the winners are properly jubilant. Its no small thing to take a rise out of the Y's in anything along that line.

Following is the detailed score:

	Y. M. C. A.	F. A. Leonard Association.

Sunday. Mr. Madison, together with Mr. Wm. Parsons, of John street, went out near the Black Buoy and it was there that Mr. Madison made the unusually large catch of twenty-six fish.

An auto truck belonging to the Long Acre Storage Company, of New York, was stalled on Stevens avenue for twelve hours on Wednesday. Many mechanics from garages nearby tried to solve the difficulty but without result. Finally George Weinman of this city came along and soon solved the difficulty. He noticed the electric wiring was defective, and by renewing the wires he quickly had the auto under way again.

The Ushers Union of the M. E. Church will hold another of their socials in the basement of the church tomorrow night (Saturday). The usual means of enjoyment will be available and the affair will undoubtedly be attended by many. The previous socials already held have been unequalled successes and there is every reason to suppose that this one will also be a success. It is the intention to procure new hymnals, if enough is realized from the series of socials they are holding periodically. The old ones are getting rather dilapidated and thus the intention of the Ushers is commendable.

AUTO TIRE THIEF CAUGHT;
HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Edward Furman, of Louisa street, noticed the doors of his garage open early last Monday morning. Investigation showed that there were some tools, rims and tires missing. A search was started immediately and the missing stuff was found in the yard of Junkman Morris, of John street. Morris stated that a man had come around early in the morning and had offered to sell him the property, but suspecting that there was something wrong he had put the man off by saying that he had no money as he did not keep any money over Sunday. He told the man he could leave the material there, if he wanted to, and come back in the afternoon for the money. This is what was done. Furman recognized the property as that which had been stolen, and arranged for a police reception for the man when he came back for his money. Accordingly Officer Gleason was detailed to make the arrest.

True to his promise the man showed up on time looking for the money for the stolen property and was taken in charge and escorted to the City Hall.

Later the same evening he was given a hearing before Judge Mason in the City Hall. The Judge recognized the man as John Sigglecow formerly of this city. Sigglecow pleaded guilty to the charge and was accordingly held without bail to appear before the grand jury. It appears that Sigglecow has been an inmate of the Rahway reformatory and has been out of that institution since last April on parole. He appeared well satisfied with his apprehension, and it is said he really wanted to go back to the reformatory.

Sigglecow's father, it is understood, used to work for Furman's father some years ago, and as a consequence he was at once recognized.

Although Sigglecow denied having been at Morgan last Sunday night, it is suspected that he was the one that tried to effect an entrance at that place during the night. He denied this, however, and said that he was in Keyport last Sunday night.

ORDER OF MOOSE.

The Man She Married

A Story Told at a Ladies' Luncheon Party.

By F. A. MITCHEL

A number of married ladies were at luncheon, and the hostess proposed that each give an account of how it came about that she married her husband. In order to set the ball a-rolling, she gave her own experience first. She had met the man she married at a dinner party. They were sitting side by side, and he upset a glass of red wine over a white silk dress she wore for the first time. At the moment of the accident she was recounting an incident, and simply applying her napkin to the saturated spot she went on with her recital as though nothing had happened. The man, who realized that he had ruined the dress and could not with propriety offer to replace it, was so much pleased with her consideration for his feelings that he finally asked her to marry him.

The next narration was that of a lady who met the man she married at a horse race. At the luncheon hour the hamper containing the refreshments was brought from the boat of the coach in which the party had gone to the races, and one of the gentlemen opening a bottle of champagne shut his eyes when the pop came, and the cork hit the narrator in the face. The man was so distressed at what he had done that he made up for it he married her.

"Come, Mrs. Dorrance," said the hostess after several such romances had been recounted, "give us your experience. I am quite sure the ladies will be pleased to hear it."

Mrs. Dorrance, being urged by the others, finally consented.

"I was traveling abroad," she began, "on my way from Thun to Paris. Those barbarous people over there refused to check my trunk farther than Berne. On arrival at Berne I tried to find the trunk and failed. A gentleman,

"The gentleman," continued the speaker, "held on to me, and me with a deep, sonorous voice, did not indicate the slightest fear or excitement, and somehow, under his protecting care, I felt perfectly safe. We clung there together till the train had passed over about ten miles, when we reached a station. I got into the compartment to which I was clinging, and my preserver returned to his own. I did not see him again till the train reached Dijon, when he handed out a fat woman and five children, disappearing with them in the station. He was evidently married."

"How unfortunate!" exclaimed several ladies at once.

"Two romances nipped in the bud," said the hostess.

"I pursued my journey to Paris and thence to London, where I attempted to engage passage on the next steamer to sail for New York. Every room was taken, and I must be at home within ten days to attend the wedding of my dearest friend, for whom I was to be bridesmaid. So the day the steamer sailed I went aboard, trusting that some passenger might miss reaching the steamer on time or something like that, but when I went to the purser after we were off he told me there was not a vacant room, not even a vacant berth in the ship.

"A gentleman was standing at the purser's window waiting till I had got through with my questions and, hearing what I said and seeing my disappointment, raised his hat, not with the flourish of a paragon, but to the manner born, and with a sympathetic expression in his glorious eyes said:

"Will you do me the honor to accept my stateroom?"

"Of course I told him I wouldn't think of inconveniencing him and all that, but he insisted, and when the purser told him that one of the officers on the upper deck would, for a consideration, give up his room to him I accepted the sacrifice."

"This is going to be delightful," was whispered from one lady to another.

"I was sensible and didn't leave my room till one night—there was a dense fog—I lay listening to the whistle repeat 'toot-toot' every few moments. I heard a crash and felt the ship career. I knew at once that there had been a collision and, springing up, put on what I could find, seized a life preserver and ran on deck. One of the first persons I met was the gentleman who had so kindly given up his room to me."

"Ah, he saved you! I have always heard you married a brave man!"

"He did no such thing. He snatched my life preserver and ran away with it."

"Oh, dear! How disappointing!"

"I made my way to one of the boats. An officer was superintending its loading, keeping the men back and putting in the women and children. The man who had taken my life preserver, crazed with fear, tried to force his way into the boat, and the officer was obliged to threaten to shoot him to keep him away."

"The boat was filled before I could get into it, and I was obliged to seek safety in another direction. There were not boats enough for half those on board, and before I could get a place in one the last had been lowered and pulled away from the ship."

"Oh, that awful night! I looked about for something to float me—for the vessel was rapidly sinking—but could get only a steamer chair. It seemed to me not that the vessel was sinking, but that the water was rising to engulf me. Slowly it came up like a hungry monster stealing upon its prey; then suddenly the bow pitched, the stern rose, and I was engulfed in the cold black ocean."

"When I came up I was still clinging to the steamer chair. But I knew it would not serve me long, for I was rapidly becoming benumbed with the cold. I was losing consciousness when I felt a hand seize my arm and I was dragged on to an improvised raft. When I felt a rope being placed around my body and knew that I was being lashed to my support. But there was no one on it with me. Presently I felt a pair of lips pressed against mine. I opened my eyes and saw a man's face. He had fiery red hair. That's all I gathered of his appearance—his hair was very red. Then I felt my raft slightly lightened. I knew that a man had pulled me on to the raft, and, since it would not bear two, he had got off into the water. I lost consciousness with the knowledge that he had given his life for mine."

"Poor fellow!" remarked the hostess.

"The wireless telegraph had called for help, and I was picked up by a boat from a steamer that had come to our rescue. As I was carried on to the deck from the boat who should I see standing with his hands in his pockets looking at me but—"

"Your preserver?"

"The red-headed man. He saw me and blushed. Coming to me, he said, 'I beg your pardon for what I did.'"

"What do you mean?" I asked.

"The kiss. I didn't expect to ever see you again."

"I know you didn't. You expected to give your life for mine. Come here."

"He came to me shrinkingly as a child expecting a whipping. I threw my arms about his neck and cried with my lips against his."

"Ladies," said the hostess, the speaker having finished, "we don't need to ask who is Mr. Dorrance. It's plain enough."

The story teller did not deny the fact, and the party broke up.

"That was a very affecting story of Mrs. Dorrance's," said a lady to another.

"Very. But what a pity it was that we had a red head!"

PENNSYLVANIA MINES ONE-FIFTH OF WORLD'S COAL.

Record-Breaking Output—Last Year's Production Reached the Enormous Total of 265 Million Tons, a Gain Over 1912 of 23 Million.

Pennsylvania mined more coal in 1913, both anthracite and bituminous, than in any previous year in the history of the industry, according to a statement just issued by the United States Geological Survey from figures compiled by E. W. Parker in cooperation with State officials. The production reached the enormous total of 265,306,139 short tons, valued at $195,181,127, and 173,781,217 tons was bituminous or soft coal, valued at $193,039,806. The total tonnage broke the previous record for 1912 by 19,079,053 short tons, or nearly 8 per cent. The proportionate increase being about the same for both anthracite and bituminous. The gain in the value of anthracite, however, was $17,558,501, or about 10 per cent. over 1912 and in bituminous coal $23,669,303, or 14 per cent. The total gain over 1912 was $41,227,810, or nearly 12 per cent.

The magnitude of the coal-mining industry in Pennsylvania, as represented by the output of the anthracite and bituminous mines, is probably little realized. The combined production of 265,306,139 short tons in 1913 exceeded by more than 20 per cent the total production of the United States in 1898, only 15 years previous. It exceeded that of any other country in the world, except Great Britain and Germany, and approached within less than 10 per cent. of Germany's output. It was nearly five times the production of the Austro-Hungarian empire, nearly six times that of France, nine times that of Russia and Finland, and ten times that of Belgium. It was equal to nearly 20 per cent. of the world's total production, and exceeded the combined output of all the countries of the world other than Great Britain, Germany, and the United States. From 1829 to and including 1900 Pennsylvania contributed over 50 per cent. of the total coal production of the United States, and the State still produces between 45 and 50 per cent. of the total.

There was a decided gain in 1913 in the number of working days made by employees in Pennsylvania in both the anthracite and bituminous mines, the former making an average of 257 days compared with 231 days in 1912, and the latter 267 days, compared with 252 days in 1912. The anthracite mines gave employment to 175,745 men and the bituminous mines to 172,196 men. The unusually large number of working days enabled the miners to make exceptionally high records, the bituminous workers mining an average for the year of 1,009 tons each and the anthracite miners 522 tons.

It is pretty generally conceded by those interested in the production of anthracite that the limit of annual production has about been reached and that the yearly output will remain fairly constant until the period of decline begins. Anthracite as a manufacturing fuel has been eliminated, and the increasing use of coke and gas for domestic purposes in the territory supplied by anthracite coal is approximately keeping step with the increase in population.

Anthracite mining began between 790 and 1800, when a small quantity was produced for local consumption. To the close of 1913 the production of anthracite had amounted to 2,184,550,000 long tons, or 2,446,596,010 short tons.

The first records of the production of bituminous coal in Pennsylvania cover the year 1840, when 464,826 short tons was mined. The output of bituminous coal from 1840 to the close of 1913 has amounted to 2,731,45,059 short tons, from which it appears that the total production of bituminous coal in Pennsylvania now exceeds that of anthracite by over 200,000,000 tons.

A SERIOUS TOMATO DISEASE.

In several localities in New Jersey there has appeared in tomato fields a peculiar yellowing of the foliage which is sometimes confused with leaf spot or blight, but which in reality is a symptom of the tomato mosaic disease. This disease has been growing in importance during recent years and promises to become serious this year. The upper leaves become blotched with yellow, and are usually bunched in close rosettes. Fruit, if set, rarely develops, and fruit setting after the disease appears on a plant usually comes to a sudden stop.

At the present time no remedy for mosaic is known, nor is the cause known. Insects that live on tomato plants are thought to spread the infection. Of these insects the plant lice, which live on the under sides of the leaves, are most likely to be injurious in this way. Tobacco and soap solutions commonly used for these insects should serve to keep the plants clean. When but few sick plants are found in a field they should be removed at once, and if large sets can be obtained they should be planted in the vacant spaces at once. When over one half of the plants are attacked, this resource would probably be of little value. So far as the New Jersey State Experiment Station knows, Bordeaux mixtures or other sprays used to control other tomato diseases, will not effect the mosaic, unless they destroy insects that might spread the disease.

ALL STEEL BOX CARS.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is adding a new feature to its equipment. It is an all-steel box car. It will be to the company's freight service what the all-steel passenger car is to its passenger service, and the all-steel milk car is to its milk service.

The building of these experimental steel box cars is a part of the policy of the railroad to provide, for passengers and freight, equipment that will afford the greatest protection against accident, and at the same time insure comfort for passengers and protection against damage for freight.

has spoken more than boys on Stevens avenue people as they pass on that thoroughfare. On Tuesday one of these stones missed its object and struck M. A. McCarthy on his knee causing a painful wound. On Thursday an occupant of an auto was struck, when he stopped his machine and started after the boys, but they had too much start and escaped. What will strangers think of this town, if such work is allowed to exist. We are inviting people to spend Old Home Day with us. What for? Surely not to be hit by stones thrown by urchins. Such work is a disgrace and if our police department is not able to cope with it, let us employ some men who will break up this practice. No policeman parading through the avenue in uniform will catch these boys, as they are too foxy for them. Let an officer hide behind some fence, or in a building, and if he is not asleep he will soon notice this infamous practice going on. It can be broken up, and should be.

Upon strict instructions from the water committee, Commissioner Donlin is shutting off water from delinquents. He is receiving some abuse from those in arrears, but this does not deter him from doing his duty. The delinquents have no one to blame but themselves, for if they paid their water rents the same as the other honest property owners they would not be molested. For years those who pay their water rents have been carrying a lot of delinquents, and it is about time some action was taken. This city pays Perth Amboy for a lot of water and if every gallon used was paid for at price designated in ordinance the receipts should show big earnings. Every man who pays his water rent will commend the committee and commissioner for the action taken in cutting off service.

MANAGER WATSON ENTERTAINS TEAM

Manager Ambrose Watson, of the local Y. M. C. A. team, entertained the members of his team with a bluefish dinner after the game last Saturday night at his home on David street. The decorations were the colors of the Y. M. C. A. namely, red, white and green, intermixed with those of the team, blue and white. First baseman Ingraham rendered some dandy selections on the piano that won hearty applause. Louie Burlund sang "The Holy City" and was roundly cheered for his performance. Charles Shinn, who can usually be seen cavorting around in the vicinity of the second station, sang "In the Heart of a City that has no Heart" and received as much applause as if he'd just started a triple play. "Micky" Hoffman entertained the gathering with a number of slight of hand tricks. The guests departed at a late hour after a most enjoyable evening at the end of which they declared their host a most capital one. Those who attended did ample justice to the menu provided which was as follows:

Baked Bluefish
Lobster Salad Potato Salad
Olives Pickles Cheese
Orange Punch Lemon Punch
Coffee Ice Cream Soda

Watson says that as soon as the weather gets a little cooler the team expects to have a clam chowder supper.

If the Middlesex Embroidery Works team know when they are well off they will certainly accept Watson's invitation to come down and see the attraction on Old Home Day. Watson is busy now making preparations for their entertainment, if they do accept.

On the other night was by the return of a bride. Miss Nellie Fisher returned after the ceremony was performed by Rev. C. S. Lewis, presiding on an extended occasion when this was his first marriage. He at once pronounced the bride and groom a happy pair and gave the wedding cheer.

HEY THORN

Every street, every Wednesday afternoon, had only a few people and a few more death will be a very after-dinner talk. The summer term will be a very after-dinner talk.

Roddy was authorized to go ahead and exceed his appropriation if necessary. Mr. Roddy also requested a complete programme of the events. He also wanted photographs of the prominent members of the committees so as to work the whole thing into a story that he was writing for the New York Sunday papers. All the prizes, he said, were on display in the windows of the different merchants about town and that this would continue during the balance of this week. Next week they are to be collected and all displayed in one place.

No representatives of the Woman's Club were present, but Mr. VanPelt stated that he understood that there were over three hundred entries for the baby parade and that matters were progressing nicely and that the ladies were still working energetically.

Mr. J. A. Sexton, chairman of the committee on automobile parade, stated that he had been successful in procuring several appropriate prizes for his parade and that they were already on display. A list of these prizes and a few more details of this report will be found in another part of this issue of the Citizen.

Motions to the effect that Mr. F. L. Sheppard and Mr. Victor Wierman, Pennsylvania Railroad officials, be extended an invitation to the celebration were ratified. These invitations are also to be extended to Mr. McFadden and Mr. Bessler, of the Central Railroad.

Fire Chief Compton stated that he had conferred with the representative of fire engine people who are to send one of their largest fire trucks here for exhibition on the day of the Old Home Day celebration. He stated that the route selected for this engine would be from the starting point at the corner of Bordentown and Stevens avenue, down Bordentown avenue to Broadway, thence across Broadway to Main street, up Main street to Stevens avenue, thence back across Stevens avenue to the starting point. There they would hook up to the fire plug and throw a stream of water over into Frog Hollow. All this was to be done in three minutes from the starting time, which will be at eleven o'clock sharp. After the exhibition there the engine will more than likely go down to the dock somewhere and try pumping sea water.

Line of March As Arranged for Parade

The parade committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. Burden, is getting along famously. The route of the parade for Old Home Day has been decided upon and other important matters arranged. The entries for the parade will close with the adjournment of the committee meeting held in the City Hall next Monday night, when the drawing for positions in the parade line of march will be held. Chairman Burden is desirous of receiving further entries as soon as possible in order to facilitate the work of his committee.

The tentative line of march for the main parade on Old Home Day starts at the corner of John street and Stevens avenue, and across to Bordentown avenue; down Bordentown avenue to Broadway, across Broadway passing the reviewing stand to Main street, and up this street to Washington avenue, thence on up Washington to Feltus street. Here the parade will swing off and go over to Center street, to Cedar street, and back Cedar street to Washington avenue. Back Washington avenue to Feltus street and across to Henry street and down to Pine avenue. Across Pine avenue to John street and then down to Stevens avenue again, across the avenue to Augusta street and down to Rosewell street. Here the parade will swing across to John street and up to Broadway again. From there the march will be on Broadway all the way to Second street, turning up Second street and on up to Stevens avenue where the disbandment will take place.

It is estimated that the march will cover about three and one-half miles and will consume in the neighborhood of an hour and a half. There will be several out-of-town fire companies represented in addition to the local apparatus and several bands. A number of floats are being prepared and constructed amongst which is that of the Grand Army which will be an army scene of magnitude. Business men and others are busily engaged in planning unique floats for entrance in this event and with the societies that have already signified their intention of entering and those that will do so later, there is every reason to suppose that the affair will be gigantic in its proportions.

If you would be a Home Day booster I'll tell you how to do the trick—Just get a bunch of stickers And stick, brother, stick.

AQUATIC EVENTS FOR OLD HOME DAY

The aquatic events of the Old Home Day promise to be a complete success. A new chairman was recently appointed in the person of Morgan Lambertson. Mr. Lambertson has been in charge of the water sports at Morgan for several years and as they have always been an unqualified success there is every reason to suppose that those now in his hands will be so also. He has been working energetically on the water sports for the celebration lately and has rounded things into good shape. Anyone so wishing may be an entrant to any of the events composing the water sports. There is no entrance fee required and prizes are to be given out for each event. The only requirement is that of filling an entrance blank, properly filled out, with the chairman of this committee as soon as possible. The events will be started at the time of high tide which will be at nine o'clock in the morning. Prizes will consist of first and second prizes for each event and these prizes are on exhibition in the windows of the different merchants in and about the city. Many entrants from nearby towns and cities will doubtless be entered in these contests as they are open to all who care to participate. The following events have been scheduled:

Distance swim, open to all—city pier to Whitehead's dock and return.

Short distance swim, open to all—200 yards.

Short distance swim, open for those under 16 years—100 yards.

The prizes for the first event mentioned here will be a bar pipe and the second prize is a good fountain pen. In the second event the prizes will be a fountain pen to the winner and a necktie to the second prize winner. The third event first prize will be a bathing jersey and the second prize a necktie.

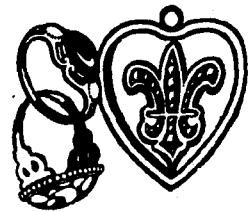

Canoeing singles will be open to all and the first prize for the winner will be a paddle and the second prize a pipe.

A set of canoe doubles will also be one of the events and one will be open to all with two canoe cushions for the first prize and necktie for the second prize. Canoe doubles for ladies and gentlemen, also open to all, will have prizes of pipes and ladies' bathing shoes.

LETTER TO FARMERS.

F. R. Stevens, Agriculturist, Lehigh Valley Railroad.)

The army worm has appeared generally throughout the East, on all green things. It is an immature form of a bug which deposits its eggs in rank growths of grass. Ordinarily such food is plentiful enough for these worms and they cause no injury to crops, but, when owing to the failure of natural checks such as parasites, etc., the caterpillars become abundant, they assume the army habit and work in more or less of a definite line across fields, consuming everything in their paths. The following season the usual enemies will probably have them under control again and little damage will be done.

These moths appear early in June and lay their eggs in the grass and leaves. In ten days the eggs hatch out and the worms feed for three or four weeks. The worms are now about one and one-half to two inches in length and of a dark gray or dirty black in color with three narrow yellow stripes above and a slightly broader and darker one on each side. These caterpillars now enter the ground and transform into pupae from which the adult moths emerge in about two weeks. There are usually about three broods each year. Among the parasitic enemies is a small fly which lays its eggs on the backs of the caterpillars. Of the larvae observed in the field this year, approximately 75 per cent. are parasitic. This is a good indication that few will survive the season.

All efforts should be centered on keeping the worms out of the grass and crops already not affected. To prevent their progress a dust furrow is ordinarily the most satisfactory. In lawns or grass where possible without injury to the fodder spray the field with Paris Green, using three to five pounds of the green to fifty gallons of water. Poisoned bran scattered in front of the advancing worms is also effective. This mixture is prepared as follows: 50 pounds of bran, 2½ pounds paris green, mixed well together when dry. Dilute five gallons of molasses in nine gallons of water and add the juice of eight lemons and the rind and pulp chopped fine. Add this molasses and lemon solution to the bran and Paris Green and moisten, but do not make it so wet that it will harden when it dries. When these insects are working in alfalfa anywhere near ready to harvest, cut it immediately and roll the stubble.

The worms will probably disappear in about a week, but may reappear about August 15th. Fight them hard now and be ready for them again in August.

The Roof in Literature.
Northern literature has never taken the roof seriously. There have been many books written from the viewpoint of windows. The study window is usual. Then there is a college window and the Thrums window; also, there is a window viewpoint as yet scarcely expressed—that of the boy of Stevenson's poems with his nose flattened against the glass; convalescence looking for sailormen with one leg. What is "Un Philosophie sous les Toits" but a garret and its prospect? But does Souvestre ever go up on the roof? He contents himself with opening his casement and feeding crumbs to the birds. Not once does he climb out and scramble around the mansard. On wintry nights neither his legs nor thoughts join the windy devils that play tempest overhead. Then, again, from Westminster bridges, from country lanes, from crowded streets, from ships at sea and mountain tops have sonnets been thrown to the moon; not once from the roof.—Yale Review.

Building a House in France.
It is unusual for a house, however small, to be erected in France without the service of an architect, who not only draws the plans, but actually superintends the work. Usually it is the architect who orders the building material and assures himself that its quality is up to the specifications and requirements. The contractor and his workmen perform their duties in conformity with the architect's orders, and the latter is usually a man with capital, and the funds required in order the contractor need not wait for until the building is completed. However, the French law limits the architect to a serious role, since he is well as the responsible for all the destruction during a period

Sayre & Fisher Co. Will Pay Damages

Andrew Sudman, of Sayreville, Monday received a judgment for compensation for 152 weeks at $6 a week from Sayre & Fisher Co., of Sayreville, for whom he had worked. His right leg had been injured in a mangling machine. Dr. Donohue had attended him for seven weeks. The petition asked for compensation for a part of his foot, the toes of which were gone. Judge Daly asked the man to bare his injured leg and found that member was shrunken and apparently of no use to the man. He thought that the injury was more than the loss of a part of the foot and asked Dr. Laurence Runyon, who was in court on another case, to take the man in the ante room and make an examination. The doctor reported that the man's leg was of no more use to him than if he had an artificial leg. Sayre & Fisher Co. was agreeable to any arrangement for compensation having looked after the man after the accident. The court allowed A. V. Schenck, counsel for the petitioner, $20 and Dr. Runyon a fee of $10 for his examination. The court commuted the judgment to a lump sum, so that the plaintiff can return to the old country.

Mrs. Victoria B. Frelinghuysen.

Mrs. Victoria Bowen Frelinghuysen, widow of Frederick J. Frelinghuysen, and mother of Former Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen, of Somerset county, died at Raritan, on Sunday in her 84th year. Death was due to old age. Mrs. Frelinghuysen was the last of the members of the Ely family, and originally came from Connecticut. She was the daughter of Colonel Joseph F. Ely and a granddaughter of Colonel John Ely, who married Sarah Worthington. Her ancestors were among those who aided Washington in the Revolutionary war. The late Frederick J. Frelinghuysen was a noted lawyer. Beside Senator Frelinghuysen, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Southwick. There are four grandchildren surviving. They are M. F. Southwick and Victor, Emily and Joseph Frelinghuysen, Jr.

Nab Spite-Fence Man in Rumson.

James M. Allgor, the spite-fence man of Rumson road, was arrested again Sunday for about the twentieth time. On this occasion he stood in front of St. George's Church and offered for sale to the church-goers at five cents each post cards containing pictures of his former bungalow and the famed fence. He also carried a baseball bat on which was inscribed the name of the rector of St. George's Church, Rev. W. Dutton Dale. It could not be proved that in his tirades to the church people Allgor used any names, so Justice of the Peace Yeoman of Oceanic had to discharge him. On his release he at once went back to his former occupation, but was careful to stay on the Seabright side of the Shrewsbury River, St. George's Church being on Rumson road and out of this jurisdiction.

Mrs. Ruckl Dies Suddenly.

Mrs. William Ruckl, wife of William Ruckl, of South River, dropped dead at her home Sunday at noon. Mrs. Ruckl attended service at St. Mary's Church and hurried home to prepare dinner. It is believed she became overheated and suffered a fatal attack of heart disease.

Crack Safe, Get Market Receipts.

Between Saturday night and Monday morning robbers entered the office of the Perth Amboy City Market, blew open the safe and obtained Saturday's receipts, estimated to be between $900 and $1,000. The thieves carried in bags of flour and salt and covered the safe so as to deaden the noise of the explosion. Chief of Police Burke says tools left at the office are of the most approved design.

Court Protects Contested Sewaren Curve.

Pending a final hearing, there is to be no interference by the Woodbridge Township authorities with the operation by the Public Service Railroad Company of its cars over a curve connection with the line of the Public Service Railway Company in Sewaren. This was Vice-Chancellor Emery's conclusion Tuesday after hearing further argument and an additional affidavit submitted by Township Attorney Ephraim Cutter in the defendant township's behalf. It was contended by Mr. Cutter that the Public Utility Commissioners, in making the order permitting the connection, acted under a misapprehension as to the scope of its powers in the premises. The vice-chancellor said that, in view of the fact that the Utility Board has passed on the application to make the connection, it wouldn't be right for the court, on a preliminary application, and on affidavits merely, to determine finally the issue thus raised. A temporary injunction was granted on the terms contained in the restraining order incorporated in a rule to show cause, with the additional condition that the cars of the Public Service Railroad Company are to make stops in Sewaren, the same as the Public Service Railway Company's cars.

Fellekate Preacher on Birthday.

Members of the New Brunswick District Preachers' Association met at Ocean Grove on Monday and passed resolutions congratulating the organization's chairman, Rev. Dr. J. H. Hawhurst, on his eighty-seventh birthday. Dr. Hawhurst is retired from active work. He spent forty-eight years in the service of the Methodist Episcopal church in New York State.

Roller Chair Owners Quit Fight.

The authorities, of Atlantic City, warring with rolling chair magnates, gained a double victory Monday when counsel for Henry E. Hess, a chair baron, appealing to Supreme Court Justice Garrison, in Camden, for a writ of certiorari to review the finding of Hess for failure to pay chair licenses, abandoned the proceeding. After a brief conference in court it was announced that Hess had concluded to surrender unconditionally and pay the chair tax.

Manasquan Picks New School Head.

The Board of Education of Manasquan Monday night picked Walter B. Hatfield of Port Deposit, Md., as successor to Superintendent of Public Schools Herbert E. Richardson, who was discharged as the result of charges of cruelty being lodged against him by the parents of pupils in the schools. Professor Hatfield is a Princeton graduate and an honor man of the class of '03.

Woman Burned To Death.

Mrs. Sabina Lewis, a member of a pioneer family, was found burned to death in the kitchen of her home in Long Branch avenue, Long Branch, Tuesday morning. Aaron Van Schoelck, the only inmate of the house, is held by Corner Morris pending an investigation. He was asleep on the second floor. It is expected that the woman was preparing a meal when her clothing took fire. Neighbors saw the blaze and gave the alarm.

Farmer Killed by Lightning.

While working in a field with his grandmother and six-year-old son, on his farm near Allentown Tuesday afternoon, Frederick Johns, thirty-five years old, was struck by lightning and killed instantly, his body falling beside the aged woman and the youngster. The bolt struck him on the head while he was pushing a wheelbarrow, and the electricity traveled down his left side and caused blue flames and sparks to be emitted from his shoes. Johns leaves several children besides a widow.

Mercer County Damaged by Storm.

Damage to crops and buildings in Trenton and Mercer County generally was caused by a hail and rain storm, which struck this section late Monday. Large chunks of hail fell, smashing thousands of windows in many buildings, while the rain overflowed sewers and flooded cellars. The wind blew at a rate of sixty miles an hour. There was a drop in the temperature of fifteen degrees in a very short time. Telephone and telegraph wires were blown down, and trees were uprooted. The storm was accompanied by little thunder or lightning.

Hail Injures Spotswood Crops.

Considerable damage to fields of corn and the truck gardens in the vicinity of Spotswood was caused Monday by hail stones. The storm in this section was accompanied by a high wind. In some instances whole fields of corn were blown down by the wind or beaten down by the hail and are total losses.

Larson-Stephens.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Susie Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stephens of 32 Lufbery street, Rahway, and Peter Larson of Perth Amboy. The ceremony took place in Perth Amboy Saturday night and was performed by Rev. V. B. Skov. Mr. and Mrs. Larson will reside in Perth Amboy.

Dr. John Henry Griffith.

Dr. John Henry Griffith, seventy-two years old, died at his home at Phillipsburg on Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. He had been ill more than a year with a complication of diseases.

Dr. Griffith was born in Monmouth County July 3, 1842. He received his early education at the New Jersey Classical and Scientific Institute at Hightstown and later went to Pennington Seminary. After that he taught school for seven years and then began the study of medicine, later entering Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia.

On August 28, 1869, Dr. Griffith married and went to Phillipsburg in 1870. Prior to that he had been an intern at Bellevue Hospital, New York. He was elected Mayor of Phillipsburg on the Republican ticket in 1882 and 1883, and in 1884 was elected to the Board of Education, where he served twelve years.

For many years Dr. Griffith had been prominent in the I. O. O. F. He passed through all the State offices and also those of Accho Lodge of Phillipsburg. At the time of his death he was president of Past Grand Patriarchs of New Jersey and grand high priest of New Jersey.

Dr. Griffith was one of the original members of the Warren County Medical Society and was one of the committee that wrote its history. He also was historian of Phillipsburg for many years. In 1897 he was a member of the Board of Prison Examiners. Dr. Griffith was a member of Greenwich Council, Royal Arcanum, and of the Knights of Pythias. He was president of the Alert Hook-and-Ladder Company for twenty-eight years, and for some years was manager of the Snails, a noted baseball team of Phillipsburg.

The widow, two sons and four daughters survive. The sons are Dr. William Griffith of Brooklyn and Percy Griffith of Phillipsburg. The daughters are Mrs. Charles Atwood of Albany, Mrs. Clara Gordon and the Misses Sarah and Margaret Griffith of Phillipsburg.

THE UNDERTAKER'S CALLING

By JOHN F. MARTIN.

WHAT does death mean? How can the undertaker realize the idly, carelessly, calmly, scene and the conditions? If he does coldly and unfeelingly do not, if he cannot, then nature cast we often speak of death. It is him in the wrong mold. He has no all uninteresting except when it place or call to be in the house of is brought home to us by the departure of a near and dear relative or friend. Then, and only then, do we realize that death is the greatest, saddest, most heartrending tragedy in life. It is the one tragedy of tragedies. It is the one event dreaded and feared by all. It is the one ever overshadowing, omnipresent fact in life of every man. Unreasoning, pitiless, merciless death comes to all, at all hours, at all times and in all places. None can ward off its visits. None can escape. Who can measure, much less picture, the grief of those who have loved and lost through death?

WINNER AGAIN

Maker Council No. 69, Jr. O. 4, is planning on sending a large delegation to the next Past Councilors Association meeting, which is to be held in Milltown on Tuesday, Sept. 8th. At a meeting of this kind held in Jamesburg some time ago this council won a banner for having the largest delegation present. A short time later, at the last meeting which was held in Spotswood, they lost the banner to some other council. This time the local laddies are preparing to compete for the banner again and they are reasonably confident of securing it too.

However, the thing that the local council is devoting its best efforts to is in preparation for the celebration of the centennial of the Star Spangled Banner and their own twenty-fourth anniversary, both of which fall in the next month. Committees are working energetically for this observance of anniversaries and from present indications there will be a big time due. It has been specially requested that all of the members of the uniformed guards will be present at the meeting to-night (Friday), as business of importance is to be transacted and plans for this celebration will also be brought up.

Handsome Prizes For Athletic Events

Prizes for athletic events at picnic of the Sacred Heart Parish on Labor Day at Stevensdale grounds will soon be on exhibition in certain store windows. Watch for them.

The baseball game will be between the Y. M. C. A. and the Neptunes, and some good spirited playing is prophesied. All should witness this contest.

Among the athletic events will be half-mile run, 100 yd. dash for juniors, 100 yd. dash for seniors and obstacle race. The prizes will be as follows:

Half-mile run—Combination pearl handle pen and pocket knife. Second prize, Eveready safety razor.

The judges will be James Cantion, Teofil Kwilinski and Frank Grace.

All contests are open to entrants from this city only. A fee of twenty-five cents will be asked of all entrants except in the junior events. Frank Kabosky will receive entries for these events.

DROWNED FROM DREDGE.

John McSperry, of Jersey City, employed on a dredge at work at Cheesequake creek near Morgan station, was drowned Saturday. He lost his balance and fell backward into the water. Fellow workmen on the dredge watched for him but his body never came to the surface and no trace of the man could be found. It is thought he struck his head on a obstruction underneath the water and was knocked senseless. Grappling hooks were used and the body recovered.

MRS. BERTHA SCHALLING.

Mrs. Bertha Schalling, wife of William Schalling, departed this life at her home at Union on Sunday last of tuberculosis at the age of 26 years.

The body was removed to Brooklyn on Monday by Undertaker McCarthy, where services were held on Wednesday and interment made in Flatbush cemetery.

PAINTS AND PAINTING.

Painters are now applying this great preservative paint on my buildings. As this paint cannot be tampered with it must be applied in hot weather. If applied now, it will make a worthless roof practically as good as new. Paint an old roof with it, and I will guarantee a better roof than a new one without paint. LOVELY NAMED FOR MAYOR

Democrats Decide to Endorse Him—C. W. Stuart Will Run for Councilman-at-Large—R. M. Mack for City Clerk—Committeemen File Petitions.

The Democrats are beginning to wake up in this city, and have made up a slate which they believe will lead the party to victory this fall. It required considerable persuasion to get some citizens to run as candidates, but finally a number have decided to make the canvass. The outlook at present is that the ticket will be made up as follows:

Mayor—Thomas Lovely. Councilman-at-Large—Charles W. Stuart.

City Clerk—Richard M. Mack. Committeemen—Third Ward, John Connors and George Gundrum have petitions out. Fourth Ward—C. L. Cozzens.

An active campaign will be made to regain control of the city government, and it is believed by united effort success can be obtained.

Grace Has Filed His Petition for Assembly

Charles T. Grace, Democratic candidate for Assembly, has filed his petition with the County Clerk. The petition had the signature of about 450 men of all walks and professions, including Congressman Thomas J. Scully, Senator Wm. E. Ramsey, Surgeon D. W. Clayton, Assemblyman George L. Burton, Freeholders Alfred T. Kerr and Theodore Cohn, County Solicitor John A. Coan, Guy C. Weaver, Alderman-at-Large, John Kutcher, 4th Ward Alderman, Richard F. White, City Collector and James J. Flynn, Corner, of Perth Amboy; city township and borough officials from New Brunswick, Spott River, Milltown, Sayreville and Spotswood, including all local city officials of Democratic complexion such as Councilmen O'Connor and Stanton.

CHARLES T. GRACE.

Ex-Mayors McGonigle, Chase, Mulheide and Welsh. City Clerk Mack, Treasurer Perrine, Collector Suttill, Ex-Councilmen Stuart and Manhattan, Postmaster Rea, County Committeemen Bullman and Carroll, with about 150 others from this city and over 250 from New Brunswick, Perth Amboy, East Brunswick and South Brunswick townships, Piscataway, Dunellen, South Plainfield, Madison Township, Old Bridge, Spotswood, Helmetta Jamesburg, Cranbury, Milltown, South River, Sayreville, Easton and Morgan.

Rumors have been rife that Mr. Grace would likely be the Mayoralty candidate but we understand he has declined this owing to his previously having consented to be an assembly candidate. He is well qualified for either office and would prove a valuable official. Grace is very prominent in railroad circles as well as being known state wide in fraternal affairs being very prominently associated as a state officer in two or three of these organizations. This should be valuable to his party and make him a strong candidate on the county ticket.

Nels Barkalow while passing along upper Main street Monday night attempted to get out of the way of an automobile, was struck by a bicycle ridden by a young man. His knee was badly injured. Dr. Euler attended to the injury.

P. V. DeGRAW DIES AT WASHINGTON

After an illness of six months, Peter Voorhees DeGraw, former Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, died early last Saturday morning at his home, 210 Maryland avenue northeast, Washington D. C. His wife and son were at the bedside at the time of his death. Mr. DeGraw had been sinking for two weeks. A hemorrhage early in the evening of Friday was followed by unconsciousness, during which the end came. Death was due to a complication of diseases.

Peter Voorhees DeGraw was born at Princeton, N. J., sixty years ago. After receiving a common school education, he became a telegrapher for the Camden and Amboy railroad at this city, the office being situated on the old steamboat wharf. At that time Mr. DeGraw resided with his parents on Main street in one of the houses that was torn down to make room for the new roadway.

In 1874 he took one of the eight leased keys operating on the first leased wire between New York and Washington for the New York Associated Press, and in 1875 went to Washington as a member of the editorial staff of the Associated Press. He was in turn Washington manager of the Western Association, southern manager, and assistant general manager of the Southern Associated Press, until 1897.

After a short period in commercial work in Philadelphia he again took up his former work, and was appointed press representative in Washington for the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

In 1905, Mr. DeGraw was appointed by President Taft to the position of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, which he held up to the Wilson Administration.

Mr. DeGraw had charge of the installation of the parcel post, which went into effect on January 1, 1913, and supervision of the delivery system throughout the country. Mr. DeGraw was one of the organizers of the now celebrated Gridiron Club, of Washington.

He was a cousin of Frank E. DeGraw of this city.

James Briggs and Son Escape Serious Inquiry

James H. Briggs and his son, Wiloughby, were in an auto accident on Tuesday and fortunately escaped serious injury. When near Outcalt his Ford automobile skidded, causing the right front wheel to break and upsetting the machine. His son was caught under the car, and his cries attract the attention of Mrs. H. Seliger, of Philadelphia, who is spending a few weeks at Helmetta, and Mrs. Pell Mitchell, of New York. They with the assistance of Mr. Briggs helped get the machine off the boy. He was only badly bruised, and Mr. Briggs escaped injury.

MRS. WIATR FALLS DOWN STAIRS

Mrs. Martin Wiatr, of Henry street and Pine avenue, fell down stairs Wednesday evening about six o'clock. When picked up she was unconscious and Dr. E. A. Meacham was called. Examination showed that she had fractured an arm and several ribs and had also a fractured skull. She was at once taken to St. Peter's Hospital in New Brunswick in an automobile of a friend. It is thought an operation may be necessary as a result of the fractured skull.

THIEVES ROB HOTEL.

The hotel of John Braney on First street was entered by thieves on Thursday night. Entrance was made through the transom on front door. About $5.00 in change and some liquor was taken. The case has been reported to the police.

WATERMELON CUT.

Miss Mae Brown entertained a number of friends Tuesday evening at her home on John street to a watermelon cut, in honor of Prof. and Mrs. Paul S. Miller, who will shortly leave the city to take up their residence at Union Hill. Singing and dancing were greatly enjoyed by all present.

REPUBLICANS MAKE SLATE

Endorse Mayor Dey and Councilman-at-Large Stratton for Re-Election—Dr. Albright Named for Councilman in Second Ward and Fred Isely in Third—M. E. Magee for Clerk.

The Republican Club held a meeting in the rooms of the Business Men's Association last Monday evening and selected a number of candidates for the coming election. There were quite a number present, being mostly the old guard that may be counted on to attend meetings of this kind.

Those selected as candidates may be summed up as follows:

For Mayor—William S. Dey. For Councilman-at-Large—Collin J. Stratton.

For City Clerk—William J. Edwards. For Councilman, second ward—Dr. J. C. Albright.

For Councilman, third ward—Fredrick Isely.

For Executive Committeeman, third ward—Andrew Seaman.

When Mayor Dey was nominated he stated that he would be only too glad to step back and let someone else have the nomination if there were any others that desired to take it. He felt that he had done all the good that he could, but the members present wouldn't hear of anything like that. Several of those present had something to say regarding the mayor's ability as chief executive of the city and he was finally given a unanimous vote as a declaration of choice by the party.

Councilman-at-Large Stratton was the only one spoken of for the position which he now holds, and he made a few remarks on the subject of his becoming a candidate for reelection. He said that although the duties of his office were by no means easy to fulfill he had filled them to the best of his ability. In filling this position in the manner that would be best for all concerned he knew that he had not pleased everyone and that as a consequence there had been more or less criticism. He stated that he had been told that some of his people had become tired of him and that he did not wish to become a candidate unless it was the expressed wish of his party. He would do all that laid within his power to help any other man if the party wished to substitute someone else in his place and he believed that it would require the unqualified support of his party to elect him if he was chosen. He concluded with the statement that he would work earnestly and if elected would continue to perform the duties incumbent upon his office with the same general broad-mindedness which had guided him so far this year. The mayor had a few words to say in assurance to Mr. Stratton, giving it as his opinion that the present councilman-at-large had made a very capable as well as efficient officer both in and out of the council chamber and further that the experience already gained would be a great asset in handling matters pertaining to city business for another term. When put to a vote Mr. Stratton was given an enthusiastic unanimous vote of acclaim.

The selection of candidates for the wards was rather difficult as it has to be borne in mind that the opposition would probably be tremendous. After considerable discussion and consideration Dr. J. C. Albright, of Broadway, was nominated for the representation in the Second ward and Mr. Fred Isely for nominee in the Third ward. The city clerkship was also difficult of fulfillment. Mr. William J. Edwards, of Second street, was finally settled upon for this nomination and like the others given an unanimous vote.

Considerable time was given to the discussion of candidates for constable in the Fourth ward. The matter was finally left in the hands of the vacancy committee.

Mr. Charles T. Mason presided as chairman of the meeting and appointed Messrs. Daniel J. Donlin, Collin J. Stratton and A. H. Slover to act as a vacancy committee. This committee has power to fill any vacancies appearing.

$1 A YEAR S FOP

When we reach business at the Board evening a report of the finance committee was submitted by the present for three hundred and for his services as school moneys for the past. In making his report the Mr. Grace, stated that he figured this matter care reached the conclusion that ent custodian was the school moneys all right and that the committee rec that the Board of Education sider him as the custodian would further recomm salary be one dollar per y tion to the effect that the re tions of the finance commi respect be endorsed was carried. Another important question was decided was that of the vaccination of the pupils in the school. question was brought up by Davis, who stated that a gentleman had asked him to ascertain theings of the board upon this c as regards the coming year. that this gentleman had ch were not vaccinated last v reason or another, such ness of examinations, e expressed an opinion t see any adequate reas State laws should not b strictly. It was the sta vided these laws and he that there should be any He stated that although approve of the vaccination and had taken an active st the enforcement of these year, still when the majo board decided upon vaci children were the first o vaccinated. There were a ninety-eight per cent of the and pupils who had compli the laws in this respect no would not advocate making ceptions in the beginning of t year. The consensus of opinio the board agreed with Mr. Grace the reporters were requested to phasise the fact that board would rquire the strict observance of the state laws pertaining to the vaccination question.

The meeting of the board was held in the office of the city superintendent in School No. 2 and all the members were on hand. The minutes were read and it was noticed that the secretary had made a mistake in the amount of the draft that was ordered issued to Mrs. E. E. Haines in payment for a safe purchased from her. The amount of the draft should have been thirty-five dollars and it was drawn for thirty.

Some little time was devoted to the discussion of a proposition submitted by a representative of the firm of Underwood & Underwood. The proposition dealt with the purchase by the board of a stereoscope arrangement showing views of different parts of this country or of the whole world if so desired. By using this apparatus the pupil studying geography, for instance, would read of a certain country and then turn to the stereopion views and actually see the place he had just read about. Whatever the advantages of this scheme might be the board did not feel that they would be justified in incurring the expense of providing this arrangement at the present time so further consideration of the proposition was deferred until such time as the board might find out how they stood with regard to the furnishing of the things that are absolutely necessary.

The contracts for the erection of the two fire escapes on School No. 1 were executed by the board and the vice president of the Vulcan Rail and Construction Company, who was present for that purpose. It only remains for the State Board to approve of the drawings and then the work of the erection will go forward. The work is to be completed within

New Brunswick then came into prominence at the expense of the village which was much further from the river. A new White Church was built by Joseph Foulke, of New York City, and the old pulpit was restored in the ancient elevated style. It is probably the only one in New Jersey of that character in the Episcopal Church. The people built a school house in the rear of the Church by private subscription and when it was burnt by an incendiary the present building was erected from the insurance.

About fifty years ago, Forman Martin and others planted trees through the commons and they are now in a flourishing condition. Recently the Raritan Civic Association of Piscatawaytown was organized and their first work has been to use the old commons for a public park and playground.

The Township Committee appointed a Board of Playground Commissioners and they form the Park Committee of the Association. They are John McNaughton, Charles A. Blake, D. Manning Drake, Charles W. Britton, and Rev. Henry Hale Gifford. On application of this Commission the Board of Education of Raritan Township have transferred the old school building to the Township Committee and it will be used for public purposes and to promote the interests of the park and playground. Undergrowth and weeds have encumbered the park and for

In these documents, every case the years immediately preceding 1875 are referred to as "war years" in English industry. There was an unexampled trade expansion. The national income jumped from $5,500,000,000 in 1870 to $6,000,000,000 in 1874, an increase of 1000. The average yearly wages for the same years were $100,000, and $2,700,000,000. Atop of Mount McKinley.

Archdeacon Stuck in his account of his climb to the summit of Mount McKinley, "The Ascent of Denali," gives this description of his impressions upon reaching it: "Immediately before us, in the direction in which we had climbed, lay—nothing; a void, a sheer gulf many thousands of feet deep, and one shrank back instinctively from the little parapet of snow basin when one had glanced at the awful profundity. Across the gulf, about 3,000 feet beneath us and fifteen or twenty miles away, sprang most splendidly into view the great mass of Denali's Wife, or Mount Foraker, as some white men misname her, filling majestically all the middle distance. * * * And never was nobler sight displayed to man than that great isolated mountain, spread out completely, with all its spurs and ridges, its cliffs and its glaciers, lofty and mighty, and yet far beneath us. * * * Beyond stretched, blue and vague to the southwest, the wide valley of the Kuskokwim, with an end of all mountains. * * * It was, however, to the south and the east that the most marvelous prospect opened before us.

Seize Three for Selling Opium.

On evidence obtained in a raid early Sunday morning when the police broke into the rear of a Chinese restaurant at 1133 Springwood avenue, Asbury Park, three Chinese were held for the grand jury by Police Magistrate Borden on charges of selling and using opium. The alleged proprietor of the so-called "joint," Joe Sing, was held in $1,000 bail, and Chu Yung and Lung Sing, who were found by the raiders, they reported, in the act of smoking, were held in $250 bail. The raid was led by County Detective Chester A. Haines, assisted by six local detectives and policemen. According to the police, the most serious phase of their case against Sing is that Sing is alleged to have sold smoking opium to all corners, black, white or Chinese. Marked money, used by a detective in payment for opium secured a few hours before the raid, was found in Sing's cash drawer, the raiders declared.

Progressives Hold Outing.

The Progressives of Sayreville and other parts of Middlesex county invaded Seldier's Beach on Saturday where they held a political confab and enjoyed an appetizing shore dinner. The Bull Moose men were very enthusiastic about the county ticket this coming election. They talked frequently of the G. O. P. machine and planned an attack on the Republican party. The candidacy of William Quackenboss, of New Brunswick, was unanimously endorsed by the club. When his name was mentioned for office of county clerk, it received much applause. Otto W. Hillmann, president of the Sayreville Progressive Club, was the chairman, and called upon James A. Edgar, chairman of the county committee, who responded with a few remarks, complimenting the Progressive Club of Sayreville for their fine showing. Mr. Edgar spoke briefly of the principles of the party and requested each individual to start at once to work to elect their candidates on election day. Joseph Crowell, candidate for sheriff, who resides at Perth Amboy, had his petition at the confab and received a number of signatures. Mr. Crowell made a short speech, in which he told of the strength of the Progressives in Perth Amboy.

Dr. Henry Entertains Physicians.

The Middlesex County Medical Association held its regular meeting on the three-hundred-and-fifty-acre farm of Dr. F. C. Henry, of Holmdel, Saturday. The mansion of Dr. Henry is one of the oldest in this section of the state, being close to 150 years old. The doctors of the county had a most enjoyable day at the farm, as the guests of Dr. Henry, who is president of the association.

Eighteen doctors were present at the meeting and some interesting cases of diabetes and gangrene were presented and discussed by Dr. Frank M. Donohue, Dr. A. L. Smith, of New Brunswick, Dr. John L. Lund, of Perth Amboy and Dr. Spenser, of Woodbridge. The cases were those handled by the doctors during the past few months.

After the discussion Dr. Henry had a delightful supper served from the products of his farm. Dr. Frank M. Donohue gave the members an invitation to hold their next meeting, which will be held in October, on his farm at Sea Cliff. The invitation was accepted.

Compensation Awarded.

Samuel Gowen, of New Brunswick, who lost the first phalange of his second finger on his left hand, while working for the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., on October 31, 1913, has received an order from Judge Daly, entitling him to $7.28 a week for fifteen weeks, under the employers' compensation act. He was the only witness. He had been earning $14.28 a week, and the compensation is 50 per cent. of his wages. George L. Burton represented him and Theodore Strong appeared for the railroad company. A counsel fee of $10 was allowed Mr. Burton.

Actor Fined For Speeding.

Bert Williams, an actor, was arrested while speeding through Red Bank. He was fined $25 and costs by Justice Edward W. Wise. "Ziegfeld's money is paying for this," was all Williams had to say.

LeRoy Jackson.

LeRoy Jackson, for thirty years coachman in the family of Frank L. Sheppard, died Tuesday morning at West Long Branch from a complication of diseases. He was fifty-six years old. A widow and an adopted daughter survive. Mr. Jackson was a member of the Odd Fellows at Atsion, Pa.

Harvey—Rice Nuptials.

Judge and Mrs. J. Kearny Rice of New Brunswick have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Sally Nellson Rice, to Harold C. Harvey of Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Harvey of London. The wedding will be Wednesday afternoon, September 16, in the home of Judge and Mrs. Rice.

Woman Burned by Explosion.

Mrs. Julia Snedeker of Jamesburg was badly burned about the feet Tuesday afternoon by the explosion of a gasoline stove. She was found unconscious, with her clothing afire, by her daughter, Mrs. Frederick Wyckoff, of Manasquan, who was in the house. Mrs. Wyckoff put out the fire in her mother's clothing by the use of a rug. The house was destroyed. The furniture and clothing of Mrs. Snedeker and two children were burned.

Deutch in Wrong Again.

Joseph Deutch, former private banker at Perth Amboy, later inmate of the county jail at New Brunswick, and recently a trusted and valued employee in a patent lawyer's office in Pittsburg, is charged with stealing $5,000 from his employer. Detective Griffin, of Pittsburg, went to New Brunswick Tuesday and looked up the record of the man and heard enough to impell him to wire home at once to keep an eye on the man, who is now under a doctor's care recovering from an operation.

When charged with embezzlement in Perth Amboy several years Deutch was confined to his home. His doctor said he was suffering with pleuro-pneumonia and so the officers did not guard the house. He was not so sick that he couldn't slip away. He sailed for Holland, but Detective Pelletier got a tip from a priest and Deutch was arrested as he landed in Holland and Court Interpreter Somoyl and Burt Moore, of Perth Amboy, were sent after him and brought him back.

When Detective Griffin heard this he telegraphed to headquarters to prevent Deutch repeating the experience. He says that Deutch was chief clerk in an office of twenty clerks and was earning $75 a week. His employer was pleased with his work and had trusted him with large sums of money.

Deutch was saved from prison because of sympathy for his wife, who was in delicate health. He was sentenced to two years in State prison, but the sentence was reconsidered and he was placed on probation.

Early Court at Toms River.

Arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, John Converse, of New Brunswick, and nine of his companions were each fined $3.25 by Police Justice A. C. King at Toms River, at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning. The party was arrested by Lieutenant A. L. Munsey, of the local police, who had been assigned to this special work by Chief Cuckwalter after complaints had been made that the peace and quiet of the night was being disturbed by automobilists passing through the town. Converse and his friends arrived in town in two automobiles, making the night hideous, it is alleged, by blowing fish horns.

Trenton Man is Elected President of The A. O. H.

James J. Sweeney of Trenton was elected State president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at the State convention of the organization Monday at Sacred Heart Hall, Elizabeth, defeating

Charles P. O'Neil of Jersey City. The vote was 113 to 99, the Hudson delegation casting more than fifty votes for the losing candidate.

Patrick McCue of Rahway was elected vice-president over John J. Sweeney of Burlington County. John J. Gascoyne, chief probation officer of Essex County, was re-elected treasurer without opposition, while Patrick T. Hayes of Jersey City was chosen secretary.

Because of his being chosen a national director at the recent national convention at Norfolk, Edward R. Hayes of New Brunswick did not seek re-election. Mr. Sweeney, the new president, was formerly vice-president. Atlantic City was decided on as the place for the next biennial State convention.

There were 221 delegates at the convention, which opened informally Sunday, when committees made up their reports. A solemn high mass at Sacred Heart Church Monday morning was followed by the transaction of routine business. There were addresses at the morning session by Mayor Victor Mravlag, General Dennis F. Collins and Rev. Florian Widmann, rector of Sacred Heart Church. Governor Fielder was invited, but could not attend, nor could the State chaplain, Rev. Bernard M. Bogan of Plainfield.

The organization took no formal action on the European war by resolution or otherwise. It was decided to make the convention of 1916 a two-day meeting because of the constantly increasing business. Approximately 22,000 men in New Jersey are connected with the order and its finances are in excellent condition. These facts were referred to by Mayor Mravlag and General Collins in their addresses.

Luncheon was served by the local committee and Dennis J. Fitzgerald, the county president, made an address of welcome. The retiring president presided. The convention was concluded by a parade, the Hibernian Pipe and Drum Corps escorting the delegates to the railroad stations.

Buooyancy of Fresh and Salt Water.

A Chinese had dropped his ball in a narrow hole and could not get it out. So he poured water in the hole, thinking that he would float the ball to the surface. As the ball was slightly heavier than water, it remained on the bottom. Then he thought of mixing salt with the water, as he knew that salt water would float denser objects than fresh. This he did and was rewarded with the floating ball.

This particular fact is demonstrated at the mouths of rivers. Objects rolling along the bottom of a fresh river, too heavy to come to the top, will rise when they are carried out to sea. The general rule also applies to floating bodies. For instance, a ship with a cargo on the sea will sink sometimes a foot on entering a fresh water port. On the other hand, if she leaves a fresh water port with her cargo she will rise when entering the ocean. So a ship may be loaded apparently too much at a wharf and still be all right on the waves.

In building a dam the fact of salt water's being heavier than fresh must be taken into consideration, and the dam for the same head must be a good deal stronger; this, too, without taking into consideration the beating of waves, etc.—St. Louis Republic.

Switzerland's Navy.

Long before Germany was to be reckoned with as a sea power Switzerland possessed a fleet equipped for warfare. Eight hundred years ago on all the larger Swiss lakes armed galleys were maintained by the rival cantons. Skilled shipwrights had to be imported from Genoa for the construction of these vessels, some of which carried crews of 600 men. The largest Swiss flotilla was maintained on the Lake of Geneva, when the inhabitants of Geneva were at war with Savoy. Since the neutrality of Switzerland has been guaranteed by the powers there has been no need for warships on the lakes. The Swiss, however, possess a mercantile navy, which carries a considerable amount of trade over the 342 miles of navigable waterways in the republic.

Our vices are like our nails—even as we cut them they grow again.—T. Bernard.

Very likely, however, the manufacturers of inhuman footgear have to wear the same kind as they sell, which is as near retribution as the law allows.

Haunted House

A Story of Mexico.

By F. A. MITCHEL

"Is there a hacienda near by where I can stop for the night?" I asked a man I met on the road. I was traveling in the province of San Luis Potosi, in Mexico.

"No, senor; there is nothing within a convenient distance where one can find entertainment. There is a deserted house about two miles down the road, but I would not advise you to stop there. You had better go back to Venado."

I had come from Venado, a distance of eight miles. To go back and return to where I was would be a round trip of sixteen miles. I was well mounted, but did not care for such an additional journey in any event. I asked the man to tell me more about the deserted house.

"It was formerly the country place of a Spaniard who lived there with his wife—he a crusty old man, she a beautiful young woman. He was jealous of her, and a tragedy occurred in the house. Some say he murdered her lover, and others say he murdered both her and her lover. At any rate, he disappeared, leaving the house with all the furniture in it, and so it has remained to the present day."

"Is it locked?"

"I have provisions in my haversack. Why should I not go in there, roll myself in my blanket and sleep till early morning, then resume my journey?"

"Well, senor," replied the man, "there is nothing to prevent your doing that, but I would not do it for all the gold there is in Mexico."

"What is there to fear?"

"Men have slept there who have never been seen or heard of afterward. Men have slept there who have told fearful tales."

"This was not encouraging, but I was familiar with the superstition of the lower class of Mexicans and knew that they were very easily frightened. I must either sleep in this deserted house or return to Venado or bivouac. The latter I did not wish to do, for a norther was blowing and a fine rain was falling. So I thanked the man for his information and rode on.

I reached the house just before dark, and an attractive place it must have been in its prime.

The house had been handsomely furnished, but that must have been many years before, for, though the framework of the furniture was solid as ever, the woven fabrics were in tatters. And yet the place looked as if persons had used it since the olden time, when it was occupied regularly. There were bits of food scattered about and other evidences of the sojourn of human beings. Perhaps, I thought, these things were left by those persons of whom the man I met on the road told me. The first thing I did was to gather some wood which I found scattered about the place and, putting it in the great fireplace, soon had a cheerful blaze, which I needed not only for warmth, but to help banish the dreariness about me.

I ate my supper beside the fire. The apartment I occupied had apparently been the principal bedroom of the house in its better days, and its walls were hung with portraits. One I judged to be the likeness of the former owner, the Spaniard who had murdered his wife and her paramour. He certainly looked capable of murder. One of his eyes seemed to differ from the other; but, since I had no light except what came from the hearth, I could not make out wherein this difference lay.

Having finished my supper, I went out and gathered what green stuff I could find for my horse to eat—I had watered him shortly before at a ranuel beside the road—and, returning, smoked a pipe beside the fire. I had no mind to occupy the bed with its enormous rotting canopy and other fittings; so, rolling myself in my blanket, I lay down on the floor. But hard wood is not comfortable for a couch, and after fitful sleeping for a couple of hours I arose, mastered my repugnance to the moldering bedclothes and, spreading my blanket on them, tried again to sleep. But, the uncanny place getting the better of my feeling, I arose and got my 45 caliber revolver. There was nothing alive to shoot at, but somehow there was a sense of protection in the weapon.

How long I slept before waking again I don't know. I was, or thought I was, awakened by a sound. But there was a strong wind, and many parts of the house had rotted loose and rattled. The fire had gone out, but one of the heavier pieces of wood blazed and cast a lurid light about the apartment. Directly opposite was the portrait I have mentioned, and the eye which I had noticed being unlike the other seemed to me to belong to a human being and was looking straight at me.

I rubbed my own eyes to see more clearly, and when I looked again the human expression had gone out of the eye of the portrait. Thinking that I must have been mistaken, I composed myself to sleep. Naturally I thought of my money and my weapon. The former was in a belt made for the purpose of carrying funds and strapped around my waist. The revolver was in my hand on the bed.

My next awakening came from a heavy weight falling on the floor in the room above. Then came the sound of whistling wind, followed by a cry. Then all was still again. In a few minutes the stillness was broken by frightful shrieks. From the moment of the first sound I sat up, clutching my revolver. My gaze lighted on the portrait of the old Spaniard, and it had again become human.

I cannot say that I was frightened, but I will assert positively that I was mad. Yielding to an impulse which I cannot well describe, I raised my revolver and sent a bullet straight at the eye that caused the commotion within me. And so sure was my aim that an open space was left where the eye had been.

Something fell on the floor of the adjoining room. The sound seemed to come from behind where the portrait was hanging. Throwing myself from the bed, recocking my revolver with my right thumb and snatching a burning brand from the fireplace, I ran through a doorway and stood on the other side of a partition. There lay the body of a man. I had shot him in the eye and pierced his brain.

The stillness was broken by some one running in the patio, but this was all the indication I had of the presence of any one except the dead man. I stood listening for some time, then was seized with a desire to get out of the place as soon as possible. I started for the patio, dropping my torch as I went that it might not make me an illuminated target, and, reaching the door of the house, gained the outside. There I stood trying to pull myself together.

There was a streak of dawn in the east. It tended to quiet the horror there was within me. After all, what was there to flee from? I could hear no sound from within, and all except the wind was still without. I was as well armed and had the same chance as any one else. I had killed a man, and I preferred to learn if possible whether I had been justified in doing so. Summoning my resolution, I re-entered the house, peering through the dim light for any one who might be there.

I regained without opposition the room in which I had slept. There were embers on the hearth, and I rekindled the fire. There I stood with my back to it, waiting for the day to break. As soon as I could see without artificial light I went to the room, where the body lay in the same position I had left it. It was on the floor beside a table, and the table was directly under a hole in the partition, the latter being about the height of a man. I got up on the table, put my eye to the hole and looked into the bedroom.

Now I could form a theory. There had been two or more men in the house. One of them had looked through the hole, which formed an eye of the picture, and seen me on the bed. If he wished to rob me my revolver was in his way. An attempt had been made to frighten me, but whether to get an advantage over me or to drive me out of the house I could only conjecture. I inclined to the latter opinion.

Having gone thus far in my investigations, I resolved to go further. I ransacked the house. I looked into closets, up chimneys, under furniture. The last thing I did was to pull the clothing and mattresses off the bed on which I had slept. Out rolled a shower of gold coins.

It was now quite light, and I resolved to gather up the coins, hide them and report my experience at the next town at which I would stop.

I reported my find as I had intended to the police, informing them where I had hidden the gold pieces. They visited the house in question and recognized the man I had shot as a notorious bandit. They wondered when he had seen me lying on the bed that he had not shot at me through the partition, but I reminded them that this would have been difficult. Besides, it was doubtless to his interest to frighten me away.

I never heard that anything was done to prevent the premises from being used by bandits. The Mexican rural police are not very effective, and soon after my experience Governor Carranza started his rebellion against President Huerta.

Good form

Training Maids.
A little patience and system in dealing with maids, especially if they be young ones, without very much experience, will often work miracles. Even if they are older and can justly claim to be experienced, there is always much for them to learn in entering a new household.

Every mistress has her own particular way of having certain things done, and the new girl must conform to this way even if she has been accustomed to doing the same work in a different manner.

One mistress encourages her "green" girls by engaging them at a small wage and increasing it as they master various menus. When the maid can prepare all of them she is given the that her ability would earn for anywhere.

It is not hard to teach a girl by this system. Most girls have deeper interest in their cook-housework, and if instructed by this some other equally good and definite system they will try harder and hence learn more rapidly than when instructed in a haphazard way.

Correct Stationery.
The newest note paper is very long and very narrow and fits into envelopes of precisely the size of the unfolded sheet. This style is smartest in dark cream and pale gray tones.

Then there are the sheets of heavy linen in buff, blue and gray that must be once folded lengthwise to fit into their envelopes, and there are the sheets of very thin but stout white paper which fold once to fit into square envelopes lined with a color. These formerly were used only for foreign correspondence, but now they are coming into domestic use.

Correspondence cards never have been daintier, and everybody is now using them at the slightest excuse. Some of them are absolutely square, and some of them are long and narrow, with beveled edges.

Artistic Compliments.
It is not the compliment that is, so to speak, laid on with a trowel that really reaches our hearts. No; it is the delicate and subtle sort that we do not recognize as a compliment.

This species is best and most successful when it is expressed by deeds rather than by words.

Let some one show a decided liking for our society when there are others present who are more attractive or clever or famous and how can we help but be pleased?

If their amusements and interests take a second place and ours usurp the first, then that, too, is a delightful form of flattery.

Table Usage.
Good manners at the table stamp the well bred person. The knife is used only in cutting the food, never to raise any particle of it to the mouth. A few general rules follow:

Lettuce is cut with the fork, a small portion rolled about the tines and thus eaten.

Oranges are peeled, cut or divided into quarters and eaten, or cut in half and eaten with the orange spoon, a spoon narrower and smaller than the ordinary tablespoon.

The Unfriendly Reminder.
Of all trying things the "I told you so" person is one of the worst. When you confide any trouble to them you are usually met with an "I told you so, but you wouldn't listen to me," which is distinctly annoying. They really might have the generosity not to rub it in. There is very little chance that you would have forgotten their warning, and they might refrain from the petty satisfaction of reminding you of their superior wisdom.

The Family Bore.
Friends and even members of a family ought to take care not to overstep the border line between interest and inquisitiveness. If one has been out and comes back looking pleased, it is annoying to be immediately asked, "Well, whom have you been with?" and then requested to go into details of the pleasant time spent.

Cordiality to Newcomers.
A resident of a town or village can call with propriety on any newcomer and the newcomer should return this call if she desires to continue the acquaintance. The time of calling is settled by the customs of the place, but after two o'clock and before six is generally correct.

When to Call.
Ceremonious calls are not made between women in the morning, evening or on Sunday afternoons. A man, owing to the exigencies of business, may call in the evening and on Sunday afternoon.

Tea Invitations.
Invitations to afternoon teas are very often in the form of visiting cards. On the lower left hand corner of the card write "At home from 3 until 6. Thursday, April 20."

Hospitality to Strangers.

TWO KINDS OF SERVICE

By John F. Martin

The service the undertaker renders is a should not be estimated in dollars and consideration of the funeral director is, o care of the one who has passed from the His next, but not less important, is the care are left to mourn the death of their loved o

Probably no profession requires so many qualifications as that of the mortuary. And how little thought and consideration do we give to the various details with which the undertaker is confronted! Some undertakers are, by nature and training, competent to exercise these important functions, and many fail in their duties because that true ideal, inseparable from the funeral director, is wanting.

THE MARTIN SERVICE enables all persons, of all creeds, to properly insure against those errors which are common to the average man engaged in the business or profession of caring for the human dead.

THE MARTIN SERVICE never overlooks any detail the funeral. Its equipment throughout is the very obtainable, and in professional skill it has reached the highest point in the scale of perfection.

The cost of THE MARTIN SERVICE is, in many cases, less than that of the inferior and unprofessional service rendered by undertakers.

SPECIAL MEETING BOARD OF EDUCATION

When the Board of Education convened at their special meeting Friday evening the first business taken up was that of a bill of the present city treasurer for $360.00. A letter accompanying the bill stated that this amount was for services as custodian of school moneys from July 4, 1912, to July 4, 1914. This would make the monthly stipend $15.00 per month since the law referred to became effective. In the discussion that arose upon the bill Mr. Davis stated that Mr. Perrine had spoken to him about this same matter, claiming that the law entitled him to compensation for his services. Mr. Davis said that he had told Mr. Perrine that the board had no funds with which to pay any bills for back pay such as this and suggested that he take the matter up with a view to securing pay for future services only. Mr. Grace thought that it was absurd to contemplate the payment of this bill as the board had not hired him and he was already getting well paid for his services as city treasurer. The legality of the bill was discussed and eventually the school laws were produced and the section referred to by Mr. Perrine in his letter was read. From this one would deduce that the board had a choice of either the city collector or the treasurer and could appoint either of these officials. In the event of no appointment the city treasurer was the one designated by law to act as the custodian. Although the law says that the official acting in this capacity "shall" receive extra compensation for his services, it does not specify any certain amount. This is left entirely to the Board of Education to determine. Although the bill didn't seem to meet with much favor it was finally referred to the finance committee for investigation into its merits and report at the next meeting.

 Several Saturday afternoons volunteers have been clearing up the grounds working diligently with grubbing hoes, scythes, etc. Though much has been accomplished and the grounds have already been resorted to daily by increasing numbers, the plans are for a fully equipped playground and beautiful park wholly free to the public. To secure funds for this purpose a Harvest Home has been planned for Wednesday, September 2d. As the community in the neighborhood of the park is small, though growing steadily in numbers, they should be encouraged by contributions of money and materials for this object.

The General Committee consists of Charles W. Britton, Chairman; Charles A. Blake, Secretary; Frank E. Miller, Treasurer; Rev. and Mrs. Henry Hale Gifford; Ray Davis; William E. Barlow, Miss Elizabeth Bauer, Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Britton. The usual features of a Harvest Home will be provided.

MARY BARKALOW.

Mrs. Mary Barkalow departed this life at the home of her son-in-law, William Darlymple, Bordentown avenue, early Tuesday morning at the age of 67 years. She had been ill some time.

The funeral was held from her late residence at 2.30 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, the Rev. C. S. Lewis, rector of Christ Church, officiating at the service. Interment was made in Christ Church cemetery. Stillwell & Mason were funeral directors.

SILZER TAKES OATH OF OFFICE.

Prosecutor George S. Silzer was sworn in as Circuit Court Judge before former Judge J. Kearny Rice, Supreme Court commissioner, Wednesday afternoon. It was in Judge Rice's office that the lawyer began the study of law not so many years ago.

Engineer McMichael asked whether the board was willing for the contractor to continue using gravel in the foundations for the retaining wall at School No. 1. Instead of trap rock. He stated that the contractor maintained that it would cause a great deal of delay if trap rock were insisted upon as it was difficult to secure. After some little discussion of the matter the engineer was informed that it was the wish of the board that trap rock be used. This is what was specified in the contract and they wanted the contract lived up to strictly. The clerk was instructed to so notify the contractor. It also developed that the contractor had not filed his bond as per the contract and the clerk was also instructed to notify the contractor to comply in this respect immediately. The board did not take much stock in the delay issue as regarding the procurement of trap rock.

The question as to whether or not Sayreville Township had paid the tuition bill of some eight hundred dollars was brought up by Mr. Grace and it developed that this bill had not yet been cancelled. Upon motion, the secretary was instructed to notify them to pay up at once.

The following bills were read and ordered paid: V. Nowell James, for repairs to the heating system, $52.47 and $50.75; Henry Fly, for carpenter work in connection with the changes in the typewriting and stock rooms, etc., $38.75; Edward McDonough, for carting cinders, 50 loads, $30.00; C. I. Bergen for janitors' supplies, $44.32; William T. Hammell, for painting as per contract, $80.00, extra work entitled, $13.75; William E. Slover, Janitor's supplies, $2.10; Charles Timmins, hardware, $3.26; New York Telephone Company, service, $3.60; A. C. Parisen, chemicals, $1.70; Remington Typewriter Co., repairing machines, $10.73; South Amboy Post Office, stationery, $16.24; South Amboy Printing Co., advertising, 50c.

thirty-five days after the approval of the State Board has been secured.

The board then went into executive session for a little while, probably for a conference with Mr. Samuel Schleimer, of Elizabethtown, who was present.

Upon reconvening a communication was read from the clerk of the Sayreville Board of Education which stated that their bill of some eight hundred dollars for tuition fees from last year had been received and would be brought up before the board at their meeting in the early part of September.

Another communication was received from the Public Service Gas Co. calling their attention to the matter their furnishing fixtures for the domestic science course and offering make the installations along this line. The matter was referred to the committee on supplies.

The bills of Richard Dowling for cartage, H. MacDowell $35.60 for supplies, Miss Catherine Hick writing up specifications, etc., Thomas Lovely for repairs to roofs, etc., $166.79, Mrs. Thomas Commons for cleaning the schools, $28.00; and Frederick Laton for five hundred record cards, $7.24, were read and after being approved by the various committees were ordered paid.

President Davis brought up a matter which had been called to his attention regarding a certain pupil who would probably enter the schools this year. It seemed that the child in question had been alling in some way that would not permit of her entering or attending school heretofore. Special privileges were asked for as regards the teacher and school to be attended. After a little discussion Mr. Davis was advised to refer the matter to the attention of the city superintendent with the endorsement of the board and the recommendation that these special privileges be granted.

A report from the chairman of the finance committee showed that there was $592.82 in the treasury of the board at the present time with all bills paid up to and including those submitted. In speaking of probabilities it was brought out that there was $250.00 due from the State from last year's appropriations and the unpaid tuition bill of Sayreville Township would make some sixteen hundred dollars, roughly speaking, to the board's credit.

It developed that the bond of Contractor Gundrum for the erection of the retaining wall along the John street side of the school grounds had not yet been executed notwithstanding the facilities accorded him by a member of the board. Stopping of the work on this wall was spoken of by one of the board as the proper thing to be done until such time as the contractor could see fit to comply with the requirements of the contract. There wasn't much discussion on this point and a motion that the matter of handling the contractor for the improvements at School No. 1 be left entirely in the hands of the chairman of the building and grounds committee to use his own judgment as the necessity might require between meetings of the board was approved.

Another motion empowered the building and grounds committee to go ahead with the grading as planned out some time ago as far as their funds would permit.

The secretary was asked if he had notified all the teachers as to the exact date of the opening of school and replied that he had. It also developed that all the teachers had signified the acceptance of the positions to which they were appointed. This applied both to the newly engaged teachers and the others as well.

The matter of the execution of contracts by those teachers who did not come under the tenure of office act was also discussed and the fact brought out that these contracts were in the hands of the city superintendent awaiting execution as the teachers reported.

By motion the secretary was instructed to communicate to the custodian the action of the board as pertaining to the bill submitted by him at a former meeting.

STRIKERS DISCHARGED.

Last Wednesday the gang of men who were working at the dismantling of the reloaders in what is known as the "stock grounds" in the local P. R. R. yards decided, it is said, that they weren't getting enough money for their work and accordingly struck for a raise. They were called to the office which employed them Thursday morning and given their wages and dismissed. About the same time a fresh gang of men were started doing the work of the strikers and the dismantling now goes merrily on. It is said that some of the men had worked for the concern for several years.

Judgeship for Geo. S. Silzer

Today Governor Flieder secured George S. Silzer Court Judge to succeed Black, who was recently to the Supreme Court bench and the late Justice Willard.

aiding the appointment of Mr. the Governor said:

the appointment of Prosecutor to the judgeship is a purely personal one. My long association with him in the Legislature convinces me that he gave the State the benefit of very valuable work. He was an able, conscientious and honest legislator. He is a good lawyer with a large practice and will have to make a great sacrifice when he takes the place which he is eminently qualified to fill.

"All things being equal I think I ought to appoint younger lawyers to these positions so that the State in later years may have the benefit of their training for many years to come, and because the judges ought to be kept on the bench regardless of their politics."

George S. Silzer was born in New Brunswick, April 14, 1870. He was educated in the public schools and graduated from the high school in 1888, being the valedictorian of his class. He was admitted to the bar as an attorney in November, 1892, and as counselor in November, 1899. Since then he has practiced his profession in New Brunswick, residing in Metuchen.

He has served on the Board of Examiners for candidates for admission to the bar, and also in the New Brunswick Board of Aldermen as a member from the Third Ward, and as chairman of the Democratic county committee. He was unanimously nominated for State Senator by his party in 1906 and was elected by a plurality of 106 over the then Senator William H. C. Jackson. He made his fight on the principle of anti-bribery. In 1909 he was renominated without opposition and was re-elected by an increased plurality of 1,879 over Judge Hicks, Republican.

It was on March 26, 1912, that Mr. Silzer was named as prosecutor of Middlesex.

said that they are picking up wonderfully at this game.

It is said that the local coal shipping all but stood completely still last Tuesday on account of the employees that wished to go on the Democratic excursion to Coney.

The grounds around School No. 2 have been fixed up considerably lately. A lot of cinders have been placed around to fill in and they now present a pleasant appearance indeed.

Cars on the Jersey Central Traction Company's line between this city and Morgan on Sunday were crowded far beyond the safety line. Fifteen minute service is what is needed during rush hours.

It is very likely that the local Terra Cotta baseball team will feel the loss of their pitcher, who has gone to Washington to take a position in the treasury department, severely.

Toefl Kwillnski and Frank Grace, two of last year's high school graduates, will enter Pennsylvania College at Gettysburg this fall. They will there enter upon a two year pre-singing which formed a part of the entertainment in the Church of Our Lady of Victories in Sayreville last Sunday evening.

The European war is having a decided effect upon the coal shipping industry both locally and at other points. The Berwind-White business has dropped to almost half the former size it was when all the steamers were running.

The body of Michael Cameron, who was killed at First street crossing some weeks ago, was shipped on Monday to Lansburg Station, Nova Scotia, by orders of his brother, Thomas Cameron. The deceased is said to have left a small estate in Nova Scotia.

Charles Steuerwald is making some very attractive improvements to his property on Louisa street. A concrete sidewalk has been put down in front and a driveway of the same material on the side of his house. A concrete floor is also being put in his garage.

Last Monday evening an automobile got lost on Pine avenue and Henry street. The driver had a lot of tire trouble along there somewhere also.
About two hours, from ten o'clock until midnight was spent in making attempts to put a tire on that would stand up long enough to get started.

John Schultz, of David street, narrowly escaped death last Tuesday when he was working at the old stock yard. Although he was unconscious for about half an hour after being picked up there were no bones broken or serious injuries, with the exception of a badly wrenched back.

F. Meiner's horses across the sidewalk when he encountered an elderly lady trundling a baby carriage, who became frightened, when Alex pass-ified her by saying "the horse would not kick." "Well, Alex, that horse is of better disposition than some of the people," remarked the lady.

The old bench on Broadway opposite Church street has been again resurrected and put into shape for resting. Several times now this historic bench has been abolished.

Many is the battle that has been fought over again there, many the railroad strike settled, and so forth all down the line of happenings both great and small that have contributed to the making of history.

In the Keansburg baby parade last Saturday there were quite a large number of entrants from this city.
Some of those entered from here secured prizes, too. Miss Ida May Brown, of Main street, received a beautiful loving cup as third prize in the doll carriage division. Miss Leola Ginter of Broadway, secured a second prize in the tricycle division; and Miss Hazel Manee, received a second prize for her pony turnout.

While at his work last Monday
Councilman-at-large Stratton met with a painful accident. It seems he was using an alligator wrench to tighten a leaking valve when the wrench slipped and precipitated him downward. His hand struck on another support of some kind and the heavy wrench, which he still had in his hand, smashed the third finger of his right hand badly. Although the injury was exceedingly painful he stuck it out until he got home when the day's work was done. Then relief for the injury was obtainable.

TO FARMERS.

vens. Agriculturist, ey Railroad.) s have reached me the control of wood- ms they have been is year. They have ly harmful to such i, and as is often the ave broken their legs have been broken by he holes. I have notic- addition to these two ob- where the farmer has a woodchuck hole, and drives it in the meadow or grain field, ways leaves a ragged spot of un- or grain which spoils the ks of the field.

It has been agreed that these wood- chucks should be killed off but from number in sight this year it is ent that very little progress has made in this direction. For se who have the time and the orting instinct they serve as a very ood mark, but they will probably not be eradicated or materially reduced in this way.

It is now an excellent time of the year to begin a campaign against them. There are no suckling young to suffer in case the mother wood- chuck is killed, and if killed before plowing, most of the holes can be plowed under and the field levelled up for Spring. The most effective way is with the use of carbon bi-sulphides or a cruder form of the same material known as fuma. Take three ounces of this, pour it on a rag, excelsior, moss or anything that will absorb it, put it well down in the hole and fill in the outlets with sods or dirt so that the gases cannot escape and simply leave it in this way.

Satisfactory results come from pouring a pint of light gasoline down the hole and blocking all holes, as above. Others report satisfactory results by burning sulphur and fanning the fumes into the hole until they show at the other end in case there is one, or until the hole seems to be filled. All of these are effective, the first perhaps being the surest way, and there is no great danger attached to any of them. The carbon bi-sulphide is a poison and care should be taken not to breathe the fumes. The work is not much and the results certainly make it worth while.

WAR MAY STOP IMPORTS OF FLINT PEBBLES

Used in Pottery Manufacture—Supply Obtainable in United States.

In 1913 nearly $320,000 worth of flint pebbles were imported into the United States, mainly from Denmark and France. In these countries the flint occurs as irregular nodules in the chalk cliffs that border certain parts of the coast, and under the impact of the waves on the shore the hard flint becomes freed from its relatively soft chalk matrix and is gathered in great quantities from the beaches for shipment to all parts of the world. At their destination the more irregular nodules are calcined and ground to a fine powder for use in pottery manufacture, but those that have been well rounded by the waves are reserved for use in tube mills, their hardness and chemical inertness making them a desirable grinding agent.

The United States Geological Survey reports that the cutting off of the imports of flint pebbles should work no material hardship to the pottery industry, only in subordinate amounts compared with the crystalline quartz largely quarried in Connecticut, New York, and Maryland, and as the supply of the quartz is far in excess of the present demands. A cutting off of the supply of rounded flint pebbles suitable for tube-mill use would, it is probable, entail some inconvenience, for ready-rounded flints are not known to occur in this country. Recourse might be had to artificial rounding of domestic flints, which are known to occur in abundance in the region near Austin, Tex., where they weather out of beds of Cretaceous chalk, or to the artificial rounding of white vitreous quartzites, which are known to occur at a few places in this country. Where a small amount of iron as an impurity would not be detrimental in the ground product, use might be made of rounded quartz pebbles such as occur in the valleys of many rivers that drain regions of crystalline rock—for example, the Potomac near Washington.

SOME GAMES TO-DAY.

If the schedule is carried out in the South Shore Industrial League this week there will be a few games in the different towns covered by the teams. The local attraction will be a game on Star Field between the Herman-Aukam Co., of South River, and the local Y. M. C. A. Although the local team has been winning continuously since the formation of the league early in the season and the South River aggregation losing nearly as continuously the latter have been allowed to "pad" their lineup. As a consequence of this privilege they have been sort of experimenting more or less for some time past and they might spring a surprise of some kind—and then again they might not.

At the Sayre & Fisher diamond in Sayreville the local Terra Cotta Co.'s team and the Smokeless Powder boys from Parlin are scheduled to come to blows. Just who the new pitcher in place of Molly will be is hardly definitely settled. It will doubtless be hard to find one to fill the shoes of this player.

It is up at South River that the toughest problem will have to be solved from indications of the past. Here the Middlesex Embroidery Co. and the Sayre & Fisher combines will come together. The last mentioned team played hard all summer up to a short time ago when they struck a slump, the culmination of which was defeat at the hands of the local Terra Cotta boys.

The schedule is pretty long and will necessitate the teams playing well over into month of October in order to play the games scheduled. None of the managers relish the idea of playing double headers so it appears to be unlikely that any time will be saved in that manner.

The league in itself started off with a very favorable outlook for the future but of late things have been going against it in numerous ways. The lack of patronage is said to be one of the contributing causes of the difficulties and the trouble the players are having in arranging to be on hand for the games is probably another. There have been some slight indications that a spirit of amity is sadly lacking between some of the teams and with the general lack of interest that is being taken in baseball all over the country, the sliding for this league is fast becoming rough indeed. It is rather feared by many that affairs are rapidly drifting toward the rocks.

Some time ago the Herman-Aukam aggregation was just on the point of withdrawing from the league on account of their failure to get enough players that would be eligible under the rules. They were only persuaded to stick in with the rest of the bunch by changing the rules so that they could have outside players to fill in and strengthen their lineup. Now with the Terra Cotta's strongest pitcher out of the lineup permanently it is feared that this team will give up the ghost.

RESULTS OF SATURDAY'S GAMES.

The results of the games in the South Shore Industrial League last Saturday were as follows:

At South Amboy—Middlesex Embroidery, 13; S. A. Terra Cotta Co., 8.

At South River—I. S. P. & C. Co., 11; Herman-Aukam Co., 3.

Pierson pitched for the Smokeless lads at South River and for a youngster did very effective work. He was in fine form and held his opponents in hand very easily. His team mates were very busy with the stick and did some pretty heavy hitting against the Herman-Aukam boys.

At Star Field the game was much the same. Molly pitched a good game for the locals but his team went all to the bad and the result was a farce. The Middlesex pitcher, Heck, was strong in every way and kept the hits few and far scattered. This game was Molly's last game as he left the next morning to take up duties in connection with a position in the Treasury in Washington. In his going we lose one very popular player and a prominent figure in local athletics. He was one of those most instrumental in the formation of the first basketball team and the introduction of that game into this city a few years ago. From the time of its inception until a winter ago Molly was one of the local stars of this game. He served an enlistment in the Marine Corps and there played and learned the game. He also played with the Corps' baseball team while he was stationed in Cuba and when he returned to this city he had little trouble in breaking into the game where he speedily became recognized as a heavy hitter. He has played with the old Athletics and later with the Terra Cotta team of the South Shore League for whom he was a fortress both as a pitcher and as a hitter. Some time ago he took and successfully passed a civil service examination and later was appointed to the position he will henceforth fill.

TENNIS MATCH ON

P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. COURT

The Tennis Association of the local Y. M. C. A. vindicated itself last Saturday afternoon on the local courts. Several times in succession this association has been defeated at the hands of outsiders, but they stuck it out and now have the honor of being victors of a match between the Parlin Tennis Club and themselves. Last Saturday they swept everything before them and took the match in four straight games. The match consisted of a double set and three singles. Messrs. Grace and Locker played partners in the doubles and made a very efficient combination. In the double the Parlin players did not play as strong as they have been playing and Locker and Grace had little difficulty in defeating them. The Parlin players in the double set were Chapman and Heinz. In the first set Grace and Locker came out with the score 6 to 2 in their favor, the respective scores being, 5-3; 5-3; 5-3; 5-3; 4-1; 4-3; 4-0. In the second set the same players came out again on the long end of a seven to five score. Some of the games in this set were very hard fought. The respective scores were, 4-3; 4-2; 4-1; 4-2; 4-2; 4-2; 9-7; 4-2; 4-1; 4-1; 4-1; 4-2. In the first set the local players won the first, second, third, fourth, sixth, and eighth games and in the second set the locals won the second, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, eleventh and twelfth games.

In the singles Messrs. Barr and Hitt played against each other. Mr. Barr played a good game all the way through but it was also a very hard game as his opponent was on the job every minute. Mr. Barr won the first set six to three and the second six to two. The second set scores were, 4-2; 4-0; 4-2; 4-1; 6-4; 4-0; 4-2; 4-2. Hitt won the third and seventh games only. In the first set the scores were, 4-1; 4-1; 4-2; 4-1; 5-3; 4-1; 4-1; 4-1. Hitt won the fourth, seventh and eighth only. Messrs. Crane and Flaherty were opponents in one of the remaining set of singles. Here Crane had the advantage of his opponent all through the game. He, apparently, played very easy. The local lad won in two sets, the scores of which were six to two and six to four. Stultz and Chapman were the opposing players in the remaining set of singles and here too the story was much the same. These two players put up a hard game but that underhand cut that Stultz had was too much for Mr. Chapman. The scores in this single were six to three and six to three.

These tennis matches are becoming quite popular in and about surrounding vicinity and localists are also fast finding entertainment in watching the fast work of the players. The game may look very easy but its just as hard a game to play well as any of the other athletic sports, and it has its own peculiarities that are not found in everyone who aspires to be a player. In verification of this statement you are most cordially invited to come down to the courts any afternoon and see for yourself. Then again there will be another out and out match played again next Saturday with a fast team. Just who this team will be had not been decided at the time this article was written.

THE FIELD WAS LONESOME.

Last Saturday afternoon the local Y. M. C. A. South Shore Industrial League team was scheduled to travel up to Sayreville to meet the Sayre & Fisher team of that place. Well, the locals went up there all right and then found no one to receive them. They camped on the ball grounds for quite a spell, but as they didn't even spot a native from whom they might have gleaned some crumbs of information they concluded to come back to a live burg. Eventually they arrived home again without having played any game, but otherwise none the worse for their adventure.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

As there have been no games in the South Shore Industrial League for some time the standing of the teams is again making its appearance after a considerably lengthy absence. This time it will be noticed that the Middlesex Embroidery Company have crawled a little closer to the lead so far as per centage goes and the Smokeless Powder people also have who win. er and is still st. not playing team and that Company have a points. What is other's loss, seems to everything goes.

	W.	L.	P. O.
Y. M. C. A.	9	0	1,000
Middlesex Embroidery Co. 9 4 .692
I. S. P. & C. Co.	6	6	.500
Sayre & Fisher Co.	5	7	.416
S. A. Terra Cotta Co.	2	8	.200
Hermann-Aukam Co.	2	9	.181

IT IS SAID THERE IS

ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE

This was the story the bug told me as he sat on a log of Wood by the Shore of the Lake, near the Bush, eating a Cobb which he got Fromme:

"My name is Henry Alexander Johnson, and I came from Maranville O'Day ago. I find it Hartzbell to stick to a job. I have been a Baker of Graham bread, a Boucher, and many a Vio have I killed—a Coleman, a Tinker and a Turner. I sold Brown and Lavender Cravaths, Plez, Pleh and—Demmitt, I have even been a Butler in Morgan's House! He caught me and Marlon, the Cook, at his Stock of Wilson one Knight when he came home from the Ball, and Chase(d) us both away. I Grant I was Zwilling to go, a'i right, but he gave us a raw Deal. We didn't hear the Bell Ring.

"Now I am Doolin anything I can Land work at. I was out about a Milan a half in the fields one day and was getting along knisely pick-Snodgrass when—Good Lord!—a heavy Schauer came up! It certainly did Daus me before I had time to Dodge behind the Stack of Wheat, which I had to Mowe myself. I found a Seaton the floor there. That rain ought to make me Groh. I quit that Kraft and went to Hamilton, not being a very strong Walker, I took a Carr, and after Crossin many a street, finally reached home, where I found my old Graney ill with the Pipp and unable to sell her Ware. I Getz out my Hyatt, puts it on and goes out to get medicine. I out Whitted the druggist as a Speaker, all right, which was one of my chief Ames."—Exchange.

SPORTING NOTES.

Wonder if the Powers-That-Be in the South Shore Industrial League will award that Y. M. C. A.-S. & F. game last Saturday to the locals as gracefully as they have some others.

If the youngsters keep on practicing on Broadway they ought to be fairly well acquainted with the course by the time that next Old Home Day rolls around and they will then be able to get away in good shape regardless of the crowd.

There were only two games played in the South Shore League last week. Getting back into action rather slow after their long rest.

Britain's Civil Service. Life in a civil service office is a very drab affair today. But sixty years ago it appears to have had its compensations. Sir Algernon West, who entered the admiralty in 1851, recalls, in his "Reminiscences," the figure of an official "always dressed in a black and snuffy suit." It was the chief clerk. This gentleman "occasionally came to the office in the morning dressed in a great frilled shirt front and evening clothes and announced that, as he was going to dine out that evening, he should not be at the office the next day. Frederick Locker, who always wore kid gloves in the office for fear he would dirty his hands with ink . . . was evidently not impressed with the dignity of the man or the office, for on my asking him what his duties were he said, 'All I know is, that whenever I want a clean towel or a piece of fresh soap, I always ring the bell and send for the chief clerk!'"—London Citizen.

An Unfortunate Phrase. "Franz der kaiser." Napoleon's father-in-law, who was a rather weak and silly ruler, had nevertheless a thoroughgoing belief in absolutism and in the divine right to rule of even the most incompetent of the Hapsburgs. His abilities, such as they were, were best displayed in catechisms that he wrote and printed for the use of his humbler subjects and in peevish criticisms of those of superior intelligence. According to the author of a recent life of Archduchess Maria Louisa of Austria entitled "An Imperial Victim," the emperor once raged against his doctor for remarking that he had "a good constitution." "Never let me hear that word again!" he said. "Say robust health if you like. There is no such thing as a good constitution."

The frankness with which a seventeen-year-old girl says she's an old maid is only exceeded by the frankness with which she denies it ten years later.

By what magnification o what relief of raised enamelled le ters, by what brilliance of colors can these rules be impressed upon the mind of a multitude of devil-wag- oneers? Shakespeare's Birth. The exact date of Shakespeare's birth is not known, and the accepted date of April 23 is based on circum- stantial evidence. There is record evidence that he was baptized on April 23, 1564, but no record evidence of the date of his birth. He died April 23, 1616, and the inscription upon his monument is evidence that he had already begun his fifty third year, but does not give any birth date. From these data and other such information as they could obtain, antiquaries in the eight- eenth century, 100 years after his death, fixed the date of his birth as April 23, 1564, three days before his baptism. Though not proved beyond doubt, that date is universally accept- ed.—Philadelphia Press.

Infection and Insect Bites Dangerous.

Mosquitoes, flies and other insects, which breed quickly in garbage pails, ponds of stagnant water, barns, musty places, etc., are carriers of disease. Every time they bite you, they inject poison into your system from which some dread disease may result. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. PAWNSHOP RUNNERS.

A Curious Feminine Profession That Exists Only In London.

A police court case has called atten...tion to the existence in London of a ...vocation which is not known to exist
...anywhere else in the world. It is that ...of pawnshop, a profession given over en...tirely to women who, in the poorer dis...tricts of London, undertake for a ...small compensation to carry the goods
...of their necessitous but sensitive neigh...bors to the pawnshops. Most of this ...work of pawning is done for women ...who are ashamed to be seen entering a ...pawnshop, but some of it is done for ...other women who are too busy to at...tend to the formality.

In certain districts these pawners
...are known as "runners," and they live
...on this work, charging from 1 to 2
...cents for each journey, according to
...the means of their clients. In one of ...the meanest streets of the east end,
...which has a pawnshop at either end,
...two women ply a busy trade as paw-
...ners.

One of these women is a widow
...known and trusted in this work, and ...he has built up a big connection in ...his neighborhood. She uses a peram-
...ulator and is frequently seen passing
...along the street with a load of miscel...laneous articles destined for the hun...dreds of the pawnshop. Monday ...morning is her busy day, as hundreds
...of ill-paid casual laborers living in the ...district depend many times for their ...week's maintenance upon pawning
...something that day.—London Cor. Phil...adelphia Press.

Did you ever see a pair of russet shoes done over to make 'em white?

Who is the big, young man who was teasing the small child on Broadway last Sunday afternoon? Was it funny, Bill?

"Just one blamed thing after another breaks," is doubtless the opinion of the owner of a certain motor-cyclo about town.

That there is a certain man in this town that would make a most attractive sky-line if he were to lie down flat on his back.

Who are the young couple that fell asleep last Sunday evening while courting and didn't wake up until nearly two o'clock?

Wonder what became of the prizes to be awarded to the person coming the furthest and entertaining the most people on Old Home Day?

A certain brakeman on a railroad that maintains a station here in town boating it up Church street recently with a quart of ice cream (?) in a can.

After chasing a trolley car three blocks it's hard luck to have it go right on heartlessly and leave one all out of breath in the middle of the street.

Who is the young man who went crabbing recently and after promising several of his friends a nice mess of crabs caught and brought back—two lone crabs?

The young fellow that is already beginning training for the bicycle race on next Old Home Day by taking early morning rides to such nearby towns as Keyport, Keansburg, etc.

A bird flew into the store of one of our local merchants, one day this week, and he captured it and placed it in a cage. On speaking of his prize to another merchant, he inquired if it meant any omen to have a bird fly in his store. The reply was, "Yes, $20 fine by the Game Warden." The birdman then rushed to his store and liberated the bird. It was only a common English sparrow.

A local aspirant for the assembly went on the Democratic excursion to Coney Island, and when in Luna Park, his eagle eye spied a handkerchief on the floor enclosing a fat pocketbook. Thought of necessary campaign funds ran through his brain, and quick as a flash he made a dive for that pocketbook, but did not pick it up as it was nailed to the spot. His companions had a hearty laugh at his expense, and it is doubtful now if the assembly aspirant would attempt to pick up the "real goods" if he came across such.

A Pious Advertisement.

The following advertisement was printed in the Pennsylvania Gazette for June 23, 1787. The author of this little masterpiece is supposed to be no other than Franklin himself. "D. F." then, stands for Deborah Franklin: "Taken out of a pew in the church some months since a Common Prayer Book bound in red, gilt and lettered D. F. on each cover. The person who took it is advised to open it and read the eighth commandment and afterward return it into the same pew again, upon which no further notice will be taken."

EATS ITS OWN TAIL

Queer Feast of the Tadpole Before It Becomes a Frog.

EVOLUTION OF A POLLYWOG.

Changes That Mark the Transition of This Curious Creature From an Aquatic to an Air Breathing Animal. How It Differs From the Toad.

There is no more interesting creature on earth than a pollywog, or tadpole, for it is a fish in the process of transformation into a land animal. The whole process can be watched if you put a few pollywogs in a milk bottle or jar full of water with some water plants.

In any of the ponds in the parks in the cities or in the pools in the suburbs in the proper season frog spawn can be found. It floats on the water like masses of sago pudding. A handful of this will furnish entertainment for several weeks and will at the same time give a lesson in evolution.

The spawn that floats on the ponds is the eggs of frogs. They lay it in the first warm days of spring, spreading it where the rays of the sun will warm it. Each egg contains a yolk, which is the food of the living germ within, and is coated with black, probably to attract as much heat as possible and at the same time to protect the germ from the penetrating ultra violet rays of the light, which would destroy it. The black yolk is in the center of a mass of transparent jelly, which is there as a protective covering.

If a small mass of spawn be placed in a jar of water and watched daily with an ordinary magnifying glass the black yolk of each egg will presently be seen to assume a sausage-like shape. Gradually this takes the form of a tiny pollywog, which soon begins to wriggle. After a few days these little black bodies wriggle out through the transparent jelly and attach themselves to bits of green sticks or weeds, which should be placed in the jar with them.

For some time they remain attached to such supports by a sucker, waiting for the opening of the mouth. As yet there are no visible eyes, but small stumps on each side of the head will be noticed. These are the gills. The whole skip is examined with a lens will be found to be covered with a sort of animated velvet pile, for its component threads are in constant motion, thereby creating a stream of fresh water to carry on the work of breathing, and a little later these movements will be strong enough to bear the body slowly along, so that locomotion at this stage is like that of the lowliest of living creatures, the protozoa.

When the mouth appears the inside of the great fleshy lips and the jaws will be found to be armed with rows of horny teeth numbering many hundreds. The gills will also have grown considerably. These, however, soon give place to internal gills, and the water taken at the mouth passes out again by a small funnel on the right side of the head. This fishlike stage disappears with the appearance of the fore

The hind legs next appear, and as these develop the mouth is closed for alterations. No food can be taken, and during this enforced fast the tadpole supports life by consuming its tail! This is slowly digested by a process not yet clearly understood. By the time this strange feast has ended the new mouth and the lungs have appeared—the tadpole has become a frog and leaves the water for the land. As a tadpole it fed by rasping off vegetable and animal matter with its teeth; as a frog it feeds by jerking food into its capacious mouth by the flick of a very sticky tongue.

Newts and toads in their pollywog stage can scarcely be told from frogs, but newts remain water animals, wearing tails all their life. Some of them retain their gills also, but most of them develop lungs and have to come to the surface to breathe. There are few species which have neither gills nor lungs and therefore do not breathe at all, their blood being oxidized by the skin alone.

Adult frogs spend most of their time in the water, but they must come to the surface to breathe. Toads once they leave the water do not return to it.—New York World.

Insurance and Assurance.

What is the difference between insurance and assurance? An expert explained it. Fire, shipwreck, accident, burglary, mumps or any disease are eventualities, and you can consequently insure against them. But death is a certainty against which no company will insure you. But you secure the assurance that a definite sum of money will be paid on its occurrence.—London Chronicle.

Winning Ways.

"What a pathetic face that young fellow has! His eyes seem so reproachful."
"Yes. In the lunchroom where he worked he pulled in more tips than all the other waiters combined."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Practical Proof.

"Yes, my son, I want you to make yourself ambidextrous. I want you to be able to use one hand just as skillfully as you do the other."
"That's me, dad. I can lick any boy in my class with either hand."—New York World.

In all God's creation there is no place appointed for the idle man.—Gladstone.

An advertisement placed in the CITIZEN has no time limit to its usefulness to the advertiser. It works 24 hours a day. Your ad is well written and interesting, it will be laid aside by the reader for future reference. Or, if your ad reaches the right prospect, it will make an impression on his memory which will last for days, weeks and even months.

Consider for a moment, can't you recall an advertisement which you read months ago which was so strongly impressed on your memory that you still remember the offer made?

The results of advertising may not be instantaneous. Don't expect that when you spend a dollar for advertising today that it will return to you ten-fold tomorrow.

MILK AS A FOOD.

It Has More Dry Matter and Nutrition Than Some Solids.

The food value of milk, though a hackneyed topic, is worth a moment's consideration, writes D. S. Burch in Farm and Fireside. Though it is a liquid, milk contains more dry matter than some solids. Skeptics can surprise themselves some dull day by putting a pan of milk in the inner part of a double boiler, evaporating it and observing the dry matter it contains. The figures that follow are interesting, too, from a food basis:

Foods.	Per cent. dry matter.	Units of energy.
Milk	12.5	210
Mushrooms	11.3	185
Oysters	11.7	225
Spinach	7.7	95
Tomatoes	5.7	100

Notice that milk contains more food solids and units of energy than any article in the list. Milk also is more nourishing than tea, coffee or the common soups as ordinarily made.

It also has this advantage, that practically all of its solid matter is digested. It really contains no waste.

A quart of milk weighs about 2.1 pounds, which makes milk almost always cost less than 5 cents a pound, the cheapest of all common foods except flour and grain products, cheap cuts of meats and starchy vegetables such as potatoes. All these products require preparation and cooking, which add to all their original cost and should be considered in preparing foods.

The method for selecting the best grade of milk from the kinds available is a question which the consumer must help himself to answer. The best general rule is to observe the keeping quality of the milk. If kept in a clean place at a temperature of 60 degrees F. or less, good milk will remain sweet twenty-four hours after delivery.

Strange Neglect.

"What's that?" asked the old settler.

"Tailors and lawyers have one thing in common."
"What is that?"
"Both are always ready to press suits."—Baltimore American.
