Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

As a taxpayer in the city I think it is a crime that the city does not supply portable "Johns" in Veterans Field during Football Season on Sundays when there are games played. What do you expect these children to do who come from other towns to play and have to stay for 2 games which last between 3 or 4 hours. This past Sunday I had 3 girls from the visiting team knock at my door and ask to use the bathroom and there are quite a few other people in the area who are asked the same question. I think the people of South Amboy are taxed quite a bit and the city could well afford to put or rent this facility after all Veterans Field is used every day for some type of sport either football, baseball, soft ball or other recreational purposes and I think it should have some kind of toilet facilities.

"Computer - Van" offers a new and unique method of continuing education for physicians and dentists by means of simulated patient management. The doctor can diagnose and treat up to 12 hypothetical patients with any and all modalities, and will receive instant results of his tests and treatments. "Computer - Van" has been built and equipped by the Academy of Medicine of New Jersey, with the aid of a grant from the New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society. Cases have been written by New Jersey physicians of international repute.

Computer software has been provided by Worley & Ringe, Inc. of Philadelphia, who will distribute the program nationally to any organizations who wish to use it for professional education. "Computer - Van" will be used solely for teaching the detection, diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

In addition to computerized patient simulation, "Computer - Van" will present four simultaneous, continuous slide programs on other phases of cancer. After a two-week stay at the Mountainside Hospital, "Computer - Van" will start an eight-month swing around New Jersey, with at least one stop in each county. Raymond F. Zalenski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Zalenski of 22 Pershing Ave., Sayreville, has been promoted to airman first class in the U.S. Air Force.

Airman Zalenski is a missile mechanic in a unit of the Strategic Air Command at Loring AFB, Maine.

Electrician's Mate Fireman Apprentice Thomas S. Holstrom, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Swen Holstrom of 16 Lavern Street, Sayreville, is serving aboard the USS Providence off the Southern California coast.

The ship recently participated in Exercise Bell Express, a combined Navy-Marine exercise, preparing the units for conditions they will meet not only in Southeast Asia, but throughout the Western Pacific area.

The participating Fleet had to evade Navy aircraft acting as enemy surveillance planes as one of the many maneuvers included in the exercise.

In one respect, Bell Express might be compared to a graduation exercise, since each unit was evaluated and graded on its performance.

Garden News

HUNDRED - YEAR PEONIES

You may not have many peonies to pick at your house about 100 years from now if you don't plant your peonies precisely.

That's right. A peony bed that's established according to the rules could be flowering in June, 2069, just as peonies that were planted 100 years ago are still producing big fragrant blooms.

That's the word straight from Don Lacey, home horticulture specialist at Rutgers, as he offers a few simple suggestions for peony success.

First, get at the job during October. And when you divide a present clump or plant a new one from the garden center, be sure it has three to five "eyes." Then you won't have to wait 100 years for bloom--only two or three years.

Establish your peonies where they'll get full sun and good drainage.

Plant the bud or "eye" only about an inch beneath the surface of the soil.

Do all this and your peony bed will keep on producing year after year. And then some.

LOTS OF SPOTS

This has been a year for many plants to wear spots on their leaves. 'Mums, mountain pinks, roses, and many others have had black or brown spots because of the long spells of rainy weather.

All such spots are caused by a fungus, and it's all right with plant doctors if you call the trouble leaf spot disease.

Spencer H. Davis, plant health specialist at Rutgers, suggests you try to head off such trouble next year by spraying with a fungicide preparation that contains maneb or zineb. Read the fine print on the label.

Albert G. Waters III, 22, whose parents live at 228 David St., South Amboy, was commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduation from the Officer Candidate School at the U.S. Army Field Artillery Center, Fort Sill, Okla., Sept. 9.

He graduated in 1964 from St. Mary's High School, South Amboy and received a B.S. degree in history in 1968 from Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md.

ALL-AMERICANS TO BE HONORED AT RUTGERS

A special ceremony honoring All-Americans from Rutgers and Cornell will highlight the halftime program of this Saturday's game between the Scarlet Knights and the Big Red in Rutgers Stadium at 2 p.m.

Twelve All-Americans will be present at the game when the two schools square off for the fifth time, the first in New Brunswick. Cornell leads in the series 3-1.

Although Rutgers has had four All-Americans, only Bill Austin, a former captain and single-wing tailback who was cited in 1958, will be in New Brunswick Saturday. In addition to the late Homer Hazel, who was named in 1923 and '24 as an end and fullback, Paul Robeson (1918) and Alex Kroll (1961) have been invited, but are unable to attend.

Cornell will have 11 former greats in town for the game including Hall of Fame members Jerome "Brud" Holland (1937 and '38) and Eddie Kaw (1921 and '22).

Cornell has 14 lettermen returning this season in what has been termed a "rebuilding year" by Coach Jack Musick. New personnel will be active in the offensive backfield and defensive line. Former reserve quarterback Bill Arthur will be calling signals this year. He'll be joined in the backfield by new halfbacks Ed Marinaro, Mike Phillips, Jim O'Hargan, John Morehouse and fullback Frank Bennett.

Rutgers will be seeking to avenge last year's 17-16 loss to the Big Red. In that game, Rutgers scored a touchdown with six minutes remaining and on its attempt for a two point conversion which would have given the Knights the win.

Rich Policastro, who threw the pass for the last Rutgers score in that game, heads a refurbished Rutgers backfield this season. In addition to establishing his passing game, Policastro has effectively called upon tailback Bruce Van Ness and fullback Steve Ferrughelli to collect yardage on the ground, as was evident in the Knights opening game win over Lafayette two weeks ago.

The Passaic Wonder Team!!! Many of you may remember this famous basketball team of the Twenties, under the tutelage of Coach Blood. This item has nothing to do with their remarkable record but if one of you could or would supply that information, it will be passed along in this column.

Over a period of more than forty years the memory cells sort of fade out but you may recall a "Nelly" Rohback (Rohrbach?), a member of that fabulous team. "Nelly" got his nickname from a horse. When he was a kid, he "fell in love" with the iceman's horse and followed him up and down the streets of the Third Ward in Passaic. He refused to answer to his given name, whatever it was, and would respond only when called "Nelly".

Some of you older grads of Rutgers may recall that either Nelly or his brother Bill later became a member of the All-American Lacrosse Team.

This business of "falling in love" with a horse or some other animal is rather prevalent, among kids, and has happened to many of us at one time or other. The late Joe Moskal of Bayview Manor was known by all as "Dick". Very few of his friends knew that his name was Joseph. When I questioned him about this, years ago when we worked together in Hercules, he told me that he too had grown attached to a horse and insisted on adopting its name, "Dick".

Tiny Wagner and Carlton Dufford both recall "Lonely Acres" as being the theme song of Paul Tremain's orchestra. Carlton can remember the band broadcasting from somewhere in the shore area, possibly Spring Lake.

Tiny adds an interesting bit by saying that he thinks it was Tremain who started the trend of Theme Songs. He also promises to find out what he can about Don Redman and his "Chant of the Weeds". (or is it, Reeds??)

During our conversations about the big bands, we wondered how many of the viewers of the Rutgers-Princeton game remembered Ozzie Nelson as one of the great band leaders, and not as the star of a TV show. Do you recall Ozzie and Harriet doing "Rock-A-Bye Moon On The Tree-Tops"??

Tiny left me with a "cliff-hanger" when he started, but didn't finish, a discourse on original music and the number of possibilities of using all the musical notes in all the possible variations. Maybe he'll clear this up at a later date.

"Boo" Oliver, in a letter from Tuckerton, asks me when I'm going to re-name this column "Horse's Corner."

Boo corresponds with a blind friend in Wilmington, by way of recording tapes, and he passed along the "horse problem." This friend, who is quite a radio fan, queried a local station's question and answer program, entitled "It's Your Nickel" and they devoted one whole program to this question.

One elderly lady, who heard the program, swears she has a copy of a Sears-Roebuck catalogue of the year 1909 and the item in question is listed under "horse-weight."

If the above is so, our search is ended. Apparently this is the first bit of evidence submitted in the printed word. What else can you go by, except the printed word of yore? All other names given to this weight were oral and colloquial.

I don't know about John Gambling, Random House, Reader's Digest or all you other people who submitted names for this weight, but I'm willing to accept the gospel of the "Wish-Book." It's a horse-weight, plain and simple.

Now that we have that one solved, someone is sure to bring up the old "was the kid in the wagon when he fell out" bit. The answer to this one is simple because it's the same one you get when you ask, "Was the man on the bridge when he jumped off?"

With the horse problem solved, and the baseball season at its peak, the following story may be just the thing to finish off this column, and perhaps me. (This may sound like one of his, but, Ed Powers isn't responsible for it.)

One day at Ebbets Field Leo Durocher was accosted by a large and well-groomed horse, who said, "I'd like to join the Dodgers if you've got any place for me."

"What can you do?", asked the Leo.

"Well, I can bat," said the horse.

"Pick out a bat and show me," the manager ordered.

The horse looked over the pile of bats, selected one to his liking and stepped out to the plate with the bat between his teeth. Casey was pitching and the horse hit the first ball that came over and knocked it out of the field.

"Pretty good," said Durocher, "What else can you do?"

"I'm a mighty good first baseman," came the reply.

"Get over there," said Leo. The horse did and again proved his worth.

"I'm also a pretty good shortstop," the horse volunteered and again demonstrated its prowess.

By this time Durocher was pretty well convinced but he asked, "Can you pitch?"

"Of course," said the horse, "Give me your shoes."

WHERE I STAND

by Robert B. Meyner

The public library, a place of education, entertainment, and reflection for so many of our citizens, must have even greater support from the State government in the years ahead.

I take pride in the fact that the first State Aid Act for public libraries in the history of New Jersey was passed in 1959 during my second term as Governor. And this program was improved considerably during the administration of Gov. Richard J. Hughes with the passage of the State Library Aid Act of 1967.

However, much remains to be done. The next Governor must study and revise, if necessary, State aid programs so that all municipalities will receive a fair share of State funds for libraries. At the same time, there must be better coordination among libraries to eliminate duplication so that the people will benefit as much as possible from our appropriations for this purpose.

There must also be improved educational programs and opportunities if we are to attract a greater number of professional librarians.

Among our other needs are a centralized technical processing department to organize and process books and related materials for all of our libraries, the development of a network of communications connecting key libraries and using the latest electronic equipment and the creation of a State Film Library Center to serve as a statewide resource supplementing the activities of libraries throughout the State.

These are among the things that can and must be done to assure that our libraries will always play an important role in our communities for the benefit of citizens of every age.

BALANCED BREAKFAST FOR BACK-TO-SCHOOLERS

Back to school days mean a return to the balanced breakfast. Suggested here are Breakfast Nests consisting of a round of cooked ham ringed with mashed potatoes and centered with an egg. Orange juice and milk complete the menu.

It's time to put aside casual summer eating habits and turn over a new leaf. Back to school days mean back to a balanced breakfast. Students in every grade need the nutrients and energy supplied by a good first meal of the day. Keeps them bright-eyed and alert.

Welcome relief from the usual bacon-and-eggs are these appealing Breakfast Nests created by the makers of Fleischmann's Margarine. Hearty and nourishing, each Nest consists of a round of cooked ham ringed with mashed potatoes and centered with an egg.

Complete the menu with orange juice and milk to get the day off to a good start.

Breakfast Nests

- 4 fully cooked ham portions, 1/4-inch thick (circular shape preferred)
- 2 cups thick mashed potatoes
- 1 egg, beaten
- 4 medium-sized eggs (at room temperature)
- 2 tablespoons Fleischmann's Margarine, melted
- 1 tablespoon fine dry bread crumbs

Arrange ham portions on greased baking sheet, set aside. Mix together mashed potatoes and beaten egg until thoroughly blended. Spoon mixture evenly onto ham portions. (If desired, mixture may be forced through pastry tube to form circles.) Using back of spoon, shape each mound into nests with large or deep center hollow.

Bake in a hot oven (425° F.) for 10 minutes. Remove from oven. Slip eggs into hollows of potato nests. Drizzle "nests" with melted Fleischmann's Margarine, then sprinkle with bread crumbs. Return to oven; bake until eggs are of desired degree of doneness (about 6 minutes for soft cooked). If desired, garnish with parsley. Makes 4 servings.

SOCIAL SECURITY NEWS

"You know, when my sight started to go, I felt real sorry for myself," Sam Taylor explained. "Here I was stumbling and bumping into things and having to depend on others for help. Something happened though. Now, I realize there are lots of worse things that can happen to people so I just count my blessings."

For almost 35 years Sam drove a long distance truck. He couldn't recall how many miles he logged or the number of times he traveled the country across the great plain states and up through the Rockies. He enjoyed the work despite the breakdowns and the storms from snow blizzards to tornadoes. Now at age 58, he had to give it all up because of his eyes.

"I never had any difficulty until about a year ago. Then, I began to get headaches especially driving at night with the lights flashing in front of my eyes. Sunlight also bothered me. After awhile, my vision began to get blurred. This was about January and so I figured that I better get my eyes checked. Well, the doctor's report wasn't good and there was nothing else for me to do but retire on disability."

Sam's situation came to the attention of the Social Security office when the union representative called to find out whether any benefits could be paid.

Fortunately, there are special provisions for the blind which applied in Sam's case. Thus, after filing a claim he became entitled to a monthly benefit of $145.90 beginning August 1969.

Right now, Sam finds himself busier than before working in his churches—especially with the young people. Also, he is an avid ham radio operator and spends hours talking with people all over the country. Sam explained, "There is really no limit if you want to do something."

Although Social Security records are confidential, Sam Baker agreed to have his story used to alert others who may qualify for benefits.

If you have a disability that may prevent you from working for at least 12 months, contact your local Social Security office as soon as possible.

HEADS COUNTY DIMES CAMPAIGN

Dr. Thomas H. Paterniti of Edison, was named Campaign Director of the 1970 March of Dimes Campaign in Middlesex County by Chapter Chairman Joseph R. Costa. This will be his third year as Director, and Mr. Costa was pleased to avail himself of this "top drawer" leadership for this very responsible post.

Paterniti, a Dental Surgeon, resides at 5 Remington Drive with his wife and for children, Thomas, Maria, Donna and Lisa.

He is President of the Metuchen Chamber of Commerce; past president of the N.J. Alumni Society of the Univ. of Maryland; Past President of Metuchen Rotary Club; President of the Edison Library Bd. of Trustees; member of the St. Francis Council K of C; member of the Raritan Valley National Bank Bd. of Directors; Bd. of Directors of the Central Jersey Assn. for Exceptional Children; Dental Staff of John F. Kennedy Hospital; Bd. of Directors of the Middlesex County Chapter of The National Foundation.

"Birth Defects are the second greatest killer in the United States. Every year they cause the death of 60,000 children and adults and kill more than a half - million babies before they're even born," Paterniti said.

"Research is an important weapon in our fight against this killer.

The National Foundation-March of Dimes allocates a substantial part of all funds collected to high-caliber research projects in many parts of the country. We're proud to support the men and women engaged in these undertakings. They're all distinguished leaders in the field of medicine."

Scientists associated with the March of Dimes are now investigating a number of hereditary and environmental factors that interfere with the development of the unborn child, such as the effects of infections during pregnancy, relationships of drugs to birth defects, and other errors of body chemistry and structure.

"If our nation is to produce stronger, healthier babies, research must be expanded as quickly as contributions permit. At the same time, the result of research must be translated into techniques for treating or preventing birth defects. We, therefore, urge the public to consider these facts when we call on you in January," Paterniti said.

Food for Thought

By Mary Lee

There's lots of table talk going around in decorating circles these days. The idea is, of course, to "do your own thing" when you set the table for breakfast, lunch or dinner.

As with fashion in clothing or home furnishing, the traditional is OUT, the innovative is IN at the table. At least, that's what makes the news these days.

For example, some of the best ideas are gleaned from the table settings at Tiffany's. Long famous for their unusual displays of fine china, crystal and silver combinations, they're considered the epitome of innovative dining.

Always understated (and expensive) but never stilted, their table settings feature such combinations as Wedgwood's Drab ware on a Chipendale table or on a butcher block table. The trick is to have color, textures, patterns in unexpected mixtures.

Typical would be a large silver bowl heaped with lemons as a centerpiece on a rattan table. Elaborate hand-painted floral china might bloom against a custom-made floral tablecloth. Or a demi tasse and saucer could appear as a cigarette holder and ashtray.

POTTERY

Stoneware and pottery dishes in earthen tones are popular, too, and you'll see them displayed in a variety of ways at smart stores. They're particularly stunning combined with heavy linen or homespun mats in ginger brown, avocado, or golden shades.

And despite all the new materials such as space-oriented acrylics, teflon, and cyclocac, old fashioned earthenware has great appeal for gourmet cooks. They particularly like big provincial French pitchers, mixing bowls, au gratin and mustard pots.

Leading designers seem to take great delight in using old material in new ways. For example, one inventive interior designer loves to use galvanized metal with strips of brass to form drape-like window valances or table trimmings. He also polishes an ordinary old scrub pail and turns it into a table lamp with a coarse, wheat-colored linen shade, or a planter to hold giant leaves.

Another innovation is a white industrial lighting fixture hung from the ceiling with a rope. It is placed over a round table with a floor-length beige linen cloth that matches tailored shutters rimmed in brass at the windows.

NEEDLEPOINT

A number of interior decorators are also hooked on needlepoint. So if you're handy with the needle, now's the time to get started. Seems that some people are paying up to $75 for a 15-inch pillow, and into the thousands for a rug to do themselves!

One New York designer has a summer house crammed with needlepoint. According to reports he has a 4x6-foot rug in bright colors on a black background in the dining room. And each of the six round wrought iron dining chairs has a cushion in a different floral design.

NOW IT'S THE LAYERED LOOK IN HOME FASHION, TOO

THE LAYERED LOOK at its match-mated best—turning a bedroom bay into a blooming bower. Color-look drapery lining, pillow covers and solid accents, picked from Charleston Garden pattern.

NEW YORK (ED)—The layered look—top fashion trend for well-dressed women—is moving into the home, as well. With the narrowing of the gap between fashion and fashions for living, this season's best-dressed windows will sport the same layer-upon-layer look that women are going to wear into cold weather.

And in the case of home fashions, at least, there's logic behind the look. Properly chosen, the layers hold the answer to the problem of keeping outside weather where it belongs: outside of the window.

Best bets begin with a top layer of decorative draperies, then work back toward the window with back-up layers that protect both your comfort and the good looks of the decorative face fabric. Panel-plain, tie-back or traverse-draw, the face drapery should be lined—either with a sewn-in lining, for design traditionalists, and everyone who wants to add bulk to a fragile fabric, or with a separately hung lining where airborne dirt and easy maintenance are major problems. (A lining alone is a lot easier to wash than a bulky, fully-lined drapery.)

Choose your lining fabric for high-performance practicality. The new Roc-lon linings, for instance, are insulated, to guard against temperature change (glass is the greatest conductor of weather of all building materials) while they shield the face fabric from sun-fading and dampness damage. Where light-control is what you want—in a late sleeper's too-sunny bedroom, for instance—look into the new Lite-trol blackout fabrics. In a ranch house with eye-level windows making up most of what's seen from outside, unify the look with linings in a color to complement trim paint.

For the true layered look, don't stop with draperies. Hang simple, full-window-width casements behind tie-backs; use valances and shaped lambrequins to unify windows and walls; mix top-half sheers with bottom-half cafes, in a print to match draperies, for a triple-decker effect. For easy fashion switchery, start with a lining on its own traverse rod. Then hang decorative panels on a second, room-side rod. The panels change with the season and your mood; the Roc-lon lining remains in place, to provide the basic protection you want.

Your choices are literally limitless; window wardrobes come in as many combinations as window sizes and shapes. And this is the season to feel free—to enjoy life with the fashion approach that suits your way of living.

BEST-DRESSED TWINOWS pair Waverly print, casement cloth. Tie-backs are Roc-lon lined, for insulated protection when dropped closed after dark.

McKEON MAY BE NAMED MANAGER

With the retirements of coaches Jo-Jo White and Mel Harder from the Royals and the ailments bothering manager Joe Gordon, South Amboy's Jack McKeon is almost certain to be with the Kansas City Royals in 1970 as coach or pilot.

Jack, the son of Mrs. Aloysius McKeon of 350 John St., South Amboy, is a South Amboy St. Mary's High School star who now makes his home in Burlington, N.C. He was voted AA "Manager of the Year" this season, the fifth time he's won such a title but the first time he won it on a 3-A level.

The 38-year-old McKeon made his debut as a manager in the now defunct Alabama State League in 1949. The parent Pittsburgh Pirates assigned McKeon, then an 18-year-old rookie catcher, to Greenville. He became manager when the team's pilot took ill and some of its older players moved up the minor league ladder. Greenville went on a late-season winning streak and wound up in first place under the 18-year-old manager. Branch Rickey, then general manager of the Pirates wrote a personal letter promising McKeon a regular managing job when he retired as a player. In 1954, Rickey made McKeon a minor-league manager.

His career reached a high point this year with the Triple-A championship and the coveted managerial award. McKeon won the award for piloting the Omaha Royals to the American Association flag, and he won with personnel from the expansionist Kansas City Royals, a team made up of other teams' castoffs.

McKeon's Omaha outfit won the flag by six games over second-place Tulsa, a St. Louis Cardinals farm team. Other major league clubs operating teams in the six-club circuit included two A.L. West contenders, Minnesota and Oakland, and from the National League West, Cincinnati and Houston.

McKeon, who's made a living of winning with undistinguished talent, did quite a job. He was rewarded for his managerial heroics with a late-season promotion to the Royals coaching lines. Next season, he's likely to have the "KC" on his cap again.

BOW AND ARROW SEASON TO OPEN

New Jersey bow and arrow enthusiasts will take to the woods this Saturday, October 4, in quest of white-tail deer. Black bear, although limited in number, will also be fair game, according to Director Lester G. MacNamara of the State Conservation and Economic Development Department's Division of Fish and Game.

The season will run through November 6, a period of almost five weeks that has prevailed in most recent years; prior to 1969, only four weeks were allowed. Hunting hours will be from 1/2 hour before sunrise until 1/2 hour after sunset.

The legal bag limit is one deer of either sex or one bear. An archer who does not bag a deer or bear during the bow and arrow season may try for a buck or bear with this weapon during the firearm season, December 8-13; a successful bowhunter may hunt only with a shotgun and a firearm license during the latter season, and no hunter may bag more than one deer during either season. The law on bear has been changed this year and permits only one bear or one deer to be taken during the archery or firearm seasons, with the annual limit one bear whether taken by bow or gun.

Any deer taken must be tagged immediately and reported to the Division of Fish and Game within 24 hours. Every regular hunting license includes a tag and a postpaid report card; resident servicemen, farmers hunting their own land and juvenile license holders must make their own tag and card.

Incommunicado

After another dismal television evening, it becomes clear that many people would rather look at anything, instead of each other.

Sabre Midgets Lose to

Undefeated Sayreville

The South Amboy Sabres visited Sayreville in conquest of their first victory of the season but were defeated by the powerful Sayreville squad 28-6.

The first quarter was about evenly matched until late in the period, Sayreville's strength began to take its toll. With the ball on the Sabre 12 yard line, Ray Stanjeski broke around right end made his way into the Sabre end zone for a touchdown. Stanjeski's extra point try was no good.

The second quarter was much like the first, with the Sabre's struggling to ward off the Sayreville attack. With time running out, Sayreville was knocking on the door for another touchdown. They were on the Sabre 5 yard line. Rick Shanley burst thru center for 5 yards and a touchdown. Extra point try was no good making the score 12-0.

With the begging of the second half the Sayreville attack began to roll. With Stanjeski and Shanley carrying the ball, the ball was soon on the Sabre 1 yard line. Fred Semasko bulled over guard for the touchdown. Kevin Timmons skirted end for the extra points. The Sayreville attack continued and the ball soon was on the Sabre 2 yard line. Stanjeski ran up the middle for the touchdown and the extra points to made the score 28-0.

The Sabre's stiffened their defenses and held Sayreville at bay. Late in the quarter, Stanjeski swept the Sabre left flank but was hit by a jarring tackle by Rene Picchini causing Stanjeski to fumble the ball. Thomas Mulchay gathered up the loss pigskin and scampered 35 yards for a Sabre touchdown, making the final score, Sayreville 28, Sabres 6.
