COUNTY W. C. T. U. MEETS HERE

Hold Their Twenty-seventh Annual Spring Institute in the Methodist Episcopal Church—Large Attendance of Delegates and Much Interest Manifested—Morning, Afternoon and Evening Sessions.

The twenty-seventh annual spring institute of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Middlesex County was held in the M. E. Church all day Wednesday. Three sessions were held and the building was packed at each session. Delegations from practically all the nearby towns were present and altogether the event was an enthusiastic one and the day one not to be quickly forgotten by those who attended.

It was served to those desiring the accommodation in the basement of the church by the social committee of the Epworth League of the church for the sum of twenty cents. Dessert was served for an additional nickel, making an excellent meal for a quarter.

Supper was served after the close of the afternoon session for fifteen cents and dessert included for this sum.

The morning session opened at ten o'clock and fifteen minutes were devoted to devotional services which was led by Mrs. L. L. Hand, of Milltown.

Appointment of committees was the next order of business and the following appointments made:

Committee of Courtesy, Mrs. Elizabeth Pearce and Mrs. E. T. Walters. Committee on Resolutions, Mrs. L. L. Hand.

Committee on Literature and Enrollment, Mrs. Martha Miller, of Pleasanton. Committee on Membership, Mrs. Applegate.

The welcome from the churches to the Union was delivered by Rev. J. B. Shaw, welcome from the Y. M. C. A. was offered by Mr. F. A. Deacon, Secretary of the local organization. The welcome on behalf of the Public School was rendered by Prof. O. A. Barr, City Superintendent of Schools, and from the South Amboy Union by Mrs. Lizzie R. Ware.

The response was made by Mrs. A. J. Butcher. The favorite campaign song of the W. C. T. U., entitled "A Saloonless Nation in 1912" was sung and this was followed by an instrumental selection on the pipe organ by the church organist, Miss Lizzie Dayton.

Reading of the minutes of the executive meetings was followed by the taking up of the usual morning offering.

This was followed by an address by Rev. H. C. White, of the First Presbyterian Church of Broadway. Mr. White spoke on "The Progress of the Temperance Cause," and his address was strong, pleasing and encouraging to his hearers. In his speech he gave some of his experiences while in the Southland, where he spent fifteen years, particularly in the state of Tennessee when it was as he called it, "As black as the state of New Jersey is at the present time." Now Tennessee was freed and then he compared the two states, Tennessee and our own, in a way that left no room for doubt.

The session closed with the noon-time prayer which was led by the County President of the W. C. T. U., Mrs. A. R. Fisher, of Sayreville.

At one o'clock the executive meeting was called. This body was composed of the county superintendent and each local superintendent.

At two o'clock the afternoon session began with a bible reading by Rev. H. C. White. Reading of the minutes of the morning session and executive committee meetings was followed by an address on "National Constitutional Prohibition," by Miss Eleanor H. Gehardt, daughter of H. H. Gehardt. Miss Gehardt is a lawyer by profession and her address was highly appreciated as clear cut and to the point.

Another instrumental selection was rendered on the pipe organ by Miss Dayton and was followed by the lifting of the afternoon offering.

Then an address called "Is the Partnership between the Government and the Liquor Traffic Indispensable?" by the Rev. James C. Mason, of Trenton.

Miss Mintz Becomes the Bride of J. Sutliff, Jr.

A very pretty wedding took place last Wednesday morning in St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church at nine o'clock when Miss Cecilia Elizabeth Mintz, of Brooklyn, became the bride of Mr. John Francis Sutliff, son of Collector Sutliff of Pine avenue. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. P. Kennedy. A large number of friends were present to witness the nuptials.

John E. Coyne, of David street, acted as bestman, and Miss Lillie Cabill, also of Brooklyn, was the bridesmaid. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white tulle, with lace veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was becomingly attired in a gown of yellow tulle, with melon bonnet, and carried a bouquet of Killarney roses.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Manion of Felton and Main streets, by Caterer Bruns of New Brunswick.

The newly wedded couple left on the 12.28 train for New York from where they took the steamer for Old Point Comfort, Va., where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return they will occupy their house on Main street, which has been newly redecorated and furnished and is now ready for occupancy.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Fletcher, Miss Edna Mintz, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. John Sutliff, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. James W. Ren, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Mack, Mr. and Mrs. James Dwyer, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Manion, Mrs. Mary A. Breen, Miss Della Breen, Miss Sarah Breen, Miss Katherine Sutliff, Miss Elizabeth Sutliff, Edward Sutliff, Joseph Sutliff, and Charles Sutliff. All present were relatives, no outsiders being present.

Children Tender Surprise to Parent

A surprise party in the form of a dinner was tendered to Mrs. Patrick J. Coan at her home on David street last Sunday in honor of her seventy-fourth birthday anniversary. Early in the afternoon her son John invited his parents out for an automobile ride and they accepted and went along. The ride was lengthy and when they returned their children, who had assembled meantime, had the plans for the surprise completed. The table was heavily burdened with a large birthday cake, turkey and all the other delicacies that go with the consumption of the historic bird.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. John A. Coan and family, Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Coan and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Birmingham and family, Mr. Patrick Coan and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Maguire and family of Perth Amboy.

WM. BEHN GETS JUDGMENT AGAINST RAINCOAT COMPANY.

A judgment was rendered, in favor of William Behn of Stevens avenue, plaintiff, against Samuel Volansky and Max Volansky, who formerly operated the Union Raincoat Company in this city.

The claim was for electrical work done last year and was brought before the small cause court of Justice R. P. Mason. The plaintiff was represented by Counselor Coan and the defendants by John A. Lovely.

The defendants maintained that the work was unsatisfactory on account of failing to pass inspection by the underwriters, but the plaintiff proved that the materials he used in doing the work were furnished by the defendants and that it was on account of the materials used that the work failed.

LOTS AT PUBLIC VENUE.

The McCrossen property running from Henry to John street, block forty-eight, consisting of four lots, will be offered at public vendue on Friday next at 3 p. m. This is desirable property and investors should be on hand and make a bid. For any particulars see John A. Coan, solicitor, Post Office building.

Household Furniture For Sale.

A lot of household furniture, consisting of brass bedstead, chiffonier, range, dining room table and chairs, etc., almost new, is offered at private sale. Call at 21 G. street.

ANIMALS PERISH IN BARN FIRE

Fourteen Cows and Two Horses Roasted to Death at Kaplan Bros. Dairy Farm on Washington Road—Fire Started Early in Morning and Protection Steamer was Called Out.

Thirteen cows and two horses were burned to death early last Wednesday morning when the barn of Kaplan Brothers' dairy farm was destroyed by fire. Only two cows were saved and they were so terribly burned that they may have to be killed.

The Kaplan Brothers place is on the old road to South River, near Deep Cut, and is sometimes known as the Cook farm.

Employees of the P. R. R. in the yards near Cook's farm saw the fire before three o'clock. It is said and gave an alarm. One of the proprietors was awakened, probably by the crackling of the fire which was then gaining headway rapidly, and rushed out to try to save the animals. He realized his helplessness and the futility of his efforts after getting the two cows out. About a quarter to four he went over to C. U. telegraph office, which is very near the scene of the fire, and asked the operator to see if he couldn't get help from this city, as he was afraid the house would catch on fire, too.

His request was complied with and arrangements made by telephone with the fire chief and then an alarm was turned in from box No. 45 on the corner of Main and Augusta streets at twenty minutes of five. Protection steamer responded and the apparatus was taken to the Cook farm by the city's team, getting there about half-past five.

A large crowd had collected in the meantime and a bucket brigade was organized to try and save the other buildings near the barn. So there was nothing for Protection steamer to do but extinguish the blazing ruins of the barn which was by this time completely destroyed. This was done by pumping water from the artificial lake on the property onto the fire. When the steamer left shortly after six o'clock there was nothing left of the barn but a smoldering heap of ruins.

Before the fire apparatus reached the fire the out taps were sounded in response to a message from the scene of the fire that the engine would not be needed, the barn being completely burned and no further danger existing.

The cows were insured for fifty dollars apiece. In addition to the loss of the animals a great deal of loss was sustained in the destruction of dairy appurtenances, such as milk receptacles, wagons, etc., that were kept in the barn. The whole damage will probably reach $3,000 which is fully covered by insurance.

Missionary Meeting At Baptist Church

The annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of Monmouth Association will be held in the First Baptist Church of this city, on Friday, May 1st. This is the last meeting before the merging of the two women's societies east and west, into one National Organization with nine districts in the North. It is requested that every member of this church be present.

A very appropriate program is being prepared, and the following speakers are expected to be present: Mrs. Wm. Bowden, of Perth Amboy, N. J.; Miss L. M. Holbrook, of Turn Garo Hills Assam (India); Miss Pauline Long, of New Brunswick, N. J.; Mrs. B. O. Silver, of East Orange.

See Brown Bros' big adv. on sixth page for the greatest bargains ever offered to the public.

CAUGHT FISHHOOK IN HAND.

While fishing around the city dock last Monday Edward Jablonski, of Bergen Hill, got a large fishhook caught in the palm of his hand. In trying to extricate the hook it broke off leaving the barb in the hand. The boy went to Dr. Meacham, who lanced the hand and got the barb out. The accident left the youngster with a very swollen and sore hand for a few days, but it

BOYS FIND WHISKEY AND GET DRUNK

Two small boys who live in Bergen Hill found a quart of whiskey last Sunday and not knowing what it was proceeded to absorb the contents of the bottle. They got quite a jag on before a man passing by recognized them and took them home. Dr. E. A. Meacham was summoned because the condition of the youngsters led their parents to believe they had taken poison, and he pronounced it a case of plain common drunk.

The experience should be a lesson to these youngsters to let the contents of strange bottles alone, in the future.

STEUERWALD GETS ANOTHER VIOLATOR

Charged with gunning without a license, and shooting gray squirrels out of season, Anton Mitloski of Old Bridge on Monday was fined $20 and costs by Justice of the Peace P. M. Brown. He paid. Mitloski was arrested Friday on complaint of Game Warden Charles Steuerwald of this city. When arraigned, Mitloski denied shooting the squirrel, although he admitted he was gunning without a license.

WILL REST AT COUNTY HOTEL.

Thomas Levins claiming New Brunswick as his home town, was given sixty days in the county jail, and George Cocklin, his companion of Newark, was given thirty days, by Justice Birmingham last Wednesday. The charge was preferred by Officer Ryan who accused the men of being drunk and disorderly and pan-handling about town Tuesday night. When reprimanded by the Officer they became insolent and abusive in their language so the officer took them to the city hall lock up to sober up and a hearing given them next morning.

Steamboat to Land at Public Dock Sunday

A steamer of the Keansburg Steamboat Company will land at the public dock in this city on Sunday next, and passengers from New York will then be transferred by trolley to Keansburg. This roundabout transportation is due to the rules regulating passenger traffic on steamboats at this season of the year, whereby they can carry only about one-tenth of their usual capacity if they run across Raritan Bay and land direct at Keansburg. Of course it would not pay to run with this limited number of passengers, therefore, the steamer will run to this city for about three weeks.

The steamer will arrive here in the morning about eleven o'clock, and will leave at 12 o'clock for New York, leaving the metropolis again about 2 p. m. This will afford the people of this city and vicinity who desire to take a nice water trip an opportunity to do so. The steamer will leave this city about 6 p. m. for the last trip to New York. Refreshments will be sold on the steamer.

The Mayor and council have been extended an invitation to take the first trip from the public dock to New York as the guests of the company.

A LOW RATE EXCURSION TO SEE WASHINGTON

The Central Railroad of New Jersey will give the people of this city and vicinity an opportunity to visit the National Capitol, Washington, D. C., to-morrow (Sunday) at the very low rate of $3.00 for return fare. The train will leave this city at 12.00 a. m. (midnight) April 26, and will arrive at Washington about 7.00 a. m., thus giving ample time to visit all points of interest. And by leaving Washington for this city at 4 p. m., the train will arrive home in time to give opportunity for a good night's rest before business the next day. Tickets may be procured at any time, and it would be best to buy them in advance in order to avoid a rush at train time. All sections will have a personal representative of the company. District Passenger Agent Ira E. Whyte will accompany the excursion.

NOTICE.

Members of Good Samaritan Lodge No. 52, K. of P., are requested to meet at Lodge Room Sunday afternoon, the 26th inst. at 2.30 o'clock, for the purpose of attending the funeral service of our late Brother James Allen, at his residence, No. 75 Main street.

VACCINATION TO BE ENFORCED

Pupils and Teachers of Public Schools Not Vaccinated by May 1 To Receive Exclusion Certificates—Seven Scholars Ready for Graduation—Schools to Close June 11.

War has been declared between the Board of Education and all those pupils who have not been vaccinated. Peace negotiations were brought to a close last night when Mr. Grace offered a motion that for each and every pupil and teacher that has not complied with the laws as applying to vaccination by the first day of May, the Medical Inspector issue exclusion certificates. The motion was adopted. This action grew out of the medical inspector's suggestion in his report that as a number of pupils had refused to be vaccinated that the matter be laid aside for the balance of this term. The members of the board asked if there were any physical reasons why they should not be vaccinated and the reply being in the negative, the aforementioned drastic action was taken after considerable discussion on the subject.

Mr. Littell asked the secretary if he had received any reply from Miss Everitt as to the board's request for her resignation. Secretary Locker replied that he had not. He also stated that he had delivered Miss Everitt's last pay check to her mother as he did not see Miss Everitt herself. Then Mr. Littell started a lengthy discussion by remarking that Miss Everitt showed her customary lack of respect for the board as she has positively ignored the rules and regulations and now she doesn't have the courtesy to reply to a direct communication from the board.

The meeting, which was the regular monthly meeting, was held in the City Hall Thursday night and all the members of the board, except Dr. Haines were present. Dr. Haines is in Virginia and could not be present. City Superintendent O. A. Barr and Prof. P. S. Miller were also in attendance.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A communication from Carl Hagstrom, of Perth Amboy, making application for position as teacher of chemistry and other sciences was read. The applicant stated that he was a graduate of Rutgers College and was at present employed as a chemist. The communication was received and filed.

The secretary presented a contract from the telephone company which he was ordered to have executed.

A communication from the Common Council stated that Messrs. A. H. Slover and M. J. Stanton had been appointed to the board of estimate to meet with a like body of the board; to arrange the school budget for the coming year. It was received and filed.

Another communication was received from the South Amboy Public Library Association acknowledging receipt of the books which the schools have arranged to lend them and thanking the board for same. It was also filed.

Another communication from Dr. J. C. Albright stated that a total of 133 pupils had been vaccinated recently, 70 of which were in school No. 1 and the remaining 63 in school No. 2. Mr. Mason moved that it be received and filed. Carried.

The following bills were presented, and after a recess to enable the various committees to audit same and report, were ordered paid. Public Service Gas Co., School No. 2, $30; Public Service Gas Co., School No. 1, 27c; James Dolan, for repairs to telephone and lines, $11.15; James Dolan electrical work $4.00; Howard D. Littell, 11 tons of coal, $68.85; Howard D. Littell, 10 1/2 tons of coal, $65.63; C. I. Bergen, $7.11; South Amboy Printing Co., printing five hundred postal cards, $7.25; Expressage and postage, $1.07; Henry Ely, labor and repairs to school, $14.75.

Mr. Mason, as chairman of the committee on buildings and grounds, asked the sentiment of the board regarding the improvement of grounds of the school and paid along John

JAMES ALLEN IS CALLED BY DEATH

James Allen passed away at his home on Main street on Wednesday last, after a lingering illness at the age of 81 years.

Mr. Allen was a highly respected citizen of this city, was of a social disposition, and had a host of friends. He was born near Glasgow, Scotland, and when a child his parents emigrated to the United States, and with their family settled in Bordentown about the year 1838. James received his education in such schools as the town afforded in those early days, but like most of the youth of his time was put to work at an early age. He learned the carpenter trade which he followed for a time, and afterward worked as a pattern maker.

In 1862, Mr. Allen entered the service of the Camden & Amboy Railroad Company at Bordentown and was placed in charge of the department where the wood work to locomotives and tenders was fitted out. After twelve years of service in the Bordentown shops, part of the time under the supervision of Mr. Dougherty, and then under the late Thomas Kerr, he was transferred to this city, holding his important position for twenty-six years longer, making 38 years of consecutive service for the Camden & Amboy and Pennsylvania Railroads combined. In 1900, Mr. Allen was retired under the pension rule.

On January 15, 1874, Mr. Allen rented from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company the house No. 75 Main street, which he occupied until his death, having been a tenant about 40 years.

During the thirty-eight years of service in charge of such an important department Mr. Allen was never censured for a mistake or reprimanded for an omission of duty. As a citizen and neighbor he maintained the confidence of all with whom his business or social relationship brought him in contact. He took great interest in affairs of the city, and always read the local paper being one of the early subscribers.

Mr. Allen united as a charter member with Lodge No. 96, Knights of Pythias, of Bordentown, in 1868, and retained his membership until death. This lodge placed upon him all the principal honors within its gift. As district deputy of Burlington and Mercer counties he assisted in organizing lodges that have grown strong and prominent. He was a member of Lodge No. 16, I. O. O. F., of Bordentown, and also of Lady Grace Lodge of this city for many years.

A few years ago he married for the third time the wife who is now bereaved by his death. Two sons, William and James, who were born to him by his first wife, are still living and reside at Elizabeth. William, the elder, occupies the head of an important department for the N. J. C. R. R. Co., and James works under him as an assistant.

Funeral service will be held from his late residence on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock to which relatives and friends are invited. On Monday, the body will be taken to Bordentown for burial in the cemetery at that place.

A LETTER TO FARMERS.

R. Stevens, Agriculturist, Lehigh Valley Railroad.)

A year the question of the control of club root cabbage receives consideration and letters are already beginning to come in asking for possible methods of control of this disease.

For the soil that is not already infected with the germ of this disease we can only advise extra precaution in avoiding it. First make sure that no plants are purchased which have been grown on affected soil. It seems that this is the most common way in which this disease is carried. Claims have been made that it is carried on seed to some extent, but these claims are not substantiated, and it is questionable if there is any great amount of danger in this direction. Then, in arranging the seed bed, make sure that that is put on a clean piece of ground. The State Experiment Station of New York calls attention to the fact in an effort to put seed bed on absolutely clean ground, hedge-rows and other heretofore unused ground are often plowed up for this purpose.

The results in the majority of cases are very disastrous, as club root occurs on many plants that have been allowed to grow along hedge-rows and woods, and, therefore, these pieces of ground are more often inoculated with the disease germ than in the open field which has been carefully cultivated and weeds kept under control.

Those who have ground not infected with this disease are confronted with an entirely different problem. We have no data at hand showing the length of life of these germs in the soil even when no cabbage crop is grown on the land. It is a well known fact, however, that a heavy application of lime will reduce by a very large percentage the amount of damage done by club root and it seems that burnt lime is much the better form to use in this case. All authorities seem to agree that very little advantage can be gained in the control of club root by the application of lime during the same season in which one wishes to grow a crop of cabbage. It should be applied at least one year before. If cabbage, for instance, is to follow corn the lime should be put on after the land is plowed for corn and thoroughly harrowed in. If the ground is plowed for corn and the fall before, so much the better, thus giving a heavy application of quick lime a year to eighteen months to work upon the soil before the cabbage is needed.

A heavy application of lime, say 1,500 to 2,000 pounds per acre, followed by a seeding of alfalfa and allowed to stand for three or four years, is probably the best recommendation that can be given in ridding a field of club root.

MINERS OUTDIG PANAMA CANAL.

Do you know that the coal miners of West Virginia have actually outdug the excavators of the Panama Canal? The big canal has been advertised in a hundred ways. Not a word has been said about the even more wonderful feat of the miners. That's why you don't know that in eleven years, while the much heralded work at the Panama Canal was producing 295,323,000 cu. yds. of earth—and all of the excavating was being done on the surface—the coal miners of West Virginia were getting out of the bowels of the earth 542,049,446 cubic yards. Think of it!

When the engineers of the Panama Canal, in 1903, began their work, they made a careful survey and found that approximately 195,323,000 cu. yds. of excavation was necessary. This was regarded as a stupendous undertaking and was commonly spoken of as the largest excavation job the world has ever seen. Laborers were imported to the Canal Zone, and column after column was written showing how marvelously these laborers were "making the dirt fly" under the direction of the most expert engineers the world has ever seen.

But the 195,323,000 cu. yds., the original estimate, were not all that the Panama Canal laborers were to dig after they had started. On account of the slides in Culebra cut, another hundred million cubic yards were to be added to their work. This made 295,323,000 cu. yds., which were dug in eleven years.

Under conditions far more difficult, the coal miners of West Virginia did an amount of excavating in the same eleven years that made the digging incident to the Panama Canal look like child's play. The work of these West Virginia miners has never been heralded to the world. The general public has paid little attention

NEW JERSEY NEWS CONDENSED.

Items of Interest From all Parts of the State as Gleaned from Our Exchanges Briefly Paragraphed.

All Victims of Wreck Found.

Side by side in the Morris Chapel at Long Branch on Saturday were the bodies of the seven victims of the schooner Charles K. Buckley, which was beached Wednesday night. The last body recovered, that of the Portuguese cook, was found opposite the North Long Branch public pavilion Saturday morning by a life saver connected with the Monmouth Beach station. The bodies of Captain Horatio G. Hardy and another sailor were recovered late Friday afternoon. It is believed that the sailors, who are without relatives, will be buried at Long Branch. Relatives will claim the bodies of Captain and Mrs. Hardy and First Mate A. W. Hardy.

Sealey Outing on May 17.

The annual outing of the Sealey Association of New Brunswick will be held on May 17 to Grant City, S. I., where the members will enjoy another famous shore dinner at Elmer's hotel. Edward Radel, chief scale of the club, will act as toastmaster and will not doubt be re-elected. The big baseball game between the uptown and downtown business men will be held, as will the fat man's race, tug of war and other novelty features which promise to make the outing more successful than ever. The club is composed of the business men of New Brunswick, who set one day a year apart for the holding of the annual outing and is always largely attended. The trip this year will be via trolley and train, going from New Brunswick to Perth Amboy by trolley and then to Staten Island where the members will board Rapid Transit cars for Grant City.

Bank Buys More Ground.

The First National Bank, of South River, has purchased twenty feet of ground on the north eastern side of the bank from the Sontag property on Main street that borough. The property will be put in good condition in the way of a lawn and flowers. The bank may use this property in the future to enlarge the present building.

Locked up After Being Robbed.

William Morris of Atlantic City was robbed of all his money, a gold watch and chain, stripped of his clothing in a fierce struggle with the robbers and thrown into Lake Manalapan at Jamesburg, twice Saturday night and left for dead for the second time. Morris struggled to the shore and made his way to the borough where he was found by Marshal Harry Dunphy and put into a cell for safe-keeping. It was not until Sunday morning that the man could tell anything of the encounter as he was in a dazed condition. He then told of a visit to a hotel where he fell in with several strangers, and they promised to show him where his mother, Mrs. William Seruby, lived. On a lonely spot, he alleges, the two men attacked him and threw him into the water.

Moses Cherry.

Moses Cherry, seventy-nine years old, a lifelong resident of Keyport, died at his home in Beers street Saturday night from paralysis after an illness of several days. Mr. Cherry was a farmer for many years, having a large farm within the borough limits. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Hannah Cherry, and three sons and two daughters, Joseph, Theodore and William Cherry, and Miss Lizzie Cherry and Mrs. Winfield W. Maurer, all of Keyport. He is also survived by a brother, Henry Cherry, of Keyport and a half-brother, Robert Cherry, of Philadelphia.

Jay Elks' Home Corner-stone.

The corner-stone of the new $40,000 home of the Asbury Park Elks was laid Saturday afternoon by Exalted Ruler Dr. Charles E. VanWinkle in the presence of several hundred persons. There was a program in connection with the ceremony. Work on the building is progressing rapidly. The dedication date has been tentatively fixed for August 1.

Man Killed by Fall from Train.

Luke A. Golden, thirty-five years old, of Trenton, was killed on the Pennsylvania Railroad Sunday, near Doans Station, by falling from a day coach as he was stepping from one car window given as a memorial of her father and mother to the Duchess de Majo Durazzo, formerly Miss Elizabeth F. Hanan of Asbury Park. The window is in the antique style and represents Christ in glory, as in the Revelation of St. John. The window was designed and executed by Heinigke & Bowen of New York.

Body Hung in Attic a Month.

While passing through an attic in the north wing of the La Tourette Hotel in West First street, Bayonne, Sunday afternoon, an employee of the place found the body of Robert Sheppard, forty-five years old, hanging to one of the rafters. Sheppard had apparently ended his life March 23, a note pinned to his coat bearing that date. In the note he declared he was without relatives or friends and had no money.

Keyport to Have Mail Delivery.

William E. Bedle, postmaster of Keyport, was notified Saturday that delivery service will begin on June 1. This borough has been entitled to delivery service for about a year, but much preparation was required. The service will begin with two carriers and two deliveries a day.

Mrs. Amelia Anderson.

Mrs. Amelia Anderson, eighty-five years old, for forty-four years a resident of this State, died Saturday at 640 Elizabeth street, Perth Amboy. Mrs. Anderson was the wife of Herman Anderson.

Isaac W. Kilbourn.

Stricken with heart failure, Isaac W. Kilbourn of 370 Comstock street, New Brunswick, superintendent of the Kilbourn Knitting Company, died suddenly on Sunday last. He was one of the leading members of the amusement company of that city. Besides his widow, he is survived by three children, Mrs. Helen Ten Broeck, Miss Carolyn and George Kilbourn. Two brothers George and Fred Kilbourn, are also living.

Train Victim Has Union Printer's Card.

Crushed and cut, the body of a man, in the pocket of whose coat was a Typographical Union card made out by Local No. 6 of New York to Joseph W. Seely, was found at daybreak Tuesday morning in front of the Central Railroad station at Bound Brook. He had evidently been struck by a freight train and knocked against the railing near which he was found. The victim was about forty-six years old, five feet nine inches in height, weighed about 200 pounds and was neatly dressed. The station agent discovered the body and notified the police. They summoned Coroner John T. Leahy, who ordered the body taken to the morgue and that the New York police be notified. The man was seen about the town Monday afternoon.

Alexander Potter Kerr.

The funeral of Alexander Potter Kerr, who died Saturday afternoon at his home at Lambertville, after a lingering illness from gangrene, was held Tuesday afternoon from his home. The service was conducted by Rev. T. H. Whiteside of Kingston and interment was in the Mt. Hope Cemetery. Mr. Kerr was born in Arbroth, Scotland, November 22, 1842, and came to this country about forty years ago. He was a teacher in the public schools at Montclair for a number of years, and for twenty-seven years he was principal and supervising principal of the public schools of Lambertville. For a number of years he had been unable to work owing to feeble health. The flags on the public schools in the city were placed at half-mast in his memory. His only known relative to this country is a nephew in Chicago.

Train Kills Man on Bridge.

John Chambers of 494 Kellogg street, was killed at Montclair, N. J., Sunday, shortly after midnight. Chambers was crossing the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge over the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and presumably did not hear the express train, owing to the noise of another train. Identity was established by note books.

Charles Drummond.

Charles Warren Drummond, one of the best known residents of Woodbridge, passed away at his home taken ill with pneumonia. He rallied for a time but his condition grew worse and he expired as stated. Mr. Drummond was the head bookkeeper at the National Bank of Rahway. For over forty years he had been connected with various banking institutions of Rahway. He is survived by two brothers. They are Baltus Drummond, of Montana, and Bruce L. Drummond, of Woodbridge.

Civil Service Exams Scheduled.

The Civil Service Commission has announced the schedule of examinations arranged for positions on elections boards in the several counties. The examinations will begin May 14 and will continue until June 24. Those for Essex County will be held at Newark Monday and Tuesday, May 18 and 19. ## DO YOU KNOW THAT—

The advice you don't like is often the best. Things worth having are not easily secured. Things, sometimes, happen when least expected. A dishonest man never enjoys life's sweet content. To err is human; not to air another's errors is divine. A man who practises hypocrisy is his own worst enemy. The more a man knows, the less, as a rule, he tries to tell. The most of pitiable slave is the one who is ruled by passion. Bad luck is only another name for poor judgment or bad habits. Thinking over our own faults makes us talk less about other people's. To keep your own secrets is wisdom; to expect others to keep them is folly. Most of our mistakes come from living for the minute instead of for eternity. You can't buy a return ticket after you have jumped from the frying pan into the fire.

Strengthens Weak and Tired Women.

"I was under a great strain nursing a relative through three months' sickness," writes Mrs. J. C. Van De Sande, of Kirkland, Ill., and "Electric Bitters kept me from breaking down. I will never be without it." Do you feel tired and worn out? No appetite and food won't digest? It isn't the spring weather. You need Electric Bitters. Start a month's treatment to-day; nothing better for stomach, liver and kidneys. The great spring tonic. Relief or money back. 50c, and $1.00, at your Druggist.

Go Direct to Your Customers—By Telephone

THE shortest, quickest route to your customers, and the most convenient way for your customers to reach you, is BY TELEPHONE.

The TELEPHONE will help you to increase your sales, build up your list of customers and promote the growth of your business.

Why not arrange for a telephone in your place of business and provide a direct route to telephone customers at all times?

W. D. VOORHEES RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF TAX BOARD

William D. Voorhees, of Perth Amboy, was re-elected president of the Middlesex County Board of Taxation at the annual meeting of the board held at the county building, New Brunswick, Monday morning. J. Edward Harned, of Woodbridge, was re-elected clerk of the board.

George W. Coriell, assessor of Piscataway township, appeared before the board and asked advice on the making of valuations in his township this year. He was informed that he should make them as provided by law; should use his best judgment and if he makes errors they can be corrected on appeal.

The board discussed the collection of the bank stock tax and the new law abolishing exemptions from personal tax.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

To the Editor of The Citizen:
During a conversation, by telephone, with City Solicitor Coan (recorded with witness), he informed me that he had advised the Common Council that I had made application for the privilege of inspecting and copy of signers of applications for liquor licenses too late and for that reason refuses my request.
Why the refusal of the Common Council, by the advice of City Solicitor Coan, which they claim is their only reason, to allow inspection and copy of public records in question? Is there a difference between application for and remonstrance against? Is City Solicitor Coan's opinions and advice, regardless of the law that covers and the justice due, the one and only guide of our governing body of the city? If such is the case as all signs indicate, our representatives are not worthy the honor or position they hold, they are not safe persons in general opinion to handle so important affairs, whether great or small, that fall to the lot of a governing body.

It is a common saying that the majority rules, but it is only too often that a privileged few rules, and where a privileged class rules with extreme exception, harm and injustice is done, the majority, laws are ignored and broken.

All that the Bishop's Act embodies was found to be necessary and when law enforcing and obedient officials do their duty, morals are guarded and protected and the best interests upheld, but when representatives of a people whether great or small in number, break oath of office or by acts unbecoming honorable men and further go low, in moral code as their standard, it seldom falls that where we find men in high places, places of trust and honor and in representative places whose morals are bad, we find that they willfully or their lives show and affect any kind of government, the work shows in the work accomplished. Those who desire the lawless to the lawful and friends and protectors in the form of men who break oath of office, disregard law and justice, some also are found who disregard common decency, they are friends of the law breaker, light is might and has never failed to win the bad condition and odor of anything is usually the cause of a change or the removal, elimination in most cases. Concealed in time is many things wanted and not wanted, they come to us as time permits.

P. A. DEACON

I NOTES

Charge of the class
ending last Thursday profitable service was at Sunday were all of eresting nature and fair

as present the entire day
with slight increase in the evening.
Several visitors and strangers were among the attendants.

The Pastor spoke last Sunday morning on Psalms 5, 13; showing the importance of regularity and habitual prayer.

Miss Ethel Hill, assistant superintendent of the Junior C. E., addressed the society on the topic, "Being kind and merciful" and it was done in a simplified yet very impressive manner.

The story of the Prodigal son was studied with vim and snap in the Sunday School under the direction of the superintendent after which Superintendent Bloodgood gave an excellent and very timely Review, pointing out the dangers of bad places, bad company, tobacco using, drink, neglect of Sunday School and church, along with disobedience; also non-appreciation of good parents and home, that leads to the far off country of forgetfulness of God.

One birthday offering was turned in last Sunday.

A regular round-table conference was had on the Sunday School review. The temperance part of the lesson was made prominent by some of the teachers.

The Senior C. E. at 7 p. m. was led by Miss Ella Harris, who conducted it in a new way. The leader, without any previous knowledge, asked questions and called on different ones to answer. It made us all think on our feet and be minute people. It was a very interesting C.
E. service. We hope for another of the same kind.

The choir conducted the usual service of song at 7.45.

At 8 p. m. the pastor spoke to an tentive audience on Luke 9, 29;
howing how earnest prayer can change a heart home life destiny.
was a deep, spiritual service. The usual invitation was given to the unsaved to become christians.

Arrangements are being made for the observance of Mother's Day next Sunday morning and evening. Regular preaching and worship in the morning service. In the evening a program will be rendered consisting of recitations, duets, solos and speaking by four adults (two mothers and two fathers are the speakers), and with children and young people
the whole family will be represented.
Souvenirs are to be given at the morning service. The singing speaking, etc., will all be appropriate for Mother's Day.

Don't forget—send a letter, gift or wear a carnation in memory of the best mother.

MALE STENOGRAPHERS AND TYPEWRITERS IN DEMAND

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that while it has no difficulty in securing sufficient female stenographers and typewriters to meet the needs of the departments at Washington, the supply of male el-ligibles has not been equal to the demand. Young men who are at least 18 years of age and who are willing to accept the usual entrance salaries, which are $840 and $900 a year, have excellent opportunities for appointment. While the entrance salaries are low, advancement is reasonably rapid to those meriting it. The examinations, which any competent stenographer should be able to pass, are held each month in the year, except December, at the principal cities of the United States.

Full information in regard to the examination may be secured by addressing the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.; or the District Secretary, Post Office,

Any Cobwebs In Your Brain?

By MOSS.

"THE newspapers! Sir,
they are the most villainous, abominable, infernal—
Not that I ever read them! No; I make it a rule never to look into a newspaper!"

That's from "The Critic," one of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's satirical comedies back in the eighteenth century.

"It's said, but true, that a few such wonderful 'critics' still exist today. Thus they rant of newspaper advertisements:

"The advertisements! Sir, they are the most villainous, abominable, infernal— Not that I ever read them! No; I make it a rule never to look at the advertise-ments!"

Honestly, folks, isn't it too bad that the fool killer germ hasn't been invented yet?

You certainly know that this is the age of PUBLICITY.

You certainly know that our careful and successful merchants spend thousands of dollars each month in ADVERTISING.

You certainly know that it is a PART OF THEIR BUSI-NESS; that it PAYS THEM.
PAYS US, PAYS YOU.
Surely there are no cobwebs
in your brain.

Please laugh at foolish 'critics' if you happen to stumble across any.

This newspaper prints only what it believes to be HONEST
ADVERTISEMENTS, accepted

WORTHY SOURCES.

COALING OUR FLEET IN MEXICAN WATERS

Coal requirements for the American fleet deplete local stocks and increased orders are being sent out from New Orleans.

Unexpected activity pervades the coal industry there due to the demand for coal for use by the American fleet in Mexican waters. Fuel is even being shipped by rail from here to Galveston to coal the army transports, writes A. T. Shurick in the current Coal Age. One hundred and twenty-five cars have been forwarded this week and dealers instructed that further supplies probably would be needed. In addition to the American war vessels, which will secure a portion of their coal there, ships of other nations, on duty in gulf waters, are putting in for supplies. The "Conde" of the French navy filled every bunker there this week and two of the British vessels will coal there as soon as they can be spared from duty on the Mexican coast.

This has changed the whole outlook. Stocks that were too heavy for this time of year have dwindled almost overnight. Orders to the mines in Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Indiana and Alabama have been increased. With high water in the rivers, deliveries can be made quickly from the up-river section. There are also plenty of cars available for the movement of coal from Birmingham and efforts are being made to increase the receipts from the Warrior River section of Alabama via the water route.

Fixed for Life.

"It's lucky I should meet you, Smith.
There's a little bill you owe Timkins, the tailor. He's commissioned me to collect it." "Has he, old man? Well, I'm glad you've got a permanent job at last."—London Tatler.

BEST WAY TO GET HOT WATER SUPPLY

Hot water is needed in every household—in summer as well as in winter.

If you had to depend upon coal fires the hot water problem would be a troublesome one—especially in summer.

But a GAS WATER HEATER solves
the problem.

With such a heater and 90 cent gas you can have all the hot water you need for every purpose at a very, very small cost.

And the gas heats the water—not the house.

A small cash payment will put a heater in your house at once. Get one.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ORPHANS' COURT.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF John Bohan, deceased.—On Petition for the sale of lands to pay debts.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE.
Michael Bohan, administrator of John Bohan, deceased, having exhibited under oath a true account of the personal estate and debts of the said decedent whereby it appears that the personal estate of said John Bohan is insufficient to pay his debts, and requesting the aid of the court in the premises;

It is thereupon on this thirteenth day of March, 1914, ordered that all persons interested in the lands, tenements and hereditaments and real estate of the said John Bohan, deceased, appear before this court at the Court House in the City of New Brunswick on Friday the fifteenth day of May, 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day or as soon thereafter as the court can attend to the same to show cause why so much of the land, tenements, her-editaments and real estate of the said John Bohan, deceased, should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts.

Witness Peter F. Daly, Judge of said
Court, this thirteenth day of March,
A. D. 1914.

The Board of Estimate of the city council and the Board of Education will probably have a meeting Saturday to fix up the school budget for the coming year. The session is very likely to be interesting as the budget will most likely be larger than last year. That thousand dollar school-ground improvement item will come in for a good share of the discussion. The incidental item will also be under fire, as that will also be a little larger than formerly. That lawyer's bill last year just about wiped out the incidental item. The secretary has been instructed to bring all of his documents with him.

PEACE AND WAR.

Despite the negotiations for mediation, every breeze that blows from the south brings to our listening ears either the resounding clash of arms or preparations for an onslaught. Patrick Henry used language like this in his famous "liberty or death" speech before the Virginia convention that preceded the Declaration of Independence. There were then those who were urging arbitration and insisting, in fact, that there was no war.

"Gentlemen may cry peace, peace," said Henry, "but there is no peace. The war is actually begun."

The question now is, with the endeavors proceeding for bringing about a termination of hostilities, whether history will repeat itself.

James Madison, before he was elected President, was for peace with Great Britain. He believed that we could successfully mediate the troubles due to the impressment of sailors by the British. But Madison became with John C. Calhoun one of the prime movers for the declaration of war in 1812.

Calhoun in 1847 refused to vote for war with Mexico, but became a supporter of the government when he discovered that his peace talk was futile.

Lincoln, in his inaugural address, although some of the Southern States had already voted to secede, declared: "We are not enemies, but friends. We must not be enemies."

So McKinley, in his message to Congress on April 11, 1898, asking for intervention, said it appeared to be his duty, "in a spirit of true friendship, no less to Spain than to the Cubans," to bring about the pacification of Cuba.

As a nation, we have always been for peace, but not for peace at any price. And always, when the right time has come, our peace talk has not weakened our hands in war. With justice on our side, and with the facts that led to our conflicts "submitted to a candid world," we have always won.

If, in the face of conditions as they now are, we find that peace cannot be obtained with honor, and we can convince the candid world of that fact, we can follow precedent with confident assurance of the final outcome.—Newark News.

On motion of Mr. Stanton, the clerk was ordered to notify the Public Service Railway Company that they should sprinkle the streets after May 1.

On motion of Mr. Slover, the clerk was ordered to notify the Public Service Company to remove pole on Main street, within two days, or the city would remove it at their expense.

Adjourned.

MOVING PICTURES

ON HENRY STREET

"Bill" certainly is a hero, whether we fight Mexico or not.

"Bill" doesn't believe in "watchful waiting," "mediation," or "measures short of war;" no sirree! Why it took Admiral Fleether 20 hours to get under way with his squadron but "Bill" landed his forces in a few minutes after the call was made for help.

Now if the ladies will please remove their hats and the professor will play some creepy music we will start the film entitled, "Fireman Bill, the Handsome, Brave Lifesaver."

The story opens showing Henry street at 2 a. m. with Bill's home in the foreground. Inside "Bill" is "hitting the Ostermoor" after a hard (7) day's work. But we want to say just now that this film would be just a ordinary reel and not a feature film if "Bill's" wife hadn't been cleaning house and made "Bill" sleep that night in the "spare room."

The scene then changes to the other half of the house next door, as you know "Bill" lives in a double house. The room scene shows a young lady peacefully sleeping. But suddenly our fair heroine awakes, and the announcement on the screen says: "Help! help! There's a burglar in the house!"

Now we go back to our brave Bill again. Like all of our firemen, Bill always sleeps with one eye and both ears open and at the first "Help!" he was clear of the bed. Putting on his fire helmet and seizing his trusty weapon he started for the door but, alas, the door wasn't where it belonged, and poor "Bill" forgetting what room he was in, knocked the partition out of plumb. This scene nearly "brought down the house."

Gathering himself up he again started for the door, or better, a door, which he saw in the dim light. Opening it he saw his adversary right in front of him. Jumping straight at the mysterious man's throat "Bill" soon tore the clothes off—his own Sunday suit hanging on a form in the clothes closet!

"Bill," while ordinarily a mild man, began to say and do things in no uncertain way, and was only prevented from shouting his own reflection in the bureau mirror by the arrival of his wife with a light.

With the cries of "Help! Help!" still resounding from the other house "Bill" then dashed down the stairs and out the front door wearing his hat and an air of determination. A great ed by the now thoroughly aroused neighbors as "Oh! September Morn," poor "Bill" had to go 'way back and put on enough clothes to be "within the law."

This time after so much previous practice, "Bill" was able to get out doors without any more mishaps, but when he got in next door to rescue the maiden in distress he was told that the burglar was still in the house. But our hero did not hesitate one-step, but rather he tangoed right in and the only thing he was heard to say was "send for Scully and Mason."

This sounded bad for the burglar. "Bill" searched everywhere for his man and even looked under the rugs and behind frames but no burglar. The young lady and her mother said the man must have got away during the excitement, but "Bill," you know, used to be an inspector, and nothing could get away from him.

"Bill" says the joke is on the family next door, but "Bill's" wife says that he has been reading too much about the war with Mexico lately.

THE MODERATE PRICE BUTCHER

STYLE is not a coating that you can apply to shoes, like lacquer to a chair. You can't measure it with a yardstick, nor weigh it upon scales. It is born of forethought, not afterthought. It starts with the 'last,' goes along with the leather and enters into every stitch.

The same materials and processes may yield different shoes, even though they are offered at the same price. The difference is one of skill and spirit, personality and purpose. Some shoes are mere commodities of commerce—others are sheer objects of art.

Every Regal style, whatever its selling price, is style-charged. Even the roomy-toed, broad-soled "lasts" possess a lure of line and glamour of good form that grip the glance.

You curtail the purchasing power of your money and belittle your taste, if you wear misshapen shoes that suggest malformed feet.

A Betrothal

Story of a Dancing Mania

By F. A. MITCHEL

In medieval times on the coast of Denmark, overlooking the North sea, was a village the people of which made their living by fishing.

Martin Aarhus, who followed in the footsteps of his father in getting a living by his nets, wooed and won Maria Stahr, who was conceded to be the prettiest girl in the village. Maria had pale blue eyes and a wealth of very light hair. As to her complexion, it was like milk tinged with rose leaves.

Unfortunately for the lovers, Maria's father was opposed to the match. He was a covetous man and wished to save his daughter's dowry. She was so beautiful that he believed some man having a fair supply of this world's goods would be glad to marry her without the customary settlement on her. He found her with far more resolution than would be expected from beneath those mild eyes of hers. Martin, too, vowed that he would have the girl if he had to run away with her. The old man grew more and more angry, and at last, when quarrelling with Martin on the subject, said, in a fit of passion: "Before you shall possess my daughter I will give her to the devil."

Considering that the words were spoken in anger, nothing was thought of them. In spite of the old man's opposition, the lovers clung to each other and at last summoned their friends to witness their betrothal.

"WE NEED SOME ONE," SAID MARTIN, "TO PUT SPIRIT INTO US."

Since the gathering could not take place at Maria's home on account of her father's opposition, the guests were invited to meet at the house of Martin's parents.

While the festivities attending the betrothal were in progress old Stahr was at home grinding his teeth, though his wife was present at the betrothal.

When early in the evening the guests, recognizing that the occasion was one of sorrow rather than enjoyment, were thinking of returning to their homes there came a rap at the door, and on its being opened a tall, thin man in red doublet and hose, black breeches and a black velvet cap on his head, ornamented with a single red feather, stood in the opening.

"Good people," he said, "I am a traveler from the south on my way to Copenhagen. Not being used to your climate, I am benumbed with cold. I beg shelter of you and something to eat."

No one in those days would think of turning away a traveler who asked to be taken in, and the stranger was made welcome. Some of the vintners that had been prepared for the betrothal, with a flagon of wine, were set before him, and he ate and drank heartily. After he had finished and wiped his lips with a napkin, giving his mustache a slight upturn, he seemed to be much refreshed.

"How can I repay you," he asked, "for your hospitality? I am aware that no one, except one entertained at an inn, would offer money. I see that you are gathered to make merry. May I not do something to enliven you?"

"We need some one," said Martin, "to put spirit into us. We are met to celebrate a betrothal. I am to marry this maiden," pointing to Maria, "but you would suppose from her lugubrious appearance that I was going to do her harm."

A shock passed through the assemblage at this harsh remark of Martin's concerning his betrothed, so unlike him, for throughout all old Stahr's opposition Martin had been singularly tender with his beloved. As for Maria, she cast an indignant glance at him and, advancing to the stranger, put her hand on his arm and, leading him from one to another of her guests, introduced him. Martin watched them with flashing eyes, and it was apparent that a turmoil had been stirred within him.

It is evident that there was some- thing of this stranger that made a great change in the spirit of the assemblage and especially in the pair whose betrothal they had come together to celebrate. In a twinkling he seemed to have irritated Martin and insinuated himself into Maria's good graces. Presently it began to appear that he had entrained her. The sad look she had worn before was now changed to merriment. She chatted briskly with her companion and laughed gleefully at everything he said. When walking with him and passing Martin she either did not deign to look at him or regarded him with hate.

Maria's mother saw all this, as did every one else, and was desirous of doing something to break it up. She accosted the stranger thus:

"Good sir, do you not play on any musical instrument or sing?"

"I will sing for you with pleasure. Have you a harp?"

The woman brought one of those rude cases on which outgut was stretched and from which have been developed our modern stringed instruments. He struck a chord, and in an instant silence fell on the assembly. There was something weird in it that no one present had ever heard before. Then he began to sing. Every person within sound of his voice was thrilled with a strange sensation. He began low and soft, as if singing a lullaby to a child, gradually rising till his song had all the wildness of a storm wind passing through the rigging of a ship. Then, after a succession of demagogic notes, his voice fell into a basso profundo, giving an impression that infernal fires were rumbling in the bowels of the earth.

Meanwhile Maria had kept her eyes fixed on him, spellbound. Martin, who was watching her, now and again half drew a short dirk he carried in his belt, as if about to plunge it in the stranger's heart. But every time he did so something in the song unnerved him, and he let the knife slide back into its scabbard.

When the song ceased Maria's mother made another attempt to change the conditions. She asked the stranger if he would not play for the company to dance. Immediately he struck a chord that shot a current of exhilaration through every one present. He struck another, and all began to sway. A third drew men and women together in couples. Then began the merriest music that had ever been heard in that quiet village.

First the younger persons present went spinning over the floor, then those who were older, till all were whirling. Children, youths, married persons and white haired old men and women were dancing merrily, while shouts of laughter accompanied the spirited music to which they moved. The longer they danced the wilder grew their antics. Most of them wore wooden shoes, and the clatter was deafening. Now and again when a dancer kicked high his shoe would fly off and go sailing across the room. But no one paid any attention to the missiles, though they were in danger of receiving serious injury.

Persons who had not been invited to the betrothal, hearing the noise, came to the windows and looked in. So catching was the music and the dancing that before long couples were moving on the sidewalk in a wild whirl. As the dance went on these were joined by others till it seemed as if the whole town were bent on beating the pavements with their wooden shoes in crazy capers.

The man who made this mad music, seeing Maria dance past him without a partner, dropped his instrument and put an arm about her, and the two went whirling like the rest. The legend goes that the music went on without the musician, though some versions have it that by this time the people were so crazed that music was not needed to keep them in their mad dance. In vain old Aarhus and his wife endeavored to call a halt within, and the mayor of the town tried to stop the dancing without. It was all the mayor and old Aarhus and his wife could do to refrain from dancing themselves.

Finally there was a clap of thunder, and a sudden silence fell on all the village. Persons stood looking at one another, wondering why they had been dancing now that they had no desire to dance. In the house where the betrothal was celebrated all the candles went out. They were at once relighted, and everybody began to look for everybody else. Martin was there, pale and haggard. He had been dancing more wildly than any one else and showed the effect more than others. Then cries arose:

"Where's the stranger who bewitched us?"

"Where's Maria?"

A search revealed neither of them. A girl said when the clap of thunder came she had seen the stranger and Maria whirl up in the air and disappear above the rooftops. One gave one story; another gave another. Martin seemed paralyzed. He was thinking what old Stahr had said on one occasion, "Before you shall possess my daughter I will give her to the devil."

For a long while the legend was that Maria was never seen again on earth. Then after men's minds had been broadened it ran that when the clap came the stranger was about to spirit Maria away, but met the village priest, who was coming with a view to quieting the tumult, and the stranger, catching sight of the cross suspended to the father's rosary, slunk away and disappeared. This version adds that Maria was found at her father's house, and the old man, horrified that he had so nearly given his daughter to Satan, repented, gave his consent to the match, and Martin and Maria were married. But when they went to the church for the ceremony Maria carried a cross with her, fearing the devil might be on the watch for her and spirit her away.

LAWNS AND LAWN

GRASS MIXTURES

Most of us recognize the value and the pleasure given in covering the soil around our habitations and public buildings with grass. It is also generally known that some varieties of grass are better than others for this purpose. Perhaps most of us have learned this fact through the urging ads of the seedsmen. Plant his seed and you will not, can not fail to have a lawn as good as the one pictured on the boxes of lawn seed he sells. And in giving directions most of them do not fail to emphasize the real importance of thorough preparation of the soil. This tends to remove some of the responsibility from the seed and is a timely favor for the seed in some instances.

Competition in this class of goods has become very keen, and in too many cases this competition is met with poorer quality rather than lower prices. This means the presence on the market of small packages of comparatively good seed selling against a larger package of poor seed for about the same price. The consumer has no means of judging the value of either and is apt to buy the larger package, to his own detriment. The dealer who puts up this low grade package believes that this is a legitimate outlet for disposing of a quantity of material called screenings and which cannot be disposed of otherwise than to the feed dealer.

There are several valid objections to this class of goods. First, they are usually loaded with a third or more of chaff, which has no value whatever to the buyer. The dealer claims that it favors the even distribution of the seed by the novice. Soil will serve the purpose as well and costs nothing. Weeds are always a source of annoyance and a menace in lawns. Many of the most troublesome ones are introduced in the seed. Then there is always a strong difference of opinion as to the relative value of the various grasses. No doubt some are superior to others for special conditions. For the general lawn, however, nothing is superior to Kentucky blue grass. For some reason or other, economical ones largely, some compounders of lawn grass seed are introducing considerable quantities of Canada blue grass seed. This cannot be recommended as a lawn grass where Kentucky blue grass will grow as well as it does in this section, except perhaps in the very sandy portions of the state. When Canada blue grass is grown with other grasses a patchy appearance is the result, because of the distinct difference in color between this and the other grasses. Timothy is also being used in mixtures in large quantities, in some instances to the extent of over fifty per cent. This is a short lived perennial, is not a turf-forming species, and therefore cannot be called a lawn grass in the strictest sense.

The State Seed Laboratory is making a study of these mixtures with reference to their composition and other features and the results will be published in a forthcoming bulletin. In the meantime it is advised that lawn seed be submitted to the Seed Laboratory for inspection if there is any question as to value.

These packages are carried by grocers, druggists, and other stores of every description. As a rule they know nothing of the contents and carry whatever offers the most profit. It is inadvisable therefore to buy such goods, even though the price is attractive and the quantity generous, until some information is obtained concerning the value for the purpose intended. This information can best be obtained from the Seed Laboratory of the Experiment Station at New Brunswick, which was established to give just such service to the residents of the state.

INJURED FOOT.

As Harold Perofinski was passing a car in the local shops of the P. R. R. last Monday afternoon a couple fell off a car and landed on his foot smashing it a little. Medical aid was given to the young man and later on he was taken to his home in Mechanicville. From the reports obtainable the injuries were not very serious and it is probable that he will be able to resume his work within a few days.

Nigeria's Paradise.

With no taxes to pay and no worrisome restrictions to undergo, living in a land so fruitful that a few weeks' labor is enough to supply them with food, home and clothes for a whole year, the Ekor, natives of extreme southern Nigeria, on the equator, should be and probably are among the happiest people on earth, according to P. A. Talbot, African explorer, of London. "The Ekor are devoted parents," he writes. "They have curious beliefs as to the advent and death of their babies. One charming superstition forbids all quarreling in a house where there are little children. The latter, so they say, love sweet words, kind looks and gentle voices, and if these are not to be found in the family into which they have been reincarnated they will close their eyes and forsake the earth till a chance offers to return again and live in a quarrelsome environment."

M. P. CHURCH NOTES

The Thursday evening services were held in the main audience room last week and a fine meeting was enjoyed, both the class leader and pastor having charge. A nice attendance. All were glad to have with us Mrs. Mary Day one of the charter members of the church and the only one left. She also worshipped with us at both services Sunday, Mothers' Day, and we were glad for the presence of this Mother, Grand Mother, Great Grand Mother and Mother in Israel. Her experience and presence cheered all of our hearts.

Last Sunday dawned bright sunny and beautiful and seemed to be ordered for the observance of Mothers' Day at the church. All was in readiness to begin the service promptly. A congregation twice the usual number was present at the morning service. All were met at the entrance to the church and had placed on them the Mothers' Day souvenirs, consisting of a white satin badge folder with the words beautifully printed in light blue (by our City Printers) "Mothers' Day, 1914." They were pinned on with a beautiful enameled souvenir button having on it a picture of a mother holding her child in her arms and with the natural carnations of white and pink it had a beautiful effect and was a sight for Mothers' Day. The pastor preached on "Christ's concern for his Mother." The text was St. John 19, 27; "Behold thy mother."

The old fashion hymns that our mothers sang in by-gone days were sung, "Jesus lover of my soul," "Sun of my Soul thou Saviour dear," and "Abide with Me." Mrs. Catherine English sang beautifully and effectively a special piece entitled, "My good Mother's religion," and it made us as if we were back at the old Sunday school and church. There were flowers worn but floral the church. It was a lors who helped to make Mothers' Day such a success were in their usual place at 2 p. m. Junior endeavor. Miss Ethel Dill addressed them on the topic of "Our Brothers and Sisters in heathen Lands." A new missionary piece was practised and sung by the society. They are still keeping up their good work each Sunday.

The two big posters Mothers' Day were found—one in the church vestibule, the other in the Sunday school room, and as the children and teachers gathered with their badges, carnations, buttons, and posters, it was a real Mothers' Day at the Sunday School session. Superintendent Bloodgood was in charge as usual. Besides the study of the lesson it was parsonage fund day. "Nothing was done the past month special for the fund and $11.58 more was turned in, for which we are all thankful and appreciative.

It was decided after the Sunday School session to hold our regular mid-week service (this week) on Wednesday instead of Thursday, the usual time, so that all might accept the invitation to the public installation of Rev. H. C. White at the Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening and all attend in a body.

An increased attendance was found at the Senior C. E. at 7 p. m. Mr. Arthur Peterson led the meeting and gave some good advice on the topic, "Health hints to better living." A number of others added their counsel and advice.

At the conclusion of the C. E. service we all adjourned to the upper room and found a large number waiting for the rendering of the Mothers' Day program for the evening service. It began by singing from the hymnal "Our old mother's hymn":

"A friend we have in Jesus," the Lord's prayer all sung on "Mothers and Mothers," by the pastor.
Solo, "Mother" (to the tune of "America"), by Miss Ella Jones.
Duet, "Helping Mother," Harold Dill, Edred Sprague, two children.
Recitation, "Mother's Accomplishments," by Harwood Craig.
Recitation, "When I'm a big lady like Mother," by Flora Petty.
"The bravest battle," pastor's wife.
Recitation, "The white carnation," by Miss Ethel Dill.
Singing (by request) "My good old Mother's Religion," by Mrs. Edward English.

Address by four adults two mothers two fathers at Mother Mrs. Annie Hauke, with a poem on "Mother," by Mother Mrs. Harry Petty.
and God's love to her, her love to Christ and compared both to mother's love.

First Father to speak, Mr. Frank Fulton, who spoke of a visit to his brother recently and some of the old home things he saw and the interest surrounding them; eulogized the mothers of the day and spoke of their privileges, duties, and responsibilities, and said they were honored to-day.

Second Father to speak Mr. H. Bloodgood, who told of the lamented President McKinley's love for his mother and the song written because of his telegram to his dying parent, "Tell Mother I'll be there," and the good it has done; urged all mothers and children to be good. It was a pleasure to see his own mother in the congregation listening and no doubt proud of her boy.

The Mothers' Day offering. Singing by the choir, "Songs our Mother sang."

Thus came to a close a day long to be remembered because of Mother.

Quite a number of strangers and visitors were present during the day.

In the midst of our joy we were saddened to know that one of our member's homes was plunged and specially the mother into deep sorrow at the sudden death of a loved one and our hearts, prayers and sympathy go out to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin and their daughter Freda. Psalms 46, 1.

The ladies are to meet this week to begin arrangements for the anniversary supper of ground breaking for the new parsonage which was begun May 30, 1912. Exact date of supper will be announced later. Proceeds for canceling of parsonage indebtedness. This is the supper to which the members of General Wm. Truax Post, Grand Army of the Republic, of South Amboy, are our invited guests. Thus we will feel honored at that time by their presence.

The committee is at work already on preparation of program for Children's Day.

The C. E. Society met in a business meeting at the home of the President, Mrs. Hauke, last week and attended to business of the society.

NO SLUMS IN NEW YORK.

Verdict of an Expert After a Search Through the City.

I have made an amazing discovery. It is the result of three days and nights of going to and fro in New York—sometimes alone and sometimes with a wise but not cynical detective. And the amazing and disconcerting discovery is this: There are no slums in New York.

You can find crime and criminals; you can find vice, poverty, drunkenness, disease, but you cannot find a slum—such slums as blacken and fester in Antwerp, Genoa, Naples, Paris, London and many another old world city. The reason is that you cannot have a slum without filth, and New York is a clean city. Neither crime nor poverty nor crowds make a slum. You must have filth as well, and that is what New York hasn't got. I looked for it east and west and north, from river front to river front. Everywhere, anywhere, were crime, vice, mean poverty. Everywhere thieves, rogues, outcasts, men and women isolated from their kind by sin or mere suffering, but no slums.

Dirty, of course, is relative, but the tenements—even the old nests of low houses lined with fire escapes—were habitable human dwelling places. And the night going detective declared he could show me nothing worse. I wanted to see the fetid caves where wretchedness lay moulting on garbage heaps, the windy garrets where it starved, and there were no fetid caves.

In the old streets and the dingy courts of Paris you can still find hundreds of them; you have but to walk peeringly through the street of the Three Gates or the street of the Iron Pot; you have but to go into the suburbs that lie outside the fortifications—for year by year the centrifugal force that stirs in every great agglomeration of human atoms has thrown Parisian beggary into that dreary circumference.

But in the washed and lighted underworld of New York there are no slums. There is not one slum that half deserves the name. Wretchedness all you please; hunger in the streets and on the rooftops, it may be, but none of those gangrened holes of filth without which no real slum can exist.

I speak almost with the decision of an expert, for I spent many years prowlingly investigating the slums that rot and blacken the surface of Europe from Moscow to Lisbon—Vance Thompson in New York Mu.

Some German Taxes.

Among the curious taxes imposed in Germany on various objects are those on baby carriages, where the amount is 40 cents each, and $1.00 tax on eared nightgowns, of which there have not been any for many years, and tourists, for whom the hotel keeper is taxed 24 cents, which is added to the bill.

FAMOUS WINTERS IN PARIS.

Once Every River In France Was Ice and Every Mill Idle.

Recalling famous winters in France, the Paris Petit Journal says that "the fifteenth century might justly be called the cold century."

"In 1408 the registrars of the parliament of Paris reported that it was impossible to issue any of its resolutions because the ink froze in the ink bottles of the clerks. Every three words they had to thaw their pens, and this with a fire roaring in their room. Every river in France was frozen, and not a mill could work. Twelve years later, in 1420, there was a repetition of this winter. Foodstuffs gave out, and poor people died by tens of thousands.

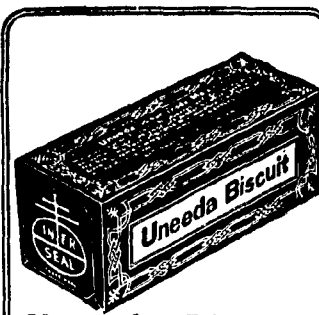

"In 1422 in less than three days the wine and the vinegar froze in the cellars; cocks and hens had their combs frozen; the streets were full of people who danced, jumped, wrestled and ran races, anything to keep off frost-bite.

"In 1430 it froze for more than two and a half months, and the snow fell for forty days without stopping. All the birds hidden in the trunks of trees died.

"In 'the year of the great winter,' as 1603 was called, hundreds of persons died from cold. Everything was frozen hard, even the bread served at the table of Henry IV. In 1709 all the wheat was destroyed, and a new sowing had to be made in the spring. Buffon relates that no bread was to be had. Even Mme. de Maintenon had to go without it.

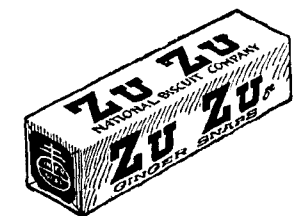

"In 1776 sentinels were found frozen to death outside Versailles, and the king put a stop to this service. In Paris great bonfires were lit in the streets. Bells were shattered into pieces as they rang, clocks stopped and in the cellars wine turned into ice. Hares and partridges came into the towns and hid themselves in the nooks and corners of houses, where they were subsequently found as stiff as a board and quite inedible."

$25.00 IN CASH GIVEN AWAY!

A Prize of Twenty-five Dollars is offered by the SAFRAN REALTY COMPANY of South Amboy, N. J., for a suitable name to be given to the well-known "Price Farm," situated adjacent to South River, on the trolley road to Milltown, just beyond Tanner's Corner.

This beautifully situated tract of land has recently become the property of the SAFRAN REALTY COMPANY, and is now being developed preparatory to placing same on the market in the form of building lots.

There are absolutely no strings tied to this offer. If the name you send in should be selected, you will receive from us notice to that effect, with a certified check for $25.

In the event of more than one person sending in the name selected, the one received first at our office will receive the check, and the others will be given a credit check for Twenty-five Dollars, which will be applied as a first payment on one or more of the lots.

Now then, see how lucky you will be. Go over to the tract and look it over. You may there get your inspiration which will bring the Twenty-five Dollars home to you.

M. P. CHURCH NOTES

The Thursday evening service last week was largely attended and a very helpful meeting it proved to be.

Saturday, being Memorial Day, the day was spent in the entire day and night in singing and serving the dysentery, which was large and patronized by our and others from out-of-town. The service was decorated with flags, bunting, white and blue. The special service was for the members of the Wm. S. Truax Post was seated, and a fine time enjoyed. We were sorry that the ice cream was not served, but hope it will be served again. The ladies willingly and the large number of patrons made possible by the generous work of Mrs. Fulton, who with all the rest is so interested in the parsonage fund.

The money made with the home banks and special offering will be turned in next Sunday as it is parsonage fund day and we are expecting a large amount.

Sunday morning found an increased attendance to morning worship, the pastor preaching on Solomon 2, 4: "He brought me into his banquetting house and his banner over me was peace."

30 Juniors were in service. The "Pledge" was given by the leader, singing up their good.

ool was held in the am last Sunday and day of the lesson was the ten lepers.

Legioning to talk annual picnic.

a account of the lateness of the study the convention echoes dispensed with.

"C. H. was led by Mr. H. gave an excellent talk.

on the topic, "Converted Purses." It was very appropriate for a missionary meeting. Many others present learned some things as to the proper use of money.

The scholars and choir are in practice for children's day.

There was another birthday offering last Sunday in the Sunday school.

Envelopes were distributed for the annual offering for Foreign Missions.

Spirited and helpful hymns were sung at the usual service of song.

At 8 p. m. regular worship began, the pastor preaching on 1 Timothy 6, 12; "Fight the good fight of faith, lay hold on Eternal Life."

There were several visitors present during the day.

It is to be hoped that a special effort will be made to keep up or even increase the attendance at the church.

Average American's Taxes.

Somewhere in the United States in a small city lives the average American. He has a family of four, including himself, and earns $317 a year. Some one else in his family, perhaps a stenographer daughter, contributes $330 to the family fund, making the total income of $647. He feels that he pays nothing, or next to nothing, for the privilege of living in a free country, with warships on the sea and street lights in front of his house, with a policeman on his corner, a public service commission looking after his interests and a copy of the Congressional Record coming to him regularly. The truth is that of his $647 a year he pays $140 toward the upkeep of his government.—World's Work.

Circulation of the Blood.

The idea of some sort of movement of the blood in man and the lower animals was possessed by Aristotle and other Greeks and by the physicians of the Alexandrian school as well as by the doctors and surgeons of the middle ages. In fact, even the village barber knew of such movement. But no one, not even the wisest of men, had any conception of a continuous stream returning to its source—a circulation in the true sense of the word—or of the functions of the heart as the motor power of the movement of the blood until it was demonstrated by Harvey in 1598.

SOME JOTTINGS COLLECTED BY OUR REPORTER WHILE GUNNING ABOUT THE CITY.

There's a man in this town that said down at the Monday before Decoration Day that it was going to rain on that day. It did rain a little and now we'd like to know how he knew it was going to.

Then there's a fellow that we know that gets a swelled jaw every now and then. Every time that happens he renews an old resolution to go and see a dentist but by the time his sore jaw gets well enough to stand attention his nerve falls again.

A youth started to light a cigar down at the new pavilion at Morgan last Saturday night. He wasted quite a few matches and not a little energy in vitrolis speech before he discovered that he'd forgotten to gnaw the end off his cheroot.

The other day there were three young ladies passing down one of the side streets of this city. They were discussing a young man with whom the young man is positive he hasn't even the good fortune of a speaking acquaintance. The knowledge that these daughters of Eve displayed as to the intimate details of his profession was rather staggering to the young man.

It's all right, girls, but for goodness sake next time either don't speak so loud or else take the wind into consideration. Sometimes you might tell some one something that they wouldn't like to hear.

Have you met that man about town that's always in a hurry? One day last week "Keller" came into a butcher shop along Broadway and insisted upon being waited upon immediately as he was in a dreadful hurry and wanted to catch a party over on the corner of town. His demands were acceded to and the other customers stepped back and waited until he had made his purchases. Then he spent the next fifteen minutes, by the clock on the wall, on a stool in the front of the shop while he gazed soulfully through the window upon the passing throng.

Our Windows Always Bright And Clean

By MOSS.

THE value of a piece of real estate is measured by the number of people who pass it daily. The corner of Main and First streets, Alifalfa, is not as valuable as the corner of Broadway and Wall street, New York city.

The value of a show window is measured by the number of people who stop in front of it daily.

This paper is a HUGE SHOW WINDOW.

Thousands stop in front of it and look in.

Are YOUR goods displayed therein for the observation of these thousands? Do you think it pays for them not to see your goods? Great department stores in New York, Chicago and such cities pay big salaries to expert window dressers. Thousands daily troop in front of their windows, attracted by the offerings so attractively displayed. These same stores spend fortunes for page after page of window display drawing in the papers. Would they do either unless it was good business?

Call up our advertising department RIGHT NOW for TIPS ON DISPLAY ADVERTISING. Let us dress up a window for you in this paper.

Success.
