OFFICIAL INTRODUCTION: Nicholas Smolney (seated), after his swearing-in Monday as South Amboy's new business administrator, is introduced by Mayor William O'Leary to Councilmen Thomas O'Brien, Stanley Jankowski, J. Thomas Cross and Kenneth Rogers. Absent was Councilman James Inman who had been the lone "no" vote, with Rogers not present, when the other councilmen introduced on first reading an amendment to the salary ordinance to pay Smolney $16,500 a year. The hearing is Dec. 16 and Smolney can go to work Dec. 22 if the amendment is adopted. Inman is expected to disclose at the hearing whether his "no" vote was against hiring Smolney or just a continuance of his prior opposition to the salary ordinance. Smolney will be leaving a post as assistant business administrator of Lawrence Township to take over in South Amboy. He is 26 and a Trenton State grad.

State Approves Pay For Guards

Director of the Division of Local Government Services served word yesterday morning that "corrections" in the revenue-sharing allotment for South Amboy, adopted by the Council Friday were acceptable to the state, so the school crossing guards denied their pay Thursday could not be paid. The guards were quickly called in and gained their checks.

The "corrections" in the settlement period from July 1, 1973, to June 30, 1974, provided for taking $11,650 from the revenue-sharing allotment in that period for the installation of a fire alarm system and adding it to maintenance and operating account as follows: Police Regular, Salaries and Wages, $3,300; Police Special, Salaries and

Victims Of Jet Fuel Dropping Reassured By Jankowski

Council President Stanley Jankowski Monday sought to quiet the alarms of citizens who had been sprayed with a kerosene liquid that dropped out of a United Airlines plane that passed over the city Thursday. Jankowski said he worked in a petroleum processing plant and could certify that workers there had handled such a kerosene mixture with ethylene, for years with no ill-effects reported.

The kerosene dropped from a United Airlines plane bound from Newark to Las Vegas that developed an engine fire passing over the city. The plane made it safely back to Newark Airport.

David Papi, health inspector, went quickly to the area of the spraying at S. Pine and Meacham Dr. after reports of light-headedness and getting sick at stomach was reported by some of the householders. He had seven householders file reports with city police and the Health Department on their personal discomforts, stinging sensations and eye smarting, and a damage to their premises from the spraying.

Those reporting were Mrs. Janet Lasko, 408 Meacham Dr.; Mrs. Betty Barclay, Meacham Dr.; Mrs. Louise Roberts, 458 S. Pine; Casimir Zygmanski, 456 S. Pine; Mrs. Anna Bell, 462 S. Pine; Mrs. Gloria Ades, 408 Meacham; Mrs. Rosemary Burkard. Mrs. Lasko called United Airlines about the sprinkling and was directed to call Exxon in Texas for advice. Exxon officials cautioned there was little danger to health but advised bathing and flushing out eyes with water.

United Airlines insurers were on the scene Friday and it is presumed all those filing were directed to get medical examinations and assessment on damages to property.

Fire Chief Walter Kozak issued assurance there was no danger of fire Thursday night after examining the fallout on properties and getting reassurance from experts on its characteristics. City firemen washed down houses to eliminate any fire danger.

First warning of what was occurring came to police at 11 a.m. Thursday from Al's Auto Body, Rt. 35, who said 25 cars parked at their lot were sprayed with a greasy matter smelling like kerosene. Det. Raymond Durski then began getting the call from householders. Durski called Newark Airport, learned the circumstances from the return of the plane to that Airport and was advised there had been a dropout of jet fuel from the burning

GIRL SCOUTS TO SING XMAS CAROLS AT LOCAL BANK

The South Amboy Branch of the Amboy-Madison National Bank will be the scene of the annual Christmas Carol fest on Friday, December 19, 1975 from 4 to 6 p.m. by a local girl scout group.

Also, in the mode of celebration, the management of the bank announced that they are proud of the accommodation that the drive-up window at the local branch has served during the past year. It was one year ago on December 9th since its opening.

NEW DOG CENSUS IN PROSPECT; FIRST ONE HELD NOT COMPLETE

Dissatisfaction with the dog census was expressed by David Papi, new health inspector, at the Board of Health meeting Monday. Papi did not consider that the 136 dogs reported as unlicensed in the census taken by senior citizens at all represented a correct report on the dog situation in the city. He was empowered by the Board to take whatever further measures he thought necessary. Papi opined that circularizing householders about dogs they harbor and checking out the reportings and those who do not respond would be more effective. Papi was also empowered to set up a dog immunization clinic in the spring.

Papi also pledged to go into the licensing of foodhandlers and the setting of a free four-hour class in foodhandling techniques for all persons involved in such endeavors. He reported such classes were being held in other communities throughout the county and that some towns were adopting ordinances to govern the licensing of foodhandlers. He was asked if such a class could be given at night. It was pointed out a "daytime" class would be difficult on a retail food store operating with limited personnel. Papi reported a night class was held in Edison, but that it was his understanding a $5 fee was being charged.

Erma Brown, a spectator, questioned why anyone who had been handling food in a small store for 20 years and enjoyed a high reputation for cleanliness and good standards in the edibles sold should have to go to a class to learn about handling foodstuffs. She questioned if the "bureaucracy" was failing to evaluate a good retail business reputation.

Papi reported he had had the foodhandlers requirements applied to the St. Mary's School cafeteria workers a first time and that the school people had found it reassuring.

Papi said he had been aroused by publication in this newspaper of an article headed that parents were having to pay needlessly for school "shots" and had his county superior write a letter of censure about it. He declared it had been well publicized that parents could get free immunization shots. But Councilman James Inman, who had reported on the matter, declined to accept the county's protestations. Other members agreed there had been enough shortcomings that many parents were unaware there were requirements such as "booster" shots in polio vaccine after the first "shot". But all agreed with Papi that the requirement to know was on the parent.

The health inspector took issue with Inman on other matters. Papi declared he had inspected the Navarro Auto Body Shop and did not find conditions to justify Inman's suggestion it could become a junkyard. Papi reported he had also met with the Kare Products Co. and had obtained pledge they would fence in their premises to prevent vandals from misusing their paint drums. Papi reported he also found no basis for believing that Kare was letting paint run into the storm sewer.

Papi added that he had gotten the Raritan River R.R. to clean up litter in their tracks and yards areas. But Councilman Kenneth Rogers wanted to know if the health inspector had gotten the railroad to divulge the contents of cars pulled through the city, what combustibles, explosive solutions, and the like were being carried. When no word was forthcoming, Rogers commented he had gotten little response in the matter for three years and discussed with the inspector how a notation on car movements from the railroad should be furnished the city that it could be known when combustibles are being moved through.

It was feared by Rogers that a leak from a volatile solution gondola might set sedge along the tracks afire. Councilman J. Thomas Cross commented that city firemen knew how to cope with chemical blazes, that the danger from explosives was before the first set in.

Board President Thomas O'Brien brought up the matter of disposing of dead animals. He said he had received a call from a householder that there was a dead cat in his back yard and wanted it removed by the

SPECIAL CHRISTMAS FILM FESTIVAL AT LIBRARY

The Sadie Pope Dowdall Library will be having a special Christmas film festival on Friday Afternoon, Dec. 12th at the Library in the Children's Room at 3 p.m. All youngsters are invited to attend.

Among the films to be shown are THE LITTLE DRUMMER BOY the story of a young boy who gives his only gift - his ability to play the drum - to the Christ Child.

"ON THE TWELFTH DAY" is a literal interpretation of the old English folksong, "The Twelve Days of Christmas" in which True Love, the suitor brings to his lady each day the list of gifts mentioned in the song. Complete chaos soon reigns as turtle doves, hens, and maids accumulate.

"THE MUSIC BOX" will also be shown.

LETTERS TO SANTA MAIL BOX

The South Amboy Junior Woman's Club is again this year sponsoring a "Letters to Santa" mail box at the South Amboy post office on Broadway. The box will be in the post office until Dec. 20th. Parents are asked to be sure the child's name and address are printed clearly and his or her letter will be answered. No postage is necessary on the letters.

SAVING THE TOWN REPAIR EXPENSES - A Water Department crew is shown above placing into position on Bordentown Ave. a new fire plug. This was the eighth plug repaired by the city workers with 15 more on their list. Plugs nearest schools, the hospital and churches get their first attention. The men at work on the eighth plug are: Joseph Kodelka, assistant superintendent, holding up the end of the stanchion; Harold Warner and Al Braun, fitting the plug in place; Pat Quinlan, taking up the slack on the chain, and John Szatkowski, bracing the stanchion against the weight put upon it. The city would be faced with a high cost to get the plugs repaired and reinstalled by a private firm under contract.

Emergency measures involving the First Aid and consultation with physicians were under way promptly.

Thomas Dowe, pilot of the DCs, reported the fire had developed on his plane four minutes after leaving Newark Airport. He was at 3,000 ft. when the trouble developed and dumped the fuel in the accepted aeroplane knowledge that fuel dropped at that height will evaporate before it reaches the ground. The engine was repaired on the plane's return to Newark Airport and it was in the air again within two hours.

NEW DOG CENSUS

Health Department. It was agreed this was beyond the province of the health Department and that householders should not put out dead animals for the garbage men to take away. But O'Brien was advised there had been an arrangement by which a Street Department employee could remove a dead animal from the streets on a voluntary basis and bill the Board of Health $2. for doing the job.

Inman proposed an addition to pension for Amelia Albanese, a retired employee who had served the Health Department for 32 years, should be set up along the same lines that the Library Board is arranging one for Sadie Dowdell. It met with general concurrence.

Papi reported city water had been sampled by the state and had been found suitable.

Rogers wanted an inquiry into $607 worth of rock salt being dumped in the open where it was subject to the elements before it would be used for the roads in winter.

The dog licensing ordinance was adopted. It relates to the possession of dogs and defines the conditions for a kennel.

CHRISTMASTIDE PRECAUTIONS OUTLINED BY FIRE CHIEF

Fire Chief Walter Kozak takes occasion to issue warnings against hazards seasonal in the home at Christmastide. The chief states these are issued by the fire underwriters after an analysis of over-the-years tragedies and fire losses at Christmas time with their causes detailed. The chief accordingly asks the following be carefully considered.

1. When purchasing your Christmas tree this year, buy a firm fresh tree. Store it in a cool place with the base of the tree in water until ready to be decorated. If buying an artificial tree, look for the UL label that indicates it is classified as fire resistant.

2. Check the decorative lighting strings for frayed wires, broken cords, and loose sockets, sources of electrical fires. Use only light strings that bear a UL label. When trimming a tree, avoid using candles or other decorations that ignite easily. Keep the tree away from the fireplace, a radiator or a TV set, sources of heat that dry out a tree and make it a fire hazard.

3. Do not overload electrical circuits. Wires that carry more current than they can handle may cause a fire. Read the manufacturer's instructions on lighting strings and do not use more than the recommended number of lights on one circuit. When you leave your home or retire for the night, shut off all light sets.

4. When buying gifts that involve use of electricity to make them work, check for the UL label.

5. Keep matches, lighters and candles out of the reach of children.

6. Avoid smoking near flammable decorations.

7. Make an emergency plan to use if fire breaks out in your home. See that each family member knows at least two escape routes.

8. Avoid wearing loose flowing clothes, especially long, open sleeves, near the open flames of fireplace, stove or candle-decorated table or tree.

9. Never burn candles near evergreens on a mantelpiece or table. Burning evergreens in a fireplace is hazardous. When dry, greens burn like tinder and their sparks will fly loose in a house.

10. Dispose of wrappings immediately after opening gifts. Place them in a metal covered container and not in the fireplace.

11. When buying lights to be used in outdoors decorations, make sure they are specified for such use. Never use indoor lights for outdoor decorations. Use no more than three sets of lights per single extension.

12. Never use electric lights on a metallic tree.

13. When buying a Christmas tree, check for color and scent. A fresh tree is deep green in color and has a strong scent of pine. The trunk butt of a fresh tree will be sticky with sap. Cut off about two inches of the trunk when mounting into water holding stand. Make sure the stand is kept constantly replenished with water.

14. Never use lighted candles on a Christmas tree or near other evergreens.

15. Keep a UL listed multi-purpose fire extinguisher at locations of Christmas ornamentation or preparation of holiday meals.

16. Do not drink to such excess that you lose your sense of awareness or concern about things.

Christmas for Patients At Roosevelt Hospital

It's beginning to look like Christmas for patients at Roosevelt Hospital.

Preparations are now underway for several parties complete with gift-giving, plays, skits, carol singing and band concerts -- all due to the generosity of the organizations with the assistance of the Volunteer Department, Recreation Therapy Department and Roosevelt Hospital Auxiliary.

During the past week, Chanukah gifts were distributed to the Jewish patients with the presents donated by Congregation Etz Ahaim, Highland Park and Ahche Emeth Memorial Temple, New Brunswick.

Christmas gifts have already been received from the First Presbyterian Church of Iselin, Abraham and Straus, Woodbridge Center, E. Patricia Moran, Avenel; Mother's Club of Boy Scout Troop 52, Fords and St. Cecilia's Church, Iselin. Gifts are needed for both male and female patients. Among the items which are most acceptable are dusting powder, costume jewelry, after-shave lotion, perfumes, colognes, handbags. Used items are not acceptable.

Special gifts are needed for patients who do not have families and have no one to buy anything for them. These gifts include such things as pajamas, robes, slippers, bed jackets, nightgowns, sweaters, slacks, house dresses, shawls and lap robes. Donors are asked not to wrap gifts as the hospital tries to match gifts with patients.

Miss Rochelle Rosen, director of volunteers, has asked that no money be sent. She said the hospital can accept donations and they must go into the general fund.

Mrs. Margaret Lozak, director of recreation therapy, announced programs outlined to date for the patients. On December 3, the Holy Family School, Carteret, had a "walk through" at the hospital singing carols and distributing gifts.

Up-coming events are as follows:

December 7 - Olphonics, a musical group from Fords, will present a program.

December 8 - Women's Evening Club of Metuchen to sing Christmas songs and present gifts.

December 10 - Christmas Show to be presented by Carteret High School students.

December 11 - Two events - Concert to be presented by Woodrow Wilson Junior High School and the annual Christmas Show to be offered by Woodbridge Senior High School Glee Club, with 100 students participating.

December 14 - St. Thomas Youth Group, Rahway, a group Christmas show, featuring songs, male choir and gifts and customs of old Czech-Slovakia. Also Girl Scouts and Junior Girls of Colonia, who will present a Christmas play and hand out gifts and favors.

December 15 - Troop 771, sponsored by Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Fords, will offer a Christmas Show.

December 17 - South River High School, play, Christmas songs and gifts.

December 18 - Senior Girl Scout Troop 1407, to distribute gifts and to sing carols.

December 19 - Concert Choir of Colonia Senior High School to present program. In the evening "Daba DeMarco and Her Guitar" - sing-a-long.

December 20 - Image Players of Woodbridge, to give its Christmas how; also Junior Girl Scouts Troop 356, Carteret, will distribute home-made cookies and offer a skit and sing carols.

December 21 - Annual Christmas Show of Girl Scout Troop 206, Fords.

The hospital itself is planning two Christmas parties for the patients. On December 22 at 1:30 p.m. in the Main Building, Santa Claus will make his appearance and hand out gifts. Refreshments, made by the Dietary Department, will be served by the Auxiliary assisted by Volunteers. Orchestra will be provided by the Association of Musicians of the American Federation of Musicians, Local 204.

A similar party is scheduled for December 23 in the Annex at 1:30 p.m. At that party, a patients' choir, organized by Maureen McWatters, of the Recreation Therapy Department will sing. The First Presbyterian Church of Metuchen will lend choir robes to the new choir all of whom are looking forward to having their pictures taken.

Meantime, the patients themselves are busy making gifts for their families and friends in both the Recreation and Occupation Therapy Departments. Articles being completed include Mosaic tile hot plates, copper tooling plaques, decorated bread boards, Christmas centerpieces, serving trays, spice racks, woven mats and knitting bags. Children's stools, wall hangings, wreaths, paper weights.

Christmas cards are also being made by the patients and will be placed in a special mail box for distribution.

DEAN'S SEMINAR - Dr. Donald R. Peterson, dean of the Rutgers Graduate School of Applied and Professional Psychology, gestures to help make a point in a regular Friday morning class in his office on the State University's Busch Campus. The dean says that the new Rutgers school is working to provide badly needed services for mental institutions, schools and community health centers through a practical approach to psychology.

A new Rutgers professional school is working to provide badly needed services for mental institutions, schools and community health centers through a practical approach to psychology.

The aim of the program is to help psychologists get beyond the research labs and into the community, actively helping people with their problems, according to Donald R. Peterson, dean of the Graduate School of Applied and Professional Psychology.

"The main problems on this planet are human problems," Dr. Peterson said. "The conditions that threaten to do us in, crime and overpopulation for example, as well as the problems of mental disorder, all involve a human element. They all have something to do with the way people behave."

"Over the past 50 years," he said, "we have learned a good deal about human behavior. What we are trying to do at Rutgers is to put our knowledge to use in dealing with human problems."

Entering its second year, the Rutgers school is the first university-based school of professional psychology in the country. It offers training leading to the Doctor of Psychology (PsyD) degree in clinical psychology and in school psychology.

Until recently, almost all professional psychologists were trained in academic psychology departments. They were educated as "scientist-practitioners" and earned the PhD degree upon the completion of graduate study.

"The trouble with those programs," Dr. Peterson said, "was that they glorified science and neglected practice. They were run by professors who taught people to be professors, to educate more professors. The PhD programs never succeeded in training people as well as they needed to be trained for professional work."

"All you have to do is to go into the back wards of any mental hospital or institution for mentally retarded people to appreciate the atrocious quality of the psychological services most of those people receive. What they get mainly is drugs and minimum physical care. We know how to do much better than that now, and it is high time we started to do so."

Dr. Peterson, who joined the Rutgers faculty this year, was instrumental in developing the first PsyD program in the country, in the Psychology Department at the University of Illinois. The program there was successful, but according to Dr. Peterson, "too small and too academic" to do the best possible job of training professional psychologists.

The operation at Rutgers is organized as a professional school, like a law school or a medical school, the dean pointed out. He said this allows it to be larger and more strongly professional than an academic program can be.

Thirteen full-time faculty members are on the staff of the Graduate School of Applied and Professional Psychology. They cooperate with large numbers of practicing psychologists in New Jersey, as well as with faculty members of other departments at the State University and the College of Medicine and Dentistry, to provide the education in psychology and the supervised field experience practicing psychologists need.

More than 1,500 people applied for 55 positions this year, according to administrative coordinator Ruth Schulman. She said the school ran out of its 4,000 catalogues before January and was forced to mimeograph many more to answer all inquiries. The school's 108 students spend at least half their time working in schools, institutions, clinics and community agencies throughout the state. The school also operates its own clinic.

Most of the students have had experience in the field. Ms. Schulman said, and more than half of them are working in psychology-related jobs while attending school. Many classes are held late in the afternoon for that reason, she said.

The school encourages enrollment by women and the minority groups and promotes student participation in most phases of operation, with students on all faculty committees. In addition, the entire school meets together every Friday for special programs and discussion.

"We have a high percentage of women, close to half," Ms. Schulman said, "and there are all ages of people here -- it's impossible to tell the students from the faculty. Some of the students have been out of school for a while. There is really a diverse ethnic and social background."

"From the first, students observe in the kinds of agencies where they will be working later on," Ms. Schulman said. "As they get into the second and third year, they begin doing supervised work. By the time they complete the fourth-year internship, they have had 1,500 hours of supervised experience."

Besides the PsyD programs in school and clinical psychology, students may also elect a PhD program for research in clinical psychology.

"The need to apply what we know does not mean we should stop learning more about human behavior," said Dr. Peterson. "The research program is a very important part of our work."

Future plans for program development include training in other fields of psychology, such as industrial psychology; the establishment of additional facilities at Newark and Camden, and a continuing education program for practicing psychologists. These extensions, however, depend on the financial situation at Rutgers University and in New Jersey, the dean said.

Speaking of the "tremendous response" to the professional school, Ms. Schulman said, "We could take double the number of superbly qualified students we let in now, but there's just no room." The school will eventually increase its enrollment to a maximum of 300 students, though this plan, too, depends on the University's budget over the next few years.

"The large number of applications is one index of the good motives of many people today," Dr. Peterson said. "They really want to helpful work and see our school as a way of learning to do it. They want to practice in public institutions, independent agencies, community mental health centers, public schools, wherever there are people with problems -- which is wherever there are people," he said.

"Wrote with my Blood"

By John T. Cunningham

Thomas Harris of Cohamsey Bridge in Cumberland County knew on Christmas Day, 1775, that he was inviting the hangman's noose when he and fellow conspirators lacked the first copy of their Plain Dealer on the bar of Matthew Potter's tavern.

The other conspirators were known locally, but the newspaper clearly identified only Harris. In his own hand he admitted his potential for the gallows: "Thomas Harris, his hand and pen, wrote with my blood."

But if Harris were to be hanged, with him on the gallows would be Matthew Potter. The tavern keeper's boldness in permitting the Plain Dealer to hang in his tavern clearly stamped him as an outright rebel.

The fact that the Plain Dealer appeared every Tuesday morning probably made in New Jersey's first regular "newspaper." Sponsors explained that it was handwritten only because "there is no press within reach."

The publishers declared themselves interested in "enquiries and speculations on political occurrences and other important subjects particularly calculated to suit this place." They invited contributions, promising anonymity.

Anti-British sentiment motivated the sponsors of the Plain Dealer. Several had helped burn a shipload of British tea at Greenwich a year before. They were for independence to a man.

One of the tea burners, 23-year-old Ebenezer Elmer, was editor. He made his sentiments clear: "Let us draw our swords and never return them into their scabbards till we have rescued our country from the iron hand of tyranny and secured the pure enjoyment of liberty to generations yet unborn."

Not all of the columns in the Plain Dealer were of a political nature. One of the most noted exceptions was a treatise on breeding, a colonial custom whereby unmarried young men and women (properly chaperoned, in theory at least) kept warm under the same blanket while courting on cold winter nights.

Logically the first New Jersey revolutionary newspaper should have appeared in a more populated area, such as Newark or Elizabethtown, but residents of those centers apparently were satisfied with New York City newspapers. They also were well aware of British troops in New York City.

The isolation of Cohamsey Bridge made a radical newspaper both necessary and possible. Few residents of southern New Jersey read Philadelphia newspapers or had heard that town of independent spirit. Conversely, revolutionary happenings in lower Cumberland County were not likely to bring enemy soldiers from Philadelphia.

Ironically, the turmoil that the editors sought to increase fueled the paper. As war edged closer, Ebenezer Elmer and his young friends became increasingly active in the local militia and had little time for words.

Potter remained at home. On July 7, 1776, the Declaration of Independence was read by Ebenezer Elmer from the steps of Potter's Tavern. Across the street in the county courthouse, the town's own Liberty Bell pealed in celebration.

The Plain Dealer and Potter's tavern both live on. The little newspaper is preserved in the Rutgers University library. Potter's Tavern has been saved and restored in Bridgeton, as Cohamsey Bridge came to be known.

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor:

Permit me to say that I have been a regular reader of your paper for sometime now. Everytime I read an issue I grow more impressed by the superb paper which you and your very fine staff put together each and every week. Of particular interest are your regular features and of special interest to me is your "Letters to the Editor" column. I must admit I do read this column with great interest as I find it interesting, informative and up to date. In fact, it is the first feature I do read, and rest assured there are many others readers like myself that are grateful for your making this column available to them making it possible to express their viewpoints as they see fit.

Please add my holiday greetings to the many others you have received and will receive.

The holiday whether we celebrate it as Chanukah or Christmas, the choice is our own and it should be regarded as the most heralded time of the year for family and friendly get togethers. It is also a most appropriate time to offer solemn prayers for those who have gone before us whether they be members of our own immediate family or our friends.

From childhood on, the holiday spirit with the thrill and excitement of buying and exchanging gifts, mailing of cards singing the traditional songs which seem to remain in our hearts long after the holiday has come and gone.

With the holiday season just about in full swing once again we can actually feel the friendliness of people toward one another. Wouldn't it be a most fitting gesture if all of us could assert a very special effort to make this holiday season a truly happy one?

Best wishes for a joyous holiday season.

Very truly yours,
Romana H. Shaw "Rusty"

HAND IN HAND WORKING WITH THE MENTALLY RETARDED

The organizers of Hand-In-Hand, Inc., an all-volunteer organization working with handicapped people, have started to formulate plans in order to conduct the 1976 festival for the mentally retarded citizens of New Jersey.

The festival, scheduled for May 28, 1976, will be held on the campus of Middlesex County College in Edison, N. J., the site of the 1975 festival.

This year, festival directors, John Ur, announced that David Bixal, the 1975 festival director, and Jack Fusco, the 1975 fund raising co-director would be the assistant directors.

In speaking of the festival, Mr. Ur pointed out "the beauty of the festival lies in the fact that on one day out of the year, the retarded citizens of our state are treated as our special guests. The day is set aside simply for their enjoyment. The games, food, music, and other activities not only brings a smile to the faces of our guests, but leaves us all feeling good."

Hand-In-Hand is a nonprofit organization which started two years ago with a festival at St. Joseph's High School in Metuchen, N. J. In addition to the festival, Hand-In-Hand includes in its activities a special program to enrich the lives of the residents of Woodbridge State School, a volunteer referral, and the funding of recreational programs in conjunction with the N.J.A.R.C. and others.

For further information, contact the Hand-In-Hand office at 145 Plainfield Rd., Metuchen, N. J. 08840 or call (801) 985-7733. The Hand-In-Hand organization relies on continued public support for the success of the festival and its other programs.

Poinsettia Sale

Commencing Sunday, December 14, 1976, members of the fund raising committee of Hand-In-Hand will be selling Poinsettias as part of their committee's work to help the Hand-In-Hand organization in its expenditures. These poinsettias will sell for $5.00 a piece and can be bought at the following locations:

Route 1 Flea Market (Great Eastern)
Twin City Mobil Gas Station, Park Ave., So. Plainfield (next to Acme)
Bound Brook Road, Middlesex (across from Toby's Liquor Store)
60 Sterling Road, Watchung (on the circle)
190 Green Brook Road, North Plainfield (medical building)

All proceeds from these sales will go to Hand-In-Hand to aid towards the financing of its 1976 festival for the mentally retarded and other Hand-In-Hand programs.

PATTEN IN THE HOUSE

By U.S. Rep. Edward J. Patten

A few weeks ago, I was informed by a top official of the U.S. Advisory Council on Historic Preservation that if Trenton takes favorable action on the Rt. 18 bridge over the Raritan River, chances of prompt Council approval on the project are "excellent." Robert M. Garvey, executive director of the Advisory Council made the prediction at a meeting I requested to discuss the status of the project.

According to Garvey, if Trenton officials approve an agreement in their possession in late November without significant changes, he is convinced the Council chairman will sign the papers soon.

Meanwhile I had sent letters of support for the Rt. 18 agreement to two cabinet officers in the administration of Gov. Byrne: David Bardin, Commissioner, Dept. of Environmental Protection, and Alan Sagner, Commissioner, Dept. of Transportation. I hope that these two will not only take favorable action, but also expedite their decision because of the urgent time factor. If Commissioners Bardin and Sagner sign the agreement, and the Council chairman does the same only two more signatures will be required before construction starts on the Rt. 18 extension: the commanding officer of the U.S. Coast Guard, and finally, the Secretary of the U.S. Dept. of Transportation.

The Rt. 18 bridge would mean a great deal to the New Brunswick area. Completion of the Bridge is indispensable to the rejuvenation of downtown New Brunswick, the county seat, as well as alleviating the serious traffic congestion. There would also be an economic benefit if the bridge is built - a factor that should be considered because over 30,000 persons are unemployed in Middlesex County, with the construction industry suffering from a 25% jobless rate. Some of the unemployed would find work if construction of the bridge occurs.

The Kitchen Almanac

Bill Kage of Morton Grove, Ill., says, "If you're one of those people who feel that lamb chops just don't quite make it, sprinkle the chops with Worcestershire sauce OR soy sauce OR lemon juice before broiling. Yum, yum!!"

When a recipe calls for a greased casserole, use a piece of bread to spread the butter, margarine or salad oil. Then, when you are finished, cut the bread up and add it to the casserole. You'll have no mess or paper to throw away.

Try sliced meat loaf, chopped green olives and mayonnaise on your favorite bread. Substitute enriched all-purpose flour for cake flour. It costs less, and one cup minus two tablespoons equals one cup of cake flour.

Nearly all fats from plant sources are unsaturated - except coconut oil.

NO JOKE TWO WEEKS BEFORE CHRISTMAS-Aneca Matarangelo, one of the school crossing guards who went through a payless payday last Thursday, registered her reaction to the situation with this poster she holds up the following day when filling her post at the Broadway and Bordentown Ave. crossing. She was one of those asked at a special meeting of the Mayor and Council Friday night to keep on the job, that the pay would be forthcoming when some legal and bookkeeping procedures could be carried out. The money is in prospect and she and her fellow workers will get it. But with Santa Claus coming and her children expecting something, Mrs. Matarangelo is in no mood to wait until the city's accounts get straightened out in 1976.

... about your SOCIAL SECURITY

by Howard G. Houghton
 District Manager

Doctor bills for October, November, and December may in some cases count toward the $60 annual deductible for both 1975 and 1976 under the "carryover" provision of Medicare medical insurance.

Medicare medical insurance doesn't pay for the first $60 in covered medical expenses in a calendar year. But people who haven't had $60 in covered expenses before October should be sure to send in all the bills for covered services they receive in October, November, or December.

Any expenses you have during the last 3 months of the year that can also be counted toward the deductible for the next year.

The carryover rule helps people who might otherwise have to pay the $60 deductible twice in a short period of time—at the end of one year and at the beginning of the next year.

Bills for covered medical services should be attached to a filled-out "Request for Medicare Payment" form and sent to The Prudential Insurance Company of America, P.O. Box 3000, Linwood, New Jersey, 08321.

"Request for Medicare Payment" forms are available at any social security office and at many doctor's offices.

VETERAN PENSIONERS

Mr. James R. Purdy, Director of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Newark, today reminded veterans and dependents that the annual income questionnaires sent to pensioners with the November 1st pension checks must be returned promptly. He emphasized that these income cards must be returned, completely filled out, to the address shown on the card before January 1, 1976. Failure to return the questionnaire will result in benefits being discontinued.

In previous years claimants had until January 15th to return their questionnaires, in many instances this caused delays in the issuance of their monthly pension checks.

Mr. Purdy also stated that while certain pensioners over age 72 are exempt from filing the questionnaire, they are still required to notify the VA should there be a change in their incomes. The income limit for veterans and widows without dependents is $3000 per year and $4200 for veterans and widows with dependents. In the case of parents receiving dependency indemnity compensation (DIC), the same formula applies.

The 1976 kickoff meeting of the Middlesex County March of Dimes Campaign to be held in January was held in the Knights of Columbus Building. Parish Community Chairmen and Mothers March Chairmen from many areas of the County attended. Dr. Thomas H. Paterniti, County Director of the March of Dimes, reported that over $121,000 was raised by the volunteers for the 1975 March of Dimes Campaign, and he anticipates they will exceed that amount in 1976. March of Dimes funds make possible research to find the causes and preventatives of crippling birth defects, such as spina bifida, hydrocephalus and others, as well as giving necessary assistance to help correct some of the disabilities with which many children in Middlesex County are born.

The Middlesex County March of Dimes 34th annual kickoff meeting was held at the Sayreville Knights of Columbus Hall recently. Dr. Thomas H. Paterniti, Middlesex County Director of the March of Dimes, stated that in 1975 March of Dimes volunteers raised over $121,000, which he hopes to see exceeded in the 1976 campaign. Kevin Manley, Executive Director of the Middlesex County March of Dimes Chapter, stated that the goal which has been set for the 1976 campaign is $145,000. The 1976 campaign will take place during the month of January, beginning January 1st.

Joseph Hanlon, of the Department of Development of The National Foundation March of Dimes national headquarters, was guest speaker. He spoke of the work being done throughout the country with March of Dimes contributions, and the importance of the volunteers' efforts in making the 'March of Dimes' programs to combat birth defects possible. He stressed the increase in contributions to the March of Dimes each year, which has made possible more intensive research, medical service and health education programs which aim to treat and prevent birth defects.

The Rutgers University Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity organized the County Walk-a-Thon in 1975 and is planning to do the same in 1976. They aim to make it even more successful than the previous Walk-a-Thons.

William Callahan, Middlesex County Chapter Chairman, reported that the Chapter Board of Directors carefully reviews all requests for assistance, and many children in the County are receiving some type of assistance thru the Chapter; and that a grant of $25,000 was being given to St. Peter's Hospital in New Brunswick for genetic counselling, and another grant of $25,000 was being given to Dr. A.K. Khachadurian of Rutgers Medical School for research into the causes and prevention of hypercholesterolemia.

Six year old Sandy Blixt, the Middlesex County 1976 March of Dimes Poster girl, was introduced. Sandy lives in Old Bridge with her parents and sister. She was born with hydrocephalus and spina bifida, but she is a bright happy youngster who enjoyed meeting the volunteers at the meeting. Tony Raja, of South Brunswick, Middlesex County Poster Boy for the past two years, was also present and enjoyed meeting old friends and the new Poster Child for 1976.

St. Mary's students found many things to enter them at the bazaar held Sunday at the School Cafeteria attended by an overflowingly crowd.

The Bicentennial was the theme at the South Amboy P.T.A. bazaar, held on Friday, Dec. 5 at the school Auditorium. P.T.A. members shown are dressed in early American garb.

ST. MARY'S, HOFFMAN, START BASKETBALL SEASON TOMORROW

Varsity basketball returns to the local high schools for another season Friday when St. Mary's opens up against Sayreville on the Bombers court and Hoffman High journeys to Dunellen to start play against members of the Central Valley Conference. The Governors first home game will be next Wednesday against Montgomery, regarded as the strongest team in the Conference. St. Mary's will not play at home until after Christmas. Next Tuesday the Eagles will visit the St. Pius, Piscataway court.

Both the local high schools will participate in the Lions Christmas Season tourney, to be played jointly on the East Brunswick and Sayreville courts.

Robert Howarth, assistant coach last year, has succeeded Paul Saylor as head coach at St. Mary's. He has a height and injuries problem at the outset. His two taller men Matt Spolte and Brian Dajert, are 6 ft., 3 in., but they would be new to starting assignments. Of the holdovers from last year's squad, there are two six-footers, John Miller and Mike Grimley. Mike Cleary and Matt Kurtz saw plenty of action last year. Four juniors, John Belmonte, Pete Suaro, Tim Connor and Ron Wilson, give the squad suitable depth.

At Hoffman the injury bug, is even worse for it has taken out George Bongiorno with a broken left arm. He will be back in January but the injury to his arm is even more serious for baseball than for basketball, as he is expected to be the ace of the Hoffman pitching staff next spring. Dan Lewis, another varsity holdover in basketball, is also on the sidelines for the start of the season with a leg injury.

Hoffman Coach Ray Tomaszewski lost Bob Bessner, Tom Suau and Moose McCarthy from his starting five of last year. This has left the Hoffman coach with only one returning starter of any height, Tom Billich, who reaches up at 6 ft., 4 in. Next in order are holdover seniors, Rich Kukulski at 6 ft., 3 ins., and Ron Stillwagon, at 6 ft., 2 in., a sophomore at 6 ft., 2 in., may give the Goves added reach.

Otherwise it is spare pickings for tall players on the Hoffman side. George Hubbs and John Conlor are starters returning at 5 ft. 10 ins. and 5 ft. 7 ins. respectively. Others in the shorter bracket rounding out the squad are Greg Kargos, Dave Newton, Keith Switzer and Bob Clayton. A freshman, Frank Kuziemski, has shown a keen eye for the basket.

The return of Bongiorno and Lewis will improve the overall height situation later in the season. But, for the Governors, it looks like developing a strong running game to make up for the expected height advantage of the opposition.

PROSPECTIVE PARENTS HOLIDAY TOUR SCHEDULED

Perth Amboy General Hospital invites prospective parents to tour the hospital on Sunday, December 21, at 2:45 p.m. Tour participants will assemble in the hospital lobby.

Mrs. Eleanor Durkin, R.N., maternal/child health supervisor, says, "We have chosen this late December date so that prospective parents can see the hospital in its holiday dress. In other years, those taking the December tour expressed regret at not seeing the units when they were decorated. This year, we are giving them that opportunity."

The program will include visits to the labor and delivery areas, nurseries, postpartum units, and the father's room. Obstetrical nurses will explain procedures, distribute literature, and conduct a question and answer period. Films on childbirth will be shown and refreshments served.

Persons who wish to attend and who have not received an invitation from a physician on the obstetrical staff may contact Mrs. Durkin directly.

PAYLESS PAYDAYS ERUPT FOR SOME CITY EMPLOYEES AGAIN

A second attempt to get transfers by which crossing guards and other city employees coming under "accounts" where the expendable balances have run out failed Friday. With 20 of the guards looking on in forlorn hope, the attempt to effect the transfers went down on roll call 3-1. Councilman James Inman was the lone "no" with Councilman Kenneth Rogers absent. The "aye" votes were Council President Stanley Jankowski and Councilman Thomas O'Brien and J. Thomas Cross.

The move failed because it did not garner the four votes to constitute a two-third vote of the Council as required by statute for a transfer of this sort. However, Cross noted that the 3-1 vote was a two-thirds majority of the quorum present and he felt there might be a question if this could be enough instead of an approving vote of two-thirds of the full membership.

The meeting was marked by bitter clashes between Mayor William O'Leary and Jankowski, on one hand, and Inman, on the other. Inman disclaimed all responsibility for the situation whereby the employees were not getting paid, reiterated his distrust of the way the mayor had drawn the budget, as signified by his persisting "no" votes on all financial matters. The mayor chided him for being ready to let employees stand without their pay in the Christmas season when there was money to bring it over from other accounts. Unanticipated amount of sick leaves with fill-ins hired were held to have caused the miscalculation in Police Specials Salary figures. Plus the enforced cutting down of Salary Adjustment account from $54,500 to $25,500 at a time when the city had to anticipate negotiations in salary contracts.

In the dialogue back and forth, Inman recited in expressions of anger against declarations by the majority favoring the transfer and the mayor which Inman construed as intended to create a public image of Rogers and himself as blocking the rightful paying of wages.

The transfer situation, a repeat of a 1964 "crisis" in getting employees paid at the end of the year, developed at the Dec. 2 council meeting. A resolution for transfer of $11,850 was made to correct deficiencies in three salary accounts. There was $9,300 to be taken from Legal Services, City Ordinances, and $2,550 from Electrician's Salary, no such officer having been hired, and the funds were to be distributed as follows: Police Salaries and Wages $3,300, Police Specials Salaries $6,000 and Sewer Department, Salaries and Wages $2,550.

The resolution passed 3-2, with Inman and Rogers opposed, but this vote did not make the two-thirds needed to sustain the transfers. Accordingly, Thursday, payday, there was no money for Police Specials, Salaries and Wages, under which the crossing guards fall.

More, it appeared from a letter written by John Leonard, city treasurer, that there had been an overdrawing at the previous paying of the school crossing guards, that a budgetary account to which $41,900 had been allotted was showing total expenditures of $42,897.50, making for a $797.50 deficit. But Leonard cautioned that "if we knocked them out of their jobs, we would have to give them a 45-day notice". It was noted the last payment to the school crossing guards was an overpayment.

John Vall, the city law director, felt the guards should be laid off when there was no money with which to pay them. He, too, was disturbed about the 45-day notice provision that would apply to the guards with Civil Service status.

Jankowski was highly critical of what Inman was doing. It was his opinion that Inman was asking "foolish questions" and was thereby creating a discordant situation. "When he (Inman) was council president (1973 and 1974), they were calling us by our first names in Trenton", the council president recalled.

Inman had pressed at the Dec. 2 meeting as to why the letter from Leonard had not been brought forth.

Police Chief Edward O'Leary took a stand Friday against the police being drawn into the crossing guards situation should either the guards walk off the job or be let out until the city was prepared to pay them. The chief emphasized the Police Department had not the additional personnel, regular or special, to take over "those corners" in school hours and no prospective means of doing so under the Police Salaries account.

Wages, $6,000; also Environmental Protection, Sewerage Disposal, Salaries and Wages, $2,550.

The adoption of this resolution was favored by Councilmen Stanley Jankowski, J. Thomas Cross and Thomas O'Brien and was opposed by Councilman James Inman, in his continued disapproval of the budgetary procedures of Mayor William O'Leary. Councilman Kenneth Rogers was absent.

A revenue-sharing change in the budget does not need the two-third approval of the total membership of the governing body, so the 3-1 vote was sufficient to have it forwarded to the state for approval.
