McCormick Sand Co. Target of Complaints

At the meeting of the city council, several Augusta Street residents appeared to complain about the operation of the McCormick Sand Company.

The main complaint from the group was that "the noise and quaking vibrations are a constant mental irritation and a detriment to physical health."

The hitching of the railroad cars and the use of air brakes on the diesel engines was stated as a contributing cause.

The residents complained that the sound testing taken by the state were not true, being they were taken when only four sand cars were in use and not the regular thirty, which is considered the normal output.

The residents also complained of the sand that is being blown into their yards from the piles of sand stored in the company's yard.

Sayreville Couple Millionaire Winners

Ruth and Frank DeVito of 11 Perrine Avenue, Sayreville, became the newest members of the New Jersey State Lottery's Millionaires Club when they won $50,000 a year for 20 years at the fourth "50-Cent Millionaire" drawing at Paltades Amusement Park June 30.

The DeVitos headed a list of 10 grand finalists whose names were drawn for prizes of $200,000 ($20,000 a year for 10 years), $100,000 (10,000 a year for 10 years), and seven for $10,000 each.

In all, 163 finalists were entered in the "millionaire" drawing, and each of the 153 who failed to make the grand prize list went home with a check for $500. A total of 245 was eligible to enter the "millionaire" drawing but 88 failed to identify themselves. They have a year in which to qualify to receive the minimum prize of $500 and take part in a "millionaire" final drawing. Seven of the 163 at the June 30 event were from prior drawings.

DeVito, a plumber, and his wife, Ruth, who works as a welder at the Fedders air conditioning plant at Edison, N. J., both said they plan to quit their jobs, now that they have $50,000 a year coming their way until 1991. Their winning lottery ticket was in the name of Frank DeVito and family and he said their several children would share in their good fortune.

Mrs. DeVito said she had a feeling they were going to win the big prize. After nine of the grand prize winners had been announced, Commissioner Hume proceeded to open the ball containing the name of the "millionaire" winner.

DeVito had his head down and was praying, he said, and didn't hear Hume call out his name. His wife let out a scream and told him he'd won. DeVito gasped "Oh, no!" and then hugged his wife and five children in an outburst of joyous emotion.

The DeVitos had purchased their winning State Lottery ticket from a vending machine at Bamberger's on Newark. Previously, a $50,000 ticket was purchased there. Bamberger's will receive a $10,000 bonus for selling the "millionaire" ticket.

The next "50-Cent Millionaire" semi-final drawing is set for July 15 following the weekly State Lottery drawing at Eatontown. Eligible tickets will be those which have the correct last two digits of the winning number for the weeks of June 10, 17, 24, July 1 and July 8. The "Millionaire" finals will be held at the Garden Arts Center at Holmdel on August 4 at 1:30 p.m. Famed comedian Jack Benny will be the Guest of Honor.

"I'm sorry I hurt your feelings, Honey... actually anybody could burn a salad!"

NO INDUCTIONS DURING JULY

Colonel Joseph T. Avela, State Director of Selective Service for New Jersey, said today that the Selective Service System in New Jersey would not induct anyone during July, or until National Headquarters notifies him to resume inductions.

These instructions were received from Dr. Curtis Tarr, Director of Selective Service, and included an order to cancel all pre-induction physical examinations scheduled to take place in July.

New Jersey Selective Service Local Boards and the State Appeal Board will not classify anyone during this period. However, the local boards will be opened for administrative processing of all registrants, mail, inquiries, and especially to register young men who within five days of their 18th birthday are required to register for the draft.

Contrary to what is generally believed, the Military Selective Service Act of 1967, as amended, did not expire at midnight, June 30. Only the induction authority contained in Section 17(c) of the Act expired at that time.

Orange Sherbet Salad For Gala Parties

Summertime means the cookin' is easy--and the meals lighter, prettier and refreshing as the season.

Orange Sherbet Salad, fashioned of orange and lemon gelatin, actually contains tingling orange sherbet. No wonder it's cooling and delectable as a go-along with summer meals. Whether it's a light repast served in the dining room or an outdoor patio party, the main course needs just such a salad to help tempt summer appetites.

To insure freshness (and help the cook stay cool), summer salads should be prepared early in the day, even the day before the party, and refrigerated. Crisp lettuce is easy when the fragile head lettuce is properly cared for. The core should be removed and the lettuce stored in a Tupperware Crisp-It, an especially-designed container to keep lettuce fresh for days and days. Best of all, even outer leaves stay crisp--there's no waste at all.

Orange Sherbet Salads, before they're unmolded onto crisp lettuce leaves, can be made in Jel-ette individual salad molds and refrigerated. The salads slide out easily from the plastic molds at serving time. The cookin' is easy in summertime--and the eating delightful.

Orange Sherbet Salad
1 package (3 ounces) orange flavored gelatin
1 package (3 ounces) lemon flavored gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1 can (11 ounces) mandarin

Orange segments
Water
1 pint orange sherbet
Salad greens
Dissolve orange and lemon gelatin in boiling water. Drain mandarin orange segments; pour syrup into measuring cup and add cold water as needed to make 3/4 cup liquid. Stir liquid into gelatin. Chill until cold. Beat in sherbet and fold in orange segments. Pour into Jel-ette individual salad molds. Refrigerate until set. Unmold onto crisp salad greens. Yield: About 8 servings.

"Pinocchio" Musical For Children Opens July 20

The wooden headed wonder "Pinocchio" stars in the title role of the Broadway musical for children in a scene with the dancing elephant. The lavish musical featuring 102 life-size marionettes will open at the Garden State Art Center on Telegraph Hill Park, off exit 116, Garden State Parkway in Holmdel, N. J. The musical will play for 4 days only starting Tuesday, July 20 thru 23. Performances are scheduled at 2 P.M. to accommodate the young at heart.

The Garden State Arts Center will be closed in the afternoons to adults (unless the children decide to bring them along) when Reuben Budrow's production of the delightful family classic, "Pinocchio" opens for a four day engagement from Tuesday, July 20 thru Friday, July 23. The Broadway musical, especially designed for children, will play for four performances.

The exciting, toe-tapping, hand-clapping musical features Bobby Clark's world famous magical marionettes. It is set to the timeless tale of Colodi's epic childhood adventure and is just what the doctor ordered after a shortage of attractions designed to please the youngsters. Parents, grandparents, as well as school and organizational groups look forward to the children laughing at the zany clowns and cheering the hero, Pinocchio.

The dazzling Reuben Budrow production with its 102 (count 'em) 102 life-size magical marionettes is coming to the Garden State Arts Center after touring for five years, playing to Standing Room Only audiences. The glittering gallery of lavish marionettes on strings 16 feet long are brought to life as people, dancing clowns, trained elephants, walking and talking forests, giant catfish, ballerinas and mysterious goliwogs in a glittering rainbow of color.

Performances for this engagement will be at 2 p.m. each day, Tuesday thru Friday.

"Pinocchio" is the perfect complement to educational and recreational programs and has been highly recommended by school boards, youth groups and civic organizations. The show is 95 minutes long, including intermission.

RECORD SUMMER SESSION AT UNION COLLEGE

It's Summertime and the living is studying for 1,200 students enrolled in the Summer Session at Union College.

The record summer enrollment includes students from 225 colleges and universities in some 32 states, Washington, D.C., and Canada, according to Dr. Bernard Solon, director of the Summer Session.

And as varied as the educational institutions they attend are their reasons for attending summer school he said.

"There are still a number of students who enroll in summer courses to make up a failing grade," Dr. Solon states, "but there are as many now who cite enrichment as their main reason for attending."

For others, Union College's summer session offers an opportunity to "speed up their college education," to lighten their course load during the regular academic year, to improve a grade or to take a required course for job certification.

Among the colleges and universities represented at Union College this summer are: Mount Holyoke, Princeton, Notre Dame, Syracuse, Vassar, Middlebury, Sacramento City College and McGill University in Canada. Among 18 state universities represented are the University of Hawaii, the University of Texas, Ohio University, the University of Colorado, the University of the State of New York, and the University of Tennessee.

Union College's six-week Summer Session opened Monday, June 21, and will run through July 30. Day and evening classes are conducted in more than 50 freshman and sophomore courses in liberal arts, education, engineering, physical and life sciences and business administration. Non-credit courses in English, mathematics and science are offered for students whose background in these areas has not prepared them for college-level work.

In addition to the Summer Session, Union College will offer a four-week Inter-session beginning August 2.

NOTES, COMMENTS

The truth is a great enemy to conversation.

Some people are very cautious about paying bills.

A poll, seems accurate when its results are for your side.

An unpaid obligation is a challenge to personal independence.

Every now and then we wonder how some people got their name.

You can still make many friends by speaking nicely about people.

WARNING: MANY PLANTS ARE POISONOUS

One of these common plants can get you very sick; the other two can be fatal.

The most delicate, innocent-looking flower in your house, yard or garden may be a potential killer or cause serious illness if chewed or eaten — and children are frequent victims. The lily-of-the-valley, for example, can cause severe stomach pains and mental confusion if eaten. Small red berries of the Daphne plant, found on many lawns, are extremely poisonous — sometimes fatal. Rhubarb leaves can cause convulsions, coma or death. Mistletoe berries and poinsettia leaves can also be fatal.

Vital facts about these plants and many others are being offered now as a public service by Geigy Agricultural Chemicals, a division of CIBA-GEIGY Corp., in two new information pieces, "Plants that Poison."

Available at no cost are 17 x 22 inch wall charts and 8 1/2 x 11 inch four-page booklets which detail dangers from seemingly harmless everyday plants that can cause serious illness or even death. An easy-to-read table lists the plants, their toxic parts, and symptoms of poisoning.

For free copies of the charts and booklets, write Corporate Communications, 5300 Edina Industrial Blvd., Minneapolis, Minn. 55485.

4-H Members Turn Safety Concerns into Action

SPECIAL - Safety is a year-round concern of everyone. And to put concern into action three special weeks have been designated during 1971. Poison Prevention Week was observed in March. Farm Safety Week is scheduled July 25-31 and Fire Prevention Week in October.

These special safety weeks are of significance to the half-million boys and girls in the 4-H safety program. The young people, 9-19 years of age, with the guidance of the Cooperative Extension Service, identify hazards in their homes, schools and communities and then work to correct them. And the special week observances give added opportunities for safety activities and the involvement of others.

Another tremendous boost in their endeavors comes from General Motors, sponsor of the 4-H safety program for the past 26 years.

Through the National 4-H Service Committee, the company offers recognition to individuals, clubs and county 4-H groups carrying on significant safety programs.

Topping the list of individual awards are eight scholarships of $1,000 each for national winners. An expense-paid trip to the 50th National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Nov. 28 - Dec. 2, is offered to a winning member in each state. And up to four medals of honor per county are offered to promising young safety enthusiasts.

Certificates of merit are offered to 4-H clubs and groups and the best county 4-H safety program in each state is eligible for a $25 cash award.

In helping 4-H'ers move their concerns to action, General Motors publishes and distributes a Safety Handbook for 4-H Leaders and safety cue sheets for members. The popular publications suggest safety activities in the areas of boating, swimming, traffic, environment and the company's Green Pennant program.

The 4-H safety program sponsor also supplements its educational materials with films and other visual aids.

For more information on the 4-H safety program and ways adults as well as young people can become involved, contact the state 4-H leader or county extension office.

J.R. WOJCIECHOWSKI, Pinch-hitting for Irv House

One of the topics of discussion among the "sea faring" at the Boat Club bar or on the wharf is superstitions, good luck and bad luck regarding boats and boating.

We pass on the following on a "can you top this" basis. (If you have a few of your own, please send them in to us.)

Of course you've heard of wicked Captain Fokke who cursed the Almighty one day 300 years ago while beating 'round Cape Horn in a head wind. He and the Flying Dutchman have sailed the stormy seas ever since to haunt all honest mariners. You'll know when they're nigh. Your wine will turn to vinegar, your food to beans. And whoever first sees the phantom ship soon will die.

Superstition, say you? Aye, perhaps. But you needn't be the seventh son of a sailor to know that the sea is a place of mystery with more than black cats and black Fridays to fear. Even today unknown perils await the unwary. Just to be on the safe side, maybe you'd better not set sail without pondering such salty superstitions as these.

Never set foot on an unchristened boat. A packet built in Norfolk in 1878 was launched and set sail for New York without the customary wine bottle smashed across its bow. It never arrived. A Grand Banks fisherman once launched a boat "dry," and before a year was out the boat ran aground twice, "stove her stern in busted her garboards . . . broke her rudder off" and was promptly hauled out of the water for repairs and a proper christening.

Don't set sail on a Friday and never, never go aboard carrying a black suitcase or an umbrella. If either item is discovered, pitch it over the side immediately.

Whistling or throwing coins overboard to coax a wind is a dangerous gambit. A skipper becalmed off Newfoundland before the turn of the century tossed a 50-cent piece into the waves. Before the coin sank, a 110-mph hurricane sprang up, dashing his ship on the rocks. As he picked himself out of the surf, the chastened captain was heard to mutter: "By God, if I'd known His wind was so cheap, I wouldn't have ordered so much."

Beware of preachers and gray mares, too -- especially if both happen to be aboard the same vessel. No less an authority than Mark Twain reports that the Mississippi riverboat Paul Jones "knocked her bottom out and went down like a pot" while carrying that combination of horse and cleric.

If you own a sailboat, make sure you nail a coin to the bottom of the mast before it's stepped. Ever since the Phoenicians, sailors have done this for luck -- or to pay Charon's fee for taking them across the River Styx if luck runs out.

Never paint your boat blue, and try not to pick a name that begins with "O" or "S." Maritime insurers once were loath to insure any cargo put aboard a vessel whose name began with "O." An 1885 compendium of sea superstitions provides the statistic that one-fifth of the ships whose names begin with "s" have been lost, among them the Suwanee, Sacramento, Saranac and San Jacinto.

A dream of drownings is good luck; but if you set out to catch fish, take care that a flatfooted, barefoot woman doesn't cross your path on the way to the wharf. If one does, the fish won't bite.

If you open a hatch, don't turn the hatch cover over. To do so invites a holdful of water. Never hand anyone anything through the open steps of a ladder, don't knock a swab or bucket overboard and don't spit into the wind.

To change a run of bad luck, carry a cricket aboard. It's more practical and agreeable than the alternate method, which is to bring aboard a king.

Married in Local Church

Miss Anna L. Friberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neils Friberg, 11 Merritt Avenue, South Amboy, became the bride of Robert Mamrak, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mamrak, 20 Fourth Street, Sayreville, on July 3, 1971. The 3 p.m. double ring ceremony took place in the United Methodist Church of South Amboy with the Rev. Joel Wright officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Peg Dieker of South Amboy was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were: Miss Diane Miros of South Amboy; and Mrs. Ronald Rausch, the bride's sister, of Old Bridge.

Terrence Healey of Sayreville served as the best man. Ushering were George Guttler, Sayreville; and John Mamrak, a brother of the bridegroom, of Sayreville. The bride is a graduate of Sayreville War Memorial High School and Stuart School of Business, Asbury Park. The bridegroom is also a graduate of Sayreville War Memorial High School. He is attending Glassboro State College.

The Mamraks will reside in Pittman, N. J.

SOCIAL SECURITY NEWS

Are you a 1971 bride? So, you got your man, you selected your trousseau, you found an apartment and you furnished it. Finished? No, not if you haven't had your name changed in the Social Security records. Much confusion can result from your failure to do this.

The Social Security Administration finds this a regularly recurring problem. In their quarterly reports employers report earnings of married workers under their marriage names. If the worker hasn't had her name changed on her social security card, the Social Security Administration thinks there are two different people involved and they cannot credit the earnings until the problem is resolved. If employers would insist upon seeing the social security card of every employee, they would see that the name under which the woman is working does not agree with the name on her social security card. They would then advise her to visit the nearest social security office to get her name changed.

A bride can avoid all this by taking the step voluntarily. All she has to do is phone her local Social Security office. They will mail her a form so that she can receive a new card showing her marriage name but with the same number she had before. That never changes and is insurance that the worker gets credit for all her earnings whenever and wherever she works.

Is this so important? Well, you can't ever tell when you may have to look to the Social Security Program for some kind of payment. If you become severely disabled at any age, you may be awarded a disability benefit for the rest of your life. When you reach retirement age, your own record may provide a larger benefit than you would receive as the wife of your husband. If you were to die leaving minor children, those children may be paid monthly benefits until they reach age 22 if they continue to attend school until that time. All in all, your small investment of time and effort can go far toward securing your future.

Now, a toast to the bride!

MIDDLESEX IN CONGRESS

U.S. REP. EDWARD PATTEN

In a recent letter to Labor Secretary James Hodgson, I expressed deep concern over the decline in the nation's economy - especially the serious plight of the unemployed in the Perth Amboy - New Brunswick Labor Area. I pointed out to Mr. Hodgson that in our Labor Area alone, there has been a 44% increase in unemployment from May 1970, to May 1971 - from 17,500 jobless, to 25,200.

EVENING OPTION PROGRAM OFFERED

"I want to go to college full time, but it's necessary for me to work." "Going to college for a degree on a part-time basis would just take me too long." "I wish that there were a way that I could go to college full time and still be able to work."

As an answer to these three comments and many of the other comments received by Middlesex County College's Admissions Office, the College experimented with a liberal arts -- evening option program last year and the success of the experiment has made the College decide to expand this venture.

One hundred students of the College's liberal arts program studied on a full-time basis during the evening hours last fall. The program was initiated in order to provide the College with an opportunity to accept more students, and its popularity has encouraged the College to provide the same program for those who could not get into a day program because it was filled, but rather to those who prefer to go to college on a full-time basis during the evening hours.

This new program is only available to those who want acceptance into the liberal arts curriculum. Classes will be scheduled no earlier than 4 p.m. and concluding no later than 10:15 p.m., Monday through Thursday. Students of the program need not attend all four evenings and may select Saturday morning classes if they prefer a morning program instead of some of the evenings.

Persons accepted into this evening option program will take from fifteen to seventeen credits per semester, pay full-time tuition rates, and will be entitled to all rights and privileges of full-time day students. Those accepted into the liberal arts--evening option program will have an opportunity to graduate in four semesters and still maintain employment.

The liberal arts curriculum requires a high school preparation of at least Algebra I and geometry, two years of science, and additional years in any combination of science, language and mathematics. The program's objective is to provide the first two years of the traditional baccalaureate degree. A broad spectrum of courses in humanities, mathematics, physical and social sciences prepare graduates who plan to transfer to four-year institutions, since it fulfills distribution requirements of most upper division institutions. Interested persons are invited to contact the College's Admissions office.

This means that in the past year or so, 7,700 more people have lost their jobs in the Area. I also noted that this dangerous and alarming increase in unemployment is not confined to my Labor Area, for during the same period, there was also an increase of 39% throughout the entire State of N.J. - from 157,100 to 218,800 - up 61,700!

I also wrote Secretary Hodgson that the problem of unemployment is a nightmare for not only the estimated 5.2 million now jobless in the Nation, but for the millions of people now working who are afraid they will also lose their jobs. What makes this critical problem one of growing concern to me is the fact that one-third of the unemployed are the head of the household.

The Perth Amboy - New Brunswick Labor Area needs economic help badly - and it is needed now. I was therefore very disappointed that the President vetoed the Accelerated Public Works program last week. I voted for this program for two basic reasons: it would provide Federal grants up to 80% to communities for capital construction ranging from sewers to other public works; and help provide jobs.

The Accelerated Public Works program certainly would not solve the unemployment problems of the country, but would have provided jobs for an estimated 40,000 people who need both hope and help.

BIBLE BAPTIST CHURCH CELEBRATES 1st ANNIVERSARY

The Bible Baptist Church of Laurence Harbor will observe its first anniversary this Sunday July 11, 1971. The church began last year on July 12 in the Laurence Parkway School. Later the church moved to Memorial School which is its present location. Rev. Paul Saxton, founder and pastor of the church, stated that it was the desire of the church to have its own building as soon as possible. Since the beginning of the church, 21 people have been baptized and the present membership stands at 22 people. Rev. Saxton states that the purpose of the church is to "teach and preach the Bible, as the world of God, so that all people can experience the joy of salvation and the abundant Christian life that was known in the original New Testament churches."

The church has three Sunday school classes at the present time. Each class is taught by trained Christian workers. There are two children's classes and an adult class. One of the goals of the church for the coming year is to obtain and operate a Sunday school bus and to begin more Sunday school classes.

There are three main services of the church per week which includes the Sunday morning service at 11:00 A.M., the Sunday Evening Service at 7:00 P.M., and the Wednesday Mid-week service at 7:30 P.M. All the services are held in the Memorial School and are open to everyone. Anyone desiring further information may call Rev. Saxton at 566-1083 or write the church at P.O. Box 125 Laurence Harbor, N. J. 08879.

Chicago (NFS) - To get maximum life from a new mattress, follow the dealer's or manufacturer's recommendations for turning the mattress over and end for end to assure even wear.

The Spring Air Mattress Company, Chicago, also advises that you use a mattress cover and pad to absorb normal body moisture. Vacuum the mattress and box spring periodically to remove dust and fluff.

Use mild suds (never solution) to remove fresh stains. And never roll or bend a mattress when moving or turning it.

New Machine Tests For Lead Poisoning

An ultra-sensitive, portable instrument for detecting lead poisoning in humans has been developed.

Called Micro-Porph, and developed by Whittaker Corporation's Space Sciences Division, Waltham, Mass., the suitcase-sized device is powered by ordinary house current and can be operated in the field by personnel with minimum training.

The unit requires only a few drops of blood (30-40 microliters) for testing. Much larger samples are necessary in other test procedures.

Garden News

PEONIES

The flowering season for peonies is just about over. But for some gardeners, whose plants failed to bloom, this was a time of disappointment.

Perhaps they were not planted at the correct depth. Peonies should be planted with about two inches of soil over the growing points or eyes.

Even when properly planted, peonies need full sun if they are to bloom. They'll tolerate no more than one or two hours of shade a day. In a few cases the plants in full sun have grown so vigorously that they've become choked and crowded, producing only a few small flowers. If so, division is indicated.

Peonies also respond to fertilization, especially phosphorus and potash applied twice a year. The first application is in early spring before the shoots emerge. The second, will be about mid-July. At this time apply about one-fourth cup of a 5-10-10 fertilizer to each plant.

Of course insects and disease can be factors in peony bloom failure too. But mainly it's planting at the wrong depth, too much shade, crowding, lack of fertilization, and improper watering.

CUCUMBERS AND MELONS

Many home vegetable gardeners worry about planting cucumbers and melons side by side in the garden. They wonder if they'll cross with each other, and cause the melons to have the flavor of cucumbers. The answer is that they absolutely will NOT. Melons and cucumbers simply do not cross-pollinate.

The cause of poorly flavored melons can be found in the care and culture given the plants. For example, if a lot of leaves come off the melon vine, the resulting melons will taste like a cucumber no matter what variety, type, or method of pollination. The leaves manufacture the sugars that make a melon taste like a melon.

INSECTS ON TOMATOES

Colorado potato beetle injury to tomato transplants is beginning to appear throughout New Jersey.

Adult beetles feed on the tender young foliage and lay bright orange eggs beneath the leaves which later develop into the destructive worm stage.

You can easily control these beetles with an application of carbaryl (Sevin) now and again in 10 to 14 days. Carbaryl will also control various flea beetles abundant at this time of the year.

Carbaryl is safe for home gardeners to handle and controls a large number of worms that occur in the vegetable garden. Be sure to read all label precautions before using any pesticide.

BARNACLE BILL OF THE U.S. NAVY

It's only natural that the first people to get "Squared away" were Navy men. The expression "to be squared away" no doubt stem from the days of sailing ships when the seaman like appearance of a ship was often judged by the rigging. Square yards were absolutely essential for a ship shape appearance, to permit the yards to be cock-billed, except in time of mourning was a disgrace.

Barnacle Bill

Have you ever been given the runaround? Of course you have. In the old Navy, however, it was more fun than it is today.

On a battleship of the Great White Fleet, for example, a band played lively marches on the deck when the order for the run-around was given. According to a contemporary account, it was the Navyman's time for moving a little faster than usual.

In double quick time each section ran a double quick ellipse for five minutes, the sailors usually being barefooted at this time of the day. "They dodge in and out of the shadows, laughing and showing the gaiety of their feelings."

BEWARE OF THE PICK-POCKET

Spokesmen of the Allstate Insurance Companies have issued the following advice to the millions of Americans who will soon begin their well-deserved summer vacations.

Pickpockets abide by a golden rule of thumb, "Distraction - the extraction." The successful thief must take his victim's mind off his money and then extract it in such a manner so as not to alert his victim to the theft.

Law enforcement officials point out that most pickpockets frequent crowded surroundings where they can work unnoticed. Typical hangouts are activities such as theatres, operas, athletic events, crowded transportation facilities and conventions. He never dresses conspicuously. A folded newspaper, an overcoat thrown over the arm or a handkerchief in the hand are effective deceptive ways of concealing his actions.

A common technique is to work in groups of two, three or even four. The strategy is basically simple; the thieves literally impede their victim by having the first member, called a "stall," stop suddenly in front of the intended target. This causes the victim to bump into the stall. When the victim either bounces off the stall or moves to get out of his way, he is bumped again, this time by the person who will actually make the life. By bumping into the victim, the pickpocket puts pressure on another part of his body. This pressure, coupled with the distraction caused by the awkward situation, prevents the victim from feeling his wallet being removed.

Persons most likely to be victimized by the pickpocket are those who show them have money by bragging in public places, by flashing it and by women's open pocketbooks revealing its.

Drunk people are also easy prey for the pickpocket. Their ability to react or comprehend what is happening is virtually nil. Old or semi-helpless people are likely victims as well as people asleep on trains or in buses.

Vacationers should be especially careful at dusk. The fading light of these few hours makes identification of the culprit extremely difficult. However, don't think that they curtail their activities during the rest of the day. Pickpockets work best in warm weather. It is easy for them to remove a wallet when outer garments are not worn.

Clergymen are special targets. After using the bumping routine, the pickpocket can then make profuse apologies and remove the wallet at the same time. Clergymen generally never push back or make a scene. Rush hours afford pickpockets excellent opportunity to practice their trade. During these hours, people are usually intent on getting somewhere. This fact, coupled with the usual morning drowsiness or evening's weariness, makes the potential victim easy pickings.

The pickpocket frequents bars or taverns close to a big factory or office building. He appears at these locations on payday.

Allstate suggests vacationers check their homeowners policy carefully before leaving.

CHRISTMAS IN JULY -- White whiskers, no snow, but everyone enjoyed the "cooling" site of Santa Claus when he made his regal entrance on Sunday at the Morgan Beach.

Bedecked in the Santa suit was Gene Kenney of 770 Lorraine Drive, Cliffwood Beach who along with Police Sgt. James Tedesco and Joseph McCarthy arranged the "Christmas in July" regatta with six holiday decorated boats.

More than 1200 children lined the Morgan Beach waterfront and received their "Christmas" gifts from Santa. This is the second year the group held their unusual July 4 observance.

SPORTS

By Tom Burkard

Team A All Star manager, Joe Matarangelo issued the following scouting report on his club as they prepare for the opening of the tournaments.

Curt Jankowski - smooth fielding third baseman, who can handle the bat as well as anyone in the league. Speed demon on the bases.

John Connors - strong armed shortstop; hits to all fields. "Jeep" also can move on the bases.

Pat Eppinger - works well around second base; can hit the long ball. Pat is also one of the mainstays on the mound.

Jack Stratton - small man, but can cover more ground around second than anyone in the league. Another speedster on the basepaths.

Dennis Quinlan - big target to throw to at first base, can hit with power.

Pete Toth - Pete came into his own this year, one of the top ten hitters in the league, has a strong arm, and is a good defensive catcher.

Gene Clark - One of the best catchers around, strong armed, sprays the ball to all fields, and can hit with power.

Greg Kardos - being used as an outfielder this year. Very quick in the field, sprays hits to all fields.

Greg Gasiewski - Greg is the leading hitter in the league this year with an average of around .600. Can hit to all fields. Good defensive outfielder.

Tim Brennan - hits with power; good arm from the outfield.

Pete Sharo - rifle armed outfielder. Hits to all fields; excellent bunter.

Jack Conlon - covers a lot of ground in the outfield; hits the ball to all fields with power.

John Hayden - first year as a pitcher, and improves in every game; His best strike out pitch is his fastball.

George Bongiorno - Words cannot describe this Little League superstar. He is the premier pitcher in the league, probably one of the best in the Middlesex area, has two no-hitters to his credit this year, and is 11-0 on the hill. This lefty has pin point control with his tremendous fastball, and is probably the best power hitter in the Little League. "Bongy" has the credentials to go a long way.

Ron Masarik - Has a good fastball and good control, used mainly in relief, and can hit with power.
