THE "GANG" ROUNDED UP

The Police Get a Number of Boys in the Net—Charges With Robberies and Assault—Supposed to be Implicated in Many Thefts—Held for Grand Jury.

On Friday of last week the local police rounded up the "gang" which they believe have been committing many robberies and other misdeeds in this city recently. Russell Wallis, Leo Cleary, William Wallis, George Mershon, Jr., George Dudgeon and John Josiac, were the boys against whom the charges were made.

They were given a hearing on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the City Hall. George Chittick, traffic manager and auditor of the Raritan River Railroad, complained that they had broken into a sealed merchandise car the week previous and had stolen fifteen pairs of shoes and fourteen bottles of wine. The boys arrested had been caught wearing the stolen shoes.

Michael Kellar, a car inspector of the N. Y. and L. B. R. R. was the next complainant. He had warrants issued for the arrest of Russell Wallis and William Wallis for assault and battery. While engaged at his work recently he was tormented by the boys and when he remonstrated, claiming they were interfering with his work, they battered him up badly, breaking three ribs.

C. M. Himmelberger, superintendent of the Raritan River Railroad, brought the third charge against the boys for breaking into a passenger car of the railroad on March 28, and stealing conductors' punches and articles to the value of $5.00. The boys implicated in this were Russell Wallis and Josiac. John A. Coan appeared as counsel for the railroad company.

The boys displayed much bravado in the court room and the position in which they were placed did not seem to trouble them. Justice Birmingham remanded them to the county jail to await the hearing by the Grand Jury. William Bloodgood was held as a witness. He was brought before the Justice on Monday and paroled to appear before the Grand Jury.

PLUMBERS DILATORY IN REPORTING TO HEALTH BOARD

A meeting of the Board of Health was held in the City Hall on Thursday evening. Messrs. Sexton, Gelsinon, Wilson, Cozzens and Parlsen were present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The reports of Inspector Parlsen and the Registrar of Vital Statistics were received and filed.

Bill of C. B. Dolles Co. for fumigating candles, amounting to $24.25, was ordered paid.

A long discussion took place regarding plumbers doing work without permits or without reporting for inspection. The secretary was instructed to notify the guilty parties that if they continued work without complying with the code they would be prosecuted.

A representative of the Formacone Disinfecting Company was present and gave a demonstration of disinfecting goods. The board decided to purchase a supply for the purpose of fumigating the schools.

The inspector was requested to serve notices on the parties guilty of running waste water into the streets without sewer connection that if notices are not complied with within the time specified, they will be prosecuted.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY.

A large number of members and friends of the Methodist Protestant Church gathered at the home of Mrs. Charles Sprague, Sr., on Wednesday evening and tendered her a grand surprise on her birthday anniversary. It was a success in every way, Mrs. Sprague not knowing of it until the miniature parade arrived at her home. A very pleasant time was spent. Refreshments were served in abundance. A large birthday cake, with her age embellished on it, was a feature of the refreshments. After several hours of enjoyment, the guests departed for their homes, wishing Mrs. Sprague many more happy birthdays.

Runaway on Broadway Causes Some Damage

Considerable excitement was caused on Monday on Broadway when a horse attached to the wagon of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company ran away. The animal became frightened at the corner of Main street and dashed over Broadway at break-neck speed. It ran into the grocery delivery wagon of William Slover, which stood in front of his store, and damaged it badly, breaking the shafts and three wheels. Further on it ran into Lucitt's baker wagon. In front of Korik's saloon the animal was brought to a standstill when the wagon to which it was attached overturned. The horse escaped serious injury.

THE MOST POPULAR HYMNS ACCORDING TO BALLOTS CAST

When Rev. A. T. Brooks, of Tarrytown, N. Y., arrives at the First Baptist Church next Monday evening to deliver his lecture on "Famous Hymns New and Old," he will find that twelve hymns have been selected by the people of this city. During the recital Mr. Brooks will tell the story and sing the hymns selected. The following are the best-loved and most popular hymns according to votes taken in this city:

Nearer My God To Thee.....	53
Lead Kindly Light.....	47
Just As I Am.....	46
Some Day The Silver Cord Will Break.....	43
Rock of Ages.....	42
Face To Face.....	41
Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight.....	36
Sometime We'll Understand.....	35
Safe In The Arms of Jesus.....	34
The Ninety and Nine.....	32
Blest Be The Tie That Binds.....	30
O Happy Day.....	29

Total ballots..... 461
There will not be any charge for admission to Mr. Brooks' lecture, but a free will offering will be taken. A full house should greet him on this occasion.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT.

A young woman about 25 years of age was arrested on Thursday afternoon for acting in a disorderly manner on Broadway.

She was taken to the City Hall to wait a hearing in the evening before Justice Birmingham. She gave her name as May Hogan and claimed that she had been living with Captain Joe Boss, of the barge "Honest Man," for two years and attributed her actions to the fact that she had been badly beaten and cast off. She admitted that she had been disorderly.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Captain Boss and the woman was kept in the City Hall over night. She claimed she came from Massachusetts.

MRS. JAMES CAPNER.

Mrs. Amy Capner, widow of James Capner, and mother of the late Mary L. Dey, departed this life on Monday last, at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. George W. Yeandle, at Nyack, N. Y. She had been ill a long time, and was in the 86th year of her age.

Mrs. Capner was for many years a resident of this city, and had a large circle of friends here. She is survived by two grandchildren, Mrs. Yeandle, of Nyack, and Frank L. Dey of this city.

The body was brought here on Thursday morning, and interred in Christ Church cemetery. Rev. J. E. Shaw, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which the deceased was a member, read the committal service at the grave.

TOURING CAR BURNS UP.

An E. M. F. five passenger touring car, owned by John Jacko, of Perth Amboy, caught fire when on the road at a point just beyond the Y about 2 a. m. Monday morning and was completely destroyed. Jacko with a party of friends was on his way home from New Brunswick where they had spent Sunday.

FUNERAL OF MRS. DALEY.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Daley, aged 83 years, was held from her late residence, Bergen Hill, on Saturday afternoon last, the Rev. J. E. Shaw officiating at the service. Interment was made in Christ Church cemetery.

Two Good Twins—"Yacht Club," and "After Dinner" Coffee. They are always good. Sold by Brown B. Tea Company.

LIBRARY AS A MEMORIAL

The Late Dr. Treganowan Wills His Reference Books to Middlesex County Medical Society in Memory of His Son, Thomas—Rest of Estate to His Wife For Life.

Those who have visited the office of Dr. Ambrose Treganowan during his life time were impressed with the vast library he had, containing many books of great value to the medical fraternity.

According to his will probated by Surrogate Daniel W. Clayton on Tuesday it is learned that he bequeaths all these books to the Middlesex County Medical Society as a reference library in memory of his son Thomas, deceased.

All the rest of his estate is left to his wife, Mary, for use during her lifetime, and upon her death it goes to the surviving daughters, who are Mrs. Margaret Korr, of this city; Mrs. Anna Mack, of Kirkwood, Mo.; and Miss Constant Treganowan, of this city.

The will is dated April 10, 1907, and is witnessed by James Allen and Edmond Williams. Mrs. Treganowan is named as executrix.

DOG DROWNED IN CRUEL MANNER

A valuable bull dog was drowned in a very cruel manner on Thursday night off the city dock. Some persons had thrown him overboard and he was discovered swimming around in the water by some young people. The dog had about thirty feet of rope fastened to him so that he could not go under, but had to battle for life swimming around in a circle. A police officer was notified, but appeared powerless to rescue the animal. Some boys procured a boat and went out, but were too late, for the animal had drowned.

SILVER WEDDING CELEBRATION

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bloodgood, George street, was the scene of a large and happy company on Friday evening, April 18, the occasion being the celebration of their silver wedding anniversary.

The guests began to arrive at 8 o'clock, and offered their congratulations to the host and hostess, and at the same time extending best wishes that they may live to see their golden anniversary.

The home was beautifully decorated in lavender and white. The time passed rapidly in general sociability, and the occasion proved a most happy event. At a late hour refreshments were served and soon thereafter the guests departed for their homes highly delighted with the good time afforded. The esteemed host and hostess were recipients of many handsome and costly pieces of silver.

BOYS' BRIGADE INSTRUCTED BY COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF

On Tuesday evening last, Lieutenant General Henry Hartman, Commander-in-Chief of the United Boys' Brigade of America, gave a very interesting talk on the work of that organization at the Methodist Episcopal Church. There was a good attendance, between 40 and 50 boys being among the number. Revs. J. E. Shaw and George Kane also made some appropriate remarks. A program of exercises was nicely rendered. Miss Elizabeth Dayton presided at the organ and recitations were rendered by Mrs. Albert M. Cole and Miss Clarvina Larew.

MRS. MARY CARBERRY.

Mrs. Mary Carberry, wife of James Carberry, passed away at her home on David street, on Monday last, aged 53 years. She had been ill a long time.

The funeral was held from St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning, and was largely attended. The Rev. Father Lane celebrated the high mass of requiem for the repose of the soul, after which interment was made in the parish cemetery. J. J. Gully was funeral director.

Kangaroo Escapes From Moving Picture Co.

The American Vitagraph Stock Co. was in this city on Sunday. They went out on the Raritan River Railroad for the purpose of taking pictures of a circus train wreck. A number of animals were sent out by the company and hundreds of people went out to see the pictures taken. A kangaroo broke away from its keeper and dashed into the woods near South River. He was found on Monday by some Perth Amboy boys who were rewarded by the company. Another kangaroo which was sent out had his leg broken in transit. The injured animal was sent back.

MR. AND MRS. HOCHDORF

AGAIN SUDDENLY BEREAVED

Pearl, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Hoedorf, died suddenly Sunday night. The child was taken ill in the afternoon, and died only a few hours later.

Interment was made in Perth Amboy the following afternoon.

The parents only recently had another daughter, Claire, taken from them on account of injuries received from burns and their many friends sympathize with them in their double bereavement.

THE EGGS TOOK FRENCH LEAVE.

Richard Dowling is mourning the loss of six dozen eggs. Last week a crate of eggs was sent to parties in this city but were not received. They were placed in "Dick's" hands for disposal. Our popular newsdealer sold them rapidly and when he went to his barn he had only six dozen left, which he put in his feed box. When he returned he found that the box had been broken into and all the eggs had disappeared.

NON-SUIT IN COYNE CASE

Judge Lloyd Decides That a Railroad Company Need Not Show Same Protection to Strangers at Station as it Does to Passengers Who Have Purchased Tickets.

The suit of John E. Coyne, administrator, against the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., for damages for the killing of his son, Daniel Coyne, at the N. Y. & L. B. R. R. station in this city in January, 1912, was brought up in court at New Brunswick before Judge Lloyd and a jury on Tuesday morning.

It will be recalled that Young Coyne had gone to the station to take lunch to his father, who was engineer on a C. R. R. train, and in crossing the south bound track he was struck by a Pennsylvania engine and killed.

Senator George S. Silzer and John A. Coan appeared for Mr. Coyne and Alan H. Strong for the railroad company. The following jury was selected: John Delner, George VanDeventer, John H. VanNorden, David Clausen, Theodore Highland, Charles Freehan, Harry Haywood, James A. Danford, Henry Wraga and John Morris. James P. Ren and Michael J. Cleary railroad station men, were the first witnesses for the plaintiff.

The plaintiff's case continued Tuesday afternoon and into Wednesday, at the conclusion of which the counsel for the defence asked for a non-suit. Judge Lloyd said that he would reserve decision until the completion of the case. Alan H. Strong, counsel for the railroad, then announced that he would close at once.

Judge Lloyd thereupon granted a non-suit, and in announcing his decision said that the rule respecting trains at stations, both under the decisions and reason, must have been established for the benefit of passengers, not strangers. He said that there was a marked distinction between the care the railroad was required to take of a passenger and of others. As to passengers, it must not only take reasonable care, but must protect them. The courts have held he said, that the protection does not extend to a stranger. For this reason the non-suit was granted on the ground of contributory negligence.

It is probable that an appeal will be taken from the decision.

ACCIDENTS AND SUICIDE

Mrs. Bridget Lynn Killed by Train On Railroad Bridge—Harry Dennin Falls From Car and Is Fatally Injured—William L. Jones Kills Himself.

Bridget Lynn Killed By Train.

Mrs. Bridget Lynn, aged about 70 years, wandered away from her home Monday night, and was killed by a train while walking on the bridge of the New York and Long Branch Railroad across the Raritan River.

About midnight a crew of a freight train noticed parts of arms and legs lying on the track, and on making an investigation found they were of a woman. The rest of the body had disappeared. Coroner Flynn, of Perth Amboy, was notified and after making examination, gave permission for the removal of the remains. On Tuesday morning the rest of the body was found floating at the coal piers by a boat captain and made fast. A son of the unfortunate woman identified the mutilated limbs as belonging to his mother, by the clothing and rings worn. What train struck the woman is not known. A strange feature of the accident was that while both arms were cut off below the elbows and both legs below the knees, the rest of the body received nothing more than slight marks.

Mrs. Lynn resided with her daughter, Mrs. James Murtha, of Augusta street. The reason for her wandering away at that hour of the night will never be known.

The funeral took place on Thursday morning from St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock, the Rev. Father Lane officiating at the service and celebrating the mass of requiem. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery, John J. Scully being funeral director.

Harry Dennin Falls Under Car.

Another fatal accident occurred at the plant of the Eastern Coal Dock Company on Thursday morning, a minute or two before five o'clock, which would have been quitting time for the unfortunate person.

Harry Dennin, a brakeman, was letting a car down the grade to the dumper, when his brake stick slipped and he fell in front of the car to the track below. Witnesses of the accident threw a wedge under the car wheels, and stopped them from passing over his body, but he had been caught by some of the iron work and was practically torn asunder. He was taken from under the car as quickly as possible, and Dr. Eulner summoned who on his arrival temporarily attended to his wounds and pronounced that the injuries would probably be fatal. Rev. Father Lane was also summoned, and he quickly arrived, and administered the last rites. Dennin was then taken to the Perth Amboy Hospital, where he died about 9 o'clock.

Stillwell & Mason, on request of Mrs. Dennin, went to Perth Amboy and brought the body to their morgue. Besides a wife, Dennin leaves three children. He was about 40 years old, and had only worked for this company since February.

The funeral will be held from St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock this Saturday morning, to which friends and relatives are invited. Interment will be made in the parish cemetery.

Suicide Of W. L. Jones.

About nine o'clock on Wednesday morning, William L. Jones, a conductor in the Pennsylvania Railroad yard, ended his life by shooting himself through the temple with a revolver. He did not appear for work on that day, and seemed to be greatly depressed. Probably to end some worry, he walked into his back yard and there fired the fatal bullet.

Jones was considered one of the best conductors in the yard, and when on duty attended to his work faithfully. He was about 40 years of age, and leaves a widow and five children.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock this Saturday afternoon, under the direction of Stillwell & Mason.

Erickson is Caught After Year's Absence

Henry Erickson was arrested on Saturday on complaint of Otto Hillmann for assault and battery and robbery. On January 28, 1912, Hillmann was held up and robbed of seventeen dollars, and badly beaten. He recognized his assailants, however, and they disappeared shortly after. On Saturday Erickson was seen for the first time here by Hillmann after a year's absence and the police were notified. He was brought before Justice Birmingham and is being held to appear before the Grand Jury. His accomplice has not yet been found.

WILL SPEND THE SUMMER AT THE COUNTY HOTEL

John Bannon and Robert Nuss are now enjoying a four-month's sojourn in the county jail at New Brunswick. The two men were given the vacation by Justice Birmingham when they appeared before him on Saturday on charge of vagrancy and drunkenness. He sentenced them to 120 days. They were escorted to "Hotel Bollschweiler" by Constable McCabe the following morning.

BODY OF CAPTAIN NELSON FOUND AT SEIDLER'S BEACH

The body of Captain Thomas Nelson, who fell overboard from his barge on April 1, was found on the shore at Seidler's Beach on Thursday afternoon. Coroner Flynn was notified, and after an investigation, took the body to his morgue. On Friday the remains were placed in charge of Undertaker J. Lee Thompson for burial. The deceased leaves a widow in Denmark.

Y. M. C. A. PENCILLINGS.

The stoop and shed at the rear of the main building of the Y. M. C. A. have been removed and in their place an office will be built for the use of the secretary.

The baseball bulb is expected to burst tomorrow, April 26, on the Stevensdale grounds. The pick of the membership will be in the lineup. Two teams have been selected nearly equal as possible and this will make it interesting, as there are a number who are expected to qualify for the important positions.

The tennis courts are being laid out and are nearly ready for measuring and rolling and the season will soon be open.

By the way, Frank, the next time you have a heavy suitcase to carry on that bike, what's the matter with putting it on the bars instead of trying to balance it on your foot?

Edwin H. Burr Spoke.

The meeting of last Sunday afternoon was not as large in attendance as previous meetings. The speaker, Mr. Edwin H. Burr, a New York business man, was equal to the recommendations given, his address being exceptionally interesting, practical and helpful all through.

The solo rendered by Miss Evelyn Cassidy was fully equal to the last. She used a selection from among the many composed by her grandfather, Benjamin Green, which have become favorites in this city.

Vreeland Will Be Here Sunday.

Mr. Fred B. Vreeland and Mr. William Russell will conduct the meeting next Sunday. Mr. Vreeland will handle the musical program and is expected to be, as always, appropriate and inspiring. The musical programs conducted by Mr. Vreeland are always considered first class and worthy of large attendance. Mr. Russell was President of the Essex County Christian Endeavor Union and is at the present time superintendent of their evangelistic department.

RED MEN TAKE NOTICE.

Members of Seneca Tribe No. 23, Impd. O. R. M., are requested to attend the funeral of Brother William L. Jones to be held from his late residence, Mechanicsville, at 2 o'clock this Saturday afternoon. A full attendance is desired.

HILL-HARKINS.

Clarence H. Hill, of Highland Park, and Miss Harriett A. Harkins, of Milltown, were united in marriage on Friday evening, April 18, at the Methodist Episcopal parsonage on John street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. E. Shaw, pastor of the church. After the ceremony, the happy couple left this city on the 10.15 P. R. R. train en route on a wedding tour.

M. P. CHURCH NOTES

Mr. Ezra Clayton led the weekly classes and prayer meeting.

Owing to the continued indisposition of the pastor the several brethren took charge of the various services on Sunday.

The offering next Sunday evening will be for the Conference Benevolent Collections. Let it be a large one. "Truly ye have received; freely give." Matt. 10:8.

Through the kindness of Mr. Clarence Stultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Stultz, an extra large box of fine samples of extra quality goods has been donated to the Ladies' Aid Society to assist them in their making of quilts. It was very generous of the donor and the society appreciates the grand gift and extends hearty thanks. It would be well for those thinking of having quilts made to see this fine large box of goods.

The pastor was very sorry to disappoint those in attendance at the church last Sunday causing again the postponement of the advertised services, but sincerely hopes to be present next Sunday, when baptism, reception of members and the celebration of the Holy Communion are expected to take place. Let us prepare ourselves for this solemn occasion. Jesus said, "This do in Remembrance of Me."—St. Luke 24:19.

It seems strange that the heads of the various departments of the church should all be indisposed at the same time. Our class leader, J. E. Fulton, Sunday School Superintendent, H. Bloodgood; Superintendent of Junior C. E. and Primary Department, Mrs. Peterson, and the pastor, yet with it all we believe Romans 8:28—It is to be hoped in God's own good time all will be restored to health and duty better prepared for the Master's work.

The social given by the members of Mrs. Sallie Petty's Sunday School class at the home of the teacher last Tuesday evening, proved a magnificent success, an extra large number of members and friends of the class and church being present. The evening was spent in a social way including games. The occupants of the home did all they could to make it a pleasant evening. Refreshments were served and a neat sum realized by the class.

Sunday morning service was conducted by Henry Raynor who gave an interesting exhortation followed by many others. It is very gratifying to have home talent to carry on services which is highly appreciated by all.

Owing to the absence of the Junior superintendent, who was H. Miss Ethel Dill, assistant superintendent, had charge of the meeting and a very fine explanation of the lesson was given by her. The topic was, "Paul's Hardships and Ours." We are delighted with these young talented leaders who God is raising up. Between thirty and forty were present.

In the absence of the superintendent of the Sunday School, H. Bloodgood, who is also indisposed, Peter A. Stultz, assistant superintendent, had charge of the school, and while a number are away on account of sickness, still a good attendance and the usual offering was taken.

Mrs. Edward English had charge of the Primary Department in the absence of Mrs. Peterson.

The Sunday School is keeping up its usual interest. Mrs. Harry Petty's class decided to hold one of those class socials at her home Tuesday evening.

Class, Hope of the Church, will hold their oyster social April 30, in the basement of the church. Oysters in every style and at whatever amount you wish to purchase. There will also be ice cream for sale. This is the last day of the last month and about the last hour of oyster season. Come and help.

The Sunday evening Senior C. E. meeting was embodied with the regular service. Leader, Mrs. A. Hause. From reports it was one of the best services of the day, so the church is blessed with both male and female leaders in the cause of Christ. Paul said, "Help those women that labored with me in the Gospel."—Philipp 4:3. Thus the day closed with a profitable waiting upon the Lord.

Items of Interest From all Parts of the State as Gleaned From Our Exchanges Briefly Paragraphed.

Rev. Denis J. McCarrie.

Unconscious to the end, Rev. Denis Joseph McCarrie, for twenty-one years pastor of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, Newark, died in the rectory in that city at 6.21 o'clock Tuesday morning. Priests, sisters, relatives and friends formed the small group at his bedside during his last hours and at the end. Father McCarrie entered a state of coma two days previous. Insensible since that time, he constantly weakened until he ceased breathing. The principal cause of death is stated as infirmities of age, and an ailment which weakened his heart. He was seventy-three years old. Father McCarrie left Ireland May 27, 1875, and on his arrival in this country he was received into the diocese of Newark. Bishop Corrigan appointed him to a curacy in St. Mary's Church, Jersey City. He served as a curate in turn at St. Peter's Church, New Brunswick; the Church of the Assumption, Morristown, and then became chaplain of St. Elizabeth's Convent. Under Bishop Wigger, Father McCarrie was chancellor of the Newark Diocese for ten years. Besides performing the duties of the chancery, he served at Seton Hall Seminary as professor, for eight years, of sacred Scriptures, canon law and ecclesiastical history, and for six years, as professor of philosophy and English literature. Father McCarrie succeeded the late Rev. Patrick Leonard in the irremovable rectorship of St. Michael's Church in 1892. One year later he erected the new parochial school and converted the old school building into an apartment-house. The interior of St. Michael's Church was extensively changed, renovated and decorated by Father McCarrie in 1902. During his pastorate the congregation has increased, and the parochial property enhanced.

Bridge Tenders Want Raise.

A petition was received from tenders of the Perth Amboy, Woodbridge and Cheesequake Creek bridges by the Board of Freeholders Monday afternoon asking for an increase of salary. They are now getting $50 a month and stated that the high cost of living made this salary insufficient to provide a good living. They pay $3 a month in fares to get to and from work. The matter was referred to Freeholders Anthony J. Gebhardt, Alfred T. Kerr and William D. Casey. The board also favored the appointment by State road commissioner of the county engineer, Alvin Fox, of Perth Amboy, as a resident State engineer. Road Commissioner Stevens advised the board he would make the appointment if they approved. The contract for the erection of a concrete bridge at South Bound Brook to replace the one which collapsed some time ago, when an auto fatality occurred there, has been awarded to the Ferro Concrete Company of Harrisburg, Pa., whose bid was $6,895.

Francis C. Taylor.

Francis C. Taylor, an expert in mathematics and employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad in its Camden office for many years, died Monday at his home in Mt. Holly from blood poisoning. He was sixty-seven years of age. He was treasurer of the Mt. Holly Fire Department.

Given a Medal for Heroism.

Edward Reutler, of Rahway, has received a medal from the United States Government, through President Wilson and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, for his bravery on August 24, 1912, in rescuing Martin Golons, of Linden, from drowning in the Rahway River. Reutler dived into the water and pulled Golons to the surface as he was sinking, and after a hard struggle reached the bank with the half drowned boy. Friends of Reutler laid the case before the government with the result that the medal was awarded to him.

Close Call for Student in Auto.

Theodore G. Sullivan, Jr., of Stelton, a sophomore at Rutgers College, had a narrow escape Saturday night when a Pennsylvania train crashed into his auto at a crossing. He was hurled from the machine but was only slightly hurt. The machine was wrecked.

Barge Captain Drowned.

Captain Thomas Yves, of the coal barge A. H. Freres, fell overboard Saturday afternoon at the Lehigh Valley boat stakes, Perth Amboy, and was drowned. Yves lived at Union Hill. He was a Spanish-American War veteran, and had two bullets in his body. Mrs. Yves was on the barge with him. She heard his cry for aid and saw him disappear. Freres was a member of Union Hill Lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose.

Match Tossed By Tramp Fatal To Little Girl.

Dorothy, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dennis, was left on their little farm at Secaucus, to tend the cows while the family went to church in Passaic Sunday. She was sitting in the long dead grass beside the road when a tramp stopped to light his pipe. He tossed the lighted match toward the child and it set fire to the grass. In a moment her clothing was aflame. The tramp fled. A teamster found the burning child, put out the fire and took her to the North Hudson Hospital, where she died a few hours later.

Invokes New Law to Retain Her Son.

Declaring that the recently enacted McDermott law gives the custody of all children born out of wedlock to their mother, Mrs. Owen Clayton, of Trenton, is defying Edward Yates, a farmer, of Furlough, Bucks County, Pa., to take her son Douglas from her. Mrs. Clayton claims that as Yates had a wife living when she entered into a marriage contract with him, she was never legally his wife. She left him five years ago and has since married Clayton. Mrs. Clayton took the child away from the Furlough school last Friday, and the father is now consulting lawyers in an endeavor to regain possession of the child.

Man Arrested on Way to His Wedding.

A sudden swoop of the arm of the law Sunday afternoon upset the wedding plans of John Piontkoush, who was to have been married to a young woman of Elizabeth at the Polish Catholic Church. The bridegroom-to-be was arrested at Third and Jersey streets, that city, by Patrolmen O'Brien and Lavlin as he was on his way to the home of his prospective bride. Leaving the young woman weeping in her wedding finery, Piontkoush left for Hackensack with Constable Garry Dawson, to answer a charge preferred by Lena Yennekieski, of that city. When searched at the Bergen County jail, to which he was committed, Piontkoush was found to possess a wedding ring and thirty-five cents. The man is twenty-three years old and lives at 717 Grier avenue, Elizabeth.

Widow Ends Life By Gas.

Mrs. Mary L. Meeker, a widow, fifty-two years old, a boarding-house-keeper, committed suicide Sunday night in the bedroom of her home in Park street, Ridgewood. In her mouth was a tube through which illuminating gas flowed. County Physician Armstrong pronounced her death a suicide. Despondency over the loss of her boarders is attributed as the cause. The body was taken to a morgue at Hackensack where the funeral services were held in charge of the Ridgewood Park Council, Daughters of Liberty, of which Mrs. Meeker was a member. According to a neighbor, Mrs. Meeker had said that unless she soon obtained some boarders she would do away with herself. So Sunday evening when the neighbor did not see Mrs. Meeker about as usual, she notified the police. Mrs. Meeker went to Ridgewood about eight years ago. Except for a distant relative in California, she leaves no immediate family.

Motorcyclist Hit by Trolley.

Harry B. Williams, of 2264 South Broad street, Trenton, narrowly escaped possible serious injury Sunday afternoon, when, while crossing Broad street, at Liberty street, on his motorcycle, he was struck by a trolley car of the Trenton and New Brunswick Traction Company. The machine was smashed.

Farmer Maimed By Dynamite.

George Paul, residing on a farm near Bordentown, while using dynamite to blow up stumps, sustained injuries on Monday that cost him the fingers of his left hand and one finger of his right hand. He was temporarily cared for by Dr. C. R. Wallace and sent to St. Francis's Hospital at Trenton for further treatment.

May Bar Smoking on Trolley Cars.

A ban upon smoking in trolley cars, except those in which a portion is especially designated for that purpose, will be considered by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners at a hearing to be given in Newark Friday, May 9. The hearing is the outgrowth of a report submitted by one of the board's inspectors who investigated an accident April 7 on a car on the Bergen line. The accident under consideration was a fire which occurred on the back platform of a Bergen line car on the middle of the trestle spanning the West Shore tracks. There was a panic at the time of the accident, which resulted in injuries to several passengers. After the fire there was found on the car an empty can that had evidently contained some inflammable substance, presumably furniture polish, as there were also found several brushes, camels skin and felt rubber, such as are used by furniture polishers. The inspector assumed that the can was placed on the back platform, that it leaked slightly, and that fire from a lighted pipe, cigar or cigarette ignited the oil or vapor. The rear platform of the car was the only part damaged.

Kendall to Address Graduates.

A RESOURCEFUL REPTILE.

The Peaky Joint Snake Cleverly Fooled Uncle Henry.

At the village grocery the evening gossip had turned upon snakes. There had been the usual tales of dens of reptiles unearthed by excavators, of hoop snakes taking their tails in their mouths and rolling rapidly down hill, and the like. Through it all "Uncle Henry" Carpenter sat silent, with a look of tolerant superiority upon his face.

"Have you ever had any experiences with snakes, Uncle Henry?" asked one of the listeners.

"Waal, I did have a queer thing happen to me about thirty year ago," Uncle Henry responded. "The minister happened in to dinner one day, and Sary Ann had me go to the chicken yard and kill our last rooster. While he was floppin' round, as chickens do with their heads off, he started up one of these peaky joint snakes. In no time I had him broke in two at every joint. I'd heard tell, though, how they go together again, if ye leave the pieces layin' round, so I jest took the piece with Mr. Snake's head on it and burned it in the stove."

"Waal, we was enjoyin' our dinner unusual, and the minister was callin' for another helpin' o' chicken, when a rooster began to crow out in the chicken yard."

"Land's sakes, Henry," says Sary Ann, "what rooster's that? I'm sure the only one we've got is right here on the table—and he's in no condition to crow."

"The minister and me, we hurried right out into the chicken yard, and sure enough we heerd another crow, sort o' husky like, before we got there."

"Waal, it was simple enough when ye stop to think. The fints of that snake had all jined together again, and when they couldn't find their own head they jest took the rooster's, which I'd left layin' handy."

"There was a moment's silence. When the conversation was resumed it no longer dealt with snakes. — Youth's Companion."

One of the Antiques.

"There," said the man who had purchased a pedigree that reached back to the "coming over" of William the Conqueror, "is a gold snuffbox that was used by one of my great-great-grandfathers."

"Very interesting," replied the gentleman who was examining the thing. "Very interesting, indeed. I had no idea that the 'made in Germany' mark had been in use as long as that."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Sad Mistake.

The wife cooked a dish of prunes, which appeared to find no favor with members of the family. The prunes "went begging" for a day or two until the husband, tired of seeing them, decided to get rid of them.

The next evening he found a big dish of prunes at his place.

"You liked those other prunes so well," said his wife, "that I thought I would cook some more."—Indianapolis News.

He Took After Mother.

The star pupil arose at the school entertainment to declaim his piece.

"Lend me your ears," he bawled.

"Huh," sneered the mother of the opposing but defeated pupil, "that's Sarah Jane Doran's boy. He wouldn't be his mother's son if he didn't want to borrow something."—Exchange.

Kenyon Camping Portable Houses

Undoubtedly the most attractive, durable and most readily set up portable houses made are the Kenyon Take-Down Houses for which we are sole agents in this vicinity.

Last year more than a thousand families and camp groups increased the joys of summer many hundred per cent, by having one of these easily put up and as easily taken down houses to put in the woods where they liked, alongside of a stream or at the edge of a mountain lake—wherever they choose, and enjoyed life in the right way to their hearts' content.

Compared to the ordinary outdoor camping in cabin or tent these little houses are palaces; yet they have all the simplicity that should go with outdoor life, and they are not forbiddingly expensive. They are just Little Brown Bungalows, that have doors and windows and rooms in them, that can be shipped or carted anywhere readily.

We advise you to place your order as early as you can for one of these houses, as in a little while the factory resources will be pressed to the limit.

PRICES BEGIN AT $90

You can buy these houses on our EASY PAYMENT CLUB PLAN—quite an advantage you will admit.

Tullia's Plan

A Story of Ancient Gaul

By F. A. MITCHEL

During the decline of the Roman empire there was a governor of the province of Gaul, Marcus Carolinus, who was not only the representative of the government, but of that degraded condition to which both it and the Roman people had sunk. Assassination was in vogue at the capital and had fallen so low that it was more usually accomplished by means of poison than by the dagger.

Carolinus was endowed with despotic power, which he used, like every Roman in office in those days, to make himself rich. He was also a voluptuary and was given to feasting, sending to foreign countries for viands that were not produced in Gaul, even across the channel to Britain. Gaul pleased him especially for a place of abode since the soil was capable of producing grapes from which wines could be made to rival the rare Falernian of Italy.

One evening when he was feasting with a large number of guests he called a slave and bid him take his cup of wine to a man reclining at another table and pledge him by proxy. When the slave reached the guest he told him that the governor honored him by an exchange of cups. The person thus honored drank from the governor's cup, while the slave drank from the guest's cup.

It was not long after receiving this attention from the governor that the guest, white as death, arose from his seat and staggered from the banquet hall. Beyond the portal he fell dead. The wine sent him by the governor was poisoned.

So delighted was the monster with this plan of murder that he seldom gave a feast that he did not honor a guest with a pledging by proxy. When the slave who stood behind the governor's chair took up his master's cup and started for some guest a hush fell on the feasters, and all were mute till it was known who must die. It would have availed nothing for a man to refuse to exchange cups with the governor, for it would have been considered a sufficient excuse to order him dispatched at once. Indeed, those who were thus called upon to die in the presence of others preferred to meet death manfully.

In the governor's household was a Roman maiden named Tullia, who was a great favorite with him. His affection for her was about the only laudable feature in him. But Tullia did not dare to attempt to influence him in the matter of his assassinations, for the bare mention of them, much as he loved her, would have caused her own death. Tullia had a lover named Balbus, who had charge of the collection of the tribute money, and it was this young man who discouraged her from any attempt to interfere with their master to prevent his assassinations.

She had in mind a means of stopping them by assassinating the monster herself. Fifteen hundred years later, in this same Gaul, its name changed to France, a maiden, Charlotte Corday, was destined to stop the flow of blood during the French revolution by a similar act. Tullia made up her mind to sacrifice herself to save others and could her determination to Balbus. Naturally he sought to prevent her. Indeed, he told her that if she would not give up her resolution he would go at once to Carolinus, stab him and thus sacrifice his own life in place of hers. On her promise to abandon her intention he agreed that he would join with her in forming a plan to stop the assassinations in some other way.

One day soon after this interview Balbus met a man whose likeness to the governor was remarkable. They were the same height, both very corplent, bald, florid and with the same large nose. Balbus asked the man who he was, and he said his name was Vero, a Roman-Briton. He was very poor and asked Balbus if he would not give him some money. Balbus gave him a piece of gold and told him that if he would come and see him he would give him more.

An idea had got into Balbus' head of making the man useful, but it was vague. It was to secretly assassinate Carolinus and substitute this man who resembled him in his place. But the details of the plan had not taken shape. He had a conference with Tullia, told her what he had conceived, and she promised to try to find some way of putting his conception into execution.

A few days later she had worked out the problem. Whether her method would succeed or not was another matter. It certainly involved a great risk. She told Balbus that she had decided to take the man Vero with her to the next banquet given by the governor. What she proposed to do then would depend upon what Carolinus would do. She had made preparations for several issues. At the banquet Balbus was to recline at the same table as she and Vero. She intended upon Balbus to "make up" the guest by such changes in his person as did not correspond with those of the governor.

Balbus took Vero into the plan, so far as it could be laid out, telling him that there was a possibility of his becoming the governor. True, he was quite likely to lose his life instead, but it was worth very little to him in poverty and if he should become Carolinus he would be immensely rich. It did not take Vero long to decide between these two courses, and his decision was to stake his life against wealth.

When the night of the next banquet came round, while Carolinus was reclining at his table, he suddenly sat up, stared at a man who was the complete duplicate of himself in dress as well as person, and turned pale. At the table at which this other Carolinus sat were Tullia and Balbus. Both saw the host looking at Vero, but pretended not to notice that he was doing so.

Carolinus, who had all the superstition of that age, trembled. At first Tullia and her lover feared that he would have the interloper ejected, and this would have spoiled their plan. Carolinus, struck with terror, did not know what to do. Was this man himself, Carolinus, in the spirit? And did he come to warn him of his own death? Then it occurred to him that he could soon find out whether or not the stranger was mortal. Taking up a cup which he had prepared for another victim, he told the slave behind him to take it to the guest who resembled himself, exchange cups with him and pledge him in the governor's name.

This is what Tullia and Balbus had expected or at least hoped he would do. When Vero extended his hand to take the cup Tullia seized it and held it aloft, saying:

"I claim this honor!" She was about to drink it when Balbus tried to take it from her. In the struggle between them it was impossible to tell who drank the poisoned wine. Carolinus trembled, fearing Tullia had drunk it and that his failure to thrust it upon his double indicated that the fates had decreed his death.

In a few minutes Tullia, rising from her couch, started staggering from the room. Balbus went after her and supported her. The stranger sat with his eyes fixed on Carolinus, who, to get away from the unearthly stare, left the banquet hall.

A messenger came to the governor from Tullia to say she was dying and wished him to come to her that she might explain to him the mystery of his double self. He went at once to her apartment. Balbus closed the door upon him and stabbed him to death. Vero was there too. Balbus took Carolinus' body from the room through a secret passage—the place of the killing had been selected with that view—and placed it where it would not be found.

Vero, personating the governor, went to the latter's chamber, where he shut himself up, and the people inferred that his having seen his double had produced a distressing impression upon him.

Meanwhile Tullia and Balbus gave out that when they had entered the banquet room the stranger had joined them, much to their astonishment, and had taken a place at their table. Undoubtedly his coming portended something remarkable to Carolinus. They advised consulting the oracles. The oracles were consulted and said that the stranger had been sent by the gods to the governor to punish him for his crimes; that he was now undergoing that punishment in private, and when he emerged he would be purified, and after sacrificing to Jupiter would make one of the best and wisest officials in the service of the government.

At the end of a month Carolinus, or Vero, came out of his retirement and showed himself to the people. He was much changed. His countenance, which had worn a malignant expression, was now benignant. His voice had become more kindly in tone. The words he spoke were those of one who had been purified.

Carolinus never came back from the dead, and Vero continued to personate him so long as he lived. Vero proved to be a very worthy man, remitting tribute so far as possible and living an exemplary life. When he returned to Rome Carolinus had been absent many years, and no one suspected that his substitute was not himself.

Balbus and Tullia were married as soon as it was evident that their plan had been a success, and when Vero went to Rome he left with them a large part of his wealth.

HOMEOPATHS TO CONVEYE.

Montclair will be the mecca for the annual pilgrimage of the members of the New Jersey State Homeopathic Medical society this year, and the week end of May 8 will bring together some of the brightest medical men of the State at the quiet, elegant and far-famed hostelry, the Hotel Montclair. The importance and seriousness of the problems to be considered and discussed at this convention will no doubt interest every doctor allied to this creed of the medical profession, and an unusually large attendance is anticipated for this interesting yearly event.

Every interested physician owes it to himself and to his patients to attend this convention for the time of physicians at home is so limited and interrupted as to prevent due meditation of the features which this opportunity will so comprehensively present. This convention bids fair to be more interesting and instructive than ever before.

The officers of the society for this year are: President, Frank P. Elkins, Paterson; first vice-president, Alfred W. Westney, Atlantic City; second vice-president, Charles H. Church, Newark; third vice-president, C. W. Perkins, Princeton; recording secretary, A. N. Atkinson, Trenton; corresponding secretary, Charles F. Hadley, Camden; treasurer, Llewellyn E. Hetrick, Newark.

Slamming Clothes.

In Siam both men and women wear the "panung," which is described as a piece of silk or cotton cloth wound round the hips, the stick being rolled up, passed between the legs and hitched up behind in such a way as to give the appearance of a pair of loose knickerbockers. For waist coverings the women wear jackets or blouses and the men wear coats.

First Night Critics.

In an article in the American Magazine, Walter Prichard Eaton writes: "The theater door man is an important person on first nights, because as he passes out return checks between acts he hears the comments of the audience. His ears are wide open on such occasions, and, mingling with the crowd in the lobby, are other attaches of the theater, all seeking to overhear the comments, and all rushing to report to the manager. Not long ago the last act of a play in New York was entirely changed after the opening night solely because the women in the audience, as they left the house, were nearly all complaining of the tragic finish. When a piece hangs in the balance between success and failure, when 'linking' can perhaps turn the scale, these frank comments overheard in the lobby are of great importance to author and manager. In other cases they are a barometer of success or failure, though the ultimate test, of course, is the subtle attitude of the audience in the auditorium, its spontaneous enthusiasm or its coldness and signs of boredom."

A Household Maneuver.

"And what," asked the caller after he had been shown all over Mr. Bobbs' new house, "is that pretty little article hanging over the piano?" "Don't you know?" answered Mr. Bobbs enthusiastically. "Why, that is a handy match receiver, made by Mrs. Bobbs. I scratch a match and use it. It must not be thrown on the floor. There is the receiver. Holding the burned match carefully in my fingers, I move the piano away from the wall to the center of the room. Then I go down in the basement and get the step-ladder. I place the step-ladder against the wall, mount it, deposit the match in the receiver, climb down again. I then return the step-ladder to the basement, come back and move the piano into its former position. There's nothing like having these things about the house. It makes neatness and discourages smoking."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A PAMPERED POET.

Wordsworth Was Waited on Hand and Foot by His Family.

The somewhat doubtful pleasure of a visit to Wordsworth in his home at Rydal Mount, as described by Mrs. Keble, is thus given by Mrs. L. D. Wal-ford in "Memories of Victorian London."

"It was not a pleasure—the Wordsworths were such queer people and so wrapped up in themselves. Even though you were their guests you were expected in everything to play second fiddle to the man of the house. Regard him everything revolved. You might have a poor breakfast, cold dishes, bad coffee—things were mostly bad at Rydal that were only for the inferior general company—but the master's comfort was sedulously attended to—so different from my other poet friend, Mr. Southey, with whom I also stayed at the lakes. Southey was everybody's body, attending to every one, looking after every one himself, while in the Wordsworth household it was the custom for the head of the house to breakfast in bed, wife on one side, daughter on the other, both wholly absorbed in ministering to his wants, while every other person might go hang!"

"And it was the same all through the day. You might as a stranger long to see all you could of those beautiful lakes and mountains, and almost any hosts would have taken care that you should, but not so the Wordsworths. If it were a dull day and rain impending there was a chance of his getting wet, and all the pros and cons were debated in your presence, but without any reference to your possible witness. If there were a cold wind they shook their heads with decision; he was never allowed to walk or drive in a cold wind.

BAGGAGE SMASHING.

An English View of American Methods and Our Big Trunks.

A fact to be sternly borne in mind, especially by those who voyage round the world, is that luggage which will serve for every other place on earth is too often useless on American rail-ways. The wanton breakage of luggage goes on on every American rail-way. A trunk may travel round the world, on all the European railways, and in the hold of every kind of boat; it may be heaved in and out of sampans, dumped about by bullock carts and knocked around by coolies and carriers, and arrive at, let us say, San Francisco, as sound and serviceable as when it left the London terminus, and before it has journeyed half across the American continent be smashed and useless. Many thousands of pounds' worth of European travelers' luggage is thus gratuitously destroyed every year.

The American press, and in some degree the public, treat the "baggage smasher" as a joke, instead of being, as he is, an almost criminal survival of the barbarous days of America, one of the last points on which the United States fails of being a civilized country. To this abuse are due the monstrous, iron bound trunks which mark the average American traveler, a nightmare to the porters of less reckless countries, and for the transportation of which the owners on continental railways not seldom pay more than they do for their own first class tickets. Just as the struggle goes on between projectile and armor plate, so does the conflict between the American traveler to build luggage which will beat the baggage smasher, and of the baggage smasher by more and more strenuous smashing to beat the traveler and trunk builder.—London Times.

Caribou Horns.

The caribou, or water buffalo, of the Philippines often attain to great length of horn, one specimen, it is believed, standing quite without a rival in that respect. Measured along the curve of the horns, it is over twelve feet from one tip to the other. The spread of this animal's horns is greater than the width of several of the narrow lanes of the town—Hollo—where his owner lives, and in consequence a brown line of scarred bark on the thickest bamboo hedges often marks the roads which this splendid old giant has traversed.—Wide World Magazine.

Voltaire's Poser.

Voltaire's test to ascertain the sense of responsibility of an individual was to ask him to suppose that he had in front of him a button. The effect of pushing the button would be to obtain one's dearest wish—love, fame, wealth, power, or what not—and at the same time to cause the death of an unknown Chinaman? What would he do?

A Delicate Mission.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

April 22, 1913.

MR. EDITOR:

Reading your article of charges against Principal Fitch in your South Amboy Citizen, prompted me to send you the following, trusting it would clear the atmosphere, and aid the cause of education, which all of us have at heart:

A Supervising Principal should be a man of sterling character, of superior culture, of magnetic personality, and of adequate executive ability. Assuming that the maximum measure of these qualities may not be found in every man occupying the position, still each incumbent should at least be equipped with each and all of these in some positive and marked degree. There is a broad responsibility devolving upon the principal, for it is thru him mainly that the standing and atmosphere of the school is to be originated and maintained, and it lies with him to shape the spirit and sentiment of the institution over which he presides.

That all men are not of uniform personality, it is hardly needful to state, and doubtless it is a fact to warrant thankfulness—but that all principals should have a very general uniformity of wisdom, tact, and superior fitness for the position is equally true.

We must all admit it is a deplorable condition when the man who occupies the principal's chair fails to measure to the standard of its needs and if he is not within himself an example of what education and honorable position should reasonably produce, he is certainly out of his sphere and unworthy of his position or his mission.

It is not the purpose of this brief article to dwell upon the wide scope of the principal's activities of to enumerate and enlarge upon the many diverse lines of his efforts and his influences.

It is enough to say that his work is of manifold direction and his labors peculiarly varied. His intimate contact and confidential relation with pupils, teachers and the community at large, give him a position requiring the possession of many traits of influential character and almost protean adaptability.

My purpose was to briefly outline and suggest the principal's opportunities as they present themselves every day in the school room and in the line of actual help to pupils and teachers.

That the principal's especial function within the school premises is one of moral and ethical influence has always seemed to me to be fundamentally the prime reason for having a principal. Of course, the principal must create a basis for this influence through his skill in organizing and by proving his intellectual, executive and governing power—but as stated, the principal's greatest work in the school is one of direct spiritual influence and if pupils and teachers thru that influence solely, do not look up to him as the standard of the school, if in him they see no model of excellence, no teacher, counselor and friend to respect and admire, then there is a decided deficiency in the principal.

Every child, every teacher, should welcome the principal's approach, assured of an influence for help, betterment and co-operation and the principal who strives for that consummation is not striving for the unattainable, but for that which may be had and which will smooth the road to the mecca of practical values.

In considering the principal's work it need scarcely be said that the subject includes necessarily the work of the teacher. The virtues and the influences that make excellence in the one are paramount necessities in the other. The distinction between the two lies simply in the broader field of the one and the wider scope of activities and influence. The position of each is equally honorable and require an equal zeal and consecration, but the difference is none the less positive in the extent and variety of opportunity and responsibility.

To define a principal's duties (?) would require more space than may be here given, and yet, perhaps a few brief statements of certain general and essential details of his work may be ventured. The principal looking over the entire scope of his school and knowing the relation of all conditions therein, should know where his touch may be most valuable, should apply that touch at the right time and place and in so doing should apply the needed wisdom, tact and benefit—a word of instruction, a lesson of help, an impulse of encouragement or ambition, a kind and well directed reproof, an inspiration and a commanding influence should emanate from him at all times. A hundred children should hang on his words and have confidence in his sincerity, ability and justice. It is the principal's bounden duty to live up to the estimate that his position assumes him to be. No only is his duty to be a wise and discriminating one with his pupils, but also among his helpers, the teachers, should the same prevail, as he stands foremost among his teachers, each and all should be able to look up to him as a leader, a helper, a just and sympathetic counselor.

His course among them should be so directed that confidence and high respect should at all times make his suggestions and plans a pleasure to follow, worthy of consideration and viewed with confidence, as promising the results to be desired. It is unfortunately too true that human nature is sometimes perverse and that opinions and judgments needlessly vary among our school associates. (?) It is to be deplored that misunderstandings will arise, but fortunately these things are not the rule, but rather the rare exception.

Let us not dwell upon them, beyond saying that surely some marked degree of bitterness may be eliminated from these unpleasant circumstances, if the principal true to the highest motive of justice and right, may command in the minds of his critics the sentiment of confidence in his sincerity and honesty.

It has been sometimes asked, "How may a principal best assist his teachers in the regular work of the classes?"

That question brings any Board of Education down closely to material tangible matter of practical class-service. The question is not easily answered. The conditions are many, the circumstances diverse. Briefly let us assume for example that a principal is possessed of certain pronounced abilities in certain lines, for instance, let us say mathematics. Then let the principal use that talent thruout his classes, emphasizing it and helping its advancement, especially in those places where a teacher is deficient.

The same may be said of English, of History, of Literature or drawing, and indeed of all subjects, though in truth he is a fortunate principal who may excel his teachers in more than one or two or in any. (?) It is in just such lines that the principal may give actual classroom help and it is in these lines that actual classroom help is needed. Of course, it barely possible that a principal may attempt to do a large business on a small capital, in that case let us hope that in time he may grow modest and know himself as he is known—and surely he will—if he be a man of some rudiments of discernment and wise balance.

There is another way in which a principal may do actual, practical service in the classroom, and this is by co-operation with his teachers in the matter of discipline. It is a theory with which I am little in sympathy—that the discipline of a class belongs to the teachers alone. The error is a gross one. The discipline belongs to both teachers and principal, and it is the principal's duty to assist in this line very positively. It is a prime and necessary duty of the principal to see to it in the management of his school that the teachers be well assisted and supported in keeping those conditions in which she may be able to do the very best work of teaching—free from the distracting influence of one or a group of persistently and deliberately annoying youngsters. Nowhere may the principals be more practically helpful than here: his influence and authority may here be devoted (South Amboy as well as Madison) to most telling advantage and not only the teacher receive the proper support but the Board of Education and the class as well and the whole school be benefited—ye the whole community at large. Finally it has always seemed to me that the direct work of the principal among his teachers and classes is at all times best advanced thru the unity of purpose he inspires in his school. That all should pull together in the upward lift is vitally essential and the principal who can create and maintain such purpose has achieved a most valuable condition toward success. When his own ideas and spirit are as vital and active in each teacher as in himself, he certainly multiplies his influence to the extent of the number of his assistants and the plans or ideals he projects are furthered by a manifold process. I have little faith in the pessimistic view taken by some that such conditions in a school is impossible—rather is it eminently possible for we know that among our teachers rare indeed is the case where ambition and faithfulness are not found, and where wise counsel and generous approbation are not incentives to betterment. Where there is cross-purpose, there must be some lack of success and so it must appear that a vital object in the principal's work should be toward a unity of endeavors and a common spirit of devotion to the standards and the creed of the school. This spirit if concentrated efforts have been taught the supervising principals by our County Superintendents for years and this spirit pervading the teaching corps is communicated to the pupils and in them we readily may discover its benign effects in loyalty to duty and pride in furthering the moral and intellectual character of the school.

It is the principal who is responsible for such conditions and it is he who is at fault if they do not exist

AMUSEMENTS.

Cohan Theatre.

Of all the dear ladies who have graced the American stage in recent years the palm for transmitting pure delight across the footlights is ceded to Miss May Irwin, whose delightful personality and spare time is just now being offered Geo. M. Cohan the theatre audiences through the medium of "Widow by Proxy," (in which Miss Irwin introduces several delicious songs) as fine a farce as Broadway has seen in many moons. As if the offering of this perfectly bully play is not enough the Irwin has added to it George Ade's comical one act farce-let entitled, "Mrs. Peckham's Carrouse," and the combination furnishes an evening's entertainment that is filled with fun, all the more enjoyable for its clean wholesomeness.

Grand Opera House.

That famous sleuth, "Officer 666," the blue-coated copper that succeeded in keeping New York audiences in an uproar of merriment at the Gaiety theatre for a solid year, will be on duty at the Grand Opera House for one week beginning Monday, April 28. The stage has rarely harbored a funnier farce than "Officer 666." Created by Augustin MacIlugh, this famous policeman has, by his eccentric methods in trailing the crooks of the play, started a wave of laughter that has rolled around the world. London has laughed at and with him; the Pacific Coast, has applauded him; and as for the Eastern, Southern, Middle West and Far North cities of this land of the free and the home of the brave, almost every one of them has paid tribute to the risible qualities of this farce, in which a love story is unfolded that has to do with a smooth picture thief, a millionaire globe trotter, and a well meaning, but far too fat, minion of the law, who not only lets an internationally celebrated member of the underworld slip through his fingers, but who, for all his craftiness is, in the end, stripped of his authority and uniform at one and the same time. "Officer 666" will be presented at the Grand Opera House by the same cast that appeared in it during its long run at the Gaiety theatre on Broadway.

Gaiety Theatre.

The present week will usher in the sixth month of that laughing success, "Stop Thief," at the Gaiety theatre, New York. This cosy playhouse has rarely contained a funnier farce than that which has fallen from the pen of Carlyle Moore. "Stop Thief" will make you laugh in spite of yourself. Its unusual situations and brilliant lines fairly bristle with wit and repartee, while the complications that surround the Rhode Island detective in his endeavor to trap the two crooks who are operating in a household obsessed with kleptomaniacal tendencies, furnishes side-splitting moments sufficient to keep Gaiety theatre audiences in continuous paroxysms of mirth.

Astor Theatre.

The picture production of "Quo Vadis?" at the Astor theatre has created a veritable sensation. Never since the art of photographing motion was discovered has there been an exhibition that embodied real dramatic force sufficient to create the thrill after thrill that follows the presenting of this wonderful film of nearly ten thousand feet, wherein is pictured with remarkable fidelity Henryk Sienkiewicz's famous romance of the end of the reign of Rome's most profligate ruler, Nero.

The prices at the Astor theatre during the engagement of "Quo Vadis?" are popular. Reserved seats twenty-five and fifty cents.

Sold "Rosedale."

William A. Brady, preparing for his revival of Lester Wallack's famous drama, "Rosedale" now playing at the Lyric theatre, New York, came across an interesting bit of information while searching some of the Wallack records of the day. It appears that while Lester Wallack wrote the play and played its leading role, the script was really owned by Wallack's father. "Rosedale" was produced September 30, 1863, for the first time, but the play had been written a year previous, and the author, probably because he was in need of money, had sold the script outright to the elder Wallack. What price was paid is not known, but when "Rosedale" was put on the stage at the old Wallack theatre the author had no financial interest at all in the play beyond his salary as the leading man. Evidently, though, the elder Wallack later relented and on the occasion of the hundredth playing of the drama—to celebrate a centennial performance, likely—rights were transferred to Lester Brady by him thereafter. And to top, for Mr. Brady has a nearly revivals of the play, here frequent, both in New York and elsewhere.

Milady's Mirror

A Good Complexion.

In making up her mind that she wants to have a clear and beautiful complexion the average girl does not always think just what this means in the way of regular treatment. Of course when starting in she thinks she is going to take real care of her skin, and soon it will look like the other girl's whose complexion she so envies.

Perhaps all goes well for several nights until one evening, feeling especially tired, little Miss Would-Be-Beautiful thinks that it won't matter if she jumps into bed just this one night without first washing her face clean of all the day's dust and grime and of then rubbing cold cream into her cheeks to nourish them. She will do it all tomorrow night, and with this thought she contents herself as she slips between the snowy sheets.

But what a real mistake this girl is making! How can she expect to have a strawberry and cream complexion if she will not take the trouble to apply the treatment each night? It is every thing in being on time all through one's whole life, and perhaps in nothing does this regularity mean so much as in the care of one's general looks. If a girl neglects her complexion or hair for one night the results are sure to be disastrous. Wake up, then, little girl, if you want to have that beautiful complexion that you envy in other girls. If a treatment is decided on it must be regular or no good results will come from it.

Besides applying cream to the face at a regular hour each and every night, the girl who has a pasty complexion should look into the matter for her general health. A good complexion is impossible without perfect health, for health is the one great beautifier of even the plainest featured girl. It gives her that rosy flush of perfect health, which is beauty, real, true beauty.

The girl, though, who has a muddled complexion can help matters along by taking a beauty cup of hot water half an hour before each meal and one before going to bed at night. This water should be hot, but not too hot (extreme heat is injurious to the stomach and the stomach is the weak point of the girl with a poor complexion), and yet not lukewarm either. Choose the happy medium and you will be safe in your beauty drink.

This, too, if good results are to come of it, must be taken regularly at the same hour each and every day. Let it be understood, then, from this little talk that it is not so much what a girl does every other night or so when she feels like it, to improve her complexion, but what she does each and every night, that counts in this great fight for beauty, which is the birthright of every American girl and woman. Seek health, then, and seek it regularly, and this beauty will be yours.

The Beautiful Mouth.

To begin with, beautiful lips are mobile and flexible. No matter how perfect their contour, lips that are fixed and tight are never attractive. Then, too, holding the lips in a fixed position quickly ages the face and induces lines in it even less attractive than the line of the mouth. Persons who make constant use of their lips—in laughter, conversation or singing—preserve the charm of youth and mobility in them that is not apt to be apparent in those given to silence. This alone indicates the necessity for exercise, and all beauty culturists advise exercise of the lips to preserve a youthful face and keep the mouth flexible and attractive.

Marie Montaigne makes this point in an article in Harper's Bazar, and she goes on to say:

"Odd as it may seem, it becomes quite impossible to cherish irritating thoughts when the corners of the lips are turned up. Insensibly little sprites of happy memories come dancing into the mind, and the lines about the mouth smooth out or take on sweet curves. Laughter is essential to a pretty mouth—not the constant laughter that stretches the lips and lines the cheeks, but that merriment which keeps the lips flexible and drives away furrows of care."

Exercise to Keep Young.

Marcel Prevost, the French novelist, in speaking before an audience of fashionable women recently, said that the best method of combating advancing age was to develop muscle.

As long as persons only told them that sport was good for health women were indifferent, he said, but as soon as some one asserted that sport meant youthfulness women took it up with inquisitive enthusiasm.

M. Prevost severely condemned the practice of attempting to reduce the figure to slender proportions by tight lacing or dieting. He also criticized the use of rouge, with which women colored their lips, saying that it had nothing in common with the redness of the natural lips, while the carmine and beauty lotions they put on their cheeks produced an unnatural bluish slate colored complexion.

To Bring Roses to the Cheeks.

Rosewater, four ounces; and a third of an ounce of tincture of benzoin have the quality of bringing the blood to the surface of the skin and giving it a delicate pink color. This is a perfectly harmless way of gaining

DEATH WARNINGS.

Soldiers Who Foresaw Their Fate on the Eve of Battle.

THEY KNEW THEIR TIME HAD COME.

It Was Not Mere Fancy, but Grim Premonition, That Moved These Men to Read Their Own Death Warrants—A Case of Red Tape and a Bullet.

Premonitions get little attention, and those who have them little sympathy in these days. During the war, however, a premonition came to be looked upon as a most unwelcome guest. In the company I went out with there were two Garfield brothers. The younger, a quiet, modest fellow who spent his leisure time writing letters and reading, never joined in camp amusements, told a few of his more intimate friends while the regiment was in camp opposite Fredericksburg, Va., in 1862, that he would be wounded in the first battle he went into and die from the effects of it. The boys laughed at him and tried to cheer him up, but it was of no use, he never changed his mind. Aug. 28, 1862, was the first battle of the regiment. Young Garfield was as brave as the bravest at Gettysville.

"This is my first and last fight, boys, and I shall do my duty," is what he said when the regiment plunged into that battle, in which the Iron Brigade of four regiments and two regiments of Doubleday's brigade, the Fifty-sixth Pennsylvania and the Seventy-sixth New York, met "Stonewall" Jackson's sixteen regiments and held them in check for four hours, our brigade alone losing 800 of its 2,500 men.

"I'm hit; goodbye, boys," said Garfield, as he fell out and went to the rear.

"Yours is a flesh wound in the calf of the leg and in a few days will be all right," said the surgeon to Garfield. "Tell my parents I did not shrink my duty," pleaded the poor boy.

And he lay there without a word of complaint and died.

Near him was "Kicker" Finch of the same company with a shattered knee, a much worse wound than Garfield's. Finch demanded attention. He forced the nurses to keep his wound bathed in cold water, and if they were at all neglectful he swore at them. Finch lived to kick about poor hardback and salt junk cut from dead horses, but Garfield is sleeping in the Bull Run cemetery.

Frank King was a rollicking young fellow in the same company, generous, brave and popular, a singer who always drew an audience. Like a hero he fought at Gettysville, Second Bull Run, South Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg and Fitchburg Crossing. "Lime, this finishes my fighting," was what Frank King said to Lime White, a comrade, just as the Sixth Wisconsin swung into line for a charge the first day at Gettysburg.

"Killed in battle" is what the orderly entered after Frank's name that night. "I have all the fun with me you desire, gentlemen; it is your last chance," was what Major Phil Plummer of the Sixth Wisconsin said to a company of officers who were chaffing him about being so very sober the day before Grant moved into the Wilderness in 1864. Forty-eight hours later they rolled his blanket about him and buried him where he fell. Nothing could convince him that he would not be killed in that battle, though he had escaped in a dozen other great battles.

Captain Rollin P. Converse, who had won his way from the ranks and gone through a score of great battles, went into the first day's fight of the Wilderness, May 5, 1864, confident that he would do his last fighting that day. He never fought more bravely. They left him on the field with a thigh cruelly torn and death looking him squarely in the eye.

A Confederate surgeon told Converse that his leg would have to come off. "That would not save my life, so let it alone," was his quiet reply. But the surgeon began to arrange for an amputation. "Let that leg alone," said Converse. The surgeon paid no attention to the wounded captain until Converse had taken out his revolver and pointed it at him. There was no amputation, and the next day they buried Converse with both legs.

Lieutenant John Timmons of Company C was entitled to muster out July 16, 1864, his three years having ended, but red tape intervened and delayed the order. Days and weeks passed without the word which would take him out of the service. On the night of Aug. 16, 1864, an order came for the regiment to march. A march then, in front of Petersburg, meant a battle.

"This is tough," said Timmons. "I ought to have been mustered out and gone home a month ago. In a day or two we shall have a fight, and I shall go to my long home—be killed."

The first of the Weldon railroad battles, Aug. 18, John Timmons was killed—died of red tape and a bullet.—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Conscience.

"Oh, yes, he's a very fine alderman." "Why, I'm told he can be bribed." "Of course. But he has some conscience about it." "How is that?" "Why, you can buy him to support a measure, but he won't stay bought."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

GOLD MEDAL TO BOY OR GIRL FOR BEST COMPOSITION

A gold medal to the school boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 15 who writes the best composition, not to exceed 800 words, on the repair and maintenance of earth roads, is to be awarded by Logan Waller Page, Director, Office of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. All compositions must be submitted to Mr. Page before May 15, 1913, and the medal will be awarded as soon thereafter as the compositions can be graded. The composition may be based upon knowledge gained from books or other sources, but no quotations should be made.

After many years' experience in dealing with the public road situation of the country, it is Mr. Page's belief that ignorance on the subject of repair and maintenance of roads is as much the cause for their bad condition as any other one factor. It is expected that the competition will bring about a better understanding of the subject of repair and maintenance in the rural districts.

Many children living in the rural districts have experienced the disadvantages of roads made impassable through a lack of proper maintenance and it is expected that their interest in the competition will stimulate greater interest among the parents. Bad roads have prevented many children from obtaining a proper education and have even prevented doctors from reaching the side of rural patients in time to save their lives.

Any child between the ages mentioned, attending a country school, may compete. Only one side of the paper must be written on; each page should be numbered; the name, age, and address of the writer, and the name and location of the school which he or she is attending must be plainly written at the top of the first page. The announcement of the competition has been sent to the superintendents of schools in the rural districts. No further information can be obtained from the Office of Public Roads. This announcement should be plain to everyone, and all children will thus start on a basis of equality.

The Domestic Economist.

There are other housewives who are as calculating as she who is celebrated in the Manchester Guardian, but not many of them have the daring to carry off their frugality so triumphantly.

An excellent Manchester lady frequently invites her friends to tea, but she does not furnish her table lavishly. When her guests have eaten all the bread and butter and cookies and realize that the meal is over, she looks brightly at the empty dishes.

"Well, now," she says, in triumphant tones, "haven't I judged your appetites exactly?"

Provoking.

Clara—While I was playing whist with Mrs. Singleton last evening she asked me what was the trump at least six times. Maude—Weren't you provoked? Clara—I should say so! As if I knew!—Puck.

The Forbidden.

"And what is your favorite game, my little man?" asked the friend of the family. "Oh, any game mother thinks is too rough for me to play," replied the little man.—Philadelphia Record.

More Trouble Coming.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The services at the First Baptist Church on Sunday were again full of good cheer and gospel music. Mrs. Helen Reed-Alexander, the noted harpist, was present on her second visit, and the music which she brought forth from the instrument was refreshingly sweet and beautiful. Mrs. Ada Pier-soll-Cozzens, the local soprano singer, also rendered several solos accompanied by the harp. Mrs. Alexander also rendered a solo in the evening. The services were largely attended, and everyone enjoyed the able sermons delivered by the pastor of the church, Rev. Thomas Neal, Jr. The singing of the gospel hymns throughout the day was inspiring and cheering, and the music rendered by the talented church choir was excellent.

PROCLAMATION.

Notice to Owners of Dogs.

IN VIEW OF THE APPROACHING season of warm weather, it becomes my duty as Mayor of this city to warn those who own dogs, that during the warm months there is unusual danger to our people if dogs are allowed to run at large without having muzzles on. The law requires that this precaution be taken in the interest of public safety and a penalty is attached for any case or cases of violation of that law;

I, therefore, in obedience to this duty as Mayor of the City of South Amboy, proclaim: That on and after May 1st, 1913, all dogs found upon our streets unmuzzled or not attached to a leather or chain or other suitable leash and not accompanied by their owner, will be placed in pound for a space of twenty-four hours, and if not claimed and the charges paid in that time, they will be destroyed and the owner will be debarred from any redress by reason of neglect or carelessness on his part in not seeing to it that the spirit of this proclamation was obeyed.

I further proclaim that all dogs found without tags indicating that the usual license has been paid, will be subject to seizure in accordance with the provisions of a city ordinance made and provided for such cases and if the license and charges are not paid and the dog redeemed inside of twenty-four hours the animal will be destroyed and all rights for redress will be forfeited.

Given under my hand and seal this 15th day of April, 1913.
(Signed) WM. S. DEY,
4-19- Mayor.

WEEKLY LETTER TO FARMERS.

(By F. R. Stevens, Agriculturist, Lehigh Valley Railroad.)

The dormant season of fruit trees is practically over, and the time for the second spraying is at hand. The past year has not been highly profitable to apple growers. In the large commercial orchards the fruit was good, but not the best. Better prices would have prevailed in commercial orchards had the fruit been thinned. Then again, the thousand and one little unsprayed orchards all over the country contributed large quantities of second class fruit, and this always tends to depress the market and at the same time gives very little revenue to those who grow this second class stuff. Therefore, whether we are growing apples for market or only for our own use, it pays to spray.

This second spraying is aimed to kill fungus spores, catch the blister mite, which makes the little brown spots on the leaves late in the summer, and to catch the Coddling Moth. The best time to catch all of these is just after the petals fall and before the apples begin to turn downward by their own weight. This is one of the things which has to be done on time in order to be effective. Of course the large power spray is very effective, but with the little orchard the barrel spray is also efficient, and unless we have a considerable orchard it does not pay to have a power spray.

The best spray for this second application consists of commercial lime sulphur, one gallon of the mixture to forty gallons of water, to which must be added arsenate of lead at the rate of six pounds to every hundred gallons of spray mixture.

A still day is, of course, better for this job of spraying, but it is better to spray on a windy day on time than to wait for a still day. Thorough covering of the trees is an absolute necessity. Begin at the base on each side and work toward the top, making sure to cover all of the limbs on both sides. The importance of thoroughness in this cannot be overestimated.

It is not a pleasant job under any conditions, and wind or no wind, a large amount is bound to settle on the face and hands, causing some irritation. It may be worth while, therefore, to note here, that it is well to put a cupful of vinegar in the wash bowl when washing up after such a job. This will not only clean out the lime and sulphur but will counteract some of its irritating effects on the skin.

PAINS IN THE STOMACH.

If you continually complain of pains in the stomach, your liver or your kidneys are out of order. Neglect may lead to dropsy, kidney trouble, diabetes or Bright's disease. Thousands recommended Electric Bitters as the very best stomach and kidney medicine made. H. T. Alston, of Raleigh, N. C., who suffered with pain in the stomach and back, writes: "My kidneys were deranged and my liver did not work right. I suffered much, but Electric Bitters was recommended and I improved from the first dose. I now feel like a new man." It will improve you, too. Only 50c and $1.00. Recommended by all druggists.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION

QUARTERLY FOR EMPLOYEES

The Pennsylvania Railroad has established a rule which shall debar from employment in its dining car and restaurant department any person with even a tendency toward a communicable disease.

There is to be a quarterly physical examination of every employe who has anything whatsoever to do with the preparation or serving of food. Dishwashers, kitchen helpers, cooks, and waiters, both white and colored, must undergo a rigid examination every three months, and only a 100 per cent. report on their physical condition will permit their remaining in the service.

While those suffering from tuberculosis, diseases of the eye or skin, and any other communicable disease, may not be employed in any capacity where they might come in contact with food, the further precaution is taken in debarring them from employment in places where linens and tableware are kept.

If a Pennsylvania Railroad dining car or restaurant employe becomes disabled through any cause, he shall not be permitted to return to work until he receives a "Certificate of Ability" from one of the company's doctors.

In order to surround the service with every possible precaution, there are provided at "lay-over points" for dining car stewards, waiters and cooks, special lodgings with clean linens, clean beds and every sanitary protection. These lodgings are inspected personally by the Superintendent of Dining Cars and Restaurants, Service Inspectors, and by Medical Examiners of the company.

Sporting Comment.

ATHLETICS WIN
FIRST GAME

Playing in great form the South Amboy Athletics defeated the New Brunswick Catholic Club on Star Field Saturday by the score of 10 to 3. The local boys drove Leo Harkins out of the box in the eighth inning and when D. Kennedy was sent in in the ninth as a rescue pitcher the Athletics received him warmly collecting six hits and five runs in the final round. Murray Borlund twirled for the South Amboy nine and was not in danger during any part of the game. His control was good and he was effective with men on bases, getting eight strikeouts. The New Brunswick boys scored their three runs during the last three innings. One feature of the game was the batting of the Athletics. If they pounce the ball all through the season as they did on Saturday they will have good batting averages. Dave Campion, the old war horse, was on first base. You can't call him a "come back," for he's never gone yet. The lanky portlander helped himself to three clean hits and a sacrifice out of four trips to the plate. Murray Borlund also performed well with the stick, getting two bingles. The other half of the battery, McDonnell, also took two healthy cracks out of the sphere, one being a two-bagger.

Ambrose Atkinson, who was the pitching idol of South Amboy last year, was spending the week end in this city, and donned his uniform to play third base, where he performed excellently. Delaney played a good game at second base, accepting eight chances without an error. Bucklelew at shortstop appeared very clever and the fans have nothing to fear about this position in the infield. He made one catch that was spectacular.

Lester Stratton is another boy who will be a tower of strength whenever he gets into the game. He came to bat for the first time in the ninth inning with three men on base and walloped out a two bagger that scored them all.

Manaker did well at the bat although he had an easy day in the field, nothing coming his way. George Delaney appeared as fast as ever on the bases and in the field.

That good old scout, Jack Higgins, who is field captain of the Athletics, again this year, is just as nifty in the field as ever. He accepted five chances in the field and scooped up one ball in fine style which went as a hit for Dougherty. He ran way in and scooped up the ball with one hand. It looked to the spectators to be a fairly caught ball, but Johnny Hunt, who umpired, couldn't see it that way and claimed that it had touched the ground first. Captain Jack didn't get any clean bingles during the performance but he got two sacrifice hits out of three times at bat.

The fans who saw the game are confident that the Athletics will play as good ball as they did last year, or even better, and Manager Bill O'Toole is busily preparing a schedule that will be pleasing to them.

A baseball team cannot be carried on without the support of the fans of the city. Next Saturday they will meet the fast St. Anthonys of Perth Amboy, and hope to score another victory. Surely every sport in the town can scrape up fifteen cents once a week to support a team like the Athletics. Let the team play together this year without any "kicks" and give Captain Higgins their level best. Bill O'Toole will tend to the rest and the South Amboy Athletics, county champs, for 1912 will finish at the head when the final bell rings for the season of 1913.

HINKY DINKS DOWN

STARFISH GIANTS 23 TO 21

The Hinky Dinks on Monday defeated the Starfish Giants in a game of ball by the score of 23 to 21. Some running was done by both teams. The bonehead plays were made by Cooney of the Starfish. The lineups were as follows: Dinks—W. Gelston, p; C. Stockton, c; H. Miller, 1b; C. Lovely, 2b; L. Monaghan, 3b; C. Sutton, ss; R. Monaghan, rf; S. Reiner, cf; H. Reiner, lf. Starfish—J. Cooney, p; L. Freischknecht, c; E. Freischknecht, 1b; J. Carroll, 2b; R. Sullivan, 3b; J. Kane, ss; F. Scully, rf; F. Brady, cf; J. Quinlan, lf.

YANKEES EASY FOR

NEPTUNE, JR., NINE

The Neptune, Jr. team defeated the Yankees, of South River, on the latter's diamond by the score of 30 to 5 in the eighth inning, the game being called off. Czekan and Render fromed the battery for the Neptunes, and Peterson and Zepka for the Yankees. The Neptunes showed great class in batting and field and starred in the Neptune.

two-base hits and one single. Czekan struck out fifteen men, and also made a good showing in batting. Nebus also starred with the only three-base hit of the game. Teams desiring games should communicate with H. Miller, booking manager, Box 384, South Amboy.

The lineup of the Neptune Jrs. is as follows: J. Hackett, lf; S. Gross, cf; S. Somiki, rf; J. Kennedy, 3b; F. Duncan, ss; P. Reilly, 2b; C. Nebus, 1b; A. Czekan, p; and T. Render, c.

JOE HONAN BADLY

WALLOPS JOE BLACK

Fighting with all his old time cleverness and also a K. O. wallop, Joe Honan, the "fighting walter," knocked out Joe Black, of Staten Island, in the tenth round of their bout at the Richmond A. C., Tottenville, on Monday evening.

The Walter, who has been training in this city, was in the pink of condition after being out of the squared ring for nearly a year, and did great credit to Rube Forgotson, his manager and trainer. When Honan climbed through the ropes, he was given a big ovation. The fight fans nearly yelled their heads off as they saw the game little Walter before them once more in fighting togs, and as soon as the bout began they saw that he not only had his cleverness of yore, but something more tacked to it, for Joe Black is ranked as one of the best on the island. Honan did all the pushing and would have won his bout easily on points had he not taken a more thorough way of doing it in the tenth. In the fourth round, to the delight of the fans, the little fellow put his old steam into his punches and sent Black to the floor three times.

In the fifth Black came back and only in this round did he swap punches to his advantage. The two boys both boxed cleverly again until the tenth. Shortly after this round began Honan drove an uppercut to Black that landed him on the floor. He arose and again met the Walter's left in the face and reeled. This time Referee Burke counted seven, he attempted to rise but got on his knees and keeled over again. The fans jumped through the ropes and grabbed the Walter, game little Joe Honan, for he had won the fight by a knockout. Black remained dazed for sometime after and only stood in his corner through the assistance of his seconds. The crowd went wild with cheering for the bout had proved to be the best ever staged at the Richmond, and will probably not have an equal until the Walter climbs through the ropes to meet Mike Mazie.

In the semi-final bout Bill Black of Camden and Bill Brown of Plainfield put up a good show. Both these boys were colored, and although Black appeared to have an advantage over Brown by at least 25 pounds weight, the Plainfield dangle was clever and the bout was termed a draw.

Young Sutton, the smiling cyclone, of New Brunswick, won his bout from Spike Carrigan, of Perth Amboy.

Billy Machine, introduced as the "Fighting Fatima," of Perth Amboy, took one good punch from Young Manee, of New Brunswick, and sat down in his corner to cool off. Billy says that "nobody loves a fat man" and he didn't get all the applause he was after. Johnnie Dowdt, and Young Mason, both of New Brunswick, (colored) put up a good show in the first prelim. Dowdt had the hardest punch and shaded his dusky companion.

The crowd at the fight was the largest this year and Matchmaker Joe McNulty will undoubtedly stage a bout between the Walter and Mike Mazie. Rube Forgotson is anxious to have his boy meet the Staten Island Champion and believes the Walter can serve him with the same kind of punch as he did Black. And that was not a milk punch, believe me!

SOME GREAT BOWLING

ON YACHT CLUB ALLEYS

On Tuesday evening a two-man match took place on the Yacht Club bowling alleys, which proved to be a hard fought and close game. Commodore Steuerwald in the nine games rolled up the big average of 187, and R. C. Stephenson averaged 170. All the bowlers seemed to be in good form as will be seen by the following scores:

KING OF GAMBLERS

Francis Blanc, the Ex-Convict,
Who Bought Monaco.

THEN STARTED MONTE CARLO.

A Bold and Reckless Soldier of Fortune, He Instituted the Gilded Gambling Palace That Now Wins Millions Yearly For Its Wealthy Owners.

Francis Blanc, an ex-convict from Homburg, bought the principality of Monaco, boots and baggage. The genius of gambling had claimed many an individual, many a noble and his estate and not infrequently an entire city, but it had never before undertaken such a conquest as this.

Francis Blanc is one of the most remarkable of all soldiers of fortune. Of his early history little is known. He was seized by the authorities of Homburg for having made fraudulent use of the telegraph in relation to stock exchange news received from Paris. His method was one of the very oldest—namely, the corruption of the employees. It seems that at this time the German law did not precisely cover this species of swindling, and he and his twin brother escaped with a sentence of seven months.

Francis Blanc was not discouraged. He had accumulated 100,000 francs, and with that sum he established the Kursaal at Homburg. The Kursaal flourished, and Blanc might have gone on there to the realization of his ambitions but for the national sentiment he was shrewd enough to foresee. Blanc realized that the time was not far distant when the German people would put down the sort of gambling in which he was engaged, so he began to look about for some new country in which to set up his temple of fortune.

On the coast of the Mediterranean, between the kingdoms of France and Italy, there was a little independent principality. It was not more than two miles and a quarter long and hardly three-quarters of a mile wide, but it was an independent kingdom, with an old and royal house.

Charles III. was the reigning prince, but he was a tattered monarch, and his court was a beggarly make believe. In his desperate situation it is said he applied to a shrewd Parisian for counsel, who advised him to set up gaming tables and thereby "ruin other people's subjects since you have already ruined your own."

Charles III. followed that pregnant advice. He sold a gambling concession in the principality to two adventurers, Duval and Lefevre. These men built the casino, but their venture was not particularly successful. They asserted that Charles' avarice could not be satisfied, and when Francis Blanc arrived on the Mediterranean, around 1860, he bought the concession and moved his gambling establishment from the Kursaal at Homburg to Monaco.

Francis Blanc was a bold and daring adventurer. The little principality was divided practically into three towns—Monaco, Condamine and Monte Carlo. It was the last that Francis Blanc occupied. He employed the best architect to be had, built a great casino, laid out beautiful gardens and terraces and expended over $3,000,000 upon the mere prospect of making Monte Carlo the gambling headquarters of Europe.

Francis Blanc, the ex-convict from Homburg, was no ordinary man. Lord Brougham said that Blanc was the greatest financier of his time. At any rate, his great financial adventure justified itself. Blanc came to live in splendor. He married his daughters to princes, he accumulated a fortune of 250,000,000 francs, and he left behind him an establishment that nets at least $5,000,000 a year in profits.

More than this, Francis Blanc bought and paid for the principality of Monaco. He paid Charles III. 500,000 francs a year and all his expenses, with a percentage of the profits; he kept up all the roads and gardens for the principality; he paid the police and magistrates and all fixed charges of the kingdom. Moreover, when the merchants of Nice endeavored to persuade the French senate to resist gambling at Monte Carlo and when the subjects of the principality threatened to revolt, Blanc, daring and full of resources, had Charles issue an edict abolishing all taxes in the principality, and out of his concession, in addition to what he had already paid, Blanc paid all the taxes of Monaco.

When Albert Honoré Charles, the present Prince of Monaco, came to the throne he remained under the thumb of the family Blanc, and in 1898 the concession they had obtained was renewed for fifty years upon the payment of 10,000,000 francs down, 15,000,000 to be paid in 1914 and other vast sums, together with practically all fixed charges of the principality. All this is done by a company called La Societe des Bains de Mer de Monte Carlo.

And so the genius of gambling ate a king and his court, a monarch of one of the oldest reigning houses in Europe—a palace, an army, a principality with its subjects, and a bishop and cathedral to boot!—Melville Davidson Post, Saturday Evening Post.

High School Mentionings

Local High Slaughter South River.

On Monday afternoon the local High School team defeated the South River High School nine at South River by the score of 17 to 3. The affair was a slaughter from the beginning of the game and the runs came in so fast that the scorekeeper could hardly mark down the correct score. We think there's a few missing. Our boys certainly clouted the ball hard, collecting twenty hits off Bissett, the South River twirler.

Quinlan, who pitched for the locals, had burning speed and allowed only three hits during the five innings which he pitched. He was a trifle wild at first but settled down during the last four innings and the brick-town boys could hardly see the ball. He got eleven strikeouts in five innings. Orr pitched the remaining two for practice and was also very effective. Both the pitchers appear in great shape for the opening of the county league and if the boys clout the ball as hard as they did in this game they will surely come out on top. Anderson and Quinlan were the battling stars of the day. Emil got four hits out of three times at the bat and Quinlan got three out of four trips to the plate, walking once. Both these boys got perfect batting averages for the day. The others all pounded the ball hard, Capner getting the longest hit of the game, a three bagger. Anderson, Rue, Quinlan and Grace got a double apiece while Orr collected two. Briggs and Kwilinski also did well at the bat getting two or more hits. "Poppy" Phair, of South River, umpired the game.

The teams lined up as follows:
S. A. H. S.—Capner 3b, Grace ss, Orr 1b and p, Kwilinski 2b, Quinlan p and lf, Rue cf, Hoffman c, Anderson 1b, Briggs rf, S. R. H. S.—Fee 1b, Hauserman 2b, Gray ss, Spreng 3b, Bissett p, Cathcart 1b, W. Gray c, Letts cf, C. Gray rf, Fitzpatrick lf.

Play Keypoint Today.

Next week will be our busy week. This Saturday the team travels to Keypoint to meet the High School nine. On Tuesday the county league struggle opens at Star Field, this city, against the Perth Amboy High School. On Saturday the local team goes to Leonardo, and on the following Tuesday they meet Woodbridge at this city, in another county league game. This makes five games within eleven days.

Some Comment.

The boys caught the first car from South River after the game with the exception of Frank Grace who was stranded in a baker shop.

K. Gray, the South River catcher, was knocked unconscious in the third inning and was unable to play the remainder of the game. Cathcart finished behind the bat.

Quinlan made up on Monday for those balls he tried to throw over the grand stand at Lakewood. We think some of the Sheridans must have talked to him.

Willie Forgotson must have lost his "hoodoo" this year. He was with the team at South River when they won. Willie is a hard luck guy for all that for he was just prepared to go to the bat as a pinch hitter in the seventh when the game ended.

Literary Society.

The Literary Society meeting held on Friday afternoon was very interesting. No debate had been prepared for the afternoon, but the new feature of the meetings, reading of current events, proved to be very helpful. The following is the program which was arranged:

A meeting of the High School Senior Class was held on Wednesday afternoon. It was decided to hold the graduation exercises only on one night this year in order to cut down expenses, providing that the plan meets with the approval of the school board. If they are successful in carrying out this plan the funds raised from the class play and entertainment will be used by the class, probably for a graduation trip to Washington, D. C.

CHURCH NOTES

The weekly service last Thursday evening took the nature of a temperance meeting and this vital subject was discussed from many angles.

On account of Fourth of July, the choir practice was omitted last Friday night.

The usual six services were held last Sunday and all of them proved to be of value and inspiration. The pastor preached in the morning on 1 John 5:4, and in the evening on Hebrews 4:9.

About thirty of the Juniors attended the service from 2 to 2:30 with a visitor and several adults. The superintendent arranged for the Juniors to assist in giving the daily Bible reading on the topic which was nicely done. Then there was the recitation of Bible verses, the Junior pledge and the first eight books of the Bible. Some Juniors received rewards last Sunday for faithful attendance.

The superintendent, Mr. Bloodgood, had charge of the Sunday School exercises and conducted them in a fine manner. After the study of the lesson a black board review was also given on an acoustic (Moses), which was very helpful and instructive, special stress being laid upon the importance of mothers looking out for the children's spiritual welfare. The committee made its final report on arrangements for the annual picnic to Keansburg. After the report it was decided to take the entire Sunday School free of charge, a car being chartered for that purpose.

A real spirited Senior C. E. meeting was held at 7 p. m., led by Mr. Ezra Clayton. The topic was that of "Christian Courage," and was handled in an able manner by the leader, others and the pastor.

More hymns from Songs of Love Divine were sung at the song service led by the choir at 7:45 o'clock.

The regular preaching service at 8 p. m. found an interested congregation, and a deep spiritual service was held.

A number of our members were out of town visitors from over the Fourth of July and they were missed at the regular services, and also at the Sunday School.

A member of the Methodist Protestant Church, of Elizabeth, was a worshipper with us last Sunday. Several visitors were present last Sunday evening.

The pastor expects to be away a Sunday or two in the near future, but the church services will go on as usual and all are requested to attend and stand by those having charge.

A financial report was read last Sunday as to the amount raised through the Sunday School to parsonage fund and in eight months of the conference year, in as many monthly offerings, there was raised $351.77, and in ten months last year, $512, making a total in eighteen months of $863.77, and a suggestion was made to try and make it at least $1,000 before conference in October, which will mean twenty-two months.

Next Sunday is offering day. Between $20 and $25 is now on hand toward the offering.

Next Sunday morning is the third quarterly meeting at which time there will be the usual experience meeting, Love Feast, Baptism, reception of members (if desired) and the Communion of the Lord's Supper. It is peculiarly imperative that God's own children should attend at least the last service mentioned, for Jesus said at the institution of the Holy Communion, "This do in Remembrance of Me."

Rescuer Is Badly Burned.

Prompt action by former Borough Clerk John Robinson, of Metuchen, on Saturday saved Mrs. F. B. Zimmerman, of Amboy avenue, that borough, from serious burns. She was boiling some garments and poured two quarts of gasoline into the kettle of hot water. There was a blaze and Mrs. Zimmerman was enveloped in flames. She ran to the yard. Mr. Robinson grabbed blankets and smothered the flames. He was badly burned. Her injuries were not as serious as those sustained by her rescuer.

Lightning Strikes Church Spire.

The colored sexton of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Rahway, may have his troubles, but insomnia is not one of them. He learned that Saturday, when lightning struck the steeple of the church, but failed to awaken him. When the bolt struck, pieces of the wrecked spire crashed to the street and several men nearby were stunned. The usual deafening burst of thunder followed, but the sexton, who was inside the church, slept peacefully on. After the crash Benjamin C. Mead, one of the vestrymen, found the drowsy verging dozing in blissful ignorance of the accident.

Treasurer Charged With Shortage.

Mayor Thomas A. Pyffe removed Charles H. Angelman from his office as city treasurer and auditor of Rahway, and appointed George L. Kirschgasser as his successor at a special meeting of Common Council held on Monday night. W. M. Williams, president of the Universal Audit Company of New York, that is auditing the city's books, reported that in examining the books of Angelman, the cash balance called for was $54,471.97; that his company had access to all money on hand and found but $28,170.85, and that his men were unable to proceed with the audit until a difference of $28,301.09 is explained. Previous to the last audit in 1908, there is a difference of $3,057.55. The other differences were found as follows: 1908-09, $6,333.77; 1909-10, $6,790.09; 1910-11, $6,646.40; 1912-13, $2,750.

Killed By Train at Rahway.

J. Hudson Wise, of Rahway, was killed at the Milton avenue crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad Monday night. It is supposed that he was struck about 9 o'clock, as a woman saw a man undertake to cross in front of a train at the time and informed the gateman that she believed the pedestrian had been killed. Three hours later the body was found 20 feet from the crossing by a track-walker. Mr. Wise was about fifty-five years old. He was a consulting mining engineer, and resided at 103 Bryant street, Rahway. He is survived by a widow and one daughter, who are occupying their cottage at Avon-by-the-Sea.

Pomine Poisoned 150 Boys.

Of 150 boys affected by ptomaine poison, twenty-five of them seriously, Sunday at the State Home for Boys, Jamesburg, all are now pronounced out of danger. The cause of the wholesale poisoning has not yet been determined, and an investigation will be made with a view to determining it.

Auto Sinks in River Mud.

An automobile lies partly buried in mud in the Shrewsbury River, near Port au Peck. The machine, it is said, had three occupants—two men and a woman—and was en route for Pleasure bay on Monday when the driver lost control of the wheel and skidded into a ditch and into the river. The occupants, it is claimed, climbed out of the machine and left before their identity could be learned. The machine belongs to a West End garage. The number of the car is 41328 N. J.

Big Fire at Rahway.

Early Tuesday morning over $150,000 worth of property was destroyed by fire at Rahway. The fire started in the heart of the business section about midnight, and eight business places were totally destroyed. Roberts Hardware store was the biggest structure destroyed. The loss was over $75,000, mostly covered by insurance. Other structures in the path of the flames were Mitchell's dry goods store, Tomb's butcher shop, Odd Fellows' Hall, Hermiss Hall, Schubert's Cafe, and the Alex Pyffe hotel, owned by the father of the mayor of Rahway. The loss of the hotel is figured at $25,000. The blacksmith shop of the Keystone Construction Company of Philadelphia, was also destroyed.

Thieves Take Chest of Silverware.

A large iron chest containing silverware valued at about $350 was stolen from the home of John V. Lamarche at 96 West Front street, Red Bank, early Sunday morning. Entrance was gained to the house through a side window. The office of Prosecutor John S. Applegate, Jr., was notified and County Detective Elwood Minugh is working on the case. When the robbery occurred the family were asleep. The chest was kept near the buffet in the dining-room. It is thought that intruders used a wagon to carry off the loot, for the chest was too heavy for one or two persons to carry any distance.

Banker, Convicted as Perjuror, Fined.

For committing perjury with the alleged object of defrauding Joseph Bartha, a farmer, of Franklin Township out of $100, Louis Csipo, a Hungarian banker, of South River, was on Monday sentenced by Judge Daniel Beekman in the Somerset Court to pay a fine of $2,000. Csipo committed perjury, it is alleged, in a civil action against Bartha, in the Somerset District Court. The court rendered a judgment against Bartha for $100, which he was forced to pay Csipo. After the judgment had been paid, Bartha found a lost letter which Csipo had written him before the civil action, in which he acknowledged receiving $100 and demanded $3 interest before the note was returned. It was this letter which convicted Csipo. Csipo is the third person to be convicted of perjury in the Somerset Court within a few months. Giovanni Gallipio and Nicholas Gallucci, who were convicted of perjury in attempt to save a fellow countryman charged with atrocious assault, were sent to State prison and the Rahway Reformatory, respectively. In passing sentence on Csipo, Judge Beekman said that he had intended to send him to State prison, but on investigating the court found that he had a business which netted him $8,000 a year, and if the man was sent to prison his family would be deprived of this income. Counsel for Csipo presented to the court a petition for clemency signed by Mayor Joseph Mark, David Serviss, president of the First National Bank, and other business men of South River. Csipo's counsel served notice of an appeal in the case, and Csipo was released on $5,000 bail.

General E. Burd Grubb Dead.

General E. Burd Grubb, superintendent of the Home for Disabled Soldiers, Kearney, died at St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, Monday morning. Death was said to have been due to a complication of ailments. General Grubb had been in the hospital for the past three weeks and had recently undergone an operation for cataract. It is believed that the strain of the recent legislative investigation of affairs at the home hastened the general's death. At the close of the probe, during which General Grubb was under a severe questioning, he went to the hospital and was operated upon three weeks ago for cataract. This operation was successful, it was stated, but the general's condition generally did not improve, pneumonia finally setting in. Mrs. Grubb and other members of the family were at the bedside when he died.

Former Mayor Hurt by Tumble.

P. Hall Packer, former Mayor and ex-postmaster of Seabright, is laid up with injuries sustained Saturday while traveling from Long Branch to Seabright. While passing the Patten cottage, at Pleasure Bay, the front part of the wagon in which he was seated parted from the remainder of the vehicle, letting the front down with a crash, Mr. Packer being thrown to the ground. He was bruised about the legs so badly that a physician had to be summoned to dress his wounds.

Spurned Food or Medicine: Dies.

Refusing to take food or medicine, though he was suffering from malarial fever and pneumonia, John Schlegel, of Sayreville, died Saturday in St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick, after having practically starved himself to death. The man's refusal to accept nourishment is not understood by his friends. Last week Schlegel's condition became so weakened that Dr. J. H. Beckman, of Sayreville, who was called to attend him, ordered him sent to the hospital. All efforts to induce him to accept nourishment there, however, failed and he continued to sink rapidly. Schlegel was fifty years old and had no relatives in this country.

Ends Life in Insane Hospital.

Jesse Craner, thirty-six years old, committed suicide Sunday by hanging himself to a hinge on a blind in his cell at the State Hospital for the Insane, Trenton. He had made several attempts to end his life before being committed to the hospital.

Women Faint in Trolley Collision.

Women fainted and several passengers were cut by flying glass when two trolley cars of the Jersey Central Traction Company met in a head-on collision near Wood avenue, Keansburg, Sunday. Both cars were wrecked. Fred Everson, of South Amboy, motorman of one of the cars, escaped injury by jumping. While the traction company would vouchsafe no information regarding the accident it was said at the time that Frank Weber, motorman of one of the cars, ignored orders from the dispatcher to pass the car at Keansburg and was trying to gain time and pass at Lorillard's.
