"You hear about Lexington and Concord," he said "and all about Yorktown, but few people realize how important New Jersey was. And did you know that 50% of the people living in New Jersey were wealthy and were loyalist?"

Mr. Rutan went on to sketch out the first year of the War and told how General Howe could have won the war several times had he not been otherwise occupied.

The June meeting will be held June 15 at the South Amboy Public Library. Public is invited and refreshments will be served.

REV. ALEXANDER ZDANEWICZ CELEBRATES FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY

The Rev. Alexander Zdanewicz, Pastor of St. Stephen's Church, will himself be celebrant at a Solemn Mass of Thanksgiving, Sunday, May 28, at 12:15 p.m. in St. Stephen's Catholic Church, marking his 40th year in the Priesthood. A testimonial dinner and program at 6:00 p.m. in St. Stephen's Auditorium will continue the celebration.

Son of the late George and Angelica (Blaszka) Zdanewicz, Father Zdanewicz was born in South Amboy, N.J., and where he received his primary and secondary education. After graduation from St. Mary's High School, South Amboy, he entered Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass., and completed his college education at Seton Hall, South Orange, N.J. He then entered St. Cyril & Methodius Seminary, Orchard Lake, Michigan,

SAYREVILLE TEACHER RECEIVES GRANT

Mr. John E. Farrell, a science teacher at the Sayreville Junior High School, has been awarded a National Science Foundation Grant at Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas in Intermediate Science Curriculum Study (ISCS).

Mr. Farrell has previously attended NSF Institutes at Vassar College, Seattle Pacific College, St. Cloud State College (Minn.), and Rutgers University.

The programs sponsored by the NSF enable science teachers to participate in various areas of specialization, such as: earth science, chemistry, biology, radiology, and psychology. Admission to the Institutes is highly competitive, since there are many thousands of teachers from all parts of the U.S. applying for a relatively few appointments.

where he completed his course in sacred theology.

On May 21, 1932, Father Zdanewicz was ordained by Bishop Cope at St. Mary's Cathedral in Trenton, N.J. His first assignment as a priest of the Trenton Diocese was at St. Stephen's where he spent the first 4 years of his priestly life. When the tragic death of the late Rt. Rev. Joseph Urban occurred, Father Zdanewicz became administrator of St. Stephen's for the next several months. He was then transferred to St. Mary's Church in Bound Brook where he remained for a period of six years.

In May of 1942, Bishop Griffin appointed Fr. Zdanewicz as Pastor of St. Joseph's Church in New Brunswick, where he remained in that office for a period of 23 years, bringing many improvements into the religious, social, and economical life of the parish.

Bishop George W. Ahr returned Fr. Zdanewicz back to his first parish, St. Stephen's, as Pastor, in February of 1965. At St. Stephen's he found many problems which had not existed when he first came to the parish. Parking space was truly inadequate for the growing parish, so Father had the old Church, which had been moved to the rear of the rectory demolished, and the space was converted into a parking area. He also used his financial talents and purchased several lots adjoining the Church and converted them also into a parking space.

As time grew on, Father Zdanewicz found many of the parochial buildings in need of repair. The School urgently needed a new roof. The stonework of the school's exterior needed pointing-up and cleaning. The Church needed redecoration. New pews with comfortable kneelers were added. The Sister's convent was converted into a modern home with all the conveniences of today. And presently, the School Auditorium is "coming of age".

With all of this, however, Father Zdanewicz is most proud of the spiritual growth of the Parish. During his time as Pastor, First Masses were celebrated by 2 newly ordained priests and presently there are 8 young men studying for the priesthood. And the Parish School 250 children receive both a scholastic and Catholic education and the parish has an active youth program with cultural, spiritual, sports, and social activities.

Sand Freight Derailed Here

Clean-up operations have been completed from the 70-car freight train of sand destined for the McCormack Sand Company. The cause of the accident was not determined but a spokesman said that the heavy rains during the past few weeks could have been a contributing factor.

The derailment occurred on Sunday evening at 8:15 o'clock. Traffic was blocked on Charles Street for about two hours. Production at the sand company was not hampered to any degree. The stock piled sand on the company's premises took up slack until the sand cars were able to come into the sand company.

Three special sand cars valued at $40,000 each, were destroyed. The damages were estimated at about $200,000.

HELLO, REMEMBER ME ?

Some people call me Old Glory, others call me the Star Spangled Banner, but whatever they call me, I am your Flag, the Flag of the United States of America . . . Something has been bothering me, so I thought I might talk it over with you . . . because it is about you and me.

I remember some time ago people lined up on both sides of the street to watch the parade and naturally I was leading every parade, proudly waving in the breeze, when your daddy saw me coming, he immediately removed his hat and placed it against his left shoulder so that the hand was directly over his heart . . . remember?

And you, I remember you. Standing there straight as a soldier. You didn't have a hat, but you were giving the right salute. Remember little sister? Not to be outdone, she was saluting the same as you with her right hand over heart heart . . . remember?

What happened? I'm still the same old flag. Oh, I have a few more Stars since you were a boy. A lot more blood has been shed since those parades of long ago.

But now I don't feel as proud as I used to. When I come down your street you just stand there with your hands in your pockets and I may get a small glance and then you look away. Then I see the children running around and shouting . . . they don't seem to know who I am . . . I saw one man take his hat off then look around, he didn't see anybody else with their off so he quickly put his back on.

Is it a sin to be patriotic anymore? Have you forgotten what I stand for and where I've been? . . . Anzio, Guadalcanal, Korea and now Vietnam. Take a look at the Memorial Honor Rolls sometimes of those who never came back to keep this Republic free . . . One Nation Under God . . . when you salute me, you are actually saluting them.

Well, it won't be long until I'll be coming down your street again. So, when you see me, stand straight, place your right hand over your heart . . . and I'll salute you, by waving back . . . and I'll know that . . .

YOU REMEMBERED ?

Cedar Aroma
On Towel Nice
After Shower

At the smell of cedar on a turkish towel after a shower! It's downright refreshing and invigorating, too, as a brisk rub encourages the bath ritual.

So, where does one get a cedar-scented turkish bath towel? That's easy in the home with a linen closet lined with aromatic red cedar. The bath towel removes one from the stock. Its pleasant aroma is a mighty pleasant climax for a refreshing shower or tubbing.

Some bathrooms might have need for a towel cache. A hand-drawn could readily build a small repository in a corner. Line it with aromatic red cedar and attach a door that can be kept tightly closed so the odor will permeate the towels.

Aromatic red cedar lining is available at lumber and building materials stores everywhere.

MR. WOMEN PLAN CAKE SALE

The South Amboy Junior Women's Club is planning a cake sale for Saturday, May 27 beginning at 9 a.m. at Foodtown.

Proceeds from this event will be distributed to various charities at the end of the club year according to co-chairmen Mrs. James Minnick and Mrs. Richard Krieger.

Club Seeking Families to Share

The South Amboy Junior Women's Club has again undertaken the Fresh Air Fund in the Middlesex County area. The club is currently seeking families who are willing to share their homes with New York City disadvantaged youngsters for a two-week vacation beginning July 19. The fund pays transportation and insurance; the host families contribute food and lodging.

Children ages 5 to 12 are selected by about 50 New York City community social agencies and hospitals. Throughout its history, The Fresh Air Fund has accepted children of every faith, race and nationality according to one criterion -- need.

The Fresh Air Fund is one of New York City's oldest charities. Since its inception in 1887, it has provided more than one million free vacations -- a record unmatched by any other program, private or public, in the nation.

It is the hope of the South Amboy Juniors that more area families will open their hearts and homes to these inner-city youngsters and provide them with a real summer vacation away from the city's hot, overcrowded streets.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Gary Gatyas, 510 Orchard Place, South Amboy at 727-3710.

Here's A Good Idea . . .

When making pancakes, dip the spoon in milk or water and the batter will drop off easily. Here's a similar idea for icing a cake. Dip the knife in hot water before spreading the icing. The icing will go on smooth and not stick to the knife.

Cleaning tip: A small sponge attached to the end of a yardstick is great for reaching hard-to-clean spots such as under a sink and around heavy appliances. Try waxing your dustpan. Dirt will slide off easily when dumping.

When onions are peeled under water, they won't irritate the eyes. Salt, seasoning spices, flour and solids should all be measured "level" in recipes. A slice of bread in the cookie jar will help keep homemade cookies fresh. Soak the bread about every other day.

Saving tip: Put your "loose change" in a jar or bank at the end of each day. You'll be surprised how fast it adds up.

Try putting chocolate sauce on cereal--hot or cold. Kids love the flavor.

Puppy advice: Glue a rubber fruit jar ring to the bottom of Fido's eating and drinking dishes. The dishes won't slide around the floor. To bake potatoes in a hurry, first boil them in salted water for 10 minutes. The boiling water heats the potatoes through more rapidly than when they are placed in the oven cold.

Whether starting a letter, making up lunches or preparing ing for picnics, use a plastic food wrap with "Touch Control". The new control added to Handy-Wrap brand plastic wrap increases its "cling" nearly 50%, yet makes it easy to handle. The wrap keeps food fresh and, unlike bags, is easily adaptable to any shape. School tip: On rainy days, books covered with plastic wrap will stay dry.

When browning ground beef for a chili or spaghetti sauce, the meat can be easily separated with a potato masher.

For a different flavor treat, use a thin cheese spread in place of butter or margarine on sandwiches. Complete the sandwich with any filling you wish.

Try this for tenderizing chicken. Rub the inside and outside with lemon juice before cooking.

For a very tasty chocolate frosting, add a tablespoon of peanut butter.

Credit cards: Keep a separate list of all your credit cards, complete with serial numbers, in a safe place (not carried with the cards!). This way, if the cards are lost or stolen, you'll have an immediate record.

HUMPHREY DELEGATE WELCOMES DE MARINO SUPPORT

"We were pleased to have Sheriff DeMarino offer us his support last week," Ann Hayes said recently. "People respect Joe's honesty and forthrightness. His endorsement certainly has added some momentum to our campaign."

Mrs. Hayes was referring to an announcement that De Marino made last week at a meeting of the "Volunteers For Humphrey Committee" which took place at Howard Johnson's Restaurant in Woodbridge.

"When Mr. DeMarino spoke of Senator Humphrey as the only level-headed moderate in the field, he hit the nail right on the head. Senator Humphrey is the things that the average American is for -- and he is against the things that the average American is against," Mrs. Hayes declared.

"While Senator Humphrey agrees with some of the things Senator McGovern supports, he disagrees sharply on several issues. Senator Humphrey opposes the legalization of marijuana, the consideration of amnesty for deserters while so many of our boys are still in Viet Nam, and busting for the sake of integration. He supports the limitation of imports to protect American jobs, improving our court system, health care, and in fact has his name on every piece of progressive legislation that has passed through Congress in recent years. His opponent has not yet proven himself as an effective Congressman. I am proud to support a fine man like Senator Humphrey," she concluded.

Mrs. Hayes is one of eight candidates pledged to support Senator Hubert H. Humphrey in his bid for the Democratic nomination as President of the United States. The Humphrey slate will occupy the third line on the ballot. The two top lines have been given to an uncommitted slate and the slate pledged to Senator George McGovern of South Dakota.

Mrs. Hayes has been active in politics for twenty years, and is a member of the Democratic County Committee. She has also served as a ward chairman, Secretary of the Greater Colonia Democratic Club, and she worked for the New Jersey State Assembly for one year. She has worked as a research aide to Senator Edward J. Crabel, and was the campaign manager in the election of Assemblyman John J. Fay, Jr.

Seven other candidates have teamed with Mrs. Hayes in her support of Senator Humphrey, they are: William M. Morton, of Woodbridge; Joseph A. Hynes, of Edison; Roy A. Jackson, Carteret Democratic Municipal Chairman; Thomas Keegan, of Parlin; Raymond A. Peterson, a Woodbridge Teacher, and Joseph Stevens of Forde, Vice President of the New Jersey AFL-CIO, and Frank Marchitto, of Edison.

Running as alternates are: Dolores Hopler of Woodbridge; Miriam A. Mitchell of Avenel; Anthony Nosuchinsky, of New Brunswick; J. James Stevens, of Forde; and Dorothy A. Peterson of Milltown.

The Now Washbasket

By Joyce Champion

Now that summer is at hand it's time to freshen the warm weather clothing that has been stored in the closet for several months.

Even if they were put away clean, it still is advisable to give them a light laundering to wash away winter mustiness.

Use the recommended amount of soap or detergent plus one cup of a borax additive. A four minute wash in warm water should be sufficient. If most of the garments are of man-made fibers, a fabric softener should be added at the stage recommended on the package to eliminate static cling.

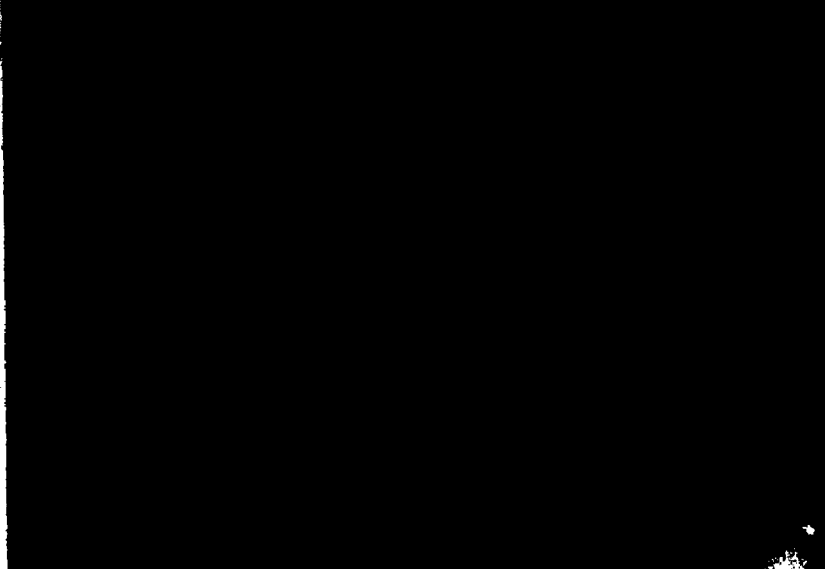

During the humid summer-time, lingerie and expendables should be washed daily. Borax, with its bacteriostat and the natural sweetening qualities of borax that have been known to consumers for 100 years, will check perspiration odors.

Panty hose, too, should be soaked nightly in a basin of warm water with one-fourth cup of the borax product for several minutes then hung to dry without rinsing. This cleans, deodorizes and strengthens nylons.

And before you put away those heavy winter things, be sure to wash them, using the borax additive to prevent that musty closet aura.

Course Held Recently At S.A. First Aid Headquarters

Instructor teaches basic knots needed for heavy rescue.

John Ciszewski, instructor for Extrication course, tells squad members about different instruments used in breaking into wrecked automobile.

On Friday and Saturday (May 6th & 7th) a course on Extrication victims from Wrecked automobiles was offered at the South Amboy First-Aid and Safety Squad parking lot. Participating were the squads involved in the Emergency Medical Technician's (EMT) Program which began January 6th, 1972.

Cars for the demonstration and practice session were supplied by Mr. Steve Vrabel of Economy Auto Body. They were examples of every possible type of problem that could confront the First-Aider at the scene of an accident.

Basic operations covered were door opening operations, raising the crushed dashboard and steering wheel, the use of a port-to-power, pneumatic (air) chisel, pry bars and numerous other equipment needed for extrication.

The course was presented by Mr. John Ciszewski, President of the South Amboy First-Aid and Safety Squad who has been teaching extrication programs throughout the state to volunteer and paid First-Aid Squads.

Mr. Ciszewski teaches auto mechanics at Sayreville W. Memorial High School. Assisting Mr. Ciszewski are: John J. McCloud II, William A. Chapman, Wayne J. Meszaros, Joseph DiGiovanni, Chester A. Ciszewski, Joseph J. Tanchyk and Kenneth Rugliano. The local squad has been a front-runner in offering educational facilities not only to their own membership but also to numerous squads in the area. Mr. John J. McCloud II and Mr. Michael J. Szraga have been preparing squad members in the use of Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) techniques while Dr. John Harrigan lectured and presented films on Emergency Childbirth and Child problems. Mr. Joseph Davies is currently offering a program of National Defensive Driving. Mr. Davies is a retired captain with the N. J. Division of Motor Vehicles and is also a board member on the Board of Directors of the South Amboy - Memorial Hospital which is co-sponsoring the EMT Program.

Travel SAFETY

If you're allergic to penicillin, tetanus toxoid or any other emergency drug, you should carry a card that says so. If you lose consciousness as the result of a travel accident, the information will help the physician who attends you to decide on the correct treatment without losing precious time. Include your blood type if you know it.

Driving with the windows shut tight can be dangerous because of the possibility of monoxide poisoning. Always leave at least one window partially open.

For safety's sake, convert most of your ready money into travelers checks before you start your trip. First National City Travelers Checks, which are available through most banks, are like cash when you need them and, if lost or stolen, can be refunded "on the spot" at more locations (30,000) than any other travelers check.

Daytime Delights For Children at Arts Center

Bugs Bunny, Puffin and other favorite figures of the television, cartoon and story-book worlds will come to life in a special series of popular priced day time programs for children at the Garden State Arts Center in July and August.

Chairman John P. Gallagher of the New Jersey Highway Authority, which operates the Arts Center on its Garden State Parkway, today announced the booking of the Bugs Bunny Show for July 5 through 8; Happy Time for July 18 through 20; H.R. Puffin for August 2 through 5; and The Pixie Judy Troupe for August 30 through September 2.

The performances, all of which will start at 2 p.m. will be in line with the new concept of Arts Center scheduling which Chairman Gallagher introduced last summer to provide delightful daytime entertainment for family outings to the beautiful showplace. The idea provided an unqualified success in its first experimental run and made clear that a continuation of this type of show was a "must" for 1972.

Popular prices again will prevail for the July and August afternoon events--with single tickets at $1, $1.50 and $2. Subscriptions will be made available this year. Prices will be $4, $6 and $8 for each four-show subscription. Since demand for these shows will be heavy, the subscription concept was introduced to assure ticket availability. "With the demand for tickets promising to be as heavy as it was for the 1971 childrens programs," Chairman Gallagher said, "the families with subscription will be sure of choice seats. When they buy in advance they get the best seat locations possible."

One of the stars of the 1971 series, Loretta Long of television's Sesame St., will return to the Arts Center in "Happy Time." She and Emmett Kelly Jr., son of the famous clown, will be the stars in a show which will follow last summer's format of entertainment, audience participation and games.

Such favorite cartoon characters as Bugs Bunny Road Runner, Wile E. Coyote and Yosemite Sam will be portrayed by actors in colorful costumes in The Bugs Bunny show.

H.R. Puffin will feature various figures from the television world of Sid and Marty Krofft, with actors in oversized costumes playing the roles of Puffin and various characters of the Lidsville and The Bugaloos shows.

The Pixie Judy Troupe will present The Thief of Bagdad, a musical for children that was a recent hit on a two-week benefit run at the Plaza Theater in New York City. It will portray a handsome, young lad accused of being a thief, a beautiful princess, an enraged demon, and of course the genii and his magic carpet.

Perfect Plants

Growing plants indoors isn't difficult -- if you know what you're doing. Here's how to coax seeds into bloom even if your thumb is far from green.

1 Grow plants in the proper soil. The right soil mixture varies from plant to plant; check your florist for detailed instructions.

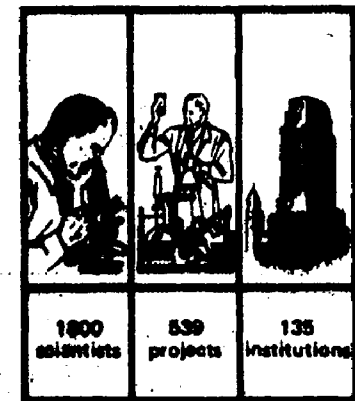

2 Give plants breathing room. Insufficient exposure to air causes long, weak stems and foliage disease.

3 Water plants in the morning using lukewarm water. Generally, the soil should be well-soaked.

GYPSE, SWINDLES & SCHEMES

--The "chain referral" gimmick, much in vogue today, is a throw back to the old pyramid clubs and chain letter fads of yesteryear -- and equally futile.

The usual come-on is a breathless telephone voice announcing: "Congratulations! You've just been declared one of the lucky winners of a genuine Sheffield-steel steak set!" The "prize" varies, of course -- it can even be a plum pudding or a turkey, to suit the season.

If you don't hang up at that moment, the voice goes on to explain that "a company representative" will be around shortly to deliver the loot, "at your convenience, of course."

To be sure, the salesman is never a salesman. He usually styles himself a "public relations man," or perhaps he's doing a bit of "market research" in your neighborhood. And if you ask how come you've never heard of his product, invariably it's because, "We did try regular advertising once, but it was too expensive, and besides, we found it wasn't half so good as word-of-mouth advertising. This way, you save a lot, too."

The clincher comes when you find out his product is "practically free if you'll help us spread the word among your friends and neighbors."

This involves, first, buying something -- it may be a vacuum cleaner, a rug, a garbage disposer, aluminum siding, a home fire extinguisher, a hi-fi or air-conditioning system, almost anything. Then you are supposed to recommend acquaintances, perhaps as many as 35 or 40, to receive demonstrations. For each one who buys, you receive a commission, and the salesman implies that many others in your area have all but paid for their purchases with these commissions. Actually, a little figuring would show that the number of people required to support such a plan quickly becomes astronomical and your chances of earning back the cost of the equipment are practically nil. And, besides, you may find yourself friendless in very short order.

--The franchise and vending machine industries have attracted more than their share of shady characters. A typical lure, in the help-wanted, business-opportunities or personal columns may start: "$300 monthly spare time. National concern will select man or woman to own and operate profitable route of vending machines in this area. No selling. Must have six hours per week spare time, references and $600 cash immediately available."

Or another: "Earn money while you sleep..." Any statement implying that all you have to do is feed the machine and watch the money roll in should be suspected. There are many legitimate businessmen in this field, of course, and here is what one of them, a manufacturer, had to say about a vending machine route.

"It requires plenty of sacrifices. You'll work hard for what you make, and it won't be a fortune. You'll work long hours, with few vacations or days off. You may not even be able to separate your business and home life. When you start on a small scale, as you'll have to, you must do all the work yourself. You can't afford help. You'll be on call at all times for service and repairs because ours is primarily a service business."

Another tip-off that you are in the clutches of a dishonest promoter is his use of "profit charts." Generally, the chart is little more than a multiplication table, completely hypothetical in nature. It fails to take note of such "incidental" as taxes, fees, overhead and repair bills or to make a distinction between gross and net income.

The objective of a phony vending machine operation is to sell you some machines and run. It is not uncommon for Better Business Bureaus to hear that poor quality machines have been sold for two or three times their actual worth.

And watch out, too, if the man you talk to peppers his spiel with names of big, respected companies. Such names as Hershey's Chocolate, Wrigley's Gum, M&M Candies, Planter's Nuts, Bayer Aspirin and Kodak have been used in such a way as to imply that the promoter is closely associated with them.

There are other similar "business opportunity" schemes. A firm that pushed a floorwaxing franchise was put out of business by the New York State Attorney General when it was caught peddling $100 worth of equipment for $936 and reneging on promises to obtain employment.

A Hollywood cosmetics enterprise placed ads in newspapers promising "excellent year-round profit potential." As the local District Attorney later put it: "Purchasers paid money and later found no company or goods existed."

--Phony "must liquidate" ads in the classified sections of newspapers are raking in profits. In Los Angeles alone, fake mail-order liquidation sales made $11,000,000 in 1963.

One advertisement stated: "Public notice -- claim notice No. 575036. Must liquidate several tons of heavy-gauge stainless steel 17-piece waterless cookware, brand-new, factory guaranteed. List Price $199.50 -- Sacrifice $95.00."

Similar ads promised fantastic savings on everything from watches to detergents. Direct-mail circulars spoke of bankruptcies, liquidation sales or "unclaimed" merchandise.

As one indictment explained, orders were filled, all right, but "not with merchandise of the type, brand and quality advertised but with merchandise different from, inferior to and worth less than the merchandise the public had been induced by the advertising to believe it would receive."

--In a scheme aimed at unsuspecting businessmen, a form resembling an invoice is used to solicit directory

Baked Beans Light Up The Meal

Add a flaming sauce to a common pot of beans and presto -- you have an uncommon dish to delight everyone. Baked Beans Flambe is a new version of an old favorite. The secret ingredient in this recipe which makes the difference is Barton's Q.T. The new premium light whiskey adds an unusual delicate flavor to the beans.

When you prepare this recipe be sure to make enough to serve six.

Baked Beans Flambe
2 lg. (16-oz.) cans baked beans in molasses
6 strips bacon, fried crisp and crumbled
1 medium onion, chopped fine
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup premium American light whiskey

Save the bacon grease and add the chopped onion. Simmer until onion is transparent. Add brown sugar and Worcestershire, stirring until the sugar melts. Add bacon bits. Mix half the brown sugar mixture with the baked beans in a 1 1/4 qt. casserole and heat in 350° F. oven 20 minutes.

Remove from oven and top with remaining mixture. Return to oven, placing under broiler, until the topping bubbles. Remove from oven, pour premium American light whiskey over topping. Ignite and serve immediately. Since Baked Beans Flambe glows with a soft blue flame, the dish is ideal for serving by candlelight. Serves four to six.

listings. The form is designed to create the impression it represents a renewal of the company's listing or advertisement in the local telephone book or other established business directories. The promised listings cost about $30, and if they ever see print, it's in skinny pamphlets of little or no value.

--Even the flower that bloom in the spring can be exploited. One promoter pushed Ailanthus (Tree-of-Heaven, also less graciously but more accurately known as the Stink Tree) in full-page magazine ads as "The most spectacular shade tree ever seen on this planet!"

Another full-pager, blazoned forth that "this sensational new variety of Rose Smashing Scarlet... explodes with fresh bouquets of the most breathtakingly beautiful giant roses... each and every day." The headline shrieked of "11,000 GIANT RED ROSES" in just one single season... spring 'til frost."

The National Better Business Bureau discovered that the plant was not a new variety but just the familiar climbing rose called Blaze. Says NBBB: Blaze doesn't bloom in any such quantity, won't produce significantly its first year, has flowers smaller than the ad implies, blooms chiefly in the spring -- and is, in fact, just an ordinary garden-variety climber.

--Overseas job hoaxes are booming. They promise up to $1,500 a month, while enjoying "adventure," "Romance," "excellent living conditions" and, wonder of wonders, all this with "little or no taxes." All the applicant has to do is pay a $22.50 fee to a promoter-salesman from the employment service. Then he waits-- and waits and waits and waits.

These are only a few of the current favorites among an almost inexhaustible supply of plots to raid your pocketbook. One ad said simply: "Last chance to rush $1 to Box--" And people rushed in their dollar bills. When you read of such schemes, with the benefit of hindsight, you may think it incredible that anyone could be so gullible as to fall for them. Yet thousands of folks do every day. In the hands of skilled operators, even the most far-fetched swindle can be made plausible and convincing. Learning this by experience can be costly. The better way is to recognize that you, too, could be taken -- and keep your guard up.

Where to go for help

What do you do if you've been skinned? If you've been taken by a real con artist, it's probably too late to get your money back. But there's always a chance that he can be taken out of circulation for a while and that others can be warned. Here are the major federal agencies you can report to:

- Chief Postal Inspector, U.S. Post Office Department, Washington, D.C. 20260, or the nearest post office inspector. Any scheme that makes use of the mails, however remotely, even if it's just sending your check to the gypster, can fall within their jurisdiction.
- Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington, D.C. 20201. They are concerned with medicines, medical devices and equipment.
- Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580. Complaints involving false or misleading advertising, misbranding and unfair competition.
- U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. Stocks and bonds and people who sell them.
- Federal Bureau of Investigation--the office nearest you. For information on or action against federal or interstate law-breakers.
- The Federal Housing Administration field office nearest you and the Veterans Administration regional office for your area. For complaints about housing or home-repair activities that involved FHA-VA financing.

Don't overlook help at the local level, starting with the police department. There are about 115 Better Business Bureaus in the U.S., and almost every town has a chamber of commerce, which may be able to advise you before you invest. The National Better Business Bureau, 330 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017, keeps up-to-date on interstate operations.

INDEX IN CONGRESS

U.S. REP. EDWARD PATTER

In a recent statement before a House subcommittee, I called construction of a Veterans' Administration hospital in Southern New Jersey a great need.

I pointed out to members of the House HUD-Space-Science-Veterans Subcommittee on Appropriations that Southern New Jersey has experienced a rapid expansion in the past decade and deserves a VA hospital.

Nothing that the population has increased by about one-third in the past 10 years and that more than 275,000 veterans live in that area, I disclosed that many of these veterans are forced to travel long distances to receive medical treatment.

Under the plan proposed by myself and U.S. Senator Harrison A. Williams (Dem.-NJ), Chairman of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, New Jersey would build a new medical center near the proposed VA hospital in the vicinity of Camden. Our plan also has the support of Governor William T. Cahill, of New Jersey.

In my statement to the House subcommittee, I asked for an appropriation of $1,700,000 to be used for acquiring a site and for planning the hospital. The estimate total cost of the proposed 480-bed VA hospital is $38 million. The VA hospital and new medical school would enable the two to work together, not only benefiting the patients, but would also help provide important training for future doctors.

The veterans of America have made it possible for all of us to enjoy freedom and security. The least they deserve is to receive the best possible medical treatment. I don't believe that Congress will ignore the medical needs of veterans in Southern New Jersey. Although one can never be certain in government, I am optimistic about the funds being approved by the subcommittee and Congress, for the cause is right.

SEASON SALADS SUPERBLY

By: Marge Ehlers
Spice Specialist

With warmer weather and lighter meals, everyone's in the mood for imaginative salads. Using handy jars of spices and herbs, you can create appealing salads and salad dressings every day of the week. For quick and easy flavor accents, follow these salad seasoning tips from the Ehlers test kitchens.

• Monotonous tossed salads? Improve them with a generous sprinkling of Salad Herbs.

• For menu variety, serve main dish salads. Drain a can of tuna, add chopped celery, pickle relish, lettuce and tomato wedges. Use French dressing and a generous dash of basil leaves.

• Vary salad greens. Use fresh spinach, Boston lettuce, endive, romaine and watercress for variety. Salad Cheese, a convenient spice blend, goes nicely with these. Add oil and vinegar and salad is all set.

• A dash of dill weed perks up macaroni salad.

• Cottage cheese seasoned with garlic salt and lemon pepper marinade is special with summer-fresh vegetables.

• Salad onions from the spice shelf are a colorful addition to potato salad. The red, white and green onions save time and trouble too and should be a staple in your pantry.

• A touch of instant minced onion and some bottled vegetable flakes add new interest to cole slaw. (NP Features)

SEVERE MOSQUITO SEASON YET TO COME

If you haven't had a bite in days, relief may be on the way. Early season mosquitoes have started on the wing throughout the state, according to Rutgers professor Danilo M. Jobbins. Jobbins, a research specialist with the Department of Entomology and Economic Zoology of the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, also said that a severe mosquito season is viewed as a possibility this year.

"Larval sampling and preventive larval control by the county mosquito extermination commissions over the past two months have indicated widespread development of early-season woodland swamp species," said Jobbins.

He indicated that this is particularly significant in North Jersey where unusual late summer rains in 1971 left margins of flood plain well seeded with eggs as Aedes vexans, the fresh floodwater mosquito.

"These are now hatching under the influence of recent rains and rising temperatures," he added.

In South Jersey, early season mosquito development was recorded in the first part of March. Salt marsh mosquitoes are now active and there is evidence of the beginnings of development among Aedes sollicitans, the main salt marsh mosquito. These are occurring somewhat later than normally anticipated.

In the cities, Culex, the house mosquito, is appearing ahead of schedule. Culex mosquitoes are associated with man's activities in creating breeding sites in water-holding debris, clogged surface drains, and waste waters of various qualities.

According to Jobbins, the early appearance of Culex is an indicator of inadequate management of superficial water, construction site drainage, and deteriorating urban conditions.

The householder can help in the mosquito fight by cleaning up waterholding containers, unused swimming pools, and other water attractive to mosquitoes on private property.

Householders can also help fight mosquitoes in conjunction with the county mosquito extermination commissions in this manner. Taking action on the local problems about the home grounds can lessen the burden on county-financed mosquito fighters.

These county mosquito extermination commissions wage war on the mosquito in several different ways. The methods and tactics employed in this war vary with the seasons. To illustrate this point, Jobbins explained the various ways of fighting mosquitoes on the county level.

"When county mosquito work begins in the spring," he said, "the first activity is to clear streams and waterways of the debris of winter, such as fallen trees. This allows the water to run off, rather than cause flooding, which is beneficial to mosquito breeding."

The second step is usually preventive larviciding. Insecticides are applied to kill mosquito larvae before they hatch. These insecticides are applied in either dry granular or liquid form.

The third step is inspection. When developing mosquito larvae are discovered, the larvae are sprayed with appropriate insecticides. One of these is "Abate," a safe material which is specific to mosquitoes.

When adult mosquitoes appear, sampling work is done, largely by collecting traps and bite count stations. Species are identified, intensity is gauged, and occasionally, the distribution of mosquito movements can be determined. Jobbins pointed out that there are over 50 known mosquito species in the state.

"Next," said Jobbins, "we curtail water management, continue larval control, and prepare for the killing of mosquitoes on the wing. This goes on throughout the summer, along with a nominal level of water management."

As fall approaches, county mosquito extermination commissions prepare to taper off on the chemical work and move into a program of clearing brush areas of trash and summer litter.

Also, an intensified water management schedule is begun. This includes ditch digging and clearing which continues until the ice of winter forces the work to stop for the season.

The aim of these mosquito control programs is to reach the "extermination level," a level at which mosquitoes are not a problem.

Regional projects are stressed which involve many types of water management.

The quality of mosquito control has improved tremendously since the early days, Jobbins indicated, but there is still one problem that the mosquito fighters have yet to conquer.

"We are making tremendous strides against the country and open-area mosquitoes," he said, "but the city mosquito is becoming an increasingly severe problem. Damaged buildings with wet cellars, construction sites with poor drainage, and damp places in general are creating manmade mosquito situations."

"Generally," summarized Jobbins, "we are trying to concentrate effort toward preventive mosquito work at the source. Preventive work is the only really satisfactory means of controlling mosquitoes of nuisance and public health importance."

PILLOW TALK

NEW YORK, N.Y. (ED) — The three most popular size bed pillows are standard (regular), queen and king. But you should consider more than size when you choose a pillow. It's important to read the fiber content label, because what your pillow is made of affects its durability and performance.

Two components make up a pillow, and both are equally important. Pillow fillings may be either of man-made or natural materials, each with its own distinctive properties. The outer shell (tickling) is often made of 100% cotton or a blend of polyester/cotton, again each with specific performance characteristics. Polyester/cotton ticking is resistant to shrinking, abrasion and wrinkling.

The problems of matting and lumping have been overcome by new types of filling, especially polyester. Fortrel 7 polyester is used because it's a resilient, tough man-made fiber. Since the Fortrel 7 fibers are not bonded together, they can move and shift with the sleeper's movements. Polyester fiberfill is also non-allergenic, mildew-proof and washable.

Old-style fillings include down (goose) and feathers. Feathers are either chicken or duck or a combination. Down or goose feathers are imported into this country resulting in a limited supply and higher costs. All pillows with natural fillings must be cleaned at commercial cleaners.

HONOR THE VETS
MEMORIAL DAY
MAY 28th

MORTARBOARD FOR THE MAYOR -- Mayor Richard S. Gulick of West Amwell Township, a man who wears many hats, tries on the one he will wear next Thursday (June 1) at Rutgers University's 206th anniversary commencement. He will receive a Bachelor of Science degree from the college of Agriculture and Environmental Science where he began his college education 26 years ago.

The mayor of West Amwell Township will don his cap and gown next Thursday (June 1) and join the graduating class at the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science.

When Richard S. Gulick receives his Bachelor of Science degree that day it will mark the end of a pursuit of a college education that began 25 years ago. Mayor Gulick wears many hats but the one that has taken him the longest to acquire is the academic mortarboard.

As a dairyman he farms more than 875 acres of land for his 280 head of registered Holstein cattle. He started wearing the hat of a politician last November when he was elected Mayor.

And if this weren't enough he is vice president of the Board of Managers of the College from which he will graduate, a member of the New Jersey Agricultural Society, the Hunterdon County Board of Agriculture, and the New Jersey Farm Bureau and Advisory Committee for Dairy.

Born and raised on a dairy farm in West Amwell Township, not far from where he now lives, the mayor is a graduate of Lambertville High School, Class of 1946.

He enrolled in the College of Agriculture in 1946 as a dairy husbandry major. Completing two years of college, he went home for the summer. His summer vacation stretched to 14 years.

Reflecting on the past he says, "Farming was the only thing I was interested in at the time so I stayed home to help my father."

As the years went by the responsibilities of operating his dairy farms coupled with the demands for his time in organizational activities delayed his return to school to complete his college education, although he and his wife had talked about it many times.

"In the spring of 1962, with a little prodding by my wife," admits the mayor, "I went to New Brunswick to see if I could be reinstated and whether my previous credits could still be applied toward a degree."

"I found out I could pick up where I left off and went back for the spring term, but there just weren't enough hours in the day to be a full-time student; the farms had to come first."

Determined not to be a dropout for the second time, he decided to transfer to University College and attend classes at night. By doing so he had to change his courses and lost his agricultural credits.

For the next six years he attended night school twice a week, taking subjects that would give him a degree in business management.

"It wasn't easy. The days were long and the nights too sort, especially for a dairy farmer who has to face 175 milking cows at 5 in the morning. I could only take one or two courses a semester," commented the new graduate.

With an impish smile he said, "I remember one night I fell asleep in class. The professor was furious. I saw to it that it never happened again."

Gulick transferred back to the agricultural college in 1968 when he learned that the credits he had accumulated over the years would fit into the agricultural science curriculum. Interested in agriculture from the beginning, he found the move was another step toward his goal.

The mayor isn't the only member of the family who will receive a diploma in June. His wife, Elsie, who received a master's degree in nursing from Trenton State College while a member of the Trenton public school system, will be awarded a second master's degree in parent-child nursing from New York University.

Not to be overshadowed by her parents, daughter Martha, who is a member of the National Honor Society, will graduate from South Hunterdon High School. For the past two semesters she has been attending Bucks County Community College at night pursuing courses to complement her studies at Rutgers University this Fall.

Hungry Bugs

The United States Department of Agriculture reports that insect pests, unless stopped by pesticides, cause a 25 to 30% decrease in the annual production of fruit and vegetables. This figure becomes even more serious when combined with facts given by the Food and Agricultural Office of the United Nations. FAO found the 1969 world food production showed no increase over that of 1968 — even though the population grew. Without the use of pesticides, there will not be enough food to feed the world.

Perth Amboy General Hospital Opens Mental Health and Alcoholic Units

Perth Amboy General Hospital has begun two unique programs aimed at meeting two of the day's most pressing community health problems — mental illness and the disease of alcoholism.

Two federal grants provide funds which help make these programs possible. The grant for a total therapeutic program in mental health was obtained from the National Institute of Mental Health through the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Middlesex County. It is shared by the Raritan Bay Mental Health Clinic, Perth Amboy General Hospital, and the Family Counseling Service. The three agencies collaborate to form the Raritan Bay Mental Health Center.

Federal funds from the eight-year grant will be used primarily for staffing, with the participating agencies assuming a proportionately larger share of the cost each year.

The comprehensive alcoholism treatment grant, initiated by the county, is shared by the Raritan Bay Mental Health Clinic and the hospital, as applicant. The grant was made by the National Institute for Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

Anthony S. Dickens, director of Perth Amboy General Hospital, explains that the hospital has put the twin programs into effect by converting the first floor of the hospital's northeast wing into a 20-bed unit for short-term psychiatric cases and for acutely ill alcoholic patients who need immediate treatment.

Staff members participating in the programs will include a director-psychiatrist, other psychiatrists and physicians, mental health specialists, social workers, nurses and administrative personnel.

Since patients are worked with on an intensive individual basis not possible in the usual hospital situation, the ratio of personnel to patient is high. This would be financially feasible without a staffing grant.

The treatment team makes medical and psychosocial evaluations, develops a treatment plan, prepares the patient for the next phase of treatment, and helps the patient's family to adjust to the situation.

Facilities in the special hospital unit reflect advanced concepts of treatment. Although the unit is closed to general hospital traffic, ambulatory patients are free to circulate within and may eat in a central dining area rather than in their semi-private rooms. There is a lounge with TV and other recreational facilities as well as private rooms for treatments, consultations, conferences and group therapy.

Those physically able to travel will be taken from the hospital to the nearby Mental Health Clinic for occupational and other therapies.

Under the mental health grant, the hospital is also providing a three-bed diagnostic unit adjacent to the emergency room for persons brought to the hospital in an acute psychotic state. This emergency service is to be available 24 hours a day.

The total therapeutic program available through the cooperation of all agencies in the Raritan Bay Mental Health Center project is expected to reduce the patient's recovery time. Patients will be transferred from the hospital to the next phase of the recovery program as soon as the acute symptoms which required hospitalization have subsided.

Followup care will be arranged with the cooperating agencies before a patient is released from the hospital.

TAMING THE TIRE KILLERS
Speed, heat, road hazards — heat build-up individually or combined, these three driving facts of life can steal years of usefulness from your tires.

With Fiberglass belted tires, however, you can effectively tame these "killers."

Just as a toy snake stops wriggling when it's reinforced with a piece of tape, Fiberglass cord helps keep a tire's tread from squirming. High speed wheel tests have demonstrated that Fiberglass cord belts give tires added stability and longer tread wear.

Road hazards like potholes, rocks and other debris are also less threatening to tires made with Fiberglass. And that's because — pound for pound — this man-made cord is stronger than steel!

And, because they reduce road friction by the added stability, Fiberglass belts help to take the heat off heat buildup.

MECHANICVILLE MAN FOUND GUILTY

A Sayreville man was found guilty of three charges and had three other dismissals in South Amboy City Court Tuesday night.

The defendant, Donald Bryant, had been charged with careless driving, reckless during and leaving the scene of an accident in connection with an early April collision with a police car. Bryant had also been charged by police with two counts of eluding police officers and one count of driving without headlights. After consultation between Bryant's attorney, Ronald Bush, the municipality's attorney, and the arresting officers, pleas of guilty were registered on the careless and reckless driving counts and the leaving the scene of an accident charge. The other charges were dismissed.

Judge Everett accepted the pleas and before sentencing he heard remarks from Mr. Bush. The lawyer said his client had suffered already for his "stupid act" by having to appear in court on a number of occasions and needing to spend a significant amount of money for his damaged car. He added that Bryant had "learned his lesson" and appealed to Judge Everett for leniency.

The judge fined Bryant a total of $205 on the three motor vehicle counts. Judge Everett also refused to revoke Bryant's license pending action by the New Jersey Department of Motor Vehicles in Trenton. In other court business, Robert Morris of South Feltus St. in South Amboy was fined a total of $60 for possession of a pipe with marijuana residue. Morris had been stopped by city police on May 12th for driving with fictitious license plates and failing to present proof of ownership of the automobile he was driving. Upon inspection of the vehicle, the officers found the marijuana. Morris steadfastly denied any knowledge of the pipe and its contents but Judge Everett ruled that the state had proved their case.

Recalling 'The Good Old Days...

In today's fast paced world, there's hardly enough time for anything. A look backward, therefore, may be in order to the days when Sunday meant a family picnic in the park when kids played with marbles and spun tops and when "pot" was only a container for food to "the good old days."

Refrigerators? Few households had them. The icebox kept food cold and horse-drawn wagons brought the ice. Customers put a sign in the window indicating how much ice was wanted.

The ice man, with a 50-75 or 100 pound block of ice slung precariously over his shoulder and held with tongs, carried his cargo to each icebox (sometimes to the third floor!).

These were the days when the five and ten cent store sold nothing priced over a dime... when you could buy a "penny" postcard... and when a ride on a city street-car cost seven cents.

"Buck Rogers In The 25th Century" was a favorite comic strip. Space travel! What marvelous "science fiction"! Nothing like that could ever really happen—certainly not in our lifetime.

Probably high on the list as one of the most unpopular jobs around the house in the old days was cleaning the oven. Scraping and scouring sometimes took a full day or longer, and a supply of steel wool and scouring powder was a necessity. Today, the task is much easier, reports researchers for the Dow Chemical Company. The company's new oven cleaner not only does the job in as little as 10 minutes with a simple spray, but the cleaner is lemon scented, as well. In the old days, scooters were made out of orange crates and roller skates (and one shoe always wore out before the other).

Television? It was still to come. People listened to radio—scheduled their time to be home for such shows as: The Shadow, Dr. I.Q., One Man's Family and Inner Sanctum. With radio, your imagination was the key. Remember?

And, what ever happened to the "hurdy-gurdy"? A crowd gathered wherever the old organ grinder had appeared. The monkey, little red hat clutched tightly, would solicit pennies while the music played. The organ grinder seemed to hibernate in winter, so hearing his familiar tune was a sign of Spring. The hurdy-gurdy would sure help brighten things up today.

Every age has its memories. We tend to remember the good things and forget the bad. As the kids of today grow up, they will probably reminisce about the time man finally became concerned about his environment.

The first car on the moon—the moon rover—and the three people actually had to work five days each week in the good old days.

Sports Review

By Tom Burkard

On May 9th, the City Slow Pitch League began. In the first game, the expansion Mystical Knights of the Sea shutout the Post Office 8-0. Smokey Ryan and Tony Mancini combined for six hits. The master of the shutout was Don Potts. The losing pitcher was Joe Groncki. In the second game, Independence drubbed Fritz's Tavern 13-3. Kevin Nemeth went 4-4 with a homer and 4 runs scored. Rookie outfielder Bob Carew opened his season with a bang by blasting 2 homers and a single. Chet Wortley also chipped in with 3 singles. Gary Polind was the winning pitcher and John Murphy the loser.

In other games, Roddy's edged defending champions Brave Bulls 6-5 in 8 innings. Ray Selover's home run was the hitting highlight in the contest. Frank Kennedy picked up the win, with Jack Gallagher absorbing the loss. The Brothers Inn Powerhouse started their campaign by mauling Dot's Luncheonette 10-0. Manager-second baseman Pete Inman banged out 2 hits and scored 3 runs. Ken Wahler and Chet Meinzer also rapped two hits apiece. Winning pitcher Charlie Conroy spun a three hitter in besting John Kopystecky. The Big Swede defeated Progressive 30-3 behind Tom Magielnecki. Roddy's beat Dot's Luncheonette 13-5 for their second straight triumph. Winning pitcher Henry Moe blasted a home run off loser John Kopystecky. Pancho's Pilots edged Progressive 6-5. Ed Shaber blazed a homer for the losers. Gene Cross was the winning pitcher. The White Eagle slipped past Fritz's 8-7 behind Jim Holovacko's strong pitching and Wally Binkowski's homer. The Brave Bulls got on the winning track by blasting English Chevrolet 10-4. Gene Lopez went 3-3 with 4 ribbies for the winners. Brian O'Brien and Greg Havlusch homered for the Chevies. The Mechanicville Bombers defeated the Mystical Knights 7-2 in 8 innings. Europe bound Joe Jaszkowiak blasted a homer and two singles for the Green and Gold. Ed Paskowski spun a four hitter.

The Big Swede waltzed to their second straight win by destroying the Post Office 19-5. Gary Read and Larry Kurzawa both went 4-5. Joe Kelly blasted a home run for the Swedes. Tom Magielnecki picked up his second win in as many starts. Brothers Inn demolished Independence 15-2. Pete Inman continued his torrid hitting by going 3-4. Bill Connors also went 3-4 with a double and triple. Chet Meinzer was 3-3 with a double and homer. Joe Castellano and Ken Wahler also crashed home runs. Kevin Nemeth of Independence ran his hit streak to 6-6 in two games. Rich Klein, Brothers Inn superstar and 1971 batting champion has only batted once this season. The blonde bomber has been plagued by a leg injury.

A few under class high school superstars appear to be in full bloom. Billy D'Amico, a junior left-hander at Sayreville has an excellent shot at making all-county. Bill has run up a very impressive mark of 5 wins and 1 loss. His earned run average of .040 is one of the best in the state. Another South Amboy product, Steve Makwinski threw a no hitter in the state tourney last week for Sayreville. Steve is only a soph. Two of the brightest catching products in the county are sophomore John D. O'Toole of St. Mary's, and Moose McCarthy of Hoffman. O'Toole is batting over .400 for the year, and McCarthy only a freshman is well over the .400 clip. McCarthy became the first freshman player ever to hit a ball over the left field fence in Veterans' field.

Weigh That Fish!

Many fishermen measure their angling success by the pound, rather than by the size or number of fish caught.

This is particularly true with anglers who enjoy catching crappie, sunfish and other species not noted for their size. If you don't carry a weight scale in the tackle box, here's an easy formula from the Mercury outdoor fishing department which will help determine a fish's weight.

First, find the maximum girth and the length. Next, square the girth measurement (multiply against itself), then multiply that figure by the length, and divide the result by 800. Assume you caught a fish whose length is 14 inches, with a girth of eight inches. Eight squared is 64. Multiply that by 14 and you have 896. That divided by 800 equals 1.1, so the fish weighs one and 1/10th pounds.

Surprisingly, this formula is accurate within an ounce, when applied to small fish. When used for larger fish, the girth/length ratio becomes an unstable factor, and the weight derived from the formula will probably be incorrect.

The weight of a record class fish should never be estimated by this method. The only way to establish a record fish's statistics is with approved scales (most states license grocery and meat scales), plenty of witnesses who will contribute signed statements, and preferably with an official of the state game and fish department present.

Another point to remember about a potential record fish is that it should be kept alive. Fish begin losing weight immediately when death occurs. This is mostly through dehydration, so if a record size fish dies before being weighed, be sure to keep it in water. Although the loss for the first few hours after death is seldom more than an ounce per pound of fish, that's enough to cause your catch to miss the record book.
