TOM SCULLY WILL SPEAK

Has Accepted Invitation of Welcome Home Committee to Address the Returned Heroes on June 28—Morrissey's Band Engaged to Play for Parade, Banquet and Dancing.

Thursday night at the meeting of the Welcome Home Committee, further plans were devised for the huge celebration in honor of South Amboy's returning heroes, numbering three or four hundred men, to be held on Saturday, June 28th.

The main discussion of the meeting was the formation of the parade, and the parade committee consisting of Leo J. Conkley, Edward Trevas-kiss, Charles Safran, R. C. Stephenson and Crosby Matthews, have arranged a temporary or tentative formation, which will be followed out as closely as possible, unless other organizations will be in line that are not known of at this writing. Three of the local churches have consented to have members of their parishes in line and will also furnish a band each, and these are the Sacred Heart, Christ Episcopal and St. Mary's churches.

Quite some wrangle was started when the question of securing the local Third Battalion band for the celebration was brought up. The majority of the members of the Welcome Home Committee present felt that the local band committed an injustice on Memorial Day when they demanded a dollar extra per man to escort the Sacred Heart parish from their church in Washington avenue to the line of formation of the parade in First street. Although little is known of this incident the minority present thought this was a small matter to point out, when such a question as hiring the local band for a celebration to which they belong is considered and argued it was through the patriotic spirit of this band that music of the best had been furnished without expense at various affairs for which they played. That the local band had responded to every mass meeting held at the Empire Theatre for the benefit of the Liberty Loans, Red Cross Drives, and other numerous war drives that were conducted and also participated in the "send-off" celebrations when the boys left the city to fight the Roche across the pond. Therefore the minority considered it would seem a most fitting move to make for the returned khaki members (all of whom this city is proud of) to demand that the band that played without any remuneration whatsoever when they went away be given preference to all other band organizations, and be in the parade where they rightly belong this time to receive their pay.

However, Morrissey's Band of Perth Amboy was engaged for the main attraction on Welcome Home Day. They will head the parade, play at the auditorium while the banquet is being served the boys, and will also play on McGonigle's veranda at the corner of David street and Broadway for the street dancing that will take place at night.

A large banner which has been obtained from Laggren Brothers of Elizabeth will be here on Saturday, with the necessary equipment for suspending it across the street. By motion it will be strung on Broadway between David and Henry streets, in the place where the small Welcome Home banner is now strung. An arrangement for the hanging of this banner will be made the early part of the week.

It was decided that an extensive house-to-house canvass would not be necessary, as the committee in charge of this celebration felt that it would exercise a hardship on the public at this time to conduct one of these drives. The finance committee, however, will visit the merchants, saloon proprietors, and other retail houses, in a manner enough money could be raised. However, nators who feel that they can out the cause of defraying the expenses of this celebration, can do by giving their check or money.

Mayor Frank Gordon or City Editor Leo J. Conkley.

Among the speakers will be Congressman Thomas J. Scully who has promised to be on hand, as he always is, when South Amboy needs him. Other speakers will also be at the new auditorium of the High School where the banquet will be served to the returning war veterans of this city.

HEADQUARTERS OPENED

FOR BOY SCOUT DRIVE
Headquarters for the Boy Scout drive have been opened in the McGonigle building and it is open every evening for business.

Chairman John A. Coan has selected the same committee that assisted him in the last Liberty Loan Campaign, and with such a corps of workers he feels sure that this city's quota will be reached and more.

At the organization meeting on Monday night everybody was sanguine of the greatest success. Scoutmaster Dill of Troops 1 and 2, and P. A. Deacon made some very encouraging remarks on the campaign and of the vast amount of good accomplished by the Boy Scouts throughout the United States.

Soon the committee will be actively engaged in soliciting members. Don't say "no," but become a member of this growing organization.

HARDY—LAYDEN.

Miss Evelyn Layden, of New Brunswick, and Mr. Russell Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hardy of this city, were quietly married at the rectory of the Sacred Heart Church, New Brunswick, at 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon, last, the Rev. Joseph A. Ryan performing the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Olivia Verga, of Camden, and Mr. Thomas Chapman of this city served as bestman.

After the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the home of the bride, where a wedding supper was served. Late in the afternoon the happy couple and attendants came to this city by auto and visited the home of the groom, and after congratulations had been extended, they were driven to Perth Amboy where they took a train on their wedding tour. They expect to visit Atlantic City and Easton, Pa., before they return.

MILLER'S LUMBER YARD GOES UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

The A. J. Miller lumber yard will be under new management after July 1, Mr. Miller having disposed of certain interests to O. W. Welsh and L. J. Bergen, and the firm name will be Miller, Welsh and Bergen. Mr. Miller will hereafter devote most of his time to his Carteret yard, and Messrs. Welsh and Bergen will look after the business of the yard here. Both of the new members of the firm are well and favorably known in this city, and their friends will undoubtedly lend them all the support possible.

St. Mary's Commencement.

Next Tuesday the commencement exercises of St. Mary's School will be held in the school hall. A fine program will be rendered and judging from previous entertainments by this school a treat will be in store for those who attend.

McNAMARA—HOLTON.

On Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock St. Mary's Church was the scene of a large gathering, who assembled to witness the beautiful wedding of Miss Elizabeth Holton of this city to Mr. John J. McNamara of Perth Amboy. Promptly on time the wedding party entered the church and took position before the altar, when Rev. E. C. Griffin, D. D., tied the hymeneal knot, followed by the celebration of high nuptial mass.

Miss Vincent Holton, a cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaid, and Mr. James Holton, a brother of the bride, was attendant to the groom.

After the ceremony the wedding party and guests assembled at the home of the bride, 255 Raritan street, where after hearty congratulations were extended a bountiful wedding breakfast was served. The house decorations were red, white and pink roses intertwined with orange blossoms.

The happy couple left at 11:30 o'clock, and motored as far as Newark, where they took a train for upper New York State where they will spend their honeymoon. On their return they will make their home in this city. A number of pretty and useful gifts were received by the bride.

Surprised Parents By Coming Home.

Harry Dowdell, Jr., having been honorably discharged from the service, arrived unexpectedly at his home on Second street Sunday afternoon and completely surprised and delighted his parents. Harry while abroad was in some of the thickest of the fighting and has some interesting stories to tell of his experience.

Company F Men Granted Warrants.

The report of the examining officer who recently conducted examinations for non-commissioned officers in Company F has been received from headquarters and the following men were granted warrants: Supply Sergeant Earl Stevens, First Sergeant Fred Bloodgood, Corporals Thomas Havens, Jacob Newmark and Leon Frelschnect.

GO TO CAMP JULY 14.

The general orders covering the State Militia Encampment at Sea Girt have been issued and the local militia company received them on Wednesday. Under these orders no man is excused from attending the camp. It is understood that all preparations are being made to have an efficient organization in the state to cope with any trouble that might arise through the rapid spread of Socialism. The local militia company will leave for camp on July 14th.

FIND MAN IN BARN

ALONGSIDE OF BURNING HAY

An alarm sent in from Box 36 at 1 o'clock on Sunday morning brought the fire department out to extinguish a blaze in the loft of the barn on Augusta street owned by Mrs. Frank Meinzer. Fortunately Mayor Gordon noticed the fire from his residence across the street from the barn just in the nick of time, and turned in the alarm. A few minutes more and the fire would have proven disastrous, and in all likelihood Joseph Taylor, who was asleep in the part where the fire started, would have lost his life. The firemen quickly responded to the call and with the chemical apparatus soon extinguish the blaze.

The fire was cause for more trouble for Taylor as he was arrested on a disorderly charge, and at a hearing on Sunday morning, Justice Birmingham sentenced him to sixty days in the county workhouse, so that he might have ample time to sober up.

TOTAL SUBSCRIPTION $358,400.

John A. Coan, chairman of the Victory Liberty Loan drive, has reported that the total subscription in this city was $358,400, against a quota of $225,600. This is 159 per cent. of the quota and entitled South Amboy to a star on the Honor Flag. The flag and star have been received from headquarters.

This subscription is surely far beyond the anticipation of the most optimistic, and is a great credit to the people of this city, and taking into consideration the fact that many people were without employment, due to the shutting down of the munition plants, the result has been truly wonderful.

TO ADVERTISERS AND OTHERS.

Notice is hereby given to advertisers, correspondents, writers of church notes, etc., that it is the intention of the Citizen to go to press on Thursday, July 3, in order to give employees an opportunity to join in the celebration of the Fourth of July, therefore it is requested that copy be sent in a day earlier than usual that week.—Adv. 2 w.

EPISCOPALIANS, ATTENTION!

The men of Christ Church Parish have decided to turn out in a body on Welcome Home Day. In order to have a large representation it is desired that every man of the parish turn out to honor those who have been in the service of their country. A band of music has been engaged to lead the division, and flags and banners will be carried by the men. Those who will join in this celebration are requested to meet at the Parish House not later than 3:30 p. m., where the line will be formed. The parade will be short and not take up much time, so men of the parish turn out and make a creditable showing.

CELEBRATION CLOSED SUNDAY

The exercises in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Methodist Episcopal Church on John street came to a close on Sunday, and taken as a whole proved a most gratifying and successful event.

Sunday will go down in the history of the church as a red-letter day. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and flags. There was a great number of roses, daisies and peonies banked in and around the pulpit also in the colonade window in the auditorium. Most of the flowers were secured and arranged by Mrs. H. Stratton's class. The decoration of flags was arranged by Mrs. L. E. Stults. One part of this decoration was a large ball suspended from the ceiling in the center of the room which had several dozen American flags attached to it. Hanging from the ends of twenty-eight blue stars, representing the boys of the church who served the country.

The Sunday School was held in the morning at 9:30 o'clock instead of 2:30 in the afternoon. At 10:30 the Sunday School adjourned to the main audience room where the Children's Day exercises were held. An interesting program was rendered, and it was pleasing to see the deep enthusiasm the children manifested in the day.

At 7 o'clock p. m. a large number of people assembled on the church lawn to witness the dedication of the new service windows in the church tower. The singing of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the choir opened the service. This was followed by an address of welcome by the Rev. George W. Abel, the pastor. Twenty-eight boys from this church were in the service and a large percentage of them were present.

William M. Emmons, superintendent of the Sunday School, made a few remarks expressing the pleasure that resulted from the safe return home of the boys. Little Thelma Stratton cleverly rendered a song embodying the making of the flag. Prayer by the pastor and singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" brought the dedicatory services to a close.

At 8 o'clock a patriotic service was held in the church which was attended by a large number of people. The singing by the choir was inspiring. Rev. J. W. Marshall, D. D., formerly superintendent of the New Brunswick District, delivered an able address, which held the rapt attention of the audience throughout, and his words will not soon be forgotten by those who heard them. His remarks were based on a quotation from the biography of Gladstone by John Murley—"The great business of life is to be, to do, to do without, and to depart."

Thus the celebration came to a close and both pastor and people were delighted at its wonderful success.

UNIT NO. 6 ENTERTAINS GUESTS.

Unit No. 6, of which Mrs. Edward Hardy is chairman, attached to St. Martha's Guild, held a social and old time dance in Christ Church Parish House on Wednesday night. There was a large attendance and on entering the hall all were surprised at the beauty of the decorations. American flags were displayed everywhere, and streamers were nicely arranged around the windows and at other points about the hall. Roses and daisies completed the ornamentation.

The time passed merrily and quickly in social chat and dancing and all present had a very enjoyable evening. Light refreshments were served.

DESIRE ACCURATE REGISTER.

Men returning from service overseas are once more reminded that the War Camp Community Service is trying to secure an accurate register of the men from this city who were in the service. This register will be of untold value to the future generations and will become a permanent city record. There is no other method to secure this information than for the man to volunteer it himself.

The Sunday School of the M. E. Church of Sayreville will run an excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Tuesday, July 15. Tickets adults, $1.15; children, 60c. Train will leave Sayreville at 7 a. m., and this city at 7:30 o'clock. Stops will also be made at Quaid's crossing and Parlin Junction. Here is an opportunity to enjoy a long and delightful day by the sea.

IN NEW HEADQUARTERS.

Through the courtesy of Company F the War Camp Community Service is now firmly established in their new headquarters on David street. The ground floor of the "Company F Service Club" has been fitted out in the most homelike style and here the W. C. C. S. will carry on their excellent work on the same plan as in the past. The men who are at present in the service, those recently discharged as well as those who have been in civil weeks are all welcome at these rooms as the guests of the War Camp Service.

For a time the canteen that was such a feature during the stay of the infantry companies at Morgan will be continued. If after a short period there is no demand for it, it will be discontinued and the space used for something else. Plans are under way for the purchase of a pool table that will be added to the many attractions already there.

TIMELY TIPS FOR GARDENERS.

Beets Tops a Delicacy.

Anyone who uses the roots of beets and throws away the tops has missed one of the delicacies of the hour, one of its recommendations being that it is much used and enjoyed by the wealthy. Very conveniently beets have to be thinned until they stand not less than three inches apart in the row, and if the gardener does not care to transplant those which are pulled out he gives them to his wife who prepares them the same as spinach, and the family has a dish at once healthful and delicious.

Watering.

The familiar picture of the contrary Mary in artistic Kate Greenaway garb and picture hat giving her plants a drink with a lilliputian watering pot is picturesque, but not convincing. Mary apparently did not have a full-sized Victory garden on her hands with New Jersey soil to deal with. The wise gardener knows that it is the roots of the plants that need the water, therefore, instead of wetting the top layer, he soaks the ground about 8 inches down, cultivating as soon as possible to conserve the moisture. Which does not mean, however, that a few palliads of water every night is not helpful.

Conserve Moisture.

Straw, manure, lawn rakings, or anything of that kind spread on the garden will help to conserve the moisture in the soil. This mulch has the added virtue of keeping down weeds and preventing the ground from baking. Try it on a portion of your garden and watch results.

Onions of any kind or variety must have a good soil. If the plants become too dry or get a check in growth, they will develop seed. Unless these seeds are cut off at once they will absorb the strength of the plant so that large onions will not be produced. Onion plants growing from seed planted this spring should be thinned so as to stand not closer than 15 plants to a foot. A side dressing of nitrate of soda or poultry manure will also tend to increase the size of the bulb.

Pea Vines are Valuable.

Manure is scarce and high in price; consequently we are looking around for substitutes to feed our plants. Garden peas are a legume and consequently take nitrogen out of the air. Much of this fertilizing value is combined in the leaves and stems, therefore, if the vines are dug or plowed under after the crop has been picked, the soil will be improved. It will add organic matter and plant-food practically similar to that found in manure.

Remember the hoe is one of the most essential garden tools. Use it often; keep it hot.

Issued by New Jersey State College of Agriculture, June 9, 1919.

BIG ELEVATOR RAZED.

The big grain elevator which for many years stood a short distance northwest of the Pennsylvania Railroad station at the foot of Montgomery street, Jersey City, has been torn down to make way for the laying of more tracks in the train yard. C. I. Lieper, superintendent of the New York division of the railroad, says the elevator has not been in use for fifteen years, as it was too far from the water and could not be operated as economically as other grain elevators at the command of the railroad.

The railroad being under government supervision it was necessary to apply to the federal authorities for permission to raze the building. This was granted. Wrecking crews have been at work on the structure ever since. The laying of new tracks will soon begin.

Daily Thought.

Good company and good discourse are the very shewers of virtue.—Isaac Walton.

The Doctor-Bird.

One of the humming birds of Jamaica has long been called "doctor-bird," but, curiously, it is not the same bird which used to be called so in that island. Gorse, whose "Birds of Jamaica" is a standard and delightful work on the natural history of the island as he observed it half a century ago, says it was the small mango hummer, now known as "plantain guide," because of its preference for the banana blossom. He says the name was given by the people because of the belief that it ministers to its comrades when they are ill or injured, but another writer gives what is probably the correct version when he says that it got its name through having a much more sober plumage than others of the same family. At the present day, however, the name is applied almost entirely to the beautiful long-tailed variety, and hardly ever to its duller brother.

SOUTH AMBOY P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. SHUTS OUT THE HELMETTA A. C.

Bucklelew's wonderful pitching along with three periods of slashing hitting by his teammates enabled the South Amboy Y to defeat the Helmetta A. C. last Saturday afternoon, June 14, to the score of 12 to 0. Neither in the box nor back of it were there and defensive weaknesses of consequence by the local team.

The Helmetta nine gathered but three hits off Bucklew's delivery and at no period of play except the third inning were they dangerous.

Wonderful support was given Bucklew, there being but two errors made by the locals and these cut no figure whatsoever.

Fullerton, less consistent than Bucklew, moistened the ball very frequently but this had no effect on Amboy's batsmen as they batted it all over the lot.

A deliciously high throw by left fielder Witskowski, to the plate in the seventh inning was a great help in the addition of the locals' lead.

Monaker's wonderful catch of Sutton's long drive in the third inning was a large factor in the "Whitewash Defeat" given by Amboy.

The local Y Jrs met defeat at the hand of the St. Anthony Jrs. of Perth Amboy to the tune of 5 to 0. Four hits were the total ability of the locals. Bunched hits by Perth enabled them to put their 5 runs over the plate.

Next Saturday afternoon, June 21, the Y. M. C. A. Jrs. will oppose the Lone Star aggregation of Rahway. The Senior team will travel to Jersey City to meet the Y of that place.

ST. MARY'S RALLY IN ELEVENTH BRINGS HOME VICTORY

On Sunday, June 15th, the St. Mary's Boy Scouts toured to New Brunswick where they met the Raritan Engine Co. No. 1 and defeated them in an eleven inning game by the score of 17 to 11.

The game was close all the way through but the splendid fielding by R. Carroll helped to save the game for the Scouts as he pulled down some exceptionally good flies that otherwise would have lost the game.

The scouts have been playing some bad ball in the last four games and expect to come out on top before the close of their season.

On next Sunday, June 22nd, the Scouts will play the Oriole A. C. of Rahway on their home diamond at Whitehead's Field.

Liberty Bond Interest, Exchanged for W. S. S., Will Continue to Earn Interest.

If you had some good farming land and seeds on hand waiting to be planted which would not need any of your time or care in order to grow and ripen into crops would you plant those seeds or would you just leave them lying around unnoticed?

Of course you'd plant them. That is why the Savings Division of the United States Treasury is calling your attention to your Liberty bond coupons. The coupons represent the interest which the United States pays you for the loan of your money. They are seeds which can be planted so as to bring forth crops on their own account. If you clip your coupons regularly and place them in War Savings Stamps they will bring you interest at over 4 per cent.

Many attractive-looking investments are fakes. You will lose your money if you buy them. War Savings Stamps are the safest investment on earth. They are the securities of the United States Government.

The United States is paying out interest on Liberty bond coupons twice a year. All together she will pay $840,000,000 in 1919. Think of how much this will bring again to Liberty bond owners if invested in War Savings Stamps.

Liberty bond coupons which are unclipped are lying idle and useless like the seeds about the house. Keep the following list of "clipping" days on hand and don't fail to cultivate War Savings Stamp crops with it:

June 15, interest on First Loan,
September 15, interest on Third Loan,
October 15, interest on Fourth Loan,
November 15, interest on Second Loan,
December 15, interest on Fifth and First Loans.

STOP! THINK! CONSIDER!

What are you worth—
(1) To your Government.
(2) To your department.
(3) To yourself.

During the war you clearly demonstrated your patriotism. You backed up effectively the "men behind the guns." You bought Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps. Your department contributed to every war activity.

You practiced Patriotic Thrift during the war.

Are you going to practice PATRIOTIC THRIFT in peace times?

Thrift requires Determination, but pays Dividends.

Think of all the poverty-stricken foreigners who come here with the huge handicap of ignorance of the language, and of almost everything else, to make money, and do. Of course, as long as people are miserably poor they spend very little, but that is not the reason they thrive. The reason they succeed is mainly that they expect to succeed and accordingly do.

COAL SHORTAGE
ON WAY; GOVT.
SAYS BUY NOW

May Be Repetition of 1917-18 Conditions Next Winter Says Geological Survey.

MINES IDLE WITHOUT ORDERS.

Those Who Delay Ordering Longer May Not Get Their Fuel Later On.

The United States Geological Survey announces from Washington the probability of another general coal shortage next fall and winter. The announcement is based, the Survey states, upon a nation-wide study of conditions in the bituminous field. Unless steps are taken at once, the Survey says, to place the mines upon a basis of increased production there is every prospect of a repetition to some degree of the situation that prevailed in the United States during the winter of 1917-18.

The only way production can be stimulated at the present time, it is said, is by placing orders with the mines for coal which will be needed later on. "Production during the first five months of the year," reads the statement, "fell 57,292,000 net tons, or approximately 25% below production during the first five months of 1918. Mines are producing coal now at the rate of from 8,000,000 to 8,500,000 tons a week. An average output of 10,700,000 tons a week must be maintained from June 1 to January 1 next if the country's estimated needs of 500,000,000 tons this year are to be met."

Evil of Delayed Orders.

At no time during this year has the rate of production approached the required tonnage. The tendency on the part of buyers to hold off placing their orders is limiting production, as the mines cannot store coal at the point of production, and when the rush of orders for the winter's needs comes next fall there is grave danger that the mines, with depleted labor forces and the probability of less adequate transportation, will be unable to meet the demands. The result of such a situation would be an insufficient supply for the requirements of domestic consumers, public utilities and industrial users generally.

"It is believed that requirements for this year," reads a Survey statement to Fuel Administrator Garfield, "will be about 530,000,000 tons of bituminous coal, of which approximately 30,000,000 tons have been used from stocks accumulated last year, leaving 500,000,000 tons to be produced. Of this 500,000,000 tons 178,000,000 tons were produced during the first five months, leaving 322,000,000 tons to be produced in the remaining 30 weeks, or an average of 10,700,000 tons a week."

"Thus far this year production has been at the rate of 8,200,000 tons a week. In 1918 production was at the rate of 11,300,000 tons a week."

"This production will be difficult of accomplishment. The capacity of operating mines at the present time with labor now on the payroll is about 10% lower than it was last year. This deficiency may be made up in part or wholly if the mines have orders sufficient to run them five or six days a week unless the threatened exodus of foreign-born labor occurs."

May Be Car Shortage.

"Present wage agreements between operators and miners expire with the proclamation of peace by the President. A suspension of mining operations while a new wage agreement is being negotiated would, of course, seriously interfere with the production of coal and if it should occur during the fall would cause a panic among buyers and consumers of coal."

There is no use in gambling upon this or any other contingency, fuel administration officials say. The firm or individual who wants to be sure of an adequate coal supply next winter can be certain by buying coal now. There is no other way such assurance can be obtained. Transportation also promises to be a limiting factor if the flood tide of demand comes at a time when the country's record crops are being carried. In some districts it would appear certain that, notwithstanding the utmost endeavors of the Railroad Administration and the utilization of its experience last fall, ear shortage will be a cause limiting bituminous coal production, and for that reason it is problematical whether the expected production of 500,000,000 tons can be attained this year.

Shortage of labor already is a factor that is cutting down the output in some coal producing sections, according to the Survey's report. The operators report that from 30,000 to 40,000 foreign-born miners expect to return to Europe as soon as they can get passports and that many have already returned. If concluded this movement will be capable of producing but one result—a reduction of the amount of coal mined in districts where the mine labor is largely foreign-born, and there are many such districts.

He who needs coal should hesitate no longer. Now is the time to buy coal.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Mr. Editor:

So much has been said, recently, derogatory to the Y. M. C. A. as an organization; how about a little word on the opposite side of the question? Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander is the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, Pa. His session granted him a year's leave of absence to serve as Religious Work Director in Coblenz, and recently he wrote this letter to his session:

"I have heard that there has been tremendous criticism of the Y. M. C. A. in America. I do not doubt that there are many points where the Association is open to criticism, and many places where it has failed and ought to have done better. But I would like to have taken all its critics to the festival hall here in Coblenz to-night. I have just come from there. I went into the library of 10,000 volumes under the educational department of the Y. M. C. A., and the room was full of doughboys reading quietly. I went into the restaurant where 800 doughboys were having FREE dinner at one time. I went into the social hall where there were four very tired looking Y. W. C. A. girls entertaining about 250 not tired soldiers. I went into the music hall where 2,500 soldiers were looking at a show called 'The Live Wires.' I went to the money exchange and the home remittance counter, where the boys send their money home, crowded with those doing business. I went to the mothers' corner where fifteen or twenty boys were telling their troubles to the festival hall mother, whose popularity is so great that the boys actually make cause to get a chance to talk with her. I went to the lounge where there were at least 500 soldiers listening to an orchestra and writing their home letters. All the above under one roof; and all FREE; and all managed by the Y. M. C. A."

No one claims perfection for the organization known as the Y. M. C. A.; and possibly it did not serve our boys as well as it might have done, but in the light of this letter, from actual observation, we may be sure that it is doing well in many places. The criticism has been accepted too readily by the general public that the Y. M. C. A. was the only organization that charged the boys for service. Let us look beneath this "surface" criticism. Why did the Y. M. C. A. charge, and the Salvation Army and other organizations not charge? Simply because these other organizations dared not charge. Our government doesn't do business that way. One organization, and one only, is allowed at one and the same time to handle one matter. Does every confectionery and drug store handle the United States mail, or does the Post Office? Do the printing establishments of every city print United States notes, and stamping mills the coins, or does the Treasury Department? No, no, Uncle Sam doesn't farm out his work to several organizations at the same time, and the Y. M. C. A. was chosen to handle such goods as Uncle Sam could not afford to supply free to his soldiers. We have not the slightest doubt that there occurred some individual instances of corruption on the part of Y. M. C. A. workers; but it seems to us that we did hear one day that a government official embezzled; and later that he was sojourning for his health at Leavenworth Penitentiary. And our opinion is that that would be a splendid summer and winter resort for any man, be he Y. M. C. A. Secretary or any other man who would rob a single young man who was so nobly proving his patriotism as did our boys in uniform.

One Way to Advertise.

Some years ago a New York firm manufacturing paper water cups got on its legs because of laws in New York and New Jersey prohibiting use of public drinking cups. The firm distributed its wares by messenger and wagon. Money came rolling in. Then came the automobile era, and this firm bought a number of delivery trucks to expedite its growing business. The war came, and it didn't stop the drinking of water and the chance of germs. The influenza epidemic, in fact, was a boon for the paper cup manufacturer. It is noted at this manufacturer is now sending ve-ton trucks around the city with his wares. A cargo of paper cups cannot weigh more than 200 pounds, but it looks well on a five-ton giant. There may be a waste of energy, but it pays to advertise and, above all, it pays to advertise properly.—Wall Street Journal.

BOY SCOUT DOINGS.

Troop No. 1.

The meeting of Monday, June 16th, was called to order at 7.45 p. m. It was announced that on Monday, June 23d, a hike would be taken to Laurence Harbor, the scouts to meet at Troop headquarters at 5.30 p. m.

The Scoutmaster requested that all scouts who could possibly be present at the scout farm to be there on Tuesday afternoon at 6.00 o'clock. The scout farm is progressing nicely, through the efforts of the troop to make both the farm and the third summer camp a success.

A scout! He enjoys a hike through the woods more than he does a walk over the city's crowded streets. Over his camp fire what a breakfast, dinner, or supper he can prepare out there in the open! Does he enjoy his meal? Just watch him and compare his appetite with that of a boy who lounges over a lunch counter in a crowded city.

A scout does not run away or call help when an accident occurs. He devotes all his strength and energy to assisting those who are in need.

A scout can talk to a brother scout without making a sound by signalling with flags or by tapping on a log he can imitate the click of a telegraph key and by either manner he can spell out words and sentences.

A scout is kind to everything that lives. He knows that horses, dogs and cats have their rights and he respects them. A scout prides himself upon doing kind deeds and no day in his life is complete unless he has been of aid to some person. A scout is quick of eye, quick of hearing and stands for clean habits, travels with a clean crowd. In other words a scout is natural and the better a Scout the further he is away from the artificial.

The Boy Scouts of America is a real institution. The idea behind the organization appeals to everybody who has the welfare of the youth of the land and the future good of his country at heart. It cultivates character, manliness, habits of clean living in its wholesome manner of reaching the natural instinct of flesh and blood boys.

Like other elements in the great human equation the Boy Scouts have shown their worth in connection with the World War by selling 1,867,047 subscriptions in the four Liberty Loans amounting to $278,744,650.

War Saving Stamps sold to April 10th, $42,751,031.25 in 2,175,025 sales.

Standing walnut located 20,768,660 board feet (5,200 car loads).

Fruit pits collected for gas masks over 100 carloads.

War gardens and war farms conducted by scouts throughout the country 12,000.

Distributed over 30,000,000 pieces of government literature.

Rendered invaluable services for the Red Cross, the United War Work Committee, and other National organizations serving the government.

Confidential service for Third Naval District.

Co-operated with American Library Association for better books.

Served well in food and fuel conservation.

Performed countless individual acts of service to the government, not recorded under any special classification.

Presented a united effort of patriotic zeal in every community which in itself was of incalculable value to the nation.

Nearly 70,000 Scouts earned the Treasury Department Medal in the Liberty Loan Drives. Almost half that number qualified for bars in addition; 16,026 achievement buttons have been awarded for W. S. S. sales; 8,221 ace medals, 18,866 bronze palms, 1,726 silver palms, 212 gold palms.

In dozens of ways they have assisted their communities in the civic functions relating to the war parades, mass meetings, home comings and the like.

They did their part in winning the victory for liberty and civilization most splendidly and their popularity with the general public is testified to whenever there is a chance to proclaim it.

Folks who have been reading about these young Americans are now to have an opportunity to show their appreciation in a more practical way. President Wilson has issued a proclamation calling upon the country to aid in the work and other figures in the national life are actively behind the movement. Altogether the circumstances are auspicious for the achievement of all the objectives aimed at.

THE FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH NEWS

We extend a hearty welcome to the members of the Class of 1919, their parents and the members of the faculty of the High School to our church.

We congratulate the members of the class and wish them God-speed.

The anniversary week in our church was a week which will be remembered by a great many for a long time. The messages delivered by the former pastors and others were very helpful and inspiring.

We were all delighted with the interest the people took in each service and take this opportunity to thank every one who helped make the occasion a success.

Now that the anniversary is over let us continue the interest in the regular activities of the church and each one do his best to make the church the power it ought to be in the community. We can help do this by being present at all the services.

The Sunday School will begin on Sunday morning at 9.30 instead of 2.30 in the afternoon. Let us keep this in mind and be on time. The preaching service will follow at 10.30, subject "Children and Heirs of God."

In the evening the service will begin at 7.30 o'clock with a song service followed by a sermon to the graduating class by the pastor, subject "The Voyage of Life."

The Young People's Class will be held on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. The prayer meeting and Epworth League on the same evening at 7.45 o'clock.

During the summer months it was thought wise to combine the devotional meeting of the Epworth League with the prayer meeting. The combined meeting will just be one hour long. Come help make this meeting a success. Come spend an hour through the week in a nice cool place where there will be spirited singing and a delightful fellowship.

The Centenary envelopes are all out. Let us make our first payment which is due now.

We all rejoice in the splendid success of the Centenary. The goal has been reached and passed financially. Let us pray that the same be true concerning the movement spiritually.

The great Centenary celebration, which is to be held in Columbus, Ohio, during June 20 to July 13th will be a fine place to spend your vacation. This is to be a great celebration.

The Boy Scouts of our church are out securing associate members this week. If you are interested in this movement give the boys your name and one dollar.

The get-together meeting on Friday evening was a very precious time to us as we listened to the older members tell of the work of our church. It was quite an honor to have these faithful ones with us. May their lives be precious in God's sight and may they be spared to us for many years. Let us have more of these kind of meetings and become more acquainted.

WANT CONGER TO RETURN LAND.

A bill has been filed in Chancery by William P. Slocovich, executor of the late James Parsons, wealthy snuff manufacturer of Milltown, against John H. Conger and wife and Clarence Crenning and wife to compel them to reconvey a tract of land of about 17 acres at Milltown alleged to have been fraudulently obtained. Mr. Conger is a resident of New Brunswick and a former county clerk of Middlesex County.

It is claimed that while Mr. Parsons was very ill and not in a condition to understand what he was doing, about a month before he died, Mr. Conger obtained a deed to the property from him, and that the only consideration that appears to have been given is one dollar.

A lis pendens has been filed in the office of the county clerk at New Brunswick.

Former Judge Charles T. Cowen-hoven is solicitor for the complainant.

Mr. Conger was a great friend of Mr. Parsons for many years before his death, and the case has aroused considerable interest.

It is claimed by the complainant that as the deed was obtained by undue influence a constructive trust in favor of the executor has been created and that the land must be handed back to him.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NEWS

The boys of the Sabbath School distributed the new Church Directories upon Monday and Tuesday afternoons of this week; and if any member has not received a copy, extra Directories will be found on the leaflet table in the vestibule of the Church. If any errors or corrections have crept into these booklets, the pastor desires to be informed of these, so that future editions may be as nearly correct as possible.

Don't neglect to be present at the last Prayer Meeting service we shall hold until Fall—no mid-week services during July and August. The subject for our consideration next Wednesday evening: "The Withering of the Fig Tree," which completes our study of that section of the Miracles of Jesus, which we may characterize as the "Nature Miracles"—showing His wondrous control over the natural world.

During the Sabbath evenings of July, we shall spare no effort to make all who worship with us in God's out-of-doors as comfortable as it is possible to be, and our invitation is cordial to the general public to join with us. The service will last positively but one hour; seats will be provided for everyone, and should conditions at any moment become unpleasant because of rain or other unavoidable circumstances, we shall step indoors and continue the service there. The subjects will be announced later. 7.30 to 8.30 every Sabbath evening of July, on the church lawn.

In order that all who desire may hear the Baccalaureate address to the graduation class of our High School, which will be delivered by Rev. Abel from his own pulpit in the Methodist Episcopal Church on this next Sabbath evening, the pastor will deliver his address on the subject "A Baccalaureate Sermon to The Human Race," at our morning service this next Sabbath; while in the evening, for those who do not wish to attend elsewhere, the subject of the sermon in our church will be—"The Second Adam," this being the companion to the one delivered last Sabbath evening.

The pastor would again kindly suggest to outside agencies and organizations that if notices are desired to be brought before the members of this church that the same be in the hands of the pastor of the church not later than Thursday noon, so that they may be inserted in the weekly publication of this church, "Church Life." Except for special reasons, notices are not read from the Presbyterian church pulpit. Therefore, it is very embarrassing to have notices shoved under the doors of members or of the pastor just before the morning service, and such notices stand a very slim chance of being announced.

Mr. Crosby Matthews and Mr. Allsup will attend the meeting of the Presbytery of Monmouth at the Old Tennant Church on Tuesday of next week.

Tickets are being sold by the boys and girls of our Sabbath School for the excursion to Asbury Park on Wednesday, July 16th. The round trip fare for adults will be one dollar, and for children between the ages of 6 to 12, fifty cents; while children not yet 6 years old may go free. The time of leaving and other information regarding this outing will be found elsewhere in the Citizen, and more may be said in this Presbyterian column next week in regard to this picnic. Everyone who desires will be welcomed to enjoy this day with us.

In the Grip of Light.

A student of physical science says that it is not because the moth is light-hearted, heedless and utterly frivolous that it plunges headlong into the flames, but because of the way that its body is constructed. There are two symmetrical points, exactly alike chemically, on the moth's body—namely, its eyes. If the rays of light modify the chemical condition of one side more than the other, then the moth's power of movement is affected. There is a stronger muscular tension on one side than on the other. If, however, one of the eyes is removed, the chemical symmetry is destroyed, and instead of plunging into the flame it moves about in the circle. There are other animals and insects besides the moth which are hopelessly in the grip of light. If a snail is placed between a white wall and a black wall the unequal lighting forces it to crawl in a circle.

WARNING TO LIQUOR DEALERS.

Dealers in beverage spirits and malt liquors who intend continuing to sell same after July 1st under prevalent conditions are warned by Collector Charles V. Duffy that the fact that such pursuit will be illegal does not relieve them from liability to the tax. Special stamp tax will be issued to all applicants who insist upon paying the tax covering prohibited occupations. They should bear in mind, however, that the possession of a stamp affords no immunity from prosecution or the penalties provided for carrying on the business in violation of the law.

MEN ARE WANTED FOR

MACHINE GUN COMPANIES

There are at present in the Third Battalion, New Jersey State Militia, two machine gun companies, one of which is inactive. The officers of the battalion are anxious to get these companies up to full strength before going to Sea Girt for the summer encampment.

A man is eligible to become a member of one of these companies whether or not he has had experience. The work is very fascinating. Two of the advantages of belonging to these companies is that the members do not have to walk, but instead ride on the automobiles that carry their machines, and that while in camp they are paid. The date for encampment is from July 13 to 20. While in camp the men will receive instruction about the operation and care of their equipment and get the same training that any man in the army gets.

WIFE CHARGES DESERTION.

Charged by his wife, Mrs. Adde Outwater of Matawan, with non-support and desertion, Elwood J. Outwater was arrested Monday night at his home, 205 North Eleventh street, East Orange, by Deputy Sheriff Peter Frawley of Freehold and Reserveman Frank Clintock of East Orange. He was taken to Freehold.

Frawley told the East Orange police that Outwater left his wife in 1913, when he went away, ostensibly to regain his health. Mrs. Outwater lost all track of him until recently, when she learned he was in East Orange.

MAKE GOOD ON THIS PROMISE.

No truer statement than "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" ever was conceived. Conversely, all play and no work frequently makes Jack quite a bad boy and a poor citizen. The realization of a happy medium between the extremes of all work and all play however, is very likely to make of Jack a fine boy who will work well and at the same time benefit by the proportion of play time that is his share.

Intensive study of the boy problem by leaders of the Boy Scout Movement has determined how much work and how much play is good for Jack; and also has shown how to make boy-work so attractive that it will seem like play. The result is all for good citizenship.

It is a safe prediction that the boys of the present generation who have had the benefit of boy scout training will, twenty years from now, as a result of this training, do their work with less effort than the present generation and with greater efficiency in the main.

There are in this country today, no doubt, millions of men who in their youth said that when they grew up they would do something to make it easier for boys to prepare themselves for earning a living and exercising the duties of citizenship. These men now have a great opportunity to make good on that promise. The Boy Scouts of America is asking for one million associate members (men and women) at a minimum of $1.00 each—as much more as anyone desires to pay—in order to greatly extend the benefits of its program for boys. The campaign for this one million members will close on June 14. Between now and that date there will be numerous opportunities for everyone who wants to, to give the boys of America a mighty lift.

FOUND GUILTY OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Daniel C. Johnson, of Sayreville, former station agent of the New York and Long Branch railroad at Morgan, was placed on trial Tuesday in the county court charged with the embezzlement of $575, and the jury brought in a verdict of guilty with recommendation of mercy to the court.

William Van Brunkell, traveling auditor for the road, said that he went to collect some money from Johnson and that the latter gave him a large envelope. He did not open it, but sent it to the bank, where it was found to contain only papers instead of the $575 Johnson had said was in it.

Meanwhile, the latter had disappeared, and was indicted by the grand jury.

The defendant admitted being short in his accounts, but denied the embezzlement charge. He said that the company had not provided him with a safe and that he had to carry the money around with him and had lost part of it.

He also denied that he had turned over the envelope as containing money. He said that after the explosion at Morgan he had gathered up a lot of scattered papers and put them in this envelope to return to the company. He said he had made a notation of $575 on the envelope as the amount he owed the company but had made no claim that it was contained in the envelope.

The following jury heard the case: Alfred Vorston, A. Neilson, D. Smith, H. Castner, N. Petty, P. E. Dixon, E. Bartow, S. W. Skirm, R. VanDerhoeft, B. S. Anderson, A. H. Bram and P. G. Boyce.

Instinct of Animals.

Is it instinct or industrious observation that tells animals of a lower order when their food markets are open? An interesting example of the squirrel's ability to know when his various foods come onto the market has been cited in Forest Leaves: "I have two large white pine trees under observation. They produce a few cones, and the cones usually mature a few seeds. I can always tell when those seeds are matured enough for planting, because the very day they are so matured the red squirrel, who devotes much of his time to robbing birds' nests, appears and begins to extract the seeds for food. Did he watch the tree by day and by night for weeks previous? If so we seldom saw him there."

FREEHOLDERS DEMAND THAT

TROLLEY CO. FIX ROADWAY

At the meeting of the Board of Freeholders held in New Brunswick on Thursday of last week Freeholder Haight complained of the bad condition of the roadway between the tracks of the Public Service Railway Company on the New Brunswick-Woodbridge road.

This stretch of road extending from the Warrenite pavement, on the Lincoln highway at Highland Park to Camp Raritan, has recently been repaired on both sides of the trolley tracks, under the direction of Supervisor of County Roads Walter Quackenbush. The center of the roadway, where the tracks are, is supposed to be maintained in good condition by the Public Service Railway Company. Depressions now exist on that part of the centre of the road, which makes it very difficult for automobiles and wagons to cross the tracks, when necessary for them to do so.

A notice will be sent to the railway company by Clerk Mulvihill, advising them of the conditions there and requesting them to give it the required attention.

T. H. Riddle, who is laying the pavement for the county, on the New Brunswick-Old Bridge road, advised the board that he had been requested by the Public Service company to repair the Warrenite pavement at Millers Corner, Sayreville.

Mr. Riddle will start this work next week. He will also build the approaches to Deep Cut bridge at South River, having been advised by the Raritan River railroad company to proceed with the work.

A complaint from the Ashbury Company of Spotswood was read, telling of a hole in the bridge near De Voe's Mill. This hole is said to be dangerous, being large enough for the leg of a horse to go through. The matter was referred to Freeholders Belloff and Bennett, who will have the bridge repaired.

County Solicitor Frederick F. Richardson rendered an opinion to the board, relative to the claim for damages of the Vacuum Oil Company of New York, for the holding up of one of their barges at the Woodbridge creek bridge. The company presented a bill for $100 to the county last week, claiming, that on account of the bridge being out of order, their boat was held up for several hours, causing them to pay extra towing charges.

Mr. Richardson has said that the county is not liable for these damages and payment of the bill will be refused by the freeholders. The oil company will be so notified.

County Engineer Alvin B. Fox was authorized to order the putting in place of additional piles and concrete at the Albany street bridge, now being erected. This is done for the purpose of increasing the canal depth at the New Brunswick end. The resolution for this extra was presented by Freeholder Belloff.

Alvin S. Mesereau, who struck the barrier gates of the Amboy bridge on August 13 last year, demolishing them, offered the freeholders $113.56 in settlement. On resolution presented by Director of the Board William S. Dey, this amount will be accepted by the freeholders and a release given to Mr. Mesereau.

The contract and bond of Charles Herbert, manager of the county farm, was approved by the solicitor and members of the board.

A communication from the State Highway Commission was read approving the $5,000 surety bond for the proper replacement of the pavements in Highland Park to be torn up for the purpose of constructing the sewer under Raritan avenue.

For the purpose of hearing the requests of the freeholders of various counties in the state regarding the apportionment of money from the state for new road construction and from the motor vehicle fund, the state highway department has notified the board of the place and time of the hearings.

The road committee and engineer are to decide which hearing they will attend.

On June 21 at the Hotel Dennis in Atlantic City the first hearing will be held. A hearing at the court house at Morristown on June 25 and the final hearing on June 27, at the highway department in Trenton.

List of letters remaining in Post Office unclaimed for the week ending June 21:

Capt. John R. Santo, A. C. Martin, Mrs. Bertha Jones, special delivery; E. B. Hathaway, Joseph C. Fittlan, Charles M. Conklin, George Berkley George Almond.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office in 30 days. When calling for the above letters please say "Advertised." J. W. REA, P. M.

The Sheridan Social Club of Perth Amboy will give a Welcome Home celebration and dance to the boys who have been in the service both here and abroad, on Sunday afternoon and evening at the Lasko Park, Englewood Grove. SATURDAY, JUNE 21, 1919.

BUILDING AND LOAN LEADERS AT ANSBURY PARK TO-DAY

Newark, June 17th—More than 250 officers, directors, secretaries and other active men in the persistent saving and home building work of New Jersey have signified their intention of attending the semi-annual convention of the State League of Building and Loan Associations next Saturday in the Metropolitan Hotel, Asbury and Hook Avenues, in Asbury Park. Final arrangements as to the exact place of the meeting were not completed until late yesterday afternoon, it having become necessary on Friday to make a quick change because of inability of a hotel previously decided upon to handle the crowd.

It is believed that every building and loan association in New Jersey will be represented and that the actual number of participants in the business meetings of the league in the morning and afternoon will reach or exceed 400.

State Banking and Insurance Commissioner Frank H. Smith will attend the Convention and address the building and loan men. The morning session will be called to order at 11 o'clock by Mr. A. M. Linnett of Newark. It will consist of a conference of building and loan associations' presidents and secretaries on subjects suggested by those present and for the discussion of questions of interest and importance to building and loan men generally.

Promptly at 12 o'clock the luncheon will be served, and at 2 o'clock the convention be called together again for the feature of the day, a discussion of the proposed Federal Building and Loan Bank System law, a bill providing for which is now pending before Congress. The chief addresses on the subject will be by K. V. Haymaker of Ohio and by Alexander M. Linnett of this city, both of whom are officers of the United League of Building and Loan Associations and members of a special committee representing the building and loan interests of the country in the preparation and handling of the bill.

Equal to the Occasion.
"Speaking of accommodating hotel managers," said a traveler, "the best I ever met was in a provincial town I reached the hotel late in the evening. Just before I retired I heard a scuffling under the bed, and saw a couple of large rats just escaping. I at once complained at the office. The manager was as serene as a summer breeze. 'I'll fix that all right, sir,' he said. 'Boots! Take a cat to room 12 at once!'"

Before the Ball

By S. B. HACKLEY

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

All the way home Dorland, newly made junior partner of the Lasley Vickery company, thought of his mother's last letter.

"Alleen's been going out with Will Carey ever since you've been away," the letter said. "With Will's being so handsome, and Alleen a bit fickle, and Arabelle Avery encouraging the match, the Avery ball may mean the climax of things. Really, son, I think you ought to hurry home."

His mother was so keen for his marriage to his rich partner's daughter. And Alleen—Alleen was charming—he believed that he loved her.

At Corbin Junction Stafford Fife greeted him.
"Train's two hours late, Frank."
Dorland's pleasant dark face clouded a bit. Fife laughed. "Take off that frown, Frank; you'll see her to-night, anyway. Let's go to the circus."

Twice daily for four years Miss Jeannette Cheromet had entered the cage of the performing lions, and Dorland had neither known nor cared. But today when he watched her moving fearlessly among the fierce beasts that at the end of the act began to growl and lunge, his face paled like one who sees his beloved in danger and is powerless to help.

"Back up, old man!" Fife laughed. "The lions are used to her. They wouldn't hurt her if she were to fall!"
"Much you know about lions, man!" a man next them exclaimed. "That girl takes her life in her hands every time she goes in that cage!"

Another half moment and mademoiselle was turning to bow her acknowledgments to the applause. Her brown eyes, clear and innocent, met Dorland's. She caught her breath and hurried out of the tent. The sawdust under her feet had turned to shining gems, the shabby canvas had become spun gold!

"She's got to have her rest after the nervous strain of her act," the manager of the show impudently explained to Dorland. "She's got to sleep until the evening performance. And she doesn't like hangers-on!"

"But I'm not a hanger-on," objected Dorland. "I want to be properly introduced to Miss Cheromet."

"A reporter, eh? Well, maybe she'll give you five minutes."

Still in her spangled chiffon stage costume, mademoiselle appeared.

"I am afraid of the lion for you," Dorland found himself saying. A warm color suffused the girl's face.
"It is for me, monsieur, you fear? It is kind, most kind, monsieur—but they love me! The creatures have known me these long time; they love me!"

"And so do I!" echoed Dorland's heart, "even I who have known you but an hour!"

"I wish you worked in a store or some other safe place!" he murmured.
"But, monsieur," she objected, "I must have more than a clerk's money!"

When her parents had died, she explained, the great-nunt who had lands and money had taken her in, but Lucille, the sister who had married beneath her family. And now Lucille was dead, and her crippled husband and her little children were, oh, so poor!

"My aunt and my cousins cast me off when I took the training of the lions—but it meant money, and I could not let poor Gaston and the motherless ones starve, monsieur!"

Could she see him again soon? Dorland asked when he arose to leave. She hesitated. There was little time on the road, but if monsieur were ever to be in the city in which the circus went into winter quarters, it might be possible. The managers paid her to stay there and teach the lions.

At the ball, Alleen Vickery, looking like a lily in a blue vase, beckoned to him. "I want you to show me the fish in the lake."

Along the sandbed path she clung to his arm, screaming at a leaf's rustle. "I've been wanting to see the fish playing by moonlight so long, but Nora and I were afraid to come over here alone!"

Dorland listened with strange intolerance. Afraid in that flower-filled garden, by the broad light of the moon! And at that moment that other girl, as delicately tender, was exposing her delicate body in a den of lions that others might have dally bread!

A fortnight later and Dorland stood in the little parlor of Miss Cheromet's boarding house.

"I want you to quit showing the lions," he told her. "I am afraid for you. I love you—let me take your burdens on my shoulders, Jeannette."

She grew white. "You mean—" she breathed, "you mean, monsieur—?"

"I want you to marry me, Jeannette."

Her color came back but she drew back from his outstretched arms.

"I cannot—your relatives—they would not receive me, monsieur!"
"But you love me?" persisted Dorland.
"Mais oui!" she confessed. "But love thinks not of itself! The true love—et ees unselfish. I cannot take you from your people!"

"Dorland, why aren't you getting engaged to Alleen Vickery these days?" Stafford Fife asked lightly some weeks later. "It's very apparent she's only waiting for you to speak!"

"Perhaps—" Dorland hesitated, "but I—I'd be depriving myself of the right to love the girl who refused to marry me!"

"And who's she? The French lion-tamer of the circus?" Fife hazarded jokingly.

Dorland nodded.

"God—man—you hardly know her, and she—she—why, she doesn't even speak good English!" Fife stammered.

Mrs. Dorland overheard in a kind of horror. When Fife was gone she remonstrated with tears of rage.

"I wish the creature were dead!" she fumed, almost beside herself. "I wish the wild beasts might kill her—I do, indeed, then you—"

Dorland rose. "Do not trouble yourself further, mother," he said. "She'll not marry me unless you go to her and ask her to bless you in that way."

The next week Dorland went to the city again. Mademoiselle Cheromet was at the animal quarters by a sick lion's cage. She was thinner, he thought, and weary looking.

"I cannot hear it," she told him tremulously, "that you come to see me. There must be the last time—the very last time!"

Presently a keeper brought a young cocker to tempt the sick beast. When he loosed it, it flew to a cage of panthers near, and Dorland thoughtlessly sprang forward to seize it. With a cry Jeannette flung herself in front of him. He slipped to the ground with her desperate push, but she fell against the cage. Two keepers sprang to her assistance with forks and clubs, else she would have been dragged into the cage. In an anguish Dorland knelt beside her.

"Oh, love, why did you try to save me?"

She opened her eyes. "Mon ami—mon cher ami!" she whispered, "I am happy, so happy—et—was—not—you. Kiss me once—for good-by."

Three hours later Dorland's mother came to the circus quarters. She had received a telegram: "It is as you wished, mother, only she's given her life to save mine."

"It was him or her, ma'am," the keeper told her. "She took death to save him."

But at the hospital they told his mother there was a chance that Miss Cheromet would live—to bear terrible scars on her arms and body.

At the end of the week, when the little lion trainer was able to speak to her, Dorland's mother bent over her, her eyes overflowing. "My dear—my dear," she besought her, "let me bring the minister—the priest, if you will—and let him make you my daughter today!"

"You want me?" The girl's brown eyes widened; joy shook her bandaged form. "You want me? Oh, Francis, tell them to lift me that my dear mother! I may kiss. And bid the father come!"

SACRED TOOTH OF BUDDHA

Relic Held in Such Veneration That It Is Exhibited Only Once in Five Years.

To make full confession, I had not even known that the festival would fall in the year of our visit, not to speak of the very week. Of course, every lover of the East has learned that the Sacred Tooth is exhibited every five years for the adoration of the faithful, and in the interval neither prince nor millionaire can obtain a glimpse of its venerable form. Both the official head of Buddhism in Ceylon and the British representative would have to agree to any departure from this usage, so the rule is strictly observed. One instinctively asks why the relic is so sacred. The history of this solemnly guarded treasure, as narrated by the Sinhalese priests, may be summarized as follows: When Buddha's body had been burned, an Arabat took an unconsumed fragment from the ashes of the funeral pyre. This was the left canine tooth, destined to become the most celebrated of the many wondrous relics of the founder of the faith. After a rather peaceful existence of about eight centuries, in the southern peninsula, it became so famous, and created such disturbance in the Brahminic community that it was surreptitiously carried to the Buddhist center in Ceylon, concealed in the tresses of the Princess Kalinga. Naturally, such a priceless possession proved the cause of international strife. Once, at least, it was carried back to the mainland of India, but was recovered by Prabhara Bahu III, to become once more the source of untold blessings.—From "The Festival of the Tooth," by E. B. R. Hellems, in Asahi Magazine.

Stuck on Them, Anyhow.
J. Ogden Armour, defending the meat packers, said at a dinner in Washington:

"Our opponents wouldn't say such hard things about us if they read our statements correctly. Our opponents misread and misunderstand. They are like the little child."

"A Sunday-school teacher asked a little child:

"What do you know about Solomon?"

"He was very fond of animals," the child replied.

"Yes? Why do you think so?" said the teacher.
"Because the Bible tells us," said the child, "that he had a hundred wives and nine hundred porcupines!"

THRIFT BANKS AVAILABLE FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Cardboard Banks to Aid Pupils in Saving During Vacation.

The School Bureau of the War Savings Committee, 120 Broadway, New York city, has prepared for distribution among children in the schools of New York city, New York state and northern New Jersey little W. S. S. Thrift banks for use during the vacation period and to keep up interest in W. S. S. and thrift. Hundred of packages of these banks are already in the mails.

Children will be asked to deposit their pennies, nickels, dimes or other coins in this little bank while on their vacation, so that they can start in September to save as regularly as they are doing at present.

The Thrift banks are of simple design. It is made of heavy cardboard and when folded into shape becomes a small box with a slit on top into which money can be deposited. On the top is a picture of the United States Treasury Building at Washington, D. C. The letters W. S. S. (War Savings Stamps) are imprinted above the building. The words "Thrift Bank" are directly beneath. On one side of the bank is a picture of a girl and a boy. The little girl is depositing money in a Thrift Bank and the boy is counting the change. The caption is "Save Your Pennies NOW."

On another side is a picture of a classroom, with a teacher sitting at her desk and two children standing before her. On the blackboard appears the truism, "A Penny Saved Is a Penny Earned." The children are exchanging their money for Thrift Stamps.

On the third side is a picture of two children, who have "thrift cards." It is evident that the little girl is telling her big brother that she has another Thrift Stamp to paste on her card. The caption is "4 in Thrift Stamps Plus a Few Cents Becomes a War Savings Stamp."

On the fourth side are shown two older children, who are counting their savings. On a wall is a calendar for January, 1924. The caption reads, "January, 1924, You Receive Five Dollars for Every War Savings Stamp."

The bottom side carries a message headed: "Something to Work For." It reads as follows:

"It's fun to turn your pennies into Thrift Stamps and know that you are helping Uncle Sam."

"But sometimes it's even more fun to save for some definite thing you want to buy or to do."

"Perhaps you want to go to college when you get old enough. Perhaps you want to buy a bicycle or some roller skates or a foot chest or a book. You can have any of these things if you will only save for them."

"Think of what you want most in the world, then save for it. Keep on saving all Summer throughout your vacation. When school opens next Fall bring your Bank with the money in it. Your teacher will open it and help you count your savings. You'll be surprised to see how much you will have."

When the bank is delivered to a child an honor pledge is signed, which reads as follows:

"I realize that this Bank is the property of the United States Treasury Department and is loaned to me for the Summer only. I will use the Bank to help me save during my Summer vacation. I promise to bring it back to school next September in good condition, and I will then exchange my savings for Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps."

TAKE A TIP FROM UNCLE SAM.

During 1919 the Government will pay to holders of all five Liberty Loan issues approximately $810,000,000. This is a huge sum, and his disposal by the recipients requires considerable thought.

SATURDAY, JUNE 21, 1919.

EDWARDS VISITS 17 COUNTIES.

Newark, June 20—The unusual campaign being conducted by Senator Edward J. Edwards, former State Comptroller, for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination is now in its fifth week and no let up is contemplated, even in view of approaching hot weather. Senator Edwards has visited seventeen counties and it will not be long before he visits the other four.

Interest increases with each succeeding week and his campaigning during the last ten days has been the most profitable of any period so far. The one big feature was the public announcement by George M. LaMonte, Democratic Senatorial Candidate in 1918, and personal friend of President Wilson, that he was supporting the Edwards candidacy. He urged his friends to do likewise.

The Senator addressed large meetings in Somerset, Warren, Morris, and Salem Counties, and he also did some missionary work in Cumberland County. His object is to bestir the Democratic party workers to action and his talks have been chiefly to members of the County Committees.

Senator Edwards addressed the Monmouth County Democratic Committee at Freehold on Thursday, June 19. On Friday he marches with his fellow Elks of Jersey at Asbury Park. Wednesday he spoke to an organization of Jewish people in Jersey City, who are supporting his candidacy. Next Wednesday night, June 25th, he will address the Union County Democratic Committee at Elizabeth.

Not since the time Woodrow Wilson was elected Governor of New Jersey have the Democrats been so well organized, according to Senator Edwards, and he believes that their early activities will be a winning factor on election day. The Hudson Senator says that he will continue his campaigning throughout the summer, as he has no fear of hot weather and does have a wholesome regard for what can be accomplished through organization.

PROMINENT MEN TO TELL OF BOOKS IN WAR AND PEACE

Books and magazines helped the American forces to victory and have stood by them during demobilization will be set forth by men of national prominence at the forty-first annual conference of the American Library Association at Asbury Park, June 23-28.

Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, will tell what books and library service have meant to the navy. The aid which libraries and reading have rendered in maintaining the morale of the army will be described by Brigadier-General E. L. Munson, Chief of the Morale Branch of the Army General Staff, and Frederick P. Keppel, Third Assistant Secretary of War.

Much of the conference session will be devoted to discussion of the problems and experiences of the War Service of the American Association, with reports by workers returned from overseas. Among other speakers of note will be Jules Jusserand, French Ambassador to the United States, and Charles Pergler, the Czech-Slovak commissioner in this country.

Problems of reconstruction will be considered, such as a survey of the entire field of library service with purpose of improving service already existing, and establishment of service where needed; an effort to obtain more adequate appropriations for libraries and better salaries for librarians; and the advisability of attempting to raise a permanent endowment fund for peace time work of the association.

Among the librarians who will take part in the reconstruction program are the president of the Association, W. W. Bishop, Librarian of the University of Michigan; Chalmers Hadley, Librarian of the Denver Public Library, and recently a Field Representative of the Library War Service; and M. M. Paine, Librarian of the Syracuse Public Library.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF WARREN C. KING

Who Is Seeking the Nomination for Governor On the Republican Ticket.

Who is Warren C. King?
Of what type is the man who, never having held or aspired to political office, is now before the Republican voters of New Jersey as a candidate at the primaries for Governor, the highest office in the State?

What is his record?
What does he stand for?
These and many other questions are being asked by the people of New Jersey. It is right that they should be asked and it is equally right that they should be answered.

Let a man who has known Mr. King intimately for twenty years give the answers.

"Warren King is first of all an American, not only by birth but by inheritance. He is a direct descendant of the James King who settled in Suffield, Connecticut, in 1678. His mother whose maiden name was Mary Helen Bevier, was a descendant of the early French and Dutch settlers of America. But these facts do not by any means convey his Americanism which is not of the blood alone, but is of the mind and heart, as well.

"Mr. King's eldest son, Joseph Caldwell King, just eighteen years of age, is a cadet at the West Point Military Academy. It is typical of the King determination that when the boy found he could not enlist, because of his age, he terminated his studies at Princeton University, and took the examination for West Point, as the shortest and most direct road to the front in France, where he would now have been had not the Armistice been signed.

"Mr. King is proud he is an American by birth. He is equally proud he is both a Republican and a Jerseyman by choice. As a matter of fact, his father was a Democrat and was a Deputy Collector of Customs of the Port of New York in Grover Cleveland's presidency, and a national authority on customs.

"Mr. King, however, early determined that both the prosperity and security of the country were most advanced through the Republican Party's principles. He is, as he expressed it himself, a Republican 'by rule of reason,' and he feels that not only the business interests of the country, meaning the interests of capital, but the interests of the employee and the farmer and the plainman, are also better safeguarded under Republican rule.

"Mr. King likewise is a Jerseyman by choice and has not only his business, but his residence in New Jersey, having moved to this State many years ago from New York, where he was born, not because he loves New Jersey less, but because he loves New Jersey more, and his beautiful home at Middlesex in Middlesex County, is, with his family, his chief interest and delight. Mr. King was born at Binghamton, New York in 1876, and was married in 1899 to Miss Jessie Calhoun Caldwell, of Atlantic, Georgia.

"Mr. King has, beside the son at West Point, a younger son, a student at Lawrenceville, and a daughter, Kathryn Virginia King.

"Mr. King is a business man. His success, like that of most successful men, has been accomplished solely through hard work, energy and ability. "At Bound Brook the King Chemical Company works now occupy a number of acres, with a modern up-to-date plant, and are only one evidence of Mr. King's success in industry. It was in 1915 that the company was organized. A year later there was organized the Peerless Color Company of Bound Brook. Mr. King is President and Treasurer of the former company and treasurer of the latter, as well as President and Treasurer of the Independent Chemical Company, that he organized in March, 1907.

"Prior to that, Mr. King had been with the General Chemical Company since its organization in 1899, when he was placed in charge of its New York office and of its foreign trade, following three years of active service with the Martin Kalbfleisch Chemical Company, which was one of the companies participating in the consolidation that formed the General Chemical Company.

"When Mr. King entered the chemical business in 1896, he undertook to acquire a thorough technical knowledge of the chemical industry and to that end studied chemistry at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, to which city he had moved from Binghamton. It was quite natural that Mr. King should have been the organizer of the Pratt Institute Chemical Alumni in 1899, and that his qualities of leadership should have caused him to be selected as the Alumni's first President.

"It was in October, 1906, that Mr. King moved with his family to New Jersey and settled in Middlesex County.

"Mr. King soon discovered, through his study of the local problems of the manufacturing community in Bound Brook, that much in the way of organization and much in the way of co-operation, was necessary to advance the best interests of the business men and of their employees, and shortly after the outbreak of the World War, when there was a nationwide cry for efficiency and for co-operation in industry, he organized the Manufacturers' Council of the State of New Jersey, with the purpose of placing at the disposal of the Government, in the most readily obtainable manner, the manufacturing resources of the State.

"A Washington Bureau of the Council was opened, and this Bureau effectively maintained the lines of communication between the various Government departments and the individual manufacturers of New Jersey.

"From the beginning, it has been Mr. King's contention that if the public might know and might understand the intricate problems faced by business men, both in manufacture and in other lines, that supported by public opinion, desirable legislation could be obtained and that undesirable legislation could be prevented from getting on the statute books.

vented from getting on the statute books.

"From the organization of the Manufacturers' Council of the State of New Jersey, to that of the New Jersey Cooperative Industrial Commission, in which Mr. King has sought to bring together around a common council table, to discuss common problems representatives of capital, of labor and of agriculture, was only a short step.

"It has been said that the bringing together of these diverse interests in this manner, constitutes an epoch in creating a better understanding among them. Following out his belief that any matter can be adjusted between men of understanding, where good will and good faith are shown, Mr. King placed at the disposal of both sides to the dispute, in the recent strike of the employees of the Public Service Corporation, the services of the Industrial Commission in behalf of a settlement.

"The fact that at this hearing, attendance at which was taken advantage of by both the workers and representatives of the Company, no settlement was reached, convinced Mr. King of the wisdom of advocating one of the planks in the platform upon which he has gone before the Republican voters of the State, namely, compulsory arbitration of disputes between public service corporations and their employees, where the public interests, the interests of all the people, are affected or menaced.

"It was not long before the organization of the Manufacturers' Council, that the Public Service Corporation levied a surcharge upon power contracts upon the manufacturers of the State, abrogating, in order to do so, contracts previously entered into.

"Here was an issue which, to Mr. King's mind, was clearly a question of good faith. He did not question the necessities which caused the Public Service Corporation, in time of war, to require larger revenue, but he did question both the legality and the morality of abrogating a contract entered into in good faith by two contracting parties.

"It is this issue, as well as the general management by the Public Service Corporation of the public utilities of the State, which has been largely instrumental in forcing Mr. King into the arena of politics.

"Mr. King became convinced that it was the duty of a business man to become a candidate in order to bring about a thorough, impartial and fearless investigation of the public utilities of the State, and in order that a remedy might be found for abuses which have become well-nigh intolerable.

"Mr. King is under no delusion as to the power and the strength of those who will oppose his nomination by the Republican voters at the primaries in September, but he feels that it is possible to cause an awakening among the voters of the State that will result in a state-wide demand for courageous, aggressive action, that will protect all of the people and not merely a few.

"It is thus that we find Mr. King also arraigned strongly against the present operation of Workmen's Compensation Insurance in New Jersey, and whereby, out of $6,000,000, in annual premiums paid by employers, approximately only $2,000,000 goes to the workers for whose benefit the law was passed and the remaining $4,000,000 goes to the expenses and profits of the insurance companies, both mutual insurance companies and the old line insurance companies.

"Mr. King realizes that these profits will not willingly be given up and that the insurance interests of the State, like the Public Service Corporation interests, are not likely to relish his candidacy and would relish still less his occupancy of the Governor's chair at Trenton.

"But Mr. King is not the sort of man to stop because of either obstacles or opposition, once his mind is made up that his course is the right one. Nor is he the sort of a man who enters a fight merely for the love of fighting.

"He is quite the contrary type of individual; a man who makes friends readily and who holds them, a warm blooded, warm hearted man, a man who believes that much more can be gained through friendship and co-operation, than through enmity and strife and who only refuses to compromise with issues of right and wrong.

"Mr. King's love for fellowship is indicated somewhat by the many clubs and organizations to which he belongs and which comprise, among others, the Hamilton Club of Paterson, the Raritan Valley Country Club and the Middlesex Country Club, the Academy of Political Science, Sons of the Revolution, Travelers' Club of American, Aerial League of America, Old Colony Club, Society of Chemical Industry, American Chemical Society, Chemists' Club, Railroad Club and Meridian Club, in all of which he is at all times an active and an interested member.

"Answering the questions at the beginning of this article Mr. King's record is that of a successful business man, whose success has been made by hard work, honesty and ability.

"He stands, first and last for justice to all, whether employer, employee, laboring man or capitalist and for the same honesty and efficiency in public business as is found in private business.

"Mr. King's stand on the matter of the public utilities of the State and on the matter of workmen's compensation insurance are now probably generally known throughout the State. What are some of the other things for which he stands in the present campaign?

"He believes that the right of suffrage, having been granted to the women of other states, the women of New Jersey should not be disfranchised by being denied this privilege, and is accordingly in favor of the Federal amendment.

"He believes that the rural districts of the State are entitled to and should receive the protection they so long have sought against lawlessness and violence, but that in grant-for a short ride and your neighbor for a long ride

Public Service Railway's Zone Plan would have each rider Pay for no more than he gets

ing to the agricultural sections this protection, it must be done in a way that will give labor no cause for belief that the protection is but a pretext for the use of the police power in an unlawful and improper way in labor disputes.

"He believes that amendments to the National Constitution should be submitted to referendum vote of the people of the several states before becoming law, but he believes also that an amendment once having been enacted, it must be enforced in both the letter and the spirit.

"He believes that it is essential to the prosperity of the State that its highways be well and substantially built and kept in good repair and that the expense of keeping the roads in such condition should be borne by those who most use them.

"He believes that a way should be found to give a job to every soldier, sailor and marine.

"He believes that the teachers of the State, not alone those in the elementary grades, but in the higher grades as well, man and woman, should receive a living wage.

"These are some of the things for which Mr. King stands and which, if chosen as the Republican Party's candidate, he pledges himself to carry into effect.

"It is doubtful if this sketch of Mr. King will give more than a faint idea of the vigor, force and personality of the man, but, this personality will surely be impressed upon the people of New Jersey before the primary campaign is very much older.

"No successful man was ever other than an optimist. But Mr. King feels that he has good reason for optimism, in the present campaign. The result is not in doubt in his mind.

"The Republican voters of the State have the opportunity of choosing a candidate who is interested first and foremost in the welfare of the State, whose nomination at the primaries on September 23d, will insure Republican success at the polls in November and who, if chosen Governor of the State, will give New Jersey an honest, efficient and business-like administration without fear or favor."

MILITIA MAY BE USED AGAINST THE "REDS"

July 4th Bomb Plots Cover Whole Nation.

The statement of Department of Justice officials that the "Reds" were planning a nation-wide chain of bomb outrages for July 4 has caused quite a tightening up among the various state troops. Thursday night 8,000 New York militiamen were mobilized and stationed at strategic points as a test of speedy mobilization.

In New Jersey similar activity is under way. It is expected that test mobilizations of state militia troops will be made between now and July 4.

Men making application for discharge from Company F have been refused for the present, and men who have been "on furlough" on account of distant employment have been transferred to the active list, and notified to hold themselves in readiness. Men will not be excused by Company Commanders from attendance at Sea Girt Encampment and non-commissioned officers' school.

The rapid demobilization of the national army leaves practically nothing but state troops for emergency duty.

Orders have been issued to the local militia company to have all field equipment in instant readiness. The inspection of Company F, under heavy marching orders has been ordered for Saturday, June 28. New equipment and uniforms are being furnished the men.

At the request of the local officers the inspection was ordered on the same date as the Welcome Home Celebration so that the men would not be called out twice in a few days, Company F having been previously invited to take part in the Welcome Home Celebration.

Major R. C. Lawrence will also inspect the new Company F Headquarters at 256 David street, and will probably remain here during the parade at four o'clock.

Company F will formally open their new home on that date, although all equipment and furnishings may not be installed. The courtesies of the Headquarters are extended at all times to the service men and ex-service men of South Amboy.

Special Orders No. 45.

1. An inspection of Company F is hereby ordered to be held at the Headquarters on David street, South Amboy, on Saturday, June 28, 1919, at 2.30 p. m.

2. The officers and enlisted men of the company will be inspected by the Battalion Commander and Staff, under heavy marching order, packs to contain full camp equipment. All articles of state issue, and in addition toilet soap, towel and other prescribed toilet articles, one suit of underwear, one extra pair of shoes, two pairs of socks, and one extra O. D. shirt.

3. The inspection will include the field equipment and headquarters premises, including stores.

4. The Headquarters will remain open evenings of week of June 23 to 27 in order that men may prepare equipment for inspection. The company Commander will see that Supply Sergeant and other non-commissioned officers are informed accordingly.

By order of
ROBERT C. LAWRENCE,
Major,
Commanding 3rd Battalion, N. J. S. M.
First Indorsement.

Participation in Welcome Home Celebration Parade will follow above inspection. Packs will not be carried in parade.

SHIP SEA GIRT TO BE LAUNCHED SATURDAY

On invitation of the Shipping Board Senator Edge has selected a sponsor and a name for a ship to be launched at the Camden yard of the New York Ship Building Corporation Saturday. For sponsor Senator Edge has selected Miss Elizabeth Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Thompson, of Red Bank, and of the half dozen names suggested for the ship by Miss Thompson he chose Sea Girt. It is planned by the Shipping Board and the New York Ship Building Corporation to make the event a Jersey affair and a suggestion was considered even to use Jersey apple-jack for the christening. It is probable, however, that the traditional bottle of champagne will be used.

MATINEE AND NIGHT

SATURDAY, JUNE 21, 1919.

EDWARDS VISITS 17 COUNTIES.

Newark, June 20.—The unusual campaigning being conducted by Senator Edward I. Edwards, former State Comptroller, for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination is now in its fifth week and no let up is contemplated, even in view of approaching hot weather. Senator Edwards has visited seventeen counties and it will not be long before he visits the other four.

Interest increases with each succeeding week and his campaigning during the last ten days has been the most profitable of any period so far. The one big feature was the public announcement by George M. LaMonte, Democratic Senatorial Candidate in 1918, and personal friend of President Wilson, that he was supporting the Edwards candidacy. He urged his friends to do likewise.

The Senator addressed large meetings in Somerset, Warren, Morris, and Salem Counties, and he also did some missionary work in Cumberland County. His object is to be-stir the Democratic party workers to action and his talks have been chiefly to members of the County Committees.

Senator Edwards addressed the Monmouth County Democratic Committee at Freehold on Thursday, June 19. On Friday he marches with his fellow Elks of Jersey at Asbury Park. Wednesday he spoke to an organization of Jewish people in Jersey City, who are supporting his candidacy. Next Wednesday night, June 25th, he will address the Union County Democratic Committee at Elizabeth.

Not since the time Woodrow Wilson was elected Governor of New Jersey have the Democrats been so well organized, according to Senator Edwards, and he believes that their early activities will be a winning factor on election day. The Hudson Senator says that he will continue his campaigning throughout the summer, as he has no fear of hot weather and does have a wholesome regard for what can be accomplished through organization.

PROMINENT MEN TO TELL OF

BOOKS IN WAR AND PEACE

How books and magazines helped the American forces to victory and have stood by them during demobilization will be set forth by men of national prominence at the forty-first annual conference of the American Library Association at Asbury Park, June 23-28.

Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, will tell what books and library service have meant to the navy. The aid which libraries and reading have rendered in maintaining the morale of the army will be described by Brigadier-General E. L. Munson, Chief of the Morale Branch of the Army General Staff, and Frederick P. Koppel, Third Assistant Secretary of War.

Much of the conference session will be devoted to discussion of the problems and experiences of the Library War Service of the American Library Association, with reports by library workers returned from overseas. Among other speakers of note will be Jules Jusserand, French Ambassador to the United States, and Charles Pergler, the Czech-Slovak commissioner in this country.

Problems of reconstruction will be considered, such as a survey of the entire field of library service with purpose of improving service already existing, and establishment of service where needed; an effort to obtain more adequate appropriations for libraries and better salaries for librarians; and the advisability of attempting to raise a permanent endowment fund for peace time work of the association.

Among the librarians who will take part in the reconstruction program are the president of the Association, W. W. Bishop, Librarian of the University of Michigan; Chalmers Hadley, Librarian of the Denver Public Library, and recently a Field Representative of the Library War Service; and Paul M. Paine, Librarian of the Syracuse Public Library.

Dog Finds Defender.

The National Humane Review says: "The dog has earned his keep in dollars and cents, a hundred times over. And yet ungrateful persons and foolish doctrinaires would like to destroy the dog on the pretext of reviving the sheep industry, when it is well known that the sheep industry in the United States was destroyed because of international competition by the cheap wool of Australia, where labor is $6 a month and land is worth $5 an acre, and Americans have better paying crops at home. Oh, the folly of it! The stupidity of it! The heartlessness and insincerity of it! These silly people will not win in this bloody crusade. The heart and morality of the world is too big to sanction a wholesale butchery of this kind, which is opposed by truth, common sense and justice."

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF WARREN C. KING

Who Is Seeking the Nomination for Governor On the Republican Ticket.

Who is Warren C. King?
Of what type is the man who, never having held or aspired to political office, is now before the Republican voters of New Jersey as a candidate at the primaries for Governor, the highest office in the State?

What is his record?
What does he stand for?
These and many other questions are being asked by the people of New Jersey. It is right that they should be asked and it is equally right that they should be answered.

Let a man who has known Mr. King intimately for twenty years give the answers.

"Warren King is first of all an American, not only by birth but by inheritance. He is a direct descendant of the James King who settled in Suffield, Connecticut, in 1678. His mother whose maiden name was Mary Helen Beyer, was a descendant of the early French and Dutch settlers of America. But these facts do not by any means convey his Americanism which is not of the blood alone, but is of the mind and heart, as well."

"Mr. King's eldest son, Joseph Caldwell King, just eighteen years of age, is a cadet at the West Point Military Academy. The typical of the King determination that when the boy found he could enlist, because of his age, he terminated his studies at Princeton University, and took the examination for West Point, as the shortest and most direct road to the front in France, where he would now have been had not the Armistice been signed."

"Mr. King is proud he is an American by birth. He is equally proud he is both a Republican and a Jerseyman by choice. As a matter of fact, his father was a Democrat and was a Deputy Collector of Customs of the Port of New York in Grover Cleveland's presidency, and a national authority on customs."

"Mr. King, however, early determined that both the prosperity and security of the country were most advanced through the Republican Party's principles. He is, as he expressed it himself, a Republican 'by rule of reason,' and he feels that not only the business interests of the country, meaning the interests of capital, but the interests of the employee and the farmer and the plainman, are also better safeguarded under Republican rule."

"Mr. King likewise is a Jerseyman by choice and has not only his business, but his residence in New Jersey, having moved to this State many years ago from New York, where he was born, not because he loves New York less, but because he loves New Jersey more, and his beautiful home at Middlesex in Middlesex County, is, with his family, his chief interest and delight. Mr. King was born at Binghamton, New York in 1876, and was married in 1899 to Miss Jessie Caldwell, of Atlantic, Georgia."

"Mr. King has, beside the son at West Point, a younger son, a student at Lawrenceville, and a daughter, Kathryn Virginia King."

"Mr. King is a business man. His success, like that of most successful men, has been accomplished solely through hard work, energy and ability."

"At Bound Brook the King Chemical Company works now occupy a number of acres, with a modern up-to-date plant, and are only one evidence of Mr. King's success in industry. It was in 1915 that the company was organized. A year later there was organized the Peerless Color Company of Bound Brook. Mr. King is President and Treasurer of the former company and treasurer of the latter, as well as President and Treasurer of the Independent Chemical Company, that he organized in March, 1907."

"Prior to that, Mr. King had been with the General Chemical Company since its organization in 1899, when he was placed in charge of its New York office and of its foreign trade, following three years of active service with the Martin Kabbleisch Chemical Company, which was one of the companies participating in the consolidation that formed the General Chemical Company."

"When Mr. King entered the chemical business in 1896, he undertook to acquire a thorough technical knowledge of the chemical industry and to that end studied chemistry at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, to which city he had moved from Binghamton. It was quite natural that Mr. King should have been the organizer of the Pratt Institute Chemical Alumni in 1899, and that his qualities of leadership should have caused him to be selected as the Alumni's first President."

"It was in October, 1906, that Mr. King moved with his family to New Jersey and settled in Middlesex County."

"Mr. King soon discovered, through his study of the local problems of the manufacturing community in Bound Brook, that much in the way of organization and much in the way of co-operation, was necessary to advance the best interests of the business men and of their employees, and shortly after the outbreak of the World War, when there was a nationwide cry for efficiency and for co-operation in industry, he organized the Manufacturers' Council of the State of New Jersey, with the purpose of placing at the disposal of the Government, in the most readily obtainable manner, the manufacturing resources of the State."

"A Washington Bureau of the Council was opened, and this Bureau effectively maintained the lines of communication between the various Government departments and the individual manufacturers of New Jersey."

"From the beginning, it has been Mr. King's contention that if the public might know and might understand the intricate problems faced by business men, both in manufacture and in other lines, that, supported by public opinion, desirable legislation could be obtained and that undesirable legislation could be prevented from getting on the statute books."

books.

"From the organization of the Manufacturers' Council of the State of New Jersey, to that of the New Jersey Cooperative Industrial Commission, in which Mr. King has sought to bring together around a common council table, to discuss common problems representatives of capital, of labor and of agriculture, was only a short step."

"It has been said that the bringing together of these diverse interests in this manner, constitutes an epoch in creating a better understanding among them. Following out his belief that any matter can be adjusted between men of understanding, where good will and good faith are shown, Mr. King placed at the disposal of both sides to the dispute, in the recent strike of the employees of the Public Service Corporation, the services of the Industrial Commission in behalf of a settlement."

"The fact that at this hearing, attendance at which was taken advantage of by both the workers and representatives of the Company, no settlement was reached, convinced Mr. King of the wisdom of advocating one of the planks in the platform upon which he has gone before the Republican voters of the State, namely, compulsory arbitration of disputes between public service corporations and their employees, where the public interests, the interests of all the people, are affected or menaced."

"It was not long before the organization of the Manufacturers' Council, that the Public Service Corporation levied a surcharge upon power contracts upon the manufacturers of the State, abrogating, in order to do so, contracts previously entered into."

"Here was an issue which, to Mr. King's mind, was clearly a question of good faith. He did not question the necessities which caused the Public Service Corporation, in time of war, to require larger revenue, but he did question both the legality and the morality of abrogating a contract entered into in good faith by two contracting parties."

"It is this issue, as well as the general management by the Public Service Corporation of the public utilities of the State, which has been largely instrumental in forcing Mr. King into the arena of politics."

"Mr. King became convinced that it was the duty of a business man to become a candidate in order to bring about a thorough, impartial and fearless investigation of the public utilities of the State, and in order that a remedy might be found for abuses which have become well-nigh intolerable."

"Mr. King is under no delusion as to the power and the strength of those who will oppose his nomination by the Republican voters at the primaries in September, but he feels that it is possible to cause an awakening among the voters of the State that will result in a state-wide demand for courageous, aggressive action, that will protect all of the people and not merely a few."

"It is thus that we find Mr. King also arraigned strongly against the present operation of Workmen's Compensation Insurance in New Jersey, and whereby, out of $6,000,000, in annual premiums paid by employers, approximately only $2,000,000 goes to the workers for whose benefit the law was passed and the remaining $4,000,000 goes to the expenses and profits of the insurance companies, both mutual insurance companies and the old line insurance companies."

"Mr. King realizes that these profits will not willingly be given up and that the insurance interests of the State, like the Public Service Corporation interests, are not likely to relish his candidacy and would relish still less his occupancy of the Governor's chair at Trenton."

"But Mr. King is not the sort of man to stop because of either obstacles or opposition, once his mind is made up that his course is the right one. Nor is he the sort of a man who enters a fight merely for the love of fighting."

"He is quite the contrary type of individual, a man who makes friends readily and who holds them, a warm blooded, warm hearted man, a man who believes that much more can be gained through friendship and co-operation, than through enmity and strife and who only refuses to compromise with issues of right and wrong."

"Mr. King's love for fellowship is indicated somewhat by the many clubs and organizations to which he belongs and which comprise, among others, the Hamilton Club of Paterson, the Raritan Valley Country Club and the Middlesex Country Club, the Academy of Political Science, Sons of the Revolution, Travelers' Club of American, Aerial League of America, Old Colony Club, Society of Chemical Industry, American Chemical Society, Chemists' Club, Railroad Club and Meridian Club, in all of which he is at all times an active and an interested member."

"Answering the questions at the beginning of this article Mr. King's record is that of a successful business man, whose success has been made by hard work, honesty and ability."

"He stands, first and last for justice to all, whether employer, employee, laboring man or capitalist and for the same honesty and efficiency in public business as is found in private business."

"Mr. King's stand on the matter of the public utilities of the State and on the matter of workmen's compensation insurance are now probably generally known throughout the State. What are some of the other things for which he stands in the present campaign?"

"He believes that the right of suffrage, having been granted to the women of other states, the women of New Jersey should not be disfranchised by being denied this privilege, and is accordingly in favor of the Federal amendment."

"He believes that the rural districts of the State are entitled to and should receive the protection they so long have sought against lawlessness and violence, but that in granting to the agricultural sections this protection, it must be done in a way that will give labor no cause for belief that the protection is but a pretext for the use of the police power in an unlawful and improper way in labor disputes.

"He believes that amendments to the National Constitution should be submitted to referendum vote of the people of the several states before becoming law, but he believes also that an amendment once having been enacted, it must be enforced in both the letter and the spirit."

"He believes that it is essential to the prosperity of the State that its highways be well and substantially built and kept in good repair and that the expense of keeping the roads in such condition should be borne by those who most use them."

"He believes that a way should be found to give a job to every soldier, sailor and marine."

"He believes that the teachers of the State, not alone those in the elementary grades, but in the higher grades as well, man and woman, should receive a living wage."

"These are some of the things for which Mr. King stands and which, if chosen as the Republican Party's candidate, he pledges himself to carry into effect."

"It is doubtful if this sketch of Mr. King will give more than a faint idea of the vigor, force and personality of the man, but, this personality will surely be impressed upon the people of New Jersey before the primary campaign is very much older."

"No successful man was ever other than an optimist. But Mr. King feels that he has good reason for optimism, in the present campaign. The result is not in doubt in his mind."

"The Republican voters of the State have the opportunity of choosing a candidate who is interested first and foremost in the welfare of the State, whose nomination at the primaries on September 23d, will insure Republican success at the polls in November and who, if chosen Governor of the State, will give New Jersey an honest, efficient and business-like administration without fear or favor."

MILITIA MAY BE USED AGAINST THE "REDS"

July 4th Bomb Plots Cover Whole Nation.

The statement of Department of Justice officials that the "Reds" were planning a nation-wide chain of bomb outrages for July 4 has caused quite a tightening up among the various state troops. Thursday night 8,000 New York militiamen were mobilized and stationed at strategic points as a test of speedy mobilization.

In New Jersey similar activity is under way. It is expected that test mobilizations of state militia troops will be made between now and July 4. Men making application for discharge from Company F have been refused for the present, and men who have been "on furlough" on account of distant employment have been transferred to the active list, and notified to hold themselves in readiness. Men will not be excused by Company Commanders from attendance at Sea Girt Encampment and non-commissioned officers' school.

The rapid demobilization of the national army leaves practically nothing but state troops for emergency duty.

Orders have been issued to the local militia company to have all field equipment in instant readiness. The inspection of Company F, under heavy marching orders has been ordered for Saturday, June 28. New equipment and uniforms are being furnished the men.

At the request of the local officers the inspection was ordered on the same date as the Welcome Home Celebration so that the men would not be called out twice in a few days, Company F having been previously invited to take part in the Welcome Home Celebration.

Major R. C. Lawrence will also inspect the new Company F Headquarters at 256 David street, and will probably remain here during the parade at four o'clock.

Company F will formally open their new home on that date, although all equipment and furnishings may not be installed. The courtesies of the Headquarters are extended at all times to the service men and ex-service men of South Amboy.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD BATTALION, N. J. S. M.

Special Orders No. 45.

1. An inspection of Company F is hereby ordered to be held at the Headquarters on David street, South Amboy, on Saturday, June 28, 1919, at 2.30 p. m.

2. The officers and enlisted men of the company will be inspected by the Battalion Commander and Staff, under heavy marching order, packs to contain full camp equipment. All articles of state issue, and in addition toilet articles, one suit of underwear, one extra pair of shoes, two pairs of socks, and one extra O. D. shirt.

3. The inspection will include the field equipment and headquarters premises, including stores.

4. The Headquarters will remain open evenings of week of June 23 to 27 in order that men may prepare equipment for inspection. The company Commander will see that Supply Sergeant and other non-commissioned officers are informed accordingly.

By order of

Participation in Welcome Home Celebration Parade will follow above inspection. Packs will not be carried in parade.

SHIP SEA GIRT TO BE LAUNCHED SATURDAY

On invitation of the Shipping Board Senator Edge has selected a sponsor and a name for a ship to be launched at the Camden yard of the New York Ship Building Corporation Saturday. For sponsor Senator Edge has selected Miss Elizabeth Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Thompson, of Red Bank, and of the half dozen names suggested for the ship by Miss Thompson he chose Sea Girt. It is planned by the Shipping Board and the New York Ship Building Corporation to make the event a Jersey affair and a suggestion was considered even to use Jersey apple-jack for the christening. It is probable, however, that the traditional bottle of champagne will be used.

BUILDING AND LOAN LEADERS AT ASBURY PARK TO-DAY

Newark, June 17th—More than 250 officers, directors, secretaries and other active men in the persistent saving and home building work of New Jersey have signified their intention of attending the semi-annual convention of the State League of Building and Loan Associations next Saturday in the Metropolitan Hotel, Asbury and Hook Avenues, in Asbury Park. Final arrangements as to the exact place of the meeting were not completed until late yesterday afternoon, it having become necessary on Friday to make a quick change because of inability of a hotel previously decided upon to handle the crowd.

It is believed that every building and loan association in New Jersey will be represented and that the actual number of participants in the business meetings of the league in the morning and afternoon will reach or exceed 400.

State Banking and Insurance Commissioner Frank H. Smith will attend the Convention and address the building and loan men. The morning session will be called to order at 11 o'clock by Mr. A. M. Linnett of Newark. It will consist of a conference of building and loan associations presidents and secretaries on subjects suggested by those present and for the discussion of questions of interest and importance to building and loan men generally.

Promptly at 12 o'clock the luncheon will be served, and at 2 o'clock the convention be called together again for the feature of the day, a discussion of the proposed Federal Building and Loan Bank System law, a bill providing for which is now pending before Congress. The chief addresses on the subject will be by K. V. Haymaker of Ohio and by Alexander M. Linnett of this city, both of whom are officers of the United League of Building and Loan Associations and members of a special committee representing the building and loan interests of the country in the preparation and handling of the bill.

Equal to the Occasion.
"Speaking of accommodating hotel managers," said a traveler, "the best I ever met was in a provincial town. I reached the hotel late in the evening. Just before I retired I heard a scampering under the bed, and saw a couple of large rats just escaping. I at once complained at the office. The manager was as serene as a summer breeze. 'I'll fix that all right, sir,' he said. 'Boots! Take a cat to room 13 at once!'"

Before the Ball

By S. B. HACKLEY

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

All the way home Dorland, newly made junior partner of the Lasley Vickery company, thought of his mother's last letter.

"Alleen's been going out with Will Carey ever since you've been away," the letter said. "With Will's being so handsome, and Alleen a bit fickle, and Arabella Avery encouraging the match, the Avery ball may mean the climax of things. Really, son, I think you ought to hurry home."

His mother was so keen for his marriage to his rich partner's daughter, and Alleen—Alleen was charming—he believed that he loved her. At Corbin Junction Stafford Fife greeted him.

"Train's two hours late, Frank."

Dorland's pleasant dark face clouded a bit. Fife laughed. "Take off that frown, Frank; you'll see her tonight, anyway. Let's go to the circus."

Twice daily for four years Mile. Jeannette Cheromet had entered the cage of the performing lions, and Dorland had neither known nor cared. But today when he watched her moving fearlessly among the fierce beasts that at the end of the act began to growl and lunge, his face paled like one who sees his beloved in danger and is powerless to help.

"Buck up, old man!" Fife laughed. "The lions are used to her. They wouldn't hurt her if she were to fall!"

"Much you know about lions, man?" a man next them exclaimed. "That girl takes her life in her hands every time she goes in that cage!"

Another half moment and mademoiselle was turning to bow her acknowledgments to the applause. Her brown eyes, clear and innocent, met Dorland's. She caught her breath and hurried out of the tent. The sawdust under her feet had turned to shining gems, the shabby canvas had become spun gold!

"She's got to have her rest after the nervous strain of her act," the manager of the show impatiently explained to Dorland. "She's got to sleep until the evening performance. And she don't like hangers-on!"

"But I'm not a 'hanger-on,'" objected Dorland. "I want to be properly introduced to Mile. Cheromet."

"A reporter, eh? Well, maybe she'll give you five minutes."

Still in her spangled chignon stage costume, mademoiselle appeared.

"I am afraid of the lion for you," Dorland found himself saying. A warm color suffused the girl's face. "It is for me, monsieur, you fear?"

"It is kind, most kind, monsieur—but they love me! The creatures have known me these long time; they love me!"

"And so do I!" echoed Dorland's heart, "even I who have known you but an hour!"

"I wish you worked in a store or some other safe place!" he murmured.

"But, monsieur," she objected, "I must have more than a clerk's money!" When her parents had died, she explained, the great-uncle who had lands and money had taken her in, but not Lucile, the sister who had married beneath her family. And now Lucile was dead, and her crippled husband and her little children were, oh, so poor!

"My aunt and my cousins cast me off when I took the training of the lions—but it meant money, and I could not let poor Gaston and the motherless ones starve, monsieur!" Could she see him again soon? Dorland asked when he arose to leave. She hesitated. There was little time on the road, but if monsieur were ever to be in the city in which the circus went into winter quarters, it might be possible. The managers would bid her to stay there and teach the lions.

At the ball, Alleen Vickery, looking like a lily in a blue vase, beckoned to him. "I want you to show me the fish in the lake."

Along the sandied path she clung to his arm, screaming at a leaf's rustle. "I've been wanting to see the fish playing by moonlight so long, but Nora and I were afraid to come over here alone!"

Dorland listened with strange intolerance. Afraid in that flower-filled garden, by the broad light of the moon! And at that moment that other girl, as delicately tender, was exposing her delicate body in a den of lions that others might have dully bread!

A fortnight later and Dorland stood in the little parlor of Mile. Cheromet's boarding house.

"I want you to quit showing the lions," he told her. "I am afraid for you. I love you—let me take your burdens on my shoulders, Jeannette."

She grew white. "You mean—" she breathed, "you mean, monsieur—?"

"I want you to marry me, Jeannette."

Her color came back but she drew back from his outstretched arms.

"I cannot—your relatives—they would not receive me, monsieur!"

"But you love me?" persisted Dorland.

"Mais oui!" she confessed. "But love thinks not of itself! The true love—ceteris paribus. I cannot take you from your people!"

"Dorland, why aren't you getting engaged to Alleen Vickery these days?" Stafford Fife asked lightly some weeks later. "It's very apparent she's only waiting for you to speak."

"Perhaps—" Dorland hesitated, "but I—I'd be depriving myself of the right to love the girl who refused to marry me!"

"And who's she? The French lion tamer of the circus?" Fife hazarded jokingly.

Dorland nodded.

"God—man—you hardly know her, and she—she—why, she doesn't even speak good English!" Fife stammered.

Mrs. Dorland overheard in a kind of horror. When Fife was gone she remonstrated with tears of rage.

"I wish the creature were dead!" she fumed, almost beside herself. "I wish the wild beasts might kill her—I do, indeed, then you—"

Dorland rose. "Do not trouble yourself further, mother," he said. "She'll not marry me unless you go to her and ask her to bless you in that way."

The next week Dorland went to the city again. Mademoiselle Cheromet was at the animal quarters by a sick lion's cage. She was thinner, he thought, and weary looking.

"I cannot bear it," she told him tremulously, "that you come to see me. These must be the last time—the very last time!"

Presently a keeper brought a young cocker to tempt the sick beast. When he loosed it, it flew to a cage of panthers near, and Dorland thoughtlessly sprang forward to seize it. With a cry Jeannette flung herself in front of him. He slipped to the ground with her desperate push, but she fell against the cage. Two keepers sprang to her assistance with forks and clubs, else she would have been dragged into the cage. In an anguish Dorland knelt beside her.

"Oh, love, why did you try to save me?"

She opened her eyes. "Mon ami—mon cher ami!" she whispered. "I am happy, so happy yet—not—you. Kiss me once—for good-by."

Three hours later Dorland's mother came to the circus quarters. She had received a telegram: "It is as you wished, mother, only she's given her life to save mine."

"It was him or her, ma'am," the keeper told her. "She took death to save him."

But at the hospital they told his mother there was a chance that Mile. Cheromet would live—to bear terrible scars on her arms and body.

At the end of the week, when the little lion trainer was able to speak to her, Dorland's mother bent over her, her eyes overflowing. "My dear—my dear," she besought her, "let me bring the minister—the priest, if you will—and let him make you my daughter today!"

"You want me?" The girl's brown eyes widened; joy shook her bandaged form. "You want me? Oh, Francis, tell them to lift me that my dear mother I may kiss. And bid the father come!"

SACRED TOOTH OF BUDDHA

Relic Held in Such Veneration That It Is Exhibited Only Once in Five Years.

To make full confession, I had not even known that the festival would fall in the year of our visit, not to speak of the very week. Of course, every lover of the East has learned that the Sacred Tooth is exhibited every five years for the adoration of the faithful, and in the interval neither prince nor millionaire can obtain a glimpse of its venerable form. Both the official head of Buddhism in Ceylon and the British representative would have to agree to any departure from this usage, so the rule is strictly observed. One instinctively asks why the relic is so sacred. The history of this solicitously guarded treasure, as narrated by the Singhalese priests, may be summarized as follows: When Buddha's body had been burned, an Arhat took an unconsumed fragment from the ashes of the funeral pyre. This was the left canine tooth, destined to become the most celebrated of the many wondrous relics of the founder of the faith. After a rather peaceful existence of about eight centuries, in the southern peninsula, it became so famous, and created such disturbance in the Brahminic community that it was surreptitiously carried to the Buddhist center in Ceylon, concealed in the tresses of the Princess Kalinga. Naturally, such a priceless possession proved the cause of international strife. Once, at least, it was carried back to the mainland of India, but was recovered by Prakhram Bahu III, to become once more the source of untold blessings.—From "The Festival of the Tooth," by F. B. R. Helleus, in Asia Magazine.

Stuck on Them, Anyhow.
J. Ogden Armour, defending the meat packers, said at a dinner in Washington:

"Our opponents wouldn't say such hard things about us if they read our statements correctly. Our opponents misread and misunderstand. They are like the little child."

"A Sunday-school teacher asked a little child:

"What do you know about Solomon?"

"He was very fond of animals," the child replied.

"Yes? Why do you think so?" said the teacher.

"Because the Bible tells us," said the child, "that he had a hundred wives and nine hundred porcupines."

THRIFT BANKS AVAILABLE FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Cardboard Banks to Aid Pupils in Saving During Vacation.

The School Bureau of the War Savings Committee, 120 Broadway, New York city, has prepared for distribution among children in the schools of New York city, New York state and northern New Jersey little W. S. S. Thrift banks for use during the vacation period and to keep up interest in W. S. S. and thrift. Hundred of packages of these banks are already in the mails.

Children will be asked to deposit their pennies, nickels, dimes or other coins in this little bank while on their vacation, so that they can start in September to save as regularly as they are doing at present.

The Thrift bank is of simple design. It is made of heavy cardboard and when folded into shape becomes a small box with a slit on top into which money can be deposited. On the top is a picture of the United States Treasury Building at Washington, D. C. The letters W. S. S. (War Savings Stamps) are imprinted above the building. The words "Thrift Bank" are directly beneath. On one side of the bank is a picture of a girl and a boy. The little girl is depositing money in a Thrift Bank and the boy is counting the change. The caption is "Save Your Pennies NOW."

On another side is a picture of a classroom, with a teacher sitting at her desk and two children standing before her. On the blackboard appears the truism, "A Penny Saved Is a Penny Earned." The children are exchanging their money for Thrift Stamps.

On the third side is a picture of two children, who have "thrift cards." It is evident that the little girl is telling her big brother that she has another Thrift Stamp to paste on her card. The caption is "$4 in Thrift Stamps Plus a Few Cents Becomes a War Savings Stamp."

On the fourth side are shown two older children, who are counting their savings. On a wall is a calendar for January, 1924. The caption reads, "January, 1924, You Receive Five Dollars for Every War Savings Stamp."

The bottom side carries a message headed: "Something to Work For." It reads as follows:

"It's fun to turn your pennies into Thrift Stamps and know that you are helping Uncle Sam."

"But sometimes it's even more fun to save for some definite thing you want to buy or to do."

"Perhaps you want to go to college when you get old enough. Perhaps you want to buy a bicycle or some roller skates or a tool chest or a book. You can have any of these things if you will only save for them."

"Think of what you want most in the world, then save for it. Keep on saving all Summer throughout your vacation. When school opens next Fall bring your Bank with the money in it. Your teacher will open it and help you count your savings. You'll be surprised to see how much you will have."

When the bank is delivered to a child an honor pledge is signed, which reads as follows:

"I realize that this Bank is the property of the United States Treasury Department and is loaned to me for the Summer only. I will use the Bank to help me save during my Summer vacation. I promise to bring it back to school next September in good condition, and I will then exchange my savings for Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps."

TAKE A TIP FROM UNCLE SAM.

During 1919 the Government will pay to holders of all five Liberty Loan issues approximately $810,000,000. This is a huge sum, and its disposal by the recipients requires considerable thought.

WARNING TO LIQUOR DEALERS.

Dealers in beverage spirits and malt liquors who intend continuing to sell same after July 1st under prevalent conditions are warned by Collector Charles V. Duffy that the fact that such pursuit will be illegal does not relieve them from liability to the tax. Special stamp tax will be issued to all applicants who insist upon paying the tax covering prohibited occupations. They should bear in mind, however, that the possession of a stamp affords no immunity from prosecution or the penalties provided for carrying on the business in violation of the law.

There are at present in the Third Battalion, New Jersey State Militia, two machine gun companies, one of which is inactive. The officers of the battalion are anxious to get these companies up to full strength before going to Sea Girt for the summer encampment.

A man is eligible to become a member of one of these companies whether or not he has had experience. The work is very fascinating. Two of the advantages of belonging to these companies is that the members do not have to walk, but instead ride on the automobiles that carry their machines, and that while in camp they are paid. The date for encampment is from July 13 to 20. While in camp the men will receive instruction about the operation and care of their equipment and get the same training that any man in the army gets.

WIFE CHARGES DESERTION.

Charged by his wife, Mrs. Addie Outwater of Matawan, with non-support and desertion, Elwood J. Outwater was arrested Monday night at his home, 205 North Eighteenth street, East Orange, by Deputy Sheriff Peter Frawley of Freehold and Reserveman Frank Clibbuck of East Orange. He was taken to Freehold.

Frawley told the East Orange police that Outwater left his home in 1913, when he went away, ostensibly to regain his health. Mrs. Outwater lost all track of him until recently, when she learned he was in East Orange.

MAKE GOOD ON THIS PROMISE.

No truer statement than "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" ever was conceived. Conversely, all play and no work frequently makes Jack quite a bad boy and a poor citizen. The realization of a happy medium between the extremes of all work and all play however, is very likely to make of Jack a fine boy who will work well and at the same time benefit by the proportion of play time that is his share.

Intensive study of the boy problem by leaders of the Boy Scout Movement has determined how much work and how much play is good for Jack; and also has shown how to make boy-work so attractive that it will seem like play. The result is all for good citizenship.

It is a safe prediction that the boys of the present generation who have had the benefit of boy scout training will, twenty years from now, as a result of this training, do their work with less effort than the present generation and with greater efficiency in the main.

There are in this country today, no doubt, millions of men who in their youth said that when they grew up they would do something to make it easier for boys to prepare themselves for earning a living and exercising the duties of citizenship. These men now have a great opportunity to make good on that promise. The Boy Scouts of America is asking for one million associate members (men and women) at a minimum of $1.00 each—as much more as anyone desires to pay—in order to greatly extend the benefits of its program for boys. The campaign for this one million members will close on June 14. Between now and that date there will be numerous opportunities for everyone who wants to, to give the boys of America a mighty lift.

FOUND GUILTY OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Daniel C. Johnson, of Sayreville, former station agent of the New York and Long Branch railroad at Morgan, was placed on trial Tuesday in the county court charged with the embezzlement of $575, and the jury brought in a verdict of guilty with recommendation of mercy to the court.

William Van Brunkell, traveling auditor for the road, said that he went to collect some money from Johnson and that the latter gave him a large envelope. He did not open it, but sent it to the bank, where it was found to contain only papers instead of the $575 Johnson had said was in it.

Meanwhile, the latter had disappeared, and was indicted by the grand jury.

The defendant admitted being short in his accounts, but denied the embezzlement charge. He said that the company had not provided him with a safe and that he had to carry the money around with him and had lost part of it.

He also denied that he had turned over the envelope as containing money. He said that after the explosion at Morgan he had gathered up a lot of scattered papers and put them in this envelope to return to the company. He said he had made a notation of $575 on the envelope as the amount he owed the company but had made no claim that it was contained in the envelope.

The following jury heard the case: Alfred Vorst, A. Neilson, D. Smith, H. Castner, N. Petty, P. E. Dixon, E. Bartow, S. W. Skirm, R. VanDerhoef, B. S. Anderson, A. H. Bram and F. G. Boyce.

The Methodist Episcopal Sunday School now meets at 9:30 o'clock in the morning, instead of 2:30 in the afternoon.

Instinct of Animals.

Is it instinct or industrious observation that tells animals of a lower order when their food markets are open? An interesting example of the squirrel's ability to know when his various foods come into the market has been cited in Forest Leaves: "I have two large white pine trees under observation. They produce a few cones, and the cones usually mature a few seeds. I can always tell when those seeds are matured enough for planting, because the very day they are so matured the red squirrel, who devotes much of his time to robbing birds' nests, appears and begins to extract the seeds for food. Did he watch the tree by day and by night for weeks previous? If so we seldom saw him there."

FREEHOLDERS DEMAND THAT

TROLLEY CO. FIX ROADWAY

At the meeting of the Board of Freeholders held in New Brunswick on Thursday of last week Freeholder Haight complained of the bad condition of the roadway between the tracks of the Public Service Railway Company on the New Brunswick-Woodbridge road.

This stretch of road extending from the Warrenite pavement, on the Lincoln highway at Highland Park to Camp Karitan, has recently been repaired on both sides of the trolley tracks, under the direction of Supervisor of County Roads Walter Quackenbush. The center of the roadway, where the tracks are, is supposed to be maintained in good condition by the Public Service Railway Company. Depressions now exist on that part of the centre of the road, which makes it very difficult for automobiles and wagons to cross the tracks, when necessary for them to do so.

A notice will be sent to the railway company by Clerk Mulvihill, advising them of the conditions there and requesting them to give it the required attention.

T. H. Riddle, who is laying the pavement for the county, on the New Brunswick-Old Bridge road, advised the board that he had been requested by the Public Service company to repair the Warrenite pavement at Millers Corner, Sayreville.

Mr. Riddle will start this work next week. He will also build the approaches to Deep Cut bridge at South River, having been advised by the Raritan River railroad company to proceed with the work.

A complaint from the Ashbury Company of Spotswood was read, telling of a hole in the bridge near De Voe's Mill. This hole is said to be dangerous, being large enough for the leg of a horse to go through. The matter was referred to Freeholders Belloff and Bennett, who will have the bridge repaired.

County Solicitor Frederick F. Richardson rendered an opinion to the board, relative to the claim for damages of the Vacuum Oil Company of New York, for the holding up of one of their barges at the Woodbridge creek bridge. The company presented a bill for $100 to the county last week, claiming, that on account of the bridge being out of order, their boat was held up for several hours, causing them to pay extra towing charges.

Mr. Richardson has said that the county is not liable for these damages and payment of the bill will be refused by the freeholders. The oil company will be so notified.

County Engineer Alvin B. Fox was authorized to order the putting in place of additional piles and concrete at the Albany street bridge, now being erected. This is done for the purpose of increasing the canal depth at the New Brunswick end. The resolution for this extra was presented by Freeholder Belloff.

Alvin S. Mesereau, who struck the barrier gates of the Amboy bridge on August 13 last year, demolishing them, offered the freeholders $113.56 in settlement. On resolution presented by Director of the Board William S. Day, this amount will be accepted by the freeholders and a release given to Mr. Mesereau.

The contract and bond of Charles Herbert, manager of the county farm, was approved by the solicitor and members of the board.

A communication from the State Highway Commission was read approving the $5,000 surety bond for the proper replacement of the pavements in Highland Park to be torn up for the purpose of constructing the sewer under Raritan avenue.

For the purpose of hearing the requests of the freeholders of various counties in the state regarding the apportionment of money from the state for new road construction and from the motor vehicle fund, the state highway department has notified the board of the place and time of the hearings.

The road committee and engineer are to decide which hearing they will attend.

On June 21 at the Hotel Dennis in Atlantic City the first hearing will be held. A hearing at the court house at Morristown on June 25 and the final hearing on June 27, at the highway department in Trenton.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Mr. Editor:

So much has been said, recently, derogatory to the Y. M. C. A. as an organization; how about a little word on the opposite side of the question? Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander is the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, Pa. His session granted him a year's leave of absence to serve as Religious Work Director in Coblenz, and recently he wrote this letter to his session:

"I have heard that there has been tremendous criticism of the Y. M. C. A. in America. I do not doubt that there are many points where the Association is open to criticism, and many places where it has failed and ought to have done better. But I would like to have taken all its critics to the festival hall here in Coblenz to-night. I have just come from there. I went into the library of 10,000 volumes under the educational department of the Y. M. C. A., and the room was full of doughboys reading quietly. I went into the restaurant where 800 doughboys were having FREE dinner at one time. I went into the social hall where there were four very tired looking Y. W. C. A. girls entertaining about 250 not tired soldiers. I went into the music hall where 2,500 soldiers were looking at a show called 'The Live Wires.' I went to the money exchange and the home remittance counter, where the boys send their money home, crowded with those doing business. I went to the mothers' corner where fifteen or twenty boys were telling their troubles to the festival hall mother, whose popularity is so great that the boys actually make cause to get a chance to talk with her. I went to the lounge where there were at least 500 soldiers listening to an orchestra and writing their home letters. All the above under one roof; and all FREE; and all managed by the Y. M. C. A."

No one claims perfection for the organization known as the Y. M. C. A.; and possibly it did not serve our boys as well as it might have done, but in the light of this letter, from actual observation, we may be sure that it is doing well in many places.

The criticism has been accepted too readily by the general public that the Y. M. C. A. was the only organization that charged the boys for service. Let us look beneath this "surface" criticism. Why did the Y. M. C. A. charge, and the Salvation Army and other organizations not charge? Simply because these other organizations dared not charge: Our government doesn't do business that way. One organization, and one only, is allowed at one and the same time to handle one matter. Does every confectionery and drug store handle the United States mail, or does the Post Office? Do the printing establishments of every city print United States notes, and stamping mills the coins, or does the Treasury Department? No, no, Uncle Sam doesn't farm out his work to several organizations at the same time, and the Y. M. C. A. was chosen to handle such goods as Uncle Sam could not afford to supply free to his soldiers. We have not the slightest doubt that there occurred some individual instances of corruption on the part of Y. M. C. A. workers; but it seems to us that we did hear one day that a government official embezzled; and later that he was sojourning for his health at Leavenworth Penitentiary. And our opinion is that that would be a splendid summer and winter resort for any man, be he Y. M. C. A. Secretary or any other man who would rob a single young man who was so nobly proving his patriotism as did our boys in uniform.

Found Road to Happiness.

I have found a great deal happier since I have given up thinking about what is easy and pleasant, and being discontented because I could not have my own will.—George Eliot.

One Way to Advertise.

Some years ago a New York firm manufacturing paper water cups got on its legs because of laws in New York and New Jersey prohibiting use of public drinking cups. The firm distributed its wares by messenger and wagon. Money came rolling in. Then came the automobile era, and this firm bought a number of delivery trucks to expedite its growing business. The war came, and it didn't stop the drinking of water and the chance of germs. The influenza epidemic, in fact, was a boon for the paper cup manufacturer. It is noted that this manufacturer is now sending five-ton trucks around the city with his wares. A cargo of paper cups cannot weigh more than 200 pounds, but it looks well on a five-ton giant. There may be a waste of energy, but it pays to advertise and, above all, it pays to advertise properly.—Wall Street Journal.

BOY SCOUT DOINGS.

Troop No. 1.

The meeting of Monday, June 16th, was called to order at 7.45 p. m. It was announced that on Monday, June 23d, a hike would be taken to Laurens Harbor, the scouts to meet at Troop headquarters at 5.30 p. m.

The Scoutmaster requested that all scouts who could possibly be present at the scout farm to be there on Tuesday afternoon at 6.00 o'clock. The scout farm is progressing nicely, through the efforts of the troop to make both the farm and the third summer camp a success.

A scout! He enjoys a hike through the woods more than he does a walk over the city's crowded streets. Over his camp fire what a breakfast, dinner, or supper he can prepare out there in the open! Does he enjoy his meal? Just watch him and compare his appetite with that of a boy who lounges over a lunch counter in a crowded city.

A scout does not run away or call help when an accident occurs. He devotes all his strength and energy to assisting those who are in need.

A scout can talk to a brother scout without making a sound by signalling with flags or by tapping on a log. He can imitate the click of a telegraph key and by either manner he can spell out words and sentences.

A scout is kind to everything that lives. He knows that horses, dogs and cats have their rights and he respects them. A scout prides himself upon doing kind deeds and no day in his life is complete unless he has been of aid to some person. A scout is quick of eye, quick of hearing and stands for clean habits, travels with a clean crowd. In other words a scout is natural and the better a Scout the further he is away from the artificial.

The Boy Scouts of America is a real institution. The idea behind the organization appeals to everybody who has the welfare of the youth of the land and the future good of his country at heart. It cultivates character, manliness, habits of clean living in its wholesome manner of reaching the natural instinct of flesh and blood boys.

Like other elements in the great human equation the Boy Scouts have shown their worth in connection with the World War by selling 1,867,947 subscriptions in the four Liberty Loans amounting to $278,744,630.

War Saving Stamps sold to April 10th, $42,751,031.25 in 2,175,625 sales.

Standing walnut located 20,768,660 board feet (5,200 car loads).

Fruit pits collected for gas masks over 100 carloads.

War gardens and war farms conducted by scouts throughout the country 12,000.

Distributed over 30,000,000 pieces of government literature.

Rendered invaluable services for the Red Cross, the United War Work Committee, and other National organizations serving the government.

Confidential service for Third Naval District.

Co-operated with American Library Association for better books.

Served well in food and fuel conservation.

Performed countless individual acts of service to the government, not recorded under any special classification.

Presented a united effort of patriotic zeal in every community which in itself was of incalculable value to the nation.

Nearly 70,000 Scouts earned the Treasury Department Medal in the Liberty Loan Drives. Almost half that number qualified for bars in addition; 16,026 achievement buttons have been awarded for W. S. S. sales; 8,221 ace medals, 18,866 bronze palms, 1,726 silver palms, 212 gold palms.

In dozens of ways they have assisted their communities in the civic functions relating to the war parades, mass meetings, homecomings and the like.

They did their part in winning the victory for liberty and civilization most splendidly and their popularity with the general public is testified to whenever there is a chance to proclaim it.

Folks who have been reading about these young Americans are now to have an opportunity to show their appreciation in a more practical way. President Wilson has issued a proclamation calling upon the country to aid in the work and other figures in the national life are actively behind the movement. Altogether the circumstances are auspicious for the achievement of all the objectives aimed at.

We extend a hearty welcome to the members of the Class of 1919, their parents and the members of the faculty of the High School to our church.

We congratulate the members of the class and wish them God-speed.

The anniversary week in our church was a week which will be remembered by a great many for a long time. The messages delivered by the former pastors and others were very helpful and inspiring.

We were all delighted with the interest the people took in each service and take this opportunity to thank every one who helped make the occasion a success.

Now that the anniversary is over let us continue the interest in the regular activities of the church and each one do his best to make the church the power it ought to be in the community. We can help do this by being present at all the services.

The Sunday School will begin on Sunday morning at 9.30 instead of 2.30 in the afternoon. Let us keep this in mind and be on time. The preaching service will follow at 10.30, subject "Children and Heirs of God."

In the evening the service will begin at 7.30 o'clock with a song service followed by a sermon to the graduating class by the pastor, subject "The Voyage of Life."

The Young People's Class will be held on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. The prayer meeting and Epworth League on the same evening at 7.45 o'clock.

During the summer months it was thought wise to combine the devotional meeting of the Epworth League with the prayer meeting. The combined meeting will just be one hour long. Come help make this meeting a success. Come spend an hour through the week in a nice cool place where there will be spirited singing and a delightful fellowship.

The Centenary envelopes are all out. Let us make our first payment which is due now.

We all rejoice in the splendid success of the Centenary. The goal has been reached and passed financially. Let us pray that the same be true concerning the movement spiritually.

The great Centenary celebration which is to be held in Columbus, Ohio, during June 20 to July 13th will be a fine place to spend your vacation. This is to be a great celebration.

The Boy Scouts of our church are out securing associate members this week. If you are interested in this movement give the boys your name and one dollar.

The get-together meeting on Friday evening was a very precious time to us as we listened to the older members tell of the work of our church. It was quite an honor to have these faithful ones with us. May their lives be precious in God's sight and may they be spared to us for many years. Let us have more of these kind of meetings and become more acquainted.

WANT CONGER TO RETURN LAND.

A bill has been filed in Chancery by William P. Slocovich, executor of the late James Parsons, wealthy snuff manufacturer of Milltown, against John H. Conger and wife and Clarence Crenning and wife to compel them to reconvey a tract of land of about 17 acres at Milltown alleged to have been fraudulently obtained. Mr. Conger is a resident of New Brunswick and a former county clerk of Middlesex County.

It is claimed that while Mr. Parsons was very ill and not in a condition to understand what he was doing, about a month before he died, Mr. Conger obtained a deed to the property from him, and that the only consideration that appears to have been given is one dollar.

A lis pendens has been filed in the office of the county clerk at New Brunswick.

Former Judge Charles T. Cowenhoven is solicitor for the complainant.

Mr. Conger was a great friend of Mr. Parsons for many years before his death, and the case has aroused considerable interest.

It is claimed by the complainant that as the deed was obtained by undue influence a constructive trust in favor of the executor has been created and that the land must be handed back to him.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NEWS

The boys of the Sabbath School distributed the new Church Directories upon Monday and Tuesday afternoons of this week; and if any member has not received a copy, extra Directories will be found on the leaflet table in the vestibule of the Church. If any errors or corrections have crept into these booklets, the pastor desires to be informed of these, so that future editions may be as nearly correct as possible.

Don't neglect to be present at the last Prayer Meeting service we shall hold until Fall—no mid-week services during July and August. The subject for our consideration next Wednesday evening: "The Withering of the Fig Tree," which completes our study of that section of the Miracles of Jesus, which we may characterize as the "Nature Miracles"—showing His wondrous control over the natural world.

During the Sabbath evenings of July, we shall spare no effort to make all who worship with us in God's out-of-doors as comfortable as it is possible to be, and our invitation is cordial to the general public to join with us. The service will last positively but one hour; seats will be provided for everyone, and should conditions at any moment become unpleasant because of rain or other unavoidable circumstances, we shall step indoors and continue the service there. The subjects will be announced later. 7.30 to 8.30 every Sabbath evening of July, on the church lawn.

In order that all who desire may hear the baccalaureate address to the graduation class of our High School, which will be delivered by Rev. Abel from his own pulpit in the Methodist Episcopal Church on this next Sabbath evening, the pastor will deliver his address on the subject "A Baccalaureate Sermon to The Human Race," at our morning service this next Sabbath; while in the evening, for those who do not wish to attend elsewhere, the subject of the sermon in our church will be—"The Second Adam," this being the companion to the one delivered last Sabbath evening.

The pastor would again kindly suggest to outside agencies and organizations that if notices are desired to be brought before the members of this church that the same be in the hands of the pastor of the church not later than Thursday noon, so that they may be inserted in the weekly publication of this church, "Church Life." Except for special reasons, notices are not read from the Presbyterian church pulpit. Therefore, it is very embarrassing to have notices shoved under the doors of members or of the pastor just before the morning service, and such notices stand a very slim chance of being announced.

Mr. Crosby Matthews and Mr. Allsup will attend the meeting of the Presbytery of Monmouth at the Old Tennant Church on Tuesday of next week.

Tickets are being sold by the boys and girls of our Sabbath School for the excursion to Asbury Park on Wednesday, July 16th. The round trip fare for adults will be one dollar, and for children between the ages of 6 to 12, fifty cents; while children not yet 6 years old may go free. The time of leaving and other information regarding this outing will be found elsewhere in the Citizen, and more may be said in this Presbyterian column next week in regard to this picnic. Everyone who desires will be welcomed to enjoy this day with us.

In the Grip of Light.

A student of physical science says that it is not because the moth is light-hearted, heedless and utterly frivolous that it plunges headlong into the flames, but because of the way that its body is constructed. There are two symmetrical points, exactly alike chemically, on the moth's body—namely, its eyes. If the rays of light modify the chemical condition of one side more than the other, then the moth's power of movement is affected. There is a stronger muscular tension on one side than on the other. If, however, one of the eyes is removed, the chemical symmetry is destroyed, and instead of plunging into the flame it moves about in the circle. There are other animals and insects besides the moth which are hopelessly in the grip of light. If a snail is placed between a white wall and a black wall the one and lighting forces it to crawl in a circle.

TIMELY TIPS FOR GARDENERS.

Beets Tops a Delicacy.

Anyone who uses the roots of beets and throws away the tops has missed one of the delicacies of the hour, one of its recommendations being that it is much used and enjoyed by the wealthy. Very conveniently beets have to be thinned until they stand not less than three inches apart in the row, and if the gardener does not care to transplant those which are pulled out he gives them to his wife who prepares them the same as spinach, and the family has a dish at once healthful and delicious.

Watering.

The familiar picture of the contrary Mary in artistic Kate Greenaway garb and picture hat giving her plants a drink with a Hippopotamus watering pot is picturesque, but not convincing. Mary apparently did not have a full-sized Victory garden on her hands with New Jersey soil to deal with. The wise gardener knows that it is the roots of the plants that need the water, therefore, instead of wetting the top layer, he soaks the ground about 8 inches down, cultivating as soon as possible to conserve the moisture. Which does not mean, however, that a few pailfuls of water every night is not helpful.

Conserve Moisture.

Straw manure, lawn rakings, or anything of that kind spread on the garden will help to conserve the moisture in the soil. This mulch has the added virtue of keeping down weeds and preventing the ground from baking. Try it on a portion of your garden and watch results.

Onions of any kind or variety must have a good soil. If the plants become too dry or get a check in growth, they will develop seed. Unless these seeds are cut off at once they will absorb the strength of the plant so that large onions will not be produced. Onion plants growing from seed planted this spring should be thinned so as to stand not closer than 15 plants to a foot. A side dressing of nitrate of soda or poultry manure will also tend to increase the size of the bulb.

Pea Vines are Valuable.

Manure is scarce and high in price; consequently we are looking around for substitutes to feed our plants. Garden peas are a legume and consequently take nitrogen out of the air. Much of this fertilizing value is combined in the leaves and stems, therefore, if the vines are dug or plowed under after the crop has been picked, the soil will be improved. It will add organic matter and plant-food practically similar to that found in manure.

Remember the hoe is one of the most essential garden tools. Use it often; keep it hot.

Issued by New Jersey State College of Agriculture, June 9, 1919.

BIG ELEVATOR RAZED.

The big grain elevator which for many years stood a short distance northwest of the Pennsylvania Railroad station at the foot of Montgomery street, Jersey City, has been torn down to make way for the laying of more tracks in the train yard.

C. I. Lileper, superintendent of the New York division of the railroad, says the elevator has not been in use for fifteen years, as it was too far from the water and could not be operated as economically as other grain elevators at the command of the railroad.

The railroad being under government supervision it was necessary to apply to the federal authorities for permission to raze the building. This was granted. Wrecking crews have been at work on the structure ever since. The laying of new tracks will soon begin.

Daily Thought.

Good company and good discourse are the very shewings of virtue.—Isaiah Walton.

The Doctor-Bird.

One of the humming birds of Jamaica has long been called "doctor-bird," but, curiously, it is not the same bird which used to be called so in that island. Gorse, whose "Birds of Jamaica" is a standard and delightful work on the natural history of the island as he observed it half a century ago, says it was the small mango hummer, now known as "plantain guide," because of its preference for the banana blossom. He says the name was given by the people because of the belief that it ministers to its comrades when they are ill or injured, but another writer gives what is probably the correct version when he says that it got its name through having a much more sober plumage than others of the family. At the present day the doctor-bird is applied almost exclusively to the long-tailed flycatcher, and hardly ever to the doctor-bird.

SOUTH AMBOY P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. SHUTS OUT THE HELMETTA A. C.

Buckelew's wonderful pitching along with three periods of slashing hitting by his teammates enabled the South Amboy Y to defeat the Helmetta A. C. last Saturday afternoon, June 14, to the score of 12 to 9. Neither in the box nor back of it were there any defensive weaknesses of consequence by the local team.

The Helmetta nine gathered but three hits off Buckelew's delivery and at no period of play except the third inning were they dangerous.

Wonderful support was given Buckelew, there being but two errors made by the locals and these cut no figure whatsoever.

Fullerton, less consistent than Buckelew, moistened the ball very frequently but this had no effect on Amboy's batsmen as they batted it all over the lot.

A deliciously high throw by left fielder Witkowski, to the plate in the seventh inning was a great help in the addition of the locals' lead.

Monaker's wonderful catch of Sutton's long drive in the third inning was a large factor in the "Whitewash Defeat" given by Amboy.

The local Y Jrs met defeat at the hand of the St. Anthony Jrs. of Perth Amboy to the tune of 5 to 0. Four hits were the total ability of the locals. Bunched hits by Perth enabled them to put their 5 runs over the plate.

Next Saturday afternoon, June 21, the Y. M. C. A. Jrs. will oppose the Lone Star aggregation of Rahway. The Senior team will travel to Jersey City to meet the Y of that place. The score:

ST. MARY'S RALLY IN ELEVENTH BRINGS HOME VICTORY

On Sunday, June 15th, the St. Mary's Boy Scouts toured to New Brunswick where they met the Raritan Engine Co. No. 1 and defeated them in an eleven inning game by the score of 17 to 11.

The game was close all the way through but the splendid fielding by R. Carroll helped to save the game for the Scouts as he pulled down some exceptionally good flies that otherwise would have lost the game. The scouts have been playing some fine ball in the last four games and expect to come out on top before the close of their season.

On next Sunday, June 22nd, the Scouts will play the Oriole A. C. of Rahway on their home diamond at Whitehead's Field.

MAKE YOUR MONEY EARN MORE MONEY

Liberty Bond Interest, Exchanged for W. S. S., Will Continue to Earn Interest.

If you had some good farming land and seeds on hand waiting to be planted which would not need any of your time or care in order to grow and ripen into crops would you plant those seeds or would you just leave them lying around unnoticed?

Of course you'd plant them. That is why the Savings Division of the United States Treasury is calling your attention to your Liberty bond coupons. The coupons represent the interest which the United States pays you for the loan of your money. They are seeds which can be planted so as to bring forth crops on their own account. If you clip your coupons regularly and place them in War Savings Stamps they will bring you interest at over 4 per cent.

Many attractive-looking investments are fakes. You will lose your money if you buy them. War Savings Stamps are the safest investment on earth. They are the securities of the United States Government.

The United States is paying out interest on Liberty bond coupons twice a year. All together she will pay $810,000,000 in 1919. Think of how much this will bring again to Liberty bond owners if invested in War Savings Stamps.

Liberty bond coupons which are unclipped are lying idle and useless like the seeds about the house. Keep the following list of "clipping" days on hand and don't fail to cultivate War Savings Stamp crops with it:

June 15, interest on First Loan.

September 15, interest on Third Loan.

October 15, interest on Fourth Loan.

November 15, interest on Second Loan.

December 15, interest on Fifth and First Loans.

COAL SHORTAGE ON WAY; GOVT. SAYS BUY NOW

May Be Repetition of 1917-18 Conditions Next Winter Says Geological Survey.

MINES IDLE WITHOUT ORDERS

Those Who Delay Ordering Longer May Not Get Their Fuel Later On.

The United States Geological Survey announces from Washington the probability of another general coal shortage next fall and winter. The announcement is based, the Survey states, upon a nation-wide study of conditions in the bituminous field. Unless steps are taken at once, the Survey says, to place the mines upon a basis of increased production there is every prospect of a repetition to some degree of the situation that prevailed in the United States during the winter of 1917-18.

The only way production can be stimulated at the present time, it is said, is by placing orders with the mines for coal which will be needed later on. "Production during the first five months of the year," reads the statement, "fell 57,292,000 net tons, or approximately 25% below production during the first five months of 1918. Mines are producing coal now at the rate of from 8,000,000 to 8,500,000 tons a week. An average output of 10,700,000 tons a week must be maintained from June 1 to January 1 next if the country's estimated needs of 500,000,000 tons this year are to be met."

Evil of Delayed Orders.

At no time during this year has the rate of production approached the required tonnage. The tendency on the part of buyers to hold off placing their orders is limiting production, as the mines cannot store coal at the point of production, and when the rush of orders for the winter's needs comes next fall there is grave danger that the mines, with depleted labor forces and the probability of less adequate transportation, will be unable to meet the demands. The result of such a situation would be an insufficient supply for the requirements of domestic consumers, public utilities and industrial users generally.

"It is believed that requirements for this year," reads a Survey statement to Fuel Administrator Garfield, "will be about 530,000,000 tons of bituminous coal, of which approximately 30,000,000 tons have been used from stocks accumulated last year, leaving 500,000,000 tons to be produced. Of this 500,000,000 tons 178,000,000 tons were produced during the first five months, leaving 322,000,000 tons to be produced in the remaining 30 weeks, or an average of 10,700,000 tons a week.

"Thus far this year production has been at the rate of 8,200,000 tons a week. In 1918 production was at the rate of 11,300,000 tons a week.

"This production will be difficult of accomplishment. The capacity of operating mines at the present time with labor now on the payroll is about 10% lower than it was last year. This deficiency may be made up in part or wholly if the mines have orders sufficient to run them five or six days a week unless the threatened exodus of foreign-born labor occurs.

May Be Car Shortage.

"Present wage agreements between operators and miners expire with the proclamation of peace by the President. A suspension of mining operations while a new wage agreement is being negotiated would, of course, seriously interfere with the production of coal and if it should occur during the fall would cause a panic among buyers and consumers of coal."

There is no use in gambling upon this or any other contingency, fuel administration officials say. The firm or individual who wants to be sure of an adequate coal supply next winter can be certain by buying coal now. There is no other way such assurance can be obtained. Transportation also promises to be a limiting factor if the flood tide of demand comes at a time when the country's record crops are being carried. In some districts it would appear certain that, notwithstanding the utmost endeavors of the Railroad Administration and the utilization of its experience last fall, car shortage will be a cause limiting bituminous coal production, and for that reason it is problematical whether the expected production of 500,000,000 tons can be attained this year.

Shortage of labor already is a factor that is cutting down the output in some coal producing sections, according to the Survey's report. The operators report that from 30,000 to 40,000 foreign-born miners expect to return to Europe as soon as they can get assurances that many have already received. If continued this movement would be capable of producing but one reduction of the amount of coal mined in districts where the mine's largely foreign-born, and therefore such districts would need coal shortly.

TOM SCULLY WILL SPEAK

Has Accepted Invitation of Welcome Home Committee to Address the Returned Heroes on June 28 — Morrissey's Band Engaged to Play for Parade, Banquet and Dancing.

Thursday night at the meeting of the Welcome Home Committee, further plans were devised for the huge celebration in honor of South Amboy's returning heroes, numbering three or four hundred men, to be held on Saturday, June 28th.

The main discussion of the meeting was the formation of the parade, and the parade committee consisting of Leo J. Coakley, Edward Trevas-kiss, Charles Safran, R. C. Stephenson and Crosby Matthews, have arranged a temporary or tentative formation, which will be followed out as closely as possible, unless other organizations will be in line that are not known of at this writing. Three of the local churches have consented to have members of their parishes in line and will also furnish a band each, and these are the Sacred Heart, Christ Episcopal and St. Mary's churches.

Quite some wrangle was started when the question of securing the local Third Battalion band for the celebration was brought up. The majority of the members of the Welcome Home Committee present felt that the local band committed an injustice on Memorial Day when they demanded a dollar extra per man to escort the Sacred Heart parish from their church in Washington avenue to the line of formation of the parade in First street. Although little is known of this incident the minority present thought this was a small matter to point out, when such a question as hiring the local band for a celebration to which they belong is considered and argued it was through the patriotic spirit of this band that music of the best had been furnished without expense at various affairs for which they played. That the local band had responded to every mass meeting held at the Empire Theatre for the benefit of the Liberty Loans, Red Cross Drives, and other numerous war drives that were conducted and also participated in the "send-off" celebrations when the boys left the city to fight the Boche across the pond. Therefore the minority considered it would seem a most fitting move to make for the returned khaki members (all of whom this city is proud of) to demand that the band that played without any remuneration whatsoever when they went away be given preference to all other band organizations, and be in the parade where they rightly belong this time to receive their pay.

However, Morrissey's Band of Perth Amboy was engaged for the main attraction on Welcome Home Day. They will head the parade, play at the auditorium while the banquet is being served the boys, and will also play on McGonigle's veranda at the corner of David street and Broadway for the street dancing that will take place at night.

A large banner which has been obtained from Laggren Brothers of Elizabeth will be here on Saturday, with the necessary equipment for suspending it across the street. By motion it will be strung on Broadway between David and Henry streets, in the place where the small Welcome Home banner is now strung. An arrangement for the hanging of this banner will be made the early part of the week.

It was decided that an extensive house-to-house canvass would not be necessary, as the committee in charge of this celebration find that it would exercise a hardship on the public at this time to conduct one of these drives. The finance committee, however, will visit the merchants, saloon proprietors, and other retail houses, enough money is raised. However, that they can defray the cost, can do so, or money will be returned.

promised to be on hand, as he always is, when South Amboy needs him. Other speakers will also be at the new auditorium of the High School where the banquet will be served to the returning war veterans of this city.

HEADQUARTERS OPENED FOR BOY SCOUT DRIVE

Headquarters for the Boy Scout drive have been opened in the McGonigle building and it is open every evening for business.

(Chairman John A. Coan has selected the same committee that assisted him in the last Liberty Loan Campaign, and with such a corps of workers he feels sure that this city's quota will be reached and more.

At the organization meeting on Monday night everybody was sanguine of the greatest success. Scoutmaster Bill of Troops 1 and 2, and F. A. Deacon made some very encouraging remarks on the campaign and of the vast amount of good accomplished by the Boy Scouts throughout the United States.

Soon the committee will be actively engaged in soliciting members. Don't say "no," but become a member of this growing organization.

HARDY-LAYDEN.

Miss Evelyn Layden, of New Brunswick, and Mr. Russell Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hardy of this city, were quietly married at the rectory of the Sacred Heart Church, New Brunswick, at 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon last, the Rev. Joseph A. Ryan performing the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Olivia Verga, of Camden, and Mr. Thomas Chapman of this city served as bestman.

After the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the home of the bride, where a wedding supper was served. Late in the afternoon the happy couple and attendants came to this city by auto and visited the home of the groom, and after congratulations had been extended, they were driven to Perth Amboy where they took a train on their wedding tour. They expect to visit Atlantic City and Easton, Pa., before they return.

MILLER'S LUMBER YARD GOES UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

The A. J. Miller lumber yard will be under new management after July 1, Mr. Miller having disposed of certain interests to O. W. Welsh and L. J. Bergen, and the firm name will be Miller, Welsh and Bergen. Mr. Miller will hereafter devote most of his time to his Carteret yard, and Messrs. Welsh and Bergen will look after the business of the yard here. Both of the new members of the firm are well and favorably known in this city, and their friends will undoubtedly lend them all the support possible.

St. Mary's Commencement.

Next Tuesday the commencement exercises of St. Mary's School will be held in the school hall. A fine program will be rendered and judging from previous entertainments by this school a treat will be in store for those who attend.

McNAMARA-HOLTON.

On Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock St. Mary's Church was the scene of a large gathering, who assembled to witness the beautiful wedding of Miss Elizabeth Holton of this city to Mr. John J. McNamara of Perth Amboy. Promptly on time the wedding party entered the church and took position before the altar, when Rev. E. C. Griffin, D. D., tied the hymeneal knot, followed by the celebration of high nuptial mass.

Miss Vincent Holton, a cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaid, and Mr. James Holton, a brother of the bride, was attendant to the groom.

After the ceremony the wedding party and guests assembled at the home of the bride, 255 Raritan street, where after hearty congratulations were extended a bountiful wedding breakfast was served. The house decorations were red, white and pink roses, intertwined with orange blossoms.

The happy couple left at 11:30 o'clock, and motored as far as Newark, where they took a train for upper New Jersey, where they will stay. On their return

FIND MAN IN BARN ALONGSIDE OF BURNING HAY

An alarm sent in from Box 36 at 1 o'clock on Sunday morning brought the fire department out to extinguish a blaze in the loft of the barn on Augusta street owned by Mrs. Frank Melzer. Fortunately Mayor Gordon noticed the fire from his residence across the street from the barn just in the nick of time, and turned in the alarm. A few minutes more and the fire would have proven disastrous, and in all likelihood Joseph Taylor, who was asleep in the part where the fire started, would have lost his life. The firemen quickly responded to the call and with the chemical apparatus soon extinguished the blaze.

The fire was caused for more trouble for Taylor as he was arrested on a disorderly charge, and at a hearing on Sunday morning, Justice Birmingham sentenced him to sixty days in the county workhouse, so that he might have ample time to sober up.

TOTAL SUBSCRIPTION $358,400.

John A. Coan, chairman of the Victory Liberty Loan drive, has reported that the total subscription in this city was $358,400, against a quota of $225,000. This is 159 per cent. of the quota and entitled South Amboy to a star on the Honor Flag. The flag and star have been received from headquarters.

This subscription is surely far beyond the anticipation of the most optimistic, and is a great credit to the people of this city, and taking into consideration the fact that many people were without employment, due to the shutting down of the munition plants, the result has been truly wonderful.

TO ADVERTISERS AND OTHERS.

Notice is hereby given to advertisers, correspondents, writers of church notes, etc., that it is the intention of the Citizen to go to press on Thursday, July 3, in order to give employees an opportunity to join in the celebration of the Fourth of July, therefore it is requested that copy be sent in a day earlier than usual that week.—Adv. 2 w.

EPISCOPALIANS, ATTENTION!

The men of Christ Church Parish have decided to turn out in a body on Welcome Home Day. In order to have a large representation it is desired that every man of the parish turn out to honor those who have been in the service of their country. A band of music has been engaged to lead the division, and flags and banners carried by the men will join in this celebration. Meetings to meet at the not later than 3:30 p. m., will be formed. The hort and not take up an of the parish turn creditable showing.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION CLOSED SUNDAY

The exercises in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Methodist Episcopal Church on John street came to a close on Sunday, and taken as a whole proved a most gratifying and successful event.

Sunday will go down in the history of the church as a red-letter day. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and flags. There was a great number of roses, daisies and peonies banked in and around the pulpit also in the colonade window in the auditorium. Most of the flowers were secured and arranged by Mrs. H. Stratton's class. The decoration of flags was arranged by Mrs. L. E. Stults. One part of this decoration was a large ball suspended from the ceiling in the center of the room which had several dozen American flags attached to it. Hanging from the ends of twenty-eight flags in this cluster were twenty-eight blue stars, representing the boys of the church who served the country.

The Sunday School was held in the morning at 9:30 o'clock instead of 2:30 in the afternoon. At 10:30 the Sunday School adjourned to the main audience room where the Children's Day exercises were held. An interesting program was rendered, and it was pleasing to see the deep enthusiasm the children manifested in the day.

At 7 o'clock p. m. a large number of people assembled on the church lawn to witness the dedication of the new service windows in the church tower. The singing of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the choir opened the service. This was followed by an address of welcome by the Rev. George W. Abel, the pastor. Twenty-eight boys from this church were in the service and a large percentage of them were present.

William M. Emmons, superintendent of the Sunday School, made a few remarks expressing the pleasure that resulted from the safe return home of the boys. Little Thelma Stratton cleverly rendered a song embodying the making of the Flag. Prayer by the pastor and singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" brought the dedicatory services to a close.

At 8 o'clock a patriotic service was held in the church which was attended by a large number of people. The singing by the choir was inspiring. Rev. J. W. Marshall, D. D., formerly superintendent of the New Brunswick District, delivered an able address, which held the rapt attention of the audience throughout, and his words will not soon be forgotten by those who heard them. His remarks were based on a quotation from the biography of Gladstone by John Murley—"The great business of life is to be to do, to do without, and to depart."

Thus the celebration came to a close and both pastor and people were delighted at its wonderful success.

UNIT NO. 6 ENTERTAINS GUESTS.

Unit No. 6, of which Mrs. Edward Hardy is chairman, attached to St. Martha's Guild, held a social and old time dance in Christ Church Parish House on Wednesday night. There was a large attendance and on entering the hall all were surprised at the beauty of the decorations. American flags were displayed everywhere, and streamers were nicely arranged around the windows and at other points about the hall. Roses and daisies completed the ornamentation.

The time passed merrily and quickly in social chat and dancing and all present had a very enjoyable evening. Light refreshments were served.

The ground floor of the "Company F Service Club" has been fitted out in the most homelike style and here the W. C. C. S. will carry on their excellent work on the same plan as in the past. The men who are at present in the service, those recently discharged as well as those who have been in civil weeks are all welcome at these rooms as the guests of the War Camp Service.
