John Wisniewski and I don't agree on many things. If I say it's day outside, he says it's night. But on his last column in The Citizen I agree with him wholeheartedly.

The last election was the dirtiest and most mean spirited in memory. Imagine my 83 year old mother watching the Lifetime Channel on Cable TV and seeing a commercial about her son paid for by Joe Vay and John Wisniewski that was so vicious and nasty that it caused her to cry?

I'm a big boy and I realize the lengths that ambitious politicians will go to advance their careers. However, the rest of the public was somewhat amazed and disgusted by the low level nature of the campaign. Much to their credit the people saw through this thinly veiled political smear and overwhelmingly rejected Joe Vay and his running mate John Wisniewski. Yet, even though the election was over, Wisniewski spent more money to do a recount -- the results of which showed my running mate, Ernie Ors, gained an extra 90 votes, thereby beating Wisniewski by an even greater margin. And when the election is over I learned that win or lose, you act like an adult and congratulate your opponent. That is what Tom Deverin and Jay Zizniewski did in 1991, but that year we ran a campaign based on issues and when it was over everyone shook hands. None of us whined nor did we act like a spoiled child.

In the final analysis, it was the people who know Wisniewski best who soundly rejected him. Twice now, in 1991 and 1993 John Wisniewski lost his hometown of Sayreville by large margins. He should not blame me or the Republican party for his defeat, that sounds like sour grapes from a perennial losing candidate.

The election is over...it's time to move on!

Teen Critical After Crash

Heather Truchan, a 17-year-old high school senior, was listed in critical condition after she collided head-on with a vehicle driver by 23-year-old John V. Kelly of Seaside Heights. The accident took place on Cheesequake Road in Parlin and was the second serious accident involving teenagers in the past four months.

Kelly was said to be driving on the wrong side of the road trying to pass another vehicle. He was given summonses for DWI, driving on the suspended list, and improper passing. He was held on $10,000 bond.

Truchan, senior class vice president at Sayreville High School, was taken to Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital where she was reported as critical.

Troop 95 to Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Boy Scout Troop 95 of South Amboy will commemorate its 50th Anniversary with a gala party on Saturday, January 15th from 1:00 - 5:00 p.m. in the Sacred Heart School cafeteria.

Tickets are now on sale for the event, which will feature food, drink and an afternoon full of memories.

Scoutmaster Marty Ruzala is hopeful that the celebration will enable many former scouts and their families to once again get together.

"This is the ideal occasion for those former Troop 95 members to be reunited with old friends and acquaintances," noted Ruzala. "It also allows us to pay tribute to the many scouts who have made our troop such a staple of the South Amboy community."

Former members and families of Troop 95 are encouraged not only to attend, but to bring memorabilia from their scout days with them.

For further information and to place ticket orders, contact Tom Consentino, (908) 727-4881 or Marty Ruzala, (908) 721-5121.

Helping hand Audrey Gagnon, 2 1/2 from South Amboy, takes a bite from her hot dog during a fund raiser for the Special Olympics program. The event was sponsored by Madison Exxon and all the proceeds went to the program. Shown with Audrey is her dad, Ron.

The show, starring the famous "Snazzola" who "morders" the English language, opened last night at the New York Club and even with such strong competition as the famous Durante, Marcello brought down plenty of laughs with his antics.

VIEWPOINT

As I See It

by

John S. Wisniewski

What is Christmas? When I was a child, it was the next major holiday after Thanksgiving. Now, when you walk through any store, Christmas seems to start before Thanksgiving. Somehow I know that the stores aren't doing all their Christmas promoting just because they like the holiday and want to spread peace on earth and goodwill among men. They're in it for the money. Now there is nothing wrong with retailers promoting Christmas to make a buck. That's what they're in business for. What really matters is how we each celebrate Christmas. And we only have ourselves to look to on that.

My favorite story about celebrating the true meaning of Christmas is Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol. It is a story that tells the real story of Christmas, and it is a story that is, more than ever, still relevant today.

Scrooge, as Dickens wrote, was "a squeezing, wrenching, grasping, scraping, clutching, covetous, old sinner! Hard and sharp as flint, from which no steel had ever struck out generous fire." Well, Dickens was wordy if he was nothing. In short, Scrooge was concerned with only himself and his wealth. He had no time for anyone else because he was busy looking out for number one. Many of us may know a Scrooge.

On Christmas Eve, four ghosts changed Scrooge's outlook on life. Marley's ghost explained to him that he was wearing "the chain I forged in life." The same chain that Scrooge was unknowingly making for himself. Then the ghosts of Christmas Past, Christmas Present and Christmas Yet to Come showed Scrooge what he used to be, what he had become and where he was headed. They showed Scrooge that while he may have been looking out for number one, Scrooge wasn't number one. That was enough to make old Scrooge change his ways.

In a way it's a shame that, at one time or another, we all aren't visited by the same ghosts that visited old Scrooge. Scrooge was so focused on the here and now that he couldn't see anything else. The four ghosts who visited him on Christmas Eve gave Scrooge a look at the bigger picture. Many people today are focused on the here and now and can't see anything else.

The four ghosts enabled Scrooge to stop looking out just for himself, and in so doing, gave him hope. And that is what Christmas is all about. Christmas is the hope that we were all given by the birth of a Child in a manger in Bethlehem.

Dear Citizen's Voice Editor:

Recently your newspaper published an article called Attention Deficit Disorder. This article caught my eye right away since I have a child with this learning difference. I was not at all happy with this article and feel that many parents of these children were misled.

You refer to the children as victims of labeling. If a school, teacher, medical professional does not use a label then the child is simply lost in the system instead of getting the special training technique they need to learn.

You mention, "We are often led to believe that all it will take is more money, drugs, counseling or labeling." Yet, you are reluctant to advise parents of the fact that each school has access to a child study team. This offers parents to have their children evaluated free. Although, this process may take about eight months from start to finish, it is still offered as a free service. However, if a parent chooses they can have their child evaluated elsewhere and get results faster.

Next you mention drugs, but fail to tell people that 800,000 children in the United States are on Ritalin for a learning difference. You also fail to tell parents that out of the almost one million children who take Ritalin 80% of them are doing better in school and are able to focus for longer periods of time.

When you talked about counseling you fail to tell parents that a child psychiatrist evaluates ALL the tests that were taken before they make the final decision on whether or not a child should be placed on Ritalin.

You state, "One concept is the idea that the learning process is not just piling up data on top of more data. Rather, it is one of obtaining new understanding and better ways to do things." Here you are very very unfair. If you expect a child to do this kind of learning then we as parents should expect the teachers to do a new kind of teaching. With some simple modifications in the classroom there is no reason why these children can't learn as well as the next child.

Then you talk about new centers that opened up throughout the state. Granted there are many specialized centers that are open, but parents need to ask the right kinds of questions so their child can get the true help that they deserve. I spent over $1,500 dollars for a five-month program at one of these centers. Money I could not afford, only to realize my child was not taught how to work with her learning difference in order to do the school work required in a regular classroom. In the center my child was given "busy work." Busy work simply means that all the same worksheets were given to the children in her class. What should have been done to prepare her for regular school work was to have her receive individual attention to meet her own special needs.

Finally, you end your article by stating barriers can easily be overcome. Again you fail to tell parents it is a lot of hard work and things don't just happen overnight. It is important for parents not to put high expectations on their children. Setbacks and gains are a part of learning. They should become involved, talk to teachers, principals, librarians, start committees and join future organizations. After all, these children hold our future and we as parents and educators owe this to them.

Dear Citizen Voice Editor:

As the holiday season begins its hustle and bustle, we would like to urge you and every other community member to take a moment to ponder a serious situation. For the last several years, blood donations in this region have fallen dramatically. While every year is critical during the summer and holiday seasons, donations have not picked up as usual. Normally blood collected during October and November helps to avert critical shortages in December and January. This year, blood donations continue to drop.

Why is this happening? Is it apathy on the part of community residents? Is it that we as a blood center are not doing our job to educate and inform? Is it the misguided fear of needles and the erroneous belief one can contract HIV through a blood donation? Is it the more detailed pre-screening done to ensure the safety of the blood supply? Is it a continuing low priority for

Homemade Tomato Sauce Adds Zest to Recipes

Ready for a shift from the usual winter meals? Then you want Shrimp in Bloody Mary Sauce and Sweet and Sour Chicken our Homemade Tomato Sauce.

Celery, scallions and tomatoes spiced with hot pepper sauce give shrimp a taste that's perfect with pasta. The chicken sauce has a light touch of brown sugar and vinegar.

Shrimp in Bloody Mary Sauce

- 3 medium (about 1 pound) fresh tomatoes
- 2 tbsps butter
- 1 cup finely chopped celery
- 1/2 cup scallions (green onions) cut in 1-inch pieces
- 3/4 tspn salt
- 1/4 to 1/2 tspn hot pepper sauce
- 1 pound medium shrimp, peeled and deveined
- 1/2 tspn celery seed optional
- 8 ounces fettuccine, hot, cooked

Use tomatoes held at room temperature until fully ripe. Core tomatoes; chop (makes about three cups); set aside. In a large skillet over medium heat, melt butter; add celery and scallions; cook, stirring occasionally, until celery is bright green, about two minutes. Add salt, hot pepper sauce and reserved tomatoes. Cook, stirring occasionally, until tomatoes are softened, about three minutes. Add shrimp; cook stirring occasionally, until shrimp are pink, about three minutes. Stir in celery seed, if desired. Serve over fettuccine. Makes four portions (three cups).

Sweet and Sour Chicken

- 3 medium (about 1 pound) fresh tomatoes
- 1 tbspn vegetable oil
- 12 ounces of boned and skinned chicken breast cutlets
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup diced green pepper
- 1 cup peeled and diced tart apple
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1 tbspn light brown sugar
- 1 tbspn cider vinegar
- 1 tspn salt
- Pinch ground red pepper
- 8 ounces of linguine, hot, cooked

Use tomatoes held at room temperature until fully ripe. Core tomatoes; chop (makes about three cups); set aside. Cut chicken into bite size pieces. In large skillet over medium high heat, heat oil until hot, add chicken; cook, stirring occasionally, until chicken is opaque, about three minutes. Using a slotted spoon remove from skillet; set aside. To skillet, add onion, green pepper and apple; cook, stirring occasionally, until nearly crisp, tender, about three minutes. Add raisins, brown sugar, vinegar, salt, red pepper, reserved chicken and two cups of reserved tomatoes; cook, stirring occasionally, until tomatoes are softened, about three minutes. Stir in remaining one cup tomatoes; cook until heated through, about one minute. Serve over linguine. Makes four servings.

Light and Cheesy Vegetables-- Ready In Minutes

The hallmark of the 90's is change, and nowhere is that more apparent than on American tables, where trendy cooking has given way to a quick and easy cuisine that promotes health and fitness even as it frees the cook for a more active lifestyle.

Fresh, nutrient-rich ingredients are first on the list of many cooks, and as a result, today's grocery produce departments resemble bountiful gardens of fresh fruits and vegetables -- many recipe ready -- and the choices are as varied as the seasons. Pair them with other quick and easy ingredients and you have practically instant appetizers, soups and main dishes that fit into the most active lifestyle. A good example is the super-easy recipe below: tender cooked vegetables with a rich and satisfying sprinkling of cheese.

Make a Delicious Hawaiian Shortcake

- 1 1/2 cups half-and-half
- 2 tbsps flour
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 2 tbsps minced candied ginger
- 4 egg yolks, beaten
- 2 tbsps orange liqueur
- 1 medium pineapple
- 1 pkge (10.5 oz) frozen pound cake, thawed
- 1 pt. raspberry sorbet

In heavy saucepan, combine 1/4 cup half-and-half with flour until smooth. Gradually whisk in remaining half-and-half. Beat in sugar and ginger. Cook over medium heat, stirring, until mixture thickens. Do not boil. Stir small amount of sauce into egg yolks; pour back into saucepan, stirring until sauce thickens. Do not boil. Remove from heat. Stir in liqueur. Place plastic wrap directly over sauce. Chill.

Cut pineapple and cake into pieces and pour chilled sauce over dessert.

- #### Light and Cheesy Vegetable Hors D'Oeuvres
- 3/4-pound of cheese (Danish, Swiss, etc.), shredded
 - 1/4-pound fresh mushrooms
 - 1/4-pound brussels sprouts
 - 1/2-pound petite green beans
 - 1/2-pound small red (new) potatoes
 - 1/2-pound small beets
 - 1/2-pound cauliflower florets
 - 1/2-pound broccoli florets
 - 1/2-pound baby carrots

Steam, blanch or microwave the vegetables to desired doneness. Drain, then arrange the vegetables attractively on an ovenproof or microwave serving dish. Sprinkle the cheese (may be done ahead to this point). Slide the platter into a 400-degree oven for 3 to 5 minutes, just until the cheese starts to melt. (For microwave cooking, follow manufacturers directions). Serve with wooden toothpicks as an appetizer. Makes 24 appetizer servings (about 5 items per serving) or serve as a side dish.

NOTE: To enhance the flavor of the vegetables, especially in winter months, add a sprig of oregano, rosemary or parsley to the cooking water.

Dressed-up For The Holidays

Ready for Santa Owners of area homes prepared their homes early for the arrival of Santa Claus. The house of the left, located on Stegeil Place in Sayreville, displays Disney characters on their lawn. Santa climbs a ladder to the chimney at a Parlin home on Robin Hood Drive, while his elf's back him up. These were among the many area homes that decorated for the coming of the Christmas holiday.

Councilman's Daughter Improving

Melissa Griffiths, 14-year-old daughter of Sayreville Councilman Howard Griffiths, although remaining in a coma, is said to be gaining strength and improving on her condition. She had been struck by a 1991 Buick on Bordentown Avenue on December 3rd. Melissa was said to be leaving school that day approximately 3 p.m., when the incident occurred.

The driver of the car, Colleen Lukow, 27, of Old Bridge, has been charged with leaving the accident scene and failure to report the accident. She was not blamed for causing the accident.

South Amboy Wants Out of its Water Contract

After years of complaint by residents as to the quality of the water they were receiving, the City of South Amboy formally introduced a complaint to rescind its contract with Perth Amboy for the low quality of water it was getting from them. South Amboy would then seek another supplier.

The problems started in 1988 when a water main broke and city officials found that there were cross connections and that the water supply was coming from Sayreville, but the city was paying Perth Amboy.

Once the connections were straightened out, the complaints from the residents about water's color, taste and odor began.

Seventy-five students from Rowan College were recognized as national outstanding campus leaders in the 1994 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

Local awards went to Rowan College students Mary Kaye Bouchard and Lauren Ashley Doyle, both of South Amboy.

Additions to Boro Recreational Site

The Sayreville Recreational Complex, located on Bordentown Avenue, currently houses five soccer fields, and in all likelihood, will be the future site of four new baseball and softball fields and a multi-purpose field, as well as additional parking facilities.

The second phase for these additions was introduced to the council and would cost $2 million.

The first phase was completed for under $1 million.

The council is not expected to decide on whether to approve or disprove the plan, but rather to see if they thought the plan had any validity.

The site is a 90-acre tract that had been owned by Owens-Illinois.

HEALTH

New Medicines Pose Risks,
Rewards for Seniors

Medicine and senior citizens go hand in hand, so to speak. As the National Institute of Aging points out, the growth of our population over the age of 65 can be attributed to the development and availability of new medicines and vaccines.

But with new remedies come new questions. Older adults face greater medicinal risks, particularly when taking more than one drug at a time.

While persons over age 65 comprise 13% of our population, they use 30% of all prescription drugs. Senior citizens often suffer from long-term illnesses, including arthritis, diabetes, high blood pressure and heart disease. If you are over 65, you may face two or more of these illnesses at the same time. Therefore, it's important for you to know which drugs mix, and, more critically, which ones do not.

As your body ages, the amount of water and lean tissue (such as muscle) you retain decreases. Conversely, your percent of fat tissue increases. This affects the time a drug stays in your body.

The kidney and liver, which break down and remove most drugs from the body, function less efficiently as you age. This can intensify drug effects.

Follow these guidelines for safe drug use:

- Take the exact amount prescribed by your physician and follow the dosage schedule as closely as possible. If you have any questions, talk to your doctor or family pharmacist.
- Never take drugs prescribed for a friend or relative, even if your symptoms are the same.
- Always let your physician and pharmacist know if you've reacted poorly to medicines in the past.
- Be sure your physician and pharmacist know the medicines—prescription and over-the-counter—you currently take.
- Keep a daily record of the medicines you're taking, especially if taking more than one.
- Make sure you understand the dosage directions on your container.
- Discard old medicines. Many of them lose their effectiveness over time.
- Ask your doctor and pharmacist about any side effects the prescription may cause.
- Ask which foods and beverages you should avoid, and how the medicine should be stored.
- Notify your doctor immediately if you experience any unusual reactions to your medicine.

Stay Fit During the Holiday Season

The hectic holiday season is quickly approaching and that means plenty of celebration, family gatherings and outings. With that kind of pace, it's important to keep fit.

Here are some suggestions to help you stay fit during the holiday season:

• Eat regular meals. With parties, shopping and other social obligations, it is easy to miss a meal and snack on available foods during social activities. That's not a good idea. No matter how busy you are, take the time to eat nutritious, balanced meals.

• Avoid snacking. Party food tends to be higher in fat and calories than what we normally eat. If you are at a social gathering, you can still eat properly. Stay away from the junk foods and instead try snacks such as celery and carrots.

• Go easy on the alcohol. Alcoholic beverages can cloud your judgement and, for some people, can be a health threat. Alcohol can also be a source of extra calories. You're better off without it.

• Pace yourself. One common mistake is trying to do too much at once. That's the easiest way to become overtired and susceptible to fatigue and illness. Don't wait until the last minute to do the holiday shopping.

• Don't forget to exercise. It's easy to put aside your exercise routine during this busy season and say you'll resume after the holidays. It's better to stay in shape than try to lose weight and regain your stamina in January.

Influenza Can Be Treated and Prevented

This season may never be the same, a new weapon is now available in the United States to treat and prevent influenza type A.

The new prescription, Flumadine, inhibits virus replication in influenza A, an illness characterized by fever, muscle and body aches, headache, cough and sore throat.

Medical experts call the new drug a "powerful" new tool for treating and preventing influenza. It can be used this season to treat the disease in adults and elderly, and prevent infection in children, adults and the elderly.

Flumadine has shown in controlled clinical studies to effectively reduce influenza type A symptoms within 48 hours so patients can resume their daily activities sooner.

This year, the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) has identified a change in the strain of the influenza A virus; this change may make the public more susceptible to this year's influenza.

On average, 25 to 75 million Americans contract influenza each year, and 10,000 to 40,000 die as a result of its complications. The economic costs are high: Approximately 15 million workdays are lost each year to the disease, and economists estimate the costs of influenza to be between $3 billion and $5 billion per year.

Vaccination should be the primary method of preventing influenza type A; however, when Flumadine was given to prevent infection during outbreaks, more than 90% of patients who took it in clinical studies did not develop influenza. For added protection, the new antiviral can be administered to elderly nursing home patients who have already been vaccinated.

Preventing influenza type A is particularly important for persons with chronic illnesses such as diabetes and heart, lung and kidney disease, children with asthma, and everyone over the age of 65; these groups are most likely to develop serious complications from influenza.

Aching Backs;
The Major Causes

You've been taking your lawn all afternoon and, finally, you're almost done. All you have to do is carry the bags out to the curb.

You carry the first bag with no problem. The second bag seems a little heavier and your back begins to hurt. The third bag feels like a ton of bricks. You decide to leave the rest until you feel better.

More than 200,000 people in this country alone undergo surgery each year to treat lower back pain. In some cases, surgery eliminates the pain. In other cases, it simply lessens the pain.

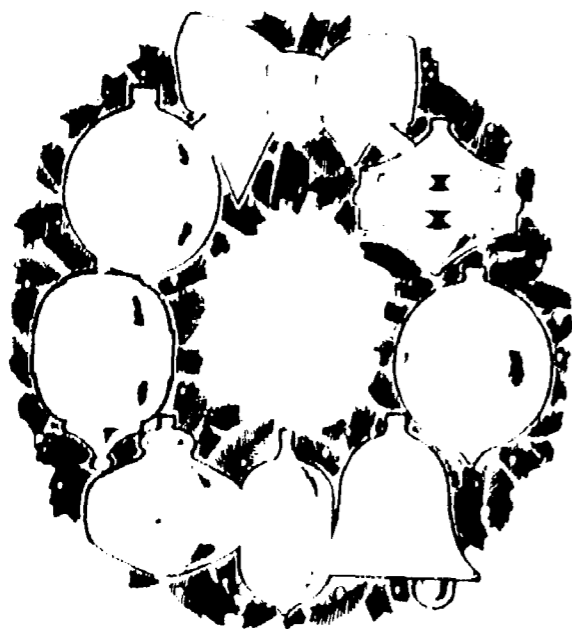

The majority of back pains are caused by either strains or slipped discs. Strains, which most often refer to lower back troubles, can be caused by stress placed on back muscles and ligaments. Back strains can often be relieved by resting your back for a few days or, perhaps, seeing a chiropractor.

Slipped discs can also be treated with lots of rest, but it's quite likely this kind of injury will require surgery.

Entertainment Extra

Q. I know that Susan Lucci has been with "All My Children" since the show first debuted in 1970. However, I was wondering are there any other actors still on "AMC" from its first season? Ann Marie A.

Q. I love Joan Collins and really got a hoot out of watching her opposite Roseanne Arnold recently on "Roseanne." My question is, does the actress plan on marrying again in the near future? Kent B.

A. Besides the delightful Ms. Lucci, there are four other actors who have been with "AMC" for their 6,000-plus episodes. The list includes, Ruth Warrick (Phoebe), Fran Heflin (Mona), Mary Fickett (Ruth), Ray McDonald (Joe).

Q. Is Eddie Murphy seriously considering a recording career? Michael W.

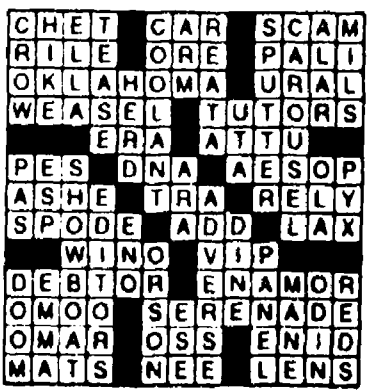

A. The answer is yes, and it should not really come as a surprise. The multi-talented Murphy is now a songwriter and producer for his upcoming album "It's Alright," from Motown Records. Murphy worked on the album for over two years from his New Jersey home.

A. Believe it or not, the beautiful Ms. Collins is going to turn 60 this year. As for marriage, Joan has no intention of marrying again in the near future.

Q. Does Don Johnson plan on bringing "Miami Vice" back as a movie parallel to the same rumors regarding a "Magnum" movie starring Tom Selleck? Grace P.

A. Don has no plans for a return to "Miami Vice — The Movie." However, Don, along with wife, Melanie Griffith, and actor John Goodman, are team-plans to revive the series, but the Lifetime Cable channel bought the show. If you don't mind reliving some of the episodes, they're on Lifetime every afternoon. Two episodes are shown back to back; the first at 4; the second at 4:30 (eastern time).

City to Receive Portion of Anticipated Revenue

This past September, the South Amboy City Council introduced a proposed fiscal budget of $11.6 million for the year 1993-94. The budget was projected with $4.1 million in state aid under the auspices of Municipal Revitalization Funding to the city. They were recently told that this amount was only $550,000.

Last year South Amboy received $560,000 for a $8.5 million municipal budget.

Officials say there is room in the budget to make the necessary adjustments without concern of layoffs or cutbacks and that there will be a budget accord by the end of this year.

South Amboy has been working with interim budget since the middle of the summer.

Boro Steel Company, State Near Accord

New Jersey Steel Company of Sayreville reached an agreement with Jersey Central Power & Light Company to a reduced rate for its electricity. The steel firm is the utility's largest customer. The steel company would benefit on these rates to the tune of $6 million annually over the next ten years. Had this agreement not been worked out, the steel company threatened to move to Pennsylvania to manufacture its reinforcement bars.

The agreement had to be approved by the New Jersey Board of Regulatory Commissioners (BRC). It passed the board with the provision that the steel company would invest $25 million in the plant to upgrade the facility and that every effort would be made to hire New Jersey contractors, workers and equipment manufactured in the state to do the upgrade.

In October, in response to claims that New Jersey Steel was hiring out-of-state workers, and that was in violation of the rate reduction agreement. The BRC stepped in and began an investigation. The preliminary results were that the company did not violate any of the conditions and that the board would generate a report based upon their findings.

New Jersey Steel is said to have performed approximately 25% of the renovations and that of all the contracts awarded for this work, 84% were New Jersey firms.

businesses that have downsized and are trying hard just to keep themselves afloat? Is it sensationalized "scare tactic" television news stories in search of high ratings?

Or is it a combination of all these scenarios. We, as a community, are all in this together. We must say no to holiday blood shortages and other seasonal blood shortages. We must make a commitment to our friends, relatives, colleagues and neighbors that blood will be available should it be needed. We must join hands, roll up our sleeves, and challenge ourselves to ensure a happy holiday for everyone - patients with cancer, accident victims, children with blood disorders - everyone who will need blood this winter.

There are hundreds of opportunities to donate. Call 800-443-6522, ext. 140 to make an appointment. Call today. We are all in this together. Say no to holiday blood shortages.

Sincerely,
Robert D. Rowan

THE ABC's of Writing a Classified Ad That Works

Avoid Abbreviations

A few easily recognized abbreviations are OK, but an ad full of them just confuses the reader. They will go on to the next ad rather than decipher yours. Avoid such abbreviations: "Spelled out or leave it out."

Be Available

Put your telephone number or address so that the potential buyer will know how to contact you. State the best times in which you may be spoken to.

Consider the Readers

Put yourself in the reader's place. If you were considering buying this item, what would you want them to know about it? Give a complete description of the item so the reader may make a decision.

Don't Exaggerate

Misleading information may bring potential buyers to your home, but will not help you make the sale. You'll lose the prospects trust as well as the sale.

Enter the Price

Price is one of the biggest concerns of a classified buyer. Ads with prices get more attention, therefore, more prospects.

SPORTS FANS!

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW!

Brought to you by Mike Simko

What are the most points ever scored by one team in any college football game in history? The record was set by Georgia Tech. Georgia Tech beat Cumberland 222-0 in a game to establish a record that's never been topped.

It seems hard to believe now, but there once were 30,000 empty seats for the Super Bowl game. The first Super Bowl, played in 1967, failed to sell out by a big margin. The game was played in the Los Angeles Coliseum which seats 93,000. The attendance was 63,000.

Here's an amazing football fact. Notre Dame once played 22 CONSECUTIVE YEARS without losing a home football game. And, incredibly, Knute Rockne, who coached Notre Dame from 1918 to 1930, lost only one home game in his entire coaching career.

I bet you didn't know that SIMKO'S PUB is open for lunch Monday through Saturday with a full menu, as well as many lunch specials available every day.

Every Sunday afternoon and Monday night, every NFL football game that can be seen can be seen on one of our 25 TV's. SIMKO'S offers a special $2.00 food menu with over 100 items to choose from.

Tuesday is $5.00 night - for 6 bottles or a pitcher of beer. Drink pitchers or have a large pizza, your choice, for just $5.00. Tuesday is also Blues Night with DJ's Ronzo and Mohrhead.

Thursday is Ladies Night - drink specials for all ladies. Ronzo and Mohrhead DJ Hard Rock and Heavy Metal all night.

Saturday is Band Night (NO COVER).

Thursday, December 23rd, a special appearance from the band "Justine Tyne".

Of course, SIMKO'S PUB is open Christmas Eve and Christmas night, and we're closed New Year's Eve.

Everyone have a very Happy Holiday and a healthy and prosperous New Year.

Veterinary Medicine Gets A Shot in the Arm

When Dr. Ann Schneider, DVM, first went into private veterinary practice, a canine patient was brought in critically ill and desperately in need of a blood transfusion.

Since there were no formal blood banks in operation nearby, she had to send a technician to her mother's house to get an untyped, unscreened dog to serve as an emergency donor. While Schneider worked with the unprepared blood contributor, her severely ill patient lay in a cage, frightened and alone.

The whole situation was unnecessary," Schneider said about that day back in October, 1991. "Veterinarians dealing with critical patients have other things to do than start tracking down a donor. The limitations in transfusion medicine became blatantly obvious to me."

Schneider, who got into the profession because of her great love of animals, didn't just roll over and play dead, she got busy making sure this scenario would be a thing of the past -- both for her and other veterinarians.

"I had wanted to be a vet ever since I can remember," she said. "I was always an animal fanatic but, as I grew up, I could see that simply working with them wouldn't be enough. I wanted to help them."

"As I ran my referral practice week after week, month after month, the blood problem kept coming up," Schneider continued. "It struck me as odd that no one else had opened a blood bank in this area and I started thinking maybe that was something I should do."

That's why Schneider formed the Eastern Veterinary Blood Bank, 2138-B Generals Hwy., Annapolis, Md., an ambitious operation that distributes canine, feline and ferret blood products to states in the surrounding area.

"If I achieve one thing with the EVBB, I'd like to introduce to veterinarians the idea of the distribution network," she said. "It's extremely unlikely that small-scale blood banks will pop up all over due to the expense of the equipment. However, a few large blood banks and a lot of distribution centers will allow vets to practice better transfusion medicine."

Free "Holiday Safe-Tow" Available

People attending parties this holiday season who have become a little tipsy may decide they don't want to risk driving home -- wise choice. Perhaps the AAA Auto Club can help.

AAA Central New Jersey is offering a free tow home (within 15 miles) for a vehicle and a free ride for the driver. The offer is not for disabled cars but for vehicles of drivers who are smart enough to realize they've had too much to drink.

By calling 800-SAFE-TOW (723-3869) and requesting a "safe tow," one of AAA's contract wreckers will be dispatched to take the vehicle and driver to their home. (AAA will tow to the driver's home only, not to a bar or other party.)

The program will be in effect beginning December 22, 1993 and will continue through January 3, 1994 and is exclusive to the six counties serviced by AAA Central New Jersey which include Mercer, Burlington, Monmouth, Ocean, Middlesex and Somerset.

Herbert F. Moore, AAA President and Chairman of the Board explains the Club's involvement: "We are seriously concerned with the increased deaths and injuries resulting from drinking and driving particularly during the holidays and want to do our share to ensure a joyous and safe holiday season for all."

To be towed under the "Safe-Tow" program vehicles must be operable. The towing of disabled vehicles is still reserved for members only.

AAA Central New Jersey serves nearly 410,000 in its six county areas.

Light Truck Owners, Know Tire Types

Light trucks have become one of the nation's most desirable vehicles, comprising five out of eight of the top-selling vehicles.

These owners must educate themselves as to their tire types as replacement time rolls around. Deciding on which tire to buy depends on the owners driving style and anticipated need. Choices range from all terrain and "max" traction to basic, highway-rib designs.

If the vehicle is used to drive to work, transport the kids to school or to haul groceries home, then an all-season tire makes sense.

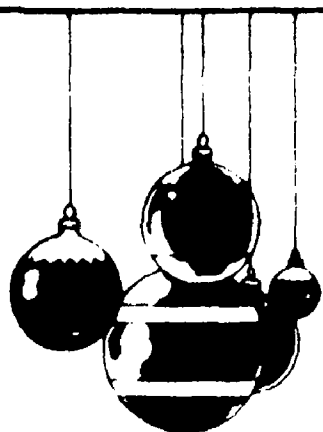

A truck that is used on and off the road should have an all-terrain tire with its aggressive tread pattern. They are sure footed over most trails and in the snow. Yet they deliver a smooth ride on the highway, although not quite as smooth as a highway-rib design.

At the other end of the spectrum are the max traction tires which are targeted at the person that drives in the most challenging environments. It's best to match the tire with the drivers' needs and select a tire to fill these needs.

TV is IFy

Consider this!

All advertisements on the TV might be heard...

If you have your Television is on.

If your TV is on
and if you're listening to that particular station.

If your TV is on
and if you're listening to that station, and if you're listening at that particular moment.

and if you don't decide to change that station to listen to another program!

People just don't believe it until they see it in print!
