MAYOR VETOES RESOLUTION

Does Not Believe in Heaping Unnecessary Expense Upon the City—Council Will Ask Board of Freeholders to Take Over Bordentown Avenue as a County Road.

"Politics! Its petty politics, you're playing," was the reply made by Mayor Kerr to Councilman Hackett in reply to being accused of bringing county politics into local affairs. The discussion arose from a communication from Mayor Kerr returning unsigned the resolution, which was adopted last meeting night, authorizing the setting of gutters on Bordentown avenue. After the clerk had read the communication Councilman Parisen moved that the Mayor's veto be sustained.

Councilman Hackett objected to this on the grounds that it was a resolution of the Common Council and already into effect. He doubted the authority of the Mayor to veto a resolution. He said that he was aware that an ordinance could be vetoed but not a resolution. Mayor Kerr then stated that unless the Mayor signed a resolution it was practically useless. He said, "It is in anticipation of permanent pavement of this street that I vetoed the resolution." Councilman Hackett said, "There is too much outside business and county politics being played." The discussion became so hot that it was necessary for the president of the council to request that the remarks be confined to the subject before the house. "That's just what I'm driving at," said Councilman Hackett. "If the Mayor has a right to veto a resolution, the city might just as well not have a council."

The Mayor then referred to the city solicitor as to his authority to sign resolutions. The city solicitor replied that he could see no reason why the Mayor could not veto a resolution just as he has power to veto an ordinance which has more power than a resolution. The Mayor stated that by vetoing the resolution he hoped to save money for the taxpayers of South Amboy. "I'm not working county politics but working in the interest of the people of South Amboy." The motion was carried, Hackett voting against.

There were present at this meeting all of the Councilmen, Clerk, Coakley, Engineer McMichael, City Solicitor Coakley, Mayor Kerr and City Treasurer Sullivan. The minutes of the previous meeting were read. Councilman Parisen took exception to one clause. He stated that he was of the opinion that the tags for the dogs were ordered purchased. His objection was overruled, and declared approved as read.

A communication from L. W. Berry, superintendent of the New York & Long Branch Railroad, stating that the men leaving the crossing gates down all night was a direct violation of the company's laws and the matter would be given his attention. Mayor reported improved conditions existing. Upon a motion offered by Councilman Parisen the communication was received and filed.

A request was received from the secretary of the Independence Engine Company. The request was referred to the fire committee upon a motion introduced by Councilman Parisen. A letter from F. D. Stanton stated that William Bulman had been transferred from the Mechanicsville company to the Protection Engine company and requested the council to confirm the transfer. Upon the motion offered by Councilman Parisen, the action was confirmed.

A communication was received from John Connors, secretary of Enterprise Hook & Ladder Company, stating that Michael Nagle had served the necessary term of service and was entitled to an exemption certificate. Upon a motion offered by Councilman Gordon, the certificate was granted.

A lengthy communication recommended extra compensation for the assessors on account of the double assessments. Upon a motion by Councilman Parisen, the communication was received and filed.

Miss Welsh Bride of James A. Harkins

Miss Helen Declina Welsh, the daughter of Mr. Michael Welsh of First street, and Mr. James Alphonius Harkins, son of Mr. William F. Harkins of New Brunswick, were united in marriage at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning in St. Mary's church.

When the bridal party arrived the church was well filled with friends to witness the nuptials, as the bride is very popular in the social circle of the city.

Rev. George A. Welsh, of Camden, a brother of the bride, performed the ceremony, and was celebrant of the solemn nuptial mass. Rev. Sylvester A. Welsh, of St. Joseph's Seminary, Yonkers, N. Y., another brother of the bride, officiated as deacon; and John Arthur Hayes and Joseph Matthew Sullivan, also of St. Joseph's Seminary, were respectively sub-deacon and master of ceremonies. Miss Mary Margaret Costello, a cousin of the bride, attended as bridesmaid, and Mr. Edward John Harkins, a brother of the bridegroom, acted as bestman.

The bride's wedding gown was of white Georgette crepe with pearl trimmings and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. She wore a veil of Georgette crepe, caught up with lilies of the valley, and was a very handsome bride. The bridesmaid was becomingly attired in a gown of pink organdy, and wore a picture hat. She carried a bouquet of tea roses.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, at which only the immediate families were present. Childs of Red Bank was the caterer. The home was beautifully decorated with ferns and cut flowers. About 1:30 p. m. the happy couple were taken in an automobile to Metuchen, and from there a train was boarded for Atlantic City, where the honeymoon will be spent. Mr. and Mrs. Harkins will be at home 208 First street after July 10.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly gifts.

NINE WOMEN HAVE REGISTERED.

Up to Thursday night nine German alien women had registered with Chief of Police McDonnell. The chief will continue to sit at the City Hall until June 26, and women who do not comply with the law by that time may be interned, imprisoned or deported.

GO TO CAMP EDGE.

On Thursday morning Company F, N. J. S. Militia, Captain Faurst, and the Third Battalion Band left this city for Sea Girt, where they will undergo ten days intensive training. The men took full equipment with them. At Camp Edge all the maneuvers of army life will be practiced, and therefore some hard work is in store for the men. The State pays all expense of the camp.

WENT INTO BUNK

HOUSE FOR REST

John McCabe, who claimed to be in the employ of the California Loading Company at Runyon, wandered away from his headquarters and finally landed in this city. After disposing of whatever change he had on his arrival he felt tired and longed for rest, so he hiked down Main street and ran right into the P. R. R. bunk house, where he found several comfortable and inviting beds, and he laid himself down to rest. Soon, however, he discovered that he needed the soothing effect of a cigarette and he lighted one to satisfy his craving. This proved his undoing and disturbed his slumbers, as he in some way set fire to the bedding. Odor of something burning, and evidence of some smoke coming from the room, aroused the attention of Mr. Dill, the janitor, who lives next door, and on investigation discovered the bedding on fire. The mattress was thrown outdoors, and then attention was given to McCabe by hailing him before Judge Birmingham on Thursday. The Judge felt inclined to be lenient and ordered McCabe to beat it back to his work as quickly as his heels would carry him.

Mayor's Proclamation

GREETING:

TO THE CITIZENS OF SOUTH AMBOY:

President Wilson has officially designated Friday, June 28th, 1918, as War Savings Day and urges: "I earnestly appeal to every man, woman, and child to pledge themselves on or before the 28th of June to save constantly and to buy as regularly as possible the securities of the Government; and to do this as far as possible through membership in War Savings Societies."

In accordance with this appeal I want to urge all loyal citizens of this community to sign the pledge cards, which will be presented to them on or before the 28th of June, and thus enroll themselves in the NATIONAL ARMY OF WAR SAVERS; because such united action is necessary to our winning the war.

ALFRED T. KERR, Mayor.

SAVING STAMP DRIVE NOW ON

Red Cross Teams to be Enlisted For House to House Canvass—Blanks and Pledge Cards on Hand and Ready for Distribution—Quota Expected from City is $165,000.

A meeting of the local War Savings Stamp Committee was held in City Hall Thursday night. Chairman Francis H. Gordon presided and plans for a vigorous drive to awake interest and reach the city's quota were discussed. It was decided to enlist the assistance of the teams in the recent Red Cross drive to perform a similar house to house canvass to get the pledge cards in the homes of the city. The captains of the various teams are requested to meet with the committee next Monday night at eight o'clock in City Hall. All necessary blanks and pledge cards are now on hand and ready for distribution.

The committee has under consideration plans for the erection of a booth on Broadway from which stamps will be sold, also a plan whereby the merchants of the city may assist in the drive.

If the city's quota of $165,000 is to be attained every member must pitch in the work and it is hoped that Monday night's meeting will be well attended.

Gypsy Smith says:

"You have never seen the havoc, witnessed the slaughter, suffered the agony, felt the heartbreak that have come to the allies of Europe at the hands of those people who are not fit to be named in a civilized community. And all this to satisfy the diabolical ambition of the butcher of Berlin."

Well, there is only one way for us to stop this, and that is by getting back of our Government with every power at our command. And we can begin by pledging ourselves to save to the utmost of our ability and to buy War Savings Stamps that there may be more money, labor and materials for the Government with which to fight the war.

ALEXANDER-WITCZAK.

The Church of the Sacred Heart was the scene of a very pretty wedding at 9 o'clock, on Wednesday morning, the contracting parties being Miss May K. Witczak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Witczak of Augusta street, and Mr. Anthony Alexander. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. B. Strenski, the rector, followed by the celebration of solemn nuptial mass.

Miss Anna Kwilinski was bridesmaid, and Mr. Charles Witczak, brother of the bride, was attendant to the groom. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, and a large number of guests enjoyed the festivities throughout the day. Many handsome gifts were received by the bride.

Rev. D. E. McCurry Addresses Graduates

The Baccalaureate service for the class of 1918, was held in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening. The service was attended by the graduating class in a body as well as the faculty and the City Superintendent of Schools. A large number of the student body were also present. The class was addressed by Rev. D. Ernest McCurry and he gave some worth while advice to the graduates.

The services commenced promptly at eight o'clock. The graduating class marched down the aisle to special seats in the front that had been reserved for them. Mr. McCurry took for his text the words found in the thirteenth chapter of Mark, and the ninth verse, "Take heed unto yourselves." Building his remarks around these words he gave one of the most interesting talks ever addressed to a graduating class.

Those who will receive diplomas this year are: Mary Cyril Delaney, George Joseph Dunn, Jr., Dorothy Elizabeth Muhlig, Herbert Edwin Simensen, John Stanley Tomaszewski, Mildred Elizabeth Applegate, Ida Merle Lucas, Maud Irene Barber, Naomi Disrow, Olga Janet Hanzalek, William Harper Lewis, Alice Freda Martin, Charles Orrin Taft.

PICKED UP TRESPASSER.

On Thursday the United States Guards found Charles Swansen trespassing in the Pennsylvania Railroad yard, and as he did not give a satisfactory explanation why he was on the premises, they escorted him to the City Hall, where he was held for trial before U. S. Marshal Bollschweiler at 9 o'clock Friday morning. Swansen hailed from 123 W. 44th street, New York, and carried a license from the police department as stationary engineer.

EMPLOYEES DONATED.

Among the list of contributors to Red Cross War Fund published in the Citizen last week were E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co. for $5,000, and T. A. Gillespie Loading Co. $1,000. This is the way the list came to us, but Chairman Van Pelt desires us to state that these amounts were not donated by the firms themselves, but by employees who reside in this city.

FINED $20.00 EACH.

Judge Birmingham in the Police Court on Saturday last imposed a fine of $20 each on Frank Hyson and James Buskey, which was paid.

The charge against these young men went back to June 8, when Officer McCormack caught them assaulting George Rehffusa about midnight on corner of Henry street and Broadway. They were apprehended and were ordered to appear in court the following Monday, but they ignored the summons. Friday night of last week Chief McDonnell caught Hyson, and about 6 o'clock last Saturday morning Buskey was taken in custody by Officer McCormack. Hyson at first claimed that Officer McCormack had shot him in the arm, but from evidence given the wound on the arm was caused by a pocket knife in the hands of Rehffusa, who admitted he used it to protect himself.

FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION.

The members of the Sacred Heart Parish will hold their annual social in the park opposite the church on July 4. This year the event will be more on a patriotic order, with parade, speechmaking, music, etc. Of course there will be the social features, comprising dancing, games, and refreshments. The committee in charge will meet Sunday evening to make arrangements to complete the program.

HELD FOR U. S. AUTHORITIES.

Olaf Oleson, a Norwegian, employed by the California Loading Company, came to this city Thursday morning and visited the hotels. Of course he found jolly companions there, and it was suggested that there be some singing. Among those present was a man named McCabe who was held to be a good singer, and he started to sing the popular favorite, "America, I Love Thee." This seemed to anger Oleson and it is alleged he remarked, "I would shoot you, if I had a gun." The patriotism of those present immediately ran to a high pitch, and complaint was made to the police of the threat. Oleson was taken into custody by Chief McDonnell, who held the man for appearance before the Federal authorities. J. C. Davis and Mr. Rodick, were present at the hotel, and also claim that Oleson made the statement to McCabe.

Oleson has been in the United States fourteen years, but never took out citizen papers.

WATER OUTLOOK MUCH BETTER

Test Well at 240 Feet on Wessco Property Gives Evidence of Good Supply—Efforts Will be Made to Find Its Capacity and If Sufficient Another Well Will Be Driven.

Good fortune again seems to be smiling upon South Amboy in regard to her municipal water supply. The work that has been done in the test drilling at the Wessco property at last seems to be giving results. Early this week the men drilling came upon a strata of heavy sand which usually means an abundant water supply. Almost at once the water began to flow and the work of drilling was stopped. Pumps were immediately placed on the six inch line and a test pumping made. The pumps were only of a two hundred gallon a minute type and they were worked to their capacity. Arrangements are being made to get a pump of larger capacity in order to see just how much the well will deliver. However, the engineer stated that this well together with the springs that are flowing on the property are enough for the present water supply.

The work of drilling was carried on to a depth of 240 feet. The City Engineer stated that this is just about the right depth for a well. One that is shallower is liable to run dry while one deeper would be too expensive. A well that delivers one hundred gallons per minute is considered a good well. Of course it could not be stated that this well will continue to deliver, but it looks promising. Just as soon as the gallons per minute that it will deliver is ascertained an effort will be made to "pump it dry," if this cannot be done South Amboy will have its own water.

If this well proves successful work will be started on another, on the extreme northern part of the same property. Thus if two wells can be had enough water will be assured for both the present and the future needs of South Amboy.

EXPERT AT FINGER PRINTING.

Chief of Police McDonnell has become an expert at recording finger prints. Although this work was new to him until this year, he is doing work that cannot be excelled and the best we have ever seen. Authorities in Washington and other cities have written letters complimenting him on his complete work. The art of finger printing is certainly very interesting, when it is explained.

THE JUNIOR RECEPTION.

The reception, given by the Junior Class of the High School in honor of the graduates of this year, was held in the State Armory on First street Friday night, and was a most enjoyable affair. On account of the present war conditions the class was requested to make the affair just as simple as possible and it was for this reason that the decorations, etc., were not as elaborate as in former years. Practically all the members of the student body and their friends were present, as well as the members of the faculty and a number of the town's prominent women who acted as patronesses.

The grand march was held early and was led by Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Barr. This was followed by the usual round of dancing and everyone enjoyed themselves. A "Paul Jones" was one of the novelties.

MANY P. R. R. EMPLOYEES IN SERVICE

There are now 16,407 employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad System, including the lines both east and west of Pittsburgh, who are engaged in the Military or Naval service of the United States. This is shown by reports just received from all portions of the System for the purpose of revising the figures on the System service flag in Broad Street Station, Philadelphia. The figures on the flag have been changed to correspond with the new number.

When the flag was first hung on March 20, 1918, the single blue star in the center contained the number 11,769. The increase of 4,638 since that date indicates the number of additional employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad System who have, in the meantime, been called into the Nation's service.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE.

We all know the taste of a good old-fashioned strawberry shortcake made with a biscuit crust, but in these days of "less" wheat or "no" wheat we seldom see one. However, if we can use wheat substitute in place of the wheat, we can feel justified in allowing ourselves this luxury. Here is a good baking powder crust in which we save just half the wheat flour by using mashed potatoes instead.

Potato Biscuit—1 cup mashed potato, 1 cup flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, about 1/4 cup milk.

Sift the dry ingredients, add those to the potatoes. Work in the fat and gradually add enough milk to make a soft dough. Divide the dough into two equal portions and roll or pat into rounds the size of the shortcake desired. Put the first round on a greased tin, butter the top and put the second layer on the first. Bake in a quick oven. When done split the two layers apart and put the crushed and sweetened berries between the layers and over the top.

PROBABLY SET HIM THINKING

Reply of War Department Official to Blacker's Request Might Almost Be Called Caustic.

The following letter, addressed to a certain branch of the war department, and dated from a town somewhere, in the West, arrived in Washington a few days ago:

"Dear Sirs: I am a young man who would like to get into the fray against the Kaiser and his hordes. I am twenty-one years of age, of splendid physique, being five feet and ten inches in height. I weigh about 180 pounds, am quite an athlete and a graduate of the local high school. Together with these qualifications, I have had considerable experience in business, having managed for some time various automobile agencies. I am quite familiar with many kinds of automobiles.

"I would like a position in some branch of the war department as a typewriter and stenographer."

The officer to whom this letter came for a reply has seen considerable active service, not only in this war, but in others. He notified his stenographer that he would write a personal answer to the young man who desired war service. A portion of his letter was as follows:

"Young man, your letter has been received in this office, and I am writing you a personal letter. It will be short and to the point, I have a son. He is just your age, height and weight. He has a splendid education and has been considered quite an athlete. You have the advantage of him in business; he has never had any business experience. My son is in France—where you should be."

English Hereditary Offices.

Conventional epithets have once more been used in the English newspapers about the late Lord Londesborough's hereditary office as vice admiral of the Yorkshire coast. In reality there are many similar appointments in force elsewhere. The lord mayor of Bristol is vice admiral of the channel as far down as Holmes and possesses an ancient silver ear, which he is entitled to have borne before him in virtue of his office. By a fiction of medieval law all dead persons washed up by the tide were considered to belong to the parish in which the Merchant Venturers stand, and births at sea were registered there. Before the organization of the royal navy had been fully developed it was convenient to intrust the interests of the crown in regard to the duties of the admiralty to local gentlemen, like the Denisons of Scarborough, from which the earls of Londsdale derive, of sufficient standing to be immune from sympathy with smuggling, which was the chief difficulty in early times. For handling maritime questions special qualifications were necessary, which the lord lieutenant, if he were seated inland, might not possess.

The Window Cleaner

By LOUISE OLIVER

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Pianissimo! A little heavier and louder just there."

She turned in startled amazement for the voice had come from the window. There, gazing calmly within, his elbows on the sill, was a man in his shirt sleeves, looking quite as much at home as though good firm terrain were not almost a hundred feet below him.

"My!" cried Sue, getting up quickly and coming over. "How you frightened me! But good gracious, you'll fall! How did you happen to get there?"

"Music," said the man, "draws some people as honey draws a bear. Will you play the last two dozen bars over again? That last part is perfect, but a little louder, fuller, don't you know, like this." And forgetful of his position he let go with one hand to mark the cadence and slipped. But he caught himself in time.

"Don't do that," screamed Sue. "Oh, I'm all right. I'm accustomed to climbing. Used to be a lineman, you know."

"Then," said Sue, "that's different." Then she had an inspiration. That morning she had cleaned her windows but the outside with its sheer drop to the street was too much for her. It made her dizzy just to stand inside and look down. The building had had no janitor for two weeks and the windows were too smoky to see through. "I wonder if you would do me a favor!" she said shyly.

"Name it," said her visitor promptly. "If I get you a cloth, do you think—would you mind—will you clean the outside of my windows? I can't reach them. I get dizzy, and the janitor's sick."

"Sure I can," he smiled, "and sure I will, and I don't mind at all. But will you play that piece over again while I'm working. It's very pretty. What is it?"

Sue flushed with pleasure. "Oh, do you think so? I'm composing a song cycle and this one is the 'Wild West.' Now, I'll get you the things, and then play all the songs all over for you."

The windows polished to a nicety, the stranger pulled himself over the sill, and when Sue had finished she turned to find him watching her intently, a look on his face that only comes to true music lovers.

"You think it's all right?" she asked. "All right? It's more than that. It's the best thing I've ever heard. What are you going to do with it when it's finished?"

"I don't know exactly. I haven't dared to hope. I don't have much time to work at it, you see, for I give lessons, and Saturday and Sunday are about all the time I have, and evenings, of course. But I have thought of several publishers, Stokes, and Frieheusen, and Sims and Winter."

"Did you ever think of Keech?" asked Sue's visitor.

"Keech! Think of Keech?" cried she. "Yes, when I was asleep and dreaming I was Chaminade or some other miracle. Keech, you know, only takes the big things, the wonderful things, the things we ordinary mortals can't begin to touch. You don't understand. One dream of Keech, but never in his sane waking moments, dares to approach him with so much as a thought."

"Besides," she added, after a breathless pause, "he's an old crank, they say, queer, eccentric, you know, like so many big musical people; sort of a little off his head. You understand, don't you?"

"I'm trying to," said the other with a smile. "Well, we live and learn. I've always heard that your friend was a little nutty on music, but I never knew he was so bad as that. If that's the case, I wouldn't waste my time on him."

"Oh, yes," Sue assured him, "he's awful. But I'm glad you like my music." It was almost a dismissal. The man had dropped from the skies, he had gone her a favor, she had done him one, the afternoon was flying, and she must get to work.

"I say!" He was thoughtful for a moment. "I have a plan. I wonder if you care to listen to it. Perhaps it's a dream as you say because it's about Keech, but do you know that stuff of yours is too good for Stokes and Frieheusen. They'll never make a fortune for you nor the name for you that Keech would. I used to be in the music business myself, and I think I know a little bit about it."

"You're versatile, aren't you?" smiled Sue. "Lineman, music man; what are you now?"

"Climber—and window cleaner."

They both laughed.

"Well, go on," said Sue.

"And I have a friend who is sort of a confidential advisor of Keech. I have influence, you see, that way. Moreover, I know the things he likes, his hobbies, too. Would you mind collaborating with me? That is, may I make a few suggestions?"

"Certainly!" she answered reluctantly. "Only music isn't like a new dress, to be ripped up and altered to the wearer's taste. It must stand as created."

"Yes, of course, the main fabric. But the technique may be changed. I wish you'd let me help. I'm sure Keech would consider your work. It's wonderful. Truly wonderful."

And at last Sue consented. For many evenings following they worked. Needless to say, the man appeared thereafter by the elevator route and always correctly dressed.

"My name doesn't matter," he said. "It won't appear on the score. I'm in this to help you, not myself. Just call me John Smith, and when the work is done, you need never see me again if you do not wish. I rather intruded myself on your affairs uninvited and it is not necessary that I be a factor in your life after the cycle is complete."

"But you have become—I mean I shall miss you very much," said Sue. "Then, that is up to you. I still hold to my theory that I must count for nothing as I am."

It was new logic for the girl. "Keech is not the only queer one," she thought rather indignantly and a little bit hurt. She had learned to value the friendship and to respect the fine mind of her friend. And many times she had thought of the window cleaning with compunction.

"How did I dare?" she wondered. Then comforted herself. "It was the shirt sleeves, of course."

Keech accepted the song cycle when she sent it, with a courteous word of praise, and offered her a royalty that almost caused her to swoon with delight.

One afternoon at the opera, Kitty Carstairs, who had taken her, said: "There's Keech, the great producer and composer, in that box. But, of course, dear, I forgot you must know him. He's taken your song cycle."

Sue turned red, then white, then red again, but she answered quite composedly. "Oh, yes, I know him."

It was her window cleaner.

Once home she wrote this note.

"My Dear Mr. Keech—I've just learned who you are. I understand your desire to keep away from me after the dreadful things I said about you, and the awful thing I asked you to do. But although I don't even dare to ask you to come back as a friend, won't you come to let me ask your forgiveness. Remorsefully yours, "SUSAN PAGE."

He replied in person.

"I'm not coming as a friend," said David Keech. "I'm coming as a lover. I've loved you, I think, ever since I heard your music that day from my window and climbed over the adjoining roof and up your wall. Won't you marry me, Sue?" he pleaded.

"Will you clean the windows?" she asked archly.

"Even that!" he promised.

WEATHER RECORDS ON TREES

Annual Rings May Be Read as Clearly as the Printed Pages of History.

Annual rings on trees serve as thermometers on which are recorded famine and flood, heat and cold, sunspot and other weather conditions which prevailed in the world hundreds of years ago, according to A. E. Douglass, dean of the college of letters, arts and sciences of the University of Arizona, writing in American Forestry Magazine.

If there was a crop failure in New Mexico in 1680, it can be read in the rings of old trees just as plainly as if it were written on the pages of history; and a hot, dry summer in the valley of the Rhine would be recorded in the same way.

Dean Douglass has made more than 25,000 measurements to verify this conclusion. He has gone back for more than 200 years to compare his record of weather conditions in Arizona and New Mexico as revealed by the rings of many varieties of trees, with the reports of drought and freshet, fat years and lean given by the historian Bancroft in his history of the early settlement of that region.

The most striking correspondences occur with reference to the flood on the Rio Grande in 1680, the famines between 1680 and 1690 and the droughts in Arizona in 1748, 1780 and 1821.

SLEEVES WE WEAR

Mandarin Style Is Preferred by American Women.

Ends Between Wrist and Elbow—Many Exaggerations and Attractive Color Combinations.

The short sleeves are not taken up in America as much as in France, but the wide mandarin sleeve which ends between wrist and elbow is shown in many exaggerations and attractive color combinations. The clever woman sees to it that there is a tight cuff attached to this mandarin sleeve, to keep it down and hanging in a good line. The tight cuff, which extends over the hand, also obviates the necessity of long gloves.

A French dressmaker designed a new trick to keep the loose short sleeve in place, and one may say that it is cordially received with "bare" arms. This sleeve, ripping away from the shoulder and not reaching the elbow, has an armlet of contrasting silk or satin attached to it by two rows of French knots in colored silk. The armlet is attached on the under side of the sleeve, and either clasps the arm as tightly as a bracelet above the elbow, or, better still, drops loosely over the elbow. Whenever the arm is lifted this band keeps the short loose sleeve in its proper place. Since short sleeves became the fashion for afternoon gowns, women have struggled with their exasperating method of slipping up and over the shoulder whenever the arm is lifted on a level with the shoulder. This trick can be taken into the heart of the sewing room and used for various kinds of sleeves that have a trick of not remaining downward.

Doucet has a new sleeve which is very interesting. It is suggested by the opening up of those Mesopotamian region by the British army. It is only for gowns worn in the evening, formal or informal.

The sleeve is short, like a six-inch cap that fits the arm, and is finished with a band of some glittering ornamentation. At the back of this band start two strips of this same ornamentation, which extend in a loose curve to the wrist, where they are caught by a tight bracelet of the same material. For instance, on short sleeves of black tulle, in a black and jet gown, there are two loosely flowing bands of jet from the back of the short sleeve, and these are caught into a jet bracelet.

A woman who is in search of novelty will find this a clever trick to introduce in a gown she is rearranging to meet the modern demands.

FROCK OF SILK GINGHAM

A chic frock for a summer morning in this one of blue and white checked silk gingham with its bodice and sleeves of white georgette.

New Bandeaux.

Bandeaux are now produced to cover every possible requirement for the man or for the woman. New samples show many silk styles in flesh-color or pink, including crepe de chine, wash satins, silk jerseys, tub silk or broche.

The dainty laces in all-over patterns or in lace-trimmed embroideries are also seen, but whatever the material the texture must be sufficiently firm to perform the real function of the bandeaux—confine the flesh at bust and shoulders.

Fringed Articles.

If you have a fringed bedspread, towels or dollies with the fringe torn or frayed, remove the fringe and in its place sew a coarse lace crocheted from knitting cotton. This will make a novel change and the article will be as good as new.

Our Service Flag

THERE ARE MORE than 1200 stars in the Service Flag of this Company, and 7260 stars in the Service Flag of the Bell System of which this company is a part. We mention it first as a matter of business pride, second as an indication of the necessity for conserving labor and preventing waste.

WITH SO LARGE A NUMBER of men in the service of the nation, and with an unprecedented programme of construction made necessary by increased demands for telephone service, the conservation of labor is necessary.

THE LABOR EXPENDED in collecting overdue telephone bills, which in some cases is duplication upon duplication of effort, would be unnecessary if these accounts were paid within the reasonable specified period of time.

WE BELIEVE that a very large percentage of this labor can be eliminated and that our subscribers in general, appreciating as they do that war-time efficiency means making every ounce of labor count, will extend their hearty co-operation.

TIMELY SUGGESTIONS FOR VEGETABLE GROWERS

The vegetable crops growing in New Jersey at this time promise to produce a heavy yield, as a result of increased plantings and the wonderful effort of the farmers. Of course, the crops are not being cultivated as frequently as they should be, because of the scarcity of labor, but the favorable weather has made it possible for the growing crops to do well, in spite of the fact that the soils of too many farms and gardens were really in poor condition. The farmer has a habit of making himself believe that his soil is in excellent condition for profitable production, when in reality it may be poor, sour and devoid of humus. The intensive vegetable grower, especially, should have a productive soil. Organic material is the foundation of fertility, but stable manure is expensive and almost unobtainable. Therefore, during the next few months the progressive vegetable grower, if their labors are eventually to be rewarded with a productive soil and profitable yields, will give particular attention to the sowing of soil-improvement and cover-crops at every opportunity.

How to Use a Hoe.

The hoe is one of the most essential garden implements, and sad to relate most home gardeners and some commercial growers do not handle it as it should be used. In clearing the weeds from any crop with a hoe, it is well to cut just under the surface deep enough so that part of the root system will be cut away with the weeds. This is thoroughly destructive to the weeds, because the shallow slicing prevents that part left in the ground from ever starting again, and the part of the root system remaining with the weed is so small that it holds little dirt, making it difficult for the roots to start again. Also if it is desired to rake the weeds from the plot, it can be easily done. In hoeing the growing crop, a common error is to hoe soil to the plants before the tiny weeds near the plants have been thoroughly cleared away. No matter how small these weeds may be, they are likely to become very large and vigorous. Then if they are pulled later, the root system of the desirable crop will be injured, and if they are left to develop seed, our crop will be re-seeded and the soil will become reinfested with weed seed. The proper use of the hoe and clean cultivation will make possible quick and thorough work.

Late Potatoes.

During the last few weeks, the prices of potatoes have steadily increased, and it is commonly reported that the acreage and the condition of the growing crop are below normal. Therefore, the growers of southern New Jersey are planning to plant many more late potatoes than usual during the last part of July. Special varieties and last year's seed (held in cold storage) together with the climate, make the late planted crop an attractive proposition in southern New Jersey under the present conditions.

Preparing for Succession Crops.

Intercropping is practiced when small, quick-maturing vegetables are grown between slow-growing crops which will not need all of the wide space between the rows until the slow-growing crop is approaching maturity.

Succession cropping is practiced when one vegetable is planted where an early crop has already grown that season. Soil that has already produced an early crop, and is being reserved for timely planting of a certain late crop, for fall use, canning, or winter storage, should be plowed or spaded as soon as possible, so that the soil will be moist, mellow, and free from weeds at the time of planting.

When a shiftless man gets sick his neighbors seldom lose much time worrying about it.

BOY SCOUT DOINGS.

Troop No. 1

On Wednesday, June 12, the troop worked at the farm under the supervision of the patrol leaders as each patrol has a certain lot to care for. A great deal was accomplished and the second and fourth patrols finished their entire lots and the other two patrols one-half of their week's work. There were twelve scouts and the scoutmaster present.

The mobilization which was to be held during the week of June 10 to 16 was called for Thursday evening and within thirty-two minutes the entire troop consisting of thirty-two scouts and officers were on hand in full uniform and with staff and haversack.

These mobilizations will be held regularly each week so as to be able to get together in a very short space of time.

The mobilization was followed by a good five inning game of baseball.

The regular troop team with the exception of two players opposed the second team or "scrubs." The game was tie in the third inning one to one, but the scrubs in their half of the fourth were able to get four runs and victory looked far away for the regular troop team after they went down one, two three in their half. But in the last half of the fifth inning when with three on base Scout Edwards of the troop team made a triple which cleared the bases and was followed with a three bagger by Waterman, a two bagger by E. Parker and C. Skow, a base on balls by L. Grace and a home run by McKenna making the score 9 to 5 in favor of the troop team.

Pitcher Waterman of the troop team made four strike outs and A. Skow of the scrubs the same number.

The score:

The out-of-doors meeting held at Morgan on Tuesday evening, June 18, was the biggest success in this line of scouting the troop has ever had.

At five o'clock the scoutmaster and twenty scouts left headquarters for Morgan. After arriving at Morgan and finding ten scouts there all went in for a "dip." The water was fine and it was hard to get the troop away from it.

A game of baseball was then played. The scrubs were helpful in all but one inning while the Troop Team bunched their hits to a good advantage. The good base running of the Troop Team was the main feature of the game. Waterman who pitched for the Troop Team struck out four men in three innings and Linden who twirled for the scrubs had three to his credit in five innings. A Skow who pitched two innings for the Troop Team got two strike outs to his credit.

The baseball game was then followed by supper which was the best of all.

The meeting was called to order at 8:30 and was opened with the repeating of the scout's oath.

The treasurer then made his report. Points for the Patrol Contest were then posted and the roll call taken with a result of but one scout absent and one excused.

The different patrols were then given a bracing up talk concerning the Troop Farm.

First Aid was then announced as the topic for discussion at next week's meeting.

As each patrol is to have a meeting once a month it was announced that these meetings were to be preceded by collecting as many different leaves, etc., as possible, then dividing them equally among the members of the patrol and those respective members write a composition on that leaf or leaves. All compositions must be handed to the scoutmaster on or before July 2, and for each leaf that has been correctly described 1/4 point will be given to both individual and Patrol score in the contest.

Baseball practice was called for Thursday evening, June 20, at 6:30 on Stevensdale.

The patrols then held short meetings and the First Patrol announced that they would hold a meeting on Monday evening, at 6:30 at the Patrol leader's home. The Second and Third Patrols announced that on the same evening Monday, June 24, they would hold theirs at 7:30 and at their respective patrol leaders' homes.

The troop then hiked home and arrived in Amboy about ten o'clock. As far as possible no one stated they had to be rocked to sleep that night.

The Second Patrol still leads in the Second Patrol Contest with 22 1/2 points over 19 1/2 which the First and Fourth Patrols both have. The Third Patrol again failed to finish its work at the farm and did not get its points for farm inspection which help it to stay in the last place. The Second Patrol gained 11 points which are all that may be obtained in one week. Scout Edwards leads the Individual Score with three points to his credit as he received 1/2 point for knots on June 11.

Governor's Appeal

To the People of the State of New Jersey:

The people of this State will have yet another opportunity on, or before, June 28th, 1918, of showing their loyalty and consecration to the great enterprise this nation is engaged upon by pledging themselves to save and economize and invest regularly in War Savings Stamps.

The material needs necessary to prosecute the war successfully, can be met only if the people of this nation deny themselves some of their customary expenditures. It is not enough to furnish thousands of young men as this State is doing. Those men must be clothed, fed and equipped. Surely when they are so willing to give their lives we should not hesitate to lend our savings.

The people of this State are expected to save and invest in War Savings Stamps to the maturity value of $60,000,000 during this year. Proportionate allotments have been made to other States and the President of the United States has called on the people of the various States to indicate on or before Friday, June 28th, their willingness to practice the patriotic self-denial required of all of us, by pledging themselves to save and purchase War Savings Stamps regularly during the remainder of this year.

War Savings Stamps are the one Government security within the purchasing power of every one. This appeal therefore is directed to every man, woman and child in New Jersey. To raise our quota it is necessary that those who can, should buy War Savings Stamps to the limit allowed individuals, which is $1,000.00 maturity value. By so doing they will aid materially in raising the money which the Treasury Department expects to receive from this State and their example will stimulate others to buy these Stamps as their savings will permit. Every man and woman in this State can save and invest in War Savings Stamps and thus help to win the war. New Jersey has responded patriotically to every Government call and I am sure she will to this one. Moreover in doing it, we are not only helping our Government but we are forming the habit of saving, which is so essential to good citizenship.

In order that this State and its people may not fall behind other States in responding to this appeal, I hereby urge all loyal citizens of New Jersey to give their pledges for War Savings Stamps on or before Friday, June 28th, at such times and places and in such manner as may be appointed by the National War Savings Committee of New Jersey, acting under the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, and pursuant to the appeal of the President of the United States.

(Signed)

WALTER E. EDGE

Governor of New Jersey.

WHAT HAVE YOU GIVEN UP?

Have you given up your job and let your business future take care of itself?

Have you said good-bye to your family and friends and all you hold dear?

Have you begun an entirely new career that may end, if you live, with health impaired, an arm off, a leg gone, an eye out?

Have you given up your business future and said good-bye and taken a chance on coming back alive and well, and done it all with a cheerful heart and with a grim determination to do all you possibly can for your country?

And do you only at times—in the evenings, perhaps, when the light in the sky slowly fades away—feel so homesick and so lonesome that you are fearful you will not have the courage to do your part after all?

You have not done these things! Ah, I see, you are not one of our Army or Navy boys; you are a stay-at-home person.

Well, there have to be twenty or more stay-at-home persons for every one who goes, and so certainly no disgrace attaches to being one if you fully appreciate what those boys who do go have to give up and if you support them to the limit of your ability.

National War Savings Day is June 30. That day gives you the opportunity of showing in a practical way that you do appreciate what it means to the boys who go. Pledge yourself to buy War Savings Stamps that there may be more money, labor, and materials to back up those who fight and die for you.

INSIDE COAST WATERWAY.

Germany's submarine raid off our shores has reawakened interest in the plan for constructing an inland waterway along the Atlantic Coast. By connecting the waters of Delaware and Chesapeake Bays, deepening the present Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, and digging a canal across New Jersey—a trifling distance of only thirty-one miles—merchant shipping and naval vessels could go in safety, with no German U-boat to molest or make them afraid, all the way from New York to Norfolk. As far back as Jefferson's second Administration, the Secretary of the Treasury, Albert Gallatin, proposed the construction of a protected waterway from Massachusetts to Georgia; and the subject has been repeatedly before Congress from that day to this. Within recent years large sections of the projected undertaking have actually been surveyed by army engineers. Now that the whole question of inland navigation is up, the merits of the Atlantic Coast inland route may possibly receive from Congress the attention they deserve.—Nautical Gazette.

RAILROADS AND THE ROAD TAX.

It was a good second thought that probably saved the Edge state road tax law from being upset and that surely made possible the imposing of the road tax upon first and fourth class railroad property. The road tax law did not specifically include in property to bear the new tax these two classes of railroad property, but the drafters of the legislation insisted that the general provisions of the act were broad enough to make all railroad property taxable for road purposes.

Fortunately, Minority Leader Geran of the Assembly saw the possibilities of a loophole in the road tax law and publicly called attention to the fact. The legislative majority leaders insisted there was no need to pay any heed to this possibility, which had been raised by a Democrat. Governor Edge, however, took the position that there might be justification for the stand taken by Mr. Geran, and that if that were so, then the Legislature ought to close the loophole, even though a Democrat had discovered it. So, sixteen days later, upon the Governor's insistence, another law was approved, declaring that it was the intent of the Legislature to tax all classes of railroad property.

And it was this later law that Supreme Court Justice Minturn cited, in writing the opinion of the court holding the property to be taxable under the Edge road tax law, that conclusively proved the Legislature's intent.—Newark News.

SHORTAGE OF FARM LABOR

THREATENS JERSEY CROPS

New Jersey is declared to be facing a serious crop loss unless between 2,000 and 3,000 experienced farm hands are made available to the farmers by being released from other industries. State Director of Employment Joseph Spitz states that the shortage of farm labor is more acute than it has been at any time heretofore.

As a result of this situation, General Lewis T. Bryant, state labor commissioner, is shortly to call a conference with Professor Frank App of the State Experiment Station and the farm labor directors at the Newark and Camden employment offices, Leslie J. Allen and Martin Shubert, in an effort to reach a solution of the problem.

Practically every farmer in the state needs from one to four men immediately, it is declared. The rainy weather of the last few weeks has retarded cultivation, and conditions on the farms have come to such a stage that unless the labor is provided there will be crop losses that in some cases will run as high as twenty per cent., Mr. Allen estimates.

The outlook is much more serious than last year, and if there is no remedy, the employment men say, increased prices on farm products are certain. Men are needed for harvesting as well as cultivation, and crops that cannot be cultivated or harvested will go to waste. The farmer will not lose, because he will simply put up his prices on what he is able to market and realize the same profit for less work, it is believed.

An increased acreage of wheat and rye was planted in the state this year, but the benefit of the larger planting is likely to be lost, Mr. Allen says, if the labor is not provided. In some sections where damage was done by hail a week or so ago labor is needed to replant fields in which the grain was cut from the stalks and the latter have been cut for bedding.

Some additional labor is going to be required this year, too, because of a federal regulation requiring the grading of potatoes.

Men are being supplied as fast as they can be recruited by the labor bureaus, but this is not fast enough. Last month 480 men were placed through the Newark and Camden offices, and this month's record compares favorably, but this number hardly begins to meet the demand. The cry constantly is, "More men."

ELIM COTTAGE, HIT BY WAR

CONDITIONS, MUST CLOSE

For the first time since it was instituted in 1876, Elim Cottage, Ocean Grove, will not be opened this season owing to conditions incident to the war.

Elim Cottage is known to perhaps a greater number of ministers than any other summer house of entertainment in the country. It was established as a place of rest and refreshment for preachers, missionaries and other religious workers who felt unable to pay the board charged at hotels. It was operated by the Ladies' Elim Association and was always liberally patronized. Among its patrons in the past have been missionaries from every land.

AWARD FORMER SOLDIER $4,000.

Judgment for $4,000 was returned Monday by a jury before Judge Lawrence at Freehold in the suit of Herman C. Krueger, a former soldier, against the Atlantic Coast Electric Railway Company for injuries received July 16, 1917, when he was thrown from a trolley car at Sea Girt, sustaining a fractured collar-bone.

Charles E. Cook, representing the plaintiff, contended that Krueger, since discharged from the army because of the injury, was unable to procure employment because his left arm is practically useless. The railway company claimed that Krueger, after a month at the Ann-May Hospital, Spring Lake, immediately after the accident, was discharged as cured and that any ill effects suffered later were due to causes other than the original accident.

If you actually knew that by buying only those things you absolutely needed and by putting your savings into War Savings Stamps you could save lives, would you do it? Take the word of the President that you do save lives when you do this.

Too many folks are interested in business that is none of their business.

RED CROSS NOTES.

Some of the church auxiliaries do not seem as active as they once were. Do not let your interest in this splendid work lag. Surgical dressings are needed now as never before. Our own boys are in the midst of actual fighting, do you realize they are offering their lives to protect you, in peace and comfort, at home? Realizing this you should be willing to give some of your time in order that a bountiful supply of surgical dressings of all kinds may be on hand to give them comfort and save life, perhaps, in time of their extreme need. This is a means by which you can be kept in close contact with the front line of battle; a means by which you can help to win this war for the freedom of all the people of the earth.

The War Industries Board has ruled that while the military needs of the nation must first be served in the distribution of wool of which there is a threatened shortage in the uniform manufacturing trade, the Red Cross shall have second place on the "preference" list and will be supplied before purely civilian requirements are considered. The various Chapters of Red Cross will hereafter stop buying in the open market and make requisitions upon their divisional headquarters.

The purpose of this ruling is to conserve yarn and stabilize its price. The custom of independent buying has resulted in chapters bidding against each other and thereby raising the price of yarn in some instances to exorbitant figures. To preclude the keeping of yarn at home by individuals, all wool must be accounted for in finished garments after each issue. This move will take all yarn in the army and navy colors from the public market, so that none can be purchased and made up by individuals into gifts. This will also stop the overlapping of efforts, so that a soldier or sailor receiving garments from the Red Cross will not also receive from one to a dozen duplicate garments as personal gifts.

Notice to Red Cross Chapters, Workers and Members.

There is an official uniformed representative of the American Red Cross in every large Army Camp, Cantonment and Naval Station in the United States. (The smaller Army Posts and Naval Stations are covered through the Division Bureaus of Military Relief). This representative, by a General Order of the Secretary of War, is accredited to Army Headquarters and has the status of an officer of the Army. He is held personally responsible for all Red Cross activities in the camp to which he is accredited.

Therefore, it is ordered that no communications be made by chapter officials, chapter workers, or members of the Red Cross with army or navy officers at camps, cantonments and naval stations except through the Red Cross Field Directors, or other authorized representatives of the Department of Military Relief.

Red Cross Chapter officials, workers or members should not visit camps as representatives of the Red Cross without sanction, and under the direction of, the Field Director or other authorized agent of the Department of Military Relief.

JOHN MAGEE,
Director of Military Relief.

Human Brain is Heaviest.

Except for the whale, the elephant and the porpoise, no living thing has a brain which weighs as much as the minimum of the human's. In the entire human nervous system, according to the estimates of Professor Donaldson, there is the astounding total of 11,200,000,000 nerve cells. In the study of these cells and their grouped relation to the five divisions of the brain as well as to the functions which they perform, several classes of scientific investigators are engaged.

PROMPT PAYMENT OF BILLS HELPS CONSERVE MAN POWER

TO OUR CUSTOMERS:

In common with other industries Public Service is confronted with the necessity of conserving all available man power in order that its service to you may be properly maintained.

In the regular course of business monthly bills for gas service are delivered by collectors to all patrons. Public Service appreciates the promptness with which payment is made by the large majority of its customers, but there are instances where collectors are obliged to make several calls before an account is settled.

These additional trips mean a waste of time and man power which could otherwise be usefully employed to the advantage of the public. And the present is a time for conservation, not waste.

To those customers who have been making their payments through collectors, Public Service respectfully requests that such payment be made upon the initial delivery of the bill, so as to make return calls unnecessary; to those who prefer to mail checks it asks that this be done upon receipt of statement.

Public Service feels assured that its patrons will appreciate that this request, besides conforming to the proper conduct of its business, is made especially urgent at the present time because more than 1,000 of its employees have been called to the colors and the man power of the country is being utilized to the utmost for useful service.

That patrons will give their fullest cooperation in the interest of conservation and service is the earnest request of

Saturday evening from five until ten o'clock traffic on the northbound track of the New York & Long Branch Railroad was at a standstill. One of the large type freight engines jumped the track at a point just above the George street bridge, both trucks of the engine being off the rails. A wrecking crew from Elizabethport was called and they had the track clear in short order. While the northbound track was tied up, all traffic was shifted to the southbound.

BRITISHERS AND CANADIANS IN U. S. MAY BE DRAFTED

"The Alien Draft Convention is actually signed and is now before the Senate," said Colonel J. S. Dennis at the British and Canadian Recruiting Mission, 220 W. 42 street, New York City.

"The significance of that piece of news is this, that the Britisher or Canadian in this country up to the age of forty-four has now got just a little over sixty days in which to make up his mind whether he wants to enter his own army freely or be drafted. The Convention becomes operative after exchange of ratifications; but as several months have been spent on covering every point of possible difference between the two governments with the help of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate we may take it for granted that ratification will come in a very short time. Roughly speaking the draft rules of each country now apply to the citizens of each country whether at home or abroad. A Britisher or Canadian or American can be drafted whether he is in England, Canada or the United States, and he has just sixty days in which to decide whether he enlists voluntarily or waits to be drafted. As evasion is impossible, I feel sure that the majority of Britishers and Canadians will not hesitate to come forward at the earliest possible moment. Every day is of value. The man who knows he has to come up in sixty days anyhow, and decides to wait those sixty days is helping the enemy by just that amount."

TAKES PLACE OF REAL EYE

Invention of French Oculist Invaluable to Soldiers Who Have Suffered Disfigurement.

The high velocities and high explosiveness of the present-day projectiles often result in facial wounds of most horrible appearance. In the repair of which the surgeons meet with extreme difficulties. In particular, soldiers return from the line of fire not merely with an eye shot out, but with the entire lid and eye socket destroyed, and the absence of these foundations has often made the insertion of an artificial eye impossible.

Until the present moment there has never existed any means for concealing this disfigurement and restoring to the unfortunate victim the appearance of a normal man possessing two eyes. But quite recently a French oculist, Henri Eklus, has made it possible to do this even when the eyelid is entirely missing.

In its essential features the apparatus consists of an artificial eye, equipped with a lid of any convenient plastic material—paraffin or molding paste, colored to match the subject's complexion. This eye is furnished also with lashes, to give it to the fullest extent the appearance of a natural eye. It derives its support from fine metal wires attached to eyelids or spectacles, so adjusted that when the latter is placed upon the nose, the artificial eye falls accurately into its cavity. The eye may easily be separated from these attachments for cleaning.

Art.

Here are quotations from some of the examination papers submitted by Indianapolis school children for credit in the art courses at the John Heron Art Institute:

"His way of working was very technique."

"There was a picture of St. Catherine, receiving the crown from an 'angel'."

"Michael Angelo has many paintings in the Renaissance, which is a building in France."

"The 'argente' did the 'freese' in a room in the Boston Library."

"Hoffman painted most of the Prima Donna. The most famous is the Sistine Madonna."

"One of the greatest painters of all times painted beautiful pictures on the ceiling of a church somewhere in the United States, and this great artist's name was Michael Angelo."

Heavy Demand for Rubber.

The world discarded 183,000 tons of automobile tires during 1916. Adding to this the large number of bicycle tires thrown away every year by their owners, it appears that the world spends every year at least $300,000,000 for pneumatic tires alone. Nearly 5,000,000 automobiles are now in use in the United States. To supply these with tires nearly 88,000 tons of India rubber are needed every year, and the American automobile owners pay every year as much as $200,000,000 for tires.

Perfect Artificial Eyes.

Artificial eyes are much more commonly worn than most people imagine. The average user does not make advertisement of the fact, which may be known only to a few intimate friends, for such eyes nowadays, a product of the glassblower's highest skill, are of a workmanship so artistic as to be perfectly deceptive. When, as is usually the case, the eye is set upon the "root" of the natural organ it moves exactly like a real one.

SHARE DANGERS WITH SOLDIERS

Y. M. C. A. Workers Are Almost Constantly Under Fire in France.

MANY HANDREATH ESCAPES

Moment's Delay Saves Red Triangle Man From Death by Shell—Experiences That Are Test for Real Man.

Washington.—Bursting shells are everyday, everyday experiences in the lives of all soldiers and Y. M. C. A. workers anywhere within 25 miles of the Boche guns. Dr. George Louis Meylan, who has just returned from France where he was engaged in recreation work for the Y. M. C. A., threw some strong light on the conditions under which all persons back of the trenches live—and die. He had been asked to tell some specific instances of "Y" workers under fire in first-line trenches.

"Those over here who have not been in the war zone must forget their old-time ideas of warfare and its dangers," said Doctor Meylan. "Forget this old idea of open fighting, with troops battling across a plain the size of a large athletic field. Modern artillery shoots for miles and is always shooting. Every person within 20 miles of the trenches is under fire practically all of the time, yet the reports do not call this a battle. The reports announce 'The artillery was active,' and that means shells anywhere five to twenty-five miles back of the trenches.

Dodge Shells Constantly.

"Early in April the Germans made night raids and their airplanes were active in bombing. Two of my organizers were visiting camps eight or ten miles back of the front-line trenches. The Germans kept up the bombardment for three days during which time those 'Y' men were dodging shells constantly.

"On the second day they were in a Foyer de Soldat—one of the soldiers' recreation huts provided by the French with 'Y' men in charge—when, within five minutes two shells struck, one a few yards away, the other hitting the hut. The 'Y' men were thrown down by the concussion. It seemed a miracle they were not hit, for soldiers were killed and wounded all around them.

"It is strange that although we have only about one woman worker to every hundred men workers, not a single 'Y' man had been killed up to the time I left France, whereas Hun shells had killed two of our women workers, Miss Crandell and Miss Winona Martin.

"In a certain woods the shells were dropping so thickly that the French commander ordered our men to abandon their huts. As the order was not received until evening, a 'Y' man of my acquaintance decided not to leave until next morning as he wished to take his stuff. Next morning he was approaching the hut when a French officer stopped him to exchange farewells. This took little more than a minute, and the Red Triangle worker started on his way when a shell exploded on the path near the hut at the point where he would have been had he not been detained.

Close Calls Every Day.

"Some 'Y' workers are having hairbreadth escapes every day, not every man every day, but each in his time with a regularity to justify saying some men every day. Eight of our men with the Canadians have been killed, and we cannot expect to escape unscathed. They work from six o'clock in the morning until eleven o'clock at night, seven days a week, with a week off every three months—and many never take their week off. On one occasion of which I know the workers were up at three o'clock in the morning with hot coffee to warm the French soldiers coming in after a three-mile wade through mud and rain. Those Polish appreciated that. "Many of our workers slept on the ground in zero weather this winter, with nothing but a blanket between them and the frozen earth, and with no shelter but a hut made of green lumber which warped, letting in icy blasts. A test for a real man. "I went forward toward the trenches to meet the American soldiers coming back after their baptism of fire at Chemin des Dames and they were all eagerness for more. The Germans had sent picked troops against them, their strongest men in brand new equipment, to impress the Americans that Germany had an abundance of everything, material and robust men. Quite a contrast to the ill-equipped emaciated men the French had taken prisoners. The Americans gave such good account of themselves in this fight that the French could not praise them enough."

Old Landmark Falls.

Memphis, Tenn.—One of the best known landmarks on the Mississippi river is gone. A tall sycamore tree that stood on the Arkansas shore near Memphis, and which for more than 50 years served as a mark for river pilots, has been undermined by the action of the water and fallen into the river. Mark Twain was one of the famed pilots who held the jackstaff of his boat on the tree.

BOTH MEN IN RIGHT PLACE

At Least, That is Likely to Be Verdict of Those Who Told Over Income-Tax Schedules.

The visitor was being conducted through a state institution for the insane and his guide was an affable young man from the harmless ward whose keen intelligence made the visitor wonder why he was under restraint.

Stopping in front of a padded cell, they looked at a stout, short individual with a forelock draped over one eye and a pose characteristically Napoleonic.

"Thinks he's the Little Corporal, eh?" the visitor asked of the guide. "Yes; he's had that hallucination for five years."

Across the corridor in another cell was an old man poring over a number of blue prints.

"What's the matter with him?" "Poor chap," laughed the guide; "he thinks that he has invented a submarine-proof ship. The hull of the ship is honeycombed with holes; when the war-head of the torpedo strikes, it goes into one of the holes and is held fast by its sides."

"But," objected the visitor, "suppose the torpedo strikes between the holes?"

"In that case," said the guide as he shook with laughter, "it wouldn't count and the submarine would be entitled to another try."

In the last cell was a middle-aged man at a high desk. He looked up as the others approached and nodded smilingly.

"What's the matter with him?" queried the visitor.

"Him? He's hopeless; he believes that he is an authority on income-tax legislation."

"Ah," said the visitor, "and he isn't?"

"No, indeed!" replied the guide; "I am the only authority."—Kant Slip.

LITERARY FOLK KEEP BUSY

English and American Men of Letters Faithfully "Doing Their Bit" to Help Win War.

Here is some gossip about literary folk as condensed by a New York writer:

"Rudyard Kipling is 'doing his bit' as director of propaganda in England. Phyllis Bottome, author of 'The Dark Tower' and other novels, is now Mrs. Forbes Dennis, wife of an officer in the British army. A one-story adobe shack in Austin, Tex., the home of O. Henry's now famous journalistic venture 'The Rolling Stone,' was recently demolished to make way for modern progress in the shape of a telephone building. Five stories by John Galsworthy, who recently refused the honor of knighthood offered him by the British government, have been published under the title of 'Five Tales.' 'I would rather entrust the moral character of my boy to the camps than to any college or university I know,' says Joseph H. Odeh in 'The New Spirit of the New Army,' a recently published book describing the life at the camps and the effects of military training on our young men. The Hundred Best Gaps is the felicitous title Sir James Barrie gave to his letter calling upon authors and book collectors to make one marked gap each in their shelves for the benefit of the British Red Cross. Barrie himself gave the original manuscript of 'The Little Minister.'"

Patriotic Mother Canny.

When, a few months ago, one of our troop ships was torpedoed there were, of course, many worried mothers. One of them received a cable message telling her of her son's rescue, and was naturally much relieved. But this cable was followed almost immediately by another asking for money by cable.

The mother of this lad was rather puzzled by the message, as she could not tell if it was genuine or not. She did not wish to risk sending a comparatively large amount of money to an imposter, so she hit on the plan of sending a return message asking the sender of the first cable to cable the name of the family's two dogs; names which would only be known to a member of the family.

The answer with the right names came at once, and the son received the money. He has been boasting of his mother's cleverness ever since.

This Swindler Up to Date.

Thought reading was the method claimed to have been employed by a man in Bengal, India, to win large sums of money on the race course. It turned out to be a very ingenious form of swindle. Finding a man who is interested in racing, the confidence man produces a roll of money, and states that he won this by his fore-knowledge of the winners on the track. He then suggests that his friend test his knowledge. He induces his victim to hand him sums of money to be placed on the horses, and then vanishes. Investigation has proved that this Bengal had swindled a number of people of large sums of money in this way.

Macbeth's Death Place Given City.

Belmont castle, the scene of the final struggle between Macbeth and Macduff when Macbeth was slain, has been given to the city of Dundee by its owner, Mrs. Maryat, who inherited a large fortune from her brother, Sir James Caird. The castle, which is located 17 miles from Dundee, was once the home of the British premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman. The property includes 900 acres of park land and is valued at $2,000,000.

GERMANS BOAST OF OWN CRUELTY

Tell Neutral Nations How Church and House Are Destroyed.

IS MEANT AS A WARNING

Circular Recites Amount of Booty Seized in France and Belgium, and Mistreatment of English Prisoners of War.

Washington.—Tentative frightfulness as practiced in France and Belgium has been made the subject of a German warning to neutral nations of the fate which they may expect if they take up arms against the central powers.

"If there are any still thinking of aiding with the allies let them take warning from the fate of others," says the warning. It is in the form of a circular, which recites the amount of booty seized in France and Belgium, the number of churches damaged and destroyed, the money wrung from the stricken inhabitants and finally the deliberate mistreatment of English prisoners of war.

German propagandists have flooded Spain with this document printed in Spanish, and copies have come into the possession of the state department. Having established its German origin the department made public this translation:

"Besides an untold amount of war material captured on the battlefield the Germans have taken possession of incalculable booty in France and Belgium, including:

High grade watches 417
Average watches 5,714
Underwear 14,772
Embroideries and women's handkerchiefs 11,132
Umbrellas and parasols 1,705
Silver spoons 2,876
Bottles of champagne $21,000

"These figures show a large increase over those of the campaign against France in 1870-71."

"Punish Catholic Churches"

"In Belgium, besides many art treasures, they have confiscated old paintings valued at 3,000,000 pesetas. "Due to the treachery of Cardinal Mercier and other priests, who did their utmost to stir the priests against the good-hearted German soldiers, they were forced to teach a severe lesson to the Belgian and French Catholics."

Cathedrals destroyed 4
Rendored unserviceable 8
Churches destroyed 3
Rendored unserviceable 3

Total 18

"In Poland also a large number of churches have been destroyed for military reasons. The figures concerning these have not yet been published.

"As a result of the stupid stubbornness of the Belgian people in continuing the struggle after their bloody and final defeat on the battlefield, the German officers were forced, against their will, to impose punishments on many rich individuals and wealthy cities. This has contributed the following amounts to the German treasury:

Pesetas
Punishments 17,000,000
Security 18,000,000
Reparations 18,750,000
Forced contributions 4,250,000
Total 58,000,000

"This amount includes a fine of 15,000 pesetas imposed on the Alsatian children who insist on speaking the French language and refuse to study the beautiful German language. These statistics are a most useful warning to the neutral countries.

"If there are any still thinking of aiding with the allies let them take warning from the fate of others."

Boast Also of Cruelty.

It is claimed also in this document that more than 50,000 British have been made prisoners, and in this connection the following statement is made:

"Although to these figures the English oppose 124,906 German prisoners taken by them on the western front, it must be remembered the English treat their prisoners with notable kindness (blandura notoria), while the regime imposed on the English prisoners by the Germans is one of extreme rigor; so that the Germans, with a small number of prisoners, have secured a much superior moral effect.

"Besides, to the 2,204 officers and 61,325 soldiers, must be added the several thousand English prisoners that have died in consequence of disease, scanty food and other accidents in German concentration camps."

The figures regarding British prisoners, it is explained, refer to the total prior to the recent drive in Picardy and Flanders.

Gets Long Lost Watch.

Easton, Pa.—Twenty years ago William D. Evans lost a watch in Washington township, between Bangor and Centerville. He took no less than twenty-five bicycle trips between these points in searching for the timepiece, but to no avail. Several days ago Evans was talking about the incident to a friend at Centerville. As a result of the conversation it was learned a resident of Centerville had found the watch, and after explanations the long lost watch was returned to its owner.

RAILWAY ENGINEERS TO GO TO FRANCE

When the 5 new regiments and 19 battalions of railway engineers now being organized are put on duty there will be 50,000 Americans engaged in railroad construction and operation in France.

After the United States entered the war one of the first requests transmitted to this Government by the French mission was for assistance in strengthening the French railways. Nine regiments of railway engineers, whose organization was started before Gen. Pershing sailed, were in France by August, 1917. Six of them have been engaged in construction work, building and rebuilding railways, building docks, and rearranging terminal facilities. The other three regiments have been engaged in operation, and some of the railway troops have been on the fighting line. The additional troops will be used partly for construction and maintenance and partly for operation.

A total of $160,000,000 has been spent on railway materials alone. Included in the purchases are 1,727 locomotives, 22,630 freight cars, and 359,000 tons of steel rails.

RUTGERS SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL

The sixth summer session of the Rutgers Scientific School, now the State University of New Jersey, opens July 1st. More than one hundred courses are to be offered in Agriculture, Business, Engineering, Mathematics, Drawing, Physical Training, Physics, Chemistry, Textiles, Home Economics, Industrial Arts, and War Courses. In addition about eighty courses are announced in Psychology, Educational Administration, Methods of Teaching, Vocational Education, Agricultural Education, Rural Education, and the Liberal Arts and Sciences. At this time of national crisis the State University of New Jersey seeks to render the greatest service possible both to the State and to the Nation.

A letter was sent this week to the Superintendents of Schools, Principals of High Schools, and County Superintendents calling attention to a group of war courses in agriculture and business. The courses in agriculture emphasize particularly garden crops and conservation methods. With the agricultural courses there is offered a new course for teachers of agriculture which will earn a war emergency certificate. The business courses prepare for government service in stenography and filing.

CHRIST CHURCH CHRONICLES

We heartily congratulate our local Red Cross upon their having secured as their new chairman, Mr. Harry C. Perrine. It is a matter of some pride with us that Mr. Perrine is an Episcopal churchman, and we feel confident that he will "carry on" faithfully and efficiently the work which Mrs. Leonard Furman (also one of our flock) now relinquishes, after two years of able leadership. In the noble work of the Red Cross there is of course no room for sectarian feelings and hostilities, but we feel justified in expressing a sense of pride that our Episcopal flock has furnished so much of wise leadership.

Miss Claire Hamilton gave her Sunday School class a trolley party and picnic last Saturday afternoon. The "kiddies" thoroughly enjoyed the hours of rustication on Miss Claire's uncle's farm near New Brunswick.

We wish that parents would see to it that their children get to Sunday School "on time." Even some of our teachers are not without fault now and then in this particular. Let us all try to show a little more "team-work." And, by the way, we feel moved to add that many of our church-goers might be a little more punctual. By coming late you are likely to disturb the devotions of others. To be sure, occasional tardiness may be unavoidable at times, but "behindhandness" has become a deadly habit, if not an incurable disease, with not a few of our parishioners.

On last Saturday evening in Christ Church Rectory, the rector officiated at the marriage of Mr. William Odium and Miss Mary Primrose, both of 133 Rosewell street. The bride is a niece of Mrs. William Henry Bloodgood. We extend congratulations and felicitations to the youthful twain.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pearce has provided for a choir party to be given our ecclesiastical song birds, young and old, on Saturday night of this week. First, there will be a visit to the Empire to witness a celluloid presentation of some fancy wild and woolly western stunts, and after the feverish excitement has subsided, there will be some cooling beverages at the third parlor up the street. Mrs. Pearce is one of the parish's most generous friends of the choir boys. May her shadow never grow less!

The rector's sermon themes for next Sunday are as follows: Morning—"The Song and the Keynote." Evening—"The Real Victory."

The Old Pastor's "Sermon to Empty Pews."

The clergyman was clean shaven and gray-haired, erect as a statue, with eyes sparkling like stars, as they had done for eighty years. Everybody in the village respected him and at first his ministry was blessed and the people supported him loyally, but after a time, their ears itching for "new things," the people expressed a wish for a younger and more active pastor, and the old Rector tendered his resignation to his flock whom for many years he had tried so faithfully to shepherd. "Twas said that after the new Rector entered upon his work, the old Rector often visited the church during the week (the doors were never locked), to rest and meditate and pray. People sometimes said that he often preached in the empty building. At first I could hardly believe this report which the village gossips spread abroad, but one day I had opportunity to prove it. Passing the little ivy-clad stone church one morning, I overheard the old man's voice in prayer. Stepping quietly within, I hid myself behind a pillar. When the "Amen" had been reached, he proceeded to announce a hymn, and looked with pained surprise at the choir stalls when no one began to sing, and then started to sing himself. I had to suppress a strong temptation to help him, for he seemed on the verge of breaking down. Then he made announcements, evidently referring to matters of bygone days and other regions. Then followed the sermon, which seemed to me infinitely pathetic, and which I tried to jot down after reaching home, as best I could, from memory: "I have chosen for my text to-day I Samuel 20:18—'Thou shalt be missed, because thy seat will be empty,' and this sermon will be addressed to the empty pews which I see before me in such appalling numbers on this interesting occasion. Often have I had it in mine heart to preach to you, O ye empty pews, for you have always been such regular attendants on my ministry. I must, indeed, commend your faithfulness. In stormy weather you were always on hand. In fine weather, when people were motoring or visiting, I could depend upon your presence. Ah, how nobly you would rally before me when there were 'doings' at the other churches! And even in Lent you always filled the house. Nothing I have ever said or done would drive you away. And I must commend your constancy. Whenever I have gone to a new field of labor, others have crowded around me at first, but their enthusiasm soon died away. But you, O empty pews, you never crowded your attentions on me the first Sunday or so, but as time passed on, you clung to me like brothers."

Thus far, the preacher's tone was friendly. He seemed to think the empty seats as ghostly existences. But soon a stern look came into his countenance as he went on in severer tones:

"And yet, my dear friends, I do not, I cannot, love you. No, you are not my 'dear friends' at all, and I will not call you such. I detest you, O empty pews, I despise you, I abominate you. I never invited you to church, but I always tried to drive you away, and you wouldn't go. There you sit, staring at me with your empty eyes and barren hearts, freezing the very marrow in my bones and all the union in my soul. Night and day I have thought of you, and the remembrance and dread of you have made my weeks unhappy. Even when I tolled in my study I have felt the chill of your presence, and my hand and brain have been palsied as I heard you mutter around me, 'We'll be there and suck that sermon dry.' And sometimes I have started up in the night, cold with sweat, because you, frigid friends, have danced upon my heart. Often, with prayer and labor, I prepared my Sunday message, and wept and pleaded that God would honor it, but when Sunday morning came, you, pale villains, throttled it before it could really speak to any one's heart. Often have I designed to comfort some sorrowing one, when, behold! one of you had taken the place of the mourner. You were always there on the Sundays when special offerings were to be taken, and ye jeered and mocked me, and never a penny did ye give to any cause. You never sing, you never weep or smile, you never make any responses in the service. You are worse than deaf adders, and can never be charmed to respond to the most earnest efforts. Never have I known one of you to become converted to God.

"But I will not rail upon you, you poor, pallid ghosts of evaporated nothings, though you have driven me from every field in which I tried to labor. You have no bodies, no souls, no conscience, no hope. I am glad you cannot repent and be saved. I hate you, and I shall hate you forever and ever. I hope some day to go to heaven, even if my crown is starless (thanks to you), but I hope never to meet you there. No, not one! Not one! Go to perdition, all of you! Fill up the black courts of hell's dominion; but in the name of the Most High God, I charge you to come not into the Celestial City, for if you do, it seems to me I never could be happy and I don't believe the Saviour could be, if there should be empty seats in Heaven."

METHODIST EPISCOPAL EPISTLES

Our Junior League closes for the summer season this Friday afternoon.

An important meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society was held at the home of Mrs. John Dayton last Tuesday evening. Business of importance was transacted. The society will close its activities until the fall of the year. This society holds a very important place in the church life.

Last Thursday evening the Epworth League held a meeting after the prayer service. The attendance was larger than usual and the reports of the various committees was very encouraging. It was decided to arrange for a plan whereby the necessary funds pledged for the lights could be raised. Date has not as yet been selected.

Mr. Milton Davis delivered a well prepared address at the regular mid-week service last week. His remarks were based upon a chart in view of his attentive listeners. Milton is making good as a hustler among his fellow workmen, also as a practical christian man. Give us another talk in the near future.

We are indeed pleased to state that our Junior choir has been well received by not only members of the regular choir, but by the congregation as well. What a difference it makes to young folks who feel they are welcome by the older folks. We are working in harmony and that counts for God.

Lights were on the blink for a fact last Sunday evening and at one time we all were in the gloaming. Fortunately the gas jets relieved the situation and the small reed organ likewise proved a valuable substitute when the power failed to respond. Finally however the lights and power for pipe organ responded and the evening service continued without further interruptions.

Our Sunday School Superintendent, Mr. Wm. M. Emmons, though indisposed during the week, was able to preside at the regular Sunday School service last Sunday morning and we are pleased to state that the large majority of Sunday School scholars attended the regular morning service, thus greatly increasing the attendance.

A special meeting of the official board was called last Sunday evening and it was decided after a unanimous vote to hold the morning Sunday School meeting at 10 a. m. This will give all an opportunity to attend. Eleven o'clock was deemed an appropriate hour to start the regular morning Sunday time of worship. Since the pastor is not in the habit of delivering sermons of unreasonable length; folks will be out by noon, in good time for lunch, and have the afternoon for rest of a proper sort, and report promptly for the Sunday evening service fresh and in good form. Keep the Lord's Day holy, not one hour of it but the day as commanded by God.

In the recent death of Charles Warren Fairbanks, formerly vice-president of the United States, the Methodist Episcopal Church has lost a spiritual and intellectual support. He was also an official man of the Meridian Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Indianapolis, Ind., and on Sunday he attended divine worship.

The seven ages of man to which humanity seems heir are: Awkward and gawky at ten, Strong at twenty, Handsome at thirty, Wise at forty, Rich at fifty, Retired at sixty, Dead at seventy.

We have only one objection to the above statements, some folks we know who have not reached seventy, are plumb dead spiritually.

One of our churches recently planted several trees around the church and the exterior and interior repairs have made a marked improvement and we congratulate them, but the name of the new minister on the bulletin board in front of the church is spelled wrong.

The following persons have united with the church since the First Quarterly Conference: Mr. Martin Oelson, Mrs. Martin Oelson, Miss Sophie Oelson and Mrs. George E. McGinty.

The following infants were baptised the Sunday morning of Children's Day: Jean Lisk Neill, Robert Ernest Peterson, Doloras Eudora Newman and Maurice Cox.

Next Sunday morning the Sunday School will begin at ten o'clock and the morning church service at eleven. We jot this down a second time as a reminder.

After helping an aged brother lawyer who was near the end of his life make his will, Judge A. M. Vedder, a trustee of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, of Schenectady, N. Y. returned home and wrote the following verses. He remarked to a friend as he finished them, "These simple lines represent my deepening experience as I look ahead."

Year after year has passed,
I see the end at last
Down the road that I must go
Lies a valley right below,
Some call death.

Although it now is night,
The road is growing bright
Just ahead,
Now it still is full of light,
Just ahead.

Intermarriage of Races.
There is plenty of historic precedent for the intermarriage of warriors and the women of the lands they enter. Consider the Roman legions of Trajan and Titus, quartered in Scythia, and the native girls of the district. This resulted in the race of Romanians, who claimed to be the purest descendants of the race of the Caesars.

Reasonable Theory.
"Why, John," exclaimed Mrs. Newkild as she came into the room, "what in the world makes the baby cry so?" "I don't know, my dear," answered Newkild, as he handed the infant over to its mother, "but I imagine he is thinking of what the governor of North Carolina once said to the governor of South Carolina."

P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

There has been some criticism about the Y. being open on Sundays and selling things by those who have so far been unable to see the mote in their own eyes. Whatever is sold at the Y. on Sundays is done so for the benefit of those who work, etc., the same as in any other Railroad Y., that has lunches, etc. It might be well for some of us to look up what the Master said to the Pharisees when they went after Him about eating on Sundays. We wonder how many there are that do not purchase things on Sundays?

Weather permitting we will play ball on our own field Saturday at 4 p. m. We do not expect to be able to get the fence up by that time but will have nets. Entrance to the field will be 15 cents, except to members who must have their paid-up card to show.

Those wishing to enter the tennis tournament should sign up at the office as soon as possible, so we can get the tournament started by the 22nd.

Ball game Saturday will be with the Y. M. C. A. of New Brunswick.

The bowling alleys are being planned, etc., and will be closed until the fall.

It is fine the way that some of the members have got out and done real work on the ball field, so as to get it in some shape for Saturday. Wish we had a few more, and the Association thanks those that have kept busy.

It is not enough to deplore what the Germans have done. That will not hurt the Germans; they don't care what you think of them. Help your Government to fight them. That is the only thing that counts with a German. When you save and buy War Savings Stamps you attack a German in the place where it hurts.
