COUNCIL GIVES $100 TO G.A.R.

To Make the Hearts of the Old Veterans Happy—N. Y. & L. B. R. R. Objects to Opening of Portia Street—Lights, Excess Trolley Fare and Other Matters Before Council.

The meeting of the Common Council on Tuesday night was of some length, and it was after eleven o'clock when it adjourned.

Present—Mayor Welsh, President Manhattan, Councilmen Berrien, O'Connor, Stanton and Stuart; Clerk Fulton, City Solicitor Pearse, and Treasurer Perrine.

Minutes of previous meeting were approved as read.

The Clerk read the following communication:

Red Bank, N. J., April 11, 1911. City Clerk of South Amboy, South Amboy, N. J.

Dear Sir:—As attorneys of the New York and Long Branch Railroad Company our attention has been called to an application made to your City Council for the opening of a street crossing at Portia street across the right of way of the New York and Long Branch Railroad. The New York and Long Branch Railroad Company seriously objects to the constructing of any more grade crossings across its right of way through your city, and it is surprised that you even contemplate the laying of a new crossing in view of the many serious accidents that have occurred at grade crossings in your city in the past. Your people have already expressed themselves as being opposed to any increase in the number of grade crossings.

Permit us to say further that upon investigation we find that there is no real necessity for the crossing contemplated. There are streets parallel to Portia street, and conveniently near thereto, crossing the right of way of the New York and Long Branch Railroad Company, sufficient to satisfy the needs of the travelling public. Furthermore, traffic over Portia street is practically nothing.

We understand that the persons who are chiefly responsible for the filing of a petition with your body requesting the opening of Portia street are the members of the Perrine family who own approximately eighty-three lots of land on said Portia street. It is very obvious that the Perrine family have their private interest in view rather than the necessities of the public. It is true that other property owners have signed the petition but only through the solicitation of the Perrines who are the prime movers in the matter.

Since the passage of the act entitled "An act to create a board of railroad commissioners for the State of New Jersey," approved May 15, 1907, and supplemented by an act of 1909, no municipality can construct any street or highway across the tracks of any railroad company at grade without first obtaining therefor permission from the Board of Railroad Commissioners. This law would seem to finally dispose of the question involved. The burden rests upon your city to obtain the permission of the Railroad Commissioners in the first place. Such application to the Railroad Commissioners must, of course, be made upon notice to all parties interested in order that those objecting may have an opportunity to be heard, and at the hearing before the Commissioners the whole question is considered. The Board has already expressed itself and emphatically announced that no permission for new crossings will be granted except where it plainly appears that it is absolutely necessary in the interest of the public. Not reasonably necessary, but absolutely necessary. Individual interests are not considered. Only the absolute necessities of the public at large are inquired into.

We do not know that you have finally determined to attempt to lay said crossing. We hope not. Our purpose in writing is to respectfully inform your body that the New York and Long Branch Railroad Company is unalterably opposed to said new crossing, and that it will vigorously and persistently oppose the construction thereof.

Very truly yours,
JOHN S. APPELGATE & SON.
Mr. Berrien moved that the letter be received and filed.

Mr. O'Connor moved to amend that it be received and referred to committee on streets. He desired this as he expected a public hearing would be held on grade map of Portia street. The motion was amended was adopted.

The Clerk read communication from Gen. Wm. S. Truex Post inviting the Mayor and Council to participate with the Post in Memorial Day exercises, and also stating that any contribution toward defraying expenses would be appreciated. It was Engine Company stated that J. F. Sutliff had been elected a member to fill vacancy caused by the death of James Carberry.

On motion of Mr. Stanton, it was received and action of company confirmed.

A report of the Overseer of the Poor was read, and on motion of Mr. Stuart was received and ordered filed.

Bills were referred to committees, when the following were approved and ordered paid:

Arthur L. Perkins Co.	$ 22.22
P. A. City Water Works.	203.87
P. A. City Water Works.	34.65
P. A. City Water Works.	468.31

Watson Wagon Co.	190.00
Labor, streets.	75.15
Teams, streets.	40.40
Labor, garbage.	34.00

A deduction of $45.50 was made in the electric light bill for outage.

On resolution by Mr. Berrien, a not for $4,000 falling due, was ordered renewed for three months.

On resolution offered by Mr. Berrien, $100 was appropriated to defray expenses of Gen. William S. Truex Post, C. A. R., on Memorial Day.

The following was offered by E. J. O'Connor:

Whereas, A bill is pending before the Legislature of the State of New Jersey for the purpose of enabling railroad companies to acquire land by condemnation, where necessary, not exceeding fifty-feet in addition to the present right of way of said railroad companies and which said bill is numbered Senate No. 341, and

Whereas, In the opinion of the Common Council of the City of South Amboy, the passage of said bill would be detrimental to the interests of property owners within the limits of said city, therefore be it

Resolved, That we the Common Council of the City of South Amboy do hereby protest against the passage of said bill; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent by the Clerk to the Senator from Middlesex County and the members of the Assembly representing the County of Middlesex.

Mr. O'Connor moved adoption of resolution.

Mr. Berrien thought it was a matter between individuals and the railroad and he didn't see why the City of South Amboy should be drawn into the controversy.

On vote being taken, the resolution was adopted.

The report of treasurer showed balances as follows: City account, $8,199.79; Water account, $540.31; which on motion of Mr. Stanton was received and ordered filed.

Mr. O'Connor, of committee to ascertain cost of gas in other cities, made an interesting report. He said that Milltown, a much smaller place than this city, was getting gas at $1.00 per thousand cubic feet, Perth Amboy, $1.15; and Bridgeton, $1.00. He offered a motion that the Clerk be instructed to communicate with the present gas company, asking them to furnish us with gas at same rate as they are giving in smaller municipalities. Adopted.

Mr. O'Connor called for report of street commissioner in regard to consents being obtained by telephone company for placing poles on Ridgeway avenue.

Solicitor Pearse said he would answer for the street commissioner. Consents had been obtained and paid for on two poles, but the others were placed without permission of property owners. He asked that matter be laid over until next meeting, when he would make report.

Mr. O'Connor asked the city solicitor what had been done as to transfers on the Public Service Street Railway Co., and what report he had to make on the matter.

Mr. Pearse stated he was sorry to confess the matter had escaped his attention.

Mr. O'Connor considered the matter of vital importance to the people who have to go out of the city. The Public Service had openly defied this body, and failed to respond to any communications sent them. The Board of Freeholders had taken action against the Jersey Central Traction Company to compel them to live up to the franchise. He would like to know in what manner to proceed to compel the Public Service to give transfers to any part of

DIPPED UP MAN'S BODY

Ross & Sanford's Dredging Machine While at Work in Wyoming Slip Scooped Up the Body—Horribly Decomposed, and Identification Was Impossible—Buried in Cemetery at Ernston.

The dredging machine of Ross and Sanford, while at work in Wyoming slip on Wednesday afternoon dipped a man's body, which was discovered when the dipper was emptied.

The dredge is deepening the water for the new coal dumper, so that vessels of large draft can load. When the body was found, Coroner Mason was notified, and he at once went to the pier and after securing the body took it to his morgue. It was difficult work to remove the body, as it had to be taken from the mud scow and lowered to a small boat, and afterward raised to the top of the pier slip. It was horribly decomposed, and had evidently been in the water a long time. Identification was impossible and there was nothing in the clothing by which the man's name could be known. His clothing consisted of a sweater, pair of overalls, and suit of underwear. He was about five feet nine inches in height, and had dark hair.

The body was buried in the Good Shepherd cemetery, Ernston, on Thursday by Undertakers Stillwell & Mason.

Rev. Madison C. Peters Here Next Tuesday

The Rev. Madison C. Peters will deliver his lecture on "America's Need—Fewer and Better Immigrants" at Knights of Pythias Hall, next Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock. He comes under the auspices of the orders of Knights of Pythias, Red Men, Patriotic Sons of America, Knights of the Golden Eagle, and Junior Order of United American Mechanics. The public generally is invited, and all are assured an evening of pleasure, as Dr. Peters is an eloquent speaker.

Dr. Peters believes there is no more important problem confronting our people today than that of immigration, and that of good immigrants we can never have too many, but of bad ones we don't want any. He does not favor suspension of immigration but a wise restriction.

EASTER AT CHRIST CHURCH

The many services on Good Friday were well attended, and so, naturally, at the services on Easter Day, the congregations were large.

At the early celebration of the Holy Communion there was a large number of communicants, and at 10.30 a. m. the church was well filled.

The difficult music of Gounod, and the spirited anthem by Clare were exceedingly well rendered by the augmented choir.

At the Sunday School service, the scholars with their parents and friends, occupied all the seating space of the edifice; and the general opinion seems to have been that this was the best Sunday School festival in many years.

The congregation at Doane Memorial Chapel at 10.30 a. m. was also a large one, and there were many communicants. The Rev. Dr. Eaton officiated and preached an excellent sermon.

Christ Church was the scene of a charming wedding at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening, when Miss Anna L. Johnson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Johnson, of John street, was married to Mr. Marcus Peterson, son of Mrs. John Ladelund, of David street.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. M. P. Pearse, the rector. Only a few close friends were present to witness the nuptials.

The bride was attended by Miss Mary Peterson, a sister of the groom, and Mr. Nels H. Johnson, a brother of the bride, was bestman. The bride looked charming, and was attired in a traveling costume of blue silk, and carried a bouquet of carnations.

After the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the home of the bride's parents where a reception was tendered to the happy couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson will make their home for the present with the bride's parents.

A BRAKEMAN'S CLOSE CALL

George McKenna Falls from Top of Gondola Coal Car to the Track—Car Passes Over Him and He Escapes With But Slight Injuries—Considered Miraculous that He Was Not Killed.

Last Saturday George McKenna, a brakeman in the P. R. R. yard, had an experience he will not soon forget, and it was almost miraculous that he escaped with his life.

He was applying the brakes of a gondola coal car as it was being placed on Pier C, when the brake bar slipped and he fell to the track in front of the car. He had presence of mind enough to draw his hands and feet from the rail, and drew himself up close to the rail, and the car passed over him. Those who saw the accident thought McKenna would be horribly injured, and were surprised to find he was conscious. He was taken to the emergency hospital, where an examination showed that no bones were broken, but that he was suffering from shock and a badly sprained back. He was taken to his home in Maxville, and at this writing is getting along as well as could be expected.

Will Carleton Coming.

He has given entertainments the world over and is one of the foremost entertainers on the platform of today.

Board of Trade Meeting

The Board of Trade will hold its regular meeting this Friday evening at the City Hall. A circular letter has been sent out urging a full attendance, and in order to give ample room the session will be held in the Council Chamber. The letter in part says:

"The Board of Trade will not be able to accomplish anything unless each individual member realizes his responsibility and by his attendance at the meetings and interest in questions of public welfare and advancement lends a hand to further such objects. Then, and only then, will South Amboy advance and come into her own. To this end a special effort is being made to make this month's meeting count much for South Amboy."

HELD FOR GRAND JURY.

Gus Erickson and Henry Stoder had some words Saturday night, when Stoder handled Erickson rather roughly. Erickson swore out a complaint of assault and battery against Stoder, and a hearing on the case was held on Tuesday before Police Justice Birmingham, who after hearing the evidence held Stoder under bonds for the grand jury.

FRUIT STORE ROBBERED.

The fruit store of Dave Haga, on David street, was entered by thieves on Sunday night, and a quantity of fruit, nuts and tobacco, and some pennies were taken, the exact loss not being known. Entrance was made through a window, in which a pane of glass was broken. From appearances the robbery was the work of some boys.

THIRTY DAYS IN JAIL.

On Tuesday David Deway, with no permanent residence, was arrested by Chief McDonnell. A charge of vagrancy was made against Deway and Police Justice Birmingham considered he would be well cared for if sent to the county jail. The justice made it thirty days.

EASTER MUSIC TO BE REPEATED

The Easter services at the Methodist Episcopal Church were attended by very large congregations throughout the day and everyone was delighted with the services. The music was greatly appreciated, being the best ever rendered in this church, and was under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Dayton, the organist. The choir has been requested to repeat the music on Sunday morning, and will comply with the request.

Sunday evening the Sunday School furnished an excellent service.

Joseph Letts is Among the Missing

Joseph Letts, a Pole, is missing from his home in Maxville. Last Monday night he jumped from his bedroom window in his night clothes and has not been seen since. He was missed by his family shortly afterward and search was started for him.

All the past week searchers have been scouring the woods hereabouts but the only trace of his route was the finding of a portion of his night clothes on a barbed wire fence.

The general impression is that Letts could not survive the cold nights, and that probably he is dead. Or he may have fallen into some of the ponds on his route and was drowned. He has a wife and five children who are anxiously awaiting his return.

All who heard the first lecture of this series are well pleased with the straightforwardness of the speaker. He handles his subjects in a manner that carries conviction to the mind.

Questions that have perplexed thinking Christians and honest skeptics are made clear and along Bible lines. And so the two thoughts Election and Free Grace have perplexed many. Come and hear the Bible Truths on them.

COUNTING THE PEOPLE.

First Census Proposal in England Raised a Fine Row.

It was in 1753 that a proposal to count the people was first made. Thomas Potter, son of the archbishop of Canterbury and member for St. Germans, introduced in that year a bill "for taking and registering an annual account of the total number of the people and of the total number of marriages, births and deaths and also of the total number of poor receiving alms from every parish and extra parochial place in Great Britain." It was inevitable, of course, that directly this proposal was made the precedent of King David should be quoted. And many were the jeremiads as to the alternative evils which would befall the country. Those submitted to David were mild in comparison. Mr. Thornton, member for York city, said:

"I did not believe that there was any set of men or indeed any individual of the human species so presumptuous and so abandoned as to make the proposal we have just heard. I hold this subject to be totally subversive of the last remains of English liberty. The new bill will direct the imposition of new taxes, and indeed the addition of a very few words will make it the most effectual engine of rapacity and oppression that was ever used against an injured people. Moreover, an annual register of our people will acquaint our enemies abroad with our weakness."

Matthew Ridley, another opposing member, added that his constituents looked on the proposal as ominous and feared lest some public misfortune or an epidemic distemper should follow the numbering. However, the bill passed the commons only to be promptly rejected by the lords. Not until 1800 was the proposal again made, and on this occasion it was brought to a successful issue. The first census of England and Wales was taken in March, 1801.—Westminster Gazette.

GENEROUS GEORGE.

Washington's Tips and Compliments to Patty and Polly.

Those who take tipping in the somewhat solemn spirit of the social investigator may find their minds enlightened by the perusal of an excerpt from the writings of our first president, which shows what a graceful turn appreciation and courtesy may give to the custom.

In 1789, on his return from his New England progress, Washington lodged at Taft's Inn, at Uxbridge, Mass., where the domestic service—as at many inns in the country—was performed by the landlord's daughters. Somewhat later Washington wrote to Mr. Taft:

Hartford, 8 November, 1789.

Sir—Being informed that you have given my name to one of your sons and called another after Mrs. Washington's family, and being, moreover, very much pleased with the modest and innocent looks of your two daughters, Patty and Polly, I do for these reasons send each of these girls a piece of chintz, and to Patty, who bears the name of Mrs. Washington and who waited upon us more than Polly did, I send 5 guineas, with which she may buy herself any little ornaments she may want, or she may dispose of them in any other manner more agreeable to herself.

As I do not give these things with a view to have it talked of or even to its being known, the less there is said about it the better you will please me, but that I may be sure the chintz and money have got safe to hand let Patty, who I dare say is equal to it, write me a line informing me thereof, directed to "The President of the United States at New York." I wish you and your family well and am your humble servant, GO. WASHINGTON.

The Shark is a Slow Swimmer.

One ill service nature has done the shark—namely, that of placing a triangular fin on his back which acts as a danger signal and gives warning of his approach. Happily the shark has not been gifted with sufficient sagacity to be aware of this peculiarity, for had he been so he would unquestionably abandon his habit of swimming close to the surface of the water and would in that case be enabled to approach his victim unobserved. The shark is a slow swimmer for his size and strength. Byron observes, "As darts the dolphin from the shark." But Byron was a poet and does not appear to have been a close observer of the habits of inhabitants of the water or he would have known that a shark would have no more chance of catching a dolphin than a sheep would of overhauling a hare.

Sardine Fishing.

In sardine fishing there are many uncertainties. There is a twenty-eight foot rise and fall of tide in the bay of Fundy, and especially constructed wooden picket inclosures are staked out in the water to gather in the fish. Last season a man erected an inclosure in what he supposed to be excellent fishing territory, but got nothing. He deplored his loss and for a time failed to go near it. "Why don't you seine it again?" somebody asked. "What's the use?" he replied. "Let me try it." the other persisted. "Yes, and you may have all the fish you get." The other man pulled out $1,700 worth at one haul.—Frank Leslie's.

A Sailor's Hands.

A sailor is betrayed by his hands, though his gait might betray him. They are permanently half shut. Walking, talking or sleeping the sailor has his hands half shut and could not open them but if he tried. This is the result of years of climbing and pulling.—London Chronicle.

Disregarding signals at the entrance to the Reading Railroad yard at Atlantic City on Sunday the engineer of a Jersey Central excursion train from South Amboy, ran his locomotive through a derail at Missouri and Baltic avenues. Thirteen Fine Horses Burned.

Fire rumbled through the barn of George A. Hoffman, of Woodbridge, like a terrier at play Sunday night, and in the ruins were the remains of thirteen fine horses. The fire was one of the hottest with which the firemen have had to deal, and spread so rapidly that only a few of the animals sheltered there could be saved. The loss is estimated at $5,000.

The board has also approved the lease of the rights and franchise of the Princeton Light, Heat and Power Company to the Public Service Electric Company, and the Public Service Gas Company; also the lease to the Public Service Electric Company of the Burlington Electric Light and Power Company.

Build Road on Sunday.

The fact that it was Sunday did not deter the interested citizens and property owners of Bound Brook from pushing the work of opening up a new road through North Plainfield township, whereby they expect to upset the plans of North Plainfield in locating sewage disposal beds on the Zvolnek farm. The orders were given that work should be resumed at 4 o'clock Sunday morning and at that forty-six laborers began operating while a crowd of about thirty citizens, including some who own property in the vicinity, was present to assist and supervise the work. At first it was only planned to work until noon, by which time it was hoped to complete the opening of the thoroughfare. This could not be done and a second gang was engaged to start at 1 o'clock and worked the rest of the afternoon.

Taft Will Visit Newark Masons.

Senator Briggs, of New Jersey, has received a letter from President Taft advising that he has made plans so that it is possible for him to promise to attend the one-hundredth and fiftieth anniversary of the institution of St. John's Lodge, F. A. M., of Newark, on May 13. A committee from the lodge, accompanied by Senator Briggs, called at the White House last week and extended the invitation to the President, but at that time the later was not sure that he would be able to attend the affair. Since then, however, the President has decided to go to New York on the evening of May 13, and he has concluded that he will be able to stop off at Newark during the afternoon and early evening and participate in the Masonic celebration. The President advises Mr. Briggs that it will be necessary for his time in Newark to be arranged so as to enable him to be in New York by 9 o'clock in the evening.

Lights on Vehicles.

Governor Wilson has signed the Edge bill requiring lights on all vehicles drawn by horses or other beasts. This is an amendment of the act of 1909. It requires that every vehicle shall display a light during the period from thirty minutes after sunset until thirty minutes before sunrise. Also when fog renders it difficult to see a long distance. The light must be placed so that it will be visible 250 feet. The penalty for violation of the act is a fine of from $2.50 to $5 to be paid by the owner.

law was $1. It is expected that the effects of this bill will be to render traveling after dark less dangerous to both horse-drawn vehicles as well as automobiles.

Three Killed by Lakewood Flyer.

Three persons were killed by the Lakewood flyer at the Long Branch crossing of the Central railroad at Elizabeth avenue, Elizabeth, on Sunday evening, while attempting to board the accommodation train bound south. The victims were E. C. Sanders, baggage master of the local, and Mrs. Hannah Cosgrove and her daughter, Mrs. Ann Eliza Stone, of Belford. The baggage master lost his life in attempting to push the women off the track on which the northbound express was running.

Freehold Factories Closed.

Two of Freehold's industrial institutions, employing women for the most part, are closed, and there is no assurance that they will be opened soon. Julius Simon's shirt and pajama factory on Mechanic street and the Wilbur-Stephens Company shirt factory on Elm street are the two plants closed down.

Trolley from Elizabeth to Trenton.

The Public Service intends to push work on its short line from Trenton to Elizabeth, which means that through trolley traffic hereafter will not touch New Brunswick, but will be carried across the Raritan near Martin's dock. The government has already approved plans for the trolley bridge to be built. The Public Service is now negotiating for the privileges in Elizabeth which will enable it to enter that city. The name of New Brunswick has already been erased from the Trenton cars and the name Elizabeth substituted. A transfer station will be maintained at Milltown for local people who desire to make the trip to Trenton by trolley.—New Brunswick Times.

Killed His Testimony.

Early in his career Sir John Simon was counsel for the defense in a case which turned upon the identification of the prisoner. The day before the trial Sir John entered a small shop and asked for a packet of pins. "We don't sell them," said the tradesman. "Go to So-and-so's." The next day the tradesman appeared as a witness and swore to the identity of the prisoner. "Do you always remember faces?" asked Sir John. "Always," said the witness stoutly. "Have you ever seen me before?" "Never," said the witness. "Would it surprise you to learn that I entered your shop yesterday and asked for a packet of pins?" The witness collapsed, and the case was won.—London Ideas.

How to Tell if Your Hair is Diseased. Even if you have a luxuriant head of hair you may want to know whether it is in a healthy condition or not. 98 per cent of the people need a hair tonic.

Dear Amy:—

Have your old rugs worn out? A hole started in one Papa gave me when I was married, and what do you think? Baby John brought a stray dog in the house, and this very dog, Amy, commenced at the hole and tore my rug all to pieces.

But I didn't mind, because you get tired of old rugs and want new ones, anyway, don't you?

Always your friend,

P. S.—I immediately went and bought a new rug. My, what handsome ones I saw, and so many of them! I'm going to give several of my old rugs to my wash-woman and buy new ones from

BLUFFED AND WON

A Dramatic Incident of the Fateful Hundred Days.

ONE OF NAPOLEON'S COUPS.

The Way of the Great Military Genius Overcame the First Opposition He Encountered on the March to Paris After His Return From Elba.

A striking incident in the career of Napoleon is described by Camille Coucand in his book, "Le Retour de l'Isle d'Elbe" ("The Return From the Island of Elba"). It describes how he met the first opposition offered to his march to Paris after his escape from Elba:

"Meanwhile Napoleon had traveled by the Alps to Dauphine, advancing into the interior of the country. Having received information on Sunday, the 4th of March, the prefect of l'Isere had immediately, in concert with the military authority, taken measures to deal with the startling situation. A detachment composed of the line and two companies of engineers was dispatched to prevent the further advance of the emperor.

"The meeting between this detachment and the little troop from the Isle of Elba took place on the 7th of March near Vizille, but not before the peasants had had time to hasten to inform Napoleon of the antagonistic disposition of the officers commanding the troops which had been sent from Grenoble. In order to avoid the shedding of blood the emperor ordered Cambronne, who was accompanied by a small escort, to enter into treaty with the cocardes blanches (white cockades). Cambronne found the detachment ranged in order of battle. The commanding officer refused to enter into communication, and the soldiers remained silent and gloomy.

"Napoleon immediately took his share in the proceedings. He gave the order to his grenadiers to put their rifles under their arms, in order to give proof of their pacific dispositions. Then he advanced alone, while some of his friends cried to the soldiers of the line:

"Friends, do not fire! There is the emperor, who wishes to speak to you." Napoleon now found himself about thirty meters from the Grenoble detachment. He dismounted and, his arms crossed on his breast, remained standing in the middle of the road.

"Soldiers of the Fifth," he said in a loud tone—"soldiers of the Fifth, do you recognize me?"

"Yes, yes!" they all replied.

"Then Napoleon, throwing open his gray cloak with a dramatic gesture and pointing to his breast with his hands, replied:

"If there is one among you who wishes to kill his general, his emperor, he can do it. Here I am!"

"The response was unanimous, sublime: 'Long live the emperor! Long live the emperor!'

"Breaking the ranks, their shakos at the ends of the swords or on the bayonets, the soldiers of the Fifth, to whom were joined the engineers, ran toward Napoleon, surrounded him, embraced him, kissed his hands, called him their preserver, their father, their general, their emperor. Finally the two detachments mingled together and became consolidated. Napoleon then had 2,000 men with whom to march on to Grenoble.

"They took the road, and it was a triumphal march. The people of the district came to meet the column, acclaiming Napoleon as the liberator of the nation and as the living incarnation of the revolution.

"The peasants wept with joy. At this sight the emperor, turning toward his officers, Drouot and Bertrand, said to them:

"Everything is now in good order. Within ten days we shall be at the Tuilleries!"

Song of the Flame.

Fire can be made to sing. A writer says: "Take a lighted candle and blow gently against the flame. You will hear a peculiar fluttering sound. The fluttering sound is fire's first attempts at music. Instead of the unsteady breath of our lips let us employ the steady blast of a blowpipe. Instead of the pale and flickering light of a candle let us use the bright and ardent glare of a chemist's lamp. When you have a lamp and blowpipe you can make fire sing in earnest."

An Evident Success.

"So you have a position as stenographer. I hope you will succeed in making yourself indispensable to your employer."

"I think I have, auntie. We are to be married next month."—Pittsburg Post.

Lucky.

"Noah must have felt lucky when he landed after his long sail."

"Yes," replied the New York Importer. "Think of a man landing all that cargo without a customs official to say a word!"—Washington Star.

Just What He Wanted.

"Is your suburb wholesome?" "No, old chap, it ain't. My wife lost her voice as soon as we moved out here, and—"

"What's the price of the lot next to yours?"—Cleveland Leader.

DAVID QUINLAN, Henry St

Like all other towns, there are some people in this city who buy all their goods elsewhere, but it must be conceded that those who purchase in this city give evidence of being the more prosperous. This fact would seem to be proof that purchasers can do as well at home as out of town.

The Council did a commendable act on Tuesday when they donated to Gen. Wm. S. Truex Post the sum of one hundred dollars to defray expenses on Memorial Day. The members of the Post feel jubilant over the generous gift. The ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic are becoming thinner year after year, and thus proportionately the expense upon each becomes heavier in the observance of this day, and therefore any contribution from outside of their organization is greatly appreciated.

Investigating committees come high judging from the bill sent to the Legislature as expense of the Atlantic county election investigation. While these probes unearthed some of the grossest irregularities in the history of the State, it would seem that $12,617.35 was a big sum for a few week's work. The hotel expenses amounted to $1,069.85, and $750 were spent for incidentals. The Assemblymen are now quite anxious to learn what these incidentals consisted of.

Senator Silzer's bill to compel railroads to pay their employees every two weeks has passed both houses. The employees have for several years endeavored to get such a bill passed, but each time it was pigeon-holed. There is general rejoicing among the men, who are in great hopes that it will receive the signature of the Governor.

A SHIP CANAL STRIP.

(From Phila. Bulletin, April 20.)
Without a single dissenting voice the bill appropriating $500,000 for the purchase of a right of way across New Jersey for a ship canal linking Philadelphia and New York was passed by both branches of the Legislature at Trenton. The signature of Governor Wilson was yesterday placed upon it. The act makes the $500,000 available as soon as Congress votes funds for the construction of the waterway.

It has been years since a measure appropriating so large a sum for a project outside of the ordinary routine expenses of the State has gone through the New Jersey Legislature with the ease that has attended the canal bill on its various readings. Members from counties remote from the line of the proposed waterway have interposed no objections, and several of them have helped the act along on the broad principle that what is good for one section of the Commonwealth is good for all.

The passage of this bill clears the way for the Congress delegations from three States, Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey, to unite in an appeal to the House and Senate at Washington for the appropriation of $35,000,000, or as much of that sum as is necessary, to begin the actual work of digging the waterway from Bordentown to Raritan Bay. There are seventy-nine Representatives from these three States and they should be able to make a formidable showing by standing together. To them should be added the Representatives from Delaware and Maryland, which will be indirectly benefited, and the State delegations of those Commonwealths lining the Atlantic seaboard that are included in the general scheme on inland waterways.

According to the surveys made by engineers of the War Department, the canal will be thirty-five miles long. This makes the estimated cost about a million a mile—a small price considering the advantage which should accrue to the two principal cities in the Middle Coast States. New Jersey has done her part by providing funds for purchasing the necessary ground. There should now be no hesitancy in asking Congress to do its share.

SCULLY GIVES HIS SEAT TO HUGHES

Washington, April 14.—As a means of showing their appreciation of the friendly service of Representative William Hughes, of the Sixth district, in obtaining fine committee berths for them, the other members of the New Jersey House delegation, Messrs. Scully, Tuttle, Townsend, McCoy, Kinkhead and Hammill, gave a dinner in honor of the former last night. Senator Martine was a special guest. As a token of their esteem Mr. Hughes' colleagues presented him with a beautiful stick-pin.

Another sign of appreciation for his efforts in behalf of securing recognition for the New Jersey Congressmen came as a pleasant surprise yesterday when Representative Scully, who on the opening day of Congress was counted the luckiest man in the House by having the first choice of seats, insisted that Mr. Hughes should exchange seats with him. Mr. Hughes was reluctant to do so but finally agreed to the arrangement proposed by Mr. Scully. The former now occupies seat No. 1, the choicest location in the House, while the latter has gone back to the seat which Mr. Hughes was compelled to take when his name came out of the box in the bag end of the lottery scheme by which seats are assigned.

"It did not seem fair for me as a new member, and one who will not be especially active on the floor, to be occupying the best seat in the House while Mr. Hughes was almost lost to sight and hearing in the Cherokee strip," said Mr. Scully yesterday. "Mr. Hughes is one of the most influential House members and it is a pleasure for me to exchange seats with him so that he will occupy an advantageous place on the floor."

Last Sunday afternoon the Rev. G. L. Allen, pastor of the Baptist Church, delivered an Easter message, topic: "The Living Hope," a story of the resurrection and life, illustrating the results of faith and service when combined with purity of purpose—the development of a beautiful soul, a useful life and the beauty of the lily, which has and continues to rise out of vile surroundings, if it obediently follows the leading of the risen Christ. A musical program was conducted by the music committee. Mr. Anderson rendered a solo entitled "There's a Hand Held Out," which was appreciated.

A special meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. was held Wednesday night, at which time final arrangements were made for their open meeting and entertainment on Friday evening, April 28.

On Monday afternoon of this week the local Y. M. C. A. received an official visit from the State Secretary, Mr. Charles A. Coburn. The State Secretary's visit here is considered of considerable importance to the local association, as Mr. Coburn went over the field as well as the work of the association thoroughly.

Friday evening a pool team and bowling team representing the local Y. M. C. A. will visit the Terminal Y. M. C. A. in the New Pennsylvania R. R. Station, 32d street and 7th avenue, New York, and try for honors in a match game with the artists of the new association.

THE GIRL WHO WORKS.

An exchange says: "God bless the girl who works. She is not too proud to earn her own living, nor ashamed to be caught at her daily task. She smiles at you from behind the desk, counter or printer's case. There is a sweet memory of her in everything she touches. She is like a brave mountaineer, already far up the precipice—climbing, struggling, rejoicing. The sight is an inspiration. It is an honor to know this girl and be worthy of her esteem. Lift your hat to her, young man, as she passes by. She is a queen in the realm of womanhood. She is a princess among the toilers. Her hands may be stained by dishwashing, sweeping, printer's ink, or factory grease. But they are honest hands. They stay misfortune from the home; they support the invalid loved ones maybe; they are moving, potent shields that protect many a family from the poorhouse. God bless and protect the girl who works."

SEEING AND LOOKING.

A young Englishman on a P. & O. steamer returning from India said publicly at the dinner table: "Missions are a humbug. I have been in India eight months and have not seen an East Indian Christian." A quiet man, sitting opposite said: "May I ask for what you went to India?" The answer was: "I went to hunt tigers." The other replied, "I am a missionary. I have been in India twelve years and I have not seen a tiger."—The Messenger.

Sudden Death of Former Judge Hoffman

Former Judge William T. Hoffman dropped dead at his home, "Lasada," at Englishtown, Monmouth county, late Wednesday night.

Lawyer Hoffman had this week defended Heideman, the girl slayer, who was tried before Supreme Court Justice Willard P. Voorhees, at Freehold. Heideman was convicted and sentenced to be electrocuted by Justice Voorhees. The sentence seemed to prey upon Judge Hoffman's mind.

Mr. Hoffman had appeared in some of the most noted criminal cases in the state, and was partially successful in defending McAllister, Death, Campbell and Kerr, the four Paterson young men who were tried for the murder of Jennie Bosschietter, some years ago. These four men were given prison terms. In all other cases, the lawyer had successfully fought off a verdict in the first degree, but he was unable to do so with Heideman's case, and this fact many of his friends declare unnerved him.

He was about Freehold Wednesday, however, and seemed in good health. He commented freely upon the conviction of the Asbury Park slayer and referred to it as the first case he had lost. He went to his home in Englishtown, and after eating a hearty meal, complained of feeling tired and went into the library. Some hours later his wife heard him groan and then fall off the chair. She summoned help but when a doctor arrived her husband was dead. Apoplexy was the cause of his death.

Judge Hoffman was born in Middlesex county 74 years ago. He was prepared for college, but engaged in business pursuits, which however, he abandoned for the study of law. He studied in the office of the late Governor Bedle and was admitted as an attorney in 1862 and as a counselor in 1872.

From 1863 until the close of the war he served in the paymasters' department of the army. For five years he was the president of the Hoboken Board of Education, being then the only Republican in that body. He served as presiding judge of Hudson county from 1873 to 1878.

For many years he had taken an active part in New Jersey politics. He presided over the state convention which nominated Frederick A. Potts for Governor, was a member of the Republican National Convention which was held at Minneapolis in 1892 and which nominated Benjamin Harrison for President. In 1892 he was unsuccessful when he ran for Congress. Mr. Hoffman served in the Assembly in 1902, and was the head of the Monmouth Tax Board at the time of his death. He is survived by a widow and two daughters.

KILLING THE UMPIRE.

It is an Essential Part of the Great Game of Baseball.

According to bleacher law, there are three particularly justifiable motives for doing away with umpires. An umpire may be killed—first, if he seizes to adhere to the rules and make a decision against the home team at a close point in the game; second, an umpire may be killed if he sends a member of the home team to the bench when the player in question has done absolutely nothing but call the umpire names and attempt to bite his ear off (an umpire has no business to be touchy); third (and this is a perfect defense against the charge of murder), an umpire may be killed if he calls any batter on the home team out on strikes when the player has not even struck at the balls pitched. That the balls go straight over the plate has nothing to do with the case.

There is ample proof at hand to show that killing the umpire is a distinctly American sport. Other countries have tried baseball, but they have not tried killing the umpire. That is probably the reason why they have not waxed enthusiastic over baseball, for baseball without umpire killing is like football without girls in the grand stand. It simply can't be done. That foreign countries know nothing about our kind of outdoor sports was indicated forcibly when in the fall of 1900 the Detroit team made a trip to Cuba under the management of Outfielder McIntyre. In the entire series of twelve games with the Havana and Almendares nines not one single objection was made by either the Cuban players or the silent Cuban spectators to a decision of the umpires. The Americans did not know what to think of it—until they counted up the gate receipts at the end of the series. Then they realized that in their own country it is the delight in killing the umpire rather than the pleasure in watching the game that draws the tremendous crowds through the turnstiles.—George Jean Nathan in Harper's Weekly.

A Statesman's Queer Ambition.

The great Lord Grey had an ambition far above politics. He had passed the reform bill, but that did not satisfy his soul. There was talk of Taglion, and Grey said quite earnestly, "What would I give to dance as well as she?" The statesman who had been prime minister and had left an indelible mark on the history of his country was envious of an opera dancer!—London Saturday Review.

GOVERNOR SIGNS
SOME BILLS.

Governor Wilson has signed numerous important bills passed by the Legislature, including the plumage bill and the bill prohibiting the use of public drinking cups.

The use of common drinking cups in public places in this State will be unlawful after July 4 next. The bill prohibits the use of the cups as "an undoubted source of communication of infectious diseases" in all public places and the State Board of Health is given full authority to establish such reasonable rules and regulations to make the prohibition effective as in their judgment seems wise and proper. Violation of the act is made a misdemeanor, with a fine not exceeding $25 for each offense.

The Radcliffe plumage bill for the protection of birds against wholesale slaughter for millinery is an amendment to the State fish and game act and prohibits the killing or having in possession any wild bird other than a game bird, or the exposing for sale any such wild bird after it has been killed or caught. No part of the skin or plumage of any such bird shall be sold or had in possession for sale.

Other bills signed include the Trenton and Jersey City Harbor Board measure for the improvement of water fronts and the establishment of municipal docks.

Mr. Gebhardt's providing that challenges to jurors for any cause whatever in any suit in any court may be made at any time before the juror is actually sworn.

Mr. Nichols', increasing to $10 the fine for trespassing by gunners and providing for the collection of damages.

Mr. James', authorizing the Governor to confer the brevet rank or second lieutenant upon any member of the National Guard who shall have served faithfully therein continuously since the Civil War without any commission as an officer.

Mr. James', providing for the issuing of medals to members of the National Guard and Naval Reserve who have served continuously for ten years.

CONTRACTS FOR STONE AWARDED

At an adjourned meeting of the Board of Freeholders, held Monday afternoon, contracts were awarded by the board for the supplying of stone on several roads of the county which are to be repaired this spring. The bids were received by the board last Thursday. The Delaware River Quarry and Construction Company will furnish the stone for the largest number of roads, this company being the lowest bidder.

The contract for laying the rip-rap under the retaining wall at Jamesburg was awarded to Contractor John F. McGovern, of New Brunswick, he being the lowest bidder. William I. S. Davison, of Cranbury, and Abram Jellin, of New Brunswick, were the other bidders for this work.

The following were the stone contracts awarded the Delaware River Quarry and Construction Company: Iselin and Oak Tree road, $148 a ton; Livingston avenue to Livingston Park, $140; New Brunswick to Three-Mile Run, $165; Monmouth Junction to Kingston, $185; Monmouth Junction to Dayton, $185; New Brunswick to $185; Dayton to Mercer county line, $190; Cranbury to Union Valley, $185; South River to South Amboy, $185; Highland Park to Metuchen, $150; Aqueduct to Plainsboro, $190; Bridge street, Stevens avenue, Perth Amboy and Morgan road, $190; Landing Bridge to New Market, $160; East Railway to Union county line, $165.

By a resolution offered by the road committee the bids received for the supplying of stone on the following roads were rejected:

State street, Perth Amboy; St. George's avenue, Perth Amboy; Woodbridge to Iselin; Menlo Park to Union county line.

The F. R. Upton Company was awarded the contract for supplying stone on the Dunellen and Bound Brook road.

Editor South Amboy Citizen:

Dear Sir:—Kindly permit me as a citizen, and one interested in the public affairs of South Amboy, to refer to the letter sent by the attorneys for the N. Y. and L. B. R. R. Company, and, presumably by the direction of the Superintendent of that company, to our city council, and published.

The letter presumes to advise, and also to threaten the council in regard to the Portia street grade crossing. It goes without saying, that the advice, unasked for as it was, arrives rather prematurely. The letter also bears the unmistakable stamp of self-interest, and appears also to be based upon ignorance as to the facts. This may arise from misinformation given him, either in error, or by design. For the information of this new official, and also the attorneys of the N. Y. and L. B. R. R. Company it may be well to state that neither the city council, nor the petitioners are thinking even of a new crossing at Portia street and Broadway. There is now, and always has been, a grade crossing at that point since the railroad was first built. This grade crossing has been in daily use now for about thirty-five years,—long enough it would seem, for even this official to have known of its existence.

This superintendent appears to be in undue haste to refuse what was not asked for, and to give advice that was not solicited or desired. The exercise of ordinary business deliberation would have spared the Superintendent the humiliation of being corrected, and also of knowing that his presumption received its just merits.

Just at this time, and in this connection it may be well to mention the fact, that only recently this same official directed the sending of a force of men to this same crossing, who without permission, changed the grade, and laid a new track running diagonally along Broadway from that point, on a slant, that threatens the public safety, and is likely to imperil life and property upon the slightest case of neglect, or of wilful mischief.

It appears a little peculiar, that this official, who never thought of the city council, just when he ought to have sought its permission before undertaking work that cannot be legally done without such permission, should be in such a hurry to address that body upon the present occasion. It may, however, only illustrate characteristics that are to be expected until very necessary experience has been gained.

This city has not forgotten its experience with the N. Y. and L. B. R. R. Company in the matter of the Henry street crossing. Advance offers of advice, or threats expressed from Long Branch, are worthy of only such notice as their merits may justify.

A Fish That Gives Paint.

The well known brown pigment called sepia is obtained from a ten armed octopus found principally in the Mediterranean and more especially at the head of the Adriatic sea, where it is caught by the natives for food.

The sepia is contained in a bag and is really the black fluid of which we have all read as being discharged by the creature to cover its escape. Some naturalists say that the fluid is brownish, which becomes more credible when we know that this is the source of sepia. The pigment is really a powder which dissolves in water. Its strength may be estimated by the fact that it will color 1,000 times its own bulk. When the octopus has been killed the sack or bag is removed and dried to prevent putrefaction. The sepia is treated with ammonia or caustic soda, washed and dried. It is one of the most durable of paints, except when fully exposed to the fierce rays of the sun, and an even surface can be obtained with it more easily than with most paints. Sepia has been obtained from a fossil cuttlefish thousands of years old and found to be quite good for paint.

The Change From Black to Red.

"See that little woman who just went out?" remarked a Fourth Avenue milliner to a customer. "Noticed that red hat, did you? Well, as a milliner and a person whose business it is to study the different characteristics of women, I have watched her for two years. It has been a kind of study of the 'evolutions of a widow.'"

"Two years ago she came to me, recently bereaved, and had me make her a hat of deepest black. She was broken hearted and declared she would never again take an interest in the pretty things that women like to wear. A year ago she came again."

"Don't you think I might have the least bit of white in my new hat?" she asked.

"Yes," I said; "I think you might," and the hat was made. Three months later she came for another hat, and she stood for a little touch of lavender. Next she had a big white plume, and last week I made her that red hat. It just shows what time will do in lifting up a heart bowed down."—Louisville Times.

The Releaser.

If he hadn't been a dreadful bore and the hour wasn't so late it is quite possible the lovely girl would have refrained from the exercise of a strategic scheme, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Hark!" she whispered as he paused in the midst of a long winded description of his camping outfit.

"What is it?" he whispered in return.

She smiled reassuringly.

"It's only papa. He must be oiling the releaser."

"And what is the releaser?"

"It's one of papa's ingenious schemes. Every night, at exactly 11 o'clock, he pulls up a brass chain that releases our brindle bull pup from his annex adjoining the kitchen; that's all."

And she laughed merrily. The caller glanced at the clock on the mantel. It indicated 10:57.

"I find I must go," he said in a slightly hurried manner. "And good night."

Punishment For Perjury.

Perjury is a crime more severely punished in Germany than in any other country in the world. Even an apparently trivial misstatement under oath carries a sentence of ten years in prison. Excepting murder, there are few crimes that carry as heavy a penalty as perjury. The German theory is that the entire system of jurisprudence rests on the respect for an oath administered under the forms of law and that this must be strictly guarded in order to secure the punishment of other crimes and insure justice in civil cases. Germany stands at one extreme and the United States at the other. Fewer people are punished in the United States for false swearing in the witness box than in any other country.—London Telegraph.

Hard Hit.

Lord Fitzfiddle, casting himself on his knees before Araminta, gave utterance to the following: "Oh, that I could snatch a pine from some primeval forest! I would sharpen the end with my penknife, dip it in the molten crater of Vesuvius and write upon the azure wall of heaven in letters of living fire, 'Araminta, I love thee!'"

Theory and Practice.

"Dinglebat has original ideas about family government. He says every home should be a little republic, where universal toleration prevails and every one has a voice in the government."

"Yes; his family is managed on that plan." But he and Mrs. Dinglebat have the same old wrangle every day as to who shall be president."

The Foolish Man.

"Huh!" growled the bachelor boarder. "Just as though one wife couldn't make trouble enough!"—Chicago News

NOISE.

Because half a dozen grasshoppers under a fern make the field ring with their importunate chink, while thousands of great cattle, reposed beneath the shadow of the British oak, chew the cud, and are silent, pray do not imagine that those who make the noise are the only inhabitants of the field; that, of course, they are many in number, or that, after all, they are other than the little shriveled, meager, hopping, though loud and troublesome insects of the hour.—Edmund Burke.

Shoes At Cost, Plus 5%

The Regal Shoe Co. Announces a New Policy That Will Shake Up the Shoe Trade

Regal Prices Are Now $3³⁵ to $5⁸⁵

Here is a letter from the Regal Shoe Company that will begin a new era in the shoe business. It will be an earthquake for the shoe trade, but, like other Regal innovations, a benefit to the public, in which purchasers of Regal Shoes will first share. No concern having a plant and organization less powerful than the Regal Company's could dare to so defy trade custom. But—

It Means Greater Variety and Greater Value in Regal Shoes Than Ever.

To Regal Agents and Regal Customers Everywhere:

Boston, February 1st, 1911.

The retail price of every shoe hereafter produced in our factories will be the manufacturing cost of that shoe, plus five per cent. commission and the cost of selling.

Except that we shall not "split" nickels, every price will be fixed exactly as it thus figures, regardless of whether it comes out in odd or even money. Thus, if the cost of any model, plus 5%, is $3.85, the price of that model will be $3.85—not $4.00, or any other figure. And this price will be verified and certified by chartered public accountants and stamped on the shoe at the factory.

This smashes the immemorial shoe-trade policy of building all high-grade shoes to fit certain arbitrary prices. The trade will, undoubtedly, rise in protest against our action, and call us "price-cutters." But like Regal innovations in the past, it will benefit Regal customers. In face of that fact we can disregard this protest as we have others.

This is NOT a price cut, although the result will be to give Regal Shoe buyers better value for price than ever before. Regal Shoes have always been priced at 5% above cost of manufacture and selling. But, according to universal custom, the prices were fixed BEFOREHAND at $3.50, $4.00, $4.50, etc.—and the shoes were built AFTERWARD to fit those prices.

Hereafter we shall regard the shoe as FIRST in importance and let the price fall where it will. Regal customers will therefore profit by numberless small savings represented in the new Regal plan. And in designing Regal Shoes we shall no longer be obliged to keep one eye on the shoe and the other on a fixed, arbitrary price at which it must be sold. We shall now keep both eyes ON THE SHOE, to the improvement both of style and of value.

Very truly yours,

E. Bliss
Managing Director
Regal Shoe Company.

Do You Realize What This Bombshell Letter Means?

This means an end of the arbitrary prices on shoes.

These arbitrary prices have for years been fixed on good shoes immovably at $3.50, $4.00, $4.50, $5.00, $5.50, and so on; each price always a half-dollar jump away from the next.

If a designer produced a new shoe which could properly be sold at, say, $4.30, the manufacturer had either to take something out of it to bring the price to $4.00 or to add extra and unnecessary expense merely to shove the price up to $4.50.

Thus you can see that under the fixed-price system the customer often had to buy and pay for more than was actually necessary. True, the difference was seldom large—20 to 30 cents at most—and true, too, that in Regal Shoes the full money's worth was always given. But, what the customer wanted was TO GET A SATISFACTORY SHOE—not to pay a certain price. Why should he be forced to pay in half-dollars if satisfaction could be given in dimes? Why must he pay $5.00 if all that he wanted could be had at $4.85?

Hereafter, as Mr. Bliss' letter states, every Regal price will be made to fit the shoe, not the shoe to fit the price. If the Regal Shoe-builders produce a style that can be sold for $3.85, then $3.85 will be the price. Nothing will be added merely to bring its price to $4.00, nor will anything be taken out to make its price $3.50. The customer gains both ways and the Regal style-makers now have a free hand, unfettered by tradition.

With this new freedom, and with the whole attention of the Regal organization fixed on standards of quality, regardless of the ups and downs of the leather market, Regal Shoes will more than ever be the best that money can buy.

A GEOLOGIC PHENOMENON.

Raised Beaches and Caves of the Island of Arran.

The island of Arran is one of those places on the west of Scotland where the geologic phenomenon known as a "raised beach" is very apparent. All along the coast there are evidences that the land has been considerably elevated at some period of the world's history. One of these proofs is the presence of caves of various sizes formed by the action of the waves in the past, but which are now well above the present high water mark. The farmers use some of the larger caves as shelters for sheep in stormy weather.

In a remote corner of the island one of these caves has been converted into a human habitation, where a family of several persons dwell in absolute seclusion. Their occupation is the gathering of whelks, an employment which is said to afford but a precarious livelihood. As the gathering of the shellfish can only be done at low water and as the fishers have no boat or other occupation, they have ample leisure to enjoy the pure air and bask in the sunshine.

Except for the drip from the face of the high rocks above, which is skillfully diverted, the cave is absolutely dry. The interior is shaped like a triangle, the floor forming the base. Save at the sides there is ample room to stand upright and move about inside. Besides the beds and cooking utensils, the cave contains many articles of various kinds, giving the interior quite a homelike appearance. The apologetic fireplace is some way back from entrance, through which the sunlight finds its way outside. — Wide World Magazine both cities. He believed in taking the bull by the horns.

COUNCIL GIVES $100 TO G. A. R.

Mayor Welsh said that Vice-President Brown had stated that his cars would carry people for one fare, and would see to it that the Public Service did the same.

After some further discussion in which Councilmen Berrien and Stanton took part in denouncing the imposition of two fares the matter was dropped, to await further developments.

Mr. Stuart offered a motion that the Clerk notify the Jersey Central Traction Company to remove tracks from Fourth street sidewalk.

The Street Commissioner stated the walk had been fixed up in good shape, and this was corroborated by Councilman O'Connor, whereupon Mr. Stuart withdrew his motion.

President Manhattan informed the council that Mr. Johnson, a representative of the M. & E. L. H. & P. Co., was present, and offered him the privilege of the floor.

Mr. Johnson said he was present at request of his company, but he did not know what was wanted of him.

Mr. Manhattan stated that his presence was desired in regard to wires on Stevens avenue and poor lighting service.

Mr. O'Connor, chairman of committee on light, told of the defects in lighting and of the danger existing by the high tension wires on Stevens avenue. He questioned Mr. Johnson thoroughly on all matters pertaining to the poor lighting system. He finally stated that the city would demand better lights, removal of wires on Stevens avenue, and the substation removed to southerly end of the city.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor the matter of five-cent trolley fare was referred to the Mayor and city solicitor to report at next meeting what progress they made.

Mr. O'Connor inquired of Mr. Berrien, chairman of finance committee, what progress was being made on bonds. Mr. Berrien said the bill to legalize bonds had been passed by the legislature, and that he had been unable to get in communication with R. M. Grant & Co., but would keep after them.

Mr. O'Connor brought up matter of dog ordinance, which he did not consider was applicable to this city. It was important some immediate action be taken regarding dogs, and he considered it necessary that solicitor remain until close of meeting.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor, the Clerk was instructed to notify the solicitor to draw ordinance that dogs shall be licensed, and present same at next meeting.

Bill of P. J. Monaghan, on sewer contract No. 2 for $1,116.00 was ordered paid.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor a public hearing on grade map of Portia street will be held on May 16, at which all interested are requested to be present.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor the council went into election for members of the Board of Health.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor, the members when elected are to draw lots for terms, one for one and two years each, and two for three years each.

After nominations and election the following were selected: Dr. E. H. Eulmer, T. C. Gelsinop, Joseph Wilson, Jr., and Joe A. Sexton.

On motion of Mr. Stanton, the clerk was instructed to ask the township committee of Sayreville, to select a date for conference on matter of light and water at the city line.

Mr. Berrien stated that there were some large water bills due the city from taxpayers who the city has dealings with in various ways, and that hereafter when bills are presented by these parties the water rent due would be deducted from their bills.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor, the city clerk and collector were requested to present report of amounts collected by them to the council.

Adjourned.

LEARNED ONE NEW THING.

Bishop Talbot tells of a sermon he preached in a Western settlement at which a local unbeliever had been persuaded to be present, much against his custom. He was afterwards asked how he liked the bishop. "Pretty well," said he; "and I learned one new thing. I learned that Sodom and Gomorrah was places. I thought they was husband and wife." —The Messenger.

SATURDAY, APRIL 22, 1911.

A Big Baby Farm.

What has been called the biggest baby farm in the world is situated at Moscow, and it is claimed that this institution shows an annual crop of some 14,000 babies, not to speak of that put out by a branch at St. Petersburg, which numbers 8,000. The Moscow Foundling asylum was founded by Empress Catherine II., and it is maintained, oddly enough, by a tax on playing cards. Servants in the red livery of the royal family guard its doors, and its accounts are carefully audited by the Russian treasury department. The buildings comprising this institution stand in a hollow square round a garden with trim lawn and trees, which forms a playground for the children. Youngsters of all sorts and sizes, from tender nurslings, who in the incubating rooms are just "gugling" into life, are tended by nurses and are as sure of good attention and wholesome food as any child can need. About fifty babies are received every day, and after four weeks the nurses take them to their own homes in the villages.—New York Tribune.

Opulence.

They numbered four. They absolutely exuded prosperity. The things which they ordered were such as to fill with envy the breast of the man at the next table engaged in consuming the most modest dish disclosed by the bill of fare.

The four were conversing—languid, plutocratic conversation. After awhile it turned to the question of money. Evidently they wanted to do something. How much money had they? One of the four took out his pocket-book and counted up a roll of bills.

"Oh, I have a hundred and forty," he said carelessly.

The second and third members of the party went through their pockets. "I have two hundred and fifteen," remarked one.

"And I have three hundred," said the other.

The fourth waved his hand grandly. "Never mind, you fellows," he said. "I'll lend you all you want."

Tenderly waiters bore the man at the next table out into the cold air. He will recover.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Thrilling Sport.

At Walkiki, the home of surfboating for pleasure, there is no dangerous reef, but in the south Pacific often the reef is two miles from shore and is exposed at low tide. The waves form almost on the edge of the reef and drop down upon the hard coral perpendicularly, covering the reef for the time being with about two feet of rushing water. The canoe that must jump this reef places itself before a wave, every one paddles for dear life, and if the boat does not touch coral, but is held suspended until a cushion of water rushes onward to receive it, the jump is successfully negotiated, the reef is crossed, and there is but a two mile paddle across the quiet lagoon to the sandy beach. If the bow of the canoe does touch the coral on the down leap there is a shattering of the dugout, and its occupants are sent flying in every direction. One might laugh at this at Walkiki, where there are no sharks, but not in the south seas.—Recreation.

Tons of Pins.

Nothing better shows the bigness of little things than the manufacture of pins. In England there are made each week between fifteen and sixteen tons of the small necessities, the materials being iron, steel and brass. The yearly production would amount to about 100 tons. The number of pins included in this great weight would make any ordinary figures seem insignificant—would, in fact, defy realization or comprehension. Germany also makes great quantities of pins, her production totaling about 144 tons a year. The United States makes great quantities of pins and imports many from England. Most of the latter country's output is manufactured in Birmingham by two firms, one of which has been in existence nearly a century and the other over a century.—Philadelphia North American.

He Didn't Complain.

Young Wife—This talk about men being so impatient when a woman is getting ready to go anywhere is all nonsense.

Friend—Doesn't your husband complain at all?

Young Wife—No, indeed. Why, last evening I couldn't find my gloves and had a long hunt for half a dozen other things, and yet when I was finally dressed and went downstairs to my husband there he was reading and smoking as calmly as if I wasn't half an hour late.

Friend—Well, I declare! Where were you going?

Young Wife—To prayer meeting.

SAVED HIS MOTHER'S LIFE.

"Four doctors had given me up," writes Mrs. Laura Gaines, of Avoca, "and my children and all my ends were looking for me to die, when my son insisted that I use Electric Bitters. I did so, and they have done me a world of good. I will always praise them." Electric Bitters is a priceless blessing to women troubled with fainting and dizzy spells, headache, weakness, constipation or kidney disorder, and gain new health. c. They' rran-money' ad.

How He Came Home

The Beginning and the End of His Sin

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

The street lay in shadow, for heavy clouds obscured the young moon. A clock in the distance struck 2, and down at the corner, where a broad avenue intersected the quiet street, a policeman swung on his heels and vanished down the lighted way.

Out of the darkness of the street there was evolved the shadow of a man that became substance when he had slipped into a dark alleyway, skillfully forced the door and entered a little hall. He locked the door behind him and turned on the faintest glimmer of light from his pocket lamp.

With a nod of satisfaction he found the stairs that led up to the first floor. He slipped a black mask over his face and mounted the steps. Under his feet ran the soft, thick carpet of a long hall. He knew this type of house—there should be a door front and back leading to the street and yard respectively—and calculated his getaways.

The narrow beam of his lamp found the door of the dining room, and he entered, closing it noiselessly behind him. The sideboard showed an array of rather old fashioned silver. He looked at it critically, weighing some of the pieces in his hand, all the time conscious that there was a certain familiarity in their outlines. Their recognition came as a blow in the face.

This was his mother's silver! What was it doing here? What had he done?

The stairs creaked ominously, and he shut off the light and slipped into the hall that he might be close to the rear door.

He could hear the soft rustle of a woman's gown and the light tread of slipped feet on the stairs. Then came her voice, anxiously low:

"Raymond!" she called softly.

That was his name, but he did not answer. Instead he seemed to shrink against the wall, and his hands covered his masked face.

"Raymond—ah, I thought perhaps it was Raymond. James said he would come back some day," she sighed and then uttered a slight exclamation of pain. There came a muffled, stumbling sound. "Oh, dear! My ankle again!" Then silence.

The man swept the mask from his face and crammed it in his pocket. He tiptoed down the length of the hall to the stairs, where a white object blurred against the darkness. He understood the situation at once. His mother had a weak ankle. She had sprained it once more and fainted from the pain.

With trembling arms he groped for and found her slender form and lifted her gently. Her soft hair brushed his cheek, and he gnawed his lips to still their quivering. Slowly he mounted the stairs with his burden and carried her into a front room where a night lamp burned dimly.

He could see that the last three years had aged her pitifully. Her face was worn into thin lines and deprived of its pretty color. Her gray hair lay in a heavy braid over her shoulder, and his lips touched it as he bent above her. Then her eyes opened wider and with unutterable joy in their depths.

"Raymond! It was you after all! You have come back!" she cried. "My son! My son!"

He knelt beside the bed and submitted his face to her tender scrutiny. She kissed him and crooned over him as if he was the baby she had worshipped. The three years since his disappearance from home had left their mark upon his countenance, and she tried to kiss the alien marks away.

"Your father will be so happy! He has always said you would come back," she whispered.

"Where's dad?" he asked huskily.

"He went to Albany this morning. He said he might return very late, so I did not sit up for him. It must be nearly morning. I don't believe he is coming. Tell me about yourself, dear. Why did you go? Your father did not mean to be so harsh with you. He would have forgiven you, Raymond."

The young man told her in broken sentences of his angry flight from home after the quarrel with his father, of his journey to the Yukon country, his unsuccessful search for gold, the long winters, the return by various stages. Now he was here.

He skipped all the period that had elapsed since his return to New York; how he had drifted around the great city confident that his parents were still living in the suburban town where he had been born. He did not tell her that little by little he had slipped on the downward path until his sense of honesty had been blunted so that at last he could enter the house of a stranger and steal his valuables. This was his first attempt—and he had entered the house of his own father!

She did not hear any of this as he stepped to and fro, deftly bandaging her swollen ankle, covering her with the silken quilt, administering a few drops of her favorite cordial as he had been wont to do when he was at home. At last he was sitting beside her once more. The gray dawn was sifting through the windows and showed his face softened and glowing. "When did you leave Springside?" he asked at last.

"A year ago. Your father felt that he would be nearer his business—and it was dull in Springside."

Raymond understood. They had come to New York, for there was a greater chance of seeing him if he should be there in that maelstrom of walls and strays from the world.

He asked after one and another of old friends. At last he spoke hesitatingly. "Elsie Dearborn—what has become of her, mother?"

Her hand pressed his. "Just the same as ever. She has been like a dear daughter to us. Why, Raymond, she is in the house this very moment. I forgot." She sat up in sudden excitement.

"Elsie here—in this house? I must go away, mother," he said, in a panic.

"No, no! You will stay. You must stay till your father returns. I thought you had come home for good," she wailed tearfully.

"I have, I have—if dad will let me—after he has heard my story. But I can't see Elsie—not yet. Don't ask me to." He hid his face in her breast, and she soothed him gently. "Hark! I believe I hear your father's step. Stay and meet him here," she pleaded. "I cannot, mother, dear. I must tell him something first, and then if he wants me to stay I will never leave you again. I shall come back before I leave the house, don't fear. I'll go down now and get it over."

He laid her gently down on the pillows and, slipping from the room, closed the door softly behind him. He blinked in the red light that suddenly flooded the upper hall, and then he stood stunned and silent before a small slim girl clad in dressing gown and slippers.

"Elsie!" he said after a long silence, during which her beautiful gray eyes had never left his face.

"Raymond, it is you!" she whispered. "Why, I thought it was your ghost—I have looked for you so long." Her voice quavered into silence, and she dropped her lips against her clasped hands.

He started down the stairs, his head bent dejectedly.

"Raymond!" the girl breathed sharply.

"Yes?" He turned toward her.

"Can't I go down with you—stand beside you when you tell him—shoulder to shoulder, the way we used to play when we were children?"

"Don't! You cannot understand. You wouldn't have anything to do with me," he groaned.

"Is it so bad as that?" she asked in an awed tone.

"Yes."

"Then you need me all the more," she said quickly, and then she was close behind him as he made his slow progress down the long hall to the library door, where a long finger of light shot through the crack in the doorway.

The elderly white haired man standing by the table looked up as the door pushed open. His dim eyes brightened, and he raised a hand to his heart.

"Raymond, my son!" he said, holding out his arms.

But the young man hung back. "Not yet, dad—not until I have told you something." He looked pleadingly at the girl, but she shook her head.

"I ought to know, too, Judge Ely," she said, with quiet dignity.

The judge nodded his head. "Tell us, Raymond, and be done with it. I want to embrace my son." His voice broke.

Raymond's head lowered, and his face reddened to scarlet. "It is soon told," he said despondently. "I've gone from bad to worse, and I didn't know this was your house—and I came here this morning—look!" He drew from his pocket the black mask and the electric lamp and laid them on the table.

"Mother heard me and came down. She sprained her ankle, and I carried her upstairs, and she recognized me. I will go away. Perhaps I can come back when I have done better." He turned toward the door.

Elsie was crying softly against his shoulder. His father's arms closed about them both. From above stairs he heard the loving voice of his mother calling to him. After that moment no one could shake Raymond Ely's belief in God's unutterable love.

"Think of how I entered your house, father!" he protested.

"The only thing that matters is that you came. How you came does not count," said his father joyfully.

The Doctor's Joke.

A physician who never goes out at night without leaving directions as to where to find him if wanted professionally was at a theater near Forty-second street recently with a friend. Just before the curtain went up on the second act an usher handed him a note reading: "Come to the office at once. Don't telephone. Come." The note was signed by a colleague, and the doctor lost no time in obeying the peremptory summons. Arriving at his destination, he was confronted by several friends, who coolly explained that he had been used to decide a bet as to the length of time it would take to cover the distance which he had traversed. The victim's anger was only slightly appeased when he was assured that the perpetrators of the joke knew no one else who was good natured enough to furnish the information looked for.—New York Tribune.

—AS AN—

INDUSTRIAL CENTER . . .

Its Location Should Appeal to Manufacturers.

Situated on Raritan Bay and at the mouth of the Raritan River, twenty-four miles from New York City, and sixty miles from Philadelphia, with one of the finest harbors in the State.

Its location should appeal to manufacturing industries, as with its four railroads and water facilities, shipments can be made economically to any part of the United States.

As a residential place South Amboy has no equal, and is very healthy. Its soil is sandy, and its land runs from the water-front with a gradual slope until it is 139 feet above sea level, thus affording excellent drainage. Home sites commanding an excellent view of the harbor can be had very low.

The Pennsylvania R. R., Central R. R. of N. J., New York & Long Branch and the Raritan River Railroad afford excellent transportation. The terminus of the Amboy Division, P. R. R. is here. The principal shipment is coal, and from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 tons are transported from the mines and shipped from the piers yearly.

The Jersey Central Traction Company and the Public Service Street Railway Company operate trolley cars through the city.

Besides the railroad yards, South Amboy has a paint works, two underwear factories, cigar manufactory, Terra Cotta Works, and Army and Navy Uniform factory, all in successful operation.

South Amboy has a sanitary sewer system, and water works, and besides private corporations furnish gas and electricity for light and power.

It has a Board of Trade who stand ready to lend assistance to reliable industries to locate in the city.
