On motion of Mr. O'Connor, the bids were referred to finance committee with city solicitor for tabulation.

Clerk read letter from C. E. Wilbert, Estate, contractor for flagging and curbing David street, between Stevens avenue and Broadway. It stated they had communicated with the largest quarries in an effort to obtain flag of four feet and over and would be unable to obtain any for a period of three or four months; that in figuring on the contract they had figured on stone two feet and over and requested that they be permitted to use this character of stone or that the council grant them a period of three or four months to secure flagging called for in the specifications notwithstanding to lay such flagging would mean a considerable loss to them. Mr. Stanton moved this be referred to the committee on streets.

Mr. O'Connor moved to amend that it be received and brought up under head of new business and properly discussed by the body as a whole. Motion as amended was carried.

A letter from the Chapman, Merritt Wrecking Co. was read. It threatened suit, providing the bill for $1,000 for relaying sewer pipe was not paid at once. On motion of Mr. Stanton, it was received and clerk instructed to the company the bill would be when they finished the work according to agreement, and not before.

Young, of the Standard Oil Co., sent a letter requesting that $387.50 for oil ordered last be paid.

O'Connor said the bill had been up, so that counsel could decide whether the county or city should pay a motion of Mr. O'Connor the

An ordinance to lay sidewalk on both sides of David street from Broadway to Rosewell street was taken up on second and third readings and passed, and ordered submitted to the Mayor for his approval.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor, the city engineer was directed to draw specifications for laying sidewalks on David street, between Broadway and Rosewell street.

Contract and bond of Mrs. C. E. Wilbert was accepted and filed.

On motion of Mr. Slover the issue of school bonds was awarded to Douglas, Fenwick & Co.

A note for $13,000 was ordered discounted in the First National Bank to meet payment on contract for rebuilding school, Mr. Slover voting against.

On resolution a note for $5,000 was ordered discounted at First National Bank to meet payments on Broadway improvements.

On resolution of Mr. Slover, a note for $2,000, for three months, was ordered discounted in anticipation of taxes.

The city treasurer's report showed balances as follows: City account, $755.45; sewer account, $10,312.92; Broadway, $93.49; Water, $756.59; which was received and ordered filed.

Mr. Stuart inquired if any action had been taken toward placing the Odium children in the Vineland Home. Mr. Pearce replied that arrangements were under way.

Mr. Pearce also reported that if settlement was not made at once in the Gomer—Stults case, he would proceed to have Stults locked up.

Mr. O'Connor reported that Broadway and Main street was in horrible condition, and suggested that the clerk communicate with the Public Service Railway Company, requesting that pavement be laid at once. Mr. Pearce reported that ordinance granting franchise for switch at this point would have to be submitted to the Public Utility Commission for approval.

Much discussion was had relative to the flag stone to be laid on David street. The contractor claimed it would take three months to obtain stone according to specifications, as it was not commercial size. Mr. George Bogart, a property owner on the street, spoke in favor of allowing the contractor to lay stone now there, sooner than wait three months, and thus have street torn up all winter.

Mr. Slover considered contract should be lived up to. It was finally decided that the property owners be notified by the clerk to meet with council on Thursday evening to discuss the matter.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor, it was ordered that clerk advertise for bids for laying concrete walk on David street between Broadway and Rosewell street.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor, the city engineer was directed to prepare lines and grades on Augusta street, between Stevens avenue and Rosewell street.

Mr. Stanton inquired of the clerk if Mr. Cosgrove had paid Collins & Gundrum for re-excavating sewer connections in front of his property, to which the clerk replied he had not. On motion of Mr. Stanton, the clerk was requested to communicate with Mr. Cosgrove requesting him to forward the bill to city clerk.

Adjourned to meet next Wednesday night, October 23.

BODY FOUND ON R. R. TRACK

Identified as Charles Reilly of This City—Not Known How He Met His Death, But Supposed to Have Been Hit by Train—Leaves Widow and Two Children.

On Tuesday evening the body of Charles Reilly was found lying in the center of the New York and Long Branch Railroad tracks about fifty feet from Augusta street. The discovery was made by the brakemen on a passing freight train, who notified Officer Ryan. Reilly had evidently been dead for some time before the freight came along, and it is not known what train caused his death.

His arms and one leg were broken, and he was badly cut about the face. Coroner Mason was summoned and the body was taken to his morgue. It was later removed by Undertaker J. J. Scully and then taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. John Kane, on George street.

The victim was 38 years of age and a plumber by trade. He was a well known local ball player in his youth, and had resided here all his life. Mr. Reilly is survived by a widow and two children.

The funeral services took place on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Mary's Church, Rev. Father Lane officiating. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

As the result of stealing a ride on a south bound freight John Kent, aged 37, of New York, had his head badly injured.

On Tuesday afternoon Kent says he hopped a freight train at Perth Amboy in order to make his way to Alenhurst, where his mother resided. While passing through this city on the top of a freight he was struck on the head by an overhead bridge on George street. Kent was picked up unconscious and carried into the New York and Long Branch Railroad baggage room. Dr. Haines was summoned and bandaged his head, which was severely cut.

The railroad company refused to take care of the unfortunate man, but Chief McDonnell directed that he be put on a train and taken to Alenhurst. The man was well dressed, but had evidently been drinking.

WALKED BACK WITH PLANK.

On complaint of Frank Fowler, foreman at H. C. Perrine & Son's clay works, Justice Mason on Saturday issued a warrant for the apprehension of William Ehrhart and Charles Cleveland, of Morgan. Constable Maxfield served the papers. The charge was that the defendants removed plank from a pier owned by the complainants, and appropriated them for their own use. The defendants admitted taking the plank, claiming they were informed that could be had for the taking.

The case was settled by the defendants paying costs, and agreeing to replace the planks on the pier again.

ALL READY FOR PARADE

Two Fire Companies and Hundreds of People from This City Will Attend the Firemen's Celebration at Perth Amboy next Thursday.

Next Thursday is firemen's parade day at Perth Amboy, and without doubt hundreds from this city will witness the event.

Interest is created in the affair from the fact that two companies from this city will be in line.

Protection Company will have forty men and guests in line, and their steamer, polished up to the top notch, will be drawn by a fine team of horses. They have had their uniforms spruced up by the tailor, and will present a good appearance. The Sayreville Fire and Drum Corps has been engaged.

Enterprise Hook and Ladder Company will also go to Perth. The boys have an entire new outfit, and will certainly cut a figure. They will take their beautiful truck, which will be drawn by handsome horses, and the boys will wear their new uniforms just furnished by George Green. The Mayor and council have promised to be their guests on this occasion. The Sacred Heart Drum Corps will furnish music along the line of march.

ORDERED OUT OF TOWN.

Bryan Carberry, of Passaic, and John Coughlin, of Jamesburg, came to this city last Monday for a friendly visit at Carberry's sisters'. Carberry soon lost, he claimed, $180 he brought with him and the two men were shipped out of town rather unceremoniously.

Complaint was made against the two men for disorderly conduct and they were arrested and brought before Justice Birmingham. Carberry claimed that he had lost $180 and had only 30 cents with him when arrested. The men were intoxicated at the time. As the men had no money to pay a fine, Justice Birmingham ordered them to get out of town immediately and Chief of Police McDonnell bid them farewell at the railroad station.

TROLLEY CAR STRIKES WAGON.

The 6:30 p. m. Jersey Central Traction Company car from Perth Amboy Saturday night struck a horse and wagon on the Bridge street road. The rig was on the trolley track, and the driver had no excuse for being there.

The horse was knocked down and rig badly damaged, but the occupants escaped serious injury. The trolley track at the point of collision is not a public thoroughfare. Had the driver kept to the county road, the rig would not have been struck.

CONFERENCE ON DAVID STREET FLAG

A joint meeting of the City Council and the property owners on David street was held in the City Hall on Thursday evening to discuss the flagging problem of that street.

The full number of the council were present as well as a majority of the property owners on the street. President Stuart called for a statement from Chairman O'Connor of the street committee in regard to the work.

Mr. O'Connor stated that some time ago an ordinance was passed to curb and pave David street between Stevens avenue and Broadway. The Wilbert Contracting Co., of Perth Amboy, were awarded the contract and after they had placed the flags on the ground, it was found that they were only two feet and over in length, whereas the specifications call for four foot flag. He said he thought the acceptance or the rejecting of the flags was entirely up to the property owners.

The representative of the contracting company who was present stated that his company had made a technical error in placing the small flags on the street and they were willing to live up to the contract but the procuring of the larger stones would necessitate three months' delay.

Timothy Sullivan stated that the city would not allow him to place a cement walk in front of his property and he thought that no privileges should be granted the contractors and they should live up to their agreement.

Messrs. Cornelius McGonigle, Chas. Roddy, R. C. Stephenson, W. B. Peppeler and W. P. Brophy, made short remarks regarding the question.

Counsellor Francis P. Coan objected to letting the contractors place small flag stone on the street, but said if they wanted to save money by placing in smaller flag stone they should make a concession to the city. The other gentlemen present agreed.

The representative then stated that for a concession they were willing to lay three feet and over flag stone, thereby losing a considerable amount on the proposition. The question of accepting or rejecting the contractor's proposition was voted upon and carried, 10 aye, 3 nays, one absent. At the next meeting of the council the contractor's agreement will probably be accepted, as the property owners seemed to favor it.

Welcome Pastor
On His Return

A public reception was tendered to Rev. F. F. Craig last Wednesday evening, on his return from the New Jersey M. P. Conference as pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church for another year. # M. P. CHURCH NOTES

Don't forget the famous oyster supper under the auspices of P. A. Stults' Bible Class on October 23.

The Sunday evening services, consisting of C. E. meeting, etc., were presided over by Ezra Clayton, all the services proving beneficial indeed.

Howard Bloodgood returned from the M. P. Conference at Canarsie, N. Y., which he attended as delegate, and filled his position of superintendent at the Sunday School.

Owing to the absence of the pastor, who was attending conference at Canarsie, N. Y., the regular morning service on Sunday was in charge of Henry Raynor, who delivered a very interesting exhortation.

The South Amboy charge had the honor of raising the largest amount for improvements during the year of any church in the New Jersey Methodist Protestant Conference, nearly $2,300 being raised. Adding the salary and conference offerings the total collections for the year amounted to $3,324.31.

The following names of deceased loved ones have been placed on the Memorial Roll of the Preacher's Aid Society: James R. Skimmions, Fred. i. Stults, Sr., Josiah Stults, Phoebe Stults, Peter L. ## Ibrahim the Ingenious.

Ibrahim, whose dusty history Dr. Hester Donaldson Jenkins of Columbia university has related in monograph, entitled "Ibrahim Pasha, Grand Vizier of Suleiman the Magnificent," was a child of destiny.

By birth a Greek, he rose from the estate of a slave to a position second only to that of the sultan himself, and the secret of his swift rise to power is subtly indicated by an isolated instance of his cleverness in playing upon his master's vanity. Soon after Suleiman's marriage the young sultan is said to have asked his grand vizier which of the two ceremonies was the finer, his own or Ibrahim's.

"There never has been a feast equal to my wedding," Ibrahim replied.

"Why?" asked the sultan, somewhat offended.

"Oh, my padishah," said Ibrahim, with intense modesty, "my wedding was honored by the presence of Suleiman, lord of the age, firm rampart of Islam, possessor of Mecca, lord of Damascus and Egypt, caliph of the lofty threshold and lord of the residence of the Pleiades, but to your festival who was there of equally exalted rank who might come?"

The man who makes a character makes foes—Edward Young.

POEM ON IRELAND.

By Benj. Greene, in competition with John O'Brien for the title of Irish Laureate.

Dear John O'Brien, your poem sublime caused me to open wide my eyes,

When you presume, my wings to prune by carrying off first prize. Your poetic fire, spurs my desire to enter in this race. If I can't get first, I'll try or bust at least for second place.

I wish to state, your poem is great on Ireland's bards and kings; Your gallant praise, of bygone days with soulful ardor rings. The poets grand of that dear land, both Goldsmith and Tom Moore. Have sung their lays in Erin's praise by Killarney's Tranquil shore.

Her warriors, too, both brave and true, take rank among the best. On field of gore, the wide world o'er they always stood the test. And well they fought and nobly wrought to set dear Erin free From bondage vile, to Brittain's Isle across the Irish Sea.

Brave Smith O'Brien, who's deeds still shine on history's truthful page Risked fame and life in deadly strife and foeman's awful rage. And other names, who suffered chains, which bound their bleeding feet, Like Emmet bold, who's life was sold by Armstrong's vile deceit.

There's men to-day, I'm sure would pay the price our fathers paid, In pain and strife, and precious life their fatherland to aid. God bless the men with tongue and pen for freedom bravely strive, The sacred fire, of pure desire in hearts is still alive.

There's Dillon brave, would die to save his land from tyrants' chain; And Sexton bright, is in the light with clear and brilliant brain. Those men abound, in logic sound their hearts are in the cause For native land, they take their stand and not for man's applause.

Be of good cheer, the time draws near my honest bard, O'Brien, Good men of brains, now hold the reins, soon Ireland's star shall shine. A nation free, then you and I shall wield the poet's pen, And write the lays, of coming days Old Ireland free again.

Prison Deputy a Suicide.

Frank J. Carlin, a State prison deputy, who shot himself with suicidal intent at his home on Lamberston street, Trenton, Saturday night, died early Sunday morning in St. Francis's Hospital, where he was taken in an unconscious condition. It is believed that his act was due to excessive indulgence in liquor. When he went home he told his wife he was going to bed and did not wish to be disturbed. Shortly afterward the woman heard the report of a revolver, and, rushing to her husband's room, found that he had fired a bullet into his head. Carlin went to Trenton from Pennsylvania three years ago and not long afterward became a State prison deputy. He was thirty-eight years old and leaves a widow and three children.

Mrs. Flagg entered his room about 9 o'clock to see if he was still asleep and found him dead.

Wire Grazes Autoist's Head.

A quarter-inch wire, stretched from tree to tree across the deeply shaded Circle road, in Third Ward Park, Passaic, stripped the top completely off an automobile and severely injured the owner, John J. Breslawsky, last Sunday evening. The cap on the radiator of the car was struck first by the wire, which then rebounded and completely demolished the glass windshield. Mr. Breslawsky, at the wheel, felt the wire at his throat, and, while unable to distinguish it, ducked his head sideways and managed to clear himself before he was beheaded. The wire then struck the braces supporting the covering and top, and as the machine was still going it tore the top completely off. The owner's three children were in the tonneau and received small cuts from the flying glass of the windshield. Mr. Breslawsky's throat was badly torn. An examination later showed that the wire was securely fastened to the trees and at a height which would cause it to strike any automobile passing. The police say it is the work of an automobile hater.

Murder Now Theory.

The police of Bayonne now consider the death of Lewis Lansbury, found crushed Monday in the elevator of the Knickerbocker Metallic Bed Company, of that city, a plain case of murder, though no clues have been found to help clear the mystery. Lansbury was night elevator man. Employees entered the works Monday morning to find his body at the top of the shaft, badly crushed. They presumed death had been accidental. The watchman said nothing out of the ordinary had occurred during the night when he was making his rounds.

W. L. Saunders, of Plainfield, has been selected vice-president of the National League of Business Men for Wilson and Marshall, and is selecting the personnel of the New Jersey officers of the league. The league is planning to conduct a party of 100 New York business men through the country as far as Denver, but probably will defer the trip until March 4, when, in the event of Governor Wilson's election to the Presidency, the members will attend the inauguration in a body and continue the trip South and West. Officers are planning to make the league permanent.

Prentiss Peppens His Withdrawal.

Claiming that a conspiracy had been entered into as a result of which he was induced to withdraw his nomination as a Progressive party candidate for Congress in the Third District, Mark O. Prentiss, of Metuchen, on Tuesday applied to the Secretary of State to have his petition reinstated. The request was the outcome of a meeting of the Raritan Roosevelt Club in Metuchen, at which there was a row and at which friends of Mr. Prentiss reached the conclusion that he had been unfairly treated. The facts as far as disclosed are that after receiving the regular Republican nomination in the district, Benjamin F. S. Brown, of Matawan, also secured the endorsement of the Progressive (Roosevelt) party. He and his friends are then alleged to have set about procuring the withdrawal of Mr. Prentiss, and it is in this connection that the charge of conspiracy and unfair methods were made. H. P. Matthews, secretary of Mr. Prentiss, who made the application, said he had not been fully informed as to the nature of the charges. The case will be referred to the attorney-general.

THE ANGEL O' MERCY

A Yarn Spun by an Old Salt

By F. A. MITCHEL

At the Sailors' Snug Harbor a number of old fellows, the youngest of whom could not have been less than seventy-five, were crowded around a fireplace endeavoring to brace themselves against the despondency of coming winter. Now and again a thin smoke would emerge from between a pair of shriveled lips, slowly make its way to the chimney and disappear up the flue.

"Some un spin a yarn, and let it be about sailin' in a warm climate," said one of the men, holding the palms of his bony hands to the flame to warm them. "We don't want no more o' them arctic yarns that cooled us off durin' the hot wave. We want sumpin' about the banana trade or the guano country. These yere winters is gittin' colder and colder with every birthday. Somehow the blood don't run as warm as it did when we was climbin' the rattlin's. Tom, give us that un about your adventure on the coast o' Africy."

IT LOOKED AS IF WHOEVER GOT THAT KNIFE WOULD LIVE.

The end of a plug of tobacco was produced from the pocket of one present. Tom bit off a chaw, tucked it back in his mouth where it wouldn't interfere with his narrative and began to mumble, every listener with his hand to his ear.

"It's only us old duffers that kin realize that as late as 1855 the slave trade was flourishin'. In 1852 I shipped in the Angel o' Mercy, brig rigged and pertendin' to carry a cargo o' Bibles to the coast o' Africy. She fitted at Boston, and the day we put out o' the harbor a number o' lean, long haired, hungry lookin' men was walkin' the deck. They was supposed by them that seen 'em to be missionaries.

"I thort it was all square till we got out to sea, when the missionaries throwed off their pious outfit and appeared as ordinary men. They was the owners goin' out to Africy, true enough, but for a cargo o' slaves instead o' a cargo o' souls, for by that time there was some prejudice agin the slave trade, and I dunno but that the law didn't allow it."

"Never mind the pious part of the yarn, mate," interrupted a grim old salt. "Git under way with the fightin'."

"Waal, we headed for the Kongo country, that's nigh on to the equator, and the sun stood right over our heads, pourin' down heat like the fiery furnace that the prophet Daniel walked in."

There was a perceptible change at this point in the appearance of the audience. They pushed back from the fire, and one man unbuttoned his coat.

"One night," the speaker continued, "we was lyin' at anchor in the Kongo river. The captain and most o' the crew and the owners had gone ashore to make a coral of blacks to bring aboard as slaves. Missionaries had been there before, and the owners put on the same clothes they wore the day we sailed, and each man took a Bible under his arm to make the niggers believe they was goin' to teach 'em United States religion. Durin' the voyage I'd been made third mate and was left on the ship in charge of six men to keep watch and see that no natives come aboard to loot the vessel.

"The moon was full and the night was hot. I sat out on deck in a wicker chair in my birthday togs, swingin' a big palm leaf fan."

There was evident satisfaction on the part of the audience at this part of the narrative, and the speaker was interrupted by such remarks as "Wish I was there now," "That's the climate for me," and "I feel like takin' off my coat." When quiet was restored the narrative was continued.

"Turdy soon I saw a black spot on the water and flashes in the moonlight. I knew the black spot was a canoe and the flashes were ears lifted out o' the water. Some one was rowin' and was headin' for the Angel o'

Mercy. When he came up I leaned over the gunwale and asked him what he wanted. He was a nigger and told me in broken lingo that he had decoyed a dozen of his friends to the bank and if I'd send a few armed white men with him he could turn 'em all over."

"I was young and ambitious to do sumpin' noble, so I puts the ship's guard into a boat and sent 'em to bring the niggers aboard. Of course I took a risk in leavin' the ship with only my own protection, but young fellers is all pluck and no sense, and I was one o' them kind.

"The boat hadn't got out o' sight before I saw a canoe put out from the shore and make straight for the Angel o' Mercy. There was six strappin' blacks in her, and every one had a paddle. I saw at once that a game had been played on us—that instead of niggers bein' decoyed my men was decoyed away from the ship to give the niggers a chance to loot her.

"There was a small gun on the port and another on the starboard bow, both kept loaded in case the ungrateful niggers, not appreciatin' the blessin's brought 'em by the Angel o' Mercy, should show their teeth. I sized up the time it would take for the canoe to reach me and, sechin' I had a few minutes, made one jump for the companionway and another down it. Gatherin' firearms, I got back with 'em as quick as I went down and carried 'em to the little four pounder on the port bow. The niggers acted as if they wasn't sure how many men there was aboard. They had seen a boatload leavin' the ship, but hadn't spoke the nigger that I got 'em away. So they didn't know how many was left. I yelled to 'em to keep off, and they stopped paddlin' and looked up cur'us like.

"I don't reckon they spoke any United States lingo. Anyway they didn't say anything; but, sechin' only one man on the ship, they commenced paddlin' agin, makin' straight for me. They had at least one gun they might have taken from some kind white man who had come all the way from a civilized land to buy ivory of 'em or teach 'em the gospel, for one of 'em sent a bullet singin' by my ear. I hadn't time to use the four pounder, which would have sunk their canoe if I could 'a' hit it, so I picked up a musket and, takin' straight aim for the hull of 'em—they all bein' in line-fired. I dropped one man and saw a paddle fly out of the hand of another, so I reckoned I'd put two of 'em out o' the fight. But I saw that it was too late to sink 'em with the cannon and I must shoot as many as I could before they reached the ship's side. I fired a couple more o' the muskets, droppin' another man, but in them days there was no repeaters, and I had no time to reload.

"The gangway had been raised, and they could only climb to the deck either by the anchor or bowsprit chains. This helped me, 'cause I didn't have to defend more'n one position. If I had they'd have taken me in rear. By quick firin' and sure aim I got rid of four out o' the six before they got any hold. Then I shot another comin' up the anchor chain and dropped him in the water. But one ugly black devil reached the bowsprit and I'd emptied my last gun.

"I tuk the barrel o' the musket I had last fired in my two hands and waited for the nigger to come for me. Intendin' to brain him with the stock. But he tuk care to spring for me when a rope was in my way, and the rope caught the blow instead of the nigger. In the clash the gun fell out o' my hands.

"We was two men, a black and a white, both stripped to the skin, that had to settle the dispute with a wrastle. The only thing on deck I could use was a dirk knife I'd picked up when I went below for arms, and that was back near the fo'castle companionway. The nigger gripped me, and I gripped the nigger, but I saw at once that he had the advantage of me, for he had oiled himself all over.

"I was mighty strong in them days, and I intended to git my arms around his middle and throw him overboard. I could 'a' done it if it hadn't been for his oiled skin. Howsomever, he wriggled like a lampner eel and got out o' my clutches. As bad luck would have it, the moonlight glittered on the knife lyin' on the deck, and he saw it. I saw him go for it. I made after him, caught him round the waist just as he got his fingers on it and pulled him away from it.

"It looked now as if whoever got that knife would live and the other feller wouldn't. He wasn't as strong as I was, but the oil on him made him the better man. I succeeded in gittin' between him and the knife and put my foot on it.

"I could never disremember that nigger as he stood off, his greasy face shinin' in the moonlight, lookin' at me like a jungle fiend. But there's another thing I don't want to disremember—the sound o' ears. The nigger and I both liste and heard a quick stroke, growin' louder with every stroke. The nigger turned and run like a bound / the side o' the ship. I picked up the knife, and just as he jumped over the gunwale I threw it and saw it stick into his side.

"What became of him I don't know, but in a few minutes the boat I had sent away reached me and the men came aboard. They had heard the firin', suspected treachery and pulled back as quick as they could."

"How long did your fight last?" asked a listener.

"From the first shot till I threw the knife—about five minutes."

"Some an tell us another such yarn," remarked an octogenarian. "This one has warmed me up like hot grog."

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1912.

If the voters of this district know where their interest lies they will vote this fall for the return of Hon. Thomas J. Scully to Congress. He has served in the House of Representatives only one year, and during this short period has accomplished more for his district than many have for their districts who have served years in Congress. Take our waterways for instance. Their importance has been more strongly brought before the House than ever before, and Mr. Scully has caused his fellow members in Congress to see the great necessity for their improvement. He will be enabled during another term to obtain appropriations proportionate to their importance, and this means a great deal for the future development of South Amboy as well as other sea-coast towns. His re-election will mean deep water from the ocean to our piers, and his return is of so much importance to our city, that a vote cast against him by any of our citizens will be a thrust at our progress and a retrogression of our development. South Amboy should make his vote unanimous.

The contractor who has charge of the excavation for the easterly abutment of the new county bridge across Cheesequake creek should desist at once the emptying of surplus dirt along the bank of the creek where the tide as it ebbs and flows carries tons of it into the channel of the creek, and it will be only a short time when all so dumped will be at the bottom of the creek and lessen the depth of the water. Efforts are being made to deepen this creek by government appropriations, and no contractor should be allowed to undo what the government has already done.

WOODROW WILSON'S CHIVALRY.

There is more chivalry in Woodrow Wilson's determination to cancel speaking dates while Theodore Roosevelt is in the hospital, than may appear to the casual observer.

It is true that President Taft, because of the proper dignity which he attaches to the Presidential office cannot go on the stump. It is true that Dr. Wilson, while Colonel Roosevelt should be incapacitated, would be the only speaking candidate.

Other things being equal Dr. Wilson would lose nothing by quitting the stump to have an advertisement if not unworthy advantage over his opponents; such an advantage as a man of his temperament would scorn to take.

But other things are not equal. What Wilson has said like what Taft or Roosevelt has said can be put into a photograph or circulated in a pamphlet without losing its logical force. He has said, as they have said, the strongest things that could be said for a given view of the situation. Actually all three men are showing themselves to the people, not to argue with the people, but to be personally judged by the electorate. For a time Roosevelt can do no more of this. Taft is doing it every few days, just as usefully as if he were making political speeches.

Now, the personality of Dr. Wilson is not known to the voters as is that of President Taft or that of Colonel Roosevelt. He has more to lose than they by not appearing. Yet as a matter of good taste he accepts this handicap, and the voters will honor him for doing so. It is a glorious thought that whether the next President shall be Roosevelt or Taft or Wilson, an American gentleman will be sitting in the White House for the next four years.—Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

There would seem to be an appalling silence in this city in regard to the coming election, and that there was only one candidate on whom the people, regardless of party, are not timid to express themselves, and that one is Hon. Thomas J. Scully—they all want him. The active "Bull Moose"ers are shouting out loud, but there is a stillness among voters relative to other parties and candidates that is enough to puzzle the experienced politician. What does it all mean?

Are you registered? Next Tuesday is the last day, 1 to 9 p. m.

For the first time in the history of local politics a campaign circular was circulated about town this week. As the names of all the local candidates of the Republican party are on it, it is presumed that party is responsible for its creation. It is doubtful whether such literature is profitable in small cities like South Amboy where all are familiar with the state of affairs. Heretofore there has always been a friendly rivalry among candidates for local office, but this circular will undoubtedly create a great deal of animosity, and stir up a more energetic fight.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT SHOT.

At eight o'clock last Monday night Theodore Roosevelt was shot as he was entering an automobile, on his way to speak at a mass meeting in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. The bullet passed through his heavy coat and through the manuscript of the speech he was about to deliver and lodged in his right breast, near the tenth rib, but did not reach a vital organ. Though bleeding from the wound he persisted in going to the hall and delivering a speech of more than an hour. His nerve and poise under these conditions were simply marvelous, and almost his first words after the shooting were: "It takes more than one shot to kill a bull moose!"

The assassin was John Schrank, of New York, who had been following him for a week intending to kill him. The man was instantly overpowered and arrested.

After delivering his speech Mr. Roosevelt was taken to Mercy Hospital in Chicago, where he now remains. Physicians say the wound is not serious and that he will recover.

SELLING BY TELEPHONE.

The telephone and newspaper are well known to be among the best mediums for selling in existence, but the telephone company itself cannot use the telephone and has to adopt a different means for getting new subscribers, while the newspapers use the telephone extensively for all purposes.

What the telephone company does is really pioneer work in opening up to others the means of communication with possible customers, as well as all the other uses to which it can be put.

The New York Telephone Review tells of a very successful advertising campaign the New York Telephone company conducted in Buffalo. A convincingly worded return postcard was sent to some 3,000 name on "prospect" cards and resulted in immediately securing 155 new subscribers who were listed in the Telephone Directory, just going to press. This was a little more than 5 per cent. of the business they went after in this way.

Of course there were a great many other contracts secured through the medium of newspaper advertising, canvassing and otherwise. Every new subscriber increases the value of the service to every other subscriber, just as the larger the circulation of a newspaper the more valuable it is to its advertisers.

ODD COURTS MARTIAL.

It is a rule in the British navy that when a ship is cast away or otherwise lost a court martial must sit in order to apportion the blame. Sometimes these courts really try and condemn those that are held to be responsible. At other times their duties are, from the very nature of the catastrophe, more or less nominal.

Thus, when the Serpent was lost off the Spanish coast, a court martial assembled and solemnly "tried" three ordinary bluejackets, the sole survivors, although they of course had no more to do with the error in navigation which led up to the catastrophe than the man in the moon.

A similar solemn farce was enacted after the loss of the Captain in the bay of Biscay, when 483 officers and men lost their lives. In this case a gunner named James May, one of the eighteen who escaped from the wreck, was the nominal "culprit." The verdict was that the loss of the ship was due to instability and faulty construction. This really amounted to a vote of censure on Commander Coles, the designer, but as he went down with the ungainly monster he had created he was beyond the reach of either blame or praise.

On another occasion a small "middy" of thirteen years of age was put upon trial, and, sure, it is said, a court martial assembled on a cat, which chanced to be the sole living thing found aboard a derelict frigate.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS.

"Little Miss Brown."

"Little Miss Brown" continues to draw large and highly amused audiences to the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, New York, where there have been "Brown matinees" attended by Browns en masse, and matinees at 4 p. m. to take care of high school girls who hold Miss Madge Kennedy in special admiration as a high school girl herself. One evening last week the proceedings were enlivened by the presence in the audience of Luke J. Minahan, proprietor of the Hotel Wendell, in Pittsfield, Mass., who suddenly awoke to the fact that the scene in which the first act of "Little Miss Brown" is laid is an exact replica of the office and lobby of his own establishment. Mr. Minahan at first was intensely surprised at the discovery, but as the scene progressed his gratification became apparent, and he soon was sharing in the general laughter at the interchanges of hotel sarcasm between the day clerk and the telephone operator, and the perplexities of little Miss Brown, who was denied lodging because she came to the hotel without escort or identification. Matinees of "Little Miss Brown," at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, are given on Thursdays and Saturdays.

"Little Women."

The advance sale at William A. Brady's Playhouse, New York, is such as to indicate that "Little Women" may remain in New York through the greater part of the current season, if not all of it. Tickets are in the box-office for all performances up to New Year's, and Mr. Brady has officially notified the public that by applying sufficiently far ahead it may secure the most desirable seats direct. Every effort is being made to keep the tickets out of the hands of the speculators, whose traffic has been very much lessened but not entirely obliterated by the aldermanic prohibition. The persons who still continue to sell theatre tickets have no hesitation in stopping men, women and even boys and girls on the street near the theatres where they operate and asking the pedestrians to "just step inside and buy a couple of seats for me." A surprisingly large percentage of the persons thus accosted consent to perform the service, and in spite of the watchfulness of the house attaches some tickets escape legitimate purchasers. For "Little Women," however, these will be refused at the door whenever detected. The Playhouse, meanwhile, is filled to its extreme capacity at every performance and the audiences are charmed beyond measure by the lifelike interpretation of Louisa Alcott's famous characters at the hands of the company assembled for this purpose. The production is remarkably complete in every detail, doing the utmost credit to Mr. Brady's discrimination and care. Three matinees weekly are given at the Playhouse—on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Geo. M. Cohan Theatre.

The sixth week of Mr. Geo. M. Cohan's appearance at his own theatre in his own play, "Broadway Jones," finds that popular player and his latest pen product enjoying a prosperity that finds expression in continuous house-full audiences. "Broadway Jones" is a delightfully humorous play presented by Mr. Cohan and his excellent company in an atmosphere that breathes love, laughter and happiness.

Gaiety Theatre.

The last two weeks of the long run of "Officer 666" at the Gaiety theatre is announced. The final performance of this popular farce is to occur on Saturday night, November 9. "Officer 666" began post duty at the Gaiety theatre in January last, and when it leaves that playhouse to fulfill long deferred dates in other cities, Augustin MacHugh's farce will have a record of 300 New York performances to its credit.

The attraction to follow "Officer 666" at the Gaiety will be Mr. John Cort's production of Frederic Chapin's farce, "C. O. D."

Astor Theatre.

"The Woman Haters" is in its last week at the Astor theatre where, on Monday evening, November 4, Messrs. Cohan & Harris announce Douglas Fairbanks in James Bernard Fagan's comedy romance, "Hawthorne, U. S. A." The sale of seats for Mr. Fairbank's engagement at the Astor will begin Thursday morning.

FORTUNES IN FACES.

There's often much truth in the saying, "her face is her fortune," but it's never said where pimples, skin eruptions, blotches, or other blemishes disfigure it. Impure blood is back of them all, and shows the need of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They promote health and beauty. Try them, 25 cents at all druggists.

ATHLETICS WALLOP

TOTTENVILLE A. C.

Bill O'Toole's warriors in full dress and war paint went to Tottenville on Saturday and in a rip roaring game brought home the scalp of the fast Tottenville A. C. The score was 2 to 0. Chief Atkinson was in great form and allowed the Tottenville warriors but three hits. The Tottenville tribe expected to carry off the booty as the contest was staged on their own hunting grounds. Rube Robedee, the crack mound performer for the Tottenville boys, was in fine shape and allowed the locals four hits, fanning twelve.

Ambrose Atkinson, the popular local twirler, was in the box delivering the goods which made him classed as the best pitcher in the county. Not only was he there with the pitching but he delivered a two base wallop in a pinch and brought in Borlund and Stratton with the winning tallies. By the way, Stratton was there with the goods, too. He got two hits, stole two bases and got some fine stops. Jack Higgins, however, stands in the limelight in that game. "Pluck" was the real hero of the contest. Twice he made catches which were the most spectacular ever seen on the Tottenville oval. Atkinson was given brilliant support and was great in the pinches. Twice, three men were on bases but he escaped without allowing them to score. Ten of Tottenville's players were left on the bases, none of them being able to slip across the pan with a tally.

NEPTUNES DEFEAT

SILVER LAKE FIVE

The Neptune A. C. came mighty close to losing on Saturday night when they stacked cards with the fast Silver Lake Five, but a game rally put them in the lead with two points when the bell rang. The score was 20 to 18 at the finale and 12 to 12 at the end of the first half. The score at both periods shows the going was very fast. Deegan, the husky guard was right on the job, getting two field goals. His guarding was also very conspicuous. Jimmie Cantlon got but one field goal but his floor work was excellent. Non Miller was the classy boy of the victors, getting four baskets. The visitors were fast and put up a good fight at all times. The lineup was as follows:

Neptunes	Silver Lake 5
Forwards
Miller	Smith
Cantlon	W. Walters
Center
Schwartz	G. Lintott
Guards
Deegan	Sullivan
Tuckerson	C. Lintott

Field Goals: Miller, 4; Schwartz, 2; Deegan, 2; Tuckerson, 1; Cantlon, 1. G. Lintott, 4; Smith, 1; C. Lintott, 3; Sullivan, 1. Time of halves—15 minutes. Referee—Egan.

Sport Dope.

Frank Kelly, who coached the High School football eleven, and played guard with Lafayette last year, has been transferred to Trenton. Kelly made many friends in this city who were sorry to see him leave.

Now what do you think of the Athletics? They went to Tottenville last Saturday branded as the champions of Middlesex County. They played the Tottenville A. C. who were branded as the champions of Staten Island, and brought home the bacon. Three cheers for Bill's bunch. They're all right.

Jack Higgins was "there" with some of his classy catches and deserves credit for saving the game at two critical stages. He got under Wagon's sure three base hit and by a great one-handed catch in deep center gained the plaudits of the crowd. Again in the seventh Pluck robbed Paugh of a nice hit by another flying grab. One South Amboy sport who saw the game claims he never saw any better catches made. He said they made some of those World Series catches fade away. Jack surely is some felder and if he wasn't so bashful we'd have his picture in the middle of this page.

Andy Borlund "came back" in that game and was death to base stealers, his throwing being almost perfect.

Murray was also there. He made great running catch in the fourth inning of Paugh's fly with a man on third.

The Delaney boys each helped themselves to a hit and both were class in the fielding branch of the game. "Della" played short with all the grace of a Wagner.

There was no basketball game on Tuesday night, the game being postponed until the following night on account of the registration in the hall.

WEEKLY LETTER TO FARMERS.

(By F. R. Stevens, Agriculturist, L. V. R. R.)

The apple crop this year has taught us valuable lessons. In the first place, there seems to be a tremendous crop over the entire country, but the quality in general is poor. I have met in the last two or three weeks many buyers of apples, and they say that they are not touching anything but thoroughly sprayed orchards. It is some consolation to the men with whom we have been working for the last two years, and who have begun to spray their orchards, to have a market for their product as a result of proper care of their trees.

But another lesson that has been taught us is that spraying and pruning is not all there is to the growing of an orchard. In many of those that have simply been sprayed and pruned the apples are comparatively smooth and free from worms, but they are small and do not command the best prices. This has been due to two things, lack of tillage and lack of proper thinning. It is one of the most difficult things in the world to get the Eastern farmer to thin his fruit properly. It has been reported to me within the past week that one of our largest peach growers gave instructions that all fruit should be thinned so that a six inch ruler could be placed between the individual sets on trees and that in order to enforce this rule he discharged two or three foremen and his superintendent and hired new ones who would do exactly as he said.

The wisdom of this rule is very clear this year. If our orchards, generally, had been judiciously thinned out, early in the season, of two-thirds of the apples that were left to mature, the one-third remaining would have supplied the market. Because of their high quality they would have commanded a higher price, and more real money would have come into the hands of the fruit growers today than is coming in under the present system. This is where the Western apple grower has beaten us. Early in the Summer a leading agriculturist of the West went with me over our line and in comparing the orchards here with those in his home country, he prophesied correctly as to what would happen, and I so stated in one of my weekly letters.

It is too late now, of course, to do any more than get all we can out of the present enormous crop, but it is time to make some definite plans and resolutions for next year.

Why He Was Brusque.

When Daniel Webster was secretary of state he visited England, and while in London the American minister took him to call upon Lord Brougham. They found the nobleman immersed in business, and his reception of the distinguished American was exceedingly brusque and indifferent. The minister was naturally very much mortified, and, asking Webster to excuse him a moment, he drew Lord Brougham aside, when the following whispered conversation ensued:

"My lord, do you know who Mr. Webster is? He is secretary of state of the United States."

"Why didn't you say so?" was the reply. "I thought he was that confounded fellow who made the dictionary and turned the English language upside down."—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

A Real Patriot.

General Ramsay Polts, praising patriotism at a dinner in Chicago a few years ago, said:

"I like to hold up as a patriotic example young St. Hoskins."

"St. once decided to enlist. He burned with a desire to serve his country. So he applied at a recruiting office and was duly punched and prodded, trotted up and down, jumped over chairs and tables, etc."

"Then came question time. All sorts of questions were fired at St., and his answers were most satisfactory. Then came the stern inquiry:

"Have you ever served a jail sentence?"

"N-no, sir," St. stammered; "but," he added hastily, "I'd be very glad to do a medium sized one if it's necessary."—Los Angeles Times.

SCHOOL BONDS PREMIUM $569

Several Bidders After the $40,000
Issue—Notes Discounted to Meet Improvements—Sidewalk
Flagging - Progressing — Other Business.

At meeting of the City Council on Tuesday evening bids were received for the issue of $40,000 five per cent school bonds. Douglas, Fenwick & Co. were the highest bidders offering a premium of $569 for the whole issue.

Present—Mayor Welsh, Councilmen Manhattan, O'Connor, Slover, Stanton and Stuart; Clerk Mack, Solicitor Pearse, Engineer Mason, Treasurer Perrine, Street Commissioner Connors and Collector Sutliff.

Minutes of previous meeting were approved as read.

The clerk read notice of bids for the $40,000 school bonds and proceeded to open same. They were:

Douglas, Fenwick & Co.,—par, accrued interest, and premium of $569.
First National Bank—par and accrued interest.

Well, Roth & Co., par, accrued interest and premium of $505.

Harris, Forbes & Co.,—par and accrued interest and premium of 100.-291.

R. M. Grant & Co.,—par, accrued interest, and premium of 100.718.

Keene, Taylor & Co.,—on issue of $40,000 4½ per cent. bonds, par, accrued interest and premium of 103.-14. This bid was withdrawn on request of representative, owing to error in rate of interest.

Altwater & Wells,—par, accrued interest, and premium of 101.37.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor, the bids were referred to finance committee with city solicitor for tabulation.

Clerk read letter from C. E. Wilbert, Estate, contractor for flagging and curbing David street, between Stevens avenue and Broadway. It stated they had communicated with the largest quarries in an effort to obtain flag of four feet and over and would be unable to obtain any for a period of three or four months; that in figuring on the contract they had figured on stone two feet and over and requested that they be permitted to use this character of stone or that the council grant them a period of three or four months to secure flagging called for in the specifications notwithstanding to lay such flagging would mean a considerable loss to them. Mr. Stanton moved this be referred to the committee on streets. Mr. O'Connor moved to amend that it be received and brought up under head of new business and properly discussed by the body as a whole. Motion as amended was carried.

A communication was read from Enterprise Hook and Ladder Co. requesting that exemption papers be granted to William Albaugh, as he had served seven years as fireman.

On motion of Mr. Manhattan, the communication was received and request granted.

An invitation from Enterprise Hook and Ladder Company was read, inviting the Mayor and Council to be their guests at the parade to be held in Perth Amboy on October 24. On motion of Mr. Stanton, it was received and invitation accepted.

A communication from the Board of Education was read, stating that $13.-000 was needed to pay contractor on alteration to school building. On motion of Mr. O'Connor, it was referred to committee on finance.

The clerk read letter from Fire Chief Segrave stating that the old hook and ladder truck had been moved to new location, and that 400 feet of hose and one nozzle was needed. On motion of Mr. Manhattan, it was referred to committee on fire.

A letter from the Chapman, Merritt Wrecking Co. was read. It threatened suit, providing the bill for $1,000 for relaying sewer pipe was not paid at once. On motion of Mr. Stanton, it was received and clerk instructed to notify the company the bill would be paid when they finished the work according to agreement, and not before.

C. E. Young, of the Standard Oil Company, sent a letter requesting that bill of $387.50 for oil ordered last June be paid.

Mr. O'Connor said the bill had been paid up, so that counsel could decide whether the county or city should pay it. On motion of Mr. O'Connor the communication was received, and that the matter be properly adjusted.

The following bills were ordered paid:

A deduction of $12.19 for outage was made from the electric light bill.

An ordinance to lay sidewalk on both sides of David street from Broadway to Rosewell street was taken up on second and third readings and passed, and ordered submitted to the Mayor for his approval.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor, the city engineer was directed to draw specifications for laying sidewalks on David street, between Broadway and Rosewell street.

Contract and bond of Mrs. C. E. Wilbert was accepted and filed.

On motion of Mr. Slover the issue of school bonds was awarded to Douglas, Fenwick & Co.

A note for $13,000 was ordered discounted in the First National Bank to meet payment on contract for rebuilding school, Mr. Slover voting against.

On resolution a note for $5,000 was ordered discounted at First National Bank to meet payments on Broadway improvements.

On resolution of Mr. Slover, a note for $2,000, for three months, was ordered discounted in anticipation of taxes.

The city treasurer's report showed balances as follows: City account, $755.45; sewer account, $10,312.92; Broadway, $93.49; Water, $756.59; which was received and ordered filed.

Mr. Stuart inquired if any action had been taken toward placing the Odium children in the Vineland Home. Mr. Pearse replied that arrangements were under way.

Mr. Pearse also reported that if settlement was not made at once in the Gomer—Stults case, he would proceed to have Stults locked up.

Mr. O'Connor reported that Broadway and Main street was in horrible condition, and suggested that the clerk communicate with the Public Service Railway Company, requesting that payment be laid at once. Mr. Pearse reported that ordinance granting franchise for switch at this point would have to be submitted to the Public Utility Commission for approval.

Much discussion was had relative to the flag stone to be laid on David street. The contractor claimed it would take three months to obtain stone according to specifications, as it was not commercial size. Mr. George Bogart, a property owner on the street, spoke in favor of allowing the contractor to lay stone now there, sooner than wait three months, and thus have street torn up all winter.

Mr. Slover considered contract should be lived up to. It was finally decided that the property owners be notified by the clerk to meet with council on Thursday evening to discuss the matter.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor, it was ordered that clerk advertise for bids for laying concrete walk on David street between Broadway and Rosewell street.

On motion of Mr. O'Connor, the city engineer was directed to prepare lines and grades on Augusta street, between Stevens avenue and Rosewell street.

Mr. Stanton inquired of the clerk if Mr. Cosgrove had paid Collins & Gundrum for re-excavating sewer connections in front of his property, to which the clerk replied he had not.

On motion of Mr. Stanton, the clerk was requested to communicate with Mr. Cosgrove requesting him to forward the bill to city clerk.

Adjourned to meet next Wednesday night, October 23.

BODY FOUND ON R. R. TRACK

Identified as Charles Reilly of This City—Not Known How He Met
His Death, But Supposed to Have Been Hit by Train—Leaves
Widow and Two Children.

On Tuesday evening the body of Charles Reilly was found lying in the center of the New York and Long Branch Railroad tracks about fifty feet from Augusta street. The discovery was made by the brakemen on a passing freight train, who notified Officer Ryan. Reilly had evidently been dead for some time before the freight came along, and it is not known what train caused his death. His arms and one leg were broken, and he was badly cut about the face. Coroner Mason was summoned and the body was taken to his morgue. It was later removed by Undertaker J. J. Scully and then taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. John Kane, on George street.

The victim was 38 years of age and a plumber by trade. He was a well known local ball player in his youth, and had resided here all his life. Mr. Reilly is survived by a widow and two children.

The funeral services took place on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Mary's Church, Rev. Father Lane officiating. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

HIT ON HEAD BY STREET BRIDGE

As the result of stealing a ride on a south bound freight John Kent, aged 37, of New York, had his head badly injured.

On Tuesday afternoon Kent says he hopped a freight train at Perth Amboy in order to make his way to Alenhurst, where his mother resided. While passing through this city on the top of a freight he was struck on the head by an overhead bridge on George street. Kent was picked up unconscious and carried into the New York and Long Branch Railroad baggage room. Dr. Haines was summoned and bandaged his head, which was severely cut.

The railroad company refused to take care of the unfortunate man, but Chief McDonnell directed that he be put on a train and taken to Alenhurst. The man was well dressed, but had evidently been drinking.

WALKED BACK WITH PLANK.

On complaint of Frank Fowler, foreman at H. C. Perrine & Son's clay works, Justice Mason on Saturday issued a warrant for the apprehension of William Ehrhart and Charles Cleveland, of Morgan. Constable Maxfield served the papers. The charge was that the defendants removed plank from a pier owned by the complainants, and appropriated them for their own use. The defendants admitted taking the plank, claiming they were informed that could be had for the taking.

The case was settled by the defendants paying costs, and agreeing to replace the planks on the pier again.

ALL READY FOR PARADE

Two Fire Companies and Hundreds of People from This City Will Attend the Firemen's Celebration at Perth Amboy next Thursday.

Next Thursday is firemen's parade day at Perth Amboy, and without doubt hundreds from this city will witness the event.

Interest is created in the affair from the fact that two companies from this city will be in line.

Protection Company will have forty men and guests in line, and their steamer, polished up to the top notch, will be drawn by a fine team of horses. They have had their uniforms spruced up by the tailor, and will present a good appearance. The Sayreville Pipe and Drum Corps has been engaged.

Enterprise Hook and Ladder Company will also go to Perth. The boys have an entire new outfit, and will certainly cut a figure. They will take their beautiful truck, which will be drawn by handsome horses, and the boys will wear their new uniforms just furnished by George Green. The Mayor and council have promised to be their guests on this occasion. The Sacred Heart Drum Corps will furnish music along the line of march.

Ayers—Levandusky.

Miss Mary Levandusky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Levandusky, of this city, and John P. Ayres, of Rahway, were married Wednesday afternoon at St. Mary's Church, Rahway. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Samuel Ayres, of 22 Seminary avenue, Rahway.

ORDERED OUT OF TOWN.

Bryan Carberry, of Passaic, and John Coughlin, of Jamesburg, came to this city last Monday for a friendly visit at Carberry's sisters'. Carberry soon lost, he claimed, $180 he brought with him and the two men were shipped out of town rather unceremoniously.

Complaint was made against the two men for disorderly conduct and they were arrested and brought before Justice Birmingham. Carberry claimed that he had lost $180 and had only 30 cents with him when arrested. The men were intoxicated at the time. As the men had no money to pay a fine, Justice Birmingham ordered them to get out of town immediately and Chief of Police McDonnell bid them farewell at the railroad station.

Birthday Party.

The various societies of Christ Church will hold a birthday party in the Parish House on Thursday, October 24, at 7:30 p. m. A program of entertainment has been prepared, and refreshments will be served. All the members of the Parish are cordially invited.

TROLLEY CAR STRIKES WAGON.

The 6:30 p. m. Jersey Central Traction Company car from Perth Amboy Saturday night struck a horse and wagon on the Bridge street road. The rig was on the trolley track, and the driver had no excuse for being there.

The horse was knocked down and rig badly damaged, but the occupants escaped serious injury. The trolley track at the point of collision is not a public thoroughfare. Had the driver kept to the county road, the rig would not have been struck.

CONFERENCE ON DAVID STREET FLAG

A joint meeting of the City Council and the property owners on David street was held in the City Hall on Thursday evening to discuss the flagging problem of that street.

The full number of the council were present as well as a majority of the property owners on the street. President Stuart called for a statement from Chairman O'Connor of the street committee in regard to the work.

Mr. O'Connor stated that some time ago an ordinance was passed to curb and pave David street between Stevens avenue and Broadway. The Wilbert Contracting Co., of Perth Amboy, were awarded the contract and after they had placed the flags on the ground, it was found that they were only two feet and over in length, whereas the specifications call for four foot flag. He said he thought the acceptance or the rejecting of the flags was entirely up to the property owners.

The representative of the contracting company who was present stated that his company had made a technical error in placing the small flags on the street and they were willing to live up to the contract but the procuring of the larger stones would necessitate three months' delay.

Timothy Sullivan stated that the city would not allow him to place a cement walk in front of his property and he thought that no privileges should be granted the contractors and they should live up to their agreement.

Messrs. Cornelius McGonigle, Chas. Roddy, R. C. Stephenson, W. B. Pepper and W. P. Brophy, made short remarks regarding the question.

Counsellor Francis P. Coan objected to letting the contractors place small flag stone on the street, but said if they wanted to save money by placing in smaller flag stone they should make a concession to the city. The other gentlemen present agreed.

The representative then stated that for a concession they were willing to lay three feet and over flag stone, thereby losing a considerable amount on the proposition. The question of accepting or rejecting the contractor's proposition was voted upon and carried, 10 aye, 3 nays, one absent. At the next meeting of the council the contractor's agreement will probably be accepted, as the property owners seemed to favor it.

Welcome Pastor On His Return

A public reception was tendered to Rev. F. F. Craig last Wednesday evening, on his return from the New Jersey M. P. Conference as pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church for another year. A large number of members of the church and friends were present to give the pastor and his family a hearty welcome.

Peter Albert Stults acted as master of ceremonies, and in a neat address welcomed the pastor and his family back, which was responded to by Rev. F. F. Craig. After some singing, reminiscences, and sociability, refreshments were served. A fine donation was left for the parsonage.

MEETING OF TRUSTEES OF CHRIST CHURCH FOUNDATION

A meeting was held in Christ Church Home on Wednesday, October 16, at 2 p. m., when the following were elected trustees: Mrs. F. S. Conover, Rt. Rev. John Scarborough, D. D., L. L. D., Rev. H. M. P. Pearse, Mrs. W. D. Dale, Miss Garnett, Miss Caroline Conover and Mr. Richard Stevens. Mrs. F. S. Conover was re-elected president; Mr. R. Stevens, treasurer; Miss Caroline Conover, secretary.

All the reports showed that the Home is in a flourishing condition.

THE OYSTER SUPPER.

The time is approaching for the Oyster Supper to be given by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the basement of the church on John street. ## OLIVER PUTS JACK TEN BROECK AWAY.

Short bouts was the order at the stag given by the Lotos Club in Goodwill Hall, Perth Amboy, Tuesday evening.

The main bout between "Luke" Oliver, of Perth Amboy, and Jack Ten Broeck, of California, was decidedly short, hardly lasting more than a minute. Some hard blows were given and received by both men, and one of Ten Broeck's jabs sent Oliver wabbling to the ropes. He came back, however, but with more caution. A punch, backed by his full weight, was delivered by Oliver. It seemed to lift Ten Broeck off his feet and he fell crashing to the floor, his head striking with awful force. He seemed stunned and was counted out by Referee Floyd Barnett. Ten Broeck had to be carried to his corner and it was several minutes before he came back to earth.

Will Satty, of Tottenville, and Al. Minkler, of Perth Amboy, started to box six rounds in the semi-final, but Satty was knocked around like a feather, never attempting to come back. Minkler put him out in less than a minute.

Johnny Jauderup and Jimmy Christensen, both of the Danish-American A. C., of Perth Amboy, wrestled fifteen minutes in the opening prelim. Both did good work, the match being a draw.

Jimmy Smith, of Bayonne, also known as Jimmy McVeigh, of Newark, nussed up Young Laffey, of Staten Island in a four round prelim. Although Laffey received terrible punishment, he was game and came back for more each time he was floored. In the third the bell saved Laffey, who was down when it sounded, and owing to an injured arm, he quit.

Bill Handerman, of Fords, put Frank McCoy, of Perth Amboy, out in short order. Handerman was too fast for McCoy.

Jack Harris, otherwise known as Young Gradual, showed his superiority over Young Dubrelzy, of Staten Island, in a four round go. They went the four, but Harris had the best of Dubrelzy all through the bout.

Harry Gillespie, sporting editor of the Police Gazette, acted as referee in several of the bouts. E. Constantine O'Brien acted as time keeper.

The next show will be held on Apr. 22, when Nifty Hudson, of Staten Island and Johnny Carroll, of Perth Amboy, will box in the semi-final.

The stag on Tuesday last was the second held by the re-organized Lotos Club and proved a complete success. A large crowd of members were present and enjoyed the card fully.

MIKE MAZIE TO MEET JOE HONAN

At the Next Stag of the Permo A. A., Monday Evening, April 15.

The bout in which more interest is centered than has been in any since the boxing game has flourished in this vicinity, will come off on Monday evening, April 15, at the Permo A. A., in Perth Amboy, when Mike Mazie, champion lightweight of Staten Island, and Joe Honan, the "fighting waiter," step into the squared circle to prove which is the better man.

Will clever Mike check the waiter? That is the leading question. Honan has sent many an aspirant to boxing honors on the "knockout route" and opinions are divided as to who stands the better chance. At any rate I'm going to be at the ringside when the big event comes off.

Owing to a sprained shoulder, Kid Clemens will be unable to meet Kid Bender as had been scheduled, but Matchmaker Joe McNulty has arranged for Young Ginger, of Brooklyn, to fill Clemens' place with Bender, and a good bout is expected.

In addition to these two interesting matches, a card of four fast preliminaries has also been arranged, and the members are promised one of the treats of the season.

On Monday, April 22, as a special attraction, Harry Ramsay will meet Freddie Hicks, of St. Paul. This will be a special stag and several good prelims and a fast semi-final are also on the bill.

BASKETBALL AND DANCING.

This Saturday evening at K. of P. Hall, the Neptune A. C. will play basketball with the National Turn Verein, of Newark, one of the fastest basketball teams in the State. The players are from one of the best athletic clubs in Newark. The Neptunes have had previous experience with these people. There will be dancing before and after the game, to music furnished by McNulty's orchestra. Game called at 9 o'clock.

On Tuesday evening, April 16, the Neptunes will play the Sterling A. C. of South River. This is one of the strongest propositions the Neptunes ever tackled. This is the long looked for match. Great rivalry exists between both teams, and the manager of the Sterlings has pocketed $10 that his team will win. A big crowd of rooters will accompany the South River boys. Game will be called on the minute of nine o'clock. Dancing before and after the game. The Neptunes expect a big crowd. There has been much talk about the big battle for a long while, so be on time, and enjoy both game and dance. The admission will be the same as usual. The Neptunes will play basketball until 11 p. m. after prevents.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS.

Henry Miller's Greatest Hit.

The big seating capacity of the Liberty Theatre in New York is proving inadequate for the accommodation of the record-breaking audiences attracted by Henry Miller's big hit, "The Rainbow," now rapidly approaching the third month of a run that will continue for beyond the present season. Mr. Miller has produced a great many brilliant successes, but no play in which he has appeared since he became a star has ever struck the big note of popular appeal that is sounded in "The Rainbow." The Thomas play is certain to be Henry Miller's starring vehicle for three years or more after it has run its course on Broadway.

The secret of "The Rainbow's" extraordinary success undoubtedly lies in the singular charm and beauty woven into the scenes of the play in which the father and his little girl are the chief characters. The hearts of an audience are deeply touched by the father's fight to guard his little maid against the influence of the people who had been his closest friends before the sunny morning in May when his unknown daughter walked into his bachelor apartments and brought a big, wholesome interest into his lonely life. These beautifully written and exquisitely played scenes tug at the heartstrings of auditors, and bring men and women back to the theatre a second, third and fourth time to see the story of "The Rainbow" unfolded by Mr. Miller and his superb supporting company.

As the father in "The Rainbow," Mr. Miller is giving the most delicately shaded stage portrait he has ever created on the American stage. He makes the role of Neil Sumner live and breathe—makes it a big, human character with all the faults and all the fine qualities of a real man who is as lovable as he is human. Even the most hardened theatregoer cannot escape the realism of the big scene of the play when Mr. Miller as the father, is telling his little girl goodbye. It is a scene that rings true, and in which Mr. Miller's great acting ability is shown to wonderful advantage.

Gaiety Theatre.

The popularity of the police force of New York City has been materially increased since the advent of Augustin MacHugh's melodramatic farce, "Officer 666" at the Gaiety Theatre. This blue-coated arm of the law is one of the biggest laughs that has been furnished Broadwayites for a long time. For eleven weeks now he has been trailing a mysterious picture thief, and notwithstanding the fact that the crook is still at large, Gaiety theatre audiences are finding many thrilling moments and numberless heart throbs while watching the development of the plot, the crux of which is a battle of wits between the watchful guardians of the peace and a gentleman Raffles with a predilection for the annexation of other peoples' property without the usual business formalities.

Midnight Matinee.

Immediately after the regular Saturday evening performance of "45 Minutes From Broadway" at the Geo. M. Cohan theatre, Mr. Cohan and his company will give a special midnight matinee of this music play, the gross receipts of which will go into the treasury of the Green Room Club. The event was suggested by Mr. Cohan who is the president of the organization. The "45 Minutes From Broadway" midnight matinee is scheduled to begin at 11:30 p. m. this Saturday night.

Geo. M. Cohan Theatre.

Blanche Ring will open her Spring engagement at the Geo. M. Cohan theatre, New York, Monday evening in her new musical comedy, "The Wall Street Girl." Miss Ring has been touring the large cities in this since early last fall and will use it as her starring vehicle next season, her route having already been booked.

"The Wall Street Girl" is a musical comedy in three acts by Margaret Mayo and Elyar Selwyn; Lyrics by Hapgood Burt and the music by the late Karl Hoschna and various others. The story centers around Jennima Greene, daughter of a Wall street broker. She has been brought up in mannish fashion and is interested in a business career. When her father turns down a Nevada gold mining proposition Jennima has a "hunch" that the mine is the real thing and takes a half interest. She takes a still greater interest in her mining partner and from then on becomes distinctly feminine.

Among Miss Ring's songs are "Deedle-Dum-Dee," "I Should have Been Born a Boy," "I Want a Regular Man," and "Every Day." Harry Gill, who has been with Miss Ring for three seasons, is featured with her and plays the comedy role of James Greene, a Wall Street broker. Among the principals are William P. Carleton, Clarence Oliver, Charles Winninger, Will Rogers, Maude Knowlton, Florence Shirley and Cross and Josephine.

Gus Sohke has staged the musical numbers and Miss Ring is said to be surrounded by an exceptionally attractive aggregation of girls.

Grand Opera House.

Geo. M. Cohan's celebrated comedy, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," will be the next attraction at Cohan and Harris' Grand Opera House, New York. Wallingford, with his patent covered carpet tack scheme, will begin a fortnight's engagement at that popular West Side New York theatre, Monday, April 15.

The secret of the wonderful success of this play is that its central character presents a type of man who flourishes in almost every town and hamlet in America, and while Wallingford, at first view, is a bit of a rogue, his rehabilitation is so complete and definite that the impulse to forgive him is very human indeed.

Then, too, there is a fascination in watching the development of this plot of breezy satire on American commercialism that is positively epidemic, and its long run in New York City is unimpeachable evidence of its worth as clean, convincing entertainment and a lasting tribute to the author whose genius created it.

"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" will be presented at the Grand Opera House by the identical company that interpreted it during its 14 weeks run at Cohan and Harris' theatre on Broadway.

Brady's Playhouse.

It is within a fraction of three quarters of a year since "Bought and Paid For" was produced at William A. Brady's Playhouse, yet there is no cessation of popular interest in this comedy drama, as manifested by the audiences which continually crowd the theatre to repletion. This entertainment has been conducted along lines which are unique in several respects. For example, no second company has been organized to exploit it elsewhere, as is so common a custom in recent years, and the entire original cast still is rendering the play, namely, Marie Nordstrom, Julia Dean, Dorothy Davies, Frank Craven, Charles Richmond and Allen Atwell. It is a suggestion to Mr. Brady's managerial acumen that all the members of this group have been re-engaged for next year, and the fact possibly may be taken also to indicate that the run of "Bought and Paid For" at the Playhouse will not terminate with the present season. It certainly is unusual to find a play with so long a stay to its credit still drawing such audiences as to require extra matinee performances for the accommodation of the overflow. Such, however, has continued the demand for admission to Mr. Brady's Playhouse that since last October there has been but one week when the Broadhurst work was represented less than nine times—Holy Week. The resumption of "extra" Thursday afternoon performances now has made these as regular as they were prior to the finale of the Lenten term.

ARE MICROBES IN YOUR SCALP?

It Has Been Proved That Microbes Cause Baldness.

Professor Unna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabouraud, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the sebium, which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the growth of hair being revived.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair roots, tighten and revitalize the hair roots, and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statement with our own personal guarantee that this remedy called Itexal "93" Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently help to restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by aiding in making every hair root, follicle, and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of coloring pigment throughout the hair cells.

We exact no obligations or promises—we simply ask you to give Rexall "93" Hair Tonic a thorough trial and if not satisfied tell us and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain it only at our store—The Rexall Store.

Geo. W. Jaques, 181 Broadway.

Lewis Appointed Vice Chancellor

(Crowded out of last week's issue.)

Vivian M. Lewis has been appointed vice-chancellor by Chancellor Walker. Mr. Lewis's term as State banking and insurance commissioner does not expire until April 15, when he is to be succeeded by Professor Henry Jones Ford. He was appointed to that office while he was still serving as clerk in Chancery. He continued to hold the commissionership when he was the Republican candidate for Governor in 1910 and was defeated by Woodrow Wilson.

Mr. Lewis is a native of Paterson, where he was born in 1869. He is an attorney and counselor-at-law and was formerly a newspaper reporter.

Chancellor Walker is a Democrat, and when he was promoted as the result of the elevation of Chancellor Mahlon Pitney to the United States Supreme Court bench, there was an effort made to create an additional vice-chancellor, with the expectation that with two vacancies to be filled a Republican and a Democrat would be named. The plan failed in the Legislature, after the necessary bill had passed the Senate. The suggestion for another vice-chancellor had been made by Chancellor Walker.

Mr. Lewis has served three terms as a member of the Legislature, from 1898 to 1900 inclusive. He was the majority leader the last year of his term as an Assemblyman. He has been most popular during his long term of public service.

The salary of a vice-chancellor is $10,000 per year and the term is seven years. Mr. Lewis's salary as banking commissioner is $6,000 per year.

BOGARDUS AND HENDRICKSON.

(Crowded out of last week's issue.)

Governor Wilson has seen fit to deny reappointment to Dr. Obadiah C. Bogardus, of Keyport, president of the State Board of Assessors, and to confer the office upon Dr. Isaac Barber, of Warren County.

Concerning the new appointee we know nothing except that he is the brother of the State Senator from his county.

But of Dr. Bogardus we know a great deal. He is the member of this board who broke up its long practices of holding its meetings in secret and denying the public an inspection of its records, which it turned over to the agents of the railroad companies for their private use, and he is the man who put backbone into the fight, before George L. Record was a member, to increase the valuations on railroad property.

Both the court's and the board's records show that when the Hudson Board of Taxation, on behalf of the people of this county, demanded to inspect the papers in the office of this department, Mr. Bogardus voted for pitiless publicity, while Charles E. Hendrickson, whom Governor Wilson reappointed this week, cast his ballot the other way.

Mr. Hendrickson also appeared in court as volunteer counsel for the board when mandamus proceedings were brought by Merritt Lane, in the name of Mark M. Fagan, in an effort to drag these records to light, an action which called out of the Supreme Court one of the most sweeping and gratifying decisions in favor of the public that that tribunal ever handed down.

Since then Assessor Bogardus has steadfastly continued to vote for the equalization of taxation and against the privileges which the railroads enjoyed. It is a misfortune to the State, no matter who his successor may be, that he was not reappointed for a second term.—Hudson Observer.

Not Lucky.

Jones—What a lucky fellow you are, Brown! You always seem to catch your train with such ease. You never rush up at the last moment, like most of us. Brown—You make a mistake, my dear fellow. My misfortune is really worse. I never catch my proper train. You always see me waiting patiently for the next.—Pearson's Weekly.

Captains of Ocean Liners.

The captain of an Atlantic liner receives little more than $50 for taking a ship worth $5,000,000, valuable cargo, 2,000 passengers and a shipment of specie across 3,000 miles of the worst sea in the world.

ART OF POISONING

Toxicology Made a Record in the Seventeenth Century.

SECRETS NOW HAPPILY LOST

It Was In Trying to Rediscover Them That Sainte-Croix, the Accomplice of the Notorious Mme. de Brinvilliers Met His Tragic Fate.

The basis of most poisons in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries was arsenic. It was extremely easy to procure, the taste was easy to hide, and until Marsh's test was discovered about a hundred years ago its traces were difficult to discover. In the seventeenth century toxicology reached heights that it has never since attained. The laboratories of the poisoners in France and Italy contained secrets happily lost today.

The preparation of the poisons used during the reigns of Louis XIII. and XIV. may be briefly described. An animal was doctored with a dose of arsenic. After death the liquids of the body were carefully distilled, and the resultant was of extreme virulence, being composed of the virus of arsenic and the alkaloïds of decomposition. When the animal thus killed was credited with a bodily venom the distilled liquid was a concentration of three poisons instead of two. For this reason the food was the favorite subject of experiment. This was the poison used by Mme. de Brinvilliers. Against it medical skill was almost helpless.

The list of monarchs whose deaths were attributed by popular gossip to the effect of poison is a long one. Catherine de' Medici was a known poisoner, surrounded by poisoners, and her two sons, Francis II. and Charles IX., were probably hurried to their end by the administration of drugs as well as by their feeble state of health.

There are some grounds for the assertion that Louis XIII. died of poison. His mother, Marie de' Medici, was said to be the greatest poisoner of her age. The comment in Paris was that the king was well or ill as he agreed or quarreled with the queen mother. The state ministers ran desperate risks. Richelieu suffered from many curious illnesses. He knew his danger and took every precaution. Mazarin's death cannot wholly be explained by natural causes. The death of the sister of Charles II. of England is also a matter of mystery.

The chief accomplice of Mme. de Brinvilliers and perhaps actually the instigator of many of her crimes was Gaudin de Sainte-Croix, than whom a more sinister scoundrel does not cross the pages of the century.

He was sent to the Bastille, liberated and met his death before Mme. de Brinvilliers herself was brought to trial. The accounts of his end are conflicting and illuminating. According to one of them, Sainte-Croix was endeavoring to discover a poison the emanations alone of which would be able to kill. He had heard of the poisoned napkin with which the young Dauphin, elder brother of Charles VII., had wiped his face while playing at tennis and the contact of which alone was sufficient to kill. Then there was the gossip about the gloves belonging to Jeanne d'Albret, which had been prepared by one of the Italian poisoners in the train of Catherine de' Medici, a crime which was never brought home to its instigators. The secrets of these poisons had been lost, and Sainte-Croix wished to find them.

There came to pass one of those strange events which seem rather to be a punishment from heaven than an accident. At the moment when Sainte-Croix, leaning over his stove, watched his fatal mixture reach its highest state of intensity, the glass mask which covered his face and preserved him from the mortal exhalations which escaped from the liquor became unfastened and dropped off.

Sainte-Croix fell to the ground as if struck by a thunderbolt.

After the death of Sainte-Croix Mme. de Brinvilliers took flight and found a refuge in London and afterward in the Netherlands. Her arrest was affected by stratagem, and she was brought back to Paris to stand trial. The most damaging testimony against her was that of the tutor, Bralnecourt, who had been in a measure her unwilling accomplice. In one part of his evidence the episode must have suggested to Dumas one scene between D'Artagnan and Lady de Winter described in "The Three Musketeers." Mme. de Brinvilliers was condemned and a full confession of her crimes was wrung from her by the application of the torture of the water. She remained seven hours in the torture chamber and she avowed all her crimes, but denied that she had any accomplices.

The trial, torture and execution of Mme. de Brinvilliers served as a useful lesson. Poison did not disappear, but its practitioners were taught to curb their malevolent enthusiasms. The pursuits of astrology and alchemy waned for a time to reappear in the next century in the richest fruition in the person of that astonishing arch impostor, Cagliostro.—Bookman Review of "Mme. Brinvilliers and Her Times."

SATURDAY, APRIL 13, 1912.

The sidewalks and curbing on Broadway are greatly out of grade and line, left so to please the respective property owners when the street was flagged and curbed some years ago. Now it is very evident, if we desire Broadway to look like a street after it is paved, that all walks must conform to grade and all curbing to line, and it is to be hoped that the property owners will willingly comply to the lines prepared by the city engineer.

On page six of this issue will be found the financial statement of the city for the years 1910 and 1911. No report was made in 1910, and thus on January 1, of this year it was necessary to cover two years. The finance committee, of which A. H. Slover is chairman, decided the only way to overcome the neglect of the past was to engage some persons to go over all accounts and prepare the statements. Messrs. William M. Emmons and Frank Scully were given the work on contract. They found a difficult job before them, owing to the system of keeping accounts, but after many weeks of laborious work, they unraveled the situation, and balanced up accounts. The report is complete and will prove interesting to taxpayers.

MRS. ELLEN O'BRIEN.

Mrs. Ellen O'Brien departed this life on Good Friday night, April 5, at the home of her son, Michael J. O'Brien, Broadway, after only a brief illness. She was 72 years of age.

Mrs. O'Brien came to this country twenty-eight years ago, and settled in this city. Her husband died about six years later. She is survived by five children, viz: Mrs. Michael O'Connor, of Wakefield, N. Y.; John O'Brien, of England; Mrs. Mary Higgins, Humphrey and Michael J. O'Brien, of this city.

The funeral took place from St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock on Monday morning, when high mass of requiem for the repose of the soul was celebrated by the Rev. Father Lane. Interment was made in the parish cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. John and Joseph Quinlan, Thomas Conway, Patrick Anderson, Henry Duggan and Michael Leonard. M. J. McCarthy was funeral director.

The War Department has served notice on the Board of Freeholders that two openings of fifty feet each are desired on the Woodbridge Creek bridge. A hearing will be given shortly in New York. Manufacturers have complained that the present opening is too narrow.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Sunday afternoon, April 7th, Mr. E. C. Williams, of Perth Amboy formerly of this city and active as an official member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, addressed the meeting. The address made was greatly appreciated by those present. It was a good, strong Gospel talk to railroad men. The subject used was "Pharo, the Railroad King, and Moses, the poor Man's Friend."

Rev. F. F. Craig, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church, will address the meeting Sunday afternoon, April 14th. He will give a good, strong address on the Gospel. Special musical program. Miss Beatrice Logan, of Perth Amboy, and Mr. William Anderson, of the local association, will render special selections.

Baseball practice has been called for this Saturday afternoon, the 13th, at 2 o'clock, on Stevensdale grounds.

The Board of Freeholders has decided to build a new concrete bridge at Keasby on the Perth Amboy-Kensby road. An examination made this week by Freeholder Kerr proved that the present structure is worn out and unsafe for travel.

CARD OF THANKS.

The undersigned hereby extend their sincere thanks to all friends who kindly assisted them during the illness and at the burial of their son John; also to those who sent carriages for conveyance to the cemetery.

MR. and MRS. EDWARD DEWAN.

Athletic Notes.

Captain Orr, of the baseball team, returned home on Monday after his visit in Buffalo. His presence in the lineup is expected to strengthen the team for to-day's (Saturday) game with the New Brunswick team.

"Pete" Bloodgood, last year's left fielder, accompanied the team to New Brunswick Saturday. "Pete" is a good rooster and tried to get the umpire's "goat," but it didn't work.

Boice made a good showing in the pitcher's box on Saturday at New Brunswick. He allowed less hits than Smith, the New Brunswick pitcher, and if he had had good support, would probably have won the game.

After the High School lost the game at New Brunswick, our third baseman tried to drown his sorrow in an apple pie. He risked missing the train to get it.

The new baseball uniforms arrived last Saturday night in time for the game at New Brunswick. Some class to our boys now.

To-day (Saturday) is the second regular High School game. S. A. H. S. vs. New Brunswick H. S., on Star's Field, as a preliminary to the Athletics' New Brunswick-Catholic Club game. R-e-v-e-n-g-e!

Kwillinski was the High School star at New Brunswick last Saturday. Five put-outs, three assists, and three hits out of three trips to the bat, is going some. Batting and fielding percentage 1.000. He also stole two bases.

The mascot is surely a "hoodoo." "Willie" used to be a good mascot but he can't "come back."

a distance of about 100 miles. This waterway will be not less than 6 feet deep at low tide. It will connect all of the important seaside resorts along the coast and will be of tremendous value to the farmer and manufacturer. The State is committed to the projected deeper waterway, or ship canal, across the State. Such a canal would materially decrease freight rates, and would mean an increase in shipment and afford an adequate market for the produce of both farm and factory. The legislature has also authorized the appointment of a commission to buy the right of way for the proposed canal between Baritan Bay and the Delaware River, with the intention that the State shall present the site to the United States Government whenever Congress shall signify its intention to construct the canal. The commission has been appointed and has begun its work, and an appropriation of $500,000 has been made to carry out the work.

AN EASTER HOUSE PARTY

Some of the Guests Voted It a Great Success

By VIRGINIA LEILA WENTZ

The region of northern New Jersey is extremely beautiful. There are rolling hills, some of them approaching the dignity of mountains. There are splendid lakes, some of them closed in between the hills producing scenery to catch the eye of an artist.

There are country places that are veritable palaces, for many of the wealthiest and most fashionable New Yorkers have built them for their summer homes.

The most famous of all these localities is Tuxedo, where are gathered many whose ancestors were prominent when the state of New Jersey was a colony of King George III.

It was Easter week and Mrs. James Fenton was giving a little house party in one of these beautiful homes.

April was still weaving its birthday garments, spring's coronal of blossoms remained yet folded buds and song birds were not quite ready with their richest song.

But it promised to be a prodigal spring. In the woods the bloodroot and anemone were in bloom and the violets were peeping forth from their protecting leaves.

Now and then a cardinal or scarlet tanager would flash from the cedar trees. And in Mrs. Fenton's flower beds yellow daffodils, the white narcissus and blue hyacinths made sweet places.

Of course Mrs. James Fenton had gathered together all sorts of men, from the up to date man with a fad for motor science, talking grandiloquently of lubricators, radiators and

"Do you remember the white violets in the myrtle bed by the old spring?"

An expression of tender remembrance flitted over the girl's face, but she answered, with cold precision: "That must have been long ago. And I have a poor memory."

"Humph!" ejaculated Miss Chase to herself, scenting a romance of by-gone days. "And who would have suspected it?"

A heavy rain came on that night and was the beginning of a two days' deluge. It was hard on the house party. That dreadful gulf between luncheon and 5 o'clock may become impossible even to a fascinating bridge. There were many who yawned.

Although it had been Mrs. Fenton's express purpose to bring Ormsby and Molly together, never once had she received the gratification of finding them alone. And Miss Chase watched in vain for the progress of her romance.

On the second day of the rain Molly was lying in a great cane chair reading, half screened by palms, out on the empty side porch. The dampness didn't take her hair out of curl, and she liked it. Mrs. Fenton happened to spy her and, like the kindly little woman that she was, gave Ormsby the hint.

Molly smiled rather enigmatically as he approached and gave expression to an easy commonplace or two, then her eyes dropped a moment to the open book on her knees. It was a volume of Bliss Carman's poems.

"Rather pretty, don't you think?" she murmured, handing him the volume and indicating the poem beginning:

Make me over, Mother April,
When the sap begins to stir—

She could think of nothing else to say, her heart was thumping so. And silence might lead to melodrama, a thing above all others that she hated.

"Look here," Ormsby said, closing the book gently, "this is the very first chance I've had, Molly, and there are some things I've been waiting to say to you for eight years."

There was a pitiful curve to the girl's lips, but her eyes smiled mockingly.

"Indeed?" said she.

"Ah, don't let us fence, little woman." The man's voice was almost a cry. "Life is so short that once in awhile surely we can afford to be blunt."

"Can we?" broke in the girl. "I believe we can." Her soft eyes suddenly looked like a purple black cloud that has in its heart the forked lightning. "Well, then, before you tell me anything let me speak. Eight years ago I was more of a child than a woman, and I broke our engagement, Tom, because—she moistened her dry lips—" somewhere there had stolen in upon me the childish fancy that you had engaged yourself to me simply because you knew I loved you so."

"Ah," broke in Ormsby hotly, "that was only an unreasonable sensibleness that came between us, love. Now that you are a woman, you must surely know better."

"Yes," she answered simply; "I do. But when I received your wild, incoherent note a week after we'd separated, when you told me you'd married your cousin—well, all the sun seemed to have been stolen from the day and the moon and the stars from the night. That's all. Now, because it was my fault in the first place, I've done my duty. I've made my confession. Of course I was too proud to grieve long for another woman's husband, so at present you owe me no debt."

There was an icy hauteur in her voice which the trembling of her lips belied.

"I was true to her, dear, while she lived—indeed, at least," said the man reverently.

Tom Ormsby had a generous heart, and he never thought of his poor wife without a feeling of remorse for ever having felt harshly about the bonds that bound them. "But she's been dead now for nearly two years, and you've been traveling in Europe with your aunt for nearly three and—"

"We only arrived the week before Easter," said Molly casually, and then, changing her tone, "There is a child, is there not, Tom?"

Ormsby leaned toward her, his face transfigured with adoration.

"There is a little girl, and we call her Mollie."

He could say no more for a second. Then he crossed to Miss Hargraves' side, put his hand beneath her chin and lifted the oval face till her eyes looked into his.

"Sweetheart," he added huskily, "I would like nothing better on earth than to give her to you. But you'd have to take me too. Could you? Would you?"

Ah, the old mesmeric entreaty of his voice! She longed to throw herself into his dear, big arms and tell him that never, never once in all these years, though she had fought hard against it, had she forgotten him, that nowhere else in the whole world but with him could happiness be found.

He was wrapping her around with the old, old spell.

She made an effort to get out of her silence, but she found herself rooted to the spot as one is sometimes in dreams. A tide of rich, young blood surged over the delicate face and made the man's heart throb with incredible joy.

"Would you, dear?" he pleaded again, bending slightly over her.

Molly did speak finally, rising calmly and reaching for the book. And she said a wonderfully clever thing. Considering the fact that Miss Chase was at that moment curiously strolling, but to the side porch, both the remark and the action were apropos:

"I know you'll like Carman's poem, and if the sun comes out tomorrow I'll read it to you down by that little colony of white violets."

The next day the sun came out.

"Ah! DON'T LET US FENCE, LITTLE WOMAN."

pumps, gradometers, magnetos and odometers, to the rather old fashioned man with a fad for the camera boringly au fait on iris diaphragms and wide angle lenses, the telephoto attachment and "hypo" and "solio" print.

Somewhere in between these two poles of contemplation came the ordinary, wholesome, every day man. Tom Ormsby, a handsome young widower, was one of them.

But although he was exceedingly nice to all his hostess' feminine guests, it could not be said that he was especially attentive to any one. At least not on the first day.

"Heigh oh!" yawned Miss Chase, in dressing robe and slippers as the maid brushed out the tawny lengths of her tresses that first night. "Well, tomorrow is another day. We'll see if we can't wake him up a bit tomorrow."

Miss Chase was a gay, enterprising beauty, all unused to the dull sensation of ineffective charms. And to her particular way of thinking Tom Ormsby seemed the only eligible man worth while in Mrs. Fenton's collection. He was a widower, but what of that? They always made the best husbands, did they not? So she said to herself, "Tomorrow."

However, when tomorrow came, so, also, did another guest. Miss Chase met her on the staircase as she was going up to her room after a little chat with her hostess. There was nothing unusually pretty about her, yet instinctively Miss Chase turned to look after the ascending figure.

"Who is she—your new guest?" she asked of Mrs. Fenton a little later.

"Molly Hargraves, a dear old school friend of mine, just back from the other side. You'll like her lots; everybody does." And Mrs. Fenton was off to attend to some of her numerous duties of hostess.

That afternoon while most of the guests were playing bridge Mrs. Fenton, Miss Chase, Miss Hargraves and Tom Ormsby strolled off for a little ramble through the woods.

"At the top of that slide of rock," said Ormsby to his hostess, pointing ahead, "there used to be a little colony of white violets. I'm going to look for them now."

He sprang up the slaty embankment. "Just as they were long years ago," he exclaimed, "bring back a cluster in his hands. He divided the flowers between the two. As he handed them to Molly, Miss Chase boarded him."

M. P. CHURCH NOTES

The Junior C. E. attended in a body the L. F. L. meeting at the M. E. Church last Thursday.

The pastor attended two of the Good Friday services at the Christ Episcopal Church.

The prayer service last Thursday evening was appropriate to the Crucifixion of Christ.

An interested congregation greeted the pastor Easter Sunday morning and with the decorations of flowers and birds with the ideal weather made the Resurrection sermon and service impressive indeed.

After the fine weather of Easter morning, the rain was quite a disappointment to many, interfering, as it did, largely with Sunday School and Easter exercises. However, the program was carried out with an extra fine recitation of 68 verses by Miss Edna Leonard, which was rendered in fine elocutionary style. Good services the entire day.

The increase in the annual offering for General Home Missions on Easter was over one-third.

Mr. Stephen Smedly and wife, of Glassboro, members of a former charge of the pastor, were Easter visitors to the parsonage and attended all the services and both addressed the Sunday School and took part in other services. Both are eminent Christian workers in their home church.

The pastor in his personal solicitation to the parsonage fund has met with liberal responses from those who are members and others who are good friends of the church. This is a much needed enterprise. It is hoped all will help.

Mrs. Sallie Petty led a fine spiritual C. E. service last Sunday evening, at which Mr. and Mrs. Smedly, of Glassboro, spoke.

The C. E. Convention of the M. P. Conference will be held at Allenwood, May 8. Mrs. A. H. Hawes has been selected to read a paper. Delegates will be elected later.

Next Sunday morning the Second Quarterly meeting will be held at which time the experience meeting, Love Feast, Communion service, Baptism of children or adults, and reception of members will be attended to. Let there be a good attendance.

Each Sunday brings increased enthusiasm and interest in the services, and new faces.

Next Sunday will be the Sunday School's offering for the parsonage fund. An effort is being made by the classes to have a nice offering. Let us keep up the good work.

(Crowded out of last week's issue.)

A "fireside campaign" has been undertaken by the Committee of Railroad Managers who are in controversy with the locomotive engineers on the subject of wages. Pamphlets containing the demands of the men and the answer of the railroads are being sent broadcast throughout the territory affected.

The railroads' pamphlet is addressed to all railroad employees, railroad shareholders, bondholders, and the public. "Please take this home, read carefully, and let your families read it," is the request made by the roads. "What the Men Ask, What the Railroads Reply, What the Public Thinks," is the homely title of this unique booklet, which indicates the lengths to which the railroads are going to see that the public and all railroad employees are fully informed of this wage controversy, which the roads say threatens bankruptcy for a number of the lines.

While the engineers are circulating a strike ballot among the employees of the different lines, the managers of the railroads are putting in the hands of the employees in train service this pamphlet, which, in addition to the demands of the men and the roads' reply, contains editorials reprinted from a number of the country's leading newspapers. It is being sent to the bondholders, shareholders, members of Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, and other commercial bodies in the territory in which the railroads affected by the engineers' demands operate.

Never before in a concerted wage movement has the employer come before the bar of public opinion to plead its case along the unusual lines adopted by the railroads. It was learned Tuesday that 100,000 copies of the "fireside" booklet had already been mailed, and it is expected that more than a million copies will be circulated before the week is over.

Items of Interest From all Parts of the State as Gleaned From Our Exchanges Briefly Paragraphed.

Two Boys Rescued at Atlantic City.

Easter visitors at Atlantic City witnessed the first rescue of the season from the boardwalk Saturday afternoon. Morton Hirsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Hirsch, of 1717 North Franklin street, Philadelphia, fell into the ocean from the steel pier near Virginia avenue. Harry Raab, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Raab, of 254 North Nineteenth street, Philadelphia, his companion, jumped to Hirsch's aid. Both boys were drowning when a workman on the pier, leaped into the water and saved them.

Killed by Auto.

Stepping in the path of an auto, John Hunachak, foreman of the tile works at Metuchen, was killed Sunday night. The victim was on his way home with his brother Robert. The two men were walking in the road when the auto swept around the corner. The victim became confused and moved into the car's path. The auto was driven by the owner, A. S. Giles, a plumber, of Plainfield. Giles took Hunachak to a doctor's office, where the victim died. Giles surrendered to the local police and a charge of manslaughter was made against him.

Martin Peterson Dies.

Martin Peterson, one of Perth Amboy's oldest citizens of Danish birth, died Saturday night, after an illness of several weeks. He suffered from heart trouble and death was due to that and diseases incident to age. Mr. Peterson went to Perth Amboy about forty years ago. He was a shoemaker by trade, and when he became wealthy, in later life, he bought the old frame cottage on State street where he first carried on his business and erected a modern store building on the site. Mr. Peterson retired from the shoe business about ten years ago and engaged in the coal and ice business with his son, Charles M. Peterson. Mrs. Peterson, Miss Mathilde Peterson, a daughter, and the son survive him.

B. and L. Treasurer Robbed.

A report that he had been held up, sandbagged and robbed of $600 in cash and $3,100 checks, was made to the police at Camden Tuesday morning, by Thomas G. Allen, treasurer of the Glassboro Building and Loan Association. Mr. Allen says the crime was committed on the Glassboro and Camden turnpike. The checks, he said, represented receipts of stock payments.

Bank Creditors Will Meet April 21.

Creditors of M. Rosett & Son, bankers, of Perth Amboy, who were declared bankrupt in the federal court for the Southern District of New York a month ago, will meet April 21 to select a trustee to represent them in winding up the affairs of the firm. There will be present or represented those who did business with the Rosett private banks in New York, Jersey City, Hoboken, Youngstown, O., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Perth Amboy. No estimate has been made of the percentage which creditors will receive. The furniture in the New York and Jersey City offices has been sold by Receiver J. M. Conklin for a total of $1,000.

Preparing for Carnival.

The New Point Comfort Beach Co., of Keansburg, promoters of last year's carnival, is preparing for another carnival to be held in August. The New Point Comfort Hotel was opened Saturday, and the steamer Keansburg made its first trip to New York. Another steamer will start running the first of next month. This will be the first time in the history of Keansburg that two boats have run between Keansburg and New York. A number of summer residents have moved there for the summer. The pier running from New Point Comfort Hotel out in the water several hundred feet is being widened to fifty feet.

Dentists Fined $50 Each.

Dr. Bertram B. Smith and Dr. Morris G. Spiro, who conduct the New York Dental Parlors at New Brunswick, were fined $50 each for practicing dentistry without a license by Judge Daly on Tuesday morning. Two indictments were returned against them recently, after charges had been preferred by State dental authorities. Tuesday morning they retracted former pleas of not guilty and pleaded non vult. Lawyer A. S. March made a plea in their behalf. Judge Daly made no comment in passing sentence.

Mayor Packer Fined $500.

On an indictment charging him with taking money unlawfully in connection with a paving contract while Chief Executive of Long Branch, Mayor Edwin W. Packer, of that place was fined $500 and costs Tuesday morning by Judge John E. Foster, after pleading non vult. It was stated by Judge Foster that Packer's resignation as Mayor was in the hands of the court, and the clerk was directed to forward it at once to the Long Branch City Council. The accused said that he was not involved with any one in the bribery charge.

Missing Man's Boat Found Upside.

Louis Anderson, fifty-six years old, of 608 Ocean avenue, Jersey City, left the foot of Linden avenue, that city, last Sunday afternoon, in a rowboat and rowed out into Newark Bay. Early Tuesday morning the boat was found bottom up floating near the shore at the foot of Danforth avenue. Anderson was reported missing Sunday. It is thought the high wind that blew off shore Sunday caused the craft to upset. The police of the Ocean Avenue Station are on the lookout for the body.

Another Suit Started.

It was arranged before Vice-Chancellor Stevens on Tuesday to have testimony in another suit brought by the receivers for the State Mutual Building and Loan Association for the recovery of losses on alleged bad loans, taken before Edward J. Berry, a court stenographer in Camden, where the defunct association's home office was located. It was Vice-Chancellor Stevens's own suggestion that the evidence could just as well be taken before a stenographer, and the half dozen or more lawyers present and the receivers, who are Judge Thomas E. French, Samuel P. Robbins and George J. Bergen, agreed that this would be a good plan. The suit involves upward of a hundred loans, which are said to have resulted in losses aggregating about $450,000. These loans were made all over New Jersey, in every case on the recommendation of some local committee whose business it was to pass on the securities offered. There are nearly two-score defendants on whom the receivers expect to fix responsibility for the losses. It was decided to have the taking of testimony begin May 21, and to have the complainants finish their side by August 1. The defense is to begin with its testimony September 10. The vice-chancellor fixed October 22 and the remainder of that week for hearing argument.

Forger Sent to Reformatory.

Silas Mason, colored, of Freehold, pleaded guilty before Judge Daly at New Brunswick on Tuesday to forging the name of Ferd Garretson to two checks for $7.50 and $15 at Perth Amboy. It was a first offence and he was sent to the Reformatory. Lawyer VanSickle represented him.

Auto Exhaust Pipes.

Under one of the laws passed by the Legislature known as the Colgate "cut-out" act, all automobiles operated in this State must have their exhaust pipes from the engine directed parallel to the ground or deflected slightly upward. This will necessitate a change in the exhaust pipes of hundreds of motor cars, as the large majority of those operated carry exhaust pipes directly toward the ground. The object of the new law is to preserve the improved roads, it having been found that the constant exhausting of gases from the engines of automobiles directly into the surface of the highways blows out the fine top dressing and thus aids in the "ravelling" of the roads. The State motor vehicle department is promulgating all the automobile laws passed by the Legislature. The new statutes have been printed in leaflet form and are being distributed broadcast among the automobilists in the State.

Trolley Bond Issue Approved.

In order to comply with the orders for improvement to its system made by the utility commissioners, the Trenton and Mercer Traction Company Tuesday made application to the board for the approval of an issue of bonds to the extent of $100,000. After setting forth the reasons for the issue the board decided to approve the application.

Killed by Locomotive.

Joseph Bottistella, of 431 Monmouth street, Jersey City, a water tender employed by the Central Railroad of New Jersey, was run down and killed in the railroad yards near Jersey and Johnson avenues Tuesday afternoon by an engine in charge of Engineer Howard Horn. Horn was backing his engine to an ash pit when the accident occurred.

A Queer Experience.

An Englishwoman in the Riviera stepped on the footboard of a train, intending to enter the carriage, but found the door locked. The train started suddenly, and she recognized that she would have to travel on the footboard until the next station was reached. A man who saw her plight crept backward on the footboards, stepping from carriage to carriage with some peril, and supported her with his arm until the next station was reached, half an hour later. The woman was fined several francs for "illegally traveling outside the train." The rescuer disappeared without leaving name or address.

Fortunes in Picture Frames.

The finest and costliest frame ever made for a picture is that which incloses the "Virgin and Child" in Milan cathedral. It is made of hammered gold, with an inner molding of lapis lazuli. The corners of this valuable frame have hearts designed in large pearls and precious stones. Some idea of its value may be gained when it is stated that the frame is eight feet long and six feet wide. Its estimated worth is $125,000. One of the pictures in the Vatican at Rome is in a frame studded with jewels. The picture is a valuable one, but the frame nearly equals the value of the painting.—London Telegraph.

Just Like a Picture.

"She's as pretty as a picture," said the young man.
"Yes," replied the young woman, with a glance at her rival's complexion, "and hand painted too."—Stray Stories.

Diagnosing His Trouble.

"I want you to tell me plainly, doctor," said the man with the fat government position, "what is the matter with me."
"Well, sir," answered the old doctor, leaning back in his chair and looking at his beefy, red faced patient, "you are suffering from underwork and overpay."—London Answers.
