FORMER LOCAL GIRL WRITES AN INTERESTING BOOK

Georgiana Barbara Such, Missionary in Africa, Writes of Her Travels in Book Just Published.

Among the latest books from the press of Fleming R. Revell & Company is "Romance Road," intimate glimpses of life and work in Northern Africa, written by Georgiana Barbara Such and dedicated to her father, George Such, Jr.

Miss Such, who like her father to whom the book is dedicated, is a native of this section, the family having lived for many years in the Such mansion, located in a beautiful spot off the Parlin road, close by the clay banks which, far back as can be remembered, have been owned by the family.

Miss Such, always an enthusiastic church worker, a number of years ago sailed for Africa as a missionary and it is of Northern Africa, in which she has lived and worked as a missionary, that she writes.

In the foreword of the book Miss Such says: "One loves most that which one knows best. To me, North Africa of all countries, is the most charming. Its sunlight appears more brilliant, its sea more blue, its hills more friendly, the very land itself smiling a welcome more loving, than I am offered elsewhere.

"As for the people—what shall I say of the Arabs who are my friends, the Berbers who are by kinship? No idle boast this, but sober truth! For have I not been adopted by the Kabyles and am I not accounted among them as a very sister, though not, indeed, of their blood? Ignorant, dirty, primitive, cruel, aye all these—yet something more! Splendidly true, ever loyal, honest, faithful, brave! To one who like myself, can say that the love of the people is hers, there are none more dear, none more devoted and faithful."

And so it is through the entire book. Miss Such has travelled extensively over Northern Africa, her experiences have been in many cases unique and her contacts with the natives have been intimate.

From cover to cover, the account moves along taking the reader over the burning sands and through the quaint villages of the country.

It is a strange congregation of old and new, this section, Miss Such shows us. Moving pictures and other things we have come to look upon as indications of modern civilization are mingled with age old customs for, while the native of that section is eager to embrace the new, he holds tenaciously to the customs of his forefathers.

Women have an insignificant place in the civilization of this country, Miss Such says. Seldom do the Kabyle women have their laborious toil lightened by the magic touch of love, for they have little joy in their wedded life. Married at an early age to men they do not know, they soon become

Man Hit at Cliffwood Buried Tomorrow

Albert Vaughn Dies in Perth Amboy Hospital on Monday—Had War Record.

On Sunday night, Albert Vaughn, colored, about thirty-six years of age was struck by a Central train near the Cliffwood station.

He was taken immediately to the Perth Amboy hospital where it was found that he had a badly fractured skull. He passed away at 7 o'clock on Monday morning.

Coroner Lawrence Kenney gave permission for the removal of the body to the Gundersen morgue in this city. The state police under the direction of Sergeant McCormick of the Keyport station, investigated the accident and found that until recently the man had boarded with Hallie Mason of 37 Hayes street, Newark.

Miss Hayes later identified the body at the morgue.

Vaughn was a private first class in the 349 Field Artillery during the war and saw overseas service in the Marbache sector.

Funeral arrangements are pending and Daniel F. Sharkey V. P. W., and Luke A. Lovely Post American Legion are assisting.

The committee in charge was Mrs. Rettinger, Mrs. Connelly, Mrs. H. G. Hoffman and Mrs. Wren.

Vets Hold First Meeting In New Home Here

Plan for Bus Ride—Card Party at Protection Hall, Sept. 12th—Conduct Drawing for Violin.

At the regular meeting of Daniel F. Sharkey Post, the first in the new home of the Post, on Tuesday night, considerable thought was given to projects under way for the coming fall and winter months and a number of new ones were undertaken, among them being a bus ride to Waretown, which will be run in conjunction with the auxiliary sometime this month. The post drum and bugle corps will also be taken on the trip and will parade through the principal streets of the town after which a blue plate dinner will be served for the delegation at the Waretown Hotel.

A joint card party by the members of the post and auxiliary will be given at Protection fire house next Friday evening when a drawing will also be conducted for a blanket. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. James Quinlan, Richard Letts and Leo Foley.

John T. Casey was awarded the violin at the drawing held at the meeting on Tuesday night. The proceeds of this drawing will go toward the fund being raised to uniform the drum and bugle corps.

Parent Teachers Board Meet Next Wednesday

Executive Board Will Hold Session at High School Auditorium.

A very important meeting of the Executive Board of the South Amboy Parent-Teachers Association has been called for next Wednesday afternoon at the High School Auditorium by Mrs. Ellen Marshall, the president. Mrs. Marshall is also desirous of receiving bids on the milk to be supplied to the local schools during the coming year. These bids should be forwarded to her at once, as they will be voted upon by the directors at Wednesday's meeting.

Plans are also being formed for the first meeting of the association to be held in the high school auditorium on Wednesday afternoon, September 24. It is planned to make this a very interesting meeting.

Nine People Injured in Three Car Crash

Car Driven by Brooklyn Man Hits Two Others Cars as he Pulls Out of Line.

On Sunday night, in a three car accident near Roscoe Corner, nine people were injured, one quite critically.

Carl Johnson of Somerville, occupant of one of the cars, was rushed to the South Amboy Memorial Hospital and later removed to a private institution in Long Branch. He received a possible fracture of the skull, a badly lacerated jaw and other minor injuries.

The report of the accident made to the police states that Frank Cullen, of Brooklyn, while driving north on the highway, pulled out of line to pass another machine and in so doing crashed into two cars going in the opposite direction.

The first car struck was one driven by W. M. Buchan of Perth Amboy, after which the Cullen car continued on and crashed into the second machine driven by Nelson Quigley, of Belmar.

In the car with Quigley were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson, of Somerville and their year old son Carl, Jr., and Mrs. Betty Meredith and her two children Jane and Mercedes, of Belmar. In the machine driven by Cullen were Cyril Horen of Brooklyn and Mrs. Ellen Shaw, also of Brooklyn.

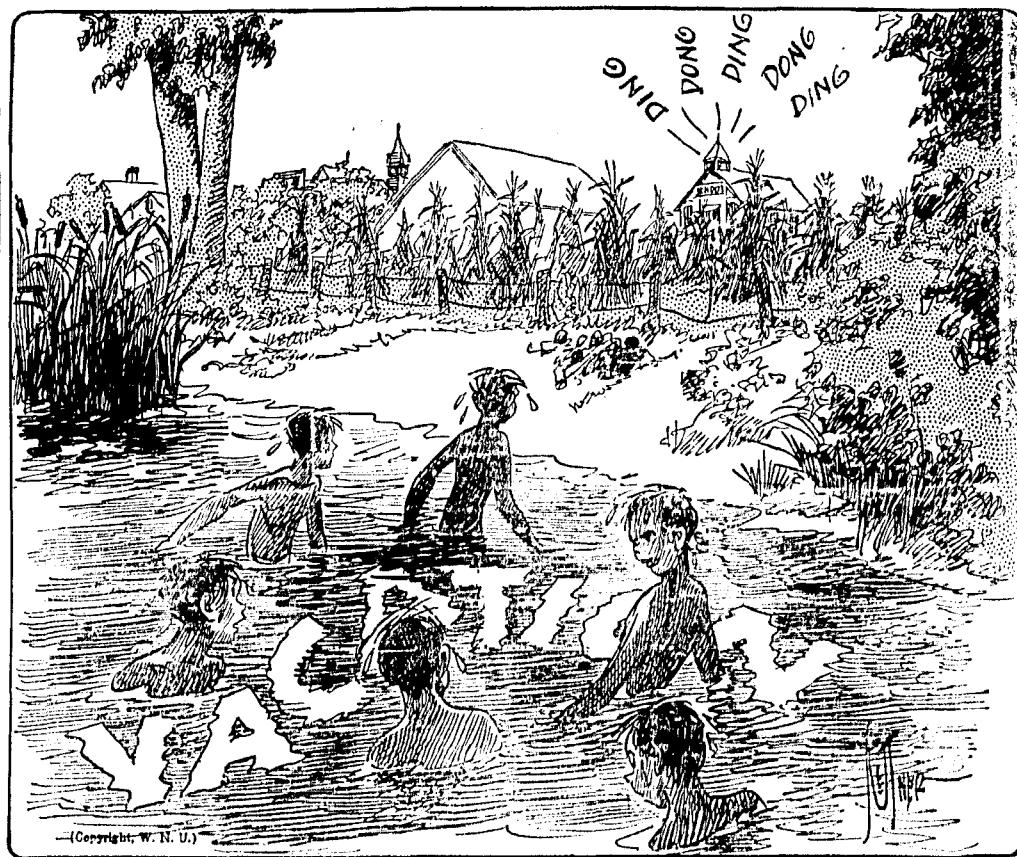

All nine of the persons who figured in the accidents were taken to the local hospital where they were treated for their injuries.

Farrell Passes State Civil Service Test

Edward J. Farrell of this city was among the county employees who passed Civil Service tests for positions, according to an announcement made by the Civil Service Commission in Trenton this week. Mr. Farrell, who took the examination for the position of foreman, received an average of 74.35. Others in this section who took the same examination were Jacob Henry Boehm of Sayreville who received 74.40 and Robert Higgins of Brownstown, who received 70.20. The position of foreman pays a salary of $8.00 per day.

Mechanicsville Firemen Receive Cup

From Milltown Firemen—Similar Event Fifteen Years Ago.

Last Saturday evening a large delegation of firemen from the Milltown Fire Department visited the Mechanicsville Fire Company at the local company's home and presented them with the cup awarded for the largest attendance at the recent carnival conducted in Milltown.

In presenting the cup, the chief of the Milltown Department commented on the fact that it was just fifteen years to the day after the Milltown company had received from the Enterprise Hook and Ladder a cup for having the largest and best appearing delegation in a parade held in this city.

Failure of Draw Ties Up Traffic

Another failure of the drawbridge closing machinery on the Victory Bridge tied up all traffic for over half an hour about six o'clock last evening. The draw opened to let the Johnson & Johnson boat go through and in closing the draw stopped when not quite straight with the rest of the bridge. As a result the automobiles were lined up two deep for nearly a mile on either side of the draw before the State Highway employees got the right of way open again. This is the third serious delay to traffic by reason of the draw machinery failing in the past few weeks.

Drawing Tomorrow For Local Hospital

The July Unit of the South Amboy Hospital Association will hold a drawing tomorrow afternoon for the benefit of that institution. Mrs. L. L. Sheppard and Mrs. Harper Lewis are in charge of this unit and a beautiful ten set awarded by L. Bamberger & Co., of Newark, a ham donated by Straub Brothers, a box of candy donated by the Coby Corner and a hand-some fern donated by Kalma the florist of Keyport will be awarded.

The September unit will hold a card party at the Masonic Temple on September 24th for the same purpose. Mrs. DeWitt Blew and Mrs. Robert Kerr, Sr., being in charge of this affair.

Mrs. Frank Mundy entertained friends from Sayreville on Sunday.

Baby Is Problem to Woman and Sergeant

Is Taken to Police Headquarters When Mother Does Not Return.

Friday evening about ten thirty, Mrs. Nellie Velter of 226 Gordon St., appeared at the police station with a small baby in her arms.

According to the story she told Sergeant Quinlan Miss Alice Frelish, of Perth Amboy, asked Mrs. Velter's daughter to take care of her baby while she was visiting on Augusta Street.

The mother did not return she said, and she was at a loss to know what to do with the child. Sergeant Quinlan advised Mrs. Velter to take the baby home and notify him if the mother did not call. Evidently the baby was claimed for Sergeant Quinlan heard nothing further on the case.

Sacred Heart Bazaar Re-opens Tomorrow

At 7 P. M. as Result of Numerous Requests—Many Attend on Previous Nights.

The bazaar which was run by the Sacred Heart Parish on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday of last week, will be re-opened again tomorrow night with a large array of attractive prizes and numerous other attractions.

The bazaar is being re-opened in answer to popular demand and festivities will begin at seven o'clock. It is requested that all workers who were on hand during the previous days report at 6 P. M.

Large crowds were in attendance at all three of the previous days and the outdoor kitchen and the new dance floor recently constructed proved popular attractions.

Golf and Crabs Feature Vacation

Local Man Adopts Novel Vacation Plan and Has Unique Experiences.

Adam Jackin, of John street, and of the firm of Jackin & Cross, Borden-town avenue garage proprietors, has been enjoying his annual vacation. Unlike most of us, however, Adam didn't take his vacation all at once and get all tired out, but took it a few days at a time, coming back to the broken spark plugs and gasoline between times to rest up, as it were. 'Twas whispered that during the vacation Adam got to be a champion miniature golfer as well as a great crab catcher. There's something about thirty eight shots that figures in the golf story, with the golfer dressing the part too; but whether it was thirty eight shots for the course or for just one hole, ye Reporter didn't get straightened out. As for the crabs—there were seventeen—but no record on the number of trips to Barnegat required to run the total up that high. Oh, well—it's only 360 days or so to another vacation now.

Dey Will Head The Rotary Club

James L. Housel, Vice President—Membership Additions Planned.

At the regular meeting of the South Amboy Rotary Club held at Cady's, Morgan, Tuesday noon, Wm. S. Dey was automatically elevated to the office of president, due to the granting of a leave of absence to Mose Clark, who was elected as president in June. Mr. Clark found it impossible to attend meetings due to his business duties and Vice-President Dey succeeds him.

James L. Housel was elected vice-president at a meeting of the Board of Directors held after the regular meeting. Raymond Ketchell, engineer in charge of the construction of the new power plant here, was taken in as a new member. Within a short time, a number of new faces will be seen in attendance at the meetings, if the plans of the club formulate.

Melrose Pair Hold Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas English of Melrose Celebrate 25th Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas English, of Melrose, celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary on Saturday evening at their home, 42 Kearney Road. A social time was enjoyed and dancing took place. There was also exhibitions of tap dancing by Margaret and Robert Saunders, of Brooklyn. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas English, Mr. and Mrs. James English, Mr. and Mrs. William English, Mr. and Mrs. John Saunders and family of Brooklyn, Miss Madeline Saunders of Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Saunders, Mrs. Annie Hansel and Mr. and Mrs. William Fiedler, of Perth Amboy.

Three Local Grand Jury Members

In the drawing of the September term Grand Jury in New Brunswick yesterday morning, three South Amboyans names were drawn for service on the new jury convening on September 16th, they being Samuel Newton, Mrs. Marion Leedom and John Gleason Jr. The drawing was conducted by Arnold J. Christensen of Perth Amboy who replaced Jury Commissioner Anthony Munoz, of Perth Amboy, who is critically ill at his home.

For petit jury work, the following from this city were selected: James P. Flanagan, Frank Hoffman, Patrick Keating, Richard Malone and Mrs. Charles Travinski.

Mrs. Esther Grace was chairlady of the committee in charge.

Increase of Pupils In Public Schools

St. Mary's Grammar Grades Open With Slight Increase.

On Thursday morning the local public schools opened their doors to a small army of children eager to get back to school and to work and to renew old friendships permitted to lapse during the summer vacation.

In School No. 1 on John Street there was a total of 200 pupils registered. In School No. 2 on Fourth St., the total registration was 329 pupils and in School No. 3 comprising the junior high and high school departments, 279 pupils entered, making a total registration of students exclusive of the newcomers of 808.

In the three first grade classes 85 youngsters started their school careers. The total registration of pupils in all schools was 893 as against 827 last year, a total increase of 66 pupils in the three schools.

With one exception, that of Miss Eleanor Wright, who has been engaged as instructor in the commercial department to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Miriam Yarnell, there are no changes in the teaching staffs, the staffs for the three schools are as follows:

School No. 1: Miss Mary Mack, principal; Miss Helen M. Applegate, Miss Dorothy Dwyer, Miss Margaret Gallagher, Miss Hanna McNeal, Miss Anna Coakley, Miss Florence King, and Miss Helen Monaghan.

School No. 2: Miss Helen B. Brown, principal; Mrs. Mary Allen, Mrs. Florence Matteson, Miss Mary J. Watson, Miss Evelyn McDowell, Miss Mary Delaney, Miss Julia Delaney, Miss Sylvia Brinamen and Mrs. Cecelia Goldberg.

School No. 3: James H. Dawson, principal; Miss Edna Agan; Mrs. Ruth Whitehead, Miss Katharine O'Connor, Miss Mildred F. Allen, Miss Martha Buchanan, Miss Virginia Dietz, Miss Eleanor Wright, Miss Elizabeth Birmingham, James H. Tustin, Miss Dora Forgonson, Miss Mildred E. Stephenson, Miss Margaret Rue, Miss Blanche Brinamen and Charles M. Thomas.

For St. Mary's School, there were 650 pupils registered in the grammar grades and 75 new pupils entered the primary grades. The registration for grammar school and entering pupils was held yesterday and high school pupils will register this afternoon. It is expected that the number of high school pupils at St. Mary's this year will be greater than ever. It is also understood that the number of pupils in the high school from nearby towns will exceed all previous figures. St. Mary's High School will open next Thursday.

Sacred Heart School will have registration today for pupils of all grades and on Monday the regular school session will start with a special mass at 8:00 o'clock in the church after which the students will enter the school and begin their school work for the term.

"Hank" Thomas Injured In Auto Accident

Two Companions Also Hurt When Car Crashes Into Rear of Truck—Treated at Local Hospital.

David "Hank" Thomas, well known athlete and two companions, were painfully injured about two miles south of here on Route No. 4 last Sunday morning when the car in which they were riding ran into the back of a truck driven by Lee Bennett, colored, of 1503 Dean Street, Brooklyn.

Thomas received lacerations about the head face and body. Thomas Kelly, of 313 Washington Street, Perth Amboy, besides lacerations about the head and body sustained a fractured hip and John Bartos, of Kirkland Place, the driver of the car received a severe scalp wound and lacerations about the face and body.

The trio were taken to the local hospital where they remained for treatment.

FAMOUS STARS AT WOMEN'S CLUB OPENING SESSION

Stage and Screen Represented by Leading Lights—Dr. Sigmund Spaeth Heads Program.

With an unusual musical program, furnished by nationally-known stars of the screen and stage, the Woman's Club session for 1930 and 1931 got off to an auspicious start yesterday afternoon. Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, America's best known writer and speaker upon music, headed the program, with his talk upon "The Common-sense of Music."

In a delightful manner that captivated his hearers, Dr. Spaeth showed the derivation of modern popular music from classic selections of the past. Seated at the piano, he illustrated his talk as he went along, developing some humorous and surprising results for his audience. In conclusion, he gave a musical specialty "Hallelujah, Bananas!", showing how the popular "Banana" song of a few years past was copied, almost in its entirety from classics, with part of it even taken from Handel's "Messiah."

The afternoon's program closed with "Wee Willie" Robyn, and Rev. Father Joseph Connor. Robyn, long a favorite of the radio and stage as a member of "Roxie's Gang", rendered the aria from "Pagliacci" in a way that won him a thunderous round of applause. He then gave a number of songs written by Father Connor, including "You Brought a New Kind of Love to Me", and selections from "Young Man of Manhattan". Father Connor, who as "Pierre Norman", has written some of America's best-known songs, thrilled the gathering with his piano numbers. He played his own "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses", and as a novelty presented the "Indian Love Call" as it might be played if written in an opera, and as it would be played by Vincent Lopez, in popular arrangement of the present day.

Between Dr. Spaeth's talk and the arrival of Father Connor and Mr. Robyn, entertainment was furnished by "Eddie Radio" Ryan, who was the originator of the "Greenwich Village Nut Club" and who presented seven young microphone artists who furnished music of the modern "jazz" period in a way that won for them a splendid reception.

The program was presented by the Department of Civics, with Mrs. Harold Hoffman as the chairman. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Andrew Furman and Mrs. Wm. P. Nichols. Refreshments were served to the members of the club and their guests, who made up one of the largest gatherings in the history of the Club.

Mrs. Jean Fenzel, President of the Club, presided during the business meeting, and at the conclusion of the program conveyed to the entertainers of the afternoon the appreciation of the club for the brilliant entertainment afforded.

Juniors Make Anniversary Plans

Also Arrange to Attend County Meeting at Perth Amboy, Sept. 12

When the members of Joel Parker Council meet this evening, further plans will be laid for the celebration of the 40th Anniversary of the council which will be held at the club house on September 12th.

Plans will also be made for attendance at the monthly meeting of the Past Councilors Association which will be held at Perth Amboy next Wednesday. The association is planning to back the candidacy of Walter Pierson of New Brunswick for the office of State Secretary at the coming convention in Atlantic City and the committee composed of members of the various councils throughout the county will render a report on the campaign. Marshall E. Magee represents the local council on the committee.

Local Captain Assists In Releasing Grounded

J. P. Morgan Yacht

When the three million dollar yacht of J. P. Morgan went aground in a fog off the coast of Maine Tuesday night it was a South Amboyman who was in command of the vessel that went to its assistance and which finally assisted in releasing the yacht. Captain John S. Conover of Borden-town avenue was aboard his tug the "Wyoming" of the Bee Line when the yacht grounded and immediately gave orders to the crew to come alongside as close as possible and render aid. A line was then on the yacht but it was so firmly grounded that the "Wyoming" could not loosen it from the trap in which it was held. Later the coast guard cutter "Kickapoo" hove in sight and assisted the Wyoming and the yacht was released. On Thursday the yacht was towed into drydock at Islesboro, Maine, to estimate the damage done.

STATE AND COUNTY ITEMS OF INTEREST

Recently, Mayor William A. Allgair, senior warden of the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church in South River, received a check from A. Felix Du Pont, head of the Du Pont Company, representing the first payment on a pledge for $4,000 to be used in the erection of the new parish house.

The County Seat of New Brunswick is confronted with a problem in regard to speeders. The practice of speeding through the principal streets of the city is increasing daily, officials say. All agree that the police department should be furnished with some means of transportation with which they could pursue the law breakers. Half the city officials contend a motorcycle is the only solution to the problem and another faction present equally convincing arguments in favor of an automobile for the police.

During a recent conference relative to the practice, Mayor John J. Morrison said when he was apprised of the fact that certain persons in the city have no fear of being arrested for speeding because of their influence, "I never knew that tickets were killed in this city."

At Kimball Hospital at Lakewood, Henry Siegel passed away recently. At the age of 15 Siegel came from Germany to this country and secured a job in a New York City Department store. Nine years later he started in the clothing business for himself in Chicago.

Shortly after he founded the firm of Siegel brothers which later became the famous firm of Siegel and Cooper with six large stores in the principal cities of the country. The New York City store of this chain was known all over the world for the huge fountain in the center of the store and the slogan "meet me at the fountain."

In 1914 the firm went into bankruptcy and Siegel was indicted on a charge of attempting to defraud depositors in a private bank run in connection with the store. He was convicted and served nine months in jail.

Upon his release he started a small haberdashery in Hoboken, which was known as "Henri's."

During the war, the building formerly occupied by the New York Store was used as a convalescent hospital for wounded American soldiers returned from France.

The Morristown Water Department recently inserted a large advertisement in one of the local papers advocating the use of more water by residents of that town. In view of the fact that almost every other municipality in the nation was during the same period cautioning water users to be sparing with water because of the drought, the action was unique.

Tear bombs as regulation equipment for Newark policemen are being given serious consideration by the authorities of that city. It is planned to equip every cop with three small shells for use in cases where it is found necessary to "smoke out" a fugitive from the law.

Despite protestations of George J. Hecht, editor of the "Parents' Magazine," that baby parades are detrimental to youngsters' health, the 40th annual parade at Asbury Park next year is likely to be held as usual, officials say.

According to Hecht, baby parades are "woefully at variance with modern trends and work physical harm upon the tots who parade."

The attendance at the Asbury Park parades grows yearly and upwards of 100,000 are said to witness the event. Mothers who are looked upon as baby parade veterans scoff at Mr. Hecht's warnings and announce that they will continue to enter their babies.

Acting Recorder Max Varr of Belmar, thinks that "drippers" as bathers are called who dress and undress in automobiles, are more dangerous members of society than reckless automobile drivers. He said so recently and fined three such "drippers" who were brought before him $84.50, while a reckless driver who faced him during the same sitting was fined only $5.00.

"Prince," the best known dog in Red Bank lies buried in a grave in the rose garden of his master and the mails of the town between the post office and the railroad station are unguarded.

For years it was the practice for "Prince" to ride on the truck which carried the mails between the two points. Like most humans, there were two sides to the dog's character, on the truck where rode atop the mail bags he was a most vicious canine and would not let anyone approach the mail bags except the driver of the truck, off duty he was the most friendly dog imaginable.

One day recently he strayed away from his duties and was poisoned. Residents of the borough, missing him from his accustomed place on the mail truck, have made numerous inquiries concerning his fate.

A warrant was issued recently for the arrest of William McPetridge, 17, of Gloucester City, on the complaint of James Eisenhart of Woodbury.

According to McPetridge, the boy who works for him in a dairy, was reprimanded for his conduct about the place and in revenge threw grease upon McPetridge. Later, while the man was cleaning the grease from his clothes with gasoline, he says, the boy rushed up and deliberately threw lighted matches at him igniting his clothes.

The man was rushed to a hospital where, physicians said, only quick work on the part of the ambulance crew prevented serious complications.

English Musical Comedy Actress Gives Recipes for Coffee Desserts

Miss Lillian Bond, petite English star of "Follow Thru," some of whose favorite coffee recipes are given below.

COFFEE is not only America's favorite drink, but—surprisingly enough—it is also the favorite recipe flavoring of an English actress. The actress is Miss Lillian Bond, star of the musical success "Follow Thru," who is herself an excellent cook and has collected more than one hundred recipes for delicious desserts and drinks in which coffee is a principal ingredient.

Miss Bond has found hot coffee of enormous benefit to her in the exacting life of the theatre. Often she must act a role when she is tired and feeling quite unlike the gay, lively person who must appear behind the footlights—then a cup of fragrant coffee gives her the proper physical and mental stimulation to play her part.

When she makes her own coffee, this petite young Englishwoman is careful always to get the proper proportions—a heaping tablespoonful of coffee to a cup of water. She believes that the time of infusion should be as short as possible so that there will be no bitterness and that, to be at its best, the coffee should be served hot and freshly made.

But Miss Bond has many delightful uses for coffee beside the customary beverage. Here are a few of her prize recipes:

WALNUT MOCHA CAKE—

1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup coffee (cold)
1 1/2 cup flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
Whites of 3 eggs
1/2 cup broken walnut meats
Cream the butter, then gradually add sugar, coffee, flour mixed and sifted with baking powder, nuts and egg whites beaten stiff. Bake 40 minutes.

COFFEE FUDGE ICING—

4 ounces chocolate
1/2 pound butter
1/2 cup coffee (cold)
Add enough sugar to make it the right consistency to spread.

COFFEE JELLY—

1 envelope sparkling gelatine
1/2 cup cold water
3 cups clear strong coffee
1/2 cup sugar
Juice of 1 lemon
Soak gelatine in the cold water 5 minutes and dissolve in the hot coffee. Add lemon juice and sugar, stir until dissolved. Turn into a mold, first dipped in cold water, and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

COFFEE CREAM PUNCH—

To 2 quarts boiling coffee add 1/2 cup granulated sugar and 4 teaspoons maple extract. Allow to cool, then add 1/2 cup cream. Stir well, pour over crushed ice and top with whipped cream.

YOU, YOUR CAR AND THE MOTOR LAWS

Dr. Harold G. Hoffman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

XI. THOSE AMBER LIGHTS

No provision of New Jersey's traffic and motor vehicle laws has created more confusion in the minds of motorists than the article dealing with the amber light. Or, perhaps it would be better to say that this is merely another part of the law with which motorists have neglected to familiarize themselves. For the law itself is perfectly clear and is easily understood if carefully read.

Properly observed by motorists the amber light is a most useful device. It will help prevent traffic snarls and reduce the pedestrian death toll and property damage resulting from collisions.

The State traffic act provides for a three-color light system, red, amber and green. Green, of course, is permission for traffic to go, subject to the safety of others or the specific directions of an officer. Red means that traffic must stop before entering the intersection or crosswalk, and remain standing until green is shown.

Amber means that vehicles and street cars must stop before entering the intersection or crosswalk, "unless when the amber so appears the vehicle or street car is so close to the intersection that it cannot be stopped within fifty feet."

Then follows a provision in the law on the amber light that few motorists seem to understand. If the vehicle is within fifty feet of an intersection when the light turns amber, the law says "the vehicle or street car may proceed across the intersection, or make right or left turns."

It is further provided that "no vehicles or street cars shall enter the intersection or crosswalk if not within this distance of fifty feet while the amber is displayed, but must wait for the green to appear alone."

To repeat, amber means "stop," or "prepare to stop." It never means "go." But if a motorist is within fifty feet of an intersection when the light turns amber he may proceed across.

The amber light is primarily intended to give pedestrians an opportunity to cross a street in safety and it eliminates the situation found where two-light systems are used in which a pedestrian is frequently maneuvered dangerously in mid-street by a change of lights.

The amber light also makes unnecessary abrupt stops by vehicles, and thus eliminates the danger of rear end crashes.

There has been much discussion of the amber light, but I feel it serves a most valuable purpose. It can be made increasingly useful as the motoring public obtains a greater understanding of its meaning.

ORDINANCE No. 277
AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF SOUTH AMBOY ESTABLISHING A POLICE DEPARTMENT, DEFINING AND REGULATING THE DUTIES OF THE MEMBERS OF SUCH POLICE DEPARTMENT, FIXING THEIR COMPENSATION AND FIXING PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION OF CERTAIN PARTS THEREOF.

Be it ordained by the Common Council of the City of South Amboy: Section 1. That a police department be established in and for the City of South Amboy, which department shall consist of the following officers and members, to wit, a chief of police, two sergeants of police; one roundsman; seven patrolmen, and two janitors and jailers.

Section 2. The Mayor shall be the head of the police department and shall have exclusive power to appoint, suspend and remove members therefrom and thereto. The chief of police and the other members of the police department shall be subject and subordinate to the Mayor.

Section 3. It shall be the duty of the chief of police to see that the public peace is kept, and that the laws of the State and the ordinances of the city are observed, and whenever any violation thereof shall come to his knowledge or be reported to him, he shall have the same diligently investigated, cause the requisite complaint to be made, and see that the evidence is procured for the proper prosecution of the offender.

Section 4. The chief of police shall keep a record in writing of all arrests and complaints under oath concerning the violations of the laws of the state or any peace ordinance of the city. And shall likewise keep in writing in a book to be provided for that purpose a record of any and all general orders given by him to the police officers.

Section 5. At the end of each six months the chief shall present to the Mayor and to the Common Council a report of all orders given as above, and of all arrests made by the police department, with the reason for the arrest, the age, sex, color and occupation of the person or persons arrested, the number of persons convicted and the sentence imposed.

Section 6. The salary of the chief of police and the other members of the police department shall be as follows: Chief of Police $2,600; Sergeants of Police $2,300; Roundsman $2,200; Patrolmen $2,100; Janitors and Jailers $1,500 per annum.

Section 7. The chief of police shall keep a record of the number of days or parts of days actually served on regular duty by each police officer, and at the end of each month shall certify the time so served by each officer, including his own time.

Section 8. The salaries aforesaid shall be paid in equal half monthly installments or payments on the first and fifteenth day of each and every month.

Section 9. The members of the police department shall devote their whole time during their hours of service to the performance of their duties, and said hours of service as well as the place or places of service shall be fixed by the chief of police, provided, however, that as head of the police department, the mayor may alter such hours or places of service, and according to his judgment shall have power to modify or change any general order given by the chief of police.

Section 10. The members of the police department shall not engage in any business which shall withdraw them from the police service or unfit them from the giving of their undivided attention to their duties, nor shall they absent themselves from duty without the consent and permission of the Mayor or chief of police. In case of emergency the Mayor or chief of police may require the members of the police department to remain on duty such other reasonable hours than those specified for regular duty as may be necessary. The Mayor or shall have power to appoint such additional special policemen or patrolmen as he shall deem necessary during an emergency for the preservation of the public peace and the protection of property and persons. Such special policemen or patrolmen, while under such temporary employment, shall have all the power and authority of a regular patrolman, and shall perform the same duties as a regular patrolman. The compensation of such special policemen or patrolmen shall be fixed by the Common Council.

Section 11. No person shall be eligible to appointment to the office of policeman or patrolman who shall not be a citizen of the United States, a resident of the City of South Amboy, a resident of the State of New Jersey for at least one year prior to his appointment, able to read and write the English language understandingly, in good health, sound in body and mind, of good moral character, and no person shall be eligible who has ever been convicted of a crime. In addition to the foregoing qualifications no person may be appointed to the police department who has not such other qualifications as are now or may hereafter be imposed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.

Section 12. The Mayor shall have the exclusive power and authority to suspend any member of the police department, either on complaint of some other person or persons, or on his own motions, and such member of the police department shall then be tried on written charges according to law before the Mayor. Immediately on such suspension the suspended member shall deliver to the Mayor or chief of police his badge or other emblem of office and his equipment and shall cease to exercise any function or perform any duty of his office until such matter shall have been determined by the Mayor.

Section 13. No person shall knowingly use or imitate any sign, signal or device of the police department unless he is a member thereof, nor shall any person other than a member of the police department wear, in public, the uniform, badge or insignia of the police department. Any person violating this section shall, upon conviction thereof pay a fine, not to exceed fifty dollars, and the Police Justice is hereby empowered to hear said case and impose said fine.

Section 14. Any member of the police department who shall neglect or refuse to perform any of the duties herein required of him, or required by law or in such rules and regulations as shall be adopted in compliance and conformity herewith, or who shall be guilty of any fraud, extortion, oppression, favoritism, or violation of the law, shall, after conviction before the Mayor, be dismissed from the police department.

Section 15. No member of the police department shall be actively engaged in electioneering, or in any proceeding of a political or party nature, or shall, in any manner, interfere with any election in this state; nor shall any member of the police department be present at the polls at any such election, except for such reasonable time as may be required by him for the purpose of casting his own vote, unless he be detailed by the Mayor or chief of police to be present thereat for the preservation of the peace and good order during the said election.

Section 16. No member of the police department shall act as private detective for any person or association, or procure or attempt to procure any evidence for any such person or corporation; but all cases of the violation of any law or the ordinances of this city which shall come under his notice or observation shall be reported to the Mayor or chief of police.

Section 17. Any person who shall resist any member of the police department in the performance of his duties, or shall hinder or prevent him in discharging his duties, or shall offer or attempt to do so, or who shall assist any person in the custody of a member of the police department in escaping from such custody, or who shall offer or attempt to do so, shall upon conviction before the Police Justice or the Mayor be sentenced to pay a fine not to exceed Fifty Dollars, and the said Police Justice and the Mayor are hereby empowered to hear such case and levy such fine.

Section 18. The Mayor, may from time to time, appoint such special policemen or police officers for private purposes, and without pay, as he shall deem necessary for the public good, and such special policemen or police officers, as far as possible, shall observe the rules and regulations of the police department of the City of South Amboy, and the powers conferred on them may be revoked, at any time, by the Mayor. Such special policemen or police officers shall not be appointed for a longer period than one year, and their commissions shall state the length of the time of their appointment.

Section 19. The Mayor shall have the power and authority, from time to time, to issue and promulgate such additional rules and regulations for the government of the police department as he shall deem proper and expedient, provided that said rules and regulations are not in abrogation, or repeal, or inconsistent with the terms of this ordinance.

Section 20. All ordinances and parts of ordinances contrary to or inconsistent with the terms of this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section 21. This ordinance shall take effect on its approval and publication.

Notice

Public notice is hereby given that at a regular meeting of the Common Council of the City of South Amboy, New Jersey, held on August 26th, 1930, the foregoing ordinance was introduced and passed on its first reading, and that on September 9th, 1930, at the Council Chambers in the City Hall, South Amboy, N. J., at eight o'clock in the afternoon, or as soon thereafter as the Common Council can attend to the same, said ordinance will be further considered for final passage.

LOOKING BACK

22 YEARS

Issue of September 5, 1908

Mr. Charles Bloom wears a broad smile and has a larger view of life since he became the father of a bouncing boy weighing ten pounds that came to his home on Monday night.

Mrs. August Behn and Miss Lillian Behn arrived home from Europe on Tuesday on the steamer "C. F. Tietjan." The homeward voyage was a pleasant one, and both travelers return with very happy recollections of their visit and the new acquaintances made and the old friendships renewed. To Miss Behn, who had never seen the land of her parents, the trip means a great deal.

Contractor Brown is building two houses in Maxville; one house on 4th street for Tracey Dill, and a house on Bordentown avenue for Rev. N. E. Webb. William Thompson has the contract for the mason work.

The tickets of both political parties for city officers are about made up. The Republicans will place Dr. Ambrose Treganowan's name at the head of the list of nominees. Ex-borough Clerk J. F. Fulton will be the choice of his party for that office. Dr. E. E. Haines represents his party's choice for Alderman at Large. Three names on the Democratic ticket will contest for the nomination viz: Eugene Porman, P. F. Fallon and E. J. O'Connor. Three names are spoken of as candidates for Mayor on the Democratic side of the house, viz: James H. Gordon, Cornelius McGonigle, and William Birmingham. Francis P. Coan will be the candidate on the same ticket for City Clerk. James Manhattan is seeking the nomination for Councilman for the First Ward, and Furman W. Mundy of Bordentown avenue, is out with his petition for Councilman on the Democratic ticket for the Fourth Ward. On the Republican ticket Mr. Mundy will be opposed by H. J. Berrien. Alfred T. Kerr will be his party's nominee for Collector and A. H. Slover will run against him on the Republican ticket. The councilmen for the Second and Third Wards on the Democratic ticket are not announced. Neither are the names of the Assessors, or the Overseer of the Poor.

You can enjoy Labor Day and at the same time assist the fire laddies by attending the fair and festival of Independence Engine and Hose Company in the afternoon and evening at Borough Hall. The fair will be continued Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The company is endeavoring to raise a fund with which to purchase a team of horses, so that the apparatus can be more quickly taken to a fire. This object should meet with hearty support from the people, especially those who own property.

Many articles will be on sale at the various booths, and considerable merchandise has been contributed by large manufacturers so as to advertise their goods.

Clam chowder, cake, confectionery and ice cream will be on sale. An interesting feature will be the contests for an ex-chief's hat and a large doll. A door gift will be awarded each night. Admission will be 10 cents.

Help the fire department in a good cause by giving the fair your hearty support.

Sig Emilussen has rented the store at the corner of First street and Broadway formerly occupied by Salz & Steiner, and will open it probably next week as an amusement place. Alleys for box ball will be placed there and pool tables will be set up. Box ball is the popular bowling game for ladies as well as men at our summer resorts. This being a new feature in our city it will doubtless be quite a popular form of enjoyment among our young people. The place will be neat, clean, respectable and up-to-date.

Mr. Jesse Fuller, who has been General Shipping and Terminal Agent for the Pennsylvania Railroad at this borough for some time past, has been promoted to the superintendency of the Foreign Freight, Grain and Lighterage Department, with offices at No. 8 Broadway, New York. He succeeds Mr. T. C. Pollock, who has been retired on account of reaching the age limit.

Mr. W. D. Gere, of Brooklyn, who was chief clerk under Mr. Pollock, succeeds Mr. Fuller here, and entered upon his duties on Tuesday. Mr. Gere will with his family make his home in this city, just as soon as he can secure a suitable house.

Mr. Fuller on Monday called at the Citizen office for a moment and took time to state that he greatly appreciated the cordial reception given to him by the people in general while in South Amboy, and that he regretted that his short notice of transfer did not allow him time to call and say good-bye to his many friends and express personally his thanks for the many courtesies shown toward him.

The foundation of the department to which Mr. Fuller has been assigned was laid by him in 1882, and therefore his position is not entirely new to him.

Political leaders are sending word to their ward workers in all parts of the State that under the provisions of the law enacted by the Legislature of 1906, it is illegal to serve free beer or other refreshments during the campaign, to pay the rent of any club room or provide uniforms for any club, or to insert political advertising in any newspaper unless it is plainly marked with the name of the person paying for the same.

Any violation of these regulations is a violation of the anti-bribery law, and will subject the offender to severe penalties.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mullane gave a euchre at their home Wednesday evening, August 26. There were many very sharp plays made, and when the grand totals were summed up it was found that Mrs. P. McCune was the winner of the first prize; Mr. J. Keene the second, and Miss Josephine Herman of Brooklyn, was awarded the booby prize. After the games there were several selections sung, while Miss Herman presided at the piano.

MELROSE

Mrs. Mary Fiore, Mrs. Lucy Swanberg, Mr. Roy Swanberg and Miss Dot Waters all of Brooklyn, visited with relatives here over the week end.

Mrs. Henry Bunk and daughter Elizabeth of Newark visited at the home of Mrs. Bunk's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Deford, on Oak street over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hayden are entertaining Mr. Hayden's mother from Hackensack, who is spending a week with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Hansell have moved into their newly remodelled home on Kearny Avenue.

Joseph Pero, of Oak Street, received a badly sprained right foot while performing his duties at Rossler's store at Perth Amboy on Tuesday, when a ladder on which he was working, tipped, throwing him to the floor.

Fire Chief Harold Phair, of Morgan, inspected the Melrose fire house on Tuesday.

The Melrose firemen were called out Saturday morning at 10:45 to the Victory Bridge to extinguish a fire on one of the trucks of the Raritan Merchandise Company. The firemen experienced considerable difficulty in extinguishing the blaze which was finally subdued by the use of chemicals.

While the firemen were fighting the blaze, the state troopers held up all traffic on the bridge.

The damage to the truck, which was later towed away by another of the company's trucks, was estimated at $200.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Coddington and family, of Kearney Road, visited at Jersey City during the past week.

Philip De Fort of Oak street, was a Trenton visitor on Monday.

The Misses Marie and Norma Seeman, of Perth Amboy, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Erickson on Oak street Monday.

Miss Alberta Erickson, of Oak st., is spending a vacation with her aunt Mrs. Norman Seeman in Perth Amboy.

The Melrose Firemen's ball team did not play last Sunday because of the bus excursion run to Coney Island but this Sunday they will cross bats with the Humane Fire Company of Perth Amboy.

The bus excursion run by the Firemen last Sunday to Coney Island was a huge success and Chairman J. J. Cross and his committee, take this means of thanking all who made this third annual affair such a success.

The Melrose A. A. added two more wins to their list on Sunday and Monday. On Sunday they won from the Lindeneau A. C. of Raritan Township by a score of 17-0 and on Monday they beat the Sacred Hearts by a score of 6 to 2. The team has won 25 out of 27 games played this season.

This Sunday they will play at Jersey City.

The detail for the Fire Company for the month of September is composed of Joseph Pero, John Prusakowski, Frank Wisniewski, Stephen Rutkowski and Felix Andryewski.

The Melrose Field Club won three games during the past week. On Wednesday the Courtesys bowed before them 5-2, on Thursday they beat the Keystone, of Old Bridge, 3-1, and on Friday night they came out on the big end of a 6-1 score in a game with the President Park team.

ONLY ONE DUCK OF 10,000 LEFT BY POLLUTION

New York—Only one duck in 10,000 is alive today in districts where waterfowl foods have been contaminated by oil, salt water and sewage pollution, according to W. L. McAtee of the U. S. Biological Survey. This estimate is based upon an investigation of a wildfowl breeding area 300 miles square in Back Bay, Virginia, and Upper Currituck Sound, North Carolina, that is being despoiled by salt water reaching the fresh water through the Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal.

"There are not now 100 wild geese or swan where there were 1,000, not one duck where there were 10,000 during the time when the food supply for the birds in this region was at its best," Mr. McAtee said.

This condition has national application, according to reports received by the American Game Protective Association. Many of the finest fresh water areas are being polluted by the dumping of oil, sewage, and trash from factories into fresh water streams, rivers, ponds and lakes throughout the country.

Not only are waterfowl and fish foods contaminated but fish life is destroyed, surveys show. — American Game Protective Association News Service.

AUTO KILLINGS

FORCE NEW JERSEY TO BUY RABBITS

New York — "Pedestrians are divided into two classes—the quick and the dead. And poor Bre'r Rabbit seems to be in the slow motion class when he becomes a pedestrian on the highways. He is faring much worse than the human pedestrians; for one or more of his tribe is killed to every mile of highway in the United States," according to Carlos Avery, president of the American Game Protective Association.

In order to meet the motor traffic kill in New Jersey thus far this season, the fish and game commission of that state has placed an order for the importation of 5,000 additional western cottontail rabbits next year. The order will bring New Jersey's import of rabbits to 20,000 rabbits for next year.

"The enormous toll taken of Bre'r Rabbit and other wild folk is charged to the raising of the speed limit for cars, carelessness of motorists, and deliberate destruction of the helpless creatures by cruel drivers. Most of the animals and birds are killed at night, blinded by headlights. And the pity of it is that most of these wild folk could be saved by the exercise of thoughtfulness and care on the part of the automobile driver. The majority of the animals and birds become frightened and squat in the middle of the road; in many cases the motorist could avoid striking them, and certainly those who deliberately run them down with malice aforethought, should refrain from doing so through good sportsmanship," Mr. Avery concluded.

Konjola Made a Real Record in This Case

Hoboken Man Gains 90 Pounds in Less Than Two Months—New Medicine Built Up Health.

(MR. ADRIAN OTTE)

"I left the hospital in April of 1929, after recovering from an attack of typhoid fever, double pneumonia and pleurisy," said Mr. Adrian Otte, 510 Court street, Hoboken. "I was nine months in the hospital and lost 100 pounds in weight. I was very weak and feeble and could scarcely work, even after a two months rest subsequent to my recovery. I began taking Konjola about this time thinking that it might help me. To date I have taken ten bottles of this new medicine and I now weigh 190 pounds. I am working every day and am in actually better health than before I was taken ill."

A rather remarkable statement you say! Not at all. The files of Konjola contain many such. This medicine can do as much for you—for anyone as it did for Mr. Otte. Give Konjola a real test beginning today.

Konjola is sold in South Amboy at Jacques Pharmacy and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Snake a Vertebrate

Snakes are not worms and do not belong to the family of worms. They are vertebrate animals that form a division of the class of reptiles, represented also by lizards, alligators, turtles, etc. While other animals have a worm-like form, most of the true worms are invertebrates, very much lower in the scale of life.

ADVERTISING AS A DEPRESSION REMEDY

The following article, taken from the Newark Star-Eagle, contains much sound advice for the business man who does not wish to have his company go into the slump which is causing much trouble to so many or who is anxious to pull up his organization to the level of a statement
which on December 31, 1930 will show
a great increase in the volume of business done and in the profits made:

"This advertising man said his clients decided early last Spring not only to continue advertising in their usual volume, but also to double their program—to spend twice as much
and to work twice as hard to sell their goods as they did last year, in short, not to take a "vacation from advertising."

"The results, he said, have been gratifying and business in the last six weeks has proved that it was excellent judgment to advertising in greater volume.

"The moral is plain. The increased advertising sold more goods. It made more money for the advertiser. But also it created a demand for goods
which gave people work in turning them out. These people were able to buy, too, not alone the goods they helped make, but also the goods made by other workers. They increased consumption.

"The overproduction from which
the country suffered seems about absorbed. We are ready to go ahead under full power. Advertising will be the accelerator which will speed
up the return to prosperous times."

WHY TAKE CHANCES WITH CUCUMBERS, TOBACCO OR BEES

that a cucumber before it can be eaten with impunity should be soaked for an hour in strong salt water. The theory is that the action of the salt
neutralizes whatever property the cucumber possesses that makes it famous as a cholera morbus producer.
We don't know whether or not there is anything to the theory or what takes place while the cucumber is taking its salt bath, but so firmly are we convinced of the necessity of the preliminary treatment above described that we would not think of eating a cucumber that had not been first subjected to this preliminary ceremony. We have heard people tell of how they can eat cucumbers with no more preparation and ceremony
than is necessary with a ripe apple.
We have no argument with those who can do so, any more than we have
with the fellow who assures us that he can swallow his quid of tobacco
and it won't make him ill, or the fellow who contends that a bee can't sting a person who holds his breath.
It is not our purpose to interfere with any man enjoying himself in this manner, if he chooses, but we do not propose to bring any more grief to whatever remaining years we have on this earth by taking any unnecessary chances with cucumbers,
or quids of tobacco, or irritable bees.

THE AUTOMOBILE IS RESPONSIBLE

In spite of the fact that 31,000 people were killed last year by automobiles, the general accident situation
affords grounds for optimism.

Accidents among children of school age have increased less than one-tenth of one per cent. in the last seven years. Less than 100 passengers were killed while traveling on all the American railroads in 1929. Hundreds of our large industrial concerns
have made remarkable records in reducing their accident rates—both in frequency and severity. A multitude of smaller plants are establishing one,
two and even five-year "no-accident"
records. Had it not been for the tragic increase of deaths and injuries due to the automobile, the national accident rate would now be 30
per cent. lower than it was 17 years ago.

The crux of the entire matter is that we have made good progress in preventing all kinds of accidents except those for which motor cars are responsible. Safety work and instruction in schools and industries,
fostered and encouraged by casualty
insurance companies, has been the means of saving thousands of lives in the last decade. This work is being carried on with increasing intensity and vast progress will be recorded in the future.

The automobile accident record will not be reduced until we take decisive means to keep the reckless, the irresponsible, and both the mentally and physically incompetent from the public highways, where they menace
the lives and property of all other motorists.

NOTICE TO MEMBERS

"The Junior Womens Republican
Club will meet at the Republican Headquarters in the Trust Company Building, on Monday night, Sept. 8th
at eight o'clock. All members are urged to be present. Refreshments will

IN APPRECIATION

The family of the late William A.
Lyons acknowledges with grateful appreciation the many acts of kindness and sympathy extended by their relatives and friends at the time of their great loss.

Everett Armstrong of Crossman Road has returned home after spending a week at Deal.

Items of Interest From Mechanicsville

Gerald Freeman was a Milltown
visitor over the week end.

Mrs. John Jesko and daughter and Mrs. Frank Schultz spent the week end visiting in Baltimore.

August Saunders is having the house formerly occupied by Mrs.
George Slocum on Conover street,
which he recently purchased, remodelled.

Mrs. Slover, of Conover Street, was among those from this section who visited the Trenton Fair on Monday.

The home of Mrs. Heisen on Con-
over Street, is being repainted.

Walter Rodgers was a Red Bank
visitor on Sunday.

Frank Kosh, Jr., was a Trenton visitor last Saturday.

The residence of John Viatsitz on Conover Street is being remodelled
after the recent fire.

Mr. and Mrs. James Reilly, Mrs.
Jennie Dohane, Mr. and Mrs. Geo.
Kurtz, Jr., and two sons, Mrs. Geo.
Kurtz, Sr., and daughter Caroline,
and Henry Kurtz were visitors at the Trenton Fair on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Neiltopp have returned after a week spent at Niagara Falls.

John Jesko has returned after several days spent in Baltimore.

Mr. George Hart is enjoying his annual vacation from his duties with the Public Service.

The work on the Conover Street
Improvement is progressing rapidly,
all the trees having been cut down and the work of pouring the concrete has been begun.

This coming Sunday, a large party
of the members of the Mechanicsville
Hose Company will attend the clam bake to be given by the members of the Milltown Fire Department in that borough. Tickets are $1.50 and can be secured from Henry Kurtz of the local company.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lonseth of Con-
over Street, have returned home after a weeks vacation in Jersey City.

Margaret Kurtz of the Perth Amboy Hospital spent the week end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. George Kurtz of Conover Street.

Miss Clair Neiltopp is spending a week's vacation at Lake Hopatcong.

Efforts are being made to reorganize the ladies auxiliary of the Mechanicsville Hose Company. A meeting has been called for this purpose at the fire house next Thursday.

Mr. Charlie Mathis has resumed his duties with the county construction forces.

Mrs. Edward Render, of Raritan
Street, has returned to her duties
with the DuPont Company at Parlin
after a short vacation.

On Sunday the Pitt Club took a straw ride to Keansburg, in the party
were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson,
Mr. and Mrs. Philip Render, Mrs.
Mary Render, Mr. and Mrs. George
Hart, Mr. and Mrs. James Reilly,
Mrs. Jennie Dohane and Henry
Kurtz. The trip was made in Kurtz Brothers truck.

Mrs. Charles Watson and granddaughter Joan Mahoney and Mr. and Mrs. James Reilly and two children, Rosebud and Charles were among the Trenton Fair visitors on Monday.

On September 19th, the Mechanicsville Hose Company will hold the annual card party at the fire house under the direction of a committee composed of John Swick, John Jesko and Samuel Turner. Plans are also being made to hold a fall dance next month.
John Norek is chairman of that committee.

Plans for a series of monthly dances and the construction of an addition on the rear of the house are being planned by the members of the Mechanicsville Hose Company. When
the addition is completed, showers and bowling alleys will be constructed.

The Pitt Club met at the home of Mrs. Mary Render on Fourth street
on Wednesday evening when cards
were played and dancing was enjoyed.
One new member, Mrs. Mary Gregor,
was initiated into membership.

Martin Cross of President Park was a Mechanicsville visitor on Monday.

Joseph and Celia Jesko have returned to their home after spending the week end in Baltimore.

Thomas Wajciehowski has purchased a new four-door sedan.

"THE DRAKE CASE"

A picture that will hold you in thrilling suspense until the last moment, "The Drake Case," Universal
all talking sensation, showing at the Empire Theatre, tomorrow, establishes itself as vastly different from the run of murder trial court room films
because of its unique story and its extraordinary treatment.

"The Drake Case" is really the trial of The People vs. Lulu Marks, an intriguing character, accused of the cold-blooded murder of a wealthy woman, Mrs. George Morgan Drake.
While the entire story is practically enacted through the testimony of witnesses the picture has been handled
so that it stands alone among films of its kind.

"In "The Drake Case" the audience
in the theatre becomes the audience
in the court room listening to a trial
that is marked with drama, tears,

laughter, thrills, and suspense. It has everything that features the trial of a celebrated murder case and a little bit
more, provided by the unusual camera
angles used by Director Edward S.
Jaemmlle.

"The Drake Case" has an all-star
cast including Gladys Brockwell, Forrest Stanley, Robert Frazer, James Crane, Doris Lloyd, Bill Thorne,
Eddie Hearn, Tommy Dugan, Byron
Douglas, Francis Ford, Henry Bar-
rows, Amber Norman, and Barbara Leonard.

Proof of Friendship

A telephone call came to the superintendent of a sanitarium near Chicago."Say," queried the caller, "have you got a fellow named B— out there?"

"Why, yes."

"Is he paying you any board?"

"No; he's a charity patient."

"Say, that guy hasn't got any more right to be a charity patient than I have. Why, he's got $400 in one bank and $500 in another and he owns a bungalow out in Waukegan. You'd better hide his clothes before you give him a bill, though, or he'll skip out on you. He's that kind of a crook.""Say," demanded the superintendent,
"who are you and how do you come
to know so much about B—'s
affairs?""Oh," replied the unknown caller,
"I'm a close friend of his."—Chicago

CHEAPESTBy Howard B. Sprague
Experiment Station AgronomistDesirable lawn seed mixtures, while costing more to the pound
than poor ones, are far cheaper in the long run. Cheap mixtures contain large quantities of weed seeds,
chaff, dirt and dead grass seed.
Furthermore, the grasses present in low priced mixtures are largely unsuited for the production of fine
turf. The seed of most hay and pasture grasses start quickly and present a fine appearance for for a few months when planted on the lawn, but they soon become coarse and unsightly or die as a result of the frequent mowing.The better turf grasses for lawns include Kentucky blue grass, Rhode Island or colonial bent, seaside bent and Chewings or red fescue. Such grasses should make up at least 50
per cent by weight of the mixtures,
with temporary grasses such as red top and rye grasses comprising the rest. Each of these grasses has its preference of soils, and the species
should be chosen to suit conditions
where the planting is to be made.A large number of New Jersey seed firms and dealers are carrying in stock the mixtures of lawn seed prepared in accordance with formulas recommended by the State Agricultural Experiment Station.
These formulas include (1) a standard mixture for soils of average condition; (2) a mixture for fine quantity turf; (3) one for poor or quality turf; (4) one for poor or sandy soils; and (4) a special blend
for shaded areas.

MEET CHILD'S QUERY

TRUTHFULLY
It happened one summer afternoon
when a young woman was calling upon a married friend, the mother of a four year old girl. As the two women, comfortably seated in rockers on the front porch talked and visited, the child straddling the porch rail suddenly asked: "Mother, where did you get me?"Taken unawares, the mother flushed, stammered, and, looking about for an inspiration, replied "A little bird
brought you; now run out in the yard
and play."When the child had disappeared around the corner of the house the mother sighed and remarked to her friend, "My goodness, I didn't have the least idea what to say."This is a common situation in homes. The question, "where does the baby come from" is frequently asked by children as young as three or four years of age. To say that the child is not old enough to be told is a mistake, because a child who is old enough to ask a question is old enough to get an honest answer.The importance of answering any question when it is asked lies not wholly in the information given but quite as much in the assurance to the child that he may expect satisfying replies from the parent, and that things will not be misrepresented to him. There is no more occasion for sentimentalism, for whispering, or an air of secrecy than there is in the teaching of spelling or tooth brushing.
Matters of fact should be stated in a matter of fact manner.Many parents, like this mother, are not prepared to meet the question
when it comes. This is because they do not know what to tell the child,
and also because they themselves are not free from feelings of embarrassment and shame resulting from their own early training. Should a mother who has brought her child into the world be ashamed to tell that child
this fact?If parents would anticipate these questions by reading and by discussing with others prepared to help them, they might save themselves and their children much unhappiness.

An Interruption

A ludicrous incident occurred during a party between high officers of the British and Turkish armies, says
Compton Mackenzie in "Gallipoli Memories." The discussion—it concerned a trace of eight hours for the Turks to bury their dead—took place in a tent on the beach at Anzac. Suddenly the flap of the tent was lifted
at the back and a New Zealander or Australian battman put his head
through to call out in a voice of indignant contempt:"Oh! Have any of you blighters checked my ketty?"

Alaska in Summer

The Alaskan summer is one of gorgeous, vivid sun, warm winds and flower gardens. The warm Japan current, striking Vancouver Island, is deflected northward and carries to the Alaskan coast the same delightful humidity of the lower Pacific coast. To the visitor Alaska becomes a land of great forests, rushing rivers, Indians,
curious totem poles, black fox farms,
salmon fisheries. The journey there through 1,000 miles of scenery such as found nowhere else is made in four days threading the almost land-locked channel known as the "Inside Passage" which winds through mountainhemmed fiord-like waterways as through a fairyland with wooded islands, tremendous glacier peaks, fascinating Alaskan towns and queer old settlements.

Ponderous Doctor Johnson

That Dr. Samuel Johnson (1709-1783), famous English lexicographer, defined a window as "an orifice in an edifice," in his noted dictionary is a fact which lends point to the popular anecdote told by Boswell. Speaking of animal fables, Boswell said he thought it would be difficult to write such fanciful things. Johnson said it would be easy enough.In a later comment on this incident, Boswell recalled the fable of the little fishes who saw birds flying over their heads. The biographer remarked:"The skill consisted in making them talk like little fishes, but if Doctor
Johnson were to make little fishes talk,
they would talk like whales!"

Length of Sea Snakes

It is believed that sea snakes do not grow much longer than 12 or 13 feet.
Speaking of sea snakes found near the coast of northwestern Australia, the National Geographic society says:
"Sea snakes are frequently seen curled
up asleep on the surface of the water.
These reptiles are poisonous and grow
to about 12 feet in length." Sea snakes
are distinguished by the compressed,
rudder-shaped tail, and they are unable to move on land. Their food consists chiefly of fish.

Lose Yourself in Your Job

I have never been quite happy unless lost to myself in what I was thinking, feeling, or doing. Unselfconsciousness seems to be the keynote of happiness. I am certain that to be completely lost in what one is thinking, feeling, or doing is the only way to reach the kind of malaise which self-consciousness brings. Nature, watchful as an old spider, spies the causes of self-consciousness and throws
up a philosophy by way of cure.—John Galsworthy.

A Diplomat

That a certain young man is wise
beyond his years was proved when he sawed before answering a widow
who had asked him to guess her age.
"You must have some idea," she said."I have several ideas," said the young man, with a smile. "The only trouble is that I hesitate whether to make you ten years younger on account of your looks, or ten years older
on account of your brains."

MUZZLE THE MORTGAGE

widow meet it?Under the Metropolitan plan,
if you die we pay the mortgage.

Probably World's Oldest Cat

Said to be the oldest cat in the world, the mummified remains of one discovered in a very ancient Egyptian tomb were brought to London for exhibition. The chances are this cat often in its day has looked at the mighty kings of Biblical days, in keeping with the ancient privilege of cats.

Many Dangerous Mosquitoes

Experiments have shown that seven species of mosquito may transmit yellow fever, rather than one species, as
was originally supposed.

Punishment by Ostracism

Ostracism was introduced in Greece
by Clisthenes about 510 B. C. Aelian says that Clisthenes was the first to be ostracized. In 488-487 B. C., Hipparchus was exiled and a few years later Nanthippos and Aristides were banished in this fashion.

"THE MESS KIT"

BY "WOOD BURNS"

Last Sunday August 28th was the second anniversary of the founding of this column. The "Mess Kit" first saw the light of day on August 28th, 1928.

For two years it has appeared almost every Friday and is still going strong. In those two years the post has grown in membership and influence and service to the ex-service man.

It is interesting to look back over those years and think of what has transpired in the nation, the state, the city and the post during that time. The first commander, John Connors, Jr., has become a past commander, and don't come around to meetings because he works the second shift. A member of the post whose first name is Joe, has forbid us about a thousand times from mentioning him in the column and the writer has sworn an equal number of times that he won't mention even his first name.

 The little black boat during those two years, except when it was real foggy, has made its usual trips along the local water front late at night, almost every night.  Yours truly has been told any number of times by members of the post that they don't want their names mentioned in the column in the hopes that they would be.  He has been told miles and miles of jokes and anecdotes about post members in the hopes that they will appear in the column.  He has been told of numerous practices about town that are not quite on the up and up with the same hope in the mind of the writer.  Clarence Snow was admitted in the Post and held the honor of being its most bald headed member and has moved to Waretown.  The man who can't look you in the eye has been present at a number of meetings and has explained while looking intently at a spot on the wall opposite him, the work of the institution of which he is in charge.  Another member of a local board has sat at numerous meetings of the board and time after time has drawn from his pocket his cigar lighter to light his Havana, while the other members of the board have reached into their pockets for matches, to help him out.  Joe Claffy of the post has answered inquiries concerning his absence at meeting a million times during those two years with the same reply: "I had a date" and still he has only one girl.  J. L. Robinson, the bass drummer of the post drum corps has told thousands of times about his experiences in the "Blarney Stone Cavalry."  Anton Walczak, post commander, has lit that vile pipe numberless times and been bawled out by the wife for smelling up the house and the members of the post who have smelled the pipe, don't blame her.  Joe Seaman has told about the post drum and bugle corps being the best in the state and has knicked up five dining room tables practicing drumming.  Aloysius Leonard suggested that a balloon be placed on the top of the post rooms with the name of the post painted in bright letters, and has learned to play the cymbals.  And it was during this period that Ralph Hinman made his famous trip to Cliffwood and walked back in the dark.  Bill Lyons discarded the teeth that had served him for a number of years in favor of a new set.  Jim Gallagher has been elected councilman and said he wanted to join the drum and bugle corps but has never shown up for rehearsals.  A member of a certain board in town has pulled his cigar lighter from his pocket and it has worked every time, to the disappointment of this writer.  Dave Quinlan, member of the post and police sergeant has acted hard boiled and used times without number his famous expression: "I'll give you five minutes to get out of town."  The five cent cigar has increased in popularity.  Five day weeks have been introduced at nearby industrial plants.  The sign in the post office, "Use the other door" has disappeared.  Tom Geant has spent hour after hour practicing drumming.  Dick Letts has told the post at every meeting to go easy on spending money.  A certain well known man has waited in front of City Hall to meet a friend before going to work.  Vincent O'Connor has answered a thousand questions about the "Nut Club."  A well known local man has told about the wrestling bout he saw in New York, where one contestant lifted the other above his shoulders and threw him across the hall.  The Post has moved four times.  George Walker, veteran of nobody knows how many wars, has been interrupted, while relating some story of military life, to explain which war it happened in.  A local railroad man has explained time after time how he came to run through an open switch.  Amos and Andy have come into being and have made many a husband report to the wife before seven P. M.  Councilman Walter Inman has been shot at and missed and has given a clever imitation of Floyd Gibbons during a council meeting.  A local man applied for a marriage license and had to go to Woodbridge to find out his parents names.  Judge Van Clief became enthusiastic over the drum and bugle corps after walking in on one of the rehearsals and gave the boys a nice donation.  More than one member of the post has wondered how he would look in a police uniform.  The city's super-politician has said time after time: "I got the party sewed up, they do what I say."  AND WE HAVE ALL COME TWO YEARS NEARER THE ONE WAY TRIP WE MUST ALL MAKE TO THE CEMETERY!

FINNEY OF THE FORCE By F.O. Alexander

THE FEATHERHEADS By Osborne

WE'RE ALL DIFFERENT By G. L. GUINING

"Yes, siree," said the red nosed man, "if we were all alike we'd be like Finney's litter of pigs. In the morning we could name 'em Lily, Heliotrope, Sweet Marie and Muscadine. Later on, at feeding time, we could call 'em by one name—just 'plain hog.'"

"So, you see it is a good thing we are all different. Got a cigarette? Thanks awfully!"

"Some years back a fellow tried to teach his dog to eat tomatoes and his wife to live on tomato sandwiches. Her old man got wind of it—he was different. He went to their home, raised hell, put a tomato nose on his son-in-law, went out and bought a steak for the dog and took his daughter away with him."

"Quite a few years ago there was a lady who chewed onions with defiance, while running around doing business in Wall street. She was different. If I had one-fifth the brain power of that woman, I could be worth twenty million. When she died she left one hundred million. It is said that she chewed onions, believing that it kept germs away. Got another cigarette? Yours truly!"

"Like Russel Sage, she always had lots of ready cash on hand—something like nine-million—when the 'big shots' got in a tight place, wanted money to tide them over, they stood hat in hand, never batted an eye or turned their face away when this lady talked and yawned. They knew their onions."

"Honest mistakes are sometimes terrible blunders. Admit the corn and all is well. Our beloved President, Theodore Roosevelt, could do this. He was a wonderful man. He was different. Pshaw, we all know that!"

"Now, every school-boy knows that it was John Adams who was Vice President along with Washington. This story has to do with that. When Roosevelt was a young man he wrote essays for the magazines. However, let us tell this story in the words of that great editor, E. P. Mitchell:"

"... one of his youthfully earnest essays. It was designed to show that an administration could get along splendidly with a President belonging to one party and a Vice President belonging to the other. He illustrated his thesis, to the best of his recollection by citing the case of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson in those respective offices. I wrote an editorial congratulating the young explorer upon the success of his researches in the early history of the Republic and his discovery that Thomas Jefferson, not John Adams was Washington's Vice President. Roosevelt—not yet a colonel—came to The Sun beaming. He regarded the slip of memory as a tremendous and delightful joke on himself and dwelt on it afterward with joy."

"Yes siree, Theodore Roosevelt was not self-made, he was just as God made him—honest and true."

"Say, if we were all cut from the same cloth—all the same disposition—this life would be a one-way street. I'd hate life fun to live such a drab existence."

"Sure, I could punish some 'cents'! Where? Let's go down to Diestel's, on Broadway."

Strange Bedfellows

The cotton seed and bean seed are bedfellows on the Egyptian farm, according to Fortune Magazine. The soil there is hard and the top often baked, and generations of farming have taught that it is wise to include a bean seed in each hole, for, tough and vigorous, the bean stalk has no trouble in emerging. The cotton stalk can follow after at its leisure.

America Claims Grapefruit

Grapefruit is an American fruit, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, which states that the United States produces about 96 per cent of the world supply. The most important competitor, the Isle of Pines, a Cuban territory, produces but 2 per cent of the world crop.

Maidenhair Tree Exhibited

The ginkgo, or maidenhair, tree, of Japan, the only modern survivor of a tree family of which ten fossil species are known, is represented by an exhibit in the hall of plant life at the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, which includes a branch in full flower, seeds, fruits and wood.

THE TRUEST DOG LOVER

(The American Boy)
By George L. Guinand
Hidden by a tree one day I watched a pretty scene Between a forlorn dog And a boy about thirteen.

A homeless dog left behind By a duncer now far away Once somebody's pet you can bet Ah, that was another day!

He was weak with hunger, He was woefully thin, His ribs stuck out, His flanks drawn in.

His brown eyes pleading As he drew near To the whistling boy And crouched in fear.

I heard the boy gently say, "You poor starved pup Come home with me, I'll feed you up."

The boy picked up the dog Went whistling away I knew that I'd heard A sermon that day.

WHAT I SEE AND HEAR IN SPORTS

BY HYPE

Well our vacation days are rapidly drawing to a close and by the time our next issue is out it will be read at some of the colleges. Some leaving this week and the balance will be aboard the choo choo by next Friday. And good luck and success to them all.

With a golf course on their grounds we would think the K. of C. would stage a tournament among its members and live things up a bit as the old saying goes. "Why go further when the best is nearest?" The Bergen Hill course seems to be well patronized with crowds both playing and watching much more so than the Augusta Street course.

The Athletic Association of St. Mary's will benefit on a percentage basis on all games played on this course and the boys who will benefit by the spirit's in the school should consider and patronize something that is going to benefit them later on. Anyhow a City Tournament would not go bad as everybody seems to have been bitten by the bug.

The benefit game for Larry St. Dennis between Walt Rogers All Stars and Bill Kennedy's star team was postponed to make way for a benefit game the league insisted on holding and which was fairly well patronized. The postponed game will be played on Sunday September 14, between the Melrose A. C. and a team to be picked by Bill Kennedy and Walt Rogers. Benny Pavlovski is to be commended for his sportsmanship in donating the field and his team for this game after being on the losing end financially all summer. The Melrose A. C. will in all probability line up with their usual team with Joey Baranowski on the mound. For the Stars, Andy Kane, Frank Stumpf have already signified their willingness together with Atkinson, a former star of the old Athletics. Jim Hyson and several others will be seen in the line up. Over 2,000 tickets are out and a magnificent sum to give St. Dennis is expected to be realized. In next week's edition the positive line-ups for both teams will appear.

Benny Pavlovski's Melrose team will journey to Jersey City to meet the St. Ann's team of that place who the Melrose boys gave a severe trouncing to a few weeks ago. But you know when you were kids about giving into the other fellows back yard and taking a lacing but Benny says he can beat the Giants the way his boys are playing. More power to you, Benny.

Benny's Melrose Boys took the Lindenau team for a sleigh ride last Sunday on the St. Mary's field. How their bats did hum and ping as they belted home runs, three baggers, and a single was just the same as striking out in any other game. Deats the boy with the Protection outfit, hung up a nice record for the field belting three homers over the fence. Cleary, the leader in the Sayreville league got one and Albany another, making a total of five round trips. While all this was going on the Lindenau outfit could do nothing with the slants of Lee Ryan who held them to 4 hits, the final score being 17 to 0.

MELROSE BEAT SACRED HEART

On Monday afternoon Benny made it twenty-five victories and two defeats for the season when Eddie Carrell held the Hearts to six hits while his team got six behind him but hit when runs counted. The Hearts held the score down with a couple of flashy double plays but were unable to solve the delivery of Carroll who held them in the palm of his hand when hits meant runs. The Sunday games should draw better crowds now that the vacation season is over as twilight ball appears to be licked. The teams being unable to start early enough to stave off darkness.

Interest in the city league seems to be lacking, the games not being as well patronized as the first half, which was run off to the satisfaction of everybody. Mostly every game played in the second half has the taint of a protest and since the league is so partial to protests, rightly so.

One of the managers whose team will be in the playoff asks the opinion of the writer and the fans as to the injustice of a five game play off in which the league will participate in the proceeds of the three games. He claims that the teams participating should divide the proceeds on a percentage basis as there may be only three games played. We do not like to express our opinion but will leave it up to the fans. So let's hear from you pro and con.

It looks like the Bulvaimen or the Caseys will be the second half winners and thereby we suffer. Another setback on our predictions but we still have two to go.

Courtesy dropped a close one to the Bulvaimen on Tuesday night. With the game 3 to 0 the Courtesy nailed two over the pan and frantic efforts to get Miletz to the mound were successful and that's the way the game ended.

The Caseys won another on last Friday from the tottering Tuscans and strengthened their hold on first place. Well wait until the postponed games and protested ones are all in then it wouldn't be hard to pick the winner as we said earlier in the Column. The Bulvaimen or the Caseys are in.

SENSATIONAL GAINS IN USE OF OIL AND GAS FOR HOME HEATING

During the past five years the consumption of fuel oil for domestic heating has increased by leaps and bounds, according to the Holland Institute of Thermology of Holland, Michigan. The output of fuel oil for this purpose has more than doubled in that period. Manufactured gas also is becoming more and more popular with home owners. In 1927, according to the Institute approximately twelve billion cubic feet of manufactured gas were used for this purpose. In 1929 this figure jumped to twenty-seven billion cubic feet. Natural gas consumption for domestic heating, according to some authorities, is far in excess of this amount.

These figures tell an amazing story of prosperity and indicate that anything that makes for greater comfort and convenience is received with open arms by the American public, even if it does cost more.

Many home owners whose homes are now equipped with coal burning plants raise the question as to whether present plants can be utilized for oil or gas heating. If heating plants are in good physical condition and if they efficiently function as heating systems during the extremes of cold weather. It may be taken for granted that they will serve efficiently for oil or gas heating, provided that the new type burners are of approved design and correctly installed. Warm air heating systems of the vapor-air type which are equipped with an automatic humidifier and also an electrically operated air propeller unit for distributing the warm air as it is generated, readily lend themselves to the use of oil or gas fuel. They are undoubtedly more effective because of forced warm air circulation and because of the humidifier which maintains a proper moisture content in the home air.

These are important factors to consider when using more expensive fuel. In lieu of customary high indoor temperature, approximately 78 to 82 degrees, the maintenance of a proper degree of relative humidity definitely assures bodily comfort at moderate temperature of 70 or 72 degrees. The electrically operated air-propeller unit uniformly distributes the warm vaporized air throughout the home, and there are no extreme differences in temperature, such as characterize homes equipped with the old-style heating systems. Therefore, definite economies are in order, as far less fuel oil or gas is required to maintain the lower indoor temperature.

Home owners are warned by the Institute not to expect oil or gas heating units to overcome any heating deficiencies that may characterize systems now installed, due to improper size, physical defects, or poor location.

Pedant Ridiculed

Sir James Mackintosh (1765-1832), eminent statesman and historian, had such a pedantic outlook on things that Sydney Smith (1771-1845), contemporary divine and wit, said that a Mackintosh dissertation on pepper would probably run after this fashion: "Pepper may philosophically be described as a dusty and highly pulverized seed of an oriental fruit, an article rather of condiment than diet, which, dispersed lightly over the surface of food, with no other rule than the caprice of the consumer, communicates pleasure rather than affords nutrition, and by adding a tropical flavor to the gross and succulent viands of the North, approximates the different regions of the earth, explains the objects of commerce, and justifies the industry of man."—Exchange.

Bodily Changes

Dr. Edward F. Adolph of the University of Rochester has stated that the elements in human bodies undergo the following changes: Water changes every three weeks; salt every 22 days; potassium, 72 days; magnesium, 103 days; nitrogen, the fundamental element of muscles, 230 days; iron, essential element of the blood, changes about every 300 days; phosphorus, 500 days; and lime, 2,300 days. Certain cells, such as the brain cells, apparently last a lifetime.

Origin of Handclasp

"How do you do?" you say when you meet a friend, and instinctively you shake hands with him or her. But why do you do it? Shaking hands is such a common form of greeting that we rarely take the trouble to consider why it is so. In the warlike times of centuries ago, when it was the custom to be armed, men took the simple precaution of grasping each other's right hand when they met, so that if one of them should prove hostile he could not seize his sword or dagger. From the ancient habit of grasping the weapon hand grew up our modern custom by offering our right hands to be clasped by friends or acquaintances.

Real Cause of Breakdown

A Swedish psychologist says that all nervous breakdowns, all the neuroses, in fact, are caused by laziness. Men work hard at their businesses, undergo much strain and anxiety, and finally break down. "Overwork" is the verdict of the neighbors, and of the old-fashioned doctor. But this psychologist denies that. He says that if a man thoroughly enjoys his work, he never has a nervous breakdown. It's working when you want to be doing something else that makes the mischief. There is a conflict of desires there, and a satisfied conflict inevitably results in a neurosis.

NORMAN SHEARER SEEN AS "AN UGLY DUCKLING"

It takes longer to make yourself homely than attractive for the screen. Norma Shearer discovered this in making up for the opening scenes in "Let Us Be Gay," her new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle which will open Sunday at the Empire Theatre.

In these scenes Miss Shearer appears as a dowdy housewife, sans all cosmetic beautifiers, her hair unkempt in kid curlers, and pinch-nose spectacles supplying the finishing touches. To muss herself up in this fashion, Miss Shearer found, required a half-hour longer than necessary for usual "dolling-up."

Robert Z. Leonard directed the talkization of the Rachel Crothers play which Frances Marion adapted for the screen. Rod La Rocque plays opposite Miss Shearer in the feature with the supporting cast including Marie Dressler, Hedda Hopper, Raymond Hackett, Sally Ellers, Gilbert Emery, and Tyrrell Davis.

STATE INDUSTRIAL HEADS TO CONVENE AT RUTGERS

Executives and representatives of practically every industry in New Jersey will attend the fifth annual industrial extension conference at Rutgers University in New Brunswick on September 9 and 10. The convention is conducted by the University Extension Division under the direction of Professor N. C. Miller, for the fifth consecutive year.

At the annual banquet held in Winants Hall on Tuesday, September 9, Dr. John M. Thomas, president of the university, is expected to preside as toastmaster, it was announced by Assistant Director W. T. Elder. The principal speaker of the evening will be W. S. Vivian, vice-president of the Middle West Utilities Company of Chicago.

The program for the two-day session includes addresses by prominent industrial leaders and discussions led by educational and industrial authorities. Among the speakers on the first day of the conference will be R. F. Dobbins, assistant to works manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company of Newark; B. M. Smith, manager of General Manufacturing Division, Thomas A. Edison, Inc., Orange; D. M. Meeker, personnel manager, Celuloid Corporation, Newark; and Professor M. J. Brines of the Rutgers extension staff.

On Wednesday, speakers will be E. L. Packer, chief clerk, and Charles Spragg, foreman, of the United States Aluminum Company, Edgewater; E. D. Spicer, assistant manager, General Electric Company, Schenectady; Assistant Director M. A. Chaffee and Professors J. H. Vertrees and J. R. Clovis of the extension division; R. C. Gray, general superintendent, Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation, Harrison; E. R. Honeyman, manager of personnel, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey; John J. Mooney, superintendent of the Standard Gas Equipment Corporation, Jersey City; A. T. Garrett, chief of section, Western Electric Company; A. F. Flay, employment secretary, Y. M. C. A., Jersey City.

District's Claims Allowed

The District of Columbia was not originally considered in the appointment of Rhodes scholarships. After years of consideration it was ruled that the district be treated as part of Maryland, and the first election under this arrangement was held in December, 1924.

How Jabez Got Revenge

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

"IT IS indeed, a long lane that has no turning," thought Jabez Martin grimly, as he rode along the country road, bound for the farmstead of his life-long enemy, Matthew Scott. Matthew and he had been at school together—and had fought, even as little boys. Then they had grown up and had courted the same girl and Matthew had married her. Jabez never married. He devoted the rest of his life to making money—and having his successful rival. And Matthew had prospered, too; though not to the same extent as Jabez. Matthew had gone in for apple raising and, everybody said, had made a fortune.

The prosperity of Jabez had come from cultivating mortgages and making loans at ten per cent. Also from an uncanny instinct he possessed with regard to investment in stocks. He had an office in the city and spent his time there—but he had never ceased to lay low for a chance at Matthew. And now he had him. For Matthew, instead of sticking to his apples and peaches, had been lured afield into the thorny and treacherous ways of financial speculation. And there was just this difference between Jabez and Matthew—when Matthew bought any stock it went down; and when Jabez bought any it went up. Secretly, through agents of his own, Jabez had followed on Matthew's trail—and was now prepared to take his financial scalp.

Clarissa Thornton—the girl who had preferred to become Mrs. Scott rather than Mrs. Martin—had been dead a year now. Jabez's slit of a mouth grew firmer and his little eyes glowed with a wicked gleam as he considered the things he would do to Matthew in the near future. Just then he came to where the road forked and stopped, hesitating which fork to take. It was years since he had been along that road.

"Let's see," mused he, "I think it is the right fork that goes by Matthew's. I'll ask that young man I just passed"—and he waited for the young man who was walking behind him to come up.

"Take the road to the left," said the young man; "then the first turn to the right. I'm on my way to Mr. Scott's myself. If you will allow me to jump in I'll pilot you."

Jabez fixed his eyes upon the frank open face of the youth and a strange, inexplicable feeling came over him. Something seemed to be cutting to the old man out of the past, something stirring within him feelings long dormant—dead, as he had supposed, forever. "Jump in," he said.

After a moment's silence he turned to the young man and asked: "Do you know Mr. Scott?"

"Why, yes," replied the youth with a laugh; "rather! He is my father."

"Clarissa's boy," escaped from the old man's lips in murmured tone.

"Clarissa was my mother's name," said the young man. "Did you know her, sir?"

"Yes," replied Jabez, "I knew her—and your father, too," he added grimly in his best diplomatic manner. He drove very slowly, purposely, and before they reached the Scott place he had turned the young man "inside out," as the saying is.

He had learned the old, old story of a young man and a maiden, very much in love and kept from marrying by a stern parent who was resolved that his son should marry a girl picked out for him and not the choice of his own heart. "You are quite sure that you love this Helen Barstow?" asked Jabez.

"I shall, never love another woman as I do her," was the reply. "We shall marry, anyway. In this matter I cannot conform to my father's wishes. But, you see, we will have to wait a long time. I must get a little money ahead first. I must get a job somewhere, somehow. And I do hate to break with father, awfully. But it must be done."

Jabez, while talking with William, had mellowed to an extent which would have caused his business acquaintances in the city, had they seen and heard him, to conclude that the old man had lost his mind. But he hadn't; he had only changed it.

"Now, William," said he when at last they arrived at the Scott place, "you show me into the parlor and go and tell your father I am waiting for him there. And don't worry about Helen. Your father and I are old acquaintances. Perhaps I can persuade him."

Jabez and Matthew were closeted together for two hours. Then the conference was over a treaty had been signed which appeared to be satisfactory to both. That night Matthew said to his son: "William, if you really are set upon marrying that Barstow girl—why, I suppose I'll have to give my consent."

"Hurrah!" cried William—and then reflecting, "Did Mr. Martin say any thing about it?"

"Why, yes," replied Matthew. "I believe that, in the course of our business talk, he did allude to something of the kind."

SOUTH RIVER NIGHT RIDERS CARNIVAL SATURDAY NEXT

The South River Night Riders, one of the most popular and best liked group of young men in this section, are holding a monster up-to-date Carnival from Saturday, Sept. 6th to Saturday, Sept. 13th at the Polish National Grove on Raritan Avenue and Jackson Street, South River. They have arranged stands in the best possible way with some of the best material obtainable and well decorated. There will be dancing every evening to the best music obtainable by the popular orchestra under the direction of Teddy Lewis and also special entertainment. Every evening there will be a $5.00 Gold prize given to holder of the lucky number. On the last Saturday night, Sept. 13th, which will be known as a Mardi Gras Night, the Riders have made arrangements to conduct a state prize waltz contest to be judged by a well known dancing teacher and instructor and in order to enter the contest the waltzers must enter their names at the entrance to the dancing pavilion not later than Saturday night, Sept. 13th, at 11:30 P. M. The contest will be held at 11:45 P. M. and the prizes are being donated by the merchants and business men of the borough, some of the prizes being a permanent wave, a wrist watch, free suppers after the dance, hair cuts and shoe shines, gold prizes of all kinds and numerous other prizes too many to mention and then the wind up the Mardi Gras with plenty of confetti streamers novelties and etc. The committee is headed by a very lively group of young men and promise this to be one of their most talked of and biggest carnivals in this section of the state. Their motto is to be happy and enjoy life and forget your troubles with the Night Riders of South River.

Ford Adds Dump

Body Trucks to Line

One and a half ton trucks with dump bodies are now a part of the standard line of Fords, Dorsey Motors, local Ford dealers, announced today. The dump trucks may be had with any one of five body types.

"The many improvements in the Model AA truck chassis, including a four speed transmission, optional dual rear wheels, and stronger axles, brakes and springs, have resulted in a truck that is efficient and economical in most every form of truck transportation except that involving the heaviest hauling," they said.

"The improved truck has come into such wide use among coal dealers, contractors and others requiring small dump bodies that the Ford Motor Company decided to include dump bodies among its standard equipment. The dump trucks are available with a hydraulic dump body with hoist of one and one half tons normal operating capacity; a heavy duty hydraulic dump body; a heavy duty mechanical dump body; a gravity dump body; and a hand dump body.

"The bodies are made of one piece of steel. There are no center or bottom seams to interfere with the free flow of materials."

F. M. P. Pearse Jr.

Weds Virginia Girl

Son of Former City Solicitor Married at Richmond, Va.

Frederic Montagu Penley Pearse, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic M. P. Pearse, of Metuchen, formerly of this city, and Miss Emily Edmondson Penick, of Lexington, Va., were united in marriage in Lexington last Saturday evening by Dr. J. J. Murray pastor of the Presbyterian Church; assisted by Dr. Churckill J. Gibson, rector of St. James Episcopal Church of Richmond, Va. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Penick, Mr. Penick being treasurer of Washington and Lee University and a leading banker of Lexington. George Such Pearse, brother of the groom served as best man. Mrs. Douglas Steele Higgins, of Oteen, N. C., a cousin of the bride, was matron of honor and two sisters of the bride were maids of honor. The ceremony was attended by the grooms father and mother.

The bride is an accomplished musician, a graduate of Hollins College and a student of A. Y. Cornell in New York. The groom is a graduate of Rutgers Preparatory School and of the College of Liberal Arts at Washington. He plans to complete his study of law this winter at Washington and Lee University. After that he expects to make his home in Metuchen and enter the law firm of his father in Newark.

MARY LENA SPATFORD

Mary Lena Spatford, nine years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Spatford, of 134 South Pine avenue, passed away on Friday last at 10:45 A. M., from acute cardiac dilation, the result of an attack of scarlet fever a few weeks before.

Besides her parents, the deceased is survived by two brothers, George H., Jr., and Thomas William.

The funeral was held from her late home on Monday at 8:30, thence to St. Mary's Church, where a solemn High Mass was said for the repose of her soul. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery under the direction of the Gundrum Service.

The pallbearers were playmates of the girl, Theodore Hensberger, Chas. Bloodgood, Frank Brennan, Leo Bachman, Edward McKeon and Edward Dunn.

FORMER LOCAL GIRL WRITES INTERESTING BOOK

mere drudges.

Unmarried women have no status whatsoever and the married woman is little better for in all things she is utterly subject to her husband's will. He is master and absolute lord. The Kabyle woman has no hereditary right, she has no property rights, save the rights of the clothes she wears, she can be sold, and is sold, by her father or any other male relative of the family, she has no choice of husband and divorce is unknown.

On the other hand the lot of the husband is the easiest imaginable. He is under no obligation to feed or clothe his wife, can leave her whenever he desires and she can do nothing. Should the husband leave his wife and wish to be rid of her he simply has to announce that he has "set a price upon her head." In this case, the woman although repudiated, cannot marry another man unless the latter pays first to the former husband the sum he has set as ransom. Meantime she is put out of circulation.

Greatly superstitious are these people of North Africa. The author cites numerous cases to illustrate their almost childlike beliefs. In one case a man came to the author claiming that he was afflicted with seven devils. According to his story, this man was caught stealing onions from his neighbor's garden and the latter called upon the father of all devils to afflict him with seven devils.

Not long after this, the man said, his jaws began to ache and he was convinced that the devils were chewing upon his teeth. An examination disclosed a badly ulcerated tooth and after extraction the devils ceased their work.

In this land people evidently have a peculiar idea about age. Miss Such cites an instance during a visit to one of the families. The grandmother began with the family history by telling that she herself was very, very old, past forty, her daughter was aging rapidly, being twenty six years old and her daughter thirteen was about to be married.

Miss Such was then asked her age and upon replying that she was thirty two, the natives expressed doubt, she did not look that old, they said. In a spirit of fun Miss Such remarked that American women retained their youth by replacing the worn out parts with new and to illustrate removed the upper plate of her teeth to show them. One of the women more nimble than the rest, who herself had lost her own teeth, was fascinated by the demonstration and grabbed the teeth and tried them in. The fact that they were not made to fit her did not seem to matter and it took considerable persuasion and the passing of considerable money before the teeth were restored to their rightful owner.

The educational value of Miss Such's book is great indeed and it can be recommended as an exceedingly interesting volume.
