

Broadway-Corner Plot Changes Hands: New Owner To Build Store

Alex Silver Buys Conroy Tract; Plans Modern Structure.

A real estate transaction that will have a far reaching effect on local business along Broadway was put through by Reinhardt and Kurowsky, Broadway real estate agency this week. In the deal Alex Silver, Broadway furniture dealer, purchased the property at the northeast corner of David street and Broadway from John Conroy, who purchased the property from the Parson estate several years ago. It is understood that previous efforts to purchase the property by other local men interested fell through because of the price at which it was held by the owner. It is also understood that recently this price was lowered somewhat.

From Mr. Silver it is learned that he intends to remove the present buildings which are occupied by a family as a residence and as an office by Francis P. Coan local lawyer. Mr. Silver will have a new structure erected which he will occupy as an up-to-date furniture store. The structure will occupy the entire 42 foot frontage and extend back to the railroad lines a distance of a hundred feet. The first floor and basement will be fitted up to accommodate first rate facilities for a furniture store and on the second floor will be at least three suites of offices and in the rear will be living quarters. The offices will be rented by Mr. Silver in response to an already established demand that has been evident for some time. The apartments in the rear will probably be occupied by Mr. Silver and his family.

This is the third new structure to go up in this block in recent months. The most recent is the two story brick building built by S. Szabolcsky which is occupied by two stores and two apartments. Mr. Szabolcsky has a shoe repairing and renovating establishment in one of the stores, the other being occupied by Morris Rosenthal as a ladies and gents pressing, cleaning, etc. establishment.

Before the Szabolcsky establishment was begun the Meinerz building on the corner of Augusta St. was nearing completion. It contained living quarters on the upper floor and an office now occupied as a dental office. Three stores were provided on the ground floor, two of which are now occupied.

Just recently the Berrien building occupied by the A. & P. store was remodeled and the store interior entirely refitted with new fixtures. There will remain after the Silver building is started, only one of the small one-story buildings that once faced Broadway in this block.

Car Owner Suspected as Dead Youth's Companion

Surrenders to Police—Held Under Bail—Officers Released Too.

Leo Letts, of Parker avenue, this city, wanted by the police as an accomplice in the attempted robbery of the Public Service gasoline pump on Fifth street, surrendered to Chief of Police Gleason at the City Hall about ten o'clock last Friday morning. Letts was accompanied to City Hall by his attorney Alex F. Reed, who recently established offices in this city.

Letts was suspected of being the companion of Joseph Durski who died last Friday morning of a bullet wound accidentally sustained while running away from the scene of the attempted robbery. Letts was given a hearing before Police Justice Van Cleaf and held under a bail bond of $500 for appearance before the Grand Jury. It is understood that neither of the special officers who surprised two men, one of whom proved to be Durski, were positive of their identification of Letts as the man that escaped. Letts was the owner of the car abandoned by the pair that made their escape. Letts claimed he had loaned the car to Durski.

Special Officer Eugene Thomas, from whose gun a bullet accidentally struck Durski and caused his death, reported at the office of the County Prosecutor on Friday morning soon after he heard of Durski's death. Thomas was held under a nominal bail of $2500 on a charge of homicide.

TEACHES YOUNGSTERS VALUE OF MONEY

One of the valued subscribers to the Citizen has called our attention to his own interpretation of the Montessori method of inculcating knowledge in youngsters. Mr. Alfonso Birardi made a recent test with his own three youngsters, Michael, Rose and Antonia, aged nine, seven and six years respectively. He deposited a sum of money of various denominations among the growing plants on his property on Felts street and left it to the youngsters to return the coins, together with a report of the amount retrieved. The result showed that little Antonia, who has spent only one year in school work, not only returned the largest sum, but also named the amounting money and other values to youngsters might well be adopted by others in this city and vicinity.

Celebration July 12th

Here to Honor First Govt. Air Mail Route

First Postal Air Route 18 Years Ago to Be Commemorated.

The initial steps leading to a celebration in this city on July 12th, were taken by a small band of enterprising local citizens at a meeting in the Trust Company Building on Tuesday night. To commemorate the start of the first duly authorized air mail service which left this city on July 4, eighteen years ago, is the aim of the celebration.

Placing in position of a plaque on the local post office stating the essential facts concerning the birth of air mail service in this country is also to be a part of the celebration.

Present roughly outlined plans for the celebration indicate a gaily decorated city over which will hover flocks of airplanes and squadrons of hydroplanes and perhaps the Los Angeles while in the streets will be speakers of note, famous air pilots and officials representing the airplane industry, representatives of the Postal Department, noted politicians, etc. Once again there will be a special air mail route, designated to follow the route of the single pouch of eighteen years ago, which was loaded aboard Pilot O. G. Simmons' plane on the local shore front and carried via air to Perth Amboy.

Among the notables that it is already assured will be present for the occasion is the Trans-Atlantic Pilot, Clarence Chamberlain and Assistant (Continued on page four)

Joseph M. Sutliff. The will was dated August 4, 1925.

Fire Destroys Scully

Barn Last Night

Fighting fire in a rain not of their own making was somewhat of a novelty for the local firemen and an experience that they had an opportunity to enjoy last night. The fire was in the one-time barn, more recently garage, on the Scully property on Augusta street. The building has not been in use for some time and it is thought that some stray lodgers were responsible for the fire.

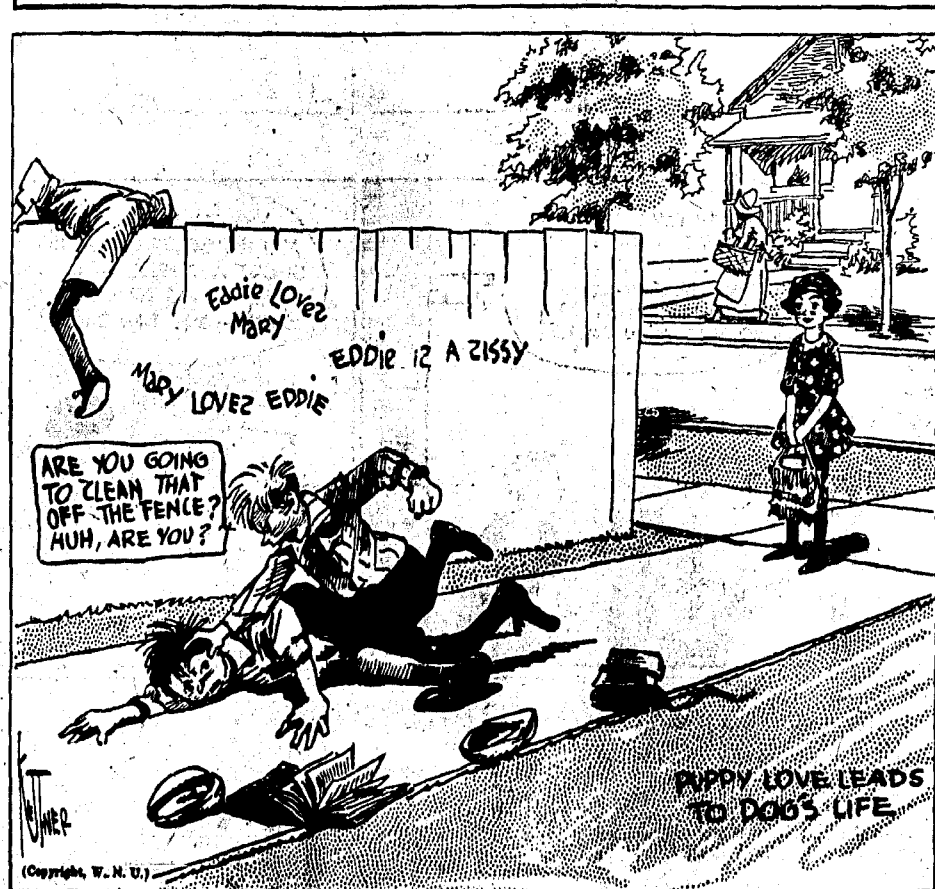

It was just about the time a heavy thunder shower had reached here when the fire alarm was turned in from Box 42, Rosewell and Henry Sts. A second alarm was sounded a few minutes later, perhaps to convince firemen that the first one was not a false alarm or wire trouble from the storm. With all the apparatus on hand the fire, which seemed to be most inside the barn, where the rain didn't help stem it, was soon under control. The barn was badly damaged, however.

Wilhelm Purchases

Welsh's Hall Bldg.

First St. Man To Modernize Structure Work Started.

Another real estate transaction during the past week was the purchase by G. T. Wilhelm local plumber and heating contractor, of the three story brick building on First street known as "Welsh's Hall." This property will be improved by the erection of a two car granite block garage, together with a new stairway to upper floors. All three floors will be refloored, and modern improvements installed. The main store and floor will be occupied by Mr. Wilhelm's plumbing and steamheating business, while the two upper floors will be rented as lodge and meeting rooms.

A feature will be the installation of complete kitchen equipment for the use of organizations making their headquarters in this building. The popular "Dory" appears to have a great deal of faith in business possibilities in South Amboy and also in First street real estate. In addition to the property investments mentioned he has recently erected a large "Neon" electric advertising sign on his place of business.

Radio Repair Bill

Gets Man In Trouble

J. E. Slover Sues Bway. Dealer but Has To Pay Anyway.

The action on a writ of replevin of James E. Slover, of the Mechanicsville section, against S. F. Leager, Broadway radio dealer, in the Perth Amboy courts was terminated early this week with Leager, the defendant, coming out on top. Attorney Leo J. Coakley, of this city, represented Slover; J. Spitzer, of Perth Amboy, representing Leager.

Slover, it seems had purchased a radio and there was a bill for service charges rendered by Leager that had been allowed to run for something like a year. When the machine broke down Slover sent for Leager to fix it. The repairs required special tools and apparatus available only at the Leager shop, so the machine was taken there for attention. After the repairs were made, the cost of which were considerable, Leager demanded payment of the old bill and Slover went to law to get the machine back.

A preliminary hearing was held on the replevin some weeks ago at which Leager was permitted to retain the radio pending the hearing. At the hearing this week the writ was denied. Slover soon thereafter, through his attorney, paid up his account with the local man and took the radio home himself.

NEIGHBORS COMPLAIN OF PARTY MAKING "WHOOPEE"

George street residents complained to police headquarters Wednesday evening of being annoyed by noises coming from the home of a George street resident, where a house party was seemingly in progress, according to a report at headquarters. Officer O'Connor was detailed when the complaints reached almost half a dozen in number, shortly after eleven o'clock. He appears to have been successful in quieting the party down or else the merry-makers hadn't realized they were leaving themselves liable to the swearing out of a warrant by neighbors charging them with being nuisances.

Moose Lodge Members

Honor Secy. Minnick

Present Purse For 14 Years Service to Local Lodge.

South Amboy Lodge No. 1554, Local Order of Moose, at its regular meeting on June 24th, honored its Secretary, James Minnick, by presenting him with a purse of $25. in gold. This honor came to Mr. Minnick because of his fourteen years of continuous and faithful service to the Lodge as Secretary. Mr. Minnick since the beginning of the Lodge, sixteen years ago, has been one of the most active and energetic members, and in the presentation address of Dictator J. D. Mullane, the opinion was expressed that a great deal of the progress of the local organization was due to Mr. Minnick's efforts.

The Moose organization has been exceedingly active for years past, and is constantly admitting new members, until now it is classed as one of the largest fraternal organizations in the city. The next enterprise of the lodge seems to be the purchase or erection of a permanent home, and the Building committee has inspected several places of property in prominent locations, but as yet nothing definite has been decided upon. The committee reports, however, that before the sixteenth anniversary of the local lodge, which will be celebrated on September 23rd, next, the permanent housing of the lodge will be an actual fact.

At the sixteenth anniversary celebration in September, a gala affair is being planned, and many State and National officials of the organization will be in attendance.

In addition to the membership of the organization, all New Jersey men in hospitals will be brought to the encampment. Word has also been received from the headquarters of the state police that all members of that body assigned to work during the convention will be overseas men.

High School Loses

Commercial Teacher

Miss Yarnall Resigns To Take Union City Offer—Job Not Filled

Miss Miriam Yarnall, shorthand and typewriting teacher in the local Public Schools, submitted her resignation to the Board of Education here Wednesday evening. The Board took action to accept the resignation with regret when the Superintendent explained that Miss Yarnall had been offered a position in Union City at a salary very much larger than she had received here.

In the usual monthly report of the Superintendent, Mr. Barr in referring to Miss Yarnall's resignation, said: "Miss Yarnall has done an excellent piece of work and I very much regret losing her services. She has a splendid opportunity for advancement and we should not stand in her way of accepting the offer."

The Board of Education was in receipt of two more applications for the position as commercial teacher at Wednesday night's meeting. Both were evidently aware of the vacancy that was to occur. One was from Elmer Wilkison, of Collinswood, the other from Elmer K. Moffett, of Palmyra. Both applications were referred to the teachers committee.

The teachers committee, of which Dr. J. F. Weber is the chairman, had interviewed no teachers nor investigated to any extent any applications. This committee recommended that filling the vacancy left by Miss Yarnall's leaving be postponed until the next meeting, which will be on July 23rd. In this the rest of the Board concurred.

FRIEND OF SOUTH AMBOYANS GOES TO ETERNAL REST

Henry Wolff Dies Peacefully At Home Saturday.

Last Saturday about noon time South Amboy lost one of its oldest and best friends in the death of Mr. Henry Wolff. For sixty years this old gentleman had gone his quiet way about the community and by reason of his deeds endeared himself to practically every resident of this city. His death, even at the ripe old age of four score and five years, coming as a relief to a long illness, spread a pall of sadness and regret over his numerous friends both here and elsewhere throughout the State.

The end of his sufferings came at his home at the corner of Felts and Washington streets. It was from there that the funeral was held on Monday. As the news spread of his decease there was an almost constant stream of friends who visited the home to pay their last respects to an old friend. At the funeral, too, there was a gathering such as is seldom seen in size, according to a further tribute to the esteem in which the departed citizen was held by his townspeople.

Leaving the local home about half past one o'clock the cortege went directly to Beth Mordecai synagogue in Perth Amboy, of which Mr. Wolff was a prominent member. There the services for the departed were held at two o'clock in the presence of more than a thousand people who had gathered especially to pay their last respects to a valued friend. During the services Rabbi Max Davidson paid a most unusual tribute to a departed coworker.

In his eulogy, Rabbi Davidson said in part:

"There is an ancient Jewish legend that tells of a wonderful, mysterious land beyond this universe of ours. In that land none of the mortal suffering of this world touches the inhabitants. More wonderful than all, in that land, there is no death, no sudden unwilling journeying to a strange terrifying country. There, when a man has given life his toll, his strength, his talent, when he is tired, he goes to the top of the mountain, secluded and fragrant with the perfume of nature. There he lies down, drops his weary head upon the sod, and goes to rest in an eternal sleep."

"So too, Henry Wolff has gone. In venerable old age, after a life of toil, a life filled, like the lives of most of us, with a curious mixture of sorrow and happiness, of toil and fulfillment, he went up into the mountain top of Gods mercy, and lay down his weary head in refreshing, eternal sleep."

"We can hardly believe that is (Continued on page four)

Teachers Must Report

A Day Early Next Fall

New Plan To Get All Ready Before Students Come In.

By reason of the action taken by the Board of Education Wednesday night the local Public Schools will open for the fall term here on Thursday, September 4th. But all teachers are this year to be required to report at the schools the day before that set for the school opening. They are to spend Wednesday in drawing their supplies, checking promotion lists, etc., which work is usually done on the day school opens. This is the first time for the local schools that teachers are required to report ahead of the day set for school opening.

The Superintendent of Schools, O. O. Barr, explained that it was becoming quite customary elsewhere in the state to follow this practice. The plan is expected to result in the teachers being able to devote their full time during the first two days of school to getting the work organized and the students down to business. Thus with the opening of the schools the following Monday everything will be in readiness to run efficient start on the years work.

The school calendar, adopted by the Board at the recommendation of the Superintendent, is as follows:

September 4th, Thursday, Schools Open.
October 13th, Monday, Columbus Day.
November 4th, Tuesday, Election Day.
November 11th, Tuesday, Armistice Day.
Nov. 27th and 28th, Thanksgiving Recess.
Dec. 25th to Jan. 2nd., Christmas Recess.
Feb. 23rd, Monday, Washington's Birthday.
April 3rd, Friday, Good Friday.
Apr. 6th to 10th, Spring Recess.
June 17th, Wednesday, Commencement.
June 19th, Friday, Schools close.

"BILL" SULLIVAN TRIES SUICIDE

William J. Sullivan, formerly of this city, is now a patient in the Perth Amboy City Hospital, following what the Perth Amboy police department describe as an attempt at suicide. Sullivan was taken into custody by the police of that city, when found wandering about the streets of the city and was placed in confinement over night. The following morning while the prisoners were lined up in the corridor of the Hall, Sullivan attempted to commit suicide by jumping from the top of the building.

He was taken to the hospital where he is now being treated. Sullivan was a well known figure in the city and was a member of the local police department. He was found wandering about the streets of the city and was placed in confinement over night. The following morning while the prisoners were lined up in the corridor of the Hall, Sullivan attempted to commit suicide by jumping from the top of the building.

LOOKING BACK

Issue of June 27th, 1908

Sylvester Welsh is home from St. Charles College, Ellicott City, Md., for the summer.

George W. Welsh has graduated from St. Charles College, Ellicott City, Md., and this week has been enjoying the sights of Washington, D. C., with the alumni of the college.

The new spire of the M. E. Church is well along toward completion. The committee have purchased a 1,000 Blimmer bell.

Contractor W. B. Peppier has about completed the large balcony and porch in front of the Pimlott House. It looks well and the tenants will undoubtedly find great comfort in its use.

Joseph Pippet, a fireman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in the yard here, was overcome by the heat on Thursday and was taken home in the company's stage.

Miss May L. Locker and Miss Lauretta Bloodgood are attending as delegates the annual convention of the Girl's Friendly Societies of this diocese now in session at Island Heights. The young ladies were accompanied by Mrs. William Nichols.

Mr. and Mrs. Roller C. Baird, accompanied by Mrs. Baird's sister, Miss Bella Jackson and Miss Bessie Mundy, left town on Tuesday noon to go to Highland Beach in their auto to join the members of the Baptist Church who had gone down by trolley in the morning.

Percy H. Locker spent Wednesday of this week on a visit to Philadelphia. This was the first time Percy had been to the Quaker City so that it was to him a special treat. He enjoyed the pleasure of seeing many of the historic attractions of the city and returned home greatly pleased.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Baptist Church has elected the following named officers: President, Miss Addie Emmons, vice president, Miss Fannie Hardy, recording secretary, Miss B. I. Mundy, corresponding secretary, Mr. E. C. Roddy, treasurer, Miss Henrietta McKenna; organist, Miss Mae Compton; assistant organist, Miss Mae Emmons.

The metropolitan and county newspapers have stirred up some excitement in our borough in the circulation of a story of abduction. Investigation locally has failed to find any facts upon which the story was based.

On July 21st the people of this borough will be called upon to say, by ballot, whether or not they approve of changing our present form of government to that of a city of the third class.

No doubt many who attended the commencement exercises of the High School and listened to the fine program rendered by the graduates did not stop to think of the fact that the anxiety and patient labor that it cost the class in preparation of the various subjects allotted them. The class of '08 taken as a whole presented some excellent work and justly earned the compliments the audience showered upon them.

On Tuesday evening the members and friends of the Presbyterian Church tendered a reception to their new pastor, the Rev. George Kane. Good fellowship reigned and an excellent social time was enjoyed.

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT
The High School Commencement exercises were held in K. of P. Hall on Friday night. The hall was crowded to its utmost and seats were next to impossible to get.

The graduating class of eleven members entered the hall together and marched in single file up the aisle to the platform. The exercises were opened by the Rev. H. M. P. Pearce, after which the Class assisted by other voices sang the song "Over the Seas." Miss Cecil Anna Walters delivered the Salutatory; this was followed by an address by Albert Roll Bergen, on "Americanism," the Class poem was delivered by Elizabeth Dorothy Minnick. The composition was admirable, and the delivery was creditable indeed. The Class motto was delivered by Lillian D. Wood. Alfred Arthur Nelson's "Class History" was interesting and elicited considerable applause. The song "Chrysosar" was well sung by the Class and choir. Helen M. Applegate gave the Class prophecy, infusing into it much of original thought and humor. Anna Miller excellently recited "The Swan Song." Marguerite S. Thomas distributed the mementoes with wit and self-possession. The "Return Prophecy and Mementoes" was creditably presented by Theodosia Grover Hendrickson. The Class Will was an original piece that took well, making quite a hit as delivered by Maude Estelle Van Schoek. Adelaide H. Thompson was valedictorian. This was followed by a song, after which Senator George S. Slizer, of New Brunswick, delivered the address to the graduates. The address was brief, but full of well digested thought for the young people. Many suggestions of much worth and force were neatly expressed by the Senator. Said he: "You have done well and are nicely equipped to begin life's duties, but don't for a moment imagine that you know it all. The books you have not read are more than all you have seen; the things you don't know would fill more volumes than your present knowledge would fill; don't stop studying, but persevere on to higher points of knowledge; don't be content to stay at the bottom but prepare yourselves carefully for loftier places, for in all professions or callings, there is lots of room at the top."

FORD SELLS 40% IN MIDDLESEX COUNTY

Registrations for the month of May show a total of 552 new passenger cars, of which 211 automobiles, or nearly 40% are Fords.

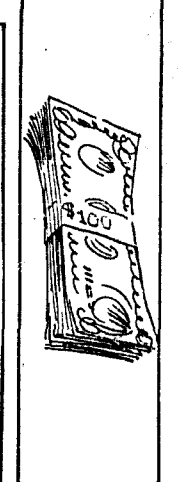

May commercial registrations for Middlesex total 69 units of which 30 units or 43% are Fords.

"Our Ford sales to June 1st exceed 1929 by 13%," says an official of Dorsey Motors, Inc. This increase is very gratifying, considering the fact that 1929 was a record year.

MRS. SUSANA SMITH

"At my age, 75, I didn't think any medicine would help me," said Mrs. Susana Smith, 252 Grove street, Brooklyn. "I had dreadful neuritis pains for four years. The pains were so bad I didn't think I would be able to stand them. First one place of my body was affected, then another. Finally stomach trouble developed and added to my misery."

"Some friends of mine in Pennsylvania recommended Konjola. I bought one bottle and it helped me so much I continued the treatment. Konjola is the only medicine that benefited me and I felt like I did years ago. The neuritis has been driven from my body and my digestion was restored. I recommend Konjola to everyone because I know what it will do."

It is recommended that six or eight bottles of Konjola be taken to obtain the best results. Konjola was not designed for mere temporary relief. It's goal is far beyond that.

Konjola is sold in South Amboy at Jaques Pharmacy and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

SOUTH AMBOY HAS
HAS 1,050 TELEPHONES

New equipment is being installed in the South Amboy telephone central office to provide facilities to care for increasing telephone needs, it was announced by D. H. Ford, manager for the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company.

There are now about 1,050 telephones in South Amboy and the new equipment will be adequate to serve nearly 200 more, Mr. Ford said. Work necessary to complete the installation will require several more weeks.

In addition to new apparatus required to serve the exchange area of South Amboy, equipment also is being added to handle the increasing number of calls from out of town. Growth of South Amboy is accurately reflected by this increasing demand for telephone service, Mr. Ford declared. An average of more than 4,000 calls are being made daily through the South Amboy central office.

SALUTATORY ADDRESS AT ST. MARY'S GRADUATION

The following Salutatory address was delivered by Doris Brennan at the commencement exercises of St. Mary's High School held last week:

Rt. Rev. Monsignor; Rev. Fathers, Dear Sisters, Kind Parents and Friends:

The hour of graduation is nigh upon us, and we who have looked forward to this day of days with such eager yearning and happy anticipation, rejoice in the presence of those, who have assembled here this evening, to share these few remaining moments with us, and delight in the happiness that now is ours. To all we extend a cordial hearty welcome, and express our sincere appreciation for the kindly interest that has brought you here tonight. For many of us, tonight would not be possible, were it not for the splendid encouragement and unselfish help of all those who have spurred us onward to the attainment of this goal. Again you are thrice welcome and the Class of 1930 accords your presence a delightful honor.

And you, Rt. Rev. Monsignor McGrath, and Reverend Fathers, we wish you to know that we have invited you here this evening primarily to extend to you our appreciation of the good you have done us, and through which we have in no small measure been able to achieve our present end. Every trifling occasion and petty attainment has always received your approbation and the honor of your presence fills each with a secret joy, which would indeed be lacking were you not here to witness our transition from school life to actualities.

It would indeed require all the lavish prodigality of thought and the silvery tongue of an orator to pay tribute that is so well deserved to those who have labored for us, that the gates of learning might be opened and we might taste something of the wisdom of the sages. Our fewness of words, and meagre display of phrases are all too insufficient to convey to those noble women of our faculty the appreciation and gratitude which are hidden in the depths of our hearts. The memories of them will live, and the high ideals they have endeavored always to instill into us, will be a stimulus to greater things. We, the Class of 1930, attribute our success to our splendid faculty, and may each deed and work of ours be a continual source of pleasure and pride to you who have been such patient and noble mentors to us all.

And now, to you, our loving parents, goes our most touching and loving welcome. Only you, who are so dear to us, who have sacrificed so much for us, can read the pleasure that lies deep within the heart of each. Our joy tonight is yours, and we ask you to share it, as only a father and a mother can. It is the thought that mother or father is watching that brings the truest joy, and much of the happiness of tonight would indeed be missing were you not here.

Finally, to you, Right Reverend and dear Monsignor Griffin, we extend a welcome filled with delight and congratulations at the new dignity that has been conferred upon you. Twenty-five years ago today, Holy Mother Church elevated you to the Sacred Priesthood, and now, after long years of fruitful toil, that same Church, in the person of our Holy Father, has crowned you a member of the Papal Household. No one, more than you, our children, who have come in daily contact with you, can better appreciate how well deserving you are of this significant honor. Though the esteem in which you are held is shared by the whole school, we of the Class of 1930, look upon you more as a friend whose kind and fatherly counsel may be sought by all. Your unfailing sense of humor, has been a joy to us, and we all feel as if we have travelled with you. Your ability to be lenient, when leniency is required, and severe when severity is wanted, has inspired us with a whole hearted respect for you. In departing from St. Mary's we want you to know how deep is the gratitude we feel for the keen interest you have shown in all our little affairs, for the sympathy, the generosity and the love that you have always showered upon us.

Again we bid you all a most cordial welcome.

SAYREVILLE GIRL'S
ADDRESS AT ST. MARY'S

Valedictory address delivered by Rosemary Miller at St. Mary's High School commencement exercises last week.

Rt. Rev. Monsignor; Rev. Fathers: Fond Parents and Kind Friends: In this glorious month of June, amid perfect days and sunny hours, we are rejoicing in one of youth's bright honors, a graduation. Our minds are under the spell of two great forces, memory and hope. In thinking of the past, the few short years now gone forever, we remember only the joys which would not last, which vanished, like waves upon the shore. Forgotten indeed on this glad occasion is each irksome task and rule, and only the tenderest memories linger around that name which has become a cherished one—St. Mary's High.

But beloved classmates, the days and hours of our scholastic life here are rapidly dwindling into moments. How we would wish to avert the ruthless stroke, the parting knell that speeds us on our way. But let us hasten to say farewell.

Rt. Rev. Monsignor, what words could convey our appreciation of your solicitude for our spiritual and educational betterment? By your efforts, unobtruded by obstacles, by your time and labor freely given, you have raised the standard of our beloved school to the highest plane established by the school systems of our commonwealth. Your reward surely abides in the consciousness of duty faithfully performed yet, in appreciation of your kindness we extend to you heartfelt thanks.

ing rewarded. We thank you and trust you will never need to regret your efforts on our behalf.

And now, dear Classmates, the hour has come when we can continue as a class no longer. Our ranks have already been broken by the death of our beloved classmates, and each and every one of us must now go forth into the diverse paths of life. The call of duty comes, and we must go, for in it we hear the voice of God. A high honor and distinction rests upon us as this day we commence our service, and take our places as actors in the great pageant of the world. Let us go forth to help and bless others by our lives. Let us never keep ever fresh in our memories and emblazoned on our hearts the motto of our class of 1930—"Seeking first the Kingdom of God."

TWO THOUSAND YEARS OF VIRGIL

Address given by Walter Walezak at St. Mary's High School commencement exercises.

The world delights to honor those benefactors who help us believe in the greater possibilities of the human spirit. Though scientific discovery and artistic creation bring peculiar honor to the nation from which the scientist or artist springs, his work enriches not alone his native land, but all mankind. Recognizing this fact, the nations of the civilized world are in this year, 1930, vying with one another in honoring the memory of "the chastest poet, and royalist, that to the memory of man is known." For indeed of all the world's great personages, it is the poets who make the strongest appeal for universal recognition. Their influence reaches further and lasts longer than that of any contemporary famous only in affairs of state. Hence, it seems safe to assert that whenever the world's artists are ranked according to merit one star of the first magnitude in the constellation of poets will always bear the name of Publius Virgilius Maro. Born some seventy years before the beginning of the Christian era, in the little Italian village of Mantua, his influence has for 2,000 years left a deep imprint on the human race. Commemorations of the 2,000th anniversary of his birth have already begun and will continue throughout this summer, and a grand, culminating in the elaborate ceremonies at Mantua on October 15, the day of his birth.

The significance of the event lies largely in the fact that it is Virgil who, more than any other ancient writer, bridges the gap between antiquity and later ages in the world's history and between paganism and Christianity.

To the man in the street Virgil may be quite unknown, but as Dante, Michelangelo, Raphael, and other great luminaries in the history of our civilization, and it is well that, as suitable occasions arise, these great figures should be brought to the attention of all especially the young people in our schools and colleges so that their great achievements in the realm of the spirit, in the art and literature, may be contemplated and studied afresh for the inspiration they will afford for the advancement of humanity.

The perennial importance of the Greek and Latin humanities lies in the fact, that they have been the school of mankind for 20 centuries. What is there, excepting the truths of Christianity, and all that sprang from them, what is there great and lasting in the literature and art, in philosophy and government, that is not imitation of the ancients, sometimes perhaps a perfect imitation yet only an imitation? What record the Greeks made for all time in poetry, in athletics, in architecture, in history, in the drama, in eloquence, in philosophy, in civic enlightenment? What a record the Romans made for all time, institutionalizing the ideals and dreams of the Greeks, in empire building, in daring deeds, in discipline, in patriotic pride, in government, in jurisprudence, in oratory! What examples, what models, what standards, what things most essential to human life and endeavor than language? Yet to this day no race has spoken as these ancients speak—with such simplicity and significance, with such directness and dignity. And as they speak, so they thought. Let our youth learn, then, to think and speak aught and well.

To study Virgil is to appreciate to a far greater extent our own literature, for in his influence on European literature this great poet has played a part second only to that of the Bible itself. He is the master and author of Dante, the source of that great poet's style, the guide to lead him into Paradise. Upon English literature the influence of Virgil has been very profound. Long before Chaucer the tale of Aeneas had given birth to the voyage of Brutus, who found in Albion a new Troy or London. The Elizabethan writers were fascinated by the Dido story and to Dryden—Virgil is his Divine Master. Cowper, Wordsworth, Arnold and William Morris are a few of the modern poets, who have bowed in homage to Virgil.

Though a pagan by birth he was a prophet of Christianity. The purity of his life and soul was known to all and the depth of his spiritual nature also. In every way he was qualified to be regarded as a soul naturally Christian. In fact, Dante, the great poet, with those whose one aim is that they were born too early to be Christians. Virgil holds a peculiar interest for the twentieth century for indeed it would be hard to find two periods more alike than our time and that of Virgil. In both it is necessary to reach solutions for such political problems, as corruption in elections, and courts, such sound problems as mounting divorce rates, such economic problems as the distribution of wealth. Virgil would solve these by a return to the simpler standards of living and cultivation of the harder virtues of early days. But perhaps his most potent message for a war weary world is his ideal of a universal peace. The desire of the civilized world today is for permanent peace and it acclaims with fervor those who promote it. Weary of rivalry in armaments, the nations of today unite in establishing friendship favoring proposals for outlawing war, and the Romans of the Augustan Age exhausted by strife honored the great poet who sang the arts of peace.

Virgil has seen too much of war ever to write of battles with any joy. The soul stirring excitement of combat was not for him. He foresees the time when wars shall cease and some of the happiest passages in the Aeneid are those in which he looks forward to a world at peace. No time then in the world history is more propitious than one for the honoring of the great poet and benefactor of mankind and the Bimillennium Virgilianum is a unique commemoration of the poet whose prophetic spirit still inspires and guides all who look forward to a new world whose cardinal teachings are hatred of war, the blessings of honest toil, unselfish patriotism, true piety and the ascending destiny of mankind. Let us with Tennyson hail him with these beautiful words: "I salute thee, Mantovano! I loved thee since my day began, O Wielder of the stateliest measure Ever molded by the lips of man."

THE VALUE OF CHEMISTRY
IN PRACTICAL LIFE

Salutatory address delivered by Junior Harrigan at the commencement exercises of St. Mary's High School. The constitution of our great country provides for "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Life is mentioned because it is the predominating factor and without it, men would be unable to enjoy the other privileges provided by the Supreme Law of our land. This proviso forms a capital heading for a consideration of the work and importance of chemistry in its relation to practical life.

Throughout the years of its interesting development, one of the objectives for which chemistry has struggled has been perfect health, until this important feature of living and chemistry have become so closely related as to be almost inseparable.

Health is governed by the scientific principles of chemistry. Air, food and water are man's essentials, to be used for his greater good, but air, food and water might often become a menace to all life, if the chemist did not function as he does. To live we must have clean, safe air, and here the sanitary chemist comes to our aid. To safeguard us in our schools and lecture halls the chemist is called upon to test the air and to find a means of purifying it.

Water is another of man's essentials, for without it we could not live. Creatures may live three times as long deprived of food as they can be deprived of water. A city or town is under strict obligation to furnish a safe supply of water for its people. Although "pure" water is found only in the laboratory "safe" water, that which is reasonably free from objectionable substances may be obtained through processes dictated by chemical principles. It is here that the chemist enters again.

Food, man's treasure and necessity is something accepted and not discussed by people in general. The chemical and the doctor, and the other medical authorities seem the only ones who discuss food and its relations to man's physical perfection. The importance of food analysis is rapidly assisting itself. Nourishment depends on the chemical reactions of food and nutritive substances with the acids and juices in the stomach and digestive organs. It is not the cost of the foods, but the kind of food that counts most. Mal-nutrition is as frequent in the houses of the wealthy as in the homes of the poorest families. Thus, the chemist expects to find the foods of most value.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," is the motto of the chemist. Doctor-chemists have done much for humanity in the manner of disease prevention. The principle of vaccines which Pasteur originated is most important. There are vaccines for small-pox, typhoid and cholera and injected serums for various diseases. It is the present time diseases which for hundreds of years were considered incurable are today easily overcome. In surgery, chemistry plays another important role, especially in its anesthetics. The value of ether, morphine and cocaine has been emphasized by the surgeon who is dependent upon the chemist.

Problems to be solved are pressing on the chemist from every side. The engineer was hampered in his work until chemistry gave him steel for rails and bridges, and skyscrapers; high explosives for excavations that made possible the Panama canal, tunnels and highways; alloy steel for automobiles. The automobile itself would not be here without liquid fuel or without the process of vulcanizing rubber with sulphur. We are warned that petroleum will be exhausted in much less than a century, with the result that autos will lack gasoline, ships will lack fuel oil, and modern machinery will lack lubricants. The chemist has already looked toward this crisis and gives good promise of meeting it.

Over half the industries of the United States depend more or less upon the chemist for their success. He gives information as to the exact composition of raw materials, removes impurities, cheapens processes, improves products and sees to it that no "by-product" is thrown away.

To what extent chemistry enters into diverse fields of human endeavor is strikingly illustrated in the flight undertaken by Lindbergh in crossing the Atlantic. The engines of his airplane were composed largely of high grade alloy steel, which had first to be made by the chemist; the crankshaft and other parts vital to the mechanism contained substantial percentages of chromium, vanadium and nickel, all products of the chemist's laboratory; and the pyrex glass, which contributed materially to the success of the radio communication, is one of the latest productions due to the chemist.

We see, then, that an important reason for studying chemistry—probably the most important is that, with the scientific attitude firmly fixed, it tends to make a better citizen of the individual. We must remember that we live in an industrial age, every phase of which deals with a chemical problem, and to treat such problems intelligently is the duty of every citizen. And we cannot overlook that in the close relation which exists between chemistry and medicine, the factor of health and all that it involves in developing a sound race, is intimately bound up with a knowledge of chemistry.

Chevrolet Salesman
Go To School Again:
To Learn To Sell Cars

Company Works Out Movie Course of Demonstration of How It's Done.

What has been termed the greatest sales training school in the history of the automobile industry—a series of five meetings conducted over a period of 10 days in each of 12,000 Chevrolet retail stores in the United States, and attended by 24,000 salesmen—has just been completed by the Chevrolet Motor Company.

So successful were the meetings that Chevrolet central office officials are considering making the "school" an annual affair. In practically every instance Chevrolet dealers reported their complete sales personnel in attendance at each meeting, and in addition the office and service staffs requested and were given permission to attend the sessions. In all, it is estimated that an average of 40,000 sales, office and service employees in Chevrolet retail stores attended each of the five meetings. Increased selling efficiency by their present staffs and the addition of many salesmen to their organizations are expected by many dealers as a result of the "school."

The thought behind the school was the belief that most automobile salesmen possess only the theory of selling and usually are forced to undergo long experience and overcome many difficulties before they are able to furnish prospective buyers with a fully satisfactory exposition of the car's features. The school would immediately put the salesmen in possession of the experiences and methods of the most successful men in the industry.

All phases of the meetings were worked out by the materials prepared by the central office of the Chevrolet Motor Company. Holding the School was optional with each dealer, but practically the entire Chevrolet dealer organization responded.

One of the features of the meetings was the use of motion pictures of the "still" type in presenting the subject of each session. In all, five films were used. The most novel of these was the one entitled "Mr. Lilliputian Sells A Chevrolet." It depicted a salesman explaining the features of the car to a prospect. Both figures were so reduced in size and the car's parts so enlarged that the men crawled into the cylinders to inspect the pistons; into the transmission and differential to discuss the gears; jumped, in diving suits, into the oil-filled crankcase to examine the crankshaft, oil pump and bearings; and perched on the instrument panel to adjust the spark plugs, steering wheel, shifting lever and other parts while these were being explained to the purchaser. Many dealers have asked permission to retain the film for future use in training salesmen and illustrating the car's advantages to prospective buyers.

BAPTISTS HAVE
MOCK WEDDING

Mrs. Julia Tice, president of the Ladies Aid Society of the First Baptist Church, reports the dollar roll held in the basement of the church last Friday evening a great success. A mock wedding ceremony featured the entertainment and several musical numbers were rendered by members of the society, after which refreshments were served.

The proceeds of the dollar roll will go toward a fund being raised by the ladies for alterations to the parish.

RELIEF FROM CURSE
OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts the laxative action into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at Peterson's Pharmacy, the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Adv.

POSTMAN IN THE AIR

When letter writers put wings on their epistles in the shape of air mail stamps, they little realize the possible experiences which confront their carriers. One of the most breath-taking of recent aviation accidents happened to Henry J. Brown, air mail pilot, when he was flying the night mail from Cleveland to New York. The story is told in a news letter issued by the Air Corps of the War Department at Washington.

Brown, flying at an altitude of about 3,000 feet, was only a few miles west of the Allegheny Mountains, when the motor of his plane stalled. While the pilot was in the midst of an attempt to transfer his gasoline supply from the left wing to the right wing container in order to equalize the plane's balance, the gasoline line clogged. The motor coughed a few times and died. Brown climbed out of the cockpit, dropped over the side, and pulled the ripcord of his parachute. While he was drifting earthward, the plane suddenly straightened, the gasoline line cleared, and the motor started anew.

Before the pilot had touched the ground, his plane was swooping in circles about his head. He landed safely, however, and rushed to the machine which was already on the ground in flames. With the aid of two farmers, he managed to drag twelve sacks of mail from the blazing wreckage.

BEATING A TORNADO'S TIME

You can outrun a tornado, says the United States Weather Bureau—provided you sight the menace several miles away and have at hand a car that can make about sixty miles an hour and are in open level country and happen to be near a road that leads at right angles to the tornado's path. Given all these necessary aids, one will find the automobile the second best means of escape. Of course, a well-constructed tornado cellar is the safest refuge.

The Bureau further furnishes a description of a tornado for the inexperienced person. Usually it takes the appearance of an elongated funnel-shaped or cylindrical cloud dangling from the sky toward the earth. If you can't see the cloud, be warned by the sky. Clouds are thrown into a wild turmoil and are colored jet-black, greenish, or purple where dark, but often mingled with steam-like grays and whites. A terrifying roar, which is compared to thousands of railroad cars crossing a bridge, may be heard at considerable distance.

The movement of the storm is moderate, averaging about 40 miles an hour, and in rare instances reaching 100. Its path generally varies but little from a straight line. Most tornadoes move toward the north-east, a few toward the southeast, and the rest, with few exceptions, in some other easterly direction.

A PRESIDENT WAITS ON A VETERAN

A Union Army veteran who says that he has "no rank at all" kept President Hoover waiting for a half hour on Memorial Day. The President wanted to review what was left of the Union Army as it passed the White House before he departed at 9:30 for the Memorial Day exercises at Gettysburg. So a guard was sent to Samuel G. Mayson, Departmental Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic to tell him that the President was waiting.

"I can't help who's waiting," retorted Mayson. "There's no use in our leaving before ten o'clock. And I'm no General. No rank at all—just plain Mayson."

After urgent appeals from the guard, the procession was finally started on its way to Arlington. Nevertheless, President Hoover and his party were forced to speed for a couple of hours in order to make up the lost time waiting for "Just plain Mayson."

Simonsen, Mrs. Mildred Dobson, Miss Marie Lenhart of New Brunswick, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Seaman, Christopher Triggs, Mackie Pierson, Mary Triggs, Ruth Strasser, Kenneth Simonsen, Joseph Kress, Catherine Seaman, John Southard, Frank Seaman, Jack Southard, Marie Martin, Veronica Seaman, Edward Seaman, Francis Seaman, Mary Harvey and Robert Seaman.

the body of Henry Wolff that lies before us, the Henry Wolff that was active for 85 pulsating years. Henry Wolff was more than a man, more than a father and friend. He was a symbol, a symbol of a generation that is fast passing away. He was an essential part of his community. He was born with no silver spoon in his mouth. He was a symbol of a generation that came to this great free land of his childhood dreams, to seek fortune and life. He attained what the world calls success, success not for himself alone, but for his community. For he was a builder. He played an important part in the building up of this part of the state. Unfettered labor, perhaps twenty hours a day, he poured into the community. He was of that rare race of empire builders, pioneers, who single handed went out to wrest something out of nothing. He was a builder, a creator. And in those years of struggle he never compromised with his soul, with his honesty, with his sincerity. He was an anomaly, almost out of place in the 20th century. In a world of boastfulness, he was modest. In a world of pride, he was humble. In a world of loudness, of shouting its virtues from the housetops, he was retiring, doing his good deeds quietly, giving and giving in simple unostentatious privacy.

The other day, one who knew him well, one who is wise in the ways of men and of the world, told me how few men could understand Henry Wolff. Few men understand his character, few could penetrate his reserve, that almost bordered on shyness. During the last day or two, even members of his immediate family have been surprised at the numbers, old friends, men of his prime, young folks, even children, who came to say a fond farewell to their friend and benefactor; they came of every age, of every nationality, of every faith, for the breadth of his vision encompassed all children of God. And now comes rest, richly deserved and honorably attained. Sweet is the sleep of the workman.

"But he was not only a community builder, not only a benefactor of his neighbors and friends. He was not only an exemplary citizen, and a clean honest soul. To us of Temple Beth Mordcaai, he means much more. He was the founder of this congregation. Thirty odd years ago, he initiated the movement. This culminated Beth Mordcaai. This congregation bears the name of his son, taken from him in the bloom of youth. Through all these years, this congregation never called on him in vain. He gave generously, more than even some of the members of the congregation realized, but he gave without fanfare or the blare of trumpets. Through him we are enabled to understand why a good name is better than precious oil, better is the day of death than the day of birth. His life was lived, and at the end, and a long life it was, the spirit passed, and he was no more, a quiet, simple conclusion to a quiet, simple life.

"If he meant so much to his community, if he meant so much to his congregation, how much more he must have meant to his family. He was closely bound to his family circle, closely attached. Work, congregation, home, these formed the threefold cord that bound his life together. A generation ago, he lost his son. Soon after, he lost his wife and helpmate. And yet, for these last thirty years he found in his home a happiness that few men are vouchsafed in their old age. He saw those things that he stood for continued in those coming after him. In his daughter and in her husband, he had daughter and son, vey, comrades. In his grandsons he found a thoughtfulness and a love that youth seldom renders to age. By the two generations following him, he was given that honor, that respect, that consideration, even in the small things, that made his closing years mellow and smooth and happy. Above all, he recognized in the lives of those of his household those same qualities of modesty, kindness and character that he treasured so highly in his own life. And that too, must have been a great satisfaction to him.

"Can any of us look forward to a happier old age than his? Or a more upright life? Or a greater institution than this which he founded to live on after him?

"His great broad shoulders were beginning to droop. His tall upright back was beginning to bend, with the weight of the years and the toil of a long lifetime. He was tired, this saintly soul of Henry Wolff. So he lay his head down to rest, and fell into eternal sleep. Each of us may say with the poet: 'So be my passing, My task accomplished, and the long day done.' My wages taken, and in my heart some late lark singing. Let me be gathered to the quiet west, the sundown splendid and serene, Death."

Interment was made at Beth Mordcaai cemetery on New Brunswick avenue in Perth Amboy. Undertaker R. P. Mason of this city was in charge of the arrangements. The honorary pall bearers were Harry C. Perrine, Richard C. Stephenson, Albert Leon, Edward W. Hicks, A. L. Grace, J. Kreithemer, Richard J. Rie, Dr. E. H. Eulner, S. A. Mandel and Sol Rubenstein.

Mr. Wolff was born in Prostken, Prussia, on March 28th, 1845. He came to this country alone as a boy of fifteen years in 1860. Remaining in New York City but a short time, he went to Buford, North Carolina, but stayed only a short time. Then he went to Long Island and worked there for a while but again didn't like the surroundings. Hearing good reports of New Jersey, Mr. Wolff decided to come to this state. In doing so he landed in South Amboy. Here it appears he found things to his liking for here he remained for the rest of his long life.

Mr. Wolff was early attracted to the merchandising field and began in a small way serving the public. In the service he found pleasure and something more than a mere livelihood. In 1872 he opened a store for general merchandise at the junction of Main and Feltus streets and gradually built the business up as the years went on. In 1900 he sold the business to two of his employees, Mr. Charles Safran and Mr. Otto Anderson. It was shortly before this that Mr. Wolff's son, Max, died suddenly after barely reaching the years of manhood. With the sale of the business Mr. Wolff decided to retire. But it seems he retired in name only for the store remained his hobby and his by now well known tendency toward doing good deeds for other people in an unassuming way as possible, had become a permanent lifework.

About 1903 Mr. Wolff lost his wife through death but found in his daughter and later her family and in his wide circle of friends comfort for the severe loss. The store had meantime blossomed into a handsome structure housing a general merchandise line that won it fame all over this section of the state for its size and completeness. It was about this time that Mr. Safran purchased Mr. Anderson's interest in the business. Mr. Safran has continued the business ever since under a firm name of H. Wolff and Co., although Mr. Wolff was no longer directly connected with the establishment. Mr. Wolff indulged in real estate transactions and is said to have amassed one of the largest fortunes in the county in this field.

He served this city in the Common Council for seven years and has done perhaps more than any other single individual for the upbuilding of the various homes in the city. It has been said that half the homes in this city were indebted either directly or indirectly to Mr. Wolff's generosity for their being in existence at all. But he was so reticent about his many extensions of help both here and in the adjacent counties that no one knew how much good he had really done.

Mr. Wolff became a member of the local unit of the Knights of Pythias in the days when that organization was dominant in fraternal affairs in this city. He was also a member of General Morgan Lodge, Odd Fellows, and this city, remaining as a wise counselor to both organizations up to the time of his death.

Mr. Wolff was always interested in community enterprises. He was prominent in starting Beth Mordcaai congregation in Perth Amboy and donated the plot ground on which the present synagogue was erected. He was also the donor of the ground on which the synagogue on Henry street this city is built. The Perth Amboy synagogue was named after his son. Mr. Wolff was also an enthusiastic supporter of the local Memorial Hospital and has done much through his son-in-law, Mr. Charles Safran, to help it attain its position of value and importance to the community. He has played a prominent part in the success of the First National Bank, of which he was a director for many years.

Mr. Wolff is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Charles Safran, and two grandsons, Ira and Melvin Safran. His son-in-law, Mr. Safran, has stood in his affections as a son. Mr. Wolff was buried in accordance with the ancient traditions of the Hebrew race and it was Mr. Safran who participated in the services in the capacity usually performed by the eldest son of the deceased.

CELEBRATION JULY 12 HERE TO HONOR FIRST GOVT. AIR MAIL SERVICE

Postmaster General W. Irving Glover, who is in charge of the air mail service of the United States. Arrangements are to be made whereby the celebration will be picked up by the moving picture news reel people to be flashed on the screens of movie theatres throughout the country. It is also probable that the speeches, start of the plane, etc., will be broadcast over Radio Station WOR. It is also possible, even probable that the most famous of all air mail pilots may be induced to come to this city for the affair.

The celebration plans are being started by a committee representing the revived Chamber of Commerce, which organization has been dormant for several years past. The initial meeting was presided over by James D. Van Pelt, as chairman, with J. E. Coogan, Business Manager of The Citizen, serving as Secretary. Others in attendance at the meeting were W. S. Dey, E. C. Roddy, Geo. Gundrum, Sr., Samuel Newton, C. Stratton, E. R. Brown, R. P. Mason, Charles T. Mason, O. W. Welsh, and R. F. Kenah. Motor Vehicle Commission, Harold C. Hoffman, unable to be present at the meeting had telegraphed of his interest in the affair and a willingness to co-operate. Mr. Roddy, a former South Amboy lad, now a Jersey City resident, admitted that he'd be glad to be permitted to become a South Amboy again for the celebration at least. He was welcomed into the organization and given plenty to do right away.

Another meeting of the committee and many others interested is to be held in the Trust Company rooms next Tuesday night at eight o'clock. Citizens of the city are urged to attend and tender their co-operation in making the celebration an unequalled success. There is a good deal to be done in the short time the committee had to accomplish the necessary work. And the more there are to help out the less there'll be for any particular one to do.

The co-operation of the local Lions and Rotary Clubs is to be particularly invited by the committee. The Perth Amboy Rotary Club, and the Lions Club too, is to be urged to send over a committee and have the clubs co-operate on the Perth Amboy end in putting the celebration over. The co-operation of the Perth Amboy Chamber of Commerce is also to be sought. Letters to these organizations will be sent out as soon as necessary stationery can be secured.

The Mayor of this city is to be urged to issue a proclamation to citizens to decorate their homes and places of business for the celebration. The Council members, too, are to be urged to take part in the celebration as well as in the arrangements for holding it.

A small stand is to be erected near the post office for arrangements to be made for shutting out traffic from the block for the hours of the celebration. The high point of the affair will be about ten o'clock on Saturday morning. The time is governed by the tide, same being high at that hour, because of the size of the hydroplane that is to be used to carry the mail over the route of eighteen years ago.

SEES HEAVY CLAIMS ON FUTURE BANKERS

American Bankers Association Official Declares That Banking Changes Creating Large Bank Systems Will Call for Broader Social Viewpoints.

Larger scale group or branch banking will inevitably bring a new era of banking organization and operations to the United States and bankers will have to develop "new conceptions, new administrative methods and new economic views," Rudolf S. Hecht, Chairman of the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association, recently told the members of the American Institute of Banking.

The institute is the educational section of the association and he emphasized the point that the new era in banking demanded "that we must step up our education so that bankers shall be fortified for new responsibilities."

What the Future Calls For
"We must broaden our social conception of banking," Mr. Hecht said. "Not only for the technical operations of the new banking must we fit ourselves, but both as individuals and an organized profession we must charge ourselves with serious consideration of the social problems that are involved. Already we hear murmurings and fears and doubts as to whether the changes that are coming about in banking in the extension of group and branch systems do not constitute the foreshadowing of a new financial menace; a monopolistic threat not only to the individual unit banker, but to the financial liberty of society in general. I am stating these things merely as facts that must be taken into consideration in our studies."

"Public opinion cannot be ignored by any business, least of all by banking, which is admittedly semi-public in character and is, therefore, subject to special supervision by the constituted authorities. If banking develops tendencies that give rise to public fears, we must so conduct ourselves as to reassure all doubts."

"For this is true,—that business succeeds only by serving society—that no business, can permanently prosper which does not both render service to the public and at the same time convince the public that it is rendering that service. Banking, therefore, must take cognizance of what the public is saying of this new era in its development."

"It must be part of the technique of modern banking administration, whatever form our enlarged institutions take, to avoid the creation of monopolies, or even the appearance of such centralization of financial power as to be able to exercise an undue influence over public or private finance or other lines of business. The public's right to the safeguards of fair competition must be observed."

Must Preserve Individual Initiative
"It must also be an item of management that individual initiative and opportunity shall be maintained. If America has outstripped other nations in the distribution of the benefits of its progress, it is due to the fact that there are no barriers of social caste or business tradition against advancement for character, ability, and initiative. American business has learned that it serves itself best by encouraging by every practical means individual ambition and initiative, and hurls itself most by repressing or neglecting them. Competition for efficiency, both within an organization and between organizations, will prevent any institution from long enduring in which maintenance of opportunity and recognition of initiative are not controlling principles of management. As heads of the greatest of our financial and industrial institutions stand men who started from the humblest of beginnings. Through all the grades of executive authority and upward stand men in positions of keeping, generally speaking, with their individual merits. I, personally, see no reason for fearing that the enlarged banking organizations which the future may hold would necessarily supply future bank employees with any less opportunity for achievement than unit banking."

Again, a major consideration of administration in any multiple form of banking organization must be its public relations in every community it touches. Its foremost consideration must be actually and visibly to serve the economic upbuilding of that community. No system will be long tolerated whose local members work, or are suspected as working, to draw economic strength from one place to enlarge the financial power of another. The local unit bank has always been part and parcel of the communities where it lives—and no system can last which does not make it a major principle of operating technique to serve, and not exploit, the communities into whose business lives it enters."

Growth of Banking Education
DENVER, Colo.—At the American Institute of Banking convention held here last month the growth in the effort among bank employees to provide themselves with banking education was shown by the fact, as reported by one speaker, that 12 years ago the institute had 80 study chapters, today 208, and that its enrollment in the study courses had grown from 11,000 to 45,000, or an increase of over 300 per cent. The graduates number nearly 14,000. The institute is the educational section of the American Bankers Association through which bank workers are given instruction in theoretical and practical subjects relating to their business.

Welsh National Flower
The generally accepted story concerning the selecting of the look as the national flower of Wales is that St. David, patron saint of the Welsh, on one occasion caused his countrymen under King Cadwallader to distinguish themselves from their Saxon foes by wearing flowers in their caps.

School Friends Club Has Hudson Outing

Former Amboyans Visit West Point for Picnic and River Sail.

On Thursday, June 19th, the members of the South Amboy School Friends Club and their husbands who were able to get away from business for the event, spent a most delightful day together in sailing up the Hudson River and visiting West Point Military Academy. The trip was made on the Hudson River Day Line steamer De Witt Clinton. The weather was ideal for such an outing and the sail up the river was delightful. A picnic lunch, to which each member had contributed her share of the goodies was a very enjoyable feature of this part of the trip.

Arriving at West Point, the party visited the Ordnance Museum and a number of other buildings of the academy and were very fortunate in being present to witness a dress parade given by the cadets in honor of visiting members of the naval staff of Dr. Julio Prestes, President-elect of Brazil, who were brought to West Point for the occasion aboard the U. S. Navy destroyer. A feature of the return trip which added a great deal of pleasure and enjoyment to the outing was a Dutch-treat dinner served on the steamer.

Those who attended the outing were Mrs. Florence Kennelly of Arlington; Mrs. Addie South of Jersey City; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Autenreith of Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. John Slover of Bayonne, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stewart of Union, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cornell of Brooklyn, and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lyons of Jersey City. Upon arrival of the steamer at New York at 9 o'clock and before departing for their respective homes, each of those present expressed such enthusiastic appreciation of the pleasures of the outing that it was tentatively decided to have another get-together outing to Coney Island during the month of July, the date for this latter affair will be definitely decided at the next meeting of the club, which is to be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Cornell on July 2nd.

BOY HURT BY CAR

When Robert Sophi, of Clifton, N. J., stopped on Stevens avenue near David street Sunday evening to buy a cigar he had to pull out of the curb line and park along the curb, in trying to get back in line again his car ran down eleven year old William Kohler, of David street, and injured the lad quite severely. Sophie claims the lad ran in front of his car. Dr. Meacham found the boy sustained numerous cuts and bruises none of which were particularly serious in themselves.

Roddy Tells Rotary Club of First Air Mail

At Dinner Here Tuesday of First Whirlwind Engine Too.

Edwin Roddy, a member of the Jersey City Rotary Club, and a former South Amboy, gave a short talk to members of the South Amboy Rotary Club Tuesday noon at Cady's. The speaker gave what information he had on the proposed celebration here on July 12th, for the 18th anniversary of the establishment of the first government authorized air mail in this country between this city and Perth Amboy. Mr. Roddy had intended to fly to this city on Tuesday but due to the fact that there was no landing field for a plane, he had to abandon this idea.

He told how South Amboy had been linked by a series of events with aviation since its infancy: how a pioneer pilot attempting a flight from Philadelphia to New York, had been forced to land in the Mechanicville meadows; the first air mail flight; and that South Amboy was the destination of the first Wright whirlwind motor ever constructed. The latter event took place during a Liberty Loan drive, when a plane was used as a publicity stunt. The plane which was secured from the old Aeromarine plant at Keyport had to be fitted up with a Wright motor, the only one available at that plant at that time. The motor had been constructed at the Wright factory at Paterson and was an experimental one, having never been placed in a plane and was sent to the Keyport plant for a try-out. The flight was made and from that time on, has been among the leading aviation motors.

A committee consisting of Sheldon Davis, James Nowmeyer and Melford Roll was appointed to see that the two signs which were formerly erected at the approaches to the city, are repainted and re-erected.

The attendance at Tuesday's meeting was very poor and Vice President William S. Dey was in charge.

Mrs. Oliver Tells Of Committeewoman Job

Local Rep. Woman Plan Two Summer Outings—One Yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Oliver, State Committeewoman, was the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Woman's Republican Club in the Trust Company building last night. There was a generous attendance of members present to hear Mrs. Oliver explain the duties of the State Committeewoman office she holds. Mrs. Oliver also had a good deal to say about the significance of the Morrow victory at the Primary Elections last week.

Charles T. Mason, candidates for Mayor; and Louis Rosenberg, candidate for councilmanic honors in the Second Ward, were also speakers at last night's meeting. Each spoke in the interests of his own candidacy and the need of rooting for the whole ticket.

The ladies decided to join with the men folks Republicans for a picnic at Atlantic Beach on July 19th. Buses are to leave the Trust Company headquarters at four o'clock on that date to carry those who wish to go on the outing.

An outing to Palisades Park in August is also to be held. The date has not yet been set for this trip.

Yesterday about twenty members of the Club visited Mrs. Josephine Carman, president of the County Council, at her summer home at Point Pleasant. While there the party went bathing and enjoyed a general good time. But today—you know—unburn—you know.

BY VIRTUE OF NECESSITY

One very stormy Wednesday evening the congregation who arrived for the mid-week service at the village church were the minister and John, the sexton.

The disappointed minister said: "Surely, John, if you and I could venture out in the storm, others should do so."

"Dread, sir," said John, "if you and me wispa' paid for it we wuldn' be here, either!"

ROB SUDALTER AGAIN

Early Monday local police headquarters was advised that the store of Samuel Sudalter at the corner of Stevens avenue and David street had been entered and robbed. Fifteen dollars had been taken from the cash register and other items were missed. Entrance had been made by breaking a cellar window and forcing the door between the store and cellar, according to the report of Officer Quain who investigated.

A regular meeting of the Knights of Columbus will be held in their rooms on David street next Thursday evening. Plans for several major events will be discussed.

WHAT I SEE AND HEAR IN SPORTS

BY HYPE

Well, we picked another winner in the Canero-Godfrey affair but it did not turn out the way we would have liked it. Some sort of penalty such as the forfeiture of the entire purse to charity might help to clarify these foul bouts. This may not seem fair to the recipient of the blow but it tends to make both the deliverer and the receiver more careful as to delivering a foul punch and the squawker from claiming a foul. Many times a fighter who receives a hard or terrific blow in the stomach thinks he was fouled and his condition gives all evidence of being struck low, but with the proper protection, which should have the O. K. of the National Boxing Association, fouls would be eliminated unless a man was hit on the sole of the foot.

St. Mary's closed their season last Friday at Red Bank with a ten inning win over St. James. McGonigle's bat gave the local boys the edge, with two men out and two men on in the ninth, he tripled and the game was over by the score of 5 to 4. The boys who made the hit were Clary, Popowski and Budina. St. Mary's finished with an admirable record and should be classed as the Central Class B Prep School Champions with thirteen victories out of fifteen starts, losing both their games on their home grounds. One to Cathedral who they afterward defeated at Trenton and one to our arch rivals, St. Mary's of Perth, who have been acclaimed the champs in Class B and who the locals defeated earlier in the season. Molly deserves a lot of credit for developing such a formidable team when at the start things looked so black. He went to work and gave his time and patience and what we mean is patience in turning out the best team that ever represented St. Mary's. Our hats off to you, Molly.

Benny Pavlovski broke into the semi-pro ranks last Sunday against the strong Milltown A. A. and came through a victor in one of the best played games on the local field. The game went into the extra inning and McGonigle broke it up with a fence breaker to left field for the circuit. The Melrose team deserve more patronage than they are receiving from the local fans and Benny is putting his best efforts into giving the fans the best baseball that has been offered since the old Sacred Hearts. He is strengthening his team after each game and as we stated last week will give the best in the county a beating, so let's get behind our representative team and give it the proper support.

The Sacred Hearts at this writing are leading the City League not having lost a game while the Buvaimein have not lost a game but had a play-off of a postponed game Wednesday night, and the leader will have a half or a full game lead over their rivals. The games are well attended and the fans are aroused to fever pitch in the race for supremacy. Morgan came to life on Tuesday to shut out the fast tottering Casays and the old war horse, Art Spatford set them down with only two hits. Still a game or two left in the old war horse. The final score was 7 to 0 in favor of the Morgan outfit and will give them renewed vigor and courage to go out and win more. The game between the Sacred Hearts and the Courtesy Nine on Monday night developed in a flurry of home runs for the Hearts, Pudney getting two; Lou Lagoda and Stumpf one each. We think this puts Stumpf and Pudney tied for the Babe Ruth honors of the league, with Barkey and Baranowski leading the league in pitching with two wins each. With only three games to go for the first half the Hearts seem to have the edge to cop, that is if they get over the Buvaimein game, but base ball is so uncertain anybody can boot one and that's the old ball game.

Margaret Barkalow who entered the 50 yard novice race in the swimming meet at Belvedere Beach last Sunday seems from all accounts to have received a raw deal. Leading her opponent by twelve feet throughout, she was disqualified for standing in the water at the point where she was to start. As the pool is only forty-five feet in length, the swimmers are obliged to swim the length touch and turn and complete the additional five yards. Why not make it a forty-five yard race and have it end there as no record time can be made in touching and turning. We do not like to question the sincerity of officials officiating in swimming races but we do advocate in this and in all sports, the appointment of capable officials and not officials who have to be advised by the parents of one of the contestants in the race. And by the way our own little Rose got second at the same meet, of course, you know who we mean. "Red" Manhattan has accepted the position of swimming instructor at the Belvedere Beach Pool and has quite a few of our young ladies entered again next Sunday. And we will be there.

Benny Pavlovski's Melrose team will again demonstrate their right to all championship honors on Sunday when they meet the fast stepping Hopelawn Firemen's team on St. Mary's field. The Melrose team has so far finished on the winning side of all their games and now that they are out for the semi-pro title, the fans can look for some real fast baseball and some real ball clubs as their opponents. Nothing to stop Benny when he starts.

Larry St. Dennis, the fast stepping boy from the Hercules Club has returned from a vacation to the middle west and is fast rounding into shape for his summer and fall campaign among the welterweights. He may get started in the Mataan American Legion bouts at Mataan next week. If not there, he will appear in one of the open air shows at Dreamland Park some time in the latter part of July or the early part of August.

Roland "Toots" Kennedy may appear in the varsity club's track meet to be held in Perth Amboy in the near future. Toots needed that warm-up race he had at the Singer meet to put him on edge. Coach Wm. Kennedy of St. Mary's will enter some of his boys maybe. Wallace and McGonigle in the hundred and the 220 yard flats and Conroy and Dowling in the pole vault with Lagoda in the shot put. Keolan would also be a worthy competitor in the 440 and the jumps.

QUITE HOPELESS

A young student provoked his teacher very much by the excessive use of "have went" instead of "have gone". One day the lad was in school after dismissal and was told to write "I have gone" 100 times. When the task was finished, the teacher being out of the room, he wrote a note as follows: "I have finished my work and I have went home."—Wall Street Journal.

Harold G. Hoffman,
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

(Editor's Note: This series of articles by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles is being presented by the Citizen as its part in the campaign of education to familiarize motorists with the laws which regulate their conduct on the road.)

1. EQUIPMENT

In my brief experience as Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, I have been deeply impressed by the astonishing lack of knowledge on the part of many motorists of the laws which the State has framed for their regulation. It seems to me that such widespread violations of the most elementary provisions of the motor vehicle and traffic laws would be impossible if drivers realized their acts constitute violations. This has led me to the conclusion that upon me rests the obligation of initiating a campaign of education in the laws of New Jersey motoring. I believe it is better policy to prevent a driver from breaking the law than to be compelled to punish him after the violation. Finding the newspapers of the State eager to cooperate in the campaign, I have undertaken the preparation of a series of statements of which this is the first. I would like to pay tribute to the public spirit of the newspapers which have suggested this series as their contribution to the cause of highway safety and law enforcement.

Every motor vehicle must be equipped with brakes adequate to control its movements. What is most important is that the brakes be strong enough and tight enough to operate effectively in emergencies. Brakes must be capable of stopping the car in the shortest possible distance consistent with the speed of the vehicle and the condition of the pavement. The law provides that brakes shall be maintained in good working order. If your brakes are defective, you are violating the law.

Every automobile must be equipped with at least two braking systems, with separate means of application. It must be so constructed that it can hold the vehicle. This was known as the emergency brake, days of the four wheel brake, any system is seldom used, but continues to serve its purpose as a parking brake. Second in importance only to adequate brakes is an adequate signaling device. The law provides every car must be equipped with a horn or other signal. Motorists often overlook the fact that the same section of the law makes it mandatory that the operator give reasonable warning of his approach whenever necessary to insure the safety of other users of the highways. While the law forbids unnecessary use of the horn, it demands that it be sounded before passing an overtaken vehicle, at curves and at intersections where the view of approaching vehicles is obscured.

We come next to lights. A sore subject and one that will demand drastic action by the Department of Motor Vehicles unless motorists driving "one-eyed" cars realize the gravity of their offense and reform themselves. The law is clear as crystal. Every car must carry at least two forward lights showing white or yellow-tinted and one red light visible from the rear. The front lights must be visible 250 feet ahead and the tail light, which must also illuminate the numerals of the license plate, must be visible 50 feet.

Thirty lights must be turned on from thirty minutes after sunset to thirty minutes before sunrise. "Spotlights" may be used only for reading intersecting highway signs and house numbers. They must not be used when driving. The law specifically forbids glaring headlights capable of projecting direct rays at a greater height than parallel of three and one-half feet from the ground. Every car must show at least one white or yellow tinted light at the side nearest the road and at least one red light to the rear when standing.

Devices commonly known as mufflers to prevent excessive noise, annoying smoke, and the escape of gases, falling embers or residue from the fuel, are mandatory on all vehicles in New Jersey. Muffler cut-outs are forbidden. Similarly, all cars must carry an interior or some device that will show the driver the road to the rear and to the side. Chains may be used when the road surface is slippery because of rain, snow, ice, oil or manner of construction, but they must not be used on improved highways when the roads are dry.

"THE MESS KIT"

BY "WOOD BURNS"

I have been just standing on the outside rim of politics during the past several days and have gotten quite a kick out of it. Politics is purely an American institution, for there is nothing else like it.

Standing as I have been with my hands in my pockets and my pipe in my mouth to keep from saying the things I thought and queering the whole thing, I have been at once amused and instructed. But the one thing that impressed me most about this whole business is the fact that notwithstanding the alleged high calibre of men engaged in this business, the methods and system used are exceedingly primitive.

Take any voter, candidate, party worker or office holder and analyze him and then stop and consider what you really know about him and what his party knows about him. Suppose under the present system the big shots of a particular political faction talk over the situation and discuss individuals, all the information available is largely guess work, there is nothing positive for any of them to go by. John Doe is supposed to be a good Democrat or a good Republican but is he? Nobody knows, although all of the powers that be will offer information concerning him. Ninety per cent of what little political information either party possesses is under the hat or fone or two men and if something happened to them, the party would be lost. Why not place this information at the disposal of everyone?

This could be accomplished very easily by the adoption of a system of symbols to be used by each voter, worker or office holder.

When the system is inaugurated and no definite information is available about the person in question, simply give him a number such as 23-717, the numerals would indicate that voter number 71 is located in the third district of the second ward and the question mark would indicate that his party preferences, personal ambitions etc. are not known. Information lacking would soon be furnished by this person, who upon learning the designation assigned to him would declare himself, for none wants to go through life with a question-mark tacked on the back of his name.

Now let's take one of the big shots and see how it would work with him, we will give him the designation BS 712, this would indicate that party workers and voters that he is a "Big Shot" in his party, the numeral seven indicating that he is the holder of the job listed seventh in importance in the county, state, city, etc., the numeral one showing that he is serving his first term in the job to which he has been elected or selected and the third number "2" denoting that he is anxious to serve a second term.

Now with such a designation, this man would demand the respect to which he is entitled, the party leaders above him would know that he likes the job and wants to be re-elected and could exert pressure upon him to get out the entire vote with which he has influence and by his designation would know what job he holds and the salary paid and could fix readily the amount he must contribute to the campaign fund and he would have to come across, there would be no saying that he could not afford a certain amount.

"2B" would indicate a voter, worker or politician of the second ward crossed over from the Democratic to the Republican party or vice versa.

Then "2BXX" would indicate the same person who has been assigned an additional "X" because later he has been found to be a "double-crosser."

"WH 31-7" would indicate a ward healer of the third district, first ward working in the interests of the candidate seventh in importance in city, county or state as explained above.

Then there are persons who don't have to be paid money to work their heads off at election time, I found. These people too could easily be identified by this system of classification. The prefix "BF" indicating the owner has a large following and must be handled with care and the prefix "K" indicating that the holder can be "kidded" into getting out a number of voters by telling him how necessary to the welfare of the party he is, could also be used to advantage.

This system could be enlarged to take in any class of person concerned with election, permitting a ready classification upon learning his or her code number.

There is no doubt in the writer's mind that even the dumbest politician can see the advantage of such a system, so when you go to the polls in November, don't be surprised if instead of calling out your name as formerly, the clerk of election who hands out your ballot, gives you a code designation. This idea is not copyrighted as yet.

Constance BennettReturns to Films:*at Empire Sunday

'Rich People' Has Exacting Role of Many Moods for Her Return to Screen.

One of the most pleasing announcements theatre-goers of South Amboy have received for some time concerns the return of Constance Bennett to the screen. This charming and talented screen favorite, who retired from the screen three years ago to take up her residence in Europe, has resumed her interrupted career in "Rich People," a Pathe dialogue drama which is coming to the Empire Theatre on Sunday night.

Advance reports on this picture indicate that Miss Bennett has lost none of the charm which made her an immediate favorite when, at the age of sixteen, she made her debut in "Cythera." Each succeeding picture for the subsequent two and one half years established her more firmly as an outstanding star of the film firmament, and it was a great blow to thousands of her admirers when Miss Bennett deserted motion pictures.

"Rich People," presents Miss Bennett in an exacting role, since her moods throughout the picture range from light comedy to tense, poignant drama. In this difficult characterization she is said to do work of an exceptionally high order.

Playing with the talented Constance is a brilliant cast composed of such stage and screen favorites as Robert Ames, Regis Toomey, Mahlon Hamilton, John Loder, Ika Chase, Wilson Bengt and Polly Ann Young. A. A. Kline is responsible for the screen story and dialogue of "Rich People," and it was directed by Edward H. Griffith.

Finds Parent Education Movement Strong in N. J.

New Brunswick:—There is a wide spread interest in parent education throughout New Jersey, reports Miss Edith D. Dixon, specialist in child training and parental education for the State Extension Service in Agriculture and Home Economics. Her statement is based upon information contained in replies to a questionnaire received from 367 communities.

The information, which was obtained largely from towns and boroughs, revealed that there were 45 different agencies sponsoring programs in child training and parental education. Among these agencies Parent Teacher Associations, with 128 local groups, were the most numerous. Of the 367 communities reporting, 258 were conducting programs in parent education.

The activity most largely represented was the well-baby clinic, to which mothers bring their babies at two-week or one month intervals for physical check-ups by doctors. These were held in 151 communities. Summer round-ups were held in 148 communities. These round-ups, held in May, were sponsored by parent-teacher associations for the purpose of locating physical defects of children who would enter or re-enter school the following September. The children were examined by doctors whose reports, citing physical defects disclosed, were forwarded to parents. The parents were urged to have these defects corrected before the schools re-opened in the fall.

The report further revealed that of the 367 communities reporting, 75 had parent study groups; 112 had lectures on subjects pertaining to child training; 59 had lectures on child psychology; in 8 communities the night schools offered courses in child care and training; 113 communities had available book shelves on child training subjects, which were furnished by state, local, or traveling libraries; nutrition classes were held in 48 communities; and play centers for pre-school children in 21 communities. Nursery schools in 12 communities were also reported that many local newspapers published articles on child training.

"In addition to these agencies," Miss Dixon said, "child guidance clinics throughout the state are working with individual parents. Rutgers University is offering courses in child training in addition to those in child psychology and sociology, and the Extension Service of the New Jersey College of Agriculture is also conducting a program in parent education."

"It is evident that interest in parent education is wide-spread, since every New Jersey county is represented in our report. We may also conclude that parent education as a social movement springs from the felt needs of parent education, since it is being fostered by their own community groups and not by outside organizations. It may be assumed that parent education, like any other type of adult education, will attract parents to just the extent that they are helped in solving these problems."

"There is a grave danger today that educators, on the assumption that they know what parents need, will organize available knowledge bearing upon parent's problems and offer these intellectual wares in the hope that some lucky accident will cause the right information to fall where the need exists. We need to determine what parents want, why they want to be parents, how far they have come along the way of achieving their desires, and by what methods they may realize their further goals."

Formal Menus to Honor The Bride of the Month

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company.

At this season all of us are interested in weddings, whether or not they closely concern us or our friends. We pause at shop windows to see the beautiful bridal clothes on display, and enthuse over the splendid new home furnishings that are featured in the stores. June truly is a glamorous month, and we find these days all the more thrilling if we are actively engaged in planning parties for a bride-to-be or in helping with arrangements for her wedding!

The question of the wedding menu is always worthy of serious consideration, for on this important occasion we want everything to be in memorable style. In every case the food must be perfectly prepared and served, whether we plan for an elaborate breakfast or tea, or for only a simple buffet supper.

As there is so much else to be taken care of in every household on the wedding day, it is well, if possible, to have most of the nuptial feast prepared beforehand, or else turn over the menu details to a caterer or other capable persons who make a specialty of such affairs.

The following suggestions may help you if you are confronted with the very important task of planning a wedding menu:

Littell Gets School Coal Contract: Not The Lowest Bidder

P. Brylinski One Cent Lower But School Board Turns Down Bid.

Howard D. Littell was awarded the contract for furnishing coal for the local schools by the Board of Education at a meeting Wednesday night. His bid was $5.74 per ton for White Ash No. 1 Buckwheat coal, four hundred tons more or less. The lowest bid submitted was from Paul Brylinski, of this city and South River, who had the local contract once, three years ago. His bid was $5.73 per ton.

One member of the Board explained that twice to his knowledge in the last year, Mr. Brylinski had been in trouble with authorities elsewhere in the county because of suspected short weights in coal deliveries. Because of this and because the Board here had no way of checking the weights of coal deliveries he would not vote to give the contract to Brylinski. As there were only three members of the Board present at that particular time and the rules require a majority of the voting on contracts, that eliminated the lowest bidder.

Mr. Littell has had the contract for two years past. Last year the cost of fuel for the schools was nearly four hundred dollars less than the year before. The saving came from the smaller sized coal with a blower apparatus and the keeping of the boilers in first class condition, it is understood.

There were two other bidders for the coal contract. Burns Bros. Perth Amboy office submitted a bid of $5.90 per net ton and the Swan Hill Ice and Coal Company bid $6.09.

The School Board had four bids for repairing the roofs of the schools and here again there is a chance that the apparent low bidder will not get the contract. In fact there was considerable doubt among the Board members as to who was the low bidder. The four were P. J. Monaghan, Chas. E. Seale & Sons, Inc., Michael Phillips and Christian Anderson. Mr. Monaghan, local man, offered to do the work for $1,595. Mr. Seale bid $363 for the School No. 1 work and $1,875 for the School No. 2 work. Mr. Phillips, Mechanicsville resident, wanted the work at $1,200. It was with the Anderson bid that there arose the question. In separate paragraphs of his letter the writer outlined what he proposed to do for each of the school buildings, but put a price of $921 on the end of the second paragraph. The Board hoped that price was for the entire job but suspected it was intended for only one roof, not both.

The matter was left with the Building Committee to make sure, the action of the Board being that if Anderson was not willing to sign a contract at the figure named, the job was to go to Phillips, he being the next lowest bidder.

The Board received from Rev. C. E. Kennedy a check covering the proceeds of the collection at the Baccalaureate services, which money was to be used in the purchase of books for the school library.

The financial reports indicated that the Board would finish out the fiscal year with over nine thousand dollars balance, which was much larger than usual and quite unexpected. Investigation developed that not quite half the appropriation made for insurance had been used; the fuel costs had been nearly four hundred dollars lower than was expected; the salary costs had not been quite as high as had been estimated, and so on. The balances in the accounts now become available for use in next year's expenses for whatever purpose the Board may designate.

The Board gave some consideration to a letter from the Commissioner of Education regarding suggested changes in the subjects taught in the High School, which also included changes in the years in which some subjects are taught. Prominent among the suggestions was one to include a course in economics; another for a course in practical office practice to follow up the shorthand, typewriting and bookkeeping now taught; and to split the latter subjects, now included in one course, into two courses, either of which may be had separately. The Superintendent was to work out a plan whereby the suggestions might be complied with and have it ready for the next session of the members of the Board.

Hoffman Re-Elected As County Chairman

For Republican Party—Hayes Heads Democrats.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Harold G. Hoffman, who acted as County Chairman of the Republican County Executive Committee, during the past year, was re-elected to that office at a meeting of the Committee which was held at the old Elks Clubhouse at New Brunswick Monday night. The sweeping success which Senatorial candidate Dwight W. Morrow, had in Middlesex County at the recent primary far overshadowed the crushing defeat administered to the Republican organization last fall, and the entire organization is now enthused for the coming campaign. The large mass meeting for Mr. Morrow, which was engineered by Commissioner Hoffman, brought him to the front for a large measure of praise.

County Solicitor Edmund A. Hayes has been elected County Chairman by the Democratic organization, succeeding David T. Wilentz, of Perth Amboy, who declined the office for another year.

South Amboy was well represented at the meeting of the Middlesex County Democratic Committee at New Brunswick Monday night. Those in attendance were James W. Rea, Sr., chairman of the local committee; John Walezak, R. Forgotson, Thomas Grimley, Joseph McKeon, Peter Dobrinski, Miss Mary Nickerson and Mrs. Eugene Heston.

Sacred Hearts Lose Game To Bulvaimen

Score 7 to 3 With Mizlitz Going Strong at End of Game Wed. Eve

In a game that kept the fans on edge throughout, the Bulvaimen lowered the Sacred Hearts colors on Wednesday night by the score of 7 to 3. Mizlitz pitching for the Bulvaimen had the Hearts at his mercy while Murray of the Hearts was nicked for a total of six hits coupled with some base fielding and poor judgment gave the Bulvaimen the game.

The victors opened the first inning with Chas. an easy out. Murray hit Miserick and McGonigle hit one for two bags to score Miserick ahead of him. Albany hit along the third base line to Lagoda who threw wild to first and McGonigle scored. Budney walked. Kennedy hit a two bagger to score Budney and Albany. Bulman struck out and Mizlitz hit into a forceout, scoring four runs in two hits.

The Hearts opened the first with Zdanewicz safe on McGonigle's wild throw. Zaleski hit to McGonigle who threw him out while Shorty went around to third and scored when McGonigle threw wild on Stumpy's grounder. Horse popped to Miserick for the third out. The Hearts scored again in the fourth with Stumpy getting the first hit for the Hearts and was forced out on Horsey's hit to Bulman. Floret sacrificed Horsey to third and Monaghan was hit and stole second on the play to get Monaghan. Horsey scored. The Hearts scored again in the fifth when Zdanewicz beat out a fast one along the third base line. Shorty stole second. Zaleski walked. Lagoda hit to Kennedy to force out Shorty at third. Zaleski stole third and scored when Lagoda was caught stealing. Pudney struck out. The Bulvaimen scored again in the sixth. Wallace fled out to Floret. Mizlitz walked. Miserick was safe on Lagoda's error. McGonigle hit thru short to score Mizlitz while Miserick was thrown out at the plate. The Bulvaimen scored two more in the seventh. Budney hit to Lagoda for an easy out. Albany hit over third for a single. Kennedy hit to Lagoda who threw to Pudney, who dropped the ball. Murray after having Bulman at his mercy, topped an easy one and Bulman singled over to third to score Albany. In blocking Albany off the plate Monaghan lost the ball in the dugout and Kennedy scored. Wallace popped out to Murray and Mizlitz was an easy out, Murray to Horsey.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor of the South

Amboy Citizen:

I wish to heartily thank all voters who cast their ballot for me in the recent Primary Election. And I sincerely appreciate the efforts made by endorsers of the regular petition to nominate me for County Committee-woman. I did not want the position but when urged by a representative of the Party who was sent to me, to accept, I did so, hoping to be of service to the people of the Fourth Ward and perhaps to the City.

I wish also to thank the young men who refused bribes offered them to vote against me. Two dollars to an unemployed man is a great temptation and one who could withstand it certainly deserves a great deal of credit and respect, while the others who accepted are to be pitied and those who bribed them are righteously condemned by upright citizens.

I cannot conscientiously congratulate my successful opponent, who worked so hard to get the nomination, for it would put the stamp of approval on illegal methods and corrupt practices; such as bribing people, standing within a few feet of ballot boxes and soliciting votes, offering stickers with the request to people to put them over a regularly endorsed candidate's name, etc. which was done last Tuesday. But I feel sorry to think the direction of politics in the Fourth Ward is under the direction of lawless people.

With sincerest wishes for the welfare of our community and many thanks to you for printing my note of thanks, I remain,

Yours truly,
A. MEDIA EVERITT.

The next thing the bus stopped up near the post office and people were running toward it, investigating, the officer found the little girl injured.

Taken to the local hospital Dr. Meacham found numerous cuts and bruises, including a bad laceration of the scalp that it was thought might prove serious. She was released from the institution early this week to go to her home.
